11 Moáb hathe bene at rest from his youth, and he hathe seled on his lees, & hathe not bene powred from vessel to vessel, neither hathe he gone into captiuitie: therefore his taste remained in him and his sent is not changed.

12 ¶ Therefore beholde, y daies come, saith the Lord, that I wil send vnto him suche as shal cary him away, and shal emptie his vessels, and breake their bottels.

13 And Moáb shal be ashamed of Chemósh as the house of Israël was ashamed of Beth-él their confidence.

14 How thinke you thus, We are mightie & strong men of ware?

15 Moáb is destroyed, and his cities burne vp, & his chosen yong mé are gone downe to slaughter, saith the King, whose name is, The Lord of hostes.

16 The destruction of Moáb is readie to come, and his plague hasteth fast.

17 All ye y are about him, mourne for him, & all ye that knowe his name, say, How is the strong staffe broken, & the beautiful rod!

18 Thou daughter that doest inhabite Dibón, come downe from thy glorie, & sit in thurst: for the destroyer of Moáb shal come vp vpon thee, and he shal destroy thy strong holdes.

19 Thou that dwellest in Aroér, stand by the way, and beholde: aske him that steeth and that escapeth, & say, What is done?

¶ Thus they that flee, shal answer.

20 Moáb is confounded: for it is destroyed: howle, and crye, telye it in Arnón, that Moáb is made waste,

21 And iudgement is come vpon the plaine country, vpon Holón & vpon Lahazáh, and vpon Mepháath, 22 And vpon Dibón, and vpon Nebó, and vpon the house of Diblatháim,

23 And vpon Kiríatháim, and vpon Beth-gamúl, and vpon Beth-meón, 24 And vpon Keríoth, and vpon Bozráh, & vpon all the citres of the land of Moáb farre or nere.

25 The horne of Moáb is cut of, and his arme is broken, saith the Lord.

26 Make ye him drunken: for he magnified him self against the Lord: Moáb shal wallow in his vomite, and he also shalbe in derision.

27 For didest not y deride Israël, as thogh he had bene founde among theues for when thou speakest of him, thou art moued.

28 O ye that dwell in Moáb, leaue the cities, and dwell in the rockes, and be like the doue, that maketh her neste in the sides of the holes mouth.

29 We haue heard the pride of Moáb (he is exceeding proude) his stoutnes, and his arrogancie, and his pride, and the hautenes of his heart.

30 I knowe his wrath, saith the Lord, but it shal not be so: & his dissimulacions, for they do not right.

31 Therefore wil I howle for Moáb, and I wil crye out for all Moabs: mine heart shal mourne for the men of Kir-héies.

32 O vine of Sibmáh, I wil wepe for thee, as wept for Iazér: thy plantes are gone ouer sea, they are comè to the sea of Iazér: thy destroyer is fallen vpon thy sommer fruits, and vpon thy vintage, 33 And ioye, and gladnes is taken from the plentiful field: & from the land of Moáb: and I haue caused wine to faile from the wine presse: none shal tread with showting: their showting shalbe no showing.

34 Eio the crye of Heshbón vnto Elaléh & vnto Iaház hauether made their noyse from Zóar vnto Horonáim, the heiffer of thre yere olde shal go lowing: for the waters also of Nimrím shalbe waited.

35 Moreover, I wil cause to cease in Moáb, saith the Lord, him that offred in the high places, and him that burneth incense to his gods.

36 Therefore mine heart shal soude for Moáb like a shaume & mine heart shal soude like a shaume for the men of Kir-héies, because the riches that he hathe gottè, is perished.

37 For euery head shalbe balde, and euery bearde plucked: vpon all the handes shalbe cuttings, and vpon the löynes sackcloth.

38 And mourning shalbe vpon all the house toppes of Moáb and in all the stretes thereof: for I haue brokè Moáb like a vessel wherein is no pleasure, saith the Lord.

CHAP. XLIX.

a They were separated from the Moabites by the riuer Arnon, & after that the ten tribes were carryed away into captiuitie, they invaded y country of Gad Vnto the children of a Ammón thus saith the Lord, Hathe Israël no fonnes or hate: he none heare? Why isen hathe their b King possessed Gad? and his people dwell in c his cities?

b To wit, of y Ammonites

Therefore beholde, the dayes come, saith the Lord, that I wil cause a noyse of warre to be heard in d Rabbáh of the Ammonites, and it shalbe a desolate heape, & her daughters shalbe burnt with fyre: then shal Israël possess those that possessed him, saith the Lord.

c Meaning, of the Israelites d Which was one of y chief cities of the Ammonites, as were Heshbón and Ai: there was also a citie called Heshbón among y Moabites Howle, o Heshbón, for Ai is wasted: crye ye daughters of Rabbáh: girde you with sackcloth: mourne & runne to & fro by y hedges: for their King shal go into captiuitie, & his Priests, and his princes likewise.

e In thy plentiful countrey, f signifying y power and ri.

Wherefore gloriest thou in the e valleis? thy valley floweth away, o rebellious daughter: she trusted in her treasures, saying, Who shal come vnto me?

g That is, the Israelites, who me the Edomites kept as prisoners to haue away from thence Beholde, I wil bring f a feare vpon thee, saith the Lord God of hostes, of all those that be about thee, and ye shalbe scarred euerie man s right forthe, & none shal gather him that fleeth.

h In the time of Christ whē y Gentiles shal be called.

And, h afterward I wil bring againe the 7 ¶ To Edóm thus saith the Lord of hostes, Is wisdom no more in t Temán? is coufelse perished from their children? is their wisdom vanished?

i Which was a citie of Edóm called by the name of Temán Eliphaz ionne who came of Esáu

8 Flee, ye inhabitants of Dedán (k they are turned backe; and haue consulted to dwell) for I haue broght the destruction of Esáu vpon him, and the time of his visitation.

k The enemies that shal dissemble as thogh they fled away, shal turne oake, & invade your land, and possess it 9 If the l grape gatherers come to thee, wolde they not leaue some grapes: if theues come by night, they wil destroye til they haue ynough.

l Meaning that God wolde viterly destroy them, and not spare one, though the grape gatherers leaue some grapes, & theues seke but til they haue ynough, Obad. 15

10 For I haue discovered Esáu: I haue vncouered his secrets, and he shal not be able to hide him self: his sede is wasted, and his brethré and his neighbours, and there shalbe none to say, 11 Leaue thy m fatherles children, & I wil preferue them aliue, and let thy widowes trust in me.

m The destruction shalbe so great, that there shalbe none left to take care ouer y widowes, & fatherles

12 For thus saith the Lord, n Beholde, thei whose iudgement was not to drinke of the cuppe, haue assuredly drunkē, and art thou he that shal escape fre? thou shalt not go fre, but thou shalt surely drinke of it.

n I haue not spared mine owne people, & how shal I spare thee?

13 For I haue swoine by my self, saith the Lord, that o Bozrah shalbe waste, and for a reproche, and a desolation, and a curse, and all the cities thereof shalbe perpetual desolations.

o Which was a chief citie of Edóm.

14 I haue heard a rumour from the Lord, & an embassadour is sent vnto the heathen, saying, Gather you together, and come against p her, and rise vp to the battel.

p That is, Bozrah

15 For lo, I wil make thee but smale among the heathen, and despised among men.

16 Thy q feare, and the pride of thine heart hathe deceued thee, thou that dwellest in the cleftes of the rocke, and kepest the height of the hill: thogh thou shuldest make thy nest as hie as the egle, I wil bring thee downe from thence, saith the Lord.

17 ¶ Also Edóm shalbe desolate: euerie one that goeth by it, shalbe astonished, & shal hissē at all the plagues thereof, 18 As in the ouerthrowe of Sodom, and of Gomoráh, and the places thereof nere about, saith the Lord: no man shal dwell there, nether shal the sonnes of men remane in it.

r To wit, Nebuchad-nezzár after he hathe ouercome Iudáh, vnto the ment of the swelling of Iordén, shal come against mount Seir & Edóm.

And I wil set my throne in Elám, and I wil destroye bothe the King and the princes from théce, saith the Lord: but in the latter dayes I wil bring againe the captiuitie of Elám, saith the Lord.

CHAP. I.

The prophet of the destruction of Babylon, and the deliuerance of Israel, which was in captiuitie.

The worde that the Lord spake, concerning Babel, & cöcerning the land of the Caldeans by the ministerie of Jeremiáh the Prophet.

Declare among the nations, and publish it, and set vp a standart, proclaime it & cöceile it not: say, Babel is taken, Bel is confouled, Merodách is broken downe: her idoles are confouled, and their images are burst in pieces.

For out of the North there cometh vp a nation against her, which shal make her land waste, and none shal dwell therein: they shal flee, and departe, bothe man and beast.

In those dayes, and at that time, saith the Lord, the children of Israël shal come, they, and the children of Iudáh together, going, and weping shal they go, and seke the Lord their God.

They shal aske the waye to Ziön, with their faces thetherward, saying, Come, and let vs cleaue to the Lord in a perpetual couenant that shal not be forgotten.

My people hathe bene as loit shepe: their shepherdes haue caused them to go astray, and haue turned them away to the mountaines: they haue gone from a mountaine to hil, & forgotté their resting place.

All that found them, haue deuoured thé, and their enemies said, We offend not because they haue sinned against the Lord, the habitation of iustice, euen the Lord the hope of their fathers.

Flee from the middes of Babel, and departe out of the land of the Caldeans, and be ye as the he goates before the flocke.

For lo, I wil raise, and cause to come vp against Babel a multitude of mightie nations from the North country, and they shal set them selues in aray against her, whereby she shalbe taken: their arrows shalbe as of a strong man, which is expert for none shal returne in vaine.

I wil place Nebuchad-nezzár there, and in these prophesies Jeremiáh speaketh of those countreies, which shoulde be subdued vnder the first of those foure monarchies whereof Daniel maketh mention.

This may be referred to the empire of the Persians, and Medes after the Caldeans, or vnto the time of Christ, as Chap 48, 47.

After that God hathe used the Babyloians seruice to punish the nations, he sheweth that their turne shal come to be punished.

These were swo of their chief idoles.

To wit, the Medes, and the Persians.

10 And Caldea shalbe a spoile: all that spoile her, ¹ shalbe satisfied, saith the Lord.

11 Because ye were glad and reioyced in destroying mine heritage, & because ye are grown fat, as the calves in the graffe, ^m & neyed like strong horses, 12 Therefore your mothers shalbe fore confounded, and she that bare you, shalbe ashamed: beholde, the vttermost of the nations shalbe a desert, a drye land, & a wildeynes.

13 Because of the wrath of the Lord it shal not be inhabited, but shalbe wholly desolate: euerie one that goeth by Babel, shal be astonished, ⁿ & hisse at all her plagues.

14 Put your selues in araye against Babel round about: all ye that bend the bowe, shoote at her, spare no arrowes: for she hath sinned against the Lord.

15 Crye against her round about: she hath giuen her hand: her foundations are falle, & her walles are destroyed: for it is ^y vengeance of the Lord: take vengeance vpon her: as she hath done, do vnto her.

16 Destroye the ^q sower from Babel, and him that handleth the sith in the time of haruest: because of the sworde of the oppressour they shal turne euerie one to his people, and they shal flee euerie one to his owne land.

17 Israel ^u like scattered shepe: the Lyons haue disperfed them: first the King ^r of Asshur hath deuoured him, & last this Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel hath broke his bones.

18 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, Beholde, I wil visite the King of Babel, and his land, as I haue visited the King of Asshur.

19 And I wil bring Israel againe to his habitation: he shal fede on Carmel and Bashan, and his soule shalbe satisfied vpon the mount Ephraim and Gilead.

20 In those dayes, and at that time, saith the Lord, the inquirie of Israel shalbe sought for, and there shal be none: and the finnes of Iudah, & they shal not be found: for I wil be merciful vnto them, whome I referue.

21 Govp against the land of the rebelles, ^{en} even against it, and against the inhabitants ^{* of} Pekod: destroye, and lay it waste after them, saith the Lord, and do according to all that I haue commanded thee.

25 The Lord hath opened his treasure, and hath broght forth the weapons of his wrath: for this is the worke of the Lord God of hostes in ^y land of the Caldeans.

26 Come against her ^{''} from the vtmost border: open her store houses: tread on her as on sheaves, and destroye her vtterly: let nothing of her be left.

28 The voice of them that ^r flee, and escape out of the land of Babel to declare in Zion ^y vengeance of the Lord our God, and the vengeance of his Temple.

29 Call vp the archers against Babel: all ye that bend ^y bowe, besiege it rounde about: let none thereof escape: ^r recompence her according to her worke, and according to all that she hath done, do vnto her: for she hath bene proude against the Lord, ^{en} even against the holy one of Israel.

30 Therefore shal her yong men fall in the stretes, and all her men of warre shalbe destroyed in that day, saith the Lord.

31 Beholde, I come vnto thee, ^o proude man, saith the Lord God of hostes: for thy day is come, ^{en} the time that I wil visite thee.

32 And the proude shal stumble and fall, & none shal raise him vp: and I wil kindle a fyre in his cities, and it shal deuoure all rounde about him.

33 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, The children of Israel, and the children of Iudah were oppressed together: and all that toke them captiues, helde them, and wolde not let them go.

34 But their strong redemer, whose Name is the Lord of hostes, he shal mainteine their cause, that he may giue rest to the land, ^z & disquiet the inhabitants of Babel.

35 A sworde is vpon the Caldeans, saith the Lord, and vpon the inhabitants of Babel, and vpon her princes, and vpon her wise men.

36 A sworde is vpon the ^{''} sothefayers, and thei shal dote: a sworde is vpon her strong men, and thei shal be afraid.

37 A sworde is vpon their horses and vpon their charets, and vpon all the multitude that are in the middes of her, and thei shal be like women: a sworde is vpon her treasures, and thei shal be spoiled.

38 A ^a drought is vpon her waters, and thei shal be dried vp: for it is the ^lad of graue images, and thei dote vpon their idoles.

l When God shal execute his vengeance.

3 Also to the bender that bendeth his bowe, and to him that lifteth himself vp in his brigandine, wil I say, Spare not her yong men, but destroye all her hoste.

19 The portion of Iacob is not like them: for he is the maker of all things, and Israel is the rod of his inheritance: the Lord of hostes is his Name.

m That is, the true God of Israel is not like to these idoles: for he can helpe when all things are desperate 4 Thus the shame shal fall in the land of the Caldeans, and they that are thrust through in her stretes.

20 Thou art mine hammer, and weapons of warre: for with thee wil I breake the nations, and with thee wil I destroye kingdomes, n He meaneth the Medes and Persians, as he did before call the Babylonians his hammer, Chap. 50.23.

5 For Israel hath bene no widow, nor Iudah from his God, from the Lord of hostes, though their land was filled with sinne against the holy one of Israel.

21 And by thee wil I breake horse and horseman, and by thee wil I breake the charret and him that riderh therein.

6 Flee out of the middes of Babel, & deliuer euerie man his soule: be not destroyed in her iniquitie: for this is the time of the Lords vengeance: he wil rendre vnto her a recompence.

22 By thee also wil I breake olde and yong, and by thee wil I breake the yong man, & by thee wil I breake the yong man & woman, and by thee wil I breake the yong man & woman.

7 Babel hath bene as a golden cuppe in the Lords hand, that made all the earth drunken:

o Or, of the land that riseth vp. a The Medes, and Persians, y shal destroye them as the winde doeth y chaffe.

p Though they were forsaken for a time, yet they were not utterly cast of as though their hand were dead.

q He sheweth altho there remaineth nothing for them that abide in Babylon, but destruction, Chap 17.6 & 18.6.

r By whome y Lord powred out the drinke of his vengeance, ec. to whome it pleased him the maid.

23 I wil also breake by thee the shepherd & his flocke, & by thee wil I breake the hough bandman and his yoke of oxen, & by thee wil I breake the dukes and princes.

24 And I wil rédre vnto Babél, & to all the inhabitants of the Caldeans all their euil, that thei haue done in Zión, euen in your sight, saith the Lord.

25 Beholde, I come vnto thee, ó destroying mountaine, saith the Lord, which destroyest all the earth: and I wil stretch out mine hand vpon thee, and roll thee downe from the rockes, & wil make thee a burnt mountaine.

26 Thei shal not take of thee a stone for a corne, nor a stone for fundaciós, but thou shalt be delioied for euer, saith the Lord.

27 Set vp a standart in the land: blowe the trumpets among the nacions: prepare the nacions against her: call vp the king domes of Arará, Minni, and Alshchenáz against her: appoint the prince against her: cause horses to come vp as the rough caterpillers.

28 Prepare against her the nacions with the Kings of the Medes, the dukes thereof, & the princes thereof, and all the land of his dominion.

29 And the land shal tremble & forowe: for the deuise of the Lord shal be perform d against Babél, to make the land of Babél waste without an inhabitant.

30 The strong men of Babél haue ceased to fight: thei haue remained in their holdes: their strength hath failed, and thei were like women: thei haue burnt her dwelling places, and her barres are broken.

31 A post shal runne to mete the post, and a messenger to mete the messenger, to shewe the King of Babél, that his cite is taken on a side thereof, 32 And that the passages are stopped, and y redes burnt with fyre, and the mé of warre troubled.

33 For thus saith y Lord of hostes the God of Israél, The daughter of Babél is like a thresshing floore: the time of her thresshing is come: yet a litle while, and the time of her haruest shal come.

34 Nebuchad nazzár y King of Babél hath deuoured me, & destroyed me: he hath made me an emptie vessel: he swallowed me vp like a dragon, and filled his belie with my delicates, & hath cast me out.

35 The spoile of me, & that which was left of me, is broght vnto Babél, shal the inhabitant of Zión say: and my blood vnto the inhabitants of Caldea, shal Ierusalem say.

36 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Beholde, I wil mainteine thy cause, and take vengeance for thee, and I wil drye vp the sea, and drye vp her springs.

27 And Babél shal be as heapes, a dwelling place for dragons, an astonishment, and an hissing, without an inhabitant.

38 Thei shal roare together like lions, and yell as the lions whelpes.

39 In their heat I wil make them feastes, and I wil make them drunken, that they may reioice, and slepe a perpetual slepe, and not wake, saith the Lord.

40 I wil bring them downe like lambes to the slaughter, & like rams and goates.

41 How is y Sheshách taken! and how is the glorie of the whole earth taken! how is Babél become an astonishment among the nacions!

42 The sea is come vp vpon Babél: she is couered with the multitude of the waues thereof.

43 Her cities are desolate: the land is drye & a wildernes, a land wherein no man dwel leth, nether doeth the sonne of man passe thereby.

44 I wil also visite Bel in Babél, and I wil bring out of his mouth, that which he hath swallowed vp, and the nacions shal runne no more vnto him, and the wall of Babél shal fall.

45 My people, go out of the middes of her, & deliuer ye euerie man his soule fró the fierce wrath of the Lord, 46 Lest your heart euen faint, and ye feare the rumour, that shal be heard in the land: the rumour shal come this yere, and after that in the other yere shal come a rumour, and crueltie in the land, and ruler against ruler.

47 Therefore beholde, the dayes come, that I wil visite the images of Babél, and the whole land shal be confounded, & all her slaine shal fall in the middes of her.

48 Then the heauen and the earth, and all that is therein, shal reioice for Babél: for the destroyers shal come vnto her fró the North, saith the Lord.

49 As Babél caused the slaine of Israél to fall, so by Babél the slaine of all the earth did fall.

50 Ye that haue escap d the sworde, go away, stande not stil: remembre the Lord afaire of, & let Ierusalem come into your minde.

51 We are confounded because we haue heard reproche: shame hath couered our face: for strangers are come into the sanctuaries of the Lords House.

52 Wherefore beholde, the daies come, saith the Lord, that I wil visite her grauen images, and through all her land the wounded shal grieve.

53 Though Babél shuld mounte vp to shauén, & though she shuld defend her strenght on her, yet from me shal her destroyers come.

x When they are inflamed with surfeiting and drinking, I wil feast with them, alluding to Belsazzars baket, Dan 5, 2.

me,saith the Lord.

54 A founde of a crye cometh fró Babél, and great destruction from the land of the Caldeans.

55 Because the Lord hath laid Babél waste and destroyed, from her the great voyce, & her waues shal roare like great waters, and a founde was made by their noice.

56 Because the destroyer is come vpon her, euen vpon Babél, and her strong men are taken, their bowes are broken: for the Lord God that recompenceth, shal surely recompence.

57 And I wil make drunke her princes, and her wise men, her dukes, and her nobles, & her strong men: & thei shal slepe a perpetual slepe, and not wake, saith the King, whose Name is the Lord of hostes.

58 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, The thicke wall of Babél shalbe broken, and her hye gates shalbe burnt with fyre, and the people shal labour in vaine, and the folke in the fyre, for thei shalbe weary.

59 The wordes which Ieremiáh the Prophet commanded Sheraiáh the sonne of Neraiáh, the sonne of Maaseiáh, when he went with Zedekiáh the King of Iudáh into Babél, in the fourth yere of his reigne: and this Sheraiáh was a peaceable prince.

60 So Ieremiáh wrote in a boke all the euil that shulde come vpon Babél: euen all these things, that are writen against Babél.

61 And Ieremiáh said to Sheraiáh, When thou comest vnto Babél, and shalt se, and shalt read all these wordes, 62 Then shalt thou say, O Lord, thou hast spokē against this place, to destroye it, that none shulde remaine in it, nether man nor beast, but y it shulde be desolate for euer.

63 And when thou hast made an end of reading this boke, thou shalt binde a stone to it, and cast it in the middes of Euphrates;

64 And shalt say, Thus shal Babél be drowned, and shal not rise from the euil, that I wil bring vpon her: and thei shal be wearie. Thus saith the Lord God of Ieremiáh.

CHAP. III.

4 Ierusalēms is taken. 10 Zedekiahs sonnes are killed before his face, and his eyes put out. 13 The citie is burned. 11 Iehoiachins is brought forth of prison, and sed like a King.

Zedekiáh was one & twentie yere olde when he began to reigne, and he reigned eleuen yeres in Ierusalēm, and his mothers name was Hamutál, the daughter of Ieremiáh of Libnáh.

2 And he did euil in the eyes of the Lord, according to all that Iehoiakim had done.

3 A Doubtes because the wrath of the Lord was against Ierusalēm and Iudáh, til he had cast them out from his presence, therefore Zedekiáh rebelled against the King of Babél.

4 But in the ninth yere of his reigne, in the tenth moneth the tenth day of the moneth came Nebuchad-nezzár King of Babél, he & all his hoste against Ierusalēm, & pitched against it, & buylt fortes against it rounde about.

5 So the citie was besieged vnto the eleuenth yere of the King Zedekiáh.

6 Now in the fourth moneth, the ninth day of the moneth, the famine was sore in the citie, so that there was no more bread for the people of the land.

7 Then the citie was broken vp and all the men of warre fled, and went out of the citie by night, by the way of the gate betwene the two walles, which was by the Kings garden: (now the Caldeans were by the citie rounde about) and thei went by the way of the wildernes.

8 But the armie of the Caldeans pursued after the King, and toke Zedekiáh in the desert of Ierichó, & all his hoste was scattered from him.

9 Then thei toke the King and caryed him vp vnto the King of Babél to Ribláh in the land of Hamáth, where he gaue iudgement vpon him.

10 And the King of Babél slewe the sonnes of Zedekiáh, before his eyes: he slewe also all the princes of Iudáh in Ribláh.

11 Then he put out the eyes of Zedekiáh, & the King of Babél bounde him in chaines, and caryed him to Babél, and put him in prison til the day of his death.

12 Now in the fift moneth in the tenth day of the moneth (which was the nintenth yere of the King Nebuchad-nezzár King of Babél) came Nebuzar-adán chief steward which stode before the King of Babél in Ierusalēm, 13 And burnt the House of the Lord, and the Kings house, and all the houses of Ierusalēm, and all the great houses burnt he with fyre.

14 And all the armie of the Caldeans were with the chief steward, brake downe all the walles of Ierusalēm rounde about.

15 Then Nebuzar-adán the chief steward caryed away captiue certaine of the poore of the people, & the residue of the people that remained in the citie, & those that were fled, & fallen to the King of Babél, with the rest of the multitude.

16 But Nebuzar-adán the chief steward left certaine of the poore of the land, to dresse the vines, and to til the land.

17 Also the pillers of brasē that were in the House of the Lord, & the bases, & the brasen Sea, that was in the House of the Lord, the Caldeans brake, and caryed all the brasē of them to Babél.

I wil so smooth the by afflictions that thei shal not know the waye to turne them.

The thicke-nes of the walle was fiftue footes thicke.

This was not in the time of his captiuitie, but seven yeres before, when he went ether to gratulate Nebuchad-nezzár or to increas of some matters.

John in his revelation aludeth to this place when he saith that the Angel toke a millstone and cast into the Sea: signifying thereby the destruction of Babylon, Reuel. 18.22.

g Which were also made of brasse

18 The pottes also and the besomes, and the instruments of mulike, and the basins, and the incense dishes, and all the vessels of brasse wherewith they ministred, toke they away.

19 And the bowles, and the ashpannes, & the basins, & the pottes, and the candlesticks, & the incense dishes, and the cuppes, & all that was of golde, and that was of siluer, toke the chief steward away,

20 With the two pillers, one Sea, & twelue brassen bulles, that were vnder the bases, which King Salamón had made in y^e House of the Lord: the brasse of all these vessels was without^h weight:

h It was so muche in quantite.

21 And concerning the pillers, the height of one piler was eightene cubites, & a threde of twelue cubites did compasse it, and the thicknes thereof was foure fingers: it was holow.

22 And a chapiter of brasse was vpon it, and the height of one chapiter was five cubites with networke, & pomegranates vpon the chapters roude about, all of brasse: the seconde piler also, and the pomegranates were like vnto these.

23 And there were ninetie & six pomegranates on a side: and all the pomegranates vpon the net worke were an hundredthi rounde about.

i But because of the roundnes no more coloe he sent but nintye and six 24 And the chief steward toke Sheraiáh the chief Priest, and Zephaniáh^k the seconde Priest, and the thre keepers of the dore.

k Which serued in the sac Priestes stead, if he had any necessitie impediment

25 He toke also out of the cite an Eunuche, which had the ouersight of the men of warre, and^l seuen men that were in the Kings presence, which were founde in the cite, and Sophér captaine of the hoste who mustred the people of the land, and thre score men of the people of the land, ý were founde in the middes of the cite.

26 Nebuzar-adán the chief steward toke them, and broght them to the King of Babel to Ribláh.

27 And the King of Babel smote them, and slewe them in Ribláh, in the land of Hamath: thus Iudáh was caryed away captiue out of his owne land.

28 ¶ This is the people, whome Nebuchadnezzár caryed away captiue, in the seuenth yere, even thre thousand Iewes, and thre and twentie.

m Which was the latter end of the seuenth yere of his reigne & the beginning of the eighth In the latter end also of y^e yere, and the beginning of the ninetenth. Abbr. sancte.

29 In the eighteenth yere of Nebuchadnezzár he caryed away captiue from Ierusalem eight hundredth thirtie & twoⁿ persons.

30 In the thre and twentieth yere of Nebuchadnezzár, Nebuzar-adán the chief steward caryed away captiue of the Iewes seuen hundredth fourtie and five persons: all the persons were foure thousand and six hundredth.

31 And in the seuen and thirtieth yere of the captiuitie of Iehoiachín King of Iudáh, in the twelfth moneth, in the five and twentieth day of the moneth, Euil-merodách King of Babel, in the first yere of his reigne, lifted vp the head of Iehoiachín King of Iudáh, and broght him out of prison, o That is, restored him to libertie and honour.

32 And spake kindly vnto him, and set his throne about the throne of the Kings, that were with him in Babel, 33 And changed his prison garments, and he did continually eat bread before him all the dayes of his life.

p And gave him princelie apparel

34 His porcion was a continual porcion giue him of the King of Babel, euery day a certeine, all the dayes of his life vntil he dyed.

q That is, he had allowance in the court, & thus at length he had rest & quietnes because he obeyed Ieremiáh the Prophet, where as the other were cruelly ordered, that would not obey him.

LAMENTACIONES.

CHAP. I.

1 The Prophet bewaileth the miserable estate of Ierusalem. And sheweth that they are plagued because of their finnes. The first and seconde chapter be in euery Verse according to the letters of the Ebrewe Alphabet. The thrid hath the thre Verses for euery letter, & the fourth is as the first.

2 The Prophet wondereth at the great iudgement of God being Ierusalem, which was so strong & so full of people, to be now destroyed and desolate. Which had chief rule over many prouinces and countreys.

How doeth^a the cite remaine solitarie that was full of people? she is as a widow: she that was great among the nations and^b pryncesse among the prouinces, is made tributarie.

2 She wepeth continually in the night, & her teares ranne downe by her chekes: among all her^d louers, she hath none to comfort her: all her friends haue delt vnfaithfully with her, & are her enemies.

3 Iudáh is caryed away captiue, because^e of affliction, and because of great seruitude: she dwelleth among the heathen, & findeth no rest: all her persecuters toke her in the strettes.

f For her delictie toward the poore and oppression of her vntes, Ierem. 34. 11.

4 The wayes of Ziön lament, because no man cometh^f to the solemne feasts: all her gates are desolate: her Priests sigh: her virgines are discomfited, and she is in^g heaumes.

5 Her aduersaries are the chief, and her enemies prosper: for the Lord hath afflicted her, for the multitude of her transgressions. & her children are gone into captiuitie before the enemies.

1 Jerusale[m] remembered the daies of her af-pleasant things, that she had in times past, when her people fell into the hand of the enemie, & none did helpe her: y aduerfaries

2 Jerusale[m] hathe grieuouly sinned, therefore she is ⁿ in derision: all y honoured her, despise her, because thei haue sene her fil-chines: yea, she sigheth and turneth backe-

3 Her filchines is in her skirtes: she remem-bred not her last end, therefore she came downe wonderfully: she had no cōforter:
o Lord, beholde mine affliction: for the e-nemie is proude.

4 The enemie hathe stretched out his hād vpon all her pleasant things: for she hathe sene the heathen entre into her Sanctuarie, whome ^m thou didest cōmande, that they shulde not entre into thy Church.

5 All her people sigh and seke their bread:
they haue giuen their pleasant things for meat to refresh the soule; se, o Lord, & consider: for I am become vile.

6 Haue ye no regarde, all ye that passe by this way? beholde, & se, if there be any ⁿ so-rowe like vnto my sorowe, which is done vnto me, wherewith the Lord hathe afflicted ^o in the day of his fierce wrath.

7 From aboue hathe ^o he sent fyre into my bones, which preuaile against them: he ha-the spred a net for my fete, & turned me backe: he hathe made me desolate, & daily in heauines.

8 The yoke of my transgressions is bounde vpon his hand: they are wrapped, and come vp vpo my necke: he hathe made my strēgth to fall: y Lord hathe deliuered me into their hāds, nether am I able to rise vp.

9 The Lord hathe troden vnder fote all my valiant mē in the middes of me: he ha-the called an assemblie against me to destroy my yong men: the Lord hathe troden a the wine presse vpon the virgine the daughter of Iudāh.

10 For these things I wepe: mine eye, euen mine eye casteth out water, because the comforter that shulde refresh my soule, is farre from me: my children are desolate, because the enemie preuailed.

11 Zión stretcheth out her hands, and there is none to comfort her: the Lord hathe appointed the enemies of Iakob rounde about him: Ierusalem is ^r as a menstruous woman in the middes of them.

12 The Lord is righteous: for I haue rebelled against his ^s commandement: heart,
I pray you, all people & beholde my sorow:
my virgines and my yong men are gone into captiuitie.

13 I called for my louers, but they deceiued me: my Priests and mine Elders perished in the citie while they ^t sought their meat to refresh their soules.

f That is, they dyed for hungre.

14 Beholde, o Lord, how I am troubled: my bowels swell: mine heart is turned within me, for I am full of heauines: the sworde spoyleth abroad, as death doeth at home.

15 They haue heard that I mourne, but there is none to comfort me: all mine enemies haue heard of my trouble, & are glad, that thou hast done it: thou wilt bring the day, that thou hast pronounced, and they shal-be like vnto me.

16 Let all their wickednes come before thee:
do vnto them, as thou hast done vnto me, for all my transgressions: for my sighs are re many, and mine heart is heauie.

her palaces: thei haue made a noyse in the House of y Lord, as in the day of solēnicie.

8 The Lord hathe determined to destroye the wall of the daughter of Zión: he stretched out a line: he hathe not withdrawen his hād from destroying: therefore he made the rampart ^h and the wall to lament:
they were destroyed together.

9 Her gates are sonke to the grounde: he hath destroyed and broken her barres: her King and her princes are among the Gentiles: the Lawe is no more, nether can her Prophetes receiue any vision fro the Lord.

10 The Elders of the daughter of Ziön sit vpon the grounde, and kepe silence: they haue cast vpon dust vpon their heades: they haue girded the selues with sackcloth: the virgines of Ierusalém hang downe their heades to the ground.

11 Mine eyes do faile wth teares: my bowels swell: my lieuer is powred vpon the earth, for the destruction of the daughter of my people, because the children and sucklings swoune in the stretes of the cite.

12 They haue said to their mothers, Where is bread and drinke when they swoune as the wounded in the stretes of the cite, & whē they gaue vpon the goſt in their mothers bosome

13 What thing ſhal I take to witnes for thee? what thing ſhal I compare to thee, o daughter Ierusalém: what ſhal I like to thee, that I may comfort thee, o virgine daughter Ziön: for thy breach is great like the ſea: who can heale thee?

14 Thy Prophetes haue looked out vaine, and foolish things for thee, and they haue not diſcouered thine iniquitie, to turne away thy captiuitie, but haue looked out for thee false prophecies, and cauſes of baniſhment.

15 All that paſſe by the way, clappe their handes at thee: they hiſſe and wagge their head vpon the daughter Ierusalém, ſaying, Is this the cite that men call, The perfection of beautie, and the ioye of the whole earth?

16 All thine enemies haue opened their mouth againſt thee: they hiſſe and gnath the teath, ſaying, Let vs deuoure it: certainly this is the day that we looked for: we haue founde and ſene it.

17 The Lord hath done that which he had purpoſed: he hath fulfilled his worde that he had determined of olde time: he hath thrown done, and not ſpared: he hath cauſed thineemie to reioice ouer thee, and ſet vpon the horne of thine aduerſaries.

18 Their heart cryed vnto the Lord, O wall of the daughter Ziön, let teares runne downe like a riuer, day and night: take thee no reſt, nether let the apple of thine eye ceaſe.

19 Ariſe, crye in the night: in the beginning of the watches powre out thine heart like water before the face of the Lord: liſt vpon thine hands toward him for the life of thy yong childre, that faint for hungre in the corners of all the stretes.

20 Beholde, o Lord, and conſidre to whome thou haſt done thus: ſhal the women eat their frute, and children of a ſpanne long?

ſhal the Prieſt and the Prophet be ſlaine in the Sanctuarie of the Lord?

21 The yong and the olde lye on the grounde in the stretes: my virgines and my yongme are fallen by the ſworde: y^e haſte ſlaine them in the day of thy wrath: thou haſte killed and not ſpared.

22 Thou haſt called as in a ſolemne day my terrours rounde about, ſo y^e in the day of the Lords wrath none eſcaped nor remained: thoſe that I haue nourished & brought vp, hath mineemie conſumed.

1 I Am the man, that hath ſene affliction in the rod of his indignation.

2 He hath led me, and brought me into darcknes, but not to light.

3 Surely he is turne d againſt me: he turneth his hand againſt me all the day.

4 My fleſh and my ſkinne hath he cauſed to waxe olde, & he hath broke my bones.

5 He hath buylded againſt me, & compaſſed me with gall, and labour.

6 He hath ſet me in darke places, as they that be dead for euer.

7 He hath hedged about me, that I can not get out: he hath made my chaines heauie.

8 Also when I crye and ſhoute, he ſhutteth out my prayer.

9 He hath ſtopped vpon my waies with heuē ſtone, and turned away my paths.

10 He was vnto me as a beare lying in waite, & as a lion in ſecret places.

11 He hath ſtopped my waies, & pulled me in pieces: he hath made me deſolate.

12 He hath bent his bow and made me a marke for the arrowe.

13 He cauſed the arrowes of his quiuer to entre into my reins.

14 I was a deriſion to all my people, and their ſong all the daye.

15 He hath filled me with bitterneſſe, & made me drunken with worme wood.

16 He hath alſo broken my teeth with ſtones, and hath couered me with aſhes.

17 Thus my ſoule was fatte of fro peace: I forgot proſperitie, 18 And I ſaid, My ſtrength & mine hope is perished from the Lord, 21 I conſider this in mine heart: therefore haue I hope.

22 It is the Lords mercies that we are not conſumed, becauſe his compaſſions faile not.

23 They are renewed euerie morning: great is thy faithfullneſſe.

24 The Lord is my portion, ſaith my ſoule: therefore wil I hope in him.

The prayer of Ieremiás.

11 The Lord hath accomplished his indignation: he hath powred out his fierce wrath, he hath kindled a fyre in Zión, which hath deuoured the fundaciós thereof.

12 The Kings of the earth, and all the inhabitants of the worlde wolde not haue beleued that the aduersarie and the enemy shulde haue entred into the gates of Ierusalém:

13 For the sinnes of her Prophetes, and the iniquities of her Priests, that haue shed the blood of the iust in the middes of her.

14 They haue wandered as blinde men in the stretes, and they were polluted with blood, so they thei wolde not touche their garments.

15 But they cryed vnto them, Departe, ye polluted, departe, departe, touche not: therefore they fled away, and wandered: they haue said among the heathen, They shall no more dwell there.

16 The anger of the Lord hath scattered them, he wil no more regarde them: thei reuerenced not the face of the Priests, nor had compasíon of the Elders.

17 Whiles we waited for our vaine helpe, our eyes failed: for in our waiting we looked for a nation that colde not saue vs.

18 They hunt our steppes that we cannot go in our stretes: our end is nere, our daies are fulfilled, for our end is come.

19 Our persecuters are swifter then the eagles of the heauen: they pursued vs vpon the mountaines, and laied wait for vs in the wilderness.

20 The breth of our nostrils, the Anointed of the Lord was taken in their nets, of whome we said, Vnder his shadowe we shalbe preferred alíue among the heathen.

21 Reioyce & be glad, o daughter Edóm, that dwellest in the land of Vz, the cup also shal passe throughto thee: thou shalt be drunken and vomite.

22 Thy punishment is accomplished, o daughter Zión: he wil nomore carie thee awate into captiuitie, but he wil visit thine iniquitie, o daughter Edóm, he wil discouer thy sinnes.

Remember, o Lord, what is come vpon vs: consider, and beholde our reproche.

2 Our inheritance is turned to the strangers, our houses to the aliantes.

3 We are fatherles, euen without father, & our mothers are as widoues.

4 We haue dronke our water for money, & our wood is solde vnto vs.

5 Our neckes are vnder persecucion: we are weary, and haue no rest.

6 We haue giuen our hands to the Egyptians, & to Asshur, to be satisfied with bread.

7 Our fathers haue sinned, and are not, and we haue borne their iniquities.

8 Sauiours haue ruled ouer vs, none wolde deliuer vs out of their hands.

9 We gate our bread with the perill of our liues, because of the sworde of the wilderness.

10 Our skin was blacke like as an ouen because of the terrible famine.

11 They defiled the women in Zión, & the maides in the cities of Iudáh.

12 The princes are hanged vp by their hand: the faces of the Elders were not had in honour.

13 They toke the yong men to grinde, and the children fell vnder the wood.

14 The Elders haue ceased from the gate, & the yong men from their song.

15 The ioye of our heart is gone, our dance is turned into mourning.

16 The crowne of our head is fallen: woe now vnto vs, that we haue sinned.

17 Therefore our heart is heauy for these things, our eyes are dimme, 18 Because of the mountaine of Zión which is desolate: the foxes runne vpon it.

19 But thou, o Lord, remaine for euer: thy throne is for generation to generation.

20 Wherefore dost thou forget vs for euer, & forsake vs so long time?

21 Turne thou vs vnto thee, o Lord, and we shalbe turned: renew our dayes as of olde.

22 But thou hast vtterly reiected vs: thou art exceedingly angrie againt vs.

a This prayer as is thought, was made while some of the people were carryed away captiue, others as the poore remained, and some went into Egypt & other places for succour: albeit it seemeth that the Prophet foretelling their misery: so come, thus prayed b Meaning, their extreme seruitude and bondage c We are toynd in leagu and amite w them, or haue submit ed our selues vnto them d As our fathers haue bene punished for their sinnes, so we that are culpable of the same sinnes, are punished. e Because of the famine that came from the wilderness, and wolde not suffer vs to go, & seke our necessaries. f That is by the enemies hand. g their claime was so great, that they were not able to abate it h There were no more laws nor forme of comune welch. i With weeping. k And therefore thy countenance, and mercie can neuer faile l whereby it declared that it is not in mans power to turne to God, but is onely his worke to conuert vs, and thus God worketh in vs before we can turne to him, Ierem. 31.18

g He meaneth that these things are come to passe the before, contrary to all mens expectation. h Some referre this to y blinde men, which as they went, stumbled on the blood, wherof the etrie was full. i Meaning, the heathen which came to destroy the, colde not abyde them. k That is, the enemies. l He sheweth two principal causes of their destruccion: the crueltie, & their vaine confidence in man: for they trusted in the helpe of the Egyptians. m Our King Iosiah, in whome we had our hope of Gods fauour, and on whome depended our state & life, was slayne whome he called anointed, because he was a figure of Christ. n This is spoken by derisio. o Or, how they comforted the Church by y after fewe yeres their sorowes shal haue an end, where at the wicked shulde be tormented for euer.

EZEKIEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

After that Ichoiachin by the counsel of Ieremiás & Ezekiel had yelded him self to Nebuchadnezar, and so went into captiuitie with his mother & diuers of his princes & of the peopl, certeine began to murmur that they had obeyed the Prophets counsell, as though the thing which had prophete d shulde not come to passe, & therefore their estate shulde be still miserab le vnder the Caldeans. By reason wherof he confirme th his former prophetes, declaring by new visions & reuelatio. vs. i. the end. Nan. iiii.

unto him that the cite shulde moste certainly be destroyed, & the people grievously tormōted by Gods plagues, inasmuche that they that remained, shulde be broght into cruel bondage. And lest the godlie shoulde dispaire in these great troubles, he assureth them that God wil deliver his Church at his time appointed, and also destroe their enemies which ether afflicted them or reioyced in their miseries. The effect of the one and the other shulde chieftly be performed vnder Christ, of whome in this boke are many notable promises, and in whome the glorie of the new Temple shulde perfectly be restored. The prophetia these things is in Caldea at the same time that Ieremias prophesied in Iudali, and there began in the fift yere of Iehoiachins captiuitie.

a After that boke of the Law was founde, which was the eighteenth yere of the reigne of Iosiah, so that five & twente yeres after this boke was founde, Ieconiah was led awaie captiue with Ezekiel & manie of y people who the first yere after sawe these visions b Which was a part of Euphrates, so called c That is, notable, and excellent visions, so that it might be knowne, it was no naturall dreame but came of God

f-Which were 4 foure Cherubims of reprobated glorie of God, as Chap 28.

Also out of the middes thereof came the likenes of foure beastes, and this was their forme: they had the appearance of a man, 6 And euerie one had foure faces, and euerie one had foure wings. 7 And their fete were streight fete, and the sole.

d That is, the Spirit of prophete, as chap 37. 22 and 37. 1 e By this diuerse of wordes he signifieth y fearful iudgement of God, and the great afflictions, that shulde come vpon Ierusalem Or, pale yellow.

sole of their fete was like the sole of a calues fote, and they sparkled like the appearance of bright brasse.

8 And the hands of a mā came out frō vnder their wings in the foure partes of thē, and thei foure had their faces, & their wings.

g The wing of the one touched y wing of the other.

9 They were ioyned by their wings one to another, & when they went forthe, thei returned not, but euerie one went streight forward.

10 And the similitude of their faces was as the face of man: and they foure had the face of a lyon on the right side, and they foure had the face of a bullocke on the left side: they foure also had the face of an egle.

h Euerie Cherubim had foure faces, the face of a man, & of a lyon on y right side, and the face of a bullocke, and of an egle on the left side 11 Thus were their faces: but their wings were spred out about: two wings of euerie one were ioyned one to another, and two covered their bodies.

12 And euerie one went streight forward: they went whether their spirit led them, & they returned not whē they wēt forthe.

i Euer whether their spirit, or wil was to go

13 The similitude also of the beastes, and their appearance was like burning coles of fyre, and like the appearance of lampes: for the fyre ran among the beastes, & the fyre gaue a glister, and out of the fyre there went lightening.

14 And the beastes ran, and returned like vnto lightening.

i That is, when they had executed Gods wil: for afore they returned not, til God had changed the state of things-15 Now as I behelde the beastes, beholde, a whele appeared vpon the earth by the beastes, hauing foure faces.

16 The faciō of the wheles and their worke was like vnto a chrysolite: & they foure had one forme, and their facion, and their worke was as one whele in another whele.

k The Ebrewe worde is tarshil: meaning, that the colour was like the Cilician sea, or a precious stone so called 17 Whē they wēt, they wēt vpon their foure sides, & they returned not when they wēt.

18 They had also rings, and height, & were fearful to beholde, and their rings were ful of eyes, round about them foure.

19 And when the beastes went, the wheles wēt with them: and when the beastes were lift vp frō the earth, y wheles were lift vp.

20 Whether their spirit led thē, they wēt, and whether did the spirit of the wheles lead them, and the wheles were lifted vp besides them: for the Spirit of the beastes was in the wheles.

21 When the beastes went, they went, and when they stode, they stode: & when they were lifted vp from the earth, the wheles were lifted vp besides them: for the spirit of the beastes was in the wheles.

22 And the similitude of the firmament vpon the heads of the beastes was wonderful, like vnto chrystal, spred ouer their heads about 23 And vnder the firmament were their wings streight, the one toward the other: euerie one had two, which covered thē, & euerie one had two, which couered their bodies.

24 And when they went forthe, I heard the noise of their wings, like y noise of great waters, and as the voice of the Almighty, euen the voyce of speache, as the noise of an hoste: and when they stode, they let downe their wings.

l Which declared the swiftnesse, & the fearfulness of Gods iudgements in Which signified, that they had no power of them selues but onely waited to execute Gods commandment.

25 And there was a voyce from the firmament, that was ouer their heades, whē they stode, and had let downe their wings.

26 And about the firmament that was ouer their heades, was the facion of a throne like vnto a saphir stone, and vpon the similitude of the throne was by appearance, as the similitude of a man about vpon it.

m Whereby was signified a terrible iudgement toward the earth.

27 And I sawe as the appearance of ambre, and as the similitude of fyre rounde about within it to lōke to, euen from his loynes vpwarde, and to lōke to, euen from his loynes downewarde: I sawe as a likeness of fyre, and brightnes rounde about it.

28 As the likeness of the bowe, that is in the cloude in the day of raine, so was the appearance of thē light rounde about.

29 This was the appearance of the similitude of the glorie of the Lord: and when I sawe it, I fell vpon my face, and I heard a voyce of one that spake.

The Prophet is sent to call the people from their error

1 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, stand vp vpon thy fete, & I will speake vnto thee.

2 And the Spirit entred into me, when he had spoken vnto me, and set me vpon my fete, so y I heard him that spake vnto me.

3 And he said vnto me, Sonne of mā, I send thee to the childre of Israhel, to a rebellious nation, that hath rebelled against me: for they & their fathers haue rebelled against me: euen vnto this very day.

d This declarereth on y one parte Gods great affliction toward his people, that notwithstanding their rebellie, yet he wil send his Prophetes among them, & admonisheth his ministers on the other parte that they cease not to do their duetie, though the people be neuer so obstinate: for y worde of God shal be either to their saluation or greater condemnation.

4 For they are impudent children, and stifhearted: I do send thee vnto them, & thou shalt say vnto thē, Thus saith y Lord God.

5 But surely they wil not heare, neither in dede wil they cease: for they are a rebellious house: yct shalt they knowe that there hath ben a Prophet among them.

7 Therefore thou shalt spake my wordes vnto them: but surely they wil not heare, neither wil they in dede cease: for they are rebellious.

8 But thou sonne of man, heare what I say vnto thee: be not thou rebellious, like this rebellious house: open thy mouth, and eat that I giue thee.

CHAP. III.

The Prophet being sed with the worde of God and with the constant boldnes of the Spirit, as sent vnto the people that were in captiuitie. 17 The office of true ministers.

1 Moreouer he said vnto me, Sonne of man, eat that thou finde st: a cat this rolle, and go, and speake vnto the house of Israel.

2 So I opened my mouth, and he gaue me this rolle to eat.

3 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, cause thy belly to eat, and filthy bowels with this rolle that I giue thee. The did I eat it, and it was in my mouth as swete as honie.

4 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, go, & enuoye the house of Israel, and declare them my wordes.

5 For thou art not sent to a people of an vnknown tongue, or of an hard language, but to the house of Israel,

6 Not to manie people of an vnknown tongue, or of an hard language, whose wordes thou canst not vnderstand: yet if I shulde send thee to them, they wolde obey thee.

7 But the house of Israel wil not obey thee: for they wil not obey me: yea, all the house of Israel are impudent and stiff hearted.

8 Beholde, I haue made thy face strong against their faces, and thy forehead hard against their foreheads.

9 I haue made thy forehead as the adamãt, & harder then the flint: feare them not therefore, nether be afraid at their lokes: for they are a rebellious house.

10 He said moreouer vnto me, Sonne of man, receiue in thine heart all my wordes that I speake vnto thee, and heare them with thine eates, 11 And go & entre to them that are led away captiues vnto the children of thy people, and speake vnto them, and tel them, Thus saith the Lord God: but surely they wil not heare, nether wil they in dede cease.

12 Then the Spirit toke me vp, and I heard behinde me a noyse of a great ruffling, saying, Blessed be the glorie of the Lord out of his place.

13 I heard also the noyse of the wings of the beasts, that touched ons another, and the rattling of the wheles that were by them, euen a noyse of a great ruffling.

14 So the Spirit list me vp, & toke me away and I went in bitternes, & indignation of my spirit, but the had of the Lord was strong vpon me.

15 The I came to them that were led away captiues to Tel-ábib, that dwelt by the ruer Chebár, and I late where they late, and remained there astonished amog the seven dayes.

16 And at the end of seven dayes, the worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying, 17 Sonne of man, I haue made thee a watchman vnto the house of Israel: therefore heare the worde at my mouth, and gaue the warning from me.

18 When I shal say vnto the wicked, Thou shalt surely dye, and thou giue st not him warning, nor speakest to admonish the wicked of his wicked way, that he may liue, the same wicked man shal dye in his iniquitie: but his blood wil I require at thine hand.

19 Yet if thou warne the wicked, & he turne not from his wickednes, nor from his wicked way, he shal dye in his iniquitie, but thou hast deliuered thy soule.

20 Likewise if a righteous man ruine fro his righteousness, and commit iniquitie, I wil lay a stumbling blocke before him, and he shal dye, because thou hast not giuen him warning: he shal dye in his sinne, and his righteous dedes, which he hathe done, shal not be remebied: but his blood wil I require at thine hand.

21 Neuertheles, if thou admonish that righteous man, that the righteous sinne not, and that he doeth not sinne, he shal lue because he is admonished: also thou hast deliuered thy soule.

22 And the hand of the Lord was there vpon me, and he said vnto me, Arise, & go into the field, and I wil there talke with thee.

23 So when I had risen vp, and gone forthe into the field, beholde, the glorie of the Lord stode there, as y glorie which I sawe by the ruer Chebár, and I fel downe vpon my face.

24 Then the Spirit entred into me, which set me vp vpon my fete, and spake vnto me, and said to me, Come, & shut thy self within thine house.

25 But thou, Sonne of man, beholde, they shal put bandes vpon thee, and shal binde thee with them, and thou shalt not go out among them, 26 And I wil make thy tongue cleaue to the rooffe of thy mouth, that thou shalt be dumme, and shalt not be to them as a man that rebuketh: for they are a rebellious house.

27 But when I shal haue spoken vnto thee, I wil open thy mouth, and thou shalt say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, He that heareth, let him heare, and he that leaueth of, let him leaue: for they are a rebellious house.

 4 Then take of them againe and cast them into the middes of the fyre, & burne them in the fyre: ^d for thereof shall a fyre come forthe into all the house of Ierusalém.

 6 And she hath changed my ^e iudgements into wickednes more then the nations, & my statutes more then the countreys, that are rounde about her: for they haue refused my iudgements and my statutes, and they haue not walked in them.
 7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because your ^f multitude is greater then the nations that are rounde about you, and ye haue not walked in my statutes, nether haue ye kept my iudgements: no, ye haue not done according to the iudgements of the nations, that are rounde about you,

CHAP. VI.

He sheweth that Ierusalem shalbe destroyed for their idolatrie. & He prophesieth the repentance of the remnant of the people, and their deliuerance.

1 The wordes of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, Set thy face towards the mountaines of Israél, and prophetic against them,

3 And say, Ye mountaines of Israél, heare the worde of the Lord God: thus saith the Lord God to the mountaines and to the hilles, to the riuers and to the valleis, Beholde, I, euen I, wil bring a sworde vpon you, and I wil destroye your hie places:

4 And your altars shalbe desolate, and your images of the sunne shalbe broken: and I wil cast downe your slayne men before your idoles.

5 And I wil lay the dead carkeises of the children of Israél before their idoles, and I wil scatter your bones rounde about your altars.

6 In all your dwelling places the cities shal be desolate, and the hie places shalbe laide waste, so y your altars shalbe made waste and desolate, & your idoles shalbe broken, and cease, and your images of the sunne shalbe cut in peeces, and your workes shalbe abolished.

7 And the slayne shal fall in the middes of you, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

8 Yet wil I leaue a remnant, that you may haue some that shal escape the sworde among the nacions, when you shalbe scattered through the countreis.

9 And they that escape of you, shal remember me among the nacions, where they shalbe in captiuitie, because I am grieued for their whorish hearts, which haue departed from me, and for their eyes, which haue gone awhoring after their idoles, and they shalbe displeased in them selues for the euils, which they haue committed in all their abominacions.

10 And they shal knowe that I am the Lord, and that I haue not said in vaine, that I wolde do this euil vnto them.

11 Thus saith the Lord God, Smite with thine hand, and stretche forth the with thy fote, and say, Alas, for all the wicked abominacions of the house of Israél: for they shal fall by the sworde, by the famine, and by the pestilence.

12 He that is farre of, shal dye of the pestilence, and he that is nere, shal fall by the sworde, and he that remaineth and is besieged, shal dye by the famine: thus wil I accomplish my wrath vpon them.

13 Then ye shal knowe, that I am the Lord, when their slayne men shalbe among their idoles rounde about their altars, vpon euery hie hill in all the toppes of the mountaines, and vnder euery grene tre, and vnder euery thicke oke, which is the place where they did offer swete sauour to all their idoles.

14 So wil I stretch mine hand vpon them, & make the land waste, and desolate fro the wildernes vnto Diblath in all their habitacions, and they shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. VII.

The end of all the land of Israél shal suddenly come.

1 Moreouer the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Also thou sonne of man, thus saith the Lord God, An end is come vnto the lad of Israél: the end is come vpon the foure corners of the land.

3 Now is the end come vpon thee, and I wil send my wrath vpon thee, and wil iudge thee according to thy waies, and wil laye vpon thee all thine abominacions.

4 Nether shal mine eye spare thee, nether wil I haue anye pitie: but I wil laie thy waies vpon thee: and thine abomination shalbe in the middes of thee, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

5 Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, one euil, euen one euil is come.

d He sheweth that in all dangers God wil preserve a few which shalbe as the fede of his Church & call vpon his Name.

e They shalbe ashamed to see that their hope in idoles was but vaine, and to shal repent.

1 An appearance of the similitude of God: 3 Ezekiel is brought to Ierusalem in the spirit. 6 The Lord sheweth the Prophet the idolatries of the house of Israel. 2 And in the sixth yere, in the sixth month, and in the first day of the month, as I sat in mine house, and the Elders of Iudah sat before me, the hand of the Lord God fel there vpon me. 3 Then I behelde, and lo, there was a likeness, as the appearance of a fyre, to loke to, from his loynes downward, and from his loynes vward, as the appearance of brightness, and like vnto ambre. 4 And he stretched out the likenes of an hand, and toke me by an heerie locke of mine head, and the Spirit lift me vp betwene the earth, and the heaue, and brought me by a Diuine vision to Ierusalem, into the enterie of the inner gate that lieth toward the North, where remained the idole of indignation, which prouoked indignation. 5 And beholde, the glorie of the God of Israel was there according to the vision, that I saw in the field. 6 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, lift vp thine eyes now towards the North. So I lift vp mine eyes towards the North, and beholde, Northward, at the gate of l Thus they that shulde haue kept all the rest in the feare, & true seruice of God, were the ring leaders to all abominatio, & by their example pulled others fro God.

m It was in suche abundance For besides their commune idolatric, they had particular seruice, which they had in secret chambers.

the altar, this idole of indignation was in the entrie.

6 He said furthermore vnto me, Sonne of man, seest thou not what they do^{euen} the great abominations that the house of Israél committeth here to cause me to departe from my Sanctuarie: but yet turne thee & thou shalt se greater abominations.

7 And he caused me to entre at the gate of the court: and when I looked, beholde, an hole was in the wall.

8 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, digge now in the wall. And when I had digged in the wall, beholde, there was a dore.

9 And he said vnto me, Go in, and beholde the wicked abominations that they do here.

10 So I went in, and sawe, and beholde, there was euerie similitude of creeping things and abominable beastes and all the idoles of the house of Israél painted vpon the wall rounde about.

11 And there stode before them seuentie men of the Ancients of the house of Israél, and in the middes of them stode Iazaniáh, the sonne of Shaphán, with euerie man his censour in his hand, and the vapour of the incense went vp like a cloud.

12 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, hast thou sene what the Ancients of the house of Israél do in the darke, euerie one in the chambre of his imagerie: for they saie, The Lord seeth vs not, the Lord hathe forsaken the earth.

13 Againe he said also vnto me, Turne thee againe, & thou shalt se greater abominations that they do.

14 And he caused me to entre into the entrie of the gate of the Lords house, which was toward the North: and beholde there fate women mourning for Tammúz.

15 Then said he vnto me, Hast thou sene this, o sonne of man? Turne thee againe, & thou shalt se greater abominations then these.

16 And he caused me to entre into the inner court of the Lords house, and beholde, at the dore of the Temple of the Lord, betwene the porche and the altar were about fise and twentie men with their backs toward the Temple of the Lord, and their faces toward the East, and they worshipped the sunne, toward the East.

17 Then he said vnto me, Hast thou sene this, o sonne of man? Is it a smale thing to the house of Iudáh to commit these abominaciós w^{ch} they do here: for they haue filled the land with crueltie, and haue returned to prouoke me: and lo, they haue cast out stinke before their noses.

18 Therefore wil I also execute my wrath:

mine eye shal not spare them, nether wil I haue pitie, and though they crye in mine eares with a loude voyce, yet wil I not heare them.

CHAP. IX.

1 The destruction of the citie. 4 They that shalbe saved, are marked. 8 A complaint of the prophet for the destruction of the people.

1 He cried also with a loude voice in mine eares, saying, The visitations of the citie drawe nere, and euerie man hathe a weapon in his hand to destroye it.

a The time to take vengeance.

2 And beholde, six men came by the way of the hie gate, which lieth toward the North, and euerie man a weapon in his hand to destroye it: and one man among them was clothed with linnen, with a writers ynkhorne by his side, & they went in and stode beside the brazen altar.

b Which were Angels in the similitude of men.

3 And the glorie of the God of Israél was gone vp from the Cherúb, whereupon he was and stode on the dore of the house & he called to the man clothed with linnen, which had the writers ynkhorne by his side.

c Signifying that the Baby Ionians shulde come from the North to destroye the citie and the Tēple. d To marke them that shulde be saved.

4 And y^e Lord said vnto him, Go through the middes of the citie, euen through the middes of Ierusalém, and set a marke vpon the foreheads of them that mourne, and crye for all the abominations that be done in the middes thereof.

e Which declared, that he was not bound therunto, nether wolde he matne any longer, the there was hope that they wolde returne fro their wickednes, & worship him aright.

5 And to the other he said, that I might heare, Go ye after him through the citie, and smite: let your eye spare none, nether haue pitie.

f Or, shalbe. Or, marke with Than 6 Destroye vtterly the olde, & the yong, and the maids, and the children, and the women, but touche no man, vpon whome is the marke, and begin at my Sanctuarie. Then they began at the Ancient men, which were before the house.

g He sheweth what is the maner of Gods children, whome he marketh to saluation: no wit, to mourne, and crye out againe y^e wickednes, which they se committed against Gods glorie.

7 And he said vnto the, D: file the House, and fil the courtes with the slaine, then go forthe: and they went out, and slawe them in the citie.

h Thus in all his plagues y^e Lord preserueti his finale nombre, which he marketh as Exod 12. 22 reuel 7. 3 but the chief marke is the Spirit of adoption, wherewith y^e heart is sealed vp to life everlasting which were the chief occasiō of all these euils, as Chap 8. 11.

8 Now when they had slaine them, and I had escaped, I fel downe vpō my face, and cryed, saying, Ah Lord God, wilt thou destroye all the residue of Israél, in powring out thy wrath vpon Ierusalém?

9 Then said he vnto me, The iniquitie of the house of Israél, and Iudáh is exceeding great, so that the land is full of blood, & the citie full of corrupt iudgement: for they say, The Lord hathe forsaken the earth, and the Lord seeth vs not.

i This declareth, that the seruantes of God haue a compassion, when they see his iudgements executed.

10 As touching me also, mine eye shal not spare them, nether wil I haue pitie, but wil recompence their wayes. vpon their heads.

k That is, with all kinde of wickednes, read Isa 1. 15.

11 And beholde, the mā clothed with linnen which had the ynkhorne by his side, made report report, and said, Lord I haue done as thou hast commanded me.

CHAP. X.

1 Of the man that take bits burning coles out of the middle of the wheles of the Cherubims. 2 A rehearsal of the wisdom of the wheles, of the beastes, and of the Cherubims.

Chap. 1. 22.

a Which in the first chap ver. 5 he called the foure beastes.

1 And as I looked, beholde, in the firmament that was about the head of the Cherubims there appeared vpon the like vnto the similitude of a throne, as it were a saphir stone.

2 And he spake vnto the man clothed with linnen, and said, Go in betwene the wheles, euen vnder the Cherúb, and fill thine hands with coles of fyre from betwene the Cherubims, and scatter them ouer the citie. And he went in in my sight.

b This signified, that the citie shulde be burnt.

3 Now the Cherubims stode vpon the right side of the house when the man went in, & the cloude filled the inner court.

c Meaning, that the glorie of God shulde departe from the Temple.

4 Then the glorie of the Lord went vpon the Cherúb, and stode ouer the dore of the house, and the house was filled with the cloude, and the court was filled with the brightnes of the Lords glorie.

d Read Chap. 24.

5 And the soude of the Cherubims wings was heard into the vtter court, as the voyce of the Almighty God, when he speaketh.

6 And when he had comanded the man clothed with linnen, saying, Take fyre from betwene the wheles, & from betwene the Cherubims, then he went in and stode beside the whele.

7 And one Cherúb stretched forth his hand from betwene the Cherubims vnto the fyre, that was betwene the Cherubims, & toke thereof, and put it into the hands of him that was clothed with linnen: who toke it and went out.

8 And there appeared in the Cherubims, the likenes of a mans hand vnder their wings.

9 And when I looked vp, beholde foure wheles were beside the Cherubims, one whele by one Cherúb, and another whele by another Cherúb, and the appearance of the wheles was as the colour of a chrysolite stone.

e Read Chap. 1. 46.

10 And their appearance (for they were all foure of one facion) was as if one whele had bene in another whele.

11 When they went forth, they went vpon their foure sides, and they returned not as they went: but to the place whether the first went, they went after it, & they turned not as they went.

f Vntill they had executed Gods iudgements.

12 And their whole body, and their rings, & their hands, and their wings, & the wheles were full of eyes round about, euen in the same foure wheles.

13 And the Cherúb cryed to these wheles in mine hearing, saying, O whele.

14 And every beast had foure faces: the first face was the face of a Cherúb; and the seconde face was the face of a man, and the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an eagle.

15 And the Cherubims were lifted vp: this is the beast that I sawe at the riuer Chebar.

Chap. 1. 5.

16 And when the Cherubims went, the wheles went by them: and when the Cherubims lift vp their wings to mount vp from the earth, the same wheles also turned not from beside them.

17 When the Cherubims stode, they stode: and when they were lifted vp, they lifted them selues vp also: for the spirit of the beast was in them.

g There was one consent betwene the Cherubims & the wheles. Read Chap. 24.

18 Then the glorie of the Lord departed from about the dore of the House, & stode vpon the Cherubims.

19 And the Cherubims lift vp their wings, and mounted vpon the earth in my sight: when they went out, the wheles also were beside them: & euery one stode at the entrie of the gate of the Lords House at the East side, & the glorie of the God of Israel was vpon them on hie.

20 This is the beast that I sawe vnder the God of Israel by the riuer Chebar, and I knewe that they were the Cherubims.

Chap. 1. 4. 1 That is, the whole body of the foure beastes or Cherubims.

21 Euery one had foure faces, and euery one foure wings, and the likenes of mans hands was vnder their wings.

22 And the likenes of their faces was the selfe same faces, which I sawe by the riuer Chebar, and the appearance of the Cherubims was the selfe same, and they went euery one straight forwarde.

CHAP. XI.

1 Who they were that seduced the people of Israel. 2 Against these he prophesieth, shewing them how they shall be dispersed abroad. 3 The renuing of the heart cometh of God. 4 He threateth them that leane vnto their owne counsels.

1 Moreouer, the Spirit lift me vp, and brought me vnto the East gate of the Lords House, which lieth Eastward, and beholde, at the entrie of the gate were fire, and twentie men: among whom I sawe Iazaniáh the sonne of Azúr, & Pelatiáh the sonne of Benaiáh, the princes of the people.

2 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, these are the men that imagine mischief, and deuise wicked counsel in this citie.

a Thus the wicked derided the Prophets, as though they preached but errors, & therefore gaue the felues full to their pleasures.

3 For they say, It is not nere, let vs buyde houses: this citie is the Caldron, and we be the flesh.

4 Therefore prophetic against them, sonne of man prophetic.

b We shall not be pulled out of Ierusalém, till the houre of our death come: as the felsh is not take out of the Caldron till it be sod.

5 And the Spirit of the Lord fel vpon me, & said vnto me, Speake, Thus saith the Lord, O ye house of Israel, this haue ye said, & I know that it will rise vp of your mindes.

6 Manie haue ye murdered in this citie, and ye haue filled the stretes thereof with the flaine.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Thei that ye haue slaine, and haue layed in the middes of it, thei are the flesh; and this citie is the caldron, but I wil bring you forth of the middes of it.

8 Ye haue feared the sworde, and I wil bring a sworde vpon you, saith the Lord God.

9 And I wil bring you out of the middes thereof, and deliuer you into the hands of strangers, and wil execute iudgements among you.

10 Ye shal fall by y^e sworde, & I wil iudge you in the border of Israél, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

11 This citie shal not be your caldron, neither shal ye be the flesh in the middes thereof, but I wil iudge you in the border of Israél.

12 And ye shal knowe that I am the Lord: for ye haue not walked in my statutes, neither executed my iudgements, but haue done after the maners of the heathen, that are rounde about you.

13 ¶ And when I prophecied, Pelatiáh the sonne of Benaiáh dyed: then fel I downe vpon my face & cryed with a loude voice, and said, Ah Lord God, wilt thou then vtterly destroie all the remnant of Israél?

14 Againe the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying;

15 Sonne of man; thy brethren, euen thy brethren, the men of thy kindred, and all the house of Israél, wholly are they vnto whome the inhabitants of Ierusalém haue said, Departe ye faire from the Lord: for the land is giuen vs in possession.

16 Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord God, Although I haue cast them farre of among the heathen, and although I haue scattered them among the countreis, yet wil I be to them as a little Sanctuary in the countreis where they shal come.

17 Therefore saie, Thus saith the Lord God, I wil gather you againe from the people, & assemble you out of the countreis where ye haue bene scattered, and I wil giue you the land of Israél.

18 And thei shal come thether, and thei shal take awaie all the idoles there of, and all y^e abominations thereof from thence.

19 * And I wil giue them one heart, and I wil put a newe spirit within their bowels: and I wil take the stonie heart out of their bodies, & wil giue them an heart of flesh, 20 That thei maie walke in my statutes, & kepe my iudgements, and execute them: and thei shal be my people, and I wil be their God.

21 But vpon the, whose heart is toward their idoles, & whose affection goeth after their abominations, I will laie their waie vpon their owne heades, saith the Lord God.

22 ¶ Then did the Cherubims lift vp their wings, and the wheles besides them, and the glorie of the God of Israél was vpon them on hie.

23 And the glorie of the Lord went vp fro the middes of the citie, and stode vpon y^e mountaine which is toward the East side of the citie.

24 Afterwarde the Spirit toke me vp and broght me in a vision by the Spirit of God into Caldea to them y^e were led awaie, captiues: so the vision that I had sene, went vp from me.

25 The I declared vnto the that were led awaie captiues, all the things that y^e Lord had shewed me.

CHAP. XII.

The parable of the captiuitie. 18 Another parable whereby the distress of hunger and thirst is signified.

1 The worde of y^e Lord also came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, thou dwellest in the middes of a rebellious house, which haue eyes to se, and se not: thei haue eares to heare, & heare not: for thei are a rebellious house.

3 Therefore thou sonne of man, prepare thy stuffe to go into captiuitie & go forthe by daie in their sight: and thou shalt passe from thy place to another place in their sight, if it be possible that thei maie confide it: for thei are a rebellious house.

4 Then shalt thou bring forthe thy stuffe by daie in their sight as the stuffe of him y^e goeth into captiuitie: & y^e shalt go forthe at euen in their sight, as thei that go forthe into captiuitie.

5 Dig thou through the wall in their sight, and carie out therye.

6 In their sight shalt thou beare it vpon thy sholders, & carie it forthe in the darke: thou shalt couer thy face that thou se not the earth: for I haue set thee as a signe vnto the house of Israél.

7 And as I was comanded, so I broght forthe my stuffe by day, as y^e stuffe of one that goeth into captiuitie: and by night I digged through the wall with mine hand, and broght it forthe in the darke, and I bare it vpon my shulder in their sight.

8 And in the morning came the worde of y^e Lord vnto me, saying,

9 Sonne of man, hathe not the house of Israél, the rebellious house, said vnto thee, What doest thou?

10 But saie thou vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, This burden concerneth the chief in Ierusalém, and all the house of Israél that are among them.

11 Saie, I am your signe: like as I haue done, so shal it be done vnto them: thei shal go f It seemeth y^e this noble mā dyed of some terrible death & therefore y^e Prophet feared some strange iudgement of God toward the rest of y^e people.

g Thei that remained still at Ierusalém thus reproched the that were gone into captiuitie, as though they were cast off and forsaken of God.

h Thei shal be yet a litle Church, shewing that the Lord wil euer haue some to call vpon his Name, whome he wil preserve and restore, though they be for a tyme afflicted.

12 And the chiefest that is among them, shall beate vpon his shulder in the darke and shall go forthe: thei shall digge through the wall, to carie out thereby: he shall couer his face & he shall see not the grounde with his eyes.

d When the King shall thinke to escape by fleeing, I will take him in my net, as Chap 17, 10 & 23

13 My net also will I spread vpon him, and he shall be taken in my net, and I will bring him to Babel to the land of the Caldeans, yet shall he not see it, though he shall dye there.

14 And I will scatter towarde euery winde all that are about him to helpe him, and all his garisons, and I will drawe out the sworde after them.

15 And thei shall knowe that I am the Lord, when I shall scatter the among the nations, and disperse them in the countreys.

e Which shulde beate his Name & shuld be his Church, read Chap 14, 16.

16 But I will leaue a litle nombre of them from the sword, from the famine, and fro the pestilence, that thei may declare all these abominations among the heathen, where thei come, and thei shall knowe, that I am the Lord.

17 Moreouer, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

18 Sonne of man, eat thy bread with trembling, and drinke thy water with trouble, & with carefulnes.

19 And say vnto the people of the land, Thus saith the Lord God of the inhabitants of Ierusalem, and of the land of Israel, Thei shall eat their bread with carefulnes, & drinke their water with desolatō: for the land shall be desolate fro her abundance because of the crueltie of them that dwell therein.

20 And the cities that are inhabited, shall be left void, & the land shall be desolate, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lord.

21 And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

22 Sonne of man, what is that prouerbe that you haue in the land of Israel, saying, The dayes are prolonged and all visions faile?

f Because thei did not immedately ke the prophetes accomplished, thei contemned them as though thei shulde neuer be fulfilled

23 Tel them therefore, Thus saith the Lord God, I will make this prouerbe to cease, & thei shall no more vse it as a prouerbe in Israel: but say vnto them, The dayes are at hand and the effect of euery vision.

g Or, shall neuer be fulfilled

24 For no vision shall be any more in vaine, nether shall there be any flatering diuination within the house of Israel.

25 For I am the Lord: I will speake, and that thing that I shall speake, shall come to passe: it shall be no more prolonged: for in your daies, & rebellious house, will I say the thing, & will performe it, saith the Lord God.

h That is, it shall not come to passe in our daies, and therefore we care not for it: thus the wicked cur abuse Gods patience and benignitie.

26 Againe the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

27 Sonne of man, beholde, thei of the house of Israel say, The vision that he seeth, is for many daies to come, & he prophecieth of the times that are far of.

28 Therefore say vnto the, Thus saith the Lord God, All my wordes shall no longer be delayed, but y thing which I haue spoken, shall be done, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XIII.

The words of the Lord against false prophetes, which teache the people the counsels of their owne hearts.

1 And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

3 Thus saith the Lord God, Wo vnto the foolish prophetes that followe their owne spirit, and haue sene nothing.

4 O Israel, thy Prophetes are like the foxes in the waste places.

b Watching to destroy the vineyarde

5 Ye haue not iisen vp in y gappes, nether made vp the hedge for the house of Israel, to stand in y bartel in the day of the Lord.

c He speaketh to the gouernours and true ministers that shulde haue resisted them.

6 Thei haue sene vanitie, & lying diuination, saying, The Lord saith it, & the Lord hath not sent the: & thei haue made others to hope that thei wolde confirme y worde of their prophetic.

d Ye promised peace to this people & now ye see their destruction, so that it is manifest, that ye are false prophetes.

7 Haue ye not sene a vaine vision? & haue ye not spoken a lying diuination? ye say, The Lord saith it, albeit I haue not spokē.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ye haue spoken vanitie & haue sene lies, therefore beholde, I am against you, saith the Lord God,

10 And therefore, because thei haue deceiued my people, saying, Peace, & there was no peace: & one buyld vp a swall, & beholde, y others daubed it w vntemperd mortar, g Where as y true Prophetes prophetic the destruction of the cite to bring y people to repentance, the false Prophetes spake the contrarye & flattered them in their vanities, so y what one false prophet said, which is here called y buylding of y wall, an other false Prophet would affirme, though he had nether occasio nor good ground to beare hum.

11 Say vnto the which dawbe it w vntemperd mortar, that it shall fall: for there shall come a great showre, & I will send haile stones, which shall cause it to fall, and a stormie winde shall breake it.

12 Lo, when the wall is fallen, shall it not be said vnto you, Where is y dawbing wherewith ye haue dawbed it?

13 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I will cause a stormie winde to breake forthe in my wrath, & a great showre shall be in mine angrie, & haile stones in mine indignation to consume it.

14 So I will destroy the wall y ye haue dawbed with vntemperd mortar, & bring it downe to y ground, so y the fundacio thereof shall be discouered, & it shall fall, & ye shall be consumed in the middes thereof, & ye shall knowe, that I am the Lord.

15 Thus wil I accomplish my wrath vpon the wall, and vpon the that haue dawbed it with vntempered mortar, & wil say vnto you, The wall is no more, nether the dawbers thereof.

16 To wit, the Prophetes of Israël, which prophesie vpon Ierusalém, and se visions of peace for it, and there is no peace, saith the Lord God.

17 Likewise thou sonne of man, set thy face against y daughters of thy people, which prophesie out of their owne heart: and prophesie thou against them, and say,

18 Thus saith the Lord God, Wo vnto the women that sowe pillows vnder all arme holes, and make vailes vpon the head of euerie one that standeth vp, to hunt soules: wil ye hunt the soules of my people, and wil ye giue life to the soules that come vnto you?

19 And wil ye pollute me among my people for handfuls of barlie, & for pieces of bread to flay the soules of them that shulde not dye, and to giue life to the soules that shuldenot liue in lying to my people, that heare your lies?

20 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I wil haue to do with your pillows, wherewith ye hunt y soules to make the to flie, and I wil teare them from your armes, and wil let the soules go, when the soules, that ye hunt to make them to flie.

21 Your vailes also wil I teare, and deliuer my people out of your hand, and they shal be no more in your handes to be hunted, & ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

22 Because with your lyes ye haue made the heart of the righteous sad, whome I haue not made sad, and strengthened the hands of the wicked, that he shulde not returne from his wicked way, by promising him life, 23 Therefore ye shal se no more vanitie, nor diuine diuinations: for I wil deliuer my people out of your hand, & ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XIII.

The Lord sendeth false prophetes for the ingratitude of the people. 22 He reserveth a smale portion for his Church.

1 Then came certē of the Elders of Israël vnto me, and sate before me. 2 And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

3 Sonne of man, these men haue set vp their idoles in their heart, & put the stumbling blocke of their iniquitie before their face: shulde I, being required, answer them?

4 Therefore speake vnto them, and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Euerie man of the house of Israël that setteth vp his idoles in his heart, & putteth y stumbling blocke of his iniquitie before his face, and cometh to the Prophet, I the Lord wil answer him, that cometh according to the multitude of his idoles:

5 That I may take the house of Israël in their owne heart, because they are all departed from me through their idoles.

6 Therefore say vnto the house of Israël, Thus saith the Lord God, Returne, and withdrawe your selues, and turne your faces from your idoles, and turne your faces from all your abominacions.

7 For euerie one of the house of Israël, or of the stranger that sojourneth in Israël, which departeth frō me, and setteth vp his idoles in his heart, and putteth the stumbling blocke of his iniquitie before his face, and cometh to a Prophete, for to inquire of him for me, I the Lord wil answer him for my selfe,

8 And I wil set my face against that man, and wil make him an example and prouerbe, and I wil cut him of from the middes of my people, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

9 And if the Prophet be deceiued, when he hath spoken a thing, I the Lord haue deceiued that Prophet, and I wil stretche out mine hand vpo him, and wil destroy him frō the middes of my people of Israël.

10 And they shal beare their punishment: the punishment of y Prophet shal be euen as the punishment of him that asketh, 11 That the house of Israël may go no more astray from me, nether be polluted any more with all their transgressions, but that they may be my people, and I may be their God, saith the Lord God.

12 ¶ The worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

13 Sonne of man, when the land sinneth against me by committing a trespass, then wil I stretche out mine hand vpon it, and wil break the staffe of the bread thereof, and wil send famine vpon it, and I wil destroy man and beast for the of it.

16 Though these thre men were in the middes thereof, As I liue, saith the Lord God, they shal saue nether sonnes nor daughters: they onely shalbe deliuered, but the land shalbe waste.

17 Or if I bring a sworde vpon this land, & say, Sworde, go through y land, so that I destroy man and beast out of it,

- 19 Or if I send a pestilence into this land, & powre out my wrath vpon it in blood, to destroye out of it man and beast,
- 20 And though Noah, Daniël and Iob were in the middes of it, As I liue, saith the Lord God, they shal deliuer nether sonne nor daughter: they shal but deliuer their owne soules by their righteousnes.

Chap. 17.

- 21 For thus saith the Lord God, How muche more when I send my foure sore iudgements vpon Ierusalém, euen the sworde, and famine, and the noisome beast and pestilence, to destroy man & beast out of it?
- 22 Yet beholde, therein shalbe left a remnant of them y shalbe caryed away by the sonnes & daughters: beholde, they shal come forth vnto you, & ye shal se their way, & their enterprises: and ye shalbe comforted, concerning the euil that I haue brought vpon Ierusalém, euen concerning all that I haue brought vpon it.
- 23 And they shal comforte you, when ye se their way and their enterprises: and ye shal knowe, that I haue not done without cause all that I haue done in it, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XV.

As the unprofitable wood of the vine tre is cast into the fyre, so Ierusalém shalbe burnt.

- 1 And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,
- 2 Sonne of man, what cometh of the vine tre aboute all other trees? and of the vine branche, which is among the trees of the forest?
- 3 Shal wood be také thereof to do any worke? or wil men take a pyn of it to hang any vessel thereon?
- 4 Beholde, it is cast in the fyre to be consumed: the fyre consumeth bothe the ends of it, and the middes of it is burnt. Is it mete for any worke?
- 5 Beholde, when it was whole, it was mete for no worke: how muche lesse shal it be mete for any worke, when the fyre hath consumed it, and it is burnt?
- 6 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, As the vine tre, that is among the trees of the forest, which I haue giuen to the fyre to be consumed, so wil I giue the inhabitants of Ierusalém.
- 7 And I wil set my face against them: they shal go out from one fyre, & another fyre shal consume them: & ye shal knowe, that I am the Lord, when I set my face against them,
- 8 And when I make the land waste, because they haue greatly offended, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XVI.

The Prophet declareth the benefites of God toward Ierusalém salém 15 Their unkindnes. 46 He iustifieth the wickednes of other people in comparison of the finnes of Ierusalém 49 I be cause of the abominacions, into which the Sodomites fel 60 Mercie is promised to the repenants.

- 1 A Gaine, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,
- 2 Sonne of man, cause Ierusalém to knowe her abominacions,
- 3 And say, Thus saith the Lord God vnto Ierusalém, Thine habitacion & thy kindred is of the land of Canaan: thy father was an Amorite, and thy mother an Hittite.
- 4 And in thy natuutie when thou wast borne, thy navel was not cut: thou wast not washed in water to soften thee: thou wast not salted with salt, nor swadede in cloutes.
- 5 None eye pitied thee to do any of these vnto thee, for to haue compassion vpon thee, but thou wast cast out in the open field to the contempt of thy persone in the day that thou wast borne.
- 6 And when I passed by thee, I sawe thee polluted in thine owne blood, and I said vnto thee, when thou wast in thy blood, Thou shalt liue: euen when y wast in thy blood, I said vnto thee, Thou shalt liue.
- 7 I haue caused thee to multiplie, as y bud of the field, and thou hast increased, and waxen great, and thou hast gotten excellent ornamets: thy breasts are facioned, thine heere is growen, where as thou wast naked and bare.
- 8 Now when I passed by thee, and looked vpon thee, beholde, thy time was as the time of loue, & I spred my skirres ouer thee, and couered thy filthines: yea, I swate vnto thee, and entred into a couenant with thee, saith the Lord God, and thou becomest mine.
- 9 Then washed I thee with water: yea, I washed away thy blood from thee, and I anointed thee with oyle.
- 10 I clothed thee also with broyded worke, and shod thee with badgers skinne: and I girded thee about with fine linnen, & I couered thee with silke.
- 11 I decked thee also with ornaments, and I put brasselets vpon thine hands, & a chaine on thy necke.
- 12 And I put a frontelet vpon thy face, and earigs in thine eares, & a beautiful crowne vpon thine head.
- 13 Thus wast thou deckt with golde and silke, and thy raiment was of fine linnen, and silke, & broydered worke: thou didest eat fine floure, and hony and oyle, & thou wast very beautiful, and thou didest growe vpon into a kingdome.
- 14 And thy name was spred among the heathen for thy beautie: for it was perfite through my beautie which I had set vpon thee, saith the Lord God.

a Thou boastest to be of y sede of Abraham, but thou art degenerate and followest the abominacions of the wicked Canaanites, as children do the maners of their fathers. Isa 1.4 & 57.3. b When I first brought thee out of Egypt, & platted thee in this land to be my Church. c Being thus in thy filthines and forsaken of all me, I toke thee & gaue thee life: whereby as meate that before God was his Church, & gaue life, there is nothing, but filthines and death.

d These wordes, as blood, pollution, nakednes & filthines are six times repeated, to beate downe their pride, and to cause them to consider what they were before, God receiued them to mercie, fauour, & couered their shame. e That thou shouldest be a chaste wife vnto me, and that I shoulde mainteine thee & conde thee w all graces. f I washed away thy filthines. g I sanctified thee with mine holy Spirit. h Hereby he sheweth how he saued his Church, enriched it & gaue it power and dominion to reigne. i He declarerh wherein the dignitie of Ierusalém standeth: to wit, in that the Lord gaue them of his beautie and excellencie.

a Which bringeth forth the no fruite, no more then the other trees of the forest do: meaning that if Ierusalém, which bare the name of his Church, did not bring forth fruite, it shoulde be utterly destroyed.

b Though they escape one danger, yet another shall take them.

10 Beholde, it was planted: but shal it prosper? shal it not be dryed vp, and wither? when the East winde shal touche it, it shal wither in the tréches, where it grewe.

i By this drye wynde, he meaneth the Babyloians.

11 Moreouer, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

12 Say now to this rebellious house, Knowe ye not, what these things meane? tel them, Beholde, the King of Babél is come to Ierusalém, and hath taken the King thereof, and the princes thereof, and led them with him to Babél,

¶ That is, Ierusalem, a King 24. 15.

13 And hath taken one of the Kings seide, and made a couenant with him, and hath taken an othe of him: he hath also taken the princes of the land, i For his subiection and obedience.

14 That the kingdome might be in subiection, and not lift it self vp, but kepe their couenant, and stand to it.

15 But he rebelled against him, and sent his ambassadours into Egypt, that they might giue him horses, & muche people: shal he prosper? shal he escape, that doeth suche things? or shal he breake the couenant, & be deliuered?

16 As I liue, saith the Lord God, he shal dye in the middes of Babél, in the place of the King, that had made him King, whose othe he despised, and whose couenant made with him, he brake.

17 Nether shal Pharaóh with his mightie hoste, & great multitude of people, mainteine him in the warre, when they haue cast vp mounts, and buylded ramparts to destroy many persones.

18 For he hath despised the othe, and broken the couenant (yet lo, he had giuen this hand) because he hath done all these things, he shal not escape.

m Because he toke the Name of God in vaine & brake his othe & he had confirmed by giuing his hand, therefore & Prophet declareth & God wolde not suffer suche periurie and indelite to escape punishment Chap 22. 13. & 32. 8.

19 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God, As I liue, I wil surely bring mine othe that he hath despised, and my couenant that he hath broken, vpon his owne head.

20 *And I wil spread my net vpon him, & he shal be taken in my net, & I wil bring him to Babél, and wil entie into iudgement with him there for his trespass that he hath committed against me.

21 And all that fle from him with all his hoste, shal fall by the sworde, and they that remaine, shal be scatered toward all y winde: and ye shal knowe that I the Lord haue spoken it.

22 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil also take of the toppe of this hie cedre, and wil set it, and cut of the toppe of the tendre plante thereof, and I wil plante it vpon an hie mountaine and great.

n This promise is made to the Church & shal be as a faule remoued & as the top of a tree o I wil tryme it and dress it p Sothe the Iewes & Gentils shal be gathered into it.

23 Euen in the hie mountaine of Israél, wil I plante it: and it shal bring forth the boughs and beare frute, and be an excellent cedre, and vnder it shal remaine all birdes, and euerie foule shal dwell in the shadowe of the branches thereof.

24 And all y trees of the field shal knowe that I the Lord haue broght downe y hie tre, and exalted the lowe tre, that I haue dryed vp the grene tre, and made the drye tre to flourish: I the Lord haue spoken it, & haue done it.

q All y worde shal knowe that I haue pluckt downe y proude enemies and set vp my Church which was lowe and contemned.

CHAP. XVIII.

¶ He sheweth that euery man shal beare his owne synne. 21 To him that amendeth, is saluacion promised. 24 Death is prophesied to the righteous, which turneth backe from the right waye.

1 The worde of the Lord came vnto me againe, saying,

2 What meane ye that ye speake this prouerbe, concerning y land of Israél, saying, The fathers haue eaten soure grapes, & the childrens teeth are set on edge?

3 As I liue, saith the Lord God, ye shal vse this prouerbe no more in Israél.

4 Beholde, all soules are mine, bothe the soule of the father, and also the soule of the sonne are mine: the soule that sinneth, it shal dye.

5 But if a man be iust, and do that which is lawfull, and right,

10 ¶ If he beget a sonne, that is a thief, or a sheader of blood, if he do any one of these things,

10 Or, a cruel man

11 Though he do not all these things, but either hath eaten vpon the mountaines, or defiled his neighbours wife,

12 Or hath oppressed the poore and nedie, or hath spoiled by violence, or hath not restored the pledge, or hath lift vp his eyes vnto the idoles, or hath committed abomination, 13 Or hath giuen for the vpon vsurie, or hath taken increase, shal he liue? he shal not liue: seing he hath done all these abominacions, he shal dye the death, and his blood shal be vpon him.

c He sheweth how the sonne is punished for his fathers fautes: y is, if he be wicked as his father was, and doeth not repent, he shal be punished as his father was, or els not.

14 ¶ But if he beget a sonne, that seeth all his fathers synnes, which he hath done, and and feareth, nether doeth suche like, 15 That hathe not eaten vpon the mountai-nes, nether hathe lift vp his eyes to the idoles of the house of Israél, nor hathe defiled his neighbours wife, 16 Nether hathe oppressed anie, nor hathe withholden the pledge, nether hathe spoiled by violence, but hathe giuē his bread to the hungrye, and hathe couered the naked with a garment,

 17 Nether hathe withdrawen his hand frō the afflicted, nor receiued vsurie nor inease, but hathe executed my iudgements, & hathe walked in my statutes, he shal not dye in the iniquitie of his father, but he shal surely liue.
 18 His father, because he cruelly oppressed and spoiled his brother by violence, and hathe not done good among his people, lo, euen he dyeth in his iniquitie.
 19 Yet saie ye, Wherefore shal not the sonne beare the iniquitie of the father? because the sonne hathe executed iudgement & iustice, & hathe kept all my statutes, and done them, he shal surely liue.
 20 * The same soule that sinneth, shal dye:
 the sonne shal not beare the iniquitie of the father, nether shal the father beare the iniquitie of the sonne, but the righteousnes of the righteous shal be vpon him, and the wickednes of the wicked shal be vpon him self.
 21 But if the wicked wil retorne from all his sinnes that he hathe committed, and kepe all my statutes, and do that which is lawful and right, he shal surely liue, & shal not dye.
 22 All his transgressions that he hathe committed, thei shal not be mencioned vnto him, but in his righteousnes that he hathe done, he shal liue.
 23 Haue I anie desire that the wicked shul dye, saith the Lord God? or shal he not liue, if he retorne from his waies?
 24 But if the righteous turne awaie from his righteousnes, and commit iniquitie, & do according to all the abominaciōs, that the wicked man doeth, shal he liue? all his righteousnes that he hathe done, shal not be mencioned: but in his transgression that he hathe committed, and in his sinne that he hathe sinned, in them shal he dye.
 25 Yet ye saie, The waie of the Lord is not equal: heare now, o house of Israél. Is not my waie equal? or are not your waies vnequal?
 26 For when a righteous man turneth awaie from his righteousnes, and committeth in-iquitie, he shal euen dye for the same, he shal euen dye for his iniquitie, that he ha-the done.
 27 Againe when the wicked turneth away from his wickednes that he hathe committed, and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shal saue his soule aliuē.

 28 Because he considereth, & turneth awaie from all his transgressions that he hathe committed, he shal surely liue & shal not dye.
 29 Yet saith the house of Israél, The waie of the Lord is not equal. O house of Isra-él, are not my waies equal? or are not your waies vnequal?
 30 Therefore I wil iudge you, o house of Israél, euerie one according to his waies, saith the Lord God: I returne therefore and cause others to turne awaie from all your transgressions: so iniquitie shal not be your destruction.
 31 Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye haue transgressed & make you a new heart and a new spirit: for why wil ye dye, o house of Israél?
 32 For I desire not the death of him that dyeth, saith the Lord God: cause therefore one another to retorne, and liue ye.

 that man can

 his wickednes

 be changed, & is onely the worke of God

The captiuitie of the Kings of Iudah signified by the it became a lion, and it learned to catch y praie, & it deuoured men.

 him in chaines vnto the land of Egypt.

 and her hope wast lost, she toke another of her whelpes, and made him a lion.
 6 Which went among the lions, & became he deuoured men.

 stroied their cities, and the land was wasted, and all that was therein by the noise of his roaring.
 8 Then the nations set against him on e-tes for him: so he was taken in their pit.

CHAP. XX.

7 The Lord denieth that he wil answere them when they praise because of their unkindenes. 13 He promisseth that his people shal returns from captiuitie 26 By the forest that shulde be burnt, is signified the burning of Ierusalem.

And in the seventh yere in the fifth moneth, y tenth day of y moneth, came certaine of the Elders of Israél to enquire of the Lord, and sate befoite me.

2 Then came the worde of the Lord vnto me, saying,

3 Sonne of man, speake vnto the Elders of Israél, and saie vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Are ye come to inquire of me: as I liue, saith the Lord God, when I am asked, I wil not answer you.

4 Wilt thou iudge them, sonne of man: wilt thou iudge them: cause them to vnderstand the abominations of their fathers,

5 And saie vnto them, Thus saith y Lord God, In the daie when I chose Israél, and lift vp mine hand vnto the sede of the house of Iakób, and made my self knowé vnto them in the land of Egypt, when I lift vp mine hand vnto them, and said, I am the Lord your God,

6 In the daie that I lift vp mine hand vnto them to bring them forth of the land of Egypt, into a land that I had prouided for them, flowing with milke & honie which is pleasant among all lands,

7 Then said I vnto them, Let euerie man cast awaie the abominations of his eyes, and defile not your selues with y idoles of Egypt: for I am the Lord your God.

8 But they rebelled against me, and wolde not heare me: for none cast awaie the abominations of their eyes, nether did they forsake y idoles of Egypt: then I thought to powre out mine indignacion vpon the, & to accomplish my wrath against them in the middes of the land of Egypt.

9 But I had respect to my Name, that it shulde not be polluted before the heathen, among whome they were, & in whose sight I made my self knowé vnto the in bringing them forth of the land of Egypt.

10 Now I caried them out of the land of Egypt & broght them into the wilderness.

11 And I gaue them my statutes, and declared my iudgements vnto them, * which if a man do, he shal liue in them.

12 Moreouer I gaue the also my Sabbaths to be a signe betwene me and the, that they might knowe that I am y Lord, that sanctifie them.

13 But the house of Israél rebelled against me in the wilderness: they walked not in my statutes, and they cast awaie my iudgements, which if a man do, he shal liue in them, and my Sabbaths haue they greatly polluted: then I thought to powre out mine indignacion vpon them * in the wilderness to consume them, 14 But I had respect to my Name, that it shulde not be polluted before the heathen in whose sight I broght them out.

15 Yet neuertheles, I lift vp mine hand vnto them in the wilderness that I wolde not bring them into the land, which I had giuen them, flowing with milke & honie, which was pleasant aboute all lands, 16 Because they cast awaie my iudgements, and walked not in my statutes, but haue polluted my Sabbaths: for their heart went after their idoles.

17 Neuertheles, mine eye spared the, that I wolde not destroye them, nether wolde I consume them in the wilderness.

18 But I said vnto their children in the wilderness, Walke ye not in the ordinances of your fathers, nether obserue their manners, nor defile your selues with their idoles.

19 I am the Lord your God: walke in my statutes, and kepe my iudgements & do the,

20 And sanctifie my Sabbaths, & they shalbe a signe betwene me & you, that ye maie knowe that I am the Lord your God.

21 Notwithstanding the children rebelled against me: they walked not in my statutes, nor kept my iudgements to do the, which if a man do, he shal liue in them, but they polluted my Sabbaths: then I thought to powre out mine indignacion vpon them, & to accomplish my wrath against them in the wilderness.

22 Neuertheles I withdrew mine hand & had respect to my Name that it shulde not be polluted before the heathen, in whose sight I broght them forth.

23 Yet I lift vp mine hand vnto them in the wilderness, that I wolde scatter them among the heathen, and disperse them through the countreis.

24 Because they had not executed my iudgements, but had cast awaie my statutes & had polluted my Sabbaths, and their eyes were after their fathers idoles.

25 Wherefore I gaue them also statutes that were not good, & iudgements, wherein they shulde not liue.

26 And I polluted the in their owne giftes in that they cauſed, to paſſe by the fyre all that fiſt openeth the wobe, that I might deſtroye them, to the end that they might knowe that I am the Lord.

27 Therefore, ſonne of man, ſpeake vnto the houſe of Iſraēl, & ſay vnto the, Thus ſaith the Lord God, yet in this your fathers haue blaſphemed me, though they had before grieuouſly tranſgreſſed againſt me.

28 For when I had broght them into the land, for the which I liſted vp mine hand to giue it, then they ſawe euerie hie hil, & all the thicke trees, and they offred there their ſacrifices, and there they preſented their offering of prouocation: there alſo they made their ſwete ſauour, and powred out there their drinke offerings.

29 Then I ſaid vnto them, What is the hie place whereunto ye go? And the name thereof was called ° Bamah vnto this day.

30 Wherefore, ſay vnto the houſe of Iſraēl, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Are ye not polluted after the maner of your fathers? & commit ye not whoredome after their abominatiōs?

31 For when you offer your giftes, and make your ſonnes to paſſe through the fyre, you pollute your ſelues with all your idoles vnto this day: ſhal I answer you whē I am asked, o houſe of Iſraēl as I liue, ſaith the Lord God, I wil not answer you when I am asked.

32 Nether ſhal that be done that cometh into your minde: for ye ſay, We wil be as the heathen, and as the families of the countreis, and ſerue wood, and ſtone.

33 As I liue, ſaith the Lord God, I wil ſurely rule you with a mightie hand, and with a ſtretched out arme, & in my wrath powred out, 34 And wil bring you from the people, and wil gather you out of the countreis, wherein ye are ſcattered, with a mightie hand, & with a ſtretched out arme and in my wrath powred out.

35 And I wil bring you into the wildernes of the people, & there wil I plead with you face to face.

36 Like as I pleaded with your fathers in the wildernes of the lād of Egypt, ſo wil I pleade with you, ſaith the Lord God.

37 And I wil cauſe you to paſſe vnder the rod, and wil bring you into the bonde of the coucnant.

38 And I wil chuſe out from among you the rebelles, and them that tranſgreſſe againſt me: I wil bring them out of the lād wher they dwell, & they ſhal not entre into y lād of Iſraēl, & you ſhal knowe y I am y Lord.

39 As for you, o houſe of Iſraēl, thus ſaith the Lord God, Go you, and ſerue euerie one his idole, ſeing that ye wil not obey me, and pollute mine holie Name no more with your giftes and with your idoles.

40 For in mine holie mountaine euen in the hie moutaine of Iſraēl, ſaith y Lord God, there ſhal all the houſe of Iſraēl and all in the land, ſerue me: there wil I accept the, and there wil I require your offerings and the fiſt frutes of your oblations, with all your holy things.

41 I wil accept your ſwete ſauour, when I bring you from the people, & gather you out of the countreis, wher in ye haue bene ſcattered, that I may be ſanctified in you before the heathen.

42 And ye ſhal knowe, that I am the Lord, when I ſhal bring you into the land of Iſraēl, into the lād, for the which I liſted vp mine hand to giue it to your fathers.

43 And there ſhal ye remeber your wayes, and all your workes, wherein ye haue bene deſiled, and ye ſhal iudge you ſelues worthy to be cut of, for all your euils, that ye haue committed.

44 And ye ſhal knowe, that I am the Lord, when I haue reſpe& vnto you for my Names ſake, and not after your wicked waies, nor according to your corrupt workes, o ye houſe of Iſraēl, ſaith the Lord God.

45 ¶ Moreouer, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, ſaying, 46 Sonne of man, ſet thy face toward the way of Temān, and droppe thy worde toward the South, and prophecie toward the foreſt of the field of the South, 47 And ſay to the foreſt of the South, Heare the worde of the Lord: thus ſaith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil kindle a fyre in thee, and it ſhal deuoure all the greene wood in thee, and all the dry wood: the continual flame ſhal not be quenched, & euen the face ſrom the South to the North ſhal be burnt therin.

48 And all fleſh ſhal ſe, that I y Lord haue kindled it, & it ſhal not be queched. The ſaid I, Ah Lord God, thei ſay of me, Doeth not he ſpeake parables?

The worde of the Lord came to me againe, ſaying, my sworde go out of his sheath against all flesh from the South to the North,

5 That all flesh may knowe that I the Lord haue drawn my sworde out of his sheath, & it shal not returne anie more.

6 Mourn therefore, thou sonne of man, as in the paine of thy reines, & mourne bitterly before them.

7 And if they say vnto thee, Wherefore mournest thou? then answer, Because of the brut: for it cometh, and euery heart shal melt, and all hands shalbe weake, and all mindes shal faint, and all knees shal fall away as water: beholde, it cometh, and shal be done, saith the Lord God.

8 ¶ Again, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

9 Sonne of man, prophesie, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, say, A sworde, a sworde bothe sharpe, and fourbished.

10 It is shapened to make a fore slaughter, & it is fourbished that it may glitter: how shal we reioyce for it contemne the rod of my sonne, as all other trees.

11 And he hath giue it to be fourbished, that he may handle it: this sworde is sharpe, and is fourbished, that he may giue it into the hand of the slayer.

12 Crye, and howle, sonne of man: for this shal come to my people, and it shal come vnto all the princes of Israell: the terrours of the sworde shal be vpon my people: smite therefore vpon thy thigh.

13 For it is a tryal, and what shal this be, if the sworde contemne euen the rod? It shal be no more, saith the Lord God.

14 Thou therefore, sonne of man, prophesie, and smite hand to hand, and let the sworde be doubled: let the sworde that hath killed, returne the thirde time: it is the sworde of the great slaughter entering into their priuie chambers.

15 I haue broght the feare of the sworde into all their gates to make their heart to faint, and to multiplie their ruines. Ah it is made bright, & it is dressed for the slaughter.

16 Get thee alone: go to the right hand, or get thy self to the left hand, whether soeuer thy face turneth.

17 I wil also smite mine hands together, & wil cause my wrath to cease. I the Lord haue said it.

18 ¶ The worde of the Lord came vnto me againe, saying,

19 Also thou sonne of man, appoint thee two wayes, that the sworde of the King of Babel may come: bothe twaine shal come out of one land, and chuse a place, and chuse it in the corner of the way of Syctie.

20 Appoint a way, that the sworde may come to Rabbath of the Ammonites, and p to Iudah in Ierusalem the strong cite.

And King of Babel stood at the parting of the way, at the head of the two wayes, consulting by diuination, and made his arrowes bright: he consulted with idoles, and looked in the liuer.

21 At his right hand was the diuination for Ierusalem to appoint captaines, to open their mouthe in the slaughter, and to lift vp their voyce with shouting, to lay engines of warre against the gates, to cast a mount, and to buyld a fortres.

22 And it shalbe vnto them as a false diuination in their fight for the othes made vnto them: but he wil call to remembrance their iniquitie, to the intent they shulde be taken.

23 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ye haue made your iniquitie to be remembered, in discouering your rebellion, in all your workes: your sinnes might appeare because, I say, that ye are come to remembrance, ye shalbe taken with the hand.

24 And thou prince of Israell polluted, & wicked, whose day is come, when iniquitie shal haue an end, 25 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil take away the diademe, & take of the crowne: this shalbe no more the same: I wil exalt the humble, and wil abase him that is high.

26 I wil ouerturne, ouerturne, ouerturne it, and it shalbe no more vntil he y come, whose right it is, and I wil giue it him.

27 ¶ And thou, sonne of man, prophesie, and say, Thus saith the Lord God to the children of Ammon, and to their blasphemie: say thou, I say, The sworde, the sworde is drawe forthe, & fourbished to the slaughter, to consume, because of the glittering.

28 Whiles they feare of vanitie vnto thee, and prophesied a lye vnto thee to bring thee vpon the neckes of the wicked that are slaine, whose day is come when their iniquitie shal haue an end.

29 Shal I cause it to returne into his sheath? I wil iudge thee in the place where thou wast created, euen in the land of thine habitation.

30 And I wil powre out mine indignacion vpon thee, & wil blowe against thee in the fyre of my wrath, & deliuer thee into the hand of beastlie men, & skilful to destroy.

31 Thou shalt be in fyre to be deuoured: thy blood shalbe in the middes of the lad and thou shalt be no more remembered: for I the Lord haue spoken it.

Because there was a league betwene Jewes, and the Babylonians, they of Ierusalem shal thinke nothing lesse then that this thing shulde come to passe. That is, Nebuchad-nezzar wil remember the rebellion of Zedekiah, and so come vpon them.

Meaning, Zedekiah, who practised with the Egyptians to make him self king, and able to resist the Babylonians.

Some referre this to the Priests attire: for Iehozadak the Priest wet into captiuitie with the King.

That is, vnto the coming of Mesiach: for though Jewes had some signe of gouernement after ward vnder the Persians, Grekes, and Romans, yet this restitution was not eil Christs coming, and at length shulde be accomplished, as was promised, Gen. 49.10

18 Sonne of man, the house of Israël is vnto me as k drosse: all they are brasse, & tynne, and yron, and lead in the middes of the furnace: thei are euen the drosse of siluer.

19 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God, Because ye are all as drosse, beholde, therefore I wil gather you in the middes of Ierusalem.

20 As they gather siluer and brasse, & yron, and lead, & tynne into the middes of the furnace, to blowe the fyre vpon it to melt it, so wil I gather you in mine angre and in my wrath, and wil put you there l & melt you.

l Meaning hereby, that the godlie shal be tryed and the wicked destroyed.

21 I wil gather you, I say, and blowe the fyre of my wrath vpon you, and you shal be melted in the middes thereof.

22 As siluer is melted in the middes of the furnace, so shal ye be melted in the middes thereof, and ye shal knowe, that I the Lord haue powred out my wrath vpon you.

30 And I fought for a man among them, that shulde q make vp the hedge, & stand in the gap before me for the land, that I shulde not destroy it, but I founde none.

q Which wolde shewe him self zealous in my cause by resisting vice, Iia 59. 16 & 63 5. & alio pray vnto me to withhold my plagues, Psal 106. 24.

31 Therefore haue I powred out mine indignacion vpon them, & consumed them with the fyre of my wrath: their owne waies haue I rendred vpon their heads, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXIII.

Of the idolatrie of Samaria and Ierusalem, vnder the names of Aholã and Obolibã.

1 The worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, there were two women, Qqq.i.

a Meaning, I. rih & tudáh, which came bothe out of one familie b They occame idolaters after the maner of the Egyptiás

c Aholáh signifieth a mansión or dwelling in her self, meaning Samaria which was the royal cite of Israél: and Aholibáh, signifieth my mansión in her, whereby is mént Ierusalém where Gods Temple was d When the Israélites were named the people of God, they became idolaters and forsoke God, and put their trust in the Assyrians.

e The holy Ghost vseth these termes w^{ch} seme strange to chaste eares to cause this wicked vice of idolatry to be abhorred & vnnerth any shulde abyde to heare y^e name thereof mentioned.

f Meaning, the Assyrians.

g This declareth y^e no wordes are able sufficiently to expresse the rage of idolaters, & there fore the holy Ghost here compareth them to those which in their raging loue & fleshy lustes dote vpon the images & paintings of the after whom they lust.

And they committed fornicacion^b in Egypt, they committed fornicacion in their youth: there were their breasts pressed, & there they bruised the teates of their virginitie.

And the names of^c them were Aholáh, the elder, and Aholibáh her sister: & they were mine, and they bare sonnes and daughters: thus were their names. Samaria is Aholáh, and Ierusalém Aholibáh.

And Aholáh plaid the harlot^d when she was mine, and she was set on fyre with her louers, to wit, with the Assyrians her neighbours,

Which were clothed with blewes like, both the captaines & princes: they were all pleasant yong men, & horsemen riding vpon horses.

Thus she committed her whoredome with them, euen with all them that were the chosen men of Asshúr, and with all on whome she doted, & defiled her self with all their idoles.

Nether left she her fornicaciõs, learned of the Egyptiás: for in her youth they laye with her, & they bruised the breasts of her virginitie, and powred their whoredome vpon her.

Wherefore I deliuered her into the hands of her louers, euen into the hands of the Assyrians, vpon whome she doted.

These discouered her shame: they toke away her sonnes & her daughters, & slewe her with the sworde, & she had an euil name among women: for they had executed iudgement vpon her.

And when her sister Aholibáh sawe this, she marred her self with inordinate loue, more then she, and with her fornicacions more then her sister with her fornicaciõs.

She doted vpon the Assyrians her neighbours, both the captaines and princes clothed with diuers futes, horsemen riding vpon horses: they were all pleasant yong men.

Then I sawe, that she was defiled, and that they were bothe after one sorte,

And that she encreased her fornicacions: for when she sawe men painted vpon the wall, the images of the Caldeans painted with vermilion,

And girded with girdles vpon their loynes, and with dyed attyre vpon their heads (loking all like princes after the maner of the Babylonians in Caldea, y^e land of their natiuitie)

Asone, I say, as she sawe them, she doted vpon them, & sent messengers vnto them into Caldea.

Now when the Babylonians came to her into the bed of loue, they defiled her with their fornicacion, & she was polluted with them, and her lust departed from them.

18 So she discouered her fornicacion, & disclosed her shame: then mine heart forsoke her, like as mine heart had forsakē her sister 19 Yet, she encreased her whoredome more, & called to remembrance the dayes of her youth, wherein she had plaid the harlot in the land of Egypt.

20 For she doted vpon their seruants whose membres are as the membres of asses, and whose yssue is like the yssue of horses.

21 Thou calledst to remembrance the wickednes of thy youth, when thy teates were bruised by the Egyptians: therefore y^e pappe of thy youth are thus.

22 Therefore, o Aholibáh, thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil raise vp thy louers against thee, from whome thine heart is departed, and I wil bring them against thee on euery side, 23 To wit, the Babylonians, and all the Caldeans, Peked, and Shoáh, and Kóá, & all the Assyrians with thé: they were all pleasant yong men, captaines and princes: all they were valiant & renoumed, riding vpon hoises.

24 Euen these shal come against thee with charettes, waggens, and wheles, and with a multitude of people, which shal set against thee, buckler & shield, and helmet rounde aboute: and I wil leaue the punishment vnto them, & they shal iudge thee according to their iudgements.

25 And I wil lay mine indignation vpon thee, and they shal deale cruelly with thee: they shal cut of thy nose and thine eares, and thy remnant shal fall by the sworde: they shal cary away thy sonnes and thy daughters, and thy residue shal be deuoued by the fyre.

26 They shal also strippe thee out of thy clothes, and take away thy faire iewels.

27 Thus wil I make thy wickednes to cease from thee and thy fornicacion out of the land of Egypt: so that thou shalt not lift vp thine eyes vnto them, nor remember Egypt any more.

28 For thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil deliuer thee into the hand of them, whome thou hatest: euen into the hands of them fro whome thine heart is departed.

29 And they shal handle thee dispitefully, and shal take away all thy labour, & shal leaue thee naked and bare, and the shame of thy fornicaciõs shal be discouered, both thy wickednes, and thy whoredome.

30 I wil do these things vnto thee, because thou hast gone a whoring after the heathē, & because y^e art polluted with their idoles.

31 Thou hast walked in y^e way of thy sister: therefore wil I giue her cup into thine hand

32 Thus saith the Lord God, Thou shalt drinke of thy sisters cup, depe and large: thou shalt be laughed to scoone & had in derision, h These were the names of certeine princes & captaines vnder Nebuchad-nezzár

i I wil giue iudgement before them

j They shal destroy thy princes and Priests with the rest of thy people.

k All thy treasures & riches which thou hast gotten by labour l All the world shal see thy shameful forsaking of God to serue idoles.

m I wil execute the same iudgements & vengeance against thee, & y^e with greater severity.

33 Thou shalt be filled with drunkenes & sorowe, euen with the cup of destruction, and desolation, with the cup of thy sister Samaria.

34 Thou shalt euen drinke it, and wing it out to the drugges, & thou shalt breake the sherdes thereof, & teare thine owne breastes: for I haue spokē it, saith y Lord God.

35 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast forgotten me, and cast me behind thy backe, therefore thou shalt also beare thy wickednes & thy whoredome.

36 ¶ The Lord said moreouer vnto me, Sonne of man, wilt thou iudge Aholah & Aholibah? and wilt thou declare to them their abominations?

37 For they haue played the whores, and blood is in their hands, and with their idoles haue they committed adultery, and haue also caused their sonnes, whome they bare vnto me, to passe by the fyre to be their meat.

o That is, to be sacrifices to their idoles, read Chap. 16, 20.

38 Moreouer thus haue they done vnto me: they haue defiled my sanctuarie in the same day, & haue prophaned my Sabbaths.

39 For when they had slaine their children to their idoles, they came the same day into my Sanctuarie to defile it: and lo, thus haue they done in y middes of mine house.

p They sent into other countries to haue such as should teache the seruice of their idoles.

40 And how muche more is that they sent for men to come from farre vnto whome a messenger was sent, & lo, they came: for whome thou didest wash thy self, and painted thine eyes, & deckedst thee with ornaments, q He meaneth the altar, that was prepared for the idoles

41 And satest vpon a costlie bed, and a table prepared before it, whereupon thou hast set mine incense and mine oyle.

42 And a voyce of a multitude being at ease, was with her: and with the men to make the companie great were brought men of Sabah from the wildernes, which put bracelets vpon their hands, and beautiful crownes vpon their heads.

r Which shuld teache the maner of worshipping their gods.

43 Then I said vnto her, that was olde in adulteries, Now shal she and her fornications come to an end.

44 And they went in vnto her as they go to a comune harlot: so wet they to Aholah and Aholibah the wicked women.

s That is, why death, read Chap 16, 38.

45 And the righteous men they shal iudge them, after the maner of harlotes, and after the maner of murderers: for they are harlotes, and blood is in their hands.

46 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, I wil bring a multitude vpon them, and wil giue them vnto the tumulte, and to the spoyle, 47 And the multitude shal stone them with stones, and cut them with their swords: they shal slay their sonnes, and their daughters, & burne vp their houses with fyre.

48 Thus wil I cause wickednes to cease out of the lad, that all women may be taught not to do after your wickednes.

t Meaning, all other cities, & countries.

49 And they shal lay your wickednes vpō you, and ye shal beare the finnes of your idoles, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord God.

CHAP. XLIIII.

¶ He sheweth the destruction of Ierusalem by a parable of a seething pot. 16 The parable of Ezekiels wife being dead.

1 A Gaine in the ninth yere, in the tenth moneth, in the tenth day of the month came the worde of the Lord vnto me, saying, a Of Ieconiads captiuitie, and of the reigne of Zedeiah, 2 King 25, 1 b Called Tebeth, which containeth parte of December and parte of Ianuarie: in which moneth and day Nebuchad-nezzar besieged Ierusalem

2 Sonne of man, write thee the name of the day, euen of this same day: for the King of Babel set him self against Ierusalem this same day.

c Whereby was meut Ierusalem

3 Therefore speake a parable vnto y rebellious house, and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Prepare a pot, prepare it, and also power water into it.

d That is, the citizens, & the chief men thereof

4 Gather the pieces thereof into it, euen euerie good piece, as the thigh and the shuldre, & fill it with the chief bones.

5 Take one of the best shepe, and burne also the bones vnder it, & make it boyle wel, and sethe the bones of it therein, e Or, he is the meaning, of the innocents, whome they had slaine, who were the cause of the kindeling of Gods wrath against them

6 Because the Lord God saith thus, Wo to the bloodie citie, euen to the pot, whose skome is therein, and whose skome is not gone out of it: bring it out piece by piece: let no lot fall vpon it.

f Whose iniquities, & wicked citizens there yet remaine

7 For her blood is in the middes of her: she set it vpon an high rocke, and powred it not vpon the grounde to couer it w dust, g Signifying, that they shuld not be destroyed all at once, but by litle & litle

8 That it might cause wrath to arise, & take vengeance: euen I haue set her blood vpon an high rocke y it shulde not be couered.

h Spare none state or condition.

9 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Wo to the bloodie citie, for I wil make the burning great.

i The citie shewed her cruelte to all the worlde, & was not ashamed thereof, neither yet hid it

Nah. 3, 1.

11 Then set it emptie vpon the coles thereof, that the brasse of it may be hot, and may burne, and that the filthines of it may be molten in it, and that the skome of it may be consumed.

12 She hath wearied her self with lies, & her great skome went not out of her: therefore her skome shalbe consumed with fyre.

k Meaning, y the citie shal be utterly destroyed, and that he wolde giue the enemies an appetite thereunto.

13 Thou remainest in thy filthines & wickednes: because I wolde haue purged thee, and thou wast not purged, thou shalt not be purged fro thy filthines, til I haue caused my wrath to light vpon thee.

l Or, become

14 I the Lord haue spoken it: it shal come to passe, and I wil do it: I wil not go backe, nether wil I spare, nether wil I repent:

according to thy wayes, and according to thy workes shal they iudge thee, saith the Lord God.

15 ¶ Also the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

16 Sonne of man, beholde, I take away frõ thee the^o pleasure of thine eyes with a plague: yet shalt thou nether mourne nor wepe, nether shalt thy teares runne downe.

^c Meaning, this wife in whom he desired, as ver. 16.

17 Cease from sighing: make no mourning for the dead, & binde the tyre of thine head vpon thee, & put on thy shoes vpon thy fete, & couer not thy lippes, and eat not the bread of men.

^p For in mourning they went bare headed and bare footed, and also couered their lippes.

18 So I spake vnto the people in the morning, and at euen my wife dyed: and I did in the morning, as I was commanded.

^q That is, by the neighbour sent to them by mourning.
^r Meaning, the morning following.

19 And the people said vnto me, Wilt thou not tel vs what these things meane toward vs, that thou doest so?

20 Then I answered them, The worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying, ^f By sending the Gileadites to destroy it, as Chap 7. 22. Wherein you boast and delight.

21 Speake vnto the house of Israël, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil pollute my Sanctuarie, euen the pride of your power, the pleasure of your eyes, and your hearts desire, & your sonnes, & your daughters whome ye haue left, shal fall by the sworde.

22 And ye shal do as I haue done: ye shal not couer your lippes, nether shal ye eat the bread of men.

23 And your tyre shalbe vpon your heads, & your shoes vpon your fete: ye shal not mourne nor wepe, but ye shal pine away for your iniquities, & mourne one toward another.

24 Thus Ezekiel is vnto you a signe: according to all that he hath done, ye shal do: and when this cometh, ye shal knowe that I am the Lord God.

25 Also, thou sonne of man, shal it not be in the day when I take from the their power, the ioye of their honour, the pleasure of their eyes, and the desire of their heart, their sonnes and their daughters?

26 That he that escapeth in that day, shal come vnto thee to tel thee that which he hath heard with his eares?

27 In that day shal thy mouth be opened to him which is escaped, and thou shalt speake, and be no more domme, and thou shalt be a signe vnto them, and they shal knowe that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXV.

^v The words of the Lord against Ammon, which reioyced at the fall of Ierusalem. ^w Against Moab and Seir, Admon and the Philistims.

1 The worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against the Ammonites, and prophetic againt them,

3 And say vnto the Ammonites, Hearc the worde of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thou saydest, Ha, ha, againt my Sanctuarie, when it was polluted, and againt the land of Israël, when it was desolate, and againt the house of Iudáh, when they went into captiuitie,

^a Because ye reioyced when the enemy destroyed my citie and temple.

4 Beholde, therefore I wil deliuer thee to the East for a possession, and they shal set their palaces in thee, and make their dwellings in thee: they shal eat thy frute, and they shal drinke thy milke.

^b That is, to the Babylonians.
^c They shal chase thee away and take thy gorgeous houses to dwell in.
^d Called also Philadelphus, which was the chief citie of the Ammonites and full of conductes. 2 Sam. 12. 27.

5 And I wil make Rabbáh a dwelling place for camels, and the Ammonites a shep-cote, & ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

6 For thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast clapped the hands, and stamped with the fete, and reioyced in heart with all thy despite againt the land of Israël,

7 Beholde, therefore I wil stretche out mine hand vpon thee, and wil deliuer thee to be spoiled of the heathen, & I wil roote thee out from the people, and I wil cause thee to be destroyed out of the countreis. I wil destroye thee, & thou shalt knowe that I am the Lord.

8 Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Moáb and Seir do say, Beholde, the house of Iudáh is like vnto all the heathen, 9 Therefore, beholde, I wil open the side of Moáb, euen of the cities of his cities, I say, in his frontiers with the pleasant countrey, Beth-ieshimóth, Báal-meon, and Kariatháim.

^e So that no power or strength shulde be able to resist the Babylonians.

10 I wil call the men of the East againt the Ammonites, and wil giue them in possession, so that the Ammonites shal no moie be remembred among the nations, 11 And I wil execute iudgements vpon Moáb, & they shal knowe I am the Lord.

12 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Edóm hath done euil by taking vengeance vpon the house of Iudáh, and hath committed great offence, and reuenged himself vpon them, 13 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I wil also stretche out mine hand vpon Edóm, and destroye man, and beast out of it, and I wil make it desolate frõ Teman, and they of Dedán shal fall by the sworde.

14 And I wil execute my vengeance vpon Edóm by the hand of my people Israël, & they shal do in Edóm according to mine angre, and according to mine indignatiõ, and they shal knowe my vengeance, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus saith the Lord God, Because the Philistims haue executed vengeance, and reuenged the selues with a despiteful heart, to destroye it for the olde hatred, ^f Which were certaine garisons of Philistims, whereby they oft times molested the Iewes of Cherethims. Daud also had a garison. 2. Sam. 8. 8.

16 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil stretche out mine hand vpon the Philistims, & I wil cut of the Cherethims, & destroye the remnant of the sea coast.

17 And I wil execute great vengeance vpon the with rebukes of mine indignation, & thei shal knowe that I am the Lord, when I shal laie my vengeance vpon them.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 He prophesieth that Tyrus shalbe ouerthrowen because se is rauaged at the destruction of Ierusalém. 15 The wondrous and astonishment of the marchantes for the destruction of Tyrus.

a Beher of the caperitate of Icebniáh, or of the reigne of Zedekiah

And in the eleuenth yere, in the first daie of the moneth, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying, b That is, the famous citie Ierusalém, whereunto all people resorted

2 Sonne of man, because that Tyrus hath said against Ierusalém, A ha, the gate of the people is broken: it is turned vnto me: for seing she is desolate, I shalbe replenished, c My riches & fame that increase: thus y nicked reioyce at their fall by whome they maie haue any profite or aduantage.

3 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come against thee, O Tyrus, and I wil bring vp manie nations against thee, as the sea mounteth vp with his waues.

d The towres that belonged vnto her.

4 And thei shal deströie the walles of Tyrus & breake downe her towers: I wil also scrape her dust from her, and make her like the toppe of a rocke.

5 Thou shalt be for the spreading of nettes in the middes of the sea: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God, and it shalbe a spoyle to the nations.

6 And her daughters which are in the fielde, shalbe slaine by the sworde, and thei shal knowe that I am the Lord.

7 For thus saith the Lord God, beholde, I wil bring vpon Tyrus Nebuchad-nezzár King of Babel, a King of Kings from the North, with horses and with charets, and with horsemen, with a multitude and muche people.

8 He shal slae with the sworde thy daughters in the fielde, and he shal make a forte against thee, and cast a mount against thee, and lift vp the buckler against thee.

9 He shal set engines of warre before him against thy walles, and with his weapons breake downe thy towres.

10 The dust of his horses shal couer thee, for their multitude: thy walles shal shake at the noise of the horsemen, and of the wheles, & of the charets, whē he shal entre into thy gates as into the entrie of a citie that is broken downe.

11 With y houes of his horses shal he tread downe all thy stretes: he shal slae thy people by the sworde, and the pillars of thy strength shal fall downe to the grounde.

e For Tyrus was muche buylt by art, and by labour of men was wone out of y sea Some referre this vnto y images of the noble men & thei had erected vp for their glorie and reuenance here 7. 35.

12 And thei shal robbe thy riches and spoile thy marchandise, and thei shal breake downe thy walles, and deströie thy pleasant houses, and thei shal cast thy stones and thy timbre and thy dust into the middes of the water.

13 Thus wil I cause y sounde of thy songs to cease, and the sounde of thine harpes shalbe no more heard.

14 I will laie thee like the toppe of a rocke: thou shalt be for a spreading of nettes: thou shalt be buylt no more: for I the Lord haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

f I wil make thee so bare y thou shalt haue nothing to couer thee.

15 Thus saith the Lord God to Tyrus, Shal not the yles tremble at the sounde of thy fall: and at the crye of the wounded, when thei shalbe slaine and murdered in the middes of thee?

16 Then all y princes of the sea shal come downe from their thrones: thei shal laie awaye their robes, & put of their broyred garments, and shal clothe them selues with astonishment: thei shal sit vpon the grounde, and be astonished at euerie moment, and be amased at thee.

g The gouernours and rulers of other countreyes y dwell by the sea: whereby he significeth her destruction shulde be so horrible, y all y worlde shulde heare thereof and be afrayed

17 And thei shal take vp a lamentacion for thee, and saie to thee, How art thou destroyed, that wast inhabited of y seamen, the renowned citie which was sit in the sea, bothe she & her inhabitants, which cause their feare to be on all y haunt therein!

h Meaning, marchantes y by their traffique did enriche her wonderfully and increase her power.

18 Now shal the yles be astonished in the daie of thy fall: yea, the yles that are in the sea, shalbe troubled at thy departur.

19 For thus saith the Lord God, Whē I shal make thee a desolate citie, like the cities that are not inhabited, & whē I shal bring the deape vpon thee, and great waters shal couer thee,

20 When I shal cast thee downe with them that descende into the pit, with the people of olde time, and shal set thee in the lowe partes of the earth, like the olde ruines, w them, I say, which go downe to the pit, so that thou shalt not be inhabited, and I shal shewe my glorie in the lād of the liuing, i Which are dead long ago.

21 I wil bring thee to nothing, and thou shalt be no more: thogh thou be sought for, yet shalt thou neuer be founde againe, saith the Lord God.

k Meaning, in Iudea, when it shal be restored.

2 The worde of God against the King of Tyrus for his pride. 21 The worde of the Lord against Zidon. 25 The Lord promiseth that he wil gather together the children of Israel.

1 The worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of mā, say vnto y prince of Tyrus, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thine heart is exalted, and thou hast said, I am a god, I sit in the seat of God in the middes of the sea, yet thou art but a man and not God, & thogh thou didest thinke in thine

4 With thy wisdom and thine vnderstanding thou hast gotten thee riches, and hast gotten gold and siluer into thy treasures.

5 By thy great wisdom and by thine occupying hast thou increased thy riches, and thine heart is lifted up because of thy riches.

6 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because thou didst thinke in thine heart, that thou wast equal with God, 7 Beholde, therefore I will bring strangers vpon thee, euen the terrible nacions: and they shall draw their swordes against the beautie of thy wisdom, and they shall defile thy brightnes.

8 They shall cast thee downe to the pit, and thou shalt dye the death of them, that are slaine in the middes of the sea.

9 Wilt thou say them before him, y slaieth thee, I am a god: but thou shalt be a man, and no God, in the hands of him that slaieth thee.

c Like y rest of y heathen and infidels, are Gods enemies.

10 Thou shalt dye the death of the vncircumcised by the hands of strangers: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

11 Moreouer the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

12 Sonne of man, take vp a lamentacion vpon the King of Tyrus, and say vnto him, Thus saith the Lord God, Thou sealest vp the summe, & art full of wisdom and perfic in beautie.

d He derideth the vaine opinion and confidence that Tyrians had in their riches strength and pleasures

13 Thou hast bene in Eden y garde of God: euerie precious stone was in thy garment. y rubie, y topaze & the diamód, y chrysolite, y onix, & the iasper, y saphir, emeraud, & the carbúcle & golde: y worke manship of thy timbrels, & of thy pipes was prepared in thee in the day that y wast created.

e He meaneth y royal state of Tyrus, for the excellencie and glorie thereof he compareth to y Cherubims 14 Thou art the anointed Cherúb, that couereth, and I haue set thee in honour: thou wast vpon y holy mountaine of God: y hast walked in y middes of the stones of fyre.

f He covered y Arke: and by this word he signifieth the same f I did thee this honour to make thee one of the buylders of my Tēple, which was when Hiram sent vnto Salomon things necessary for the worke 15 Thou wast perfic in thy waies from the day that thou wast created, til iniquitie was founde in thee.

g To wit, among my people Israel, which I haue as precious stones

16 By the multitude of thy marchandise, they haue filled the middes of thee with cueltie, and thou hast sinned: therefore I wil cast thee as prophane out of y mountaine of God: & I wil destroy thee, & couering Cherúb from the middes of the stones of fyre.

h Thou shalt haue no parte among my people

17 Thine heart was lifted up because of thy beautie, & thou hast corrupted thy wisdom by reason of thy brightnes: I wil cast thee to the grounde: I wil lay thee before Kings that they may beholde thee.

k That is, the honour, when I first called thee to this dignitie

18 Thou hast defiled thy sanctification by y multitude of thine iniquities, & by the iniquitie of thy marchandise: therefore wil I bring forthe a fyre fro y middes of thee, which shall deuoure thee: & I wil bring them to ashes vpon the earth, in the sight of all them that beholde thee.

19 All they y knowe thee among the people, shall be astonished at thee: thou shalt be a terrour, & neuer shalt thou be any more.

20 Againe, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

21 Sonne of man, set thy face against Zidón, and propheticie against it,

22 And say, Thus saith y Lord God, Beholde, I come against thee, o Zidón, & I wil be glorified in y middes of thee: & they shall knowe that I am the Lord, when I shall haue executed iudgements in her, and shall be sanctified in her.

23 For I wil send into her pestilēce & blood into her stretes, and the slaine shall fall in y middes of her: the enemies shall come against her with the sworde on euerie side, & they shall knowe that I am the Lord.

m That is, Nabuchadnezar

24 And they shall be no more a pricking thorne vnto y house of Israel, nor any grieuous thorne of all that are rounde about them, and despised they, and they shall knowe that I am the Lord God.

25 Thus saith y Lord God, Whē I shall haue gathered y house of Israel fro y people where they are scattred, & shall be sanctified in them in the sight of the heathen, then shall they dwell in the land, that I haue giuen to my seruant Iakób.

n He sheweth for what cause God wil assemble his Church, and preserve it: though he destroy his enemies: to wit, y they shuld praise him, & give thanks for his great mercies.

26 And they shall dwell safely therein, & shall buyld houses, & plant vineyardes: yea, they shall dwell safely, whē I haue executed iudgements vpon all rounde about them y despise them, & they shall knowe y I am y Lord their God.

CHAP. XXXIX.

He propheticie against Pharaoh and Egypt. 13 The Lord promiseth that he wil restore Egypt after foure ieres. 18 Egypt is the reward of King Nebuchadnezzar for the labours, which he toke against Tyrus.

1 In the tenth yere, & in y tenth moneth in the twelfth day of the moneth, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying, a To wit, of y captiuitie of Ieconiah of the reigne of Z. deuiath

2 Sonne of mā, set thy face against Pharaoh the King of Egypt, and propheticie against him, and against all Egypt.

b Of the order of these propheticies and how the first some time standeth after the latter, read Iere. 27.

3 Speake, & say, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come against thee, Pharaoh King of Egypt, y great dragō, that lieth in the middes of his riuers, w hathe said, The riuer is mine, & I haue made it for my self.

c He comparereth Pharaoh to a dragon which hideth himself in the riuer Nilus, as Isa 51.9

4 But I wil put hokes in thy chawes, & I wil cause y fish of thy riuers to sticke vnto thy scales, & I wil drawe thee out of the middes of thy riuers, & all the fish of thy riuers shall sticke vnto thy scales.

d I wil send enemies against thee, which shall plucke thee & thy people which trust in thee out of thy fast places.

5 And I wil leaue thee in y wildernes, bothe thee & all the fish of thy riuers: y shalt fall vpon the open field: y shalt not be broght together, nor gathered: for I haue giuen thee for meat to y beastes of the field, and to the foules of the heauen.

d Read. King 18, 21. Isa 36, 6.

Or, shake. e When thei felch their hurt, thei wolde say no more vpon thee, but stode vpon their feete and put their trust in others. f Thus God can not suffer that man shulde arrogat any thing to him self, or put his trust in any thing saue in him alone. g Ebr Cassa, or Ethiopia.

Ierem. 46, 26

g Meaning, f thei shuld not haue ful dominion, but be vnder the Persians, Grecians and Romans, and the cause is, that the Israclites shulde no more put their trust in them, but learne to depend on God. h Let I shulde by this meanes punish their bones. i Counting fro the captiuitie of Ieconiah.

h He toke great paines at the siege of Tyrus and his armie was sore handled. i Signifying f Nebuchadnezzar had more paines then profite, by the taking of Tyrus.

6 And all y inhabitants of Egypt shal knowe that I am the Lord, because thei haue bene a staffe of reed to the house of Israél.

7 When thei toke holde of thee with their hand, thou didest breake, and rent all their shulder: and when thei leaped vpon thee, thou brakest and madest all their loines to stand vpright.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil bring a sworde vpon thee, and destroy man and beast out of thee,

9 And the land of Egypt shalbe desolate, & wastle, and thei shal knowe that I am the Lord: because he hath said, The riuer is mine, and I haue made it,

10 Beholde, therefore I come vpon thee, and vpon thy riuers, and I wil make the land of Egypt vterly wastle and desolate from the towre of Seuénéh, euen vnto the borders of the blacke Mores.

11 No foote of mā shal passe by it, nor foote of beast shal passe by it, nether shal it be inhabited fourtie yeres.

12 And I wil make the land of Egypt desolate in the middes of the countreis, that are desolate, and her cities shalbe desolate amög the cities that are desolate, for fourtie yeres: and I wil scattre the Egyptians among the nacions, and wil disperse them through the countreis.

13 Yet thus saith y Lord God, At the end of fourtie yeres wil I gather the Egyptiās fro the people, where thei were scattred, 14 And I wil bring againe the captiuitie of Egypt, and wil cause them to returne into the land of Pathrós, into the land of their habitation, and thei shal be there a small kingdome.

15 It shalbe the smallest of the kingdomes, nether shal it exalt it self any more aboute the nacions: for I wil diminish them, that thei shal no more rule the nacions.

16 And it shal be no more the confidence of the house of Israél, to bring their iniquitie to remembrance by loking after them, so shal thei knowe, that I am y Lord God.

17 ¶ In the seuen and twentieth yere also in the first moneth, & in y first day of the moneth came the worde of the Lord vnto me, saying,

18 Sonne of man, Nebuchad-nezzár King of Babél caused his armie to serue a great seruice agáist Tyrus: euerie head was made balde, and euerie shulder was made bare: yet had he no wages, nor his armie for Tyrus, for the seruice that he serued agáinst it.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil giue the land of Egypt vnto Nebuchad-nezzár the King of Babél, and he shal take her multitude, and spoile her spoile, and take her pray, and it shal be the wages for his armie.

20 I haue giuen him the land of Egypt for his labour, that he serued agáinst it, because thei wrought for me.

21 In that day wil I cause the horne of the house of Israél to growe, and I wil giue thee an open mouth in the middes of the, and thei shal knowe that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXX.

The destruction of Egypt & the cities thereof.

The worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, prophecie, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Houle & crye, Wo be vnto this day.

3 For the day is nere, and the day of y Lord is at hand, a cloudie day, and it shalbe the time of the heathen.

4 And the sworde shal come vpon Egypt, and feare shalbe in Ethiopia, whé the staine shal fall in Egypt, when thei shal take away her multitude, and when her fundacions shalbe broken downe.

5 a Ethiopie, and Phut, & Lud, and all the commone people, and Cub, and the mē of the land, that is in league, shal fall with them by the sworde.

6 Thus saith y Lord, Thei also that mainteine Egypt, shal fall, and the pride of her power shal come downe from the towre of Seuénéh shal thei fall by y sworde, saith the Lord God.

7 And thei shalbe desolate in the middes of the countreis that are desolate, and her cities shalbe in y middes of the cities that are wasted.

8 And thei shal knowe that I am the Lord, when I haue set a fyre in Egypt, and when all her helpers shalbe destroyed.

9 In that day shal their messengers goe forth from me in shippes, to make the cares Mores afraid, and feare shal come vpo them, as in the day of Egypt: for lo, it cometh.

10 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil also make the multitude of Egypt to cease by the had of Nebuchad-nezzár King of Babél.

11 For he and his people with him, euen the terrible nacions shal be broght to destroy the land: and thei shal drawe their swordes agáinst Egypt, & fil the land with y slaine.

12 And I wil make the riuers drye, and sel the land into the hands of the wicked, and I wil make the land wastle, and all that therein is by the hands of strangers: I the Lord haue spoken it.

13 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil also destroy the idoles, and I wil cause their idoles to cease out of Noph, and there shal be no more a prince of the land of Egypt, & I wil send a feare in the land of Egypt.

14 And I wil make Pathrós desolate, & wil set fyre in Zóan, and I wil execute iudgement in No.

24 And I wil strengthen the arme of the King of Babel, and put my sworde in his hand, but I wil breake Pharaohs armes, & he shal cast out sighings as the sighings of him, that is wounded before him.

^{i A comparison of the prosperitie of Pharaoh with the prosperitie of the Assyrians 10 He prophesieth a like destruction to them bothe.}

^{a Of Zedekiah's reigne or of Ieremias captiuitie.} 1 And in the a eleuenth yere, in y third moneth, & in the first day of the moneth the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

^{b Meaning, that he was not like in strength to the King of the Assyrians, whome the Babylonians ouer-came.} 2 Sonne of man, speake vnto Pharaoh King of Egypt, and to his multitude, Whome art thou b like in thy greatnes?

3 Beholde, Asshur was like a cedre in Lebanon with faire branches, and with thicke shadowing boughes, and shot vp verie hie, and his top was amog the thicke boughes.

4 The waters nourished him, and the depe exalted him on hie with her riuers rining rounde about his plants, and sent out her e litle riuers vnto all the trees of the field.

5 Therefore his height was exalted about all the trees of the field, & his boughes were multiplied, and his branches were long, because of the multitude of the waters, which the depe sent out.

6 All the foules of the heauen made their nests in his boughes, and vnder his branches did all the beasts of the field bring forthe their yong, and vnder his shadow dwelt all mightie nacions.

7 Thus was he faire in his greatnes, and in the length of his branches: for his roote was neie great waters.

8 The cedies in the garden d of God colde not hide him: no fine tre was like his branches, and the cheffenut trees were not like his boughes: all the trees in the garden of God were not like vnto him in his beautie.

9 I made him faie by the multitude of his branches: so that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God, enuid him.

10 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because o he is lift vp on high, and hath shot vp his toppe among the thicke boughes, & his heart is lift vp in his height, 11 I haue therefore deliuered him into the hands of the e mightiest among the heathen: he shal handle him, for I haue cast him away for his wickednes.

12 And the strangers haue destroyed him, euen the terrible nacions, and they haue left him vpon the mountaines, and in the valleys his branches are fallen, & his boughes are f broken by all the riuers of the land: and all the people of the earth are departed from his shaddowe, and haue forsaken him.

13 Vpon his ruine shal all the foules of the heauen remaine, and all the beasts of the field shalbe vpon his branches, 14 So that none of all the trees by the waters shal be exalted by their height, nether shal shoote vp their toppe amog the thicke boughes, nether shal their leaues stand vp in their height, which drinke so muche water: for they are all deliuered vnto death in the nether partes of the earth in the middes of the children of men among thē that go downe to the pit.

15 Thus saith the Lord God, In the daye when he went downe to hel, I caused them to mourne, & I e couered y depe for him, and I did restreine the floods thereof, and the great waters were staid: I caused Lebanon to mourne for him, and all the trees of the field fainted.

16 I made the naciōs to shake at the sounde of his fall, when I cast him downe to hell,

^{c Many other nations were vnder their dominion d, ces. 17.}

2 This Prophet is commanded to bewaile Pharaoh King of Egypt. 12 The prophecies that deſtruction ſhal come vnto Egypt through the King of Babylon.

1 And in y twelfth yere in the twelfth moneth, & in the firſt day of the moneth, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, ſaying,

2 Sonne of man, take vp a lamentation for Pharaoh King of Egypt, & ſay vnto him, Thou art like a lyon of the nations & art as a dragon in the ſea: thou caſteſt out thy riuers & troubleſt the waters with thy fete, and ſtampeſt in their riuers.

3 Thus ſaith the Lord God, * I wil therefore ſpread my net ouer thee with a great multitude of people, & they ſhal make thee come vp into my net.

4 Then wil I leaue thee vpon the land, & I wil caſt thee vpon the open field, & I wil cauſe all the foules of the heauē to remaine vpon thee, and I wil fil all the beaſts of the field with thee.

5 And I wil laye thy fleſh vpon the mountaines, & fil the valleis with thine height.

6 I wil alſo water with thy blood the land, wherein thou ſwimmeſt, euen to the mountaines, and the riuers ſhal be full of thee.

7 And when I ſhal put thee out, I wil couer the heauen, and make the ſtarres the roof darke: * I wil couer the ſunne with a cloude, and the moone ſhal not giue her light.

8 All the lights of heauen wil I make darke for thee, and bring darkenes vpon thy land, ſaith the Lord God.

9 I wil alſo trouble the hearts of many people, when I ſhal bring thy deſtruction among the nations, and vpon the countreys which thou haſt not knowne.

10 Yea, I wil make many people amaſed at thee, & their Kings ſhal be aſtoniſhed with feare for thee, when I ſhal make my ſworde to glitter againſt their faces, & they ſhal be afraid at euery moment: euery man for his owne life in the day of thy fall.

11 For thus ſaith the Lord God, The ſworde of the King of Babel ſhal come vpo thee.

12 By the ſwordes of the mightie wil I cauſe thy multitude to fall: they all ſhal be terrible nations, and they ſhal deſtroye the pompe of Egypt, and all the multitude thereof ſhal be conſumed.

13 I wil deſtroye alſo all the beaſts thereof from the great watersides, nether ſhal the fote of man trouble them any more, nor the houes of beaſt trouble them.

14 Then wil I make their waters depe, and cauſe their riuers to runne like oyle, ſaith the Lord God.

15 When I ſhal make the land of Egypt deſolate, and the countrey with all that is therein, ſhal be laied waſt: when I ſhal ſmite all them, which dwell therein, then ſhal they knowe, that I am the Lord.

16 This is the mourning wherewith they ſhal lament her: the daughters of the nations ſhal lament her: they ſhal lament for Egypt, and for all her multitude, ſaith the Lord God.

17 ¶ In the twelfth yere alſo in the fifteenth day of the moneth, came the worde of the Lord vnto me, ſaying, 18 Sonne of man, lament for the multitude of Egypt, and caſt them downe, euen they and the daughters of the mightie nations vnto the nether partes of the earth, with them that go downe into the pit.

19 Whome doeſt thou paſſe in beautie? go downe and ſlepe with the vncircumciſed.

20 They ſhal fall in the middes of them that are ſlayne by y ſworde: ſhe is deliuered to the ſworde: drawe her downe, & all her multitude.

21 The moſte mighty & ſtrōg ſhal ſpeake to her out of the middes of hel with them y helpe her: they are gone downe and ſlepe with the vncircumciſed that be ſlaine by y ſworde.

CHAP. XXXIII.

The office of the gouernours and ministers. 14 He strengtheneth them that dispaire, and boldeneth them with the promes of mercie. 30 The worde of the Lord against the mockers of the Prophet.

1 A Gain, the woide of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

40r, of their conser

2 Sonne of man, speake to the children of thy people, and say vnto them, When I bring the sworde vpon a land, if the people of the land take a man from among them, and make him their watchman, a He sheweth that y people ought to haue continually gouernours & teachers w may haue a care ouer them, and to warne them euer of the dangers which are at hand.

3 If when he seeth the sworde come vpon the land, he blowe the trumpet and warne the people,

4 Then he that heareth the sounde of the trumpet, and wil not be warned, if the sworde come, & take him away, his blood shalbe vpon his owne head.

5 For he heard the sounde of the trumpet, and wolde not be admonished: therefore his blood shalbe vpon him: but he that receiuethe warning, shal saue his life.

6 But if the watchman se the sworde come, and blowe not the trumpet, and the people be not warned: if the sworde come, and take any persone from among them, he is taken away for his iniquitie, but his blood wil I require at the watchmans hand.

b Signifying y the wicked shal not escape punishment thogh y watchman be negligent. but if the watchman blowe y trumpet, and then he wil not obey, he shal deserue double punishment.

7 So thou, o sonne of man, I haue made thee a watchman vnto the house of Israél: therefore thou shalt heare the worde at my mouth, and admonishe them from me.

c Which teacheth that he y receiuethe not his charge at y Lords mouth, is a spie, and not a true watchman.

8 When I shal say vnto the wicked, O wicked man, thou shalt dye the death, if thou doe it not speake, and admonishe the wicked of his way, that wicked man shal dye for his iniquitie, but his blood wil I require at thine hand.

d The watchman must answer for the blood of all y perish through his negligēce.

9 Neuertheles, if thou warne the wicked of his way, to turne from it, if he do not turne from his way, he shal dye for his iniquitie, but thou hast deliuered thy soule.

10 Therefore, o thou sonne of man, speake vnto the house of Israél, Thus ye speake and say, If our transgressions and our sinnes be vpon vs, and we are consumed because of them, how shulde we then liue?

e Thus y wicked whē they heare Gods iudgements for their finnes, despaire of his mercies and murmur f Read Chap. 18.23.

11 Say vnto them, as I liue, saith the Lord God, I desire not the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turne from his way and liue: turne you, turne you from your euil wayes, for why wil ye dye, o ye house of Israél?

12 Therefore thou sonne of man, say vnto the children of thy people, The righteousnes of the righteous shal not deliuer him in the day of his transgression, nor the wickednes of the wicked shal cause him to fall therein, in the day that he retuine th from his wickednes, nether shal the righteous liue for his righteousnes in the day that he sinneth.

g Read of this righteousnes Chap. 18.23.

13 When I shal say vnto the righteous, that he shal surely liue, if he trust to his owne righteousnes, and commit iniquitie, all his righteousnes shalbe no more remembered, but for his iniquitie that he hath committed, he shal dye for the same.

h Hereby he condemneth all them of hypocritie, w p reet to for false wickednes & yet declare nor the selues suche by their frutes, that is, in obeying Gods commandments and by godlie life.

14 Againe when I shal say vnto the wicked, Thou shalt dye the death, if he turne from his sinne, & do that which is lawful and right,

15 To wit, if the wicked restore the pledge, and giue againe that he had robbed, and walke in the statutes of life, without committing iniquitie, he shal surely liue, and not dye.

16 None of his finnes that he hath committed, shal be mencioned vnto him: because he hath done that, which is lawfull, & right, he shal surely liue.

17 Yet the children of thy people say, * The way of the Lord is not equal: but their owne way is vnequal.

Chap. 18. 25.

18 When the righteous turneth from his righteousnes, and committeth iniquitie, he shal quenche thereby.

19 But if the wicked retorne from his wickednes, and do that which is lawfull, and right, he shal liue thereby.

20 Yet ye say, The way of the Lord is not equal. O ye house of Israel, I wil iudge you euerie one after his wayes.

Chap. 7. 24. & 24. 21. & 30. 8.

28 For I wil lay the land desolate and waste, and the pompe of her strength shal cease: and the mountaines of Israel shal be desolate, and none shal passe through.

29 Then shal they knowe that I am y^e Lord, when I haue laide the land desolate and waste, because of all their abominacions, that they haue committed.

p In derision.

30 Also thou sonne of man, the children of thy people that p talke of thee by the walles and in the dores of houses, and speake one to another, euerie one to his brother, saying, Come, I pray you, and heare what is the worde that commeth from the Lord.

31 For they come vnto thee, as the people yseth to come: and my people sit before thee, and heare thy wordes, but they wil not do them: for with their mouthes they make yestes, and their heart goeth after their couetousnes.

32 And lo, thou art vnto them, as a iesting song of one that hath a pleasant voice, and can sing wel: for they heare thy wordes, but they do them not.

33 And when this commeth to passe (for lo, it wil come) then shal they knowe, that a Prophet hath bene among them.

any more: for I wil deliuer my shepe from e their mourthes, and thei shal nomore deu-oure them.

11 For thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil serche my shepe, and seke them out.

12 As a shepherde seicheth out his flocke, when he hathe bene among his shepe that are scattered, so wil I seke out my shepe & wil deliuer them out of all places, where thei haue bene scattered in the cloude & darke daie,

13 And I wil bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countreis, and wil bring them to their owne land, and fede them vpon the mountaines of Israél, by the riuers, and in all the inhabited places of the country.

14 I wil fede the in a good pasture, and vp-on the hie mountaines of Israél shal their folde be: there shal thei lie in a good foide and in fat pasture shal thei fede vpon the mountaines of Israél.

15 I wil fede my shepe, and bring them to their rest, saith the Lord God.

16 I wil seke that which was lost, and bring again that which was driuen awaie, and wil binde vp that which was broken, and wil strengthen the weake, but I wil destroy the fat and the strong, & I wil fede them with iudgement.

17 Also you my shepe, thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I iudge betwene shepe, and shepe, betwene the rams & the goates.

18 Semeth it a smale thing vnto you to haue eaten vp the good pasture, but ye must tread downe with your fete the residue of your pasture & to haue dronke of the de-pe waters, but ye must trouble the residue with your fete?

19 And my shepe eat that which ye haue troden with your fete, and drinke that w ye haue troubled with your fete.

20 Therefore thus saith the Lord God vnto them, Beholde, I, euen I wil iudge be-twene the fat shepe and the leane shepe.

21 Because ye haue thrust with side & with shulder, and pusht all the weake with your hornes, til ye haue scattered them abroade,

22 Therefore wil I helpe my shepe, and thei shal nomore be spoiled, and I wil iudge betwene shepe and shepe.

23 And I wil set vp a shepherd ouer them, and he shal fede them, euen my seruant k Dauid, he shal fede them, and he shal be their shepherde.

24 And I the Lord wil be their God, and my seruant Dauid shal be the prince amog them. I the Lord haue spoken it.

25 And I wil make with them a couenant of peace, and wil cause the euil beastes to cease out of the land: and thei shal dwell safely in the wildeynes, and slepe in the woods.

26 And I wil seke them, as a blessing, euen rounde about my mountaine: & I wil cause raine to come downe in due season, and there shal be raine of blessing.

27 And the tre of the field shal yelde her frute, & the earth shal giue her frute, and thei shal be safe in their land, and shal knowe that I am the Lord, when I haue broken the cordes of their yoke, and deli-uered them out of the hands of those that serued them selues of them.

m The frutes of Gods graces shal appere in great abundance in his Church.

28 And thei shal nomore be spoiled of the heathen, nether shal the beastes of the land deuoure them, but thei shal dwell safely and none shal make them afiaied.

29 And I wil raise vp for them a plant of renoume, and they shal be no more consumed with hungre in the land, nether beare the reproche of the heathen anie more.

a The destruction that shal come on mount Seir, because thei troubled the people of the Lord.

1 Moreouer the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against mount Seir, and prophesie against it,

3 And saie vnto it, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, o mount Seir, I come against thee, and I wil stretche out mine hand against thee, and I wil make thee desolate and waste.

4 I wil laie thy cities waste, and thou shalt be desolate, and thou shalt knowe that I am the Lord.

5 Because thou hast had a perpetual hatred & hast put the children of Israél to flight by the force of the sworde in the time of their calamitie, when their iniquitie had an end,

b When by their punishment I called them fro their iniquitie

6 Therefore as I liue, saith the Lord God,
I wil prepare thee vnto blood, and blood shal pursue thee: except thou hate blood, euen blood shal pursue thee.

c Except thou repent thy former crueltie.

7 Thus wil I make mount Seir desolate and waste, and cut of from it him that passeth out and him that returneth.

8 And I wil fil his mountaines with his flaine men: in thine hills, and in thy valleis and in all thy iusts shal thei fall, that are flaine with the sworde.

9 I wil make thee perpetual desolatiōs, and thy cities shal not retorne, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

cions, and these two countreis shalbe mine, and we wil possesse them (seing the Lord was there)

Therefore as I liue, saith the Lord God, I wil euen do according to thy wrath, & according to thine indignatiõ which thou hast vsed in thine hatred against them: & I wil make my self known among them when I haue iudged thee.

And thou shalt knowe, that I the Lord haue heard all thy blasphemies which thou hast spoken against the mountaines of Israél, saying, Thei lye waite, thei are giuen vs to be deuoured.

Thus with your mouthes ye haue boasted against me, and haue multiplied your wordes against me: I haue heard them.

Thus saith the Lord God, So shal all the worlde reioyce when I shal make thee desolate.

As thou didest reioyce at the inheritance of the house of Israél, because it was desolate, so wil I do vnto thee: thou shalt be desolate, ô mount: Seir, & all Idumea wholly, and thei shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVI.

He promiseth to deliuer Israél from the Gentiles. The benefites done vnto the Iewes, are to be ascribed to the mercie of God, and not vnto their desertings. God reneweth our hearts, that we may walke in his commandements.

Also thou sonne of man, prophcie vnto the mountaines of Israél, and saie, Ye mountaines of Israél, heare the worde of the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord God, Because the enimie hath said against you, Aha, euen the he places of the worlde are ours in possession,

Therefore prophcie, and saie, Thus saith the Lord God, Because that they haue made you desolate, and swallowed you vp on uerie syde, that ye might be a possession vnto the residue of the heathen, and ye are come vnto the lippes & tongues of men, and vnto the reproche of the people, Therefore ye mountaines of Israél, heare the worde of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God to the mountaines and to the hilles, to the riuers, and to the valleis, and to the waste, & desolate places, and to the cities that are forsaken: which are spoiled and had in derision of the residue of the heathen that are rounde about.

Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Surely in the fyre of mine indignation haue I spoken against the residue of the heathen, and against all Idumea, which haue taken my land for their possession, with the ioye of all their heart, & with despiteful mindes to cast it out for a praie.

Prophecie therefore vpon the land of Israél, and saie vnto the mountaines, and to the hilles, to the riuers, and to the valleis, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I haue spoken in mine indignation, and in my wrath, because ye haue suffered the shame of the heathen, Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I haue lifted vp mine hand, surely the heathen that are about you, shal beare their shame.

But you, ô mountaines of Israél, ye shal shooce forth your branches, and bring forth your frute to my people of Israél: for thei are ready to come.

For beholde, I come vnto you, and I wil turne vnto you, and ye shal be tilled and sown.

And I wil multiplie the men vpon you, euen all the house of Israél wholly, & the cities shalbe inhabited, & the desolate places shalbe buylded.

And I wil multiplie vpon you man and beast, and thei shal encrease, and bring frute, and I wil cause you to dwell after your olde estate, & I wil bestowe benefites vpon you more then at the first, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

Yea, I wil cause men to walke vpon you, euen my people Israél, & thei shal possesse you, and ye shal be their inheritance, and ye shal nomore hence for the depriue the of men.

Thus saith the Lord God, Because thei saie vnto you, Thou wast deuourest vp men, and hast bene a waster of thy people, Therefore thou shalt deuoure men nomore, nether waste thy people hence forth, saith the Lord God, Nether wil I cause men to heare in thee the shame of the heathen any more, nether shalt thou beare the reproche of the people any more, nether shalt cause thy folke to fall any more, saith the Lord God.

Moreover the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

Sonne of man, when the house of Israél dwelt in their owne land, thei defiled it by their owne waies, & by their dedes: their waie was before me as the filthines of the menstruous.

Wherefore I powred my wrath vpon them, for the blood that thei had shed in the land, and for their idoles, where with thei had polluted it.

And I scattedred them among the heathen, and thei were disperfed through the countreis: for according to their waies, and according to their dedes, I iudged them.

And when thei entred vnto the heathen, whether thei wēt, thei polluted mine holy Name, when they said of them, These are the people of the Lord, and are gone out of his land.

f And so by fighting against Gods people, thei shulde go about to put him out of his owne possession g As thou hast done cruelly, so shalt thou be cruelly handled

h Shewing, when God punisheth the enimies, the godlie ought to consider that he hath care ouer them and so praie his Name: and also that the wicked rage as though there were no God, til thei felé his hand to their destruction.

22 Therefore say vnto the house of Israél, Thus saith y^e Lord God, I do not thus for your sakes, o house of Israél, but for mine holie Names sake, which ye polluted among the heathen whether ye went.

23 And I wil sanctifie my great Name, w^{ch} was polluted among the heathen, among whome you haue polluted it, & the heathen shal knowe that I am the Lord, saith the Lord God, when I shalbe sanctified in you before their eyes.

24 For I wil take you from among the heathen, and gather you out of all countreis, and wil bring you into your owne land.

25 Then wil I powre cleane water vpon you, and ye shalbe cleane: yea, fr^o all your filthines, and fr^o all your idoles wil I cleanse you.

26 A new heart also wil I giue you, and a new spirit wil I put within you, and I wil take away the stonie heart out of your bodye, & I wil giue you an heart of flesh.

27 And I wil put my Spirit within you, & cause you to waike in my statutes, & ye shal kepe my iudgements and do them.

28 And ye shal dwell in the lād, that I gaue to your fathers, and ye shal be my people and I wil be your God.

29 I wil also deliuer you from all your filthines, and I wil call for corn^e, and wil increase it, and lay no famine vpon you.

30 For I wil multiplie the frute of the trees, and the encrease of the field, that ye shal beare no more the reproche of famine among the heathen.

31 The^{se} shal ye remeber your owne wicked wayes, & your dedes that were not good, & shal iudge your selues worthy to haue bene destroyed for your iniquities, and for your abominacions.

32 Be it known vnto you that I do not thus for your sakes, saith the Lord God: therefore, o ye house of Israél, be ashamed, and confounded for your owne wayes.

33 Thus saith the Lord God, What time as I shal haue cleansed you from all your iniquities, I wil cause you to dwell in the cities, and the desolate places shal be buylded.

34 And the desolate lād shalbe tilled, where as it lay waste in the sight of all that passed by.

35 For they said, This waste lād was like the garden of Eden, and these waste and desolate and ruinous cities were strong, and were inhabited.

36 Then the residue of the heathen that are left round about you, shal knowe that I the Lord buylde the ruinous places, and plant the desolate places: I the Lord haue spoken it, and wil do it.

37 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil yet for this be fought of the house of Israél, to reforme it vnto them: I wil encrease them with men like a flocke.

38 As the holie flocke, as the flocke of Ierusalem in their solemne feastes, so shal the desolate cities be filled with flockes of man, and they shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

He prophesieth the bringing againe of the people, being in captiuitie to He sheweth the vision of the ten tribes with the time.

The hand of the Lord was vpon me, & caryed me out in the Spirit of the Lord, and set me downe in the middes of the field, which was full of bones.

2 And he led me round about by them, and beholde, there were very manie in the open field, and lo, they were verie drye.

3 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, can these bones liue? And I answered, o Lord God, thou knowest.

4 Againe he said vnto me, Prophecie vpon these bones and say vnto them, O ye drye bones, heare the worde of the Lord.

5 Thus saith the Lord God vnto these bones, Beholde, I wil cause breath to entre into you, and ye shal liue.

6 And I wil say sinewes vpo you, and make flesh growe vpon you, and couer you with skin, and put breath in you, that ye may liue, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

7 So I prophecied, as I was commanded: and as I prophecied, there was a noise, and beholde, there was a shaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone.

8 And when I behelde, lo, the sinewes, and the flesh grew vpon them, and aboue, the skin couered the, but there was no breath in them.

9 Then said he vnto me, Prophecie vnto the winde: prophecie, sonne of man, and say to the winde, Thus saith the Lord God, Come from the foure windes, o breath, and breathe vpon these flaine, that they may liue.

10 So I prophecied as he had commanded me: and the breath came into them, and they liued, and stode vp vpon their fete, an exceeding great armie.

11 Then he said vnto me, Sonne of man, these bones are the whole house of Israél. Beholde, they say, Our bones are dryed, and our hope is gone, & we are cleane cut of.

12 Therefore prophecie, and say vnto the, thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, my people, I wil open your graues, and cause you to come vp out of your sepulchres, and bring you into the land of Israél, 23 Thus wil I be ^s magnified, and sanctified, and knowen in the eyes of many nacions, and thei shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXIX.

^s He sheweth the destruction of Gog and Magog: 11 The graues of Gog and his hoste. 17 Thei shalbe deuoured of birdes and bestes 23 Therefore the house of Israél is captiue 24 Their bringig againe from captiuitie is promised.

1 Therefore, thou sonne of man, propheticie against Gog, & say, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come against thee, o Gog, the chief prince of Méshech and Tubál.

2 And I wil destroy thee ^a & leaue but the sixt part of thee, & wil cause thee to come vp from the North partes and wil bring thee vpon the mountaines of Israél:

^a Or, destroy thee with six plagues, as Chap 38, 22.

3 And I wil smite thy bowe out of thy left hand, and I wil cause thine arrowes to fall out of thy right hand.

4 Thou ^b shalt fall vpon the mountaines of Israél, and all thy bāds and the people, that is with thee: for I wil giue thee vnto the birdes and to euery feathered foule & beast of the field to be deuoured.

^b Meaning, y by the vertue of Gods worde shalbe destroyed wherefoeuer he utter his Church.

5 Thou shalt fall vpon the open field: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

6 And I wil send a fyre on Magog, and among them that dwell safely in the cyles, and thei shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

^c That is, among all nations where y enemies of my people dwell, tyme they neuer so farre str: rare.

7 So wil I make mine holy Name knowē in the middes of my people Israél, and I wil not suffer them to pollute mine holy Name anie more, and the heathen shal knowe that I am the Lord, the holie one of Israél.

8 Beholde, ^d it is come, and it is done, saith the Lord God: this is the day whereof I haue spoken.

^d That is, this plague is fully determined in my counsel & can not be changed

9 And thei that dwell in the cities of Israél, shal ^e go forthe, and shal buie and set fyre vpon the weapons, and on the shields, and bucklers, vpon the bowes, and vpon the arrowes, and vpon the staues in their hands, and vpon the speares, and thei shal burne them with fyre seuen yeres.

^e After this destruction y Church shal haue great peace and tranquillite, and burne all their weapons because they shal no more feare the enemies: and this is chiefly met of the accomplishment of Christs kingdome, & henby their head Christ all enemies shalbe overcome

10 So that they shal bring no wood out of the field, nether cut downe any out of the forests: for they shal burne the weapons with fyre, and they shal robbe those, that robbed them, and spoyle those that spoyled them, saith the Lord God.

^f Which declarer that the enemies shal haue an horrible fall.

11 And at y same time wil I giue vnto Gog ^f a place there for buryal in Israél, ^{euen} the valley whereby men go toward y East part of the Sea: and it shal cause the that passe by, to stop their noses, and there shal they burye Gog with all his multitude: & they shal call it the valley of Hamón-Gog.

12 ^h And seuen moneths long shal the house of Israél be burying of the, that they may cleanse the land.

^h Meaning, a long tyme.

13 Yea, all the people of the land shal bury them, and they shal haue a name when I shalbe glorified, saith the Lord God.

ⁱ Partely that the holy lād shulde not be polluted, and partely for the compassion y the children of God haue euen on their enemies.

14 And they shal chuse out men to go continually through the ⁱ land with them: that traueil, to burye those that remaine vpon on the ground, and cleanse it: they shall searche to the end of seuen moneths.

15 And the trauailers that passe through the land, if any see a mans bone, then shall he set vp a signe by it, til the buryers haue buried it, in the valley of Hamón-Gog.

Or, multitude

16 And also the name of the citie shall be Hamonáh: thus shall they cleanse the land.

17 And thou sonne of man, thus saith the Lord God, Speake vnto euerie feathered fowle, and to all the beasts of the field, Assemble your selues, and come: gather your selues on euerie side to my sacrifice: for I do sacrifice a great sacrifice for you vpon the mountaines of Israél, that ye may eat flesh, and drinke blood.

k Whereby he signifieth the horrible destruction that shoulde come vpon the enemies of his Church.

18 Ye shall eat the flesh of the valiant, and drinke the blood of the princes of the earth, of the weathers, of the lambes, and of the goates, and of bullockes, euen of all fat beasts of Bashán.

19 And ye shall eat fat til you be full, and drinke blood, til ye be drunken of my sacrifice, which I haue sacrificed for you.

20 Thus you shall be filled at my table with horses and chariots, with valiant men, and with all men of warre, saith the Lord God.

21 And I wil set my glorie among the heathen, and all the heathen shall see my iudgement, that I haue executed, and mine hand, which I haue layed vpon them.

22 So the house of Israél shall knowe, that I am the Lord their God from that day and so forth.

23 And the heathen shall knowe, that the house of Israél went into captiuitie for their iniquitie, because they trespassed against me: therefore hid I my face from them, and gaue them into the hand of their enemies: so fell they all by the sworde.

l The heathen shall knowe, that they overcame me not by their strength, neither yet by their weaknes of mine arme, but this was for my peoples finnes.

24 According to their vncleannes, and according to their transgressions haue I done vnto them, and hid my face from them.

25 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Now wil I bring againe the captiuitie of Iakób, and haue compassion vpon the whole house of Israél, and wil be ielous for mine holy Name, 26 After that they haue borne their shame, and all their transgression, whereby they haue transgressed against me, when they dwelt safely in their land, and without feare of any.

27 When I haue brought them againe from the people, and gathered them out of their enemies lands, and am sanctified in them in the sight of manie nacions, Chap. xl. 27.

28 Then shall they knowe, that I am the Lord their God, which caused them to be led into captiuitie among the heathen: but

I haue gathered them vnto their owne land, and haue left none of them any more there, 29 Nether wil I hide my face any more from them: for I haue powred out my Spirit vpon the house of Israél, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XL.

The restoring of the citie and the Temple.

IN the five and twentieth yere of our being in captiuitie in the beginning of the yere, in the tenth day of the month, in the fourtéth yere after that the citie was smitten, in the self same day, the hand of the Lord was vpon me, & brought me thether.

a The fewes counted the beginning of the yere after two sors: for their feastes they began to counte in March, and for their other affaires in Septébre: so that this is to be vnderstand of September. Or, visions of God.

2 Into the land of Israél brought he me by a diuine vision, and set me vpon a verie high mountaine, whereupon was as the buylding of a citie, toward the South.

3 And he brought me thether, and beholde, there was a man, whose similitude was to loke to, like brasse, with a linen threde in his hand, and a rede to measure with: and he stode at the gate.

b Which was an Angel in forme of a man, that came to measure out this buylding.

4 And the man said vnto me, Sonne of man, beholde with thine eyes, and heare with thine eares, and set thine heart vpon all that I shall shew thee: for to the intent, that they might be shewed thee, art thou brought hether: declare all that thou seest, vnto the house of Israél.

5 And beholde, I sawe a wall on the outside of the house rounde about: and in the mans hand was a rede to measure with, of six cubites long, by the cubite, and an hand breadth: so he measured the breadth of the buylding with one rede, and the height with one rede.

6 Then came he vnto the gate, which looketh toward the East, and went vp the staires thereof, and measured the poste of the gate, which was one rede broad, and the other poste of the gate, which was one rede broad.

Or, shewholder.

Or, vpon poste.

7 And euerie chamber was one rede long, & one rede broad, and betwene the chambers were six cubites: and the poste of the gate by the porche of the gate within was one rede.

8 He measured also the porche of the gate within with one rede.

9 Then measured he the porche of the gate of eight cubites, and the postes thereof, of two cubites, and the porche of the gate was inwarde.

Or, pennisse.

10 And the chambers of the gate Eastwarde, were thre on this side, & thre on that side: they thre were of one measure, and the postes had one measure on this side and one on that side.

12 The space also before the chambers was one cubite on this side, & the space was one cubite on that side, and the chambers were six cubits on this side & six cubits on that side.

13 He measured then the gate from the rouse of a chamber to the top of the gate: the breadth was fyue and twentie cubites, dore against dore.

14 He made also postes of thre score cubites, and the postes of the court, & of the gate had one measure round about.

15 And vpon the forefront of the entrie of the gate vnto the fore front of the porche of the gate within were fiftie cubites.

16 And there were narrow windowes in the chambers, and in their postes within the gate round about, and likewise to the arches: and the windowes went round about within: and vpon the postes were palme trees.

19 Then he measured the breadth from the forefront of the lower gate without, vnto the forefront of the court within, an hundred cubites East ward and Northward.

CHAP. XLII.

The disposition and order of the building of the Temple and the other things thereto belonging.

1 And he brought me to the Temple, and measured the postes, six cubites broad on the one side and six cubites broad on the other side, which was the breadth of the tabernacle.
 2 And the breadth of the entrie was ten cubits, & the sides of the entrie were five cubits on the one side, & five cubits on the other side, & he measured the length thereof fortie cubites, & the breadth twentie cubites.
 3 Then went he in, and measured the postes of the entrie two cubites, and the entrie six cubites, and the breadth of the entrie seven cubites.
 4 So he measured the length thereof twentie cubites & the breadth twentie cubites before the Temple. And he said vnto me, This is the moste holie place.
 5 After, he measured the wall of the house, six cubites, and the breadth of euery chambre foure cubites rounde about the house, on euery side.
 6 And the chambres were chambre vpon chambre, thie and thirtie fote high, & they entred into the wall made for the chambres which was rounde about the house the postes might be fastened therein, and not be fastened in the wall of the house.
 7 And it was large and went round mounting vpwarde to the chambres: for the staire of the house was mounting vpward, rounde about the house: therefore the house was larger vpwarde: so they went vp from the lowest chambre to the highest by the middes.
 8 I sawe also the house hie rounde about: the foundations of the chambres were a ful rede of six great cubites.
 9 The thickness of the wall which was for the chamber without, was five cubites, and that which remained, was the place of the chambres that were within.

 10 And betwene the chambres was the wyndens of twentie cubites rounde about the House on euery side.
 11 And the dores of the chambres were toward the place that remained, one dore towarde the North, & another dore towarde the South, and the breadth of the place that remained, was five cubites rounde about.
 12 Now the building that was before the separte place towarde the West corner, was seuentie cubites broad, and the wall of the building was five cubites thicke, rounde about, & the length ninetie cubites.
 13 So he measured the house an hundred cubites long, & the separte place and the building with the walles thereof were an hundred cubites long.
 14 Also the breadth of the forefront of the house and of the separte place toward the East, was an hundred cubites.
 15 And he measured the length of the building ouer against the separte place, which was behinde it, and the chambers on the one side and on the other side an hundred cubites with the Temple within, and the arches of the court.
 16 The postes and the narowe windowes, & the chambres rounde about, on three sides ouer against the postes, filed with cedar wood rounde about and fro the ground vp to the windowes, and the windowes were filed.
 17 And from aboue the dore vnto the inner house and without, and by all the wall rounde about within and without it was filed according to the measure.
 18 And it was made with Cherubims and palme trees, so that a palme tree was betwene a Cherub and a Cherub: and euery Cherub had two faces.
 19 So that the face of a man was towarde the palme tree on the one side, & the face of a lion towarde the palme tree on the other side: thus was it made through all the house rounde about.
 20 From the ground vnto aboue the dore were Cherubims and palme trees made as in the wall of the Temple.
 21 The postes of the Temple were squared, & thus to loke vnto was the similitude of forme of the Sanctuarie.
 22 The altar of wood was three cubites hie, & the length thereof two cubites, and the corners thereof and the length thereof & the sides thereof were of wood. And he said vnto me, This is the table that shal be before the Lord.
 23 And the Temple & the Sanctuarie had two dores.
 24 And the dores had two wickets, euery two turning wickets, two wickets for one dore, and two wickets for another dore.

Vers 10 The officers on the one side were distant from them on the other side 20 cubites which was the breadth of the Temple.
Vers 11 The dores of the chambers on the North side opened toward the North Y, & then on the South side towarde the South R for there was an alley of five cubites rounde about the Temple Y Z, and was so closed with a wall, 11
Vers 12 The building, or the great place closed with a wall of five cubites thicke, and was farther of the Temple then the alley, or separte place, & this is more plainly set for the in the great figure.
Vers 16 He declareth that whatsoever was of stone worke from the bottome to the toppe was covered with wood on the East, South & North side.
Vers 23 The altar V, which was three cubites high Y X & two cubites long Y Z.

25 And vpon the dores of the Tēple these were made Cherubims & palme trees,like as was made vpon the walles, & there were thicke planks vpon the foiesfront of the porche without.

26 And there were narrowe windowes & palme trees on the one side, and on the other side, by the sides of the porche, and vpon y sides of the house, and thicke planks.

CHAP. XLII.

Of the chambers of the Temple for the Priests, and the holse things.

1 Then broght he me into y vtter court by the waie towai de the North, and he broght me into the chamber that was ouer against the separate place, & which was before y buylding towarde y North.

2 Before y length of an hūdreth cubites was y North dore, & it was fiftie cubits broad.

3 Ouer against y twentie cubites which were for the inner court, & ouer against the pauement, which was for the vtter court, was chambre against chambre in thre rowes.

4 And before y chābres was a galerie of ten cubites wide, & within was a waie of one cubite, and their dores towai de y North.

5 Now the chambres aboue were narrowe: for those chambres semed to eat vp these, to wit, the lower, and those that were in the middes of the buylding.

6 For thei were in thre rowes, but had not pillers as the pillers of the court: therefore there was a difference frō the beneth & frō the middlemost, euen frō the ground.

7 And the wall y was without ouer against y chābres, towai de y vtter court on y fore front of y chābers, was fiftie cubites long.

8 For the length of the chambres that were in the vtter court, was fiftie cubites: & lo, before y Tēple were an hundreth cubites.

9 And vnder these chambres was the entrie, on the East side, as one goeth into the frō the outwarde court.

10 The chambres were in the thickenes of the wall of the court towarde y East, ouer against the separate place, & ouer against the buylding.

11 And the waie before them was after the maner of the chambres, which were toward y North as long as thei, & as broad as thei: & all their entries were like, bothe according to their facions, and according to their dores.

12 And according to the dores of y chambres that were towarde y South, was a dore in the corner of the waie, euen the waie directly before the wall towarde the East, as one entreth.

13 Then said he vnto me, The North chambres & the South chambres which are before the separate place, thei be holy chambres, wherein the Priests that approche vnto the Lord, shal eat the moste holie things: there shal thei laie the moste holie things, and the meat offering, and the sinoffring, and the trespasse offering: for the place is holy.

14 When the Priests entre therein, thei shal not go out of the holie place into the vtter court, but there thei shal laie their garmets wherein thei minister: for thei are holie, & shal put on other garmets, & so shal approche to those things, w̄ are for the people.

15 Now when he had made an end of measuring y inner house, he broght me forth toward y gate whose prospect is towarde the East, and measured it rounde about.

16 He measured the East side with the measuring rod, siue hundreth redes, euen with the measuring rede rounde about.

17 He measured also y North side, siue hundreth redes, euen with the measuring rede rounde about.

18 And he measured the South side siue hundreth redes with the measuring rede.

19 He turned about also to the West side, & measured siue hundreth redes with the measuring rede.

20 He measured it by the foure sides: it had a wall rounde about, siue hundreth redes long, and siue hundreth broad to make a separation betwene the Sanctuarie, and y prophane place.

3 Likewise the people of the land shal worship at the entrie of this gate before the Lord on the Sabbaths, and in the new moones.

4 And the burnt offering that the price shal offre vnto the Lord on the Sabbath daye, shalbe six lambs without blemish, & a ram without blemish.

5 And the meat offering shalbe an Epháh for a ram: and the meat offering for the lambes a gift of his hand, and an Hin of oyle to an Epháh.

10 And the prince shalbe in the middes of them: he shal go in when they go in, & whē they go forthe, they shal go forthe together.

11 And in the feasts, and in the solemnitie the meat offering shalbe an Epháh to a bullocke, and an Epháh to a ram, and to the lambs, the gift of his hand, and an Hin of oyle to an Epháh.

12 Now when the prince shal make a fre burnt offering or peace offerings frely vnto the Lord, one shal then open him the gate, y turneth toward the East, and he shal make his burnt offering and his peace offerings, as he did on the Sabbath day: after, he shal go forthe, and when he is gone forthe, one shal shut the gate.

13 Thou shalt daiely make a burnt offering vnto the Lord of a labe of one yere without blemish: thou shalt do it euery morning.

14 And thou shalt prepare a meat offering for it euery morning, the sixt parte of an Epháh, and the third parte of an Hin of oyle, to mingle with the fine floure: this meat offering shalbe continually by a perpetual ordinance vnto the Lord.

15 Thus shal they prepare the lambe, and the meat offering and the oyle euery morning, for a continual burnt offering.

16 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, If the prince giue a gift of his inheritance vnto any of his sonnes, it shalbe his sonnes, & it shal be their possession by inheritance.

17 But if he giue a gift of his inheritance to one of his seruants, then it shalbe his to the yere of libertie: after, it shal returne to the prince, but his inheritance shal remaine to his sonnes for them.

18 Moreouer the prince shal not d take of the peoples inheritance, nor thrust them out of their possession: but he shal cause his sonnes to inherit of his owne possession, that my people be not scattered euery man from his possession.

19 ¶ After, he broght me through the entrie, which was at the side of the gate, into the holy chambers of the Priests, which stode toward the North: and beholde, there was a place at the West side of them.

20 Then said he vnto me, This is the place where the Priests shal seeth the trespass offering and the sinne offering, where they shal bake the meat offering, that they shal not beare them into the viter court, to sanctifie the people.

21 Then he broght me forthe into the viter court, and caused me to go by the foure corners of the court: and beholde, in euery corner of the court, there was a court.

DANIEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

The great providence of God, and his singular mercie toward his Church are moſte lively here ſet forth, who neuer leaueh his deſtitute, but now in their greateſt miſeries and afflictions gaueh them Prophetes, as Ezechiel, & Daniél, whome he adorned with ſuche graces of his hoile ſpirit, that Daniél aboue all other had moſte ſpecial reuelations of ſuche things as ſhulde come to the Church, euen from the time that they were in captiuitie, to the laſt end of the worlde, and to the general reſurrection, as of the foure Monarches and empires of all the worlde, to wit, of the Babylonians, Perſians, Grecians, & Romanes. Alſo of the certaine nombre of the times euen vnto Chriſt, when all ceremonies and ſacrifices ſhulde ceaſe, becauſe he ſhulde be the accompliſhement thereof: moreover he ſheweth Chriſtes office and the cauſe of his death which was by his ſacrifice to take away ſinnes, and to bring euer laſting liſe: And aſi om the beginning God euer exerciſed his people vnder the croſſe, ſo he teacheth here, that after that Chriſt is offered, he wil ſtil leaue his exerciſe to his Church vntil the dead riſe againe, and Chriſt gather his into his kingdome in the heauens.

CHAP. I.

1 The captiuitie of Iehoiakim King of Iudáh. 4 The King chuſeth certaine young men of the Iewes to learne his lawe 5 They haue the Kings ordinarie appointed. 8 But they abſtaine from it.

e His purpose was to kepe them as hoſtages, and that he might ſhewe him ſelf victorious, and alſo by their good intreatie and learning of his religion, they might fauour rather him then the Iewes and to be able to ſerue him as gouernours in their land: moreover by this meanes the Iewes might be better kept in ſubiection, fearing otherwiſe to procure hurt to theſe noble men

f The King required three things, that they ſhulde be of noble birth, that they ſhulde be witty & learned, and y they ſhulde be of a ſtró & comelic nature that they might do him better ſeruiſe: thus he did for his owne commoditie therefore it is not to praiſe his liberalitie: yet in this he is worthy praiſe, that he eſteemed learning, and knewe that it was a neceſſarie meane to gouerne by g That they might forget their owne religion, and countrey factions, to ſerue him the better to his purpose: yet it is not to be thought that Daniél did learne aunc knowledge that was not godli: in all pointes he reſuſed the abuſe of things and ſuperſticion, in ſo muche y he wolde not eat the meat which the King appointed him, but was content to learne y knowledge of natural things h That by their good intertreatment they might learne to forget the mediocritie of their owne people i To the intent that in this time they might bothe learne the maners of the Caldeans and alſo their tongue. k Aſwel to ſerue at the table, as in other offices.

In the thirde yere of the reigne of Iehoiakim King of Iudáh, came Nebuchadnezzár, King of Babel vnto Ierulalem, & beſieged it.

2 And the Lord gaue Iehoiakim King of Iudáh into his hand, w parte of the veſſels of the houſe of God, which he carried into the land of Shinár, to the houſe of his god, and he brought the veſſels into his gods treaſurie.

3 And the King ſpake vnto Aſpenáz the maſter of his Eunuches, that he ſhulde bring certaine of the children of Iſraél, of the Kings ſeſe, and of the princes:

4 Children in whome was no blemiſh, but well fauoured, and inſt. nct in all wiſdome, and well ſene in knowledge, and able to vtter knowl. dge, and ſuche as were able to ſtand in the Kings palace, and whome they might teache the learning, and the tongue of the Caldeans.

5 And the King appointed them prouiſion euerie daie of a portion of the Kings meat, and of the wine, which he dranke, ſo nourishing the three yere, that at the end thereof, they might ſtand before the King.

6 Now among theſe were certaine of the children of Iudáh, Daniél, Hananiáh, Miſhaél and Azariáh.

8 But Daniél had determined in his heart, that he wolde not defile him ſelf with the porcion of the Kings meat, nor with the wine which he dranke: therefore he required y chief of the Eunuches that he might not defile him ſelf.

9 (Now God had brought Daniél into fauour, and tender loue with the chief of the Eunuches)

10 And the chief of the Eunuches ſaid vnto Daniél, I feare my lord the King, who hath appointed you meat and your drinke: therefore if he ſe your faces worſe looking then the other children, which are of your ſorte, they ſhal you make loſe mine head vnto the King.

11 Then ſaid Daniél to Melzár, whome the chief of the Eunuches had ſeroued Daniél, Hananiáh, Miſhaél, and Azariáh, 12 Proue thy ſeruants, I beſeche thee, ten daies, and let them giue vs pulse to eat, and water to drinke.

13 Then let our countenances be looked vpon before thee, and the countenances of the children that eat of the porcion of the Kings meat: and as thou ſeſt, deale with thy ſeruants.

14 So he conſented to them in this matter, and proued them ten daies.

15 And at the end of ten daies, their countenances appeared fairer, and in better looking then all the childrens, which did eat the porcion of the Kings meat.

17 As for these foue childre, God gaue the knowledge, and vnderstanding in all learning and wisdom: also he gaue Daniél vnderstanding of all visions & dreames. 18 Now when the time was expired, that the King had appointed to bring the in, the chief of the Eunuches brought the before Nebuchad-nezzár. 19 And the King comuned with them: and among them all was founde none like Daniél, Hananiáh, Mishaél, and Azariáh: therefore stode thei before the King. 20 And in all matters of wisdom, & vnderstanding that the King enquired of them, he founde them ten times better then all the inchanters & astrologians, that were in all his realme. 21 And Daniél was vnto the first yere of King Cyrus.

9 But if ye wil not declare me the dreame, there is but one iudgement for you: for ye haue prepared lying and corrupt wordes, to speake before me til y time be changed: therefore tel me the dreame, that I maie knowe, if ye can declare me the interpretation thereof. 10 Then the Caldeans answered before the King, and said, There is no man vpon earth that can declare y Kings matter: yea, there is nether King nor prince nor Lord that asked suche things at an inchanter or astrologian or Caldean. 11 For it is a rare thing that the King requieth, & there is none other that can declare it before the King, except the gods whose dwelling is not with flesh. 12 For this cause the King was angrie and in great furie, and commanded to destroie all the wise men of Babél.

CHAP. II.

1 The dreame of Nebuchad-nezzár. 13 The King commandeth all the wise men of Babylon to be slaine because they colde not interpret his dreame. 16 Daniél requieth time to solute the question. 24 Daniél is brought vnto the King and sheweth him his dreame & the interpretation thereof. 44 Of the everlasting kingdome of Christ.

13 ¶ And when sentence was giuen, the wise men were slaine: and thei sought Daniél & his felowes to be put to death. 14 Then Daniél answered with counsel & wisdom to Arióch the Kings chief steward, which was gone forthe to put to death the wise men of Babél. 15 Rea, he answered and said vnto Arióch the Kings captaine, Why is the sentece so hastie from the King? Then Arióch declared the thing to Daniél. 16 So Daniél went and desired the King y he wolde giue him leasure & that he wolde shewe the King y interpretation thereof. 17 ¶ Then Daniél went to his house and shewed the matter to Hananiáh, Mishaél, and Azariáh his companions, 18 That thei shulde beseeche the God of heauen for grace in this secret, that Daniél & his felowes shuldenot perish with the rest of the wise men of Babél. 19 Then was the secret reueiled vnto Daniél in a vision by night: therefore Daniél praised the God of heauen.

i Which declareth y God wolde not haue his seruant ioyned in y companye of these forcerers, and astrologers, whose artes were wicked, and therefore iustly ought to dye, though y King did it vpo a rage, and no zeale. Or, the captaine of the gado.

a The father and the sonne were bothe called by this name, so that this is ment of y sonne, when he reigned alone: for he reigned also after a sort w his father. b Not that he had many dreames, but because many matters were considered in this dreame. c Because it was so rare and strange a dreame, that he had not had the like. d He was so heauy with slepe that he began to slepe a gayne. Some read, and his slepe was broken from him. e For all these astrologers & forcerers called them selues by this name of honour as though all the wisdom and knowledge of the country depended vpon the, and that all other countreies were void of the same. f That is, in y Syrian tongue which differed not much from the Caldeans, saue it seemed to be more eloquent, & therefore the learned vsed to speake it: as the Iewish writers do to this day. g This is a mite rewarde of their arrogancie (which wanted of the selues that they had the knowledge of all things) y thei shulde be prouen fooles & y to their perpetual thame and confusion. h Here in appeared their ignorance that notwithstanding their brags, yet were thei not able to tel the dreame, except he entred them into the matter, & therefore thei wolde pretende knowledge where was but meie ignorance and so as leaders of the people, thei were worthy to dye. i Ebr. redeme the time.

And in y second yere of y reign of Nebuchad-nezzár, Nebuchad-nezzár dreamed b dreames wherwith his spirit was troubled, & his slepe was vpon him. Then the King commanded to call y inchanters, and the astrologians and the forcerers, and the Caldeans for to shew the King his dreames: so thei came and stode before the King. 3 And the King said vnto them, I haue dreamed a dreame, & my spirit was troubled to knowe the dreame. 4 Then spake the Caldeans to the King in the Aramites language, O King, liue for euer: shewe thy seruants thy dreame, and we shal shewe the interpretation. 5 And the King answered and said to the Caldeans, The thing is gone from me. If ye wil not make me vnderstand the dreame with the interpretation thereof, ye shalbe drawn in picces, and your houses shalbe made iakes. 6 But if ye declare the dreame and the interpretation thei of, ye shal receiue of me gifts and rewardes, and great honour: therefore shewe me the dreame and the interpretation of it. 7 Thei answered againe, and said, Let the King shewe his seruants the dreame, and we wil declare the interpretation thereof. 8 Then the King answered, and said, I knowe certainly that ye wolde gaine the time, because ye se the thing is gone from me.

20 And Daniél answered & said, *The Name of God be praised for euer and euer: for wisdom and strength are his, 21 And he change the times and seasons: he taketh awaie Kings: he setteth vp Kings: he giueth wisdom vnto the wise, & vnderstanding to those that vnderstand. 22 He discovereth the depe & secret thigs: he knoweth what is in the darkenes, and the light dwelleth with him. 23 I thanke thee & praise thee, o thou God of my fathers, that thou hast giuen me wisdom and strength, and hast shewed me now the thing that we desired of thee: for thou hast declared vnto vs the Kings matter. 24 ¶ Therefore Daniél went vnto Arióch, whome the King had ordeined to destroie the wise men of Babél: he went and said

25 Then Arióch brought Daniél before the King in all haite, and said thus vnto him,
I haue found a man of the children of Iudáh that were broght captiues, that wil declare vnto the King the interpretacion.

26 Then answered the King, and said vnto
Daniél, whose name was Belteshazzár, Art thou able to shewe me the dreame, w^{ch} I haue sene, and the interpretacion there of?

27 Daniél answered in the presence of the King, & said, The secret which the King hathe demanded, can nether the wise, the astrologians, the inchanters, nor the southesayers declare vnto the King.

28 But there is a God in heauen that re-uileth secrets, and sheweth the King Nebuchad-nezzár what shalbe in the latter dayes. Thy dreame, and the things, w^{ch} thou hast sene in thine head vpon thy bed, is this.

29 O King, when y^e wast in thy bed, thoghts came into thy minde, what shulde come to passe hereafter, and he that reuileth secrets, telleth thee, what shal come.

30 As for me, this secret is not shewed me for anye wisdom that I haue, more then anye other liuing, but onely to shewe the King the interpretaciõ, and that thou might: it knowe thy thoughts of thine heart.

31 O King, thou sawest it, and beholde, there was a great image: this great image whose glorie was so excellent, stode before thee, and the forme thereof was terrible.

32 This images head was of fine golde, his breast and his armes of siluer, his bellie and his thighs of brasie,

33 His legges of yron, & his fete were parte of yron, and parte of clay.

34 Thou beheldest it til a stone was cut without hands, which smote the image vpon his fete, that were of yron and clay, and brake them to pecies.

35 Then was the yron, the clay, the brasie,
the siluer & the golde broken all together, and became like the chaffe of the sommer floores, and the winde caryed them away, that no place was founde for them: and the stone that smote the image, became a great mountaine, and filled the whole earth.

36 This is the dreame, and we wil declare before the King the interpretaciõ the: cof.

37 O King, thou art a King of Kings: for the God of heauen hathe giuen thee a kingdome, power, and strength, & glorie.

38 And in all places where the children of men dwell, the beasts of the field, and the foules of the heauen hathe he giuen into thine hand, and hathe made thee ruler ouer them all: thou art this head of golde.

39 And after thee shal rise another kingdome, inferior to thee, of siluer, and another third kingdome shalbe of brasie, which shal beare rule ouer all the earth.

40 And the fourth kingdome shalbe strong as yron: for as yron breaketh in pecies, & subdueth all things, and as yron bruseth all these things, so shal it breake in pecies and bruse all.

41 Where as thou sawest the fete and toes, parte of potters clay, and parte of yron:
the kingdome shalbe deuided, but there shalbe in it of the strength of the yron, as thou sawest the yron mixt with the claye, and earth.

42 And as the toes of the fete were parte of yron, and parte of clay, so shal the kingdome be partely strong, and partely broken.

43 And where as thou sawest yron mixt with clay & earth, they shal mingle them sel-ues with the fete of men: but they shal not ioyne one with another, as yron can not be mixed with clay.

44 And in the dayes of these Kings, shal the God of heauē set vp a kingdome, which shal neuer be destroyed: and this kingdome shal not be giuen to another people, but it shal breake, and destroye all these kingdomes, and it shal stand for euer.

45 Where as y^e sawest, that the stone was cut of the mountaine without hands, and that it brake in pecies the yron, the brasie, the clay, the siluer and the golde: so the great God hathe shewed the King, what shal come to passe hereafter, and the drea-me is true, and the interpretacion thereof is sure.

46 ¶ Then the King Nebuchad-nezzár fel-vpon his face, and bowed him self vnto Daniél, and commanded that they shulde him.

47 Also the King answered vnto Daniél, & said, I knowe of a truth that your God is a God of gods, & the Lord of Kings, and the reuiler of secrets, king thou coldest 48 So the King made Daniél a great man,

CHAP. III.

The King setteth vp a golden image. 3 Certaine are accused because they despised the Kings commadement, and are put into a burning ouen. 25 By beleefe in God they are deliuered from the fyre 26 Nebuchad-nezzár confesseth the power of God after the sight of the miracle.

a vnder pre- tence of reli- gion, and bo- lines in makig an image to his idole Bel, he sought his owne ambition and waine glorie: and this decla- reth, that he was not tou- ched with the true feare of God before, but yhe cofe- sed him on a sudden motion as the wicked, when they are ouercome with the greaues of his workes. The Greke interpreters write, that this was done 18 yeres after the dreame, and as may appeare y King feared lest the Iewes by their reli- gion shulde haue altered the state of his cō- mune wealth, and therefore he mēt to brig all to one kinde of religion, and so rather sought his owne quietnes, than Gods glorie b Shewing, y the idole is not known for an idole so lōg as he is with the workman: but when the ce- remonies and customes are recited, & vsed and the consent of the peo- ple is there, the of a bloc- ke they thinke they haue made a god. c This was suf- ficient with y wicked at all times to ap- proue their reli- gion, if the Kings auctori- tie were allea- ged for y esta- blishment thereof, nor considering in the meane season what Gods worde did permit d These are y two dāgerous weapons wherewith Satā i seth to fight against y childre of God, y consent of the multitude & y crueltie of y punish- ment: for rhogh some feared God, yet y multitude, w consent: d to the wicke- des, astonied the: & here y King required not an inward cōsent, but an outward gesture, that y Iewes might by litle & litle learne to forget their true religion.

Nebuchad-nezzár the King made an image of golde, whose height was threescore cubites, & the breadth thereof six cubites: he set it vp in the plaine of Duiá, in the prouince of Babel.

Then Nebuchad-nezzár the King sent forth to gather together the nobles, the princes & the dukes, the iudges, the recei- uers, the counsellers, the officers, & all the gouerners of the prouinces, that they shul- de come to the b dedication of the image, which Nebuchad-nezzár the King had set vp.

So the nobles, princes, and dukes, the iud- ges, the receiuers, the counsellers, the offi- cers, and all the gouerners of the prouin- ces were assembled vnto the dedicating of the image, that Nebuchad-nezzár the King had set vp: and they stode before the image, which Nebuchad-nezzár had set vp.

Then an herald cryed aloud, Be it knowē to you, o people, d nations, and langages,

That when ye heare the sound of the cor- net, trūpet, harpe, sackebut, psalteries, dulci- mer, and all instruments of musicke, ye fall downe and worship the goldē image, that Nebuchad-nezzár the King hath set vp.

And whosocuer falleth not downe and worshippeth, shal the same houre be cast into the middes of an hote fyrie for- nace.

Therefore affone as all the people heard y sound of the cornet, trūpet, harpe, sacke- but, psalterie, & all instrumēt of musicke, all y people, nations, & langages fel downe, and worshiped the golden image, that Nebuchad-nezzár the King had set vp.

By reason whereof at that same time came men of the Caldēas, and gricuously accused the Iewes.

For they spake and said to the King Ne- buchad-nezzár, O King, liue for euer.

Thou, o King, hast made a decre, that euerie man that shal heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpes, sackebut, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all instrumēt of musicke, shal fall downe & worship the golden image,

And whosocuer falleth not downe, and worshippeth, that he shulde be cast into the middes of an hote fyrie fornaice.

There are certeine Iewes whome thou hast set ouer the charge of the prouince of Babel, e Shadrách, Meshách, and Abed- negó: these men, o King, haue not regard- ed thy commandement, nether wil they serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image, that thou hast set vp.

Then Nebuchad-nezzár in his angre and wrath commanded that they shulde bring Shadrách, Meshách, and Abedne- gó: so these men were brought before the King.

And Nebuchad-nezzár spake, and said vnto the, What disorder wil not you, Sha- drách, Meshách, and Abednegó serue my god, nor worship the goldē image, that I haue set vp?

Now therefore are ye ready whē ye heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackebut, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musicke, to fall downe, & worship the image, which I haue made: for if ye worship it not, ye shalbe cast imme- diatly into the middes of an hote fire for- nace: for who is that God, that can deliuer you out of mine hand?

Shadrách, Meshách, and Abednegó an- swered & said to the King, O Nebuchad- nezzár, we are not careful to answer thee in this matter.

Beholde, our God whome we serue, is able to deliuer vs frō the hote fyrie for- nace, and he wil deliuer vs out of thine hand, o King.

But if not, be it knowen to thee, o King, y we wil not serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image, which thou hast set vp.

Then was Nebuchad-nezzár full of ra- ge, and the forme of his visage was chan- ged against Shadrách, Meshách, & Abed- negó: therefore he charged and comman- ded that they shulde heate the fornaice at once seuen times more then it was wont to be heat.

And he charged the moste valiant men of warre y were in his armie, to binde Sha- drách, Meshách, and Abednegó, & to cast them into the hote fyrie fornaice.

So these men were bounde in their coa- tes, their hosen, & their clokes, with their other garments, and cast into the middes of the hote fyrie fornaice.

Therefore, because the Kings comman- dement was straite, that the fornaice shul- de be exceeding hote, the flame of y fyrie slew those men y brought forthe Shadrách, Meshách, e It semeth, y thei named not Daniél because he was greatly in the Kings fa- uour, thinking if these thre had bene de- stroyed, they might haue had better oc- casion to accu- se Daniél: and this decla- reth that this poli- tic of erecting this image was in- uented by y malicio: hat- terous, & fought nothing but y destruction of y Iewes, whome they accu- sed of rebellio & ingratitude. f Signifying, y he wolde receiue them to grace, if they wolde now at the lēgh obey his decre g For they shulde haue done iniurie to God, if they shulde haue doubted in this holie cause, & therefore they say, that they are resoluēd to dye for Gods cause h They groude on two poin- tes, first in the power, & pro- uidence of God ouer them, and secondly on their cause, w was Gods glo- rie, and y testi- fying of his true religio, w their blood & so make open confession, that they wil not so muche as outwardly consent to ido- latrye i This decla- reth that the more, that tyrants rage, & the more witi- ty they shewe them selues in inuening strā- ges, and cruel punishments, the more is God glorified by his seruāts to whome he giueth pacien- ce and constā- cie to abide y crueltie of their punish- ment: for ether he deliuereth them frō death or els for this life giueth the a better.

Mefhách and Abednegó.

23 And these thre men Shadrách, Mefhách and Abednego fel downe bounde into the middes of the hote fyrie for nace.

24 ¶ The Nebuchad-nezzár the King was astonied and rose vp in haste, & spake, and said vnto his counsellers, Did not we cast thre men bounde into the middes of the fyre? Who answered and said vnto the King, It is true, ó King.

25 And he answered, and said, Lo, I se foure men loose, walking in the middes of the fyre, and they haue no hurt, and the forme of the fourth is like the^k sonne of God.

26 Then the King Nebuchad-nezzar came nere to the mouth of the hote fyrie for nace, & spake and said, Shadrách, Mefhách and Abednegó, the seruants of the hie God, go forthe & come hether: so Shadrách, Mefhách and Abednegó^l came forthe of the middes of the fyre.

27 Then the nobles, princes and dukes, and the Kings counsellers came together to se these men, because the fyre had no power ouer their bodies: for not an heere of their head was burnt, nether was their coats changed, nor any smel of fyre came vpon them.

28 Wherefore Nebuchad-nezzár spake and said, ^m Blessed be the God of Shadrách, Mefhách and Abednegó, who hathe sent his Angel, and deliuered his seruants, that put their trust in him, and haue changed the Kings commandement, & yelded their bodies rather thē they wolde serue or worship anie god, saue their owne God.

29 Therefore I make a decre, that euery people, nacion, and langage, which speake anyⁿ blasphemie against the God of Shadrách, Mefhách and Abednegó, shal be drawn in piéces, and their houses shal be made a iakes, because there is no god that can deliuer after this sorte.

30 Then the King promoted Shadrách, Mefhách and Abednegó in the prouince of Babél.

31 Nebuchad-nezzár King vnto all people, nations and langages, that dwell in all the^o worldc, Peace be multiplied vnto you:

32 I thought it good to declare the signes and wonders, that the hie God hathe wrought towards me.

33 How great are his signes, and how mighty are his wonders! His kingdome is an euerlasting kingdome, and his dominion is from generacion to generacion,

CHAP. IIIII.

2 Another dreame of Nebuchad-nezzár, which Daniél declareth 29 The Prophet declareth how of a proude King he shoulde become as a beast. 31 After he confesseth the power of God and is restored to his former dignitie.

1 Nebuchad-nezzár being at a rest in a mine house, and flourishing in my palace,

2 Sawe a^b dreame, which made me afraied, and the thoughtes vpon my bed, and the visions of mine head troubled me.

3 Therefore made I a decre, that thei shulde bring all the wise men of Babél before me, that they might declare vnto me the interpretation of the dreame.

4 So came the enchanters, the astrologians, the Caldeans and the southsayers, to whom I tolde the dreame, but^c they colde not shewe me the interpretation thereof,

5 Til at the last Daniél came before me, (whose name was^d Belteshazzár, accordig to the name of my god, which hathe the spirit of the holy gods in him) and before him I tolde the dreame, saying,

6 O Belteshazzár, chief of the enchanters, because I knowe, that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, & no secret troubleth thee, tel me the visions of my dreame, that I haue sene and the interpretation thereof.

7 Thus were the visions of mine head in my bed. And beholde, I sawe a^f tre in the middes of the earth and the height thereof was great:

8 A great tre & strong, and the height thereof reached vnto heauen, & the sight thereof to the ends of all the earth.

9 The boughes thereof were faire and the frute thereof muche, and in it was meat for all: it made a shadowe vnder it for the beastes of the field, and the foules of the heauen dwelt in the boughs thereof, and all flesh fed of it.

10 I sawe in the visions of mine head, vpon my bed, and beholde, a^g watchman & an holy one came downe from heauen, 11 And cryed aloude, and said thus, Hewe downe the tre, and breake of his branches: shake of his leaues, and scattre his frute, that the beasts may flee from vnder it, & the foules from his branches.

12 Neuertheles leaue the stumpe of his rootes in the earth, and with a band of yron and brasse binde it among the grasse of the field, and let it be wet with the dewe of heauen, and let his porcion be with the beastes among the grasse of the field.

13 Let his heart be changed from mans nature, & let a beastes heart be giuen vnto him, and let seuen times be passed ouer him.

14 The sentence is according to the decre of the watchmen, and according to the worde of the holy ones: the demande a There was no trouble that might cause me to dreame, and therefore it came onely of God

 b This was another dreame besides that which he sawe of the foure empires: for Daniél bothe declared what that dreame was, and what it meant: and here he onely expoundeth the dreame
 c In that that he sent abroad to others whose ignorance in times past he had experimented, and left Daniél who was euer ready at hand, to declare the nature of the vngodlie, & neuer seke to the seruants of God, but for very necessity, and then they spare no flat teriours
 d This no dreame was a great grief to Daniél not onely to haue his name changed, but to be called by the name of a vile idole, which thing Nebuchad-nezzár did to make him forget the true religion of God e Which also was a great grief to the Prophet to be nombred among the sozerers & men whose practises were wicked and contrary to Gods worde.
 f By the tre, is signified the dignitie of a King, whome God ordeineth to bea defence for all kinde of men, & whose state is profitable for mankind.
 g Meaning, the Angel of God, which nether eateth nor slepeth, but is euer ready to do Gods will: & is not infected with mans corruption but is euer holy: and in that that he coman deth to cut downe this tre, he knewe that it shulde not be cut downe by man but by God.
 h Hereby he meaneth that Nebuchad-nezzár shulde not onely for a tyme loose his kingdome, but be like a beast i God hathe decreed this iudgement and the whole arme of heauen haue as it were subscribed vnto it, like as also thei desire the execution of his decre against all them that lift vp them selues against God.

k For the Angels were called the Iounes of God, because of their excellencie; therefore the King called this Angel, whome God sent to comfort his in these great torments, the Ioune of Goa l This comendeth their obedience vnto God that they wolde not for any feare departe out of this for nace til the tyme was appointed, as Noah remained in the Arke til the Lord called him forthe
 m He was moued by ygreatnes of the miracle to praise God, but his heart was not touched And here we se that miracles are not sufficient to conuert men to God, but y doctrine must chiefly be adioyned, without the which there can be no faith
 n If this heathen King moued by Gods Spirit, wolde not se blaspemy unpunished, but made a Law and set a punishment to suche transgressors, muche more ought all they that professe religion, take order that suche impietie reigne not, lest accordig as their knowledge & charge is greater, so they suffer double punishment o Meaning, so farre as his dominion extended was answered, to the intent that liuing mé may knowe, that y^e moſte high hath the power ouer the kingdome of men, and giueth it to whome ſoever he wil, and appointeth ouer it the moſte abieſt among men.

15 This is the dreame, that I King Nebuchad-nezzár haue ſene: therefore thou, ó Belteſhazzár, declare the interpretation thereof: for all the wiſe men of my kingdome are not able to ſhewe me the interpretation: but thou art able, for the ſpirit of the holy gods is in thee.

16 ¶ Then Daniél (whoſe name was Belteſhazzár) held his^k peace by the ſpace of one houre, and his thoughts troubled him, & the King ſpake and ſaid, Belteſhazzár, let nether the dreame, nor the interpretation thereof trouble thee. Belteſhazzár answered and ſaid, My lord, the dreame be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof, to thine enemies.

17 The tre^l y^e thou ſaweſt, which was great and mightie, whoſe height reached vnto the heauen, and the ſight thereof throught all the worlde,

18 Whoſe leaues were faire & the frute thereof muche, and in it was meat for all, vnder the which the beaſts of the field dwelt, and vpon whoſe branches the foules of the heauen did ſit, 19 It is thou, ó King, y^e art great & mightie: for thy greatnes is growen, & reacheth vnto heauen, & thy dominion to the ends of the earth.

20 Where as the King ſawe a watchman, & an holy one, that came downe from heauen, and ſaid, Hewe downe the tre & deſtroy it, yet leaue the ſtump of the rootes thereof in the earth, and with a bande of yron and braſſe binde it among the graſſe of the field, & let it be wet with the dewe of heauen, and let his porcion be with the beaſts of the field, ⁱ til ſeuē times paſſe ouer him,

21 This is the interpretation, ó King, and it is the decree of the moſte high, which is come vpon my lord the King, 22 That they ſhal driue thee from men, & thy dwelling ſhalbe with the beaſts of the field: they ſhal make thee to eat graſſe as y^e oxen, & they ſhal wet thee with the dewe of heauen: and ſeuē times ſhal paſſe ouer thee, til thou knowe, that ^a the moſte high beareth rule ouer the kingdome of men, and giueth it to whome ſoever he wil.

23 Where as they ſaid, that one ſhulde leaue the ſtump of the tre rootes, thy kingdome ſhal remaine vnto thee: after that, thou ſhalt knowe, that the heauens haue the rule.

24 Wherefore, ó King, let my counſel be acceptable vnto thee, and ^o breake of thy ſinnes by righteousnes, & thine iniquities by mercie toward the poore: lo, let there be an^r healing of thine errour.

25 All theſe things ſhal come vpon y^e King Nebuchad-nezzár.

26 ¶ At the end of twelue moneths, he walked in the royal palace of Babel.

27 And the King ſpake and ſaid, Is not this great Babel, that I haue buylt for the houſe of the kingdome by the might of my power, and for the honour of my maiestie?

28 While y^e worde was in the Kings mouth, a voyce came downe from heauen, ſaying, O King Nebuchad-nezzár, to thee be it ſpoken, Thy kingdome is departed from thee, 29 And they ſhal driue thee from men, and thy dwelling ſhalbe with the beaſts of the field: they ſhal make thee to eat graſſe, as the oxen, and ſeuē times ſhal paſſe ouer thee, vntil thou knoweſt, that y^e moſt high beareth rule ouer the kingdome of men, & giueth it vnto whome ſoever he wil.

30 The very ſame houre was this thing fulfilled vpon Nebuchad-nezzár, and he was driuen from men, and did eat graſſe as the oxen, and his bodie was wet with the dewe of heauen, til his heeres were growen as egles feathers and his nailes like birds clawes.

31 And at the end of theſe^r dayes I Nebuchad-nezzár liſt vp mine eyes vnto heauen, and mine vnderſtanding was reſtored vnto me, and I gaue thanks vnto the moſte high, and I praied and honored him that liueth for euer, ^{*} whoſe power is an euerlaſting power, and his kingdome is from generation to generation.

32 And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: and according to his^r wil he worketh in the armie of heauen, & in the inhabitants of the earth: and none can ſtay his hand, nor ſay vnto him, What doeſt thou?

33 At the ſame time was mine vnderſtanding reſtored vnto me, and I returned to the honour of my kingdome: my glorie and my beautie was reſtored vnto me, and my counſellours^r and my princes ſoght vnto me, & I was eſtabliſhed in my kingdome, and my glorie was augmented toward me.

34 Now therefore I Nebuchad-nezzár^u praieſe, and extoll & magnifie the King of heauen, whoſe workes are all true, and his wayes iudgement, and thoſe that walke in pride, he is able to abate.

i Read Chap 4: 6: and this declareth, that bothe this name was odious vnto him and also that he did not vsē these vile practises, because he was not among them when all were called.

King Belshazzár made a great feast to a thousand of his princes, and dranke wine before the thousand.
And Belshazzár whiles he tasted the wine, commanded to bring him the golden and siluer vessels, which his father Nebuchadnezzár had broght from the Temple in Ierusalém, that the King and his princes, his wife, and his concubines might drinke therein.
Then were broght the goldē vessels, that were takē out of the Temple of the Lords house at Ierusalém, and the King and his princes, his wiues, and his concubines drā-ke in them.
They drōke wine and praised the gods of golde, and of siluer, of brasse, of yron, of wood and of stone.
At the same houre appeared fingers of a mans hand, which wrote ouer against the candlestick vpon the plaister of the wall of the Kings palace, & the King sawe the palme of the hand that wrote.
Then the Kings countenance was changed, and his thoughts troubled him, so that the royntes of his loines were loosēd, and his knees smote one against the other.
Wherefore the King cryed loud, that they shulde bring the astrologians, the Cal-deans and the sothsaers. And the King spake, and said to the wise men of Babél, Whosoever can read this writing, and declare me the interpretaciō thereof, shal-be clothed with purple, & shal haue a chaine of golde about his necke, and shalbe the third ruler in the kingdome.
Then came all the Kings wise men, but they colde nether read the writing, nor shewe the King the interpretacion.
Then was King Belshazzár greatly troubled, and his countenance was changed in him, and his princes were astonied.
Now the Queene by reason of the talke of the King, and his princes came into the banquet house, and the Queene spake, and said, O King, liue for euer: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed.
There is a mā in thy kingdome, in who-me is the spirit of the holie gods, and in the dayes of thy father light and vnder-standing & wisdomē like the wisdomē of the gods, was found in him: whome the King Nebuchad-nezzár thy father the King, I say, thy father, made chief of the enchanters, astrologians, Caldeans, and sothsaers,
Because a more excellent spirit, and knowledge, and vnderstanding (for he did expounde dreames, and declare hard sentences, and dissolued doubts) were founde in him, euen in Daniél, whome the King named Belshazzár: now let Daniél be called, and he wil declare the interpretacion.

Then was Daniél broght before the King, and the King spake and said vnto Daniél, Art thou that Daniél, which art of the children of the captiuitie of Iudáh, whome my father the King broght out of Ierusalem?
Now I haue heard of thee, that the spirit of the holie gods is in thee, & that light and vnderstanding and excellēt wisdomē is found in thee.
Now therefore wisemen, & astrologians haue bene broght before me, that they shulde read this writing, and shewe me the interpretacion thereof: but they col-de not declare the interpretacion of the thing.
Then heard I of thee, that thou couldest shewe interpretacions, and dissolue doutes: now if thou canst read the writing, & shewe me the interpretacion thereof, thou shalt be clothed with purple, & shalt haue a chaîne of golde about thy necke, and shalt be the third ruler in the kingdome.
Then Daniél answered, and said before the King, Kepe thy rewardes to thy self, & giue thy giftes to another: yet I wil read the writing vnto the King and shewe him the interpretacion.
O King, heare thou, The moste high God gaue vnto Nebuchad-nezzár thy father a kingdome, and maiestie and honour and glorie.
And for the maiestie that he gaue him, all people, nations, and langages trembled, & feared before him: he put to death whome he wolde: he smote whome he wolde: who-me he wolde he set vp, & whome he wolde he put downe.
But when his heart was puffed vp, and his minde hardened in pride, he was deposed from his kinglie throne, and they toke his honour from him.
And he was driuen from the sonnes of men, & his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wilde asses:
they fed him with grasse like oxen, and his bodie was wet with the dewe of the heauen, til he knewe, that the moste high God bare rule ouer the kingdome of mé, and that he appointeth ouer it, whome soeuer he pleaseth.
And thou his sonne, O Belshazzár, hast not hūbled thine heart, though thou knewest all these things,
But hast lift thy self vp against the Lord of heauen, and they haue broght the vessels of his House before thee, & thou and thy princes, thy wiues and thy concubines

27 TEKEL, thou art wayed in the balance, and art founde to light.

28 PERES, thy kingdome is diuided, and giuen to the Medes and Persians.

29 Then at the commandment of Belshazzar they clothed Daniél with purple, and put a chaine of golde about his necke, and made a proclamacion concerning him that he should be the thirde ruler in the kingdome.

30 The same night was Belshazzar y King of the Caldeans slaine.

31 And Darius of the Medes toke y kingdome, being threescore and two yere olde.

CHAP. VI.

Daniél is made ruler ouer the gouernours. An arte against Daniél 16 He is put into a denne of Lyons by the commandment of the King 23 He is deliuered by faith in God 24 Daniels accusers are put vnto the Lyons. 25 Darius by a decree magnifieth the God of Daniél

o Cyrus his sonne in lawe gaue him this title of honour although Cyrus in effect had y dominion

1 It pleased Darius to set ouer the kingdome an hundredth and twentie gouernours, which should be ouer y whole kingdome.

2 And ouer these, thre rulers (of whome Daniél was one) that the gouernours might giue accompts vnto them, and the King should haue no damage.

3 Now this Daniél was preferred aboue the rulers and gouernours, because the spirit was excellent in him, and the King thought to set him ouer the whole realme.

4 Wherefore the rulers and gouernours sought an occasion against Daniél concerning the kingdome: but they coulde finde none occasiō nor faute: for he was so faithful that there was no blame nor faute founde in him.

5 Then said these mé, We shall not finde an occasion against this Daniél, except we finde it against him concerning the Law of his God.

6 Therefore the rulers and these gouernours went together to the King, and said thus vnto him, King Darius, liue for euer.

7 All the rulers of thy kingdome the officers and gouernours, the counsellors, and dukes haue consulted together to make

8 Now, O King, confirme the decree, and seale the writing, that it be not changed according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

9 Wherefore King Darius sealed the writing and the decree.

10 ¶ Now when Daniél vnderstode that he had sealed the writing, he went into his house, and his window being open in his chamber toward Ierusalém, he kneeied vpon his knees thre times a day, & prayed and praised his God, as he did afore time.

11 Then these men assembled, and founde Daniél praying, and making supplicacion vnto his God.

12 So they came, and spake vnto the King concerning the Kings decree, Hast thou not sealed the decree, that euerie man that shall make request to any god or mā within thirtie dayes, saue to thee, O King, shall be cast into the denne of Lyons? The King answered, and said, The thing is true, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

13 Then answered they, and said vnto the King, This Daniél which is of the children of the captiuitie of Iudáh, regardeth not thee, O King, nor the decree, that thou hast sealed, but maketh his petition thre times a day.

14 When the King heard these wordes, he was sore displeasid with him self, and set his heart on Daniél, to deliuer him: and he laboured til the sunne went downe, to deliuer him.

15 Then these men assembled vnto the King, and said vnto the King, Vnderstand, O King, that the law of the Medes and Persians is, that no decree nor statute, which the King confirmeth, may be altered.

16 ¶ Then the King commanded, and they brought Daniél, and cast him into the denne of Lyons: now the King spake, and said vnto Daniél, Thy God, whome thou alway seruest, euen he wil deliuer thee.

17 And a stone was brought, and layed vpon the mouthe of the denne, and the King sealed it with his owne signet, & with the signet of his pynces, that the purpose might not be changed, concerning Daniél.

18 Then the King went vnto his palace, and remained fasting, neither were the instruments of musick brought before him, and his slepe went from him.

19 ¶ Then the King arose early in the morning, and went in all haste vnto the denne of Lyons.

d Herein is condemned the wickednes of the King, who wolde be set vp as a god, & passed not what wicked lawes he appointed for the maintenance of the same. Because he wolde not by his silence shew that he consented to this wicked decree, he set open his windowes toward Ierusalém, when he prayed: bothe to stirre vp himself with the remembrance of Gods promises to his people when they should pray toward that Temple, & also y others might see that he wolde neither consent in heart nor dede for these fewe dayes to any thing that was contrary to Gods glorie.

f Thus the wicked maner of the lawes by constancie, and auctoritie, which is oft times either lightenes, or subbernes when as the innocents thereby perish: & therefore gouernours neither ought to feare nor be ashamed to breake such.

a Read Ester Chap 1, 1 or, not be troubled.

b This heathen King preferred Daniél a stranger to all his nobles, & familiars, because the graces of God were more excellent in him then in others

c Thus the wicked can not abide the graces of God in others, but seek by all occasions to deface them: therefore against such the affalter there is no better remedie then to walke uprightly in y feare of God, and to haue a good conscience.

20 And when he came to the denne, he cryed with a lamentable voyce vnto Daniél, & the King spake, and said to Daniél, O Daniél, the seruant of the liuing God, is not thy God (whome thou alwaie seruest) able to deliuer thee from the lions?

21 Then said Daniél vnto the King, O King, liue for euer.

22 My God hath sent his Angel and hath shut the lions mouthes, that they haue not hurt me: for my iustice was found out before him: & vnto thee, O King, I haue done no hurte.

23 Then was the King exceeding glad for him, and commadéd that they shulde take Daniél out of the denne: so Daniél was brought out of the denne, and no maner of hurte was founde vpon him, because he beleued in his God.

24 And by the commandement of the King these men which had accused Daniél, were brought, & were cast into the denne of lions, euen they, their children, and their wiues: and the lions had the mastrie of them, and brake all their bones a peeces, or euer they came at the grounde of the denne.

25 Afterwarde King Darius wrote, Vnto all people, nations & langages, that dwell in all the worlde: Peace be multiplied vnto you.

26 I make a decre that in all the dominion of my kingdome, men tremble and feare before the God of Daniél: for he is the liuing God, and remaineth for euer: and his kingdome shal not perish, and his dominion shal be euerlasting.

27 He rescueth and deliuereth, & he worketh signes and wonders in heauen & in earth: who hath deliuered Daniél from the power of the lyons.

28 So this Daniél prospered in the reigne of Darius & in the reigne of Cyrus of Persia.

g This declareth that Darius was not touched with true knowledge of God, because he doubted of his power h My misde cause, and vprighnes in this thing, where in I was charged, is approved of God.
i For he did disobey the Kings wicked commandement to obey God, and so did no iniurie to the King who ought to commande nothing, whereas God shulde be dishonoured k Because he committed himself wholly vnto God whose cause he did defend, he was assured, y^e nothing but good coulde come vnto him: whereas we see the power of faith, as Ebr 11, 33
l This is a terrible example against all the wicked, which do against their conscience make cruel lawes to destroye the childre of God & also admonisheth princes how to punish such, where their wickednes is come to light: though not in euery point or with like circumstances, yet to execute true iustice vpon them
m This proueth that Darius did worship God right, or els was conuerted: for then he wolde haue destroyed all superstition and idolatrie, & not onely giuen God the chief place, but onely haue set him vp, and caused him to be honored according to his worde: but this was a certaine confession of Gods power, wherunto he was compelled by this wonderful miracle n Which hath not onely life in him self, but is the onelic fountaine of life, & quickeneth all things, so that without him there is no life.

8 As I considered the hornes, beholde, there came vp among them another litle horne, before whome there were thre of the first hornes plucked awaie: & beholde, in this horne were eyes like the eyes of a man, and a mouthe speaking presumptuous things.

CHAP. VII.

3 A vision of foure beastes is shewed vnto Daniél
 4 The ten hornes of the fourth beast. 27 Of the euerlasting kingdome of Christ.

IN the first yere of Belshazzar King of Babél, Daniél sawe a dreame, and these were visions in his head, vpon his bed: then he wrote the dreame, & declaired the summe of the matter.

Daniél spake and said, I sawe in my vision that this rest shal not be a deliuerance from all troubles, but a beginning, & therefore encouraged the to loke for a continual affliction til the Messiah be vttered and reuiled, by whome they shulde haue a spiri- tual deliuerance, and all the promises fulfilled: whereof they shulde haue a cer- teine token in the destruccion of the Babylonical kingdome.

a Where as the people of Israél looked for a continual quietnes after these sciencie yeres, as Ieremiah had declaired, he sheweth that this rest shal not be a deliuerance from all troubles, but a beginning, & therefore encouraged the to loke for a continual affliction til the Messiah be vttered and reuiled, by whome they shulde haue a spiri- tual deliuerance, and all the promises fulfilled: whereof they shulde haue a cer- teine token in the destruccion of the Babylonical kingdome.

10 A fyrie streame yssued, and came forth from before him: thousand thousands ministered vnto him, and ten thousand thousands stode before him: the iudgement was set, and the booke opened.

11 Then I behelde, because of the voyce of the presumptuous wordes, which the horne spake: I behelde, euen til the beast was flaine, and his bodie destroyed, and giuen to the burning fyre.

12 As concerning the other beastes, they had taken awaie their dominion yet their liues were prolonged for a certeine time and season.

13 ¶ As I behelde in visions by night, beholde, one like the Sonne of man came in the cloudes of heauen, and approached vnto the Ancient of daies, & they brought him before him.

14 And he gaue him dominion, & honour, and a kingdome, that all people, nations and langages shulde serue him: his dominion is an euerlasting dominion, which shal neuer be taken awaie: and his kingdome shal neuer be destroyed.

15 ¶ I Daniél was troubled in my spirit, in the middes of my bodie, and the visions of mine head made me afraid.

16 Therefore I came vnto one of them that stode by, and asked him the trueth of all this: so he tolde me, and shewed me the interpretation of these things.

17 These great beastes which are foure, are foure Kings, which shal arise out of the earth, 18 And they shal take the kingdome of the Sainctes of the moste high, and possesse the kingdome for euer, euen for euer and euer.

19 ¶ After this, I wolde knowe the trueth of the fourth beast, which was so vnlike to all the others, very feareful, whose teeth were of yron, and his nailes of brasse: which deuoured, brake in pieces, and stamped the residue vnder his fete.

20 Also to knowe of the ten hornes that were in his head, & of the other which came vp before whome three fell, and of the horne that had eyes, and of the mouth that spake presumptuous things, whose loke was more stoute then his felowes.

21 I behelde, & the same horne made batel against the Sainctes, yea, and preuailed against them, 22 Vntil the Ancient of daies came, and iudgement was giuen to the Sainctes of the moste high: and the time approached, that the Sainctes possessed the kingdome.

23 Thē he said, The fourth beast shal be the fourth kingdome in the earth, which shal be vnlike to all the kingdomes, and shal deuoure the whole earth, and shal treade it downe and breake it in pieces.

24 And the ten hornes out of this kingdome are ten Kings that shal rise: & another shal rise after thē, and he shal be vnlike to the first, and he shal subdue thre Kings, 25 And shal speake wordes against the moste high, & shal cōsume the Sainctes of the moste high, & thinke he maie change times and lawes, and they shal be giuen into his hand, vntil a time, and times & the deuiding of time.

26 But the iudgement shal sit, & they shal take awaie his dominion, to consume and destroye it vnto the end.

27 And the kingdome, and dominion, and the greatnes of the kingdome vnder the heauen shal be giuen to the holie people of the moste high, whose kingdome is an euerlasting kingdome & all powers shal serue and obeie him.

28 Euen this is the end of the matter, I Daniél had manie cogitations which troubled me, and my countenance changed in me: but I kept the matter in mine heart.

nius, Tyberius Caligula, Nero, Domitianus &c q God shal suffer them thus to rage against his Sainctes for a long time, which is ment by the time and times but at length he wil avenge these troubles and shorten the times for his elects sake, Mat 24, 22 which is here ment by the diuiding of time r God by his power shal restore things that were out of order, and so destroye this litle horne, that it shal neuer rise vp againe s He sheweth wherefore the beast shulde be destroyed, so wit, that his Church might haue rest and quietnes, which though they do not fully inioye here, yet they haue it in hope and by the preaching of the Gospell enioye the beginning thereof, which is ment by these wordes vnder the beauris: & therefore he here speaketh of the beginning of Christs kingdome in this worlde, which kingdome is faithful haue by participation that they haue with Christ their head t That is, some of euerie sorte that beare rule u Though he had manie motions in his heart, & moued him to and fro to seeke out this matter curiously: yet he was content with that which God reueiled, and kept it in memorie and wrote it for the use of the Church.

9 This is ment of the first coming of Christ when as he wil of God was plainly reueiled by his Gospell

10 Meaning, he was ashamed, when he sawe these Emperours in such dignities, & pride, & so sadly destroyed at the coming of Christ when this fourth monarchie was subiect to men of other nations

11 As the three former monarchies had an end at the time that God appointed, although they flourished for a time, so shal this fourth haue & they that patiently abide Gods appointment, shal inioye the promises

12 Which is ment of Christ who had not yet taken vpon him mans nature, neither was the sonne of Dauid according to flesh, as he was afterwards: but appeared then in a figure, and shal in cloudes: that is, being separate from the common sorte of men by manifeste signes of his diuinitie

13 To wit, when he ascended into the heauen, and his diuine maiestie appeared, and all power was giuen vnto him in respect of that that he was our Mediator

14 This is ment of the beginning of Christs kingdome when God the Father gaue vnto him all dominion, as to the Mediator, to the intent that he shulde gouerne here his Church in earth continually til the time that he brought the to eternal life d Through the stragings of the vision. e Meaning, of the Angels, as ver 10 f Because Abraham was appointed heire of all the worlde Ro 4, 13 & in him all the faithful, therefore the kingdome thereof is theirs by right, which these foure beastes or tyrants shulde invade, and usurpe vntil the worlde were restored by Christ: and this was to confirme them that were in troubles, that their afflictions shulde haue an end at length g That is, of the moste he things, because God hath chosen them out of this worlde, they shulde looke vp to the heauen, whereon all their hope dependeth h For the other three monarchies were gouerned by a King, and the Romaine empire by Consuls: the Romans changed their gouernours yerely, & the other monarchies retained them for terme of life: also the Romans were the strongest of all the other, and were neuer quiet among themselves. CHAP. VIII.

A vision of a battel betwene a ramme and a goat: 20 The understanding of the vision.

1 IN the thirde yere of the reigne of King Belshazzar, a vision appeared vnto me, euen vnto me Daniél, after that which appeared vnto me at the first.

2 And I sawe in a vision, & when I sawe it, I was in the palace of Shushán, which is in the prouince of Elám; & in a vision meg Though he came in the name of all Grecia, yet he baze the title & dignitie of the general captaine, so that the strength was attributed to him, which is meant by this horne

 h Alexander ouercame Darius in two foadry battels, and so had 3 two kingdomes of the Medes and Persians i Alexanders great power was broken: for when he had ouercome all 3 East, he thought to returne towarde Grecia to subdue them that there had rebelled, and so dyed by the way k That is, 3 were famous: for almoste in the space of fiftene yere the re were sicken diuers successours before this monarchie was deuided to these foure, where of Cassander had Macedonia, Seleucus, Syria, Antigonus Asia the Iesse, and Ptolemeus Egypt
 l Which was Antiochus Epiphanes, who was of a seruile and flattering nature, and also there were other betwene him & the kingdome, and therefore is here called the litle horne, because nether princelie conditions, nor any other thing was in him, why he shulde obtaine this kingdome

 q That is, God, who gouerneth and mainetneth his Church r He labored to abolish all religion, & therefore cast Gods seruice out of his Temple, which God had choise as a litle corner from all the rest of 3 worlde to hate his Name there truly called vpon s He sheweth that their finnes are the cause of these horrible afflictions: and yet comforteth them, in that he appointeth this tyrant a time, whome he wolde not suffer vterly to abolish his religion.

thought I was by the riuer of Vlái.
 3 Then I loked vp and sawe, and beholde, there stode before the riuer a c rāme, which had two hornes: and these two hornes were hie: but one was d hier then another, & the hiest came vp last.
 4 I sawe the i am puffhing against 3 West and against the North, and against the South: so that no e beastes might stande before him, nor colde deliuer out of his hand, but he did what he listid, and became great.
 5 And as I considered, beholde, f a goat came from the West ouer the whole earth, & touched not the grounde: & this goat had an r horne that appeared betwene his eyes.
 6 And he came vnto the ram that had the two hornes, whome I had sene standing by the riuer, and ranne vnto him in his fierce rage.
 7 And I sawe him come vnto the ramme, & being moued against him, he h smote the ramme, and brake his two hornes: & there was no power in the rāme to stand against him, but he cast him downe to the groude, and stamped vpon him, & there was none that colde deliuer the ramme out of his power.
 8 Therefore 3 goat waxed exceedig great, and when he was at the strongest, his great i horne was broken: and for it came vp foure that k appeared towarde the foure windes of the heauen.
 9 And out of one of them came forth l a litle horne, which waxed very great towarde the m South, and towarde the n East, and towarde the o pleasant land.
 10 Yea, it grewe vp vnto the p hoste of heauen, and it cast downe some of the hoste, & of the starres to the grounde, and trode vpon them,
 11 And extolled him self against the q prince of the hoste from whome the r daile sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his Sanctuarie was cast downe.
 12 And s a time shal be giuē him ouer the daile sacrifice for the iniquitie: & it shal t cast downe the truth to the grounde, & thus shal it do, and prosper.
 13 Then I heard one of the u Sainctes speaking, & one of 3 Sainctes spake vnto a cer teine one, saying, How long shal endure the vision of the daile sacrifice, and the iniquitie of the x defolation to tread bothe the Sanctuarie and the y armie vnder fote?

 14 And z he answered me, Vnto the a euening and the moining, two thousand and thre hundredth: then shal the Sanctuarie be clenfed.
 15 ¶ Now when I Daniél had sene the vision, and soght for the meaning, beholde, there stode before me b like the similitude of a man.
 16 And I heard a mans voyce betwene the bankes of Vlái, which called and said, Gabriél, c make this man to vnderstand the vision.
 17 So he came where I stode: and when he came, I was afraid, and fel vpon my face: but he said vnto me, Vnderstand, ó sonne of man: for d in the last time shal be the vision.
 18 Now as he was speaking vnto me, I being a slepe fel on my face to the grounde: but he touched me, and set me vp in my place.
 19 And he said, Beholde, I wil shewe thee what shal be in the last e wrath: for in the end of the time appointed it shal come.
 20 The ramme which thou sawest hauing two hornes, are the Kings of the Medes & Persians.
 21 And the goat is the King of Grecia, & the great horne that is betwene his eyes, is the first King.
 22 And that that is broken, and foure stode vp for it, are foure kingdomes, which shal stand vp f of that nacion, but not g in his strength.
 23 And in the end of their kingdome, when the rebellious shal be consumed, a King of h fierce countenance, and vnderstanding darke sentences, shal stand vp.
 24 And his power shal be mightie, but not i in his strength: and he shal destroie wonderfully, & shal prosper, and practise, and shal destroie the k mightie, and the holy people.
 25 And through his l policie also, he shal cause craft to prosper in his hand, and he shal extoll him self in his heart, and by m peace shal destroy many; he shal also stand vp against the n prince of princes, but he shal be broken downe o without hand.
 26 And the vision of the p euening and the moining, which is declared, is true: therefore seale thou vp the vision, for it shal be after many daies.

17 Now therefore, o our God, heare the prayer of thy ſeruant, and his ſupplica- tions, and cauſe thy face to ſhine vpon thy Sanctuarie, that lyeth waſte for the Lords ſake.

18 O my God, encline thine eare and hea- re: open thine cies, and beholde our deſo- lations, and the citie whereupon thy Na- me is called: for we do not preſent our ſupplications before thee for our owne righteousnes, but for thy great tendre mercies.

CHAP. XI.

A prophetic of the kingdomes, which shoulde be enemies to the Church of God, as of Persia, 3 Of Grecia, 5 Of Egypt, 28 Of Syria, 36 And of the Remaines

1 Also I, in the first yere of Darius of the Medes, euen I stode to encourage and to strengthen him.

2 And now wil I shewe thee the trueth. Be-holde, there shal stand vp yet three Kings in Persia, and the fourth shalbe farre richer then they all: and by his strength, & by his riches he shal stur vp all against the realme of Grecia.

3 But a mightie King shal stand vp, that shal rule with great dominion, and do according to his pleasure.

4 And when he shal stand vp, his kingdome shalbe broken, and shalbe deuided toward the foure windes of heauen: & not to his posteritie, nor according to his dominion, which he ruled: for his kingdome shalbe pluckt vp, euen to be for others besides those.

5 And the King of the South shalbe mightie, and one of his princes, and shal preuaile against him, and beare rule: his dominion shalbe a great dominion.

6 And in the end of yeres they shalbe ioyn-ed together: for the Kings daughter of the South shal come to the King of the North to make an agreement, but she shal not reterne the power of the arme, nether shal he continue, nor his arme: but f He sheweth that he shal not onely afflict the Egyptians, but also g This was the seconde battell: that Antiochus fought against Prolemus Epih To write a beautiful woman, was Cleopatra Antiochus daughter i For he regarded not the life of his daughter in respect of the kingdome of Egypt

k She shal not agre to his wicked counsel, but shal loue her household, as her duetie requireth, and not seke his destruction

That is, ro- 18 After this shal he turne his face vnto the wardes Asia, Grecia & those yles which are in the sea called Mediteranean: for the Jewes called all countreys les which were deuided from them by sea. m For where as Antiochus was wont to continue the Romaines, & put their ambassadours to shame in all places, Attilius Consul, or Lucius Scipio put him to flight and caused his shame to turne on his owne head. n By his wicked life and obeying of foolish counsel. o For feare of the Romaines he shal see to his holdes. p For when as vnder the presence of power he wolde haue robbed the temple of Iupiter Dodoneus, the countreymen slew him. q That is, Seleucus shal succede his father Antiochus. r Not by foraine enemies or battell, but by treason. s Which was Antiochus Epiphaneus, who as is thought, was the occasion of Seleucus his brothers death and was of a vile, cruel & flattering nature, and defrauded his brothers sonne of his kingdom without his consent of the people. t He sheweth his great foraine powers shal come to helpe the young sonne of Seleucus against his vnkle Antiochus, & yet shalbe ouerthrowen. u Meaning Ptolomeus Philometor Philopatres sonne, who was this childes cousin germaine, & is here called prince of the countreys, because he was the chief, & all other followed his conduct. x For after his battell Philometor & his vnkle Antiochus made a league. y For he came vnto him at vovages, & when he suspected his vnkle Antiochus nothing. z Meaning in Egypt. a He wil content him self with the swaile holdes for a time, but euer labor by craft to attaine to the chiefe. b He shalbe ouercome with treason. c Signifying his vnkle and his chief about him. d Declaring his soldiers shal braut out & vtture their life to stay & to be slaine for the sauegarde of their prince. e The vnkle & the nephewe shal take truce, & banke together, et in their hearts they shal imagine mischief one against another. f Signifying that it standeth not in the counsel of men to bring things to passe, but in the prouidence of God who ruleth the Kings by a secret bridel. g They can not do what they list the scilicet. h Which he shal take of the Jewes in spoiling Ierusalem & the Temple, & this is tolde the before to moue them to pacience, knowing all things are done by Gods prouidence. i That is, the Romaine power shal come against him: for Popilius the ambassador appointed him to depart in the Romaines name. k To which thing he obeyed, although with grief, and to revenge his rage he came against the people of God the seconde time.

18 After this shal he turne his face vnto the yles; & shal take many, but a prince shal cause his shame to light vpon him, beside that he shal cause his owne shame to turne vpon him self. 19 For he shal turne his face toward the fortres of his owne land: but he shalbe ouerthrowen & fall, & be no more founde. 20 Then shal stand vp in his place in his glorie of the kingdom, one that shal raise taxes: but after fewe dayes he shalbe destroyed, nether in wrath, nor in battell. 21 And in his place shal stand vp a vile person, to whome they shal not give honor of his kingdom: but he shal come in peaceably, & obtaine the kingdom by flateries. 22 And the armes shalbe ouerthrowen with a flood before him, & shalbe broken: and also the prince of the countreys. 23 And after the league made with him, he shal worke disceitfully: for he shal come vp, and ouercome with a small people. 24 He shal entre into the quiet and plentiful prouince, and he shal do that which his fathers haue not done, nor his fathers fathers: he shal deuide among them the pray and the spoile, and the substance, yea, & he shal forecast his deuisis against the strong holdes, euen for a time. 25 Also he shal stirre vp his power and his courage against the King of the South with a great armie, and the King of the South shalbe stirred vp to battell with a very great and mightie armie: but he shal not stand: for he shal forecast & practise against him. 26 Yea, they that fede of the portio of his meat, shal destroy him. & his armie shal ouerflowe: & many shal fall, & be slaine. 27 And bothe these Kings hearts shalbe to do mischief, & they shal talke of disceite at one table: but it shal not auaille: for yet the end shalbe at the time appointed. 28 Then shal he returne into his land with great suostice: for his heart shalbe against the holie couenant: so shal he do and returne to his owne land. 29 At the time appointed he shal returne, and come toward the South: but the last shal not be as the first. 30 For the shippes of Chittim shal come against him: therefore he shalbe sorte and returne, and fight against the holie couen-nant: so shal he do, he shal euen returne & haue intelligence with them that forsake the holie couenant. 31 And armes shal stand on his parte, and they shal pollute the Sanctuarie of strength, & shal take away the dailie sacrifice, & they shal set vp the abominable desolation. 32 And such as wickedly breake the couenant, shal he cause to sinne by flatterie: but the people that do knowe their God, shal preuaile and prosper. 33 And they that vnderstand among the people, shal instruct many: yet they shal fall by sworde, and by flame, by captiuitie and by spoile many dayes. 34 Now when they shal fall, they shal be holpen with a litle helpe: but many shal cleaue vnto them & fainedly. 35 And some of them of vnderstanding shal fall to trye them, and to purge, & to make them white, til the time be out: for there is a time appointed. 36 And the King shal do what him list: he shal exalte him self, & magnifie him self against all, that is God, & shal speake marueilous things against the God of gods, & shal prosper, til his wrath be accomplished: for the determination is made. 37 Nether shal he regarde the God of his fathers, nor the desires of women, nor care for any God: for he shal magnifie him self about all. 38 But in his place shal he honour the god Mauzzim, & the god whome his fathers knewe not, shal he honour with golde and with siluer, and with precious stones, and pleasant things. 39 Thus shal he do in the holdes of Mauzzim with a strange god whome he shal acknowledge: he shal increase his glorie, and shal cause them to rule ouer many, & shal diuide the land for gaue. 40 And at the end of time shal the King of the South push at him, and the King of the North shal come against him like a whirle winde with charrets, & with horsemen, and with many shippes, and he shal entre into the countreys, & shal ouerflowe and passe through.

With the Jewes which shal forsake the couenant of the Lord: for first he was called against the Jewes by Laon the hie Priest, and this seconde time by Menelaus. k A great faction of wicked Jewes shal holde with Antiochus. l So called, because of power of God was nothing diminished, although this tyrant set vp in the Temple the image of Iupiter Olympius, and so began to corrupt the pure seruice of God. m Meaning such as bare the name of Jewes but in dede were nothing lesse: for they sold their soules, and betrayed their brethren for gaue. n They that remaine constant among the people, shal teache others by their example and edifie many in the true religion. o Whereby he exhorteth the godlie to constancie although they shalbe persecuted with a thousand times, and though their miseries endure neuer so long. p As God will not issue his Church destitute, yet will he not deliuer it all at once, but so helpe, as they may sturme to fight vnder the cruell se, as he did in the time of the Maccabees whereof he here prophesied. q That is, there shalbe a covenent of this maner number many hypocrites. r To wit, of them that feare God & wil lose their life for the defense of true religion, signifying also that the Church must continually be tryed and purged & ought to loke for one persecution after another: for God hath appointed the time: therefore we must obey. s Because the Angels purpose is to shewe the whole course of the persecutions of the Jewes vnto the coming of Christ, he now speaketh of the monarchie of the Romaines which he netherly by the name of a King, who were with us all religion & contemned the true God. t So long the tyrants shal preuaile as God hath appointed to punish his people: but he sheweth that it is but for a time. u The Romaines shal obserue no certaine forme of religion as other nations, but shal change their gods at their pleasures, yea, cōtēme them & preferre their selues to their gods. x Signifying that they shalbe without all humanities for the loue of women is taken for singular or great loue, as 2 Sam 126. y That is, the god of power and riches: they shal esteeme their owne power about all their gods & worship it. z Vnder presence of worshipping gods, they shal enriche their cities with the most precious Jewels of all the world, because that hereby all men shal haue an admiration for their power & riches. a Although in their hearts they had no religion, yet they did acknowledge the gods and worshipped them in their temples, lest they shalbe haue bene despised as atheistes: out this was to increase their fame and riches: and when they gate any countrey, they so made others the rulers thereof, yet the profite euer came to the Romaines. b That is, bothe the Egyptians & the Syrians shal at length fight against the Romaines, but they shalbe ouercome. xxx.ii.

The general resurrection. Daniél. Of patient abiding.

^a The Angel forewarneth ^g Jewes ^h when they shalbe se the Romaloes made them, and that the wicked shalbe escape their hands, ⁱ then they shalbe not thinke but that all this was done by Gods providence, for as much as he warned them of it so long a fore, and therefore he wolde fill preferre him ^j Hearing ^k Crassus was flaine & Antonius discobred ^l For Augustus overcame the Parthians, and reconered that which Antonius had lost. ^m The Romaloes after this reigned quietly through all countres & fro sea to sea, and in Judea: but at length for their cruelte God shal destroy them

^a The Angel here warneth two things: first ^b the Church shalbe in great affliction & trouble at Christs coming, and next that God wil send his Angel to deliuer it, whome here he calleth Michaél, meaning Christ, & is published by ^c Gospel ^d Meaning all shal rise at ^e general resurrection, & thing he here nameth, because ^f faithful shalbe haue euer their resp^t to ^g: for in ^h earth there shalbe no sure comfort ⁱ Who haue kept the true feare of God & his religion ^j He chiefly meaneth the ministers of Gods worde, & next, all the faithful which ^k ignorat, and bring them to the true knowledge of God ^l Though the moste parte despise this prophete, yet kepe thou it sure and esteeme it as a treasure. ^m Til the time that God hath appointed for the ful reuelation of these things: and then many shal runne to and fro to searche the knowledge of these mysteries, which things they obtaine now by the sight of the Gospel

41 He shal entre also into the e pleasant lād, & many ^a countres shalbe ouerthrowen: but these shal escape out of his hād, ^b Edó & Moáb, & the chief of ^c childré of Ammó. 42 He shal stretch forth the his hāds also vpō the countiers, and the land of Egypt shal not escape. 43 But he shal haue power ouer ^d treasures of gold & of siluer, & ouer all ^e precious things of Egypt, & of the Lybians, and of the blacke Mores where he shal passe. 44 But the tidings out of the East and the North shal ^f trouble hī: therefore he shal go forth the ^g with great wrath to destroy & roote out many. 45 And he shal plante ^h tabernacle ⁱ of his palace betwene ^j seas in the glorious and holie mountaine, yet he shal come to his end, & none shal helpe him.

CHAP. XII.

Of the deliuerance of the Church by Christ.

And at that ^a time shal Michaél stād vp, the great prince, which standeth for the children of thy people, and there shalbe a time of trouble, suche as neuer was since there began to be a nation vnto that same time: & at that time thy people shalbe deliuered, euerie one that shal be founde written in the boke. 2 And many ^b of thē that slepe in the dust of ^c earth, shal awake, some to euerlasting life, & some to shame & perpetual cotēpt. And thei that be ^d wise, shal shine, as the brightnes of the firmament: & they that ^e turne many to righteousnes, shal shine as the stāres, for euer and euer. 4 But thou, ^f Daniél, ^g shut vp the wordes, and seale the boke ^h til the end of the time: many shal runne to and fro, & knowledge shalbe increased. 5 ¶ Then I Daniél looked, and beholde, there stode other two, the one on this side of the brinke of the ^a riuier, and the other on that side of the brinke of the riuier. 6 And ^b or^s said vnto the mā clothed in linnen, which was vpon the waters of the riuier, When shalbe the end of these wōders? 7 And I heard the man clothed in linnen which was vpon the waters of the riuier, when he held vp his ^c right hand, & his left hand vnto heauen, & sware by him that liueth for euer, that ^d it shal tarie for ^e a time, two times & an halfe: and when he shal haue accomplished ^f to scatter the power of the holie people, all these things shalbe finished. 8 Then I heard it, but I vnderstode it not: then said I, O my Lord, what shal be the end of these things? 9 And he said, Go thy way, Daniél: for the wordes are closed vp, and sealed, til the end of the time. 10 Many shalbe purified, made white, and tried: but the wicked shal do wickedly, & none of the wicked shal haue vnderstanding: but the wise shal vnderstand. 11 And from the time that the ^a dailie ^b sacrifice shalbe taken away, and the abominable desolation set vp, there ^c shalbe a thousand, two hundred and ninetie dayes. 12 Blessed ^d is he that waiteth and commeth to the thousand, thre hundred and ^e siue and thirtie dayes. 13 But go ^f thou thy way til the end ^g be: for thou shalt rest and stand vp in thy lot, at the end of the dayes.

^h Which was as it were a double othe & did ⁱ more cōfirm the thig ^j Meaning, a lōg time, a lōg time, & at length a short time: signifyng that their troubles shulde haue an end.

^k When the Church shalbe scattered & dimittid in suche sorte as it shal seme to haue no power ^l Fro the time that Christ by his sacrifice shal take away ^m sacrifice & ce remoues of ⁿ Law. ^o Signifying that the time shalbe long of Christs secōde coming, and yet the children of God ought not to be discouraged, though it be deferred ^p In this number he addeth an halfe to the former nōber, signifyng ^q le is not in mā to appoint the time of Christs coming, but ^r they are blessed that patiently abide his appearing ^s The Angel warneth the Prophet patiently to abide, til the time appointed come, signifyng that he shulde departe this life, and rise againe with the ^t celest, when God had sufficiently bumbled & purged ius Church

HOSEA.

THE ARGUMENT.

After that the ten tribes had fallen away from God by the wicked and subtil counsel of Iero-boam the sonne of Nebat, and in steede of his true seruise commanded by his worde worshipped him according to their owne fantasies and traditions of men, giuing them selues to moste vile idolatrie and superstition, the Lord from time to time sent them Prophetes to call them to repentance: but they grewe euer worse and worse, and stil abused Gods benefites. Therefore now when their prosperitie was at the highest vnder Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash, God sent Hosea and Amos to the Israelites: (as he did at the same time Isaiah and Micah to them of Iudah) to cōdemne them of their ingratitude: and where as they thought them selues to be greatly in the fauour of God, and to be his people, the Prophet calleth them bastards and children borne in adulterie: and therefore sheweth them that God wolde take away their kingdome, and giue them to the Assyrians to be led away captiues. Thus Hosea faithfully executed his office for the space of seuentie yeres, though they remained stil in their vices & wickednes, & derided the Prophetes, & contemned Gods iudgements. And because they shulde nether be discouraged with threatnings onely, nor yet flatter them selues by the sweetenes of Gods promises, he setteth before them the two principal partes of the Law, which are the promes of saluation, and the doctrine of life: for the first parte he directeth the faithful to Messiah, by whome onely they shulde haue true deliuerance: and for the seconde, he vseth threatnings and manace: to bring them from their wicked maners and vices, & thus is the chief scope of all the Prophetes, ether by Gods promises to allure them to be godlie, els by threatnings of his iudgements to feare them frō vice: & albeit that the whole Law containe these two pointes, yet the Prophetes moreouer note peculiarly bothe the time of Gods iudgements and the maner.

CHAP. I.

1 The time wherein Hosea prophesied 2 The idolatrie of the people. 10 The calling of the Gentiles. 11 Christ is the head of all people.

a Called also Azariāh, who being a lepre was deposed from his kingdome.
b So y it may be gathered by the reigne of these foure Kings, that he preached aboue thre score yere

c That is, one that of long tīme hath accustomed to play the harlot: nor that y Prophet did this thing in effect, but he sawe this in a vision, or els was commanded by God to set forth the vnder this parable or figure y idolatrie of y Synagogue, & of the people her children.

d Gōmer significeth a consumption or corruption, & Dibilam cluflers of figges, declaring, that they were all corrupte like rotten figges

e Meaning, y they shulde be no more called Israelites, of the which name they boasted, because Israel did preuaile with God: but that they were as bastards, & therefore shulde be called Izreelites, that is, scattered people, alluding to Izreel, which was y chief cite of y ten tribes vnder Ahab where Iehulhad so murdered the blood, 2 King 10, 8 f I wil be reuenged vpon Iehu for the blood that he shed in Izreel: for albeit God stirred him vp to execute his iudgements, yet he did them for his owne ambitio, & not for the glorie of God, as the end declared: for he buyt vp that idolatrie, which he had destroyed g When the measure of their iniquitie is full, and I shal take vengeance and destroye all their policie and force h That is, not obtaining mercie: whereby he significeth, that Gods fauour was departed from them.

He worde of the Lord that came vnto Hosea the sonne of Beerī, in the dayes ^a of Vzziāh, Iotham, Ahāz, & Hezekiāh ^b Kings of Iudāh, & in y dayes of Ieroboām the sonne of Ioāth King of Israēl.

2 At the beginning the Lord spake by Hosea, and the Lord said vnto Hosea, Go, take vnto thee a wife of fornications, and children of fornicatiōs: for the land hath committed great whoredome, departing frō the Lord.

3 So he went, and toke ^d Gōmer, the daughter of Diblām, which conceived and bare him a sonne.

4 And the Lord said vnto him, Call his name ^e Izreel: for yet a litle, and I wil visite the blood of Izreel vpon the house ^f of Iehū, and wil cause to cease the kingdome of the house of Israēl.

5 And at that day wil I also breake y bow of Israēl in the valley of Izreel.

6 She cōceiued yet againe, & bare ^a a daughter, and God said vnto him, Call her name ^b Lo-ruhāmah: for I wil no more haue pitie vpon the house of Israēl: but I wil vter ly ⁱ take them away.

7 Yet I wil haue mercie vpon the house of Iudāh, and wil ^k saue them by the Lord their God, and wil not saue thē by bowe, nor by sworde nor by battel, by horses, nor by horsemen.

8 Now when she had wained Lo-ruhāmah, she conceived, and bare a sonne.

9 Then said God, Call his name ^l Lo-ammī: for ye are not my people: therefore wil I not be yours.

10 Yet the number of the ^m children of Israēl shalbe as the sand of the sea, which cā not be measured nor tolde: and in the place where it was said vnto them, Ye are not my people, it shal be said vnto them, Te are the sonnes of the liuing God.

11 Then shal the children of Iudāh, and the children of Israēl be ⁿ gathered together, and appoint them selues one head, & they shal come vp out of the land: for great is the ^o day of Izreel.

n To wit, after the captiuitie of Babylon when the Iewes were restored: but chiefly this is referred to the time of Christ, who shulde be the head bothe of the Iewes and Gentiles o The calamitie and destruction of Izreel shalbe so great, that to restore them shalbe as a miracle

CHAP. II.

1 The people is called to repentance. 5 Hesheweth their idolatrie and threateneth them except they repent.

1 Say vnto your ^a brethren, Ammī, and to your sisters, Ruhāmah,

2 Plaid with you ^b mother: plaid with her: for she is not my wife, nether am I her housband: but let her take away her fornications out of her sight, and her adulteries ^c from betwene her breastes.

haue mercie b God sheweth that the faute was not in him but in their synagogue, and their idolatries, that he forsoke them, Iā 50, 1. c Meaning, that their idolatrie was so great, that they were not ashamed, but boasted of it, Ezek 16, 25.

i For the Israelites neuer returned, after y they were taken captiues by the Assyrians k For after their captiuitie he restored the miraculouly by y meanes of Cyrus, Ezr 1, 1 l That is, not my people
m Because that he thought that God coulde not haue bene true in his promes except he had preferred thē, he declareth, y though they were destroyed yet the true Israelites, w are the sonnes of the promes, shulde be with out number, y stand bothe of the Iewes, and the Gentiles, Rom 9, 26

d For though this people were as an harlot for their idolatries, yet he had left them with their apparel and dowrie and certaine signes of his fauour, but if they continued still, he wolde witerly destroy them.

e When I broghe her out of Egypt, Ezech 16,4 f That is, bawdies and be gotten in adulterie

g Meaning the idoles which they serued & by whome they thought they had welch and abundance

h I wil punish thee that then y maist crye whether thine idoles can helpe thee, & bring thee into such streines, that thou shalt haue no lust to play the wanton i This he speakech of y faithfull, which are truly conuerted, and also sheweth the vs and profite of Gods rods.

k This declarereth y idolaters defraude God of his honour whē they attribute his benefites to their idoles.

l Signifying y God wil take away his benefites whē man by his ingratitude doeth abuse them

m That is, all her seruice, ceremonies and iunctiōns wherby she worshipped her idoles.

n I wil punish her for her idolatrie

o By shewing how harlots trimme themselves to please others, he declarereth how the superstitious idolaters set a great parte of their religiō in decking them selves on their holie dayes p By my benefites in offering her grace and mercie, euen in y place where she shal thinke her self destitute of all helpe and comfort.

q Which was a plentiful valley, and wherein they had great comfort when they came out of the wilderness, as Iosh 7,18 and is called the dore of hope, because it was a departing from death, and an entrie into life r She shal then praise God as he did when she was deliuered out of Egypt.

s That is, mine husband, knowing that I am ioyned to thee by an inuincible couenant t That is, my maister: which name was applied to their idoles.

17 Left I strippe her naked, & set her as in y day that she was borne, & make her as a wilderness, & leaue her like a drye land, and slaye her for thirst.

18 And I wil haue no pitie vpon her children: for they be the children of fornications.

19 For their mother hathe played the harlot: she that conceiued them, hathe done shamefully: for she said, I wil go after my louers that giue me my bread & my water, my woll and my flaxe, mine oyle and my drinke.

20 Therefore beholde, I wil stoppe h thy way with thornes, & make an hedge, y she shal not finde her paths.

21 Though she followe after her louers, yet shal she not come at them: though she seke them, yet shal she not finde them: then shal she say, I wil go & returne to my first housband: for at y time was I better then now.

22 Now she did not know that I k gaue her corne, and wine, and oyle, and multiplied her siluer and golde, which they bestowed vpon Baal.

23 Therefore wil I returne, and take away my corne in the time thereof, and my wine in the ceason thereof, and wil recouer my woll and my flaxe lent, to couer her shame.

24 And now wil I discouer her m lewdnes in the sight of her louers, and no man shal deliuer her out of mine hand.

25 I wil also cause all her myrth to cease, her feast dayes, her newe moones, & her Sabbaths, and all her solemne feasts.

26 And I wil destroy her vines and her fig-trees, whereof she hathe said, These are my rewardes that my louers haue giue me: & I wil make them as a forest, and the wilde beasts shal eat them.

27 And I wil visit vpon her the dayes of Baalim, wherein she burnt incense to the: and she decked her self with her earrings and her iewels, & she followed her louers, and forgate me, saith the Lord.

28 Therefore beholde, I wil p allure her, & bring her into the wilderness, and speake friendly vnto her.

29 And I wil giue her her vineyardes from thence, and the vailey of Achor for the dore of hope, and she shal sing there as in the dayes of her youth, & as in the day when she came vp out of the land of Egypt.

30 And at that day, saith the Lord, thou shalt call me f Ihsu, and shalt call me no more t Baalim.

31 And I wil visit vpon her the dayes of Baalim, wherein she burnt incense to the: and she decked her self with her earrings and her iewels, & she followed her louers, and forgate me, saith the Lord.

32 Therefore beholde, I wil p allure her, & bring her into the wilderness, and speake friendly vnto her.

33 And I wil giue her her vineyardes from thence, and the vailey of Achor for the dore of hope, and she shal sing there as in the dayes of her youth, & as in the day when she came vp out of the land of Egypt.

34 And at that day, saith the Lord, thou shalt call me f Ihsu, and shalt call me no more t Baalim.

17 For I wil take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they shal be no more remembred by their names.

18 And in that day wil I make a couenant for them, with the wilde beasts, and with the foule of the heauen, and with that that crepeth vpon the earth: and I wil breake the bowe, and the sworde and the bartel out of the earth, & wil make them to slepe safely.

19 And I wil marie thee vnto me for euer: yea, I wil marie thee vnto me in righteoufnes, and in iudgement, and in mercie and in compasfion.

20 I wil euen marie thee vnto me in y faithfulness, and thou shalt know the Lord.

21 And in that day I wil heare, saith the Lord, I wil euen heare the heauens, and they shal heare the earth, 22 And the earth shal heare the corne, and the wine, and the oyle, and they shal heare Izreel.

23 And I wil sowe her vnto me in the earth, and I wil haue mercie vpon her, that was not pitied, & I wil say to the which were not my people, Thou art my people. And they shal say, Thou art my God.

u No idolatrie shal once come into their mouthe, but they shal serue me purely according to my worde x Meaning, y he wil so blefse them that all creatures shal fauour them.

y With a couenant that neuer shal be broken z Then shal the heauen desire raine for y earth which shal bring forth for the vse of man

Rom 9, 15.
1 Pet. 2, 10.

CHAP. III.

1 The Iewes shalbe cast off for their idolatrie. s Afterwarde they shal returne to the Lord.

1 Then said the Lord to me, 2 Go yet, and loue a woman (beloued of her housband, and was an harlot) according to the loue of the Lord toward the childre of Israél: yet they loked to other gods, & bloued the wine bottels.

2 So I bought her to me for fiftene pieces of siluer, and for an homer of barlie and an halfe homer of barlie.

3 And I said vnto her, Thou shalt abide with d me manie dayes: thou shalt not play the harlot, and thou shalt be to none other man, and I wil be so vnto thee.

4 For the children of Israél shal e remaine manie dayes without a King and without a prince, and without an offering, & without an image, & without an Ephod and without Teraphim.

5 Afterwarde shal the children of Israél conuert, and seke the Lord their God, and s Dauid their King, & shal feare the Lord, and his goodnes in the latter dayes.

a Herein the Prophet representeth y persone of God, which loued his Church before he called her, & did not withdrawe the same when she gaue her selfe to idoles.

b That is, gaue them selues wholly to pleasures, and colde not take vp, as they y are giuen to drunkenness.

c Yet I loued her & payed a smale portior for her, leaue her perceiue the greatnes of my loue, shulde he abuse me and not bene vnder Iustice: for fiftene pieces of siluer were but halfe the price of a schlaue, Exod. 21, 3.

d I wil erie thee a long time as in thy widowehode whether thou wilt be mine or no e Meaning, not only all the time of their captiuitie, but also vnto Christ.

f That is, they shulde neither haue pollicie nor religion, and their idoles also wherein they put their confidence, shulde be destroyed.

g This is ment of Christs kingdome, which was promised vnto Dauid to be eternal, P sal 72, 38

CHAP. IIIII.

A complaint against the people, and the Priests of Israél.

1 Heare

a Because the people wolde not obey the admonitions of the Prophet, he cireth the before the iudgement fear of God, against whome they chiefly offended, Isa 7, 12 zeccha 12, 10
b In euery place appeareth a liberite to moſte heinous vices, so y^e one followeth in y^e necke of another c Asthough he wolde say, y^e it were in vaine to rebuke the: for no mā can abide it: yea, they wil speake against the Prophetes and Priests whose office it is chiefly to rebuke them d Ye shal perish all together: y^e one, because he wolde not obeie, & the other because he wolde not admonish e That is, the Synagogue wherein thou boasteſt f That is, the Priests shal be cast of because, y^e for lacke of knowledge, they are not able to execute their charge, and v^o strait orders, Deu 33, 3 malach 2, 7
g Meaning, y^e whole bodie of the people, which were wearie with hearing the worde of God h The more I was benefited vnto the i To wit, the Priests seke to eat y^e peoples offrings & flatter them in their finnes.
k Signifying, that as they haue sinned together, so shal they be punished together l Shewing, that their wickednes shal be punished on all sortes: for though they thinke by the multitude of wises to haue many childre, yet they shal be deceiued of their hope m In giuing them selues to pleasures, they become like brute beasts. n Thus he speaketh by derision in calling them his people, which now for their finnes they were not: for they sought helpe of stockes and sickes. o They are carried away with a rage. p Because they take away Gods honour, and giue it to idoles, therefore he wil giue them vp to their lustes, that they shal dishonour their owne bodies, Rom 1, 28 q I wil not correct your shame to bring you to amendement, but let you runne headlong to your owne damnation.

Hear the worde of the Lord, ye children of Israél: for the Lord hathe a cōtrouersie with y^e inhabitants of the lād because there is no trueth, nor mercie nor knowledge of God in the land.
 2 By swearing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, and whoring they breake out, and blood toucheth blood.
 3 Therefore shal the land mourne, and euery one that dwelleth therein, shal be cut of, with the beasts in the field, and with the fowles of the heauē, and also the fishes of the sea shalbe taken away.
 4 Yet let none rebuke, nor reprove another: for thy people are as they that rebuke the Priest.
 5 Therefore shalt thou fall in the day, and the Prophet shal fall with thee in y^e night, and I wil destroye thy mother.
 6 My people are destroyed for lacke of knowledge: because thou hast refused knowledge, I wil also refuse thee, that thou shalt be no Priest to me: and seing thou hast forgotten the Law of thy God, I wil also forget thy children.
 7 As they were increased, so they sinned against me: therefore wil I change their glorie into shame.
 8 They eat vp the finnes of my people, & lift vp their mindes in their iniquitie.
 9 And there shalbe like people, like Priest: for I wil visit their wayes vpon them, & rewarde them their dedes.
 10 For they shal eat, and not haue ynough: they shal commit adulterie, and shal not increase, because they haue left of to take hede to the Lord.
 11 Whoredome, and wine, and newe wine take away their heart.
 12 My people aske counsell at their stockes, and their staffe teacheth them: for the spirit of fornications hathe caused them to erre, and they haue gone a whoring from vnder their God.
 13 They sacrifice vpon the toppes of the mountaines, and burne incense vpon the hilles vnder the oaks, and the poplar tre, and the elme, because the shadowe thereof is good: therefore your daughters shalbe harlottes, and your spouses shalbe whores.
 14 I wil not visite your daughters when they are harlots, nor your spouses when they are whores: for their selues are separated with harlots, and sacrifice with whores: therefore the people that doeth not vnderstand, shal fall.

15 Though thou, Israél, playe the harlot, yet let not Iudáh sinne: come not ye vnto Gilgál, nether goye vp to Beth-áuen, nor sweare, The Lord liueth.
 16 For Israél is rebellious as an vnrule heifer. Now the Lord wil fede them as a lambe in a large place.
 17 Ephráim is ioyned to idoles: let him alone.
 18 Their drunkennes stinketh: they haue committed whoredome: their rulers loue to say with shame, Bring ye.
 19 The winde hathe bounde the vp in her wings, and they shalbe ashamed of their sacrifices.
 20 The house of God, Beth-áuen, that is, the house of iniquitie, because of their abominations set vp there, signifying that no place is holie where God is not purely worshipped. u God wil so disperse them that they shal not remaine in any certeine place. x They are so impudent in receiuing bribes, that they wil commande men to bring them vnto them. y To carrie them suddenly away.

r God complaineth that Iudáh is infected, and wil letch them to learne by their example to returne in time.
s For albeit the Lord had honored this place in time past by his presence, yet because it was abused by their idolatrie, he wolde not that his people shulde resort thither.
t He calleth Beth-él, that is, the house of God, Beth-áuen, that is, the house of iniquitie, because of their abominations set vp there, signifying that no place is holie where God is not purely worshipped.
u God wil so disperse them that they shal not remaine in any certeine place.
x They are so impudent in receiuing bribes, that they wil commande men to bring them vnto them.
y To carrie them suddenly away.

CHAP. V

Against the Priests and rulers of Israél. The helpe of man is in vaine.

Oye Priests, heare this, and hearken ye, o house of Israél, & giue ye eare, o house of the King: for iudgement is toward you, because you haue bene a snare on Mizpáh, & a net spread vpon Tabór.
 2 Yet they were profoude, to decline to slaughter, though I haue bene a rebuker of them all.
 3 I knowe Ephráim, and Israél is not hid from me: for now, o Ephráim thou art become an harlot, & Israél is detiled.
 4 They wil not giue their mindes to turne vnto their God: for y^e spirit of fornication is in the middes of them, & they haue not knowen the Lord.
 5 And the pride of Israél doeth testifye to his face, therefore shal Israél and Ephráim fall in their iniquitie: Iudáh also shal fall with them.
 6 They shal go with their shepe, and with their bullockes to seke the Lord: but they shal not finde him: for he hathe withdrawe him self from them.
 7 They haue trespassed against the Lord: for they haue begotten strange children: now shal a moneth deuoure them wth their porcions.
 8 Blowe ye the trumpet in Gibeáh, & the shame in Ramáh: crye out at Beth-áuen, after thee, o Benjamin.
 9 Ephráim shalbe desolate in y^e day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israél haue I caused to knowe the trueth.
 10 The princes of Iudáh were like the that remove the bondes: therefore wil I powre out my wrath vpon them like water.
 11 Ephráim is oppressed, & broken in iudgement, because he willingly walked after the commandement.

a The Priests & princes caught the poore people in their snares as the fowlers did the birds, in these two high mountaines
b Notwithstanding they seemed to be giuen altogether to holines, & to sacrifices, wth here he calleth slaughter in contempt
c Though I admonished them continually by my Prophetes d They boasted them selfes not onely to be Israelites, but also Ephraimites, because their King Ieroboam came of that tribe e Meaning, their contemning of all admonitions.
f That is their children are degenerate, so y^e there is no hope in them.
g Their destruction is not farre of.
h That is, all Israél comprehēded vnder this parre, signifying y^e the Lords plagues shulde pursue the fro place to place till they were destroyed.
i By the successe they shal knowe that I haue surely determined this & they haue turned vp side downe all political order, and all maner of religion j To wit, after King Ieroboams commandēt & did not rather follow God.

12 Therefore wil I be vnto Ephráim as a moth, and to the house of Iudáh as a rottennes.
 13 Whé Ephráim sawe his sickenes, and Iudáh his wounde, then went Ephráim vnto Affhúr, & sent vnto King ^a Iaréb: yet colde he not heale you, nor cure you of your wounde.
 14 For I wil be vnto Ephráim as a lion, and as a lions whelp to the house of Iudáh: I, euen I wil spoyle, and go away: I wil take away, and none shal rescue it.
 15 I wil go, & returne to my place, til they acknowledge their faute, and seke me in their affliction they wil seke me diligently.

CHAP. VI.

1 Affliction causeth a man to turne to God. 9 The wickednes of the Priests.

1 Come, & let vs ^a returne to the Lord: for he hath spoiled, and he wil heale vs: he hath wounded vs, and he wil binde vs vp.

2 After two dayes wil ^b he reuiue vs, & in the thirde day he wil raise vs vp, and we shal liue in his sight.

3 Then shal we haue knowledge, and endeavour our selues to knowe the Lord: his going forthe is prepared as the morning, and he shal come vnto vs as the raine, & as the latter raine vnto the earth.

4 O Ephráim, what shal I do vnto thee! ^d Iudáh, how shal I entreat thee! for ^c your goodnes is as a morning cloude, and as the morning dewe it goeth away.

5 Therefore haue I ^d cut downe by ^e y^e Prophetes: I haue slaine them by the wordes of my mouth, and ^e thy iudgements were as the light that goeth forthe.

6 For I desired ^f mercie, & not sacrifice, & the knowledge of God more then burnt offrings.

7 But thei like ^g men haue transgressed ^e y^e couenant: there haue they trespassed against me.

8 ^b Gileád is a citie of them that worke iniquitie, & is polluted with blood.

9 And as theues waite for a má, so the companie of Priests murther in the way by consent: for they worke mischief.

10 I haue sene vilenie in the house of Israël: there is the whoredome of Ephráim: Israël is defiled.

11 Yea, Iudáh hath set a ⁱ plant for thee, whiles I wolde returne the captiuitie of my people.

CHAP. VII.

2 Of the vices & wantonnes of the people. 12 Of their punishment.

1 When I wolde haue healed Israël, thé the iniquitie of Ephráim was discouered, & the wickednes of Samaria:

for they haue delt falsely: and ^a the these cometh in, & the robber spoyleth without.

2 And they consider not in their hearts, that I reméber all their wickednes: now their owne inuencions haue beset them about: they are in my sight.

3 They make ^b y^e King glad with their wickednes, and the princes with their lies.

4 Thei are all adulterers, & as a verie ^c oué heated by the baker, which ceaseth fró raising vp, & from kneding the dowe vntil it be leauened.

5 Thus the day ^d of our King: the princes haue made him sicke with flagons of wine: he stretcheth out his hand to scornors.

6 For thei haue made readie their heart like an ouen whiles they lie in waite: their baker slepeth all the night: in the morning it burneth as a flame of fyre.

7 They are all hote as an ouen, and haue ^e deuoured their Iudges: all their Kígs are fallen: there is none among them that calleth vnto me.

8 Ephráim hath ^f mixt him self amóg the people. Ephráim is as a cake on the herth not turned.

9 Strangers haue deuoured his strength, & he knoweth it not: yea, ^g graye heeres are here and there vpon him, yet he knoweth not.

10 And the pride of Israël testifieth to his face, and they do not returne to the Lord their God, nor seke him for all this.

11 Ephráim also is like a dowe deceiued, without ^h heat: they call to Egypt: they go to Affhúr.

12 But whé they shal go, I wil spred my net vpon them, & drawe them downe as the foules of the heauen: I wil chastise thé as their ⁱ congregation hath heard.

13 Wo vnto them: for they haue fled away from me: destruction shalbe vnto them, because they haue transgressed against me: though I haue ^k redeemed them, yet they haue spoken lies against me.

14 And they haue not cryed vnto me with their hearts, ^l when they howled vpó their beds: they assemble them selues for corne, & wine, and thei rebell against me.

15 Though I haue bounde, and strengthened their arme, yet do they imagine mischief against me.

16 Thei returne, but not to ^m y^e most high: thei are like a deceitful bowe: their prices shal fall by the sworde, for the rage ⁿ of their tongues: this shalbe their derision in the land of Egypt.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The destruction of Iudáh and Israël, because of their idolatrie.

^a Meaning, y^e there was no one kinde of vice among them, but that they were subiect to all wickednes, bothe secret & open.
^b Thei esteeme their wicked King Ieroboám aboue God, & seke but how to flatter, and please him.
^c He compareth the rage of the people to a burning ouen which y^e baker heateth til til his dowe be leauened, and raised.
^d They used all riot & excess in their feasts & solemnities, whereby their King was ouercome with surfeit, & brought into diseases, and deluded in flatteries.
^e By their occasion God hath deprived them of all good rulers.
^f That is, he counterfeiteth the religion of the Gentiles, yet is but as a cake baked on y^e one side, & rawe on y^e other, that is, neither through hote nor through cold, but partly a Iewe, and partly a Gentil.
^g Which are a token of his manifolde afflictions.
^h That is, without all iudgement, as they that can not tel whether it is better to cleaue onely to God, or to seke the helpe of man.
ⁱ According to my curses made to the whole congregation of Israël.
^k That is, diuers times redeemed them, and deliuered them: from death.
^l When they were in affliction, & cryed out for paine, they sought not vnto me for helpe.
^m They onely seke their owne comoditie and welth, and passe not for me their God.
ⁿ Because they boast of their owne strength, and passe not what they speake against me and my seruants, Psal 73,9.

^m In stead of seking for remedie at Gods hand.
ⁿ Who was King of y^e Assyrians.

^a He sheweth the people howe they ought to turne to the Lord, that he might call backe his plagues.
^b Though he correct vs fró time to time, yet his helpe wil not be farre off, if we returne to him.
^c You seme to haue a certaine holines, & repentance, but it is vpon the sudden, and as a morning cloude.
^d I haue still laboured by my Prophetes, & as it were framed you to bring you to amendment, but all was in vaine: for my worde was not meat to fede them, but a sworde to slay them.
^e My doctrine which I taught thee, was more euident.
^f He sheweth to what scope his doctrine ended y^e they shulde ioyne y^e obedience of God, & y^e loue of their neighbour with out worde sacrifice.
^g That is, like light & weake persones.
^h Which was y^e place where the Priests dwelt, and which shulde haue bene best instructed in my worde and hath taken grasses of thy trees.

a God incourageth the Prophet to signifie the speedie coming of the enemy against Israel, which was once the people of God. b They shal crye like hypocrites, but not from the heart, as their dedes declare. c That is, Ieroboam, by whom they fought the ir owne libertie, and not to obey my wil.

d That is vpright iudgement, and godlie life. e Meaning, the calfe was invented by the selues, and of their fathers in the wilderness. f Shewing that their religion hath but a shewe, and in it self is but vaine.

g They must cease but runne to and fro so seke helpe. h That is, for the tribute of the King and the princes shal lay vpon them: which meanes the Lord vseth to bring them to repentance. i Thus the idolaters couene the worde of God as strage in respect of their owne inventions. k Saying that they offer it to the Lord, but he accepteth no seruice, & he him self hath not appointed.

a For though all other people shulde scape, yet thou shalt be punished. b Thou hast committed idolatrie in hope of reward, & to haue thy barnes filled. Iere 44.17. as an harlot that had rather liue by playg whose then to be intertained of her owne husband. c These outward things thou seest, shalbe taken from thee.

1 SEt the trumpet to thy mouth: he shal come as an egie against the House of the Lord, because they haue transgressed my couenant, & trespassed against my Law.

2 Israel shal b crie vnto me, My God, we knowe thee.

3 Israel hath cast of the thing that is good: the enemy shal pursue him.

4 They haue set vp a c King, but not by me: they haue made princes, and I knewe it not: of their siluer and their golde haue they made them idoles: therefore shal they be destroyed.

5 Thy calfe, o Samaria, hath cast thee off: mine anger is kindled against them: how long wil they be without d innocencie!

6 For it came euen from Israel: the workeman made it, therefore it is not God: but the calfe of Samaria shalbe broken in pieces.

7 For they haue f sowne the winde, & they shal reape the whirlwinde: it hath no stalk: the budde shal bring forth no meale: if so be it bring forth, the strangers shal deuoure it.

8 Israel is deuoured, now shal they be among the Gentiles as a vessel wherein is no pleasure.

9 For they are gone vp to Asshur: they are as a wilde ass alone: by him self: Ephraim hath hired louers.

10 Yet though they haue hired among the nations, now wil I gather them, and they shal sorowe a litle, for the h burde of the King, & the princes.

11 Because Ephraim hath made many altars to sinne, his altars shalbe to sinne.

12 I haue writen to them the great things of my Law: but they were counted as a strange thing.

13 They sacrifice flesh for the sacrifices of mine offerings, and eat it: but the k Lord accepteth them not: now wil he remember their iniquitie, and visite their sinnes: they shal returne to Egypt.

14 For Israel hath forgotten his maker, & buyldeth temples, and Iudah hath encreased strong cities: but I wil send a fyre vpon his cities, and it shal deuoure the palaces thereof.

CHAP. IX.

Of the hunger and captiuitie of Israel.

1 REioyce not, o Israel for ioye as other people: for thou hast gone a whoring from thy God: thou hast loued b a reward vpon euery corne floore.

2 The floore, and the wine presse shal not fede them, and the new wine shal faile in her.

3 They wil not dwell in the Lords land, but Ephraim wil returne to Egypt, & they wil eat vncleane things in Asshur.

4 They shal not offer d wine to the Lord, nether shal their sacrifices be pleasant vnto him: but they shalbe vnto the as the bread of mourners: all that eat thereof, shal be polluted: for their bread e for their soules shal not come into the House of the Lord.

5 What wil ye do f then in the solene day, and in the day of the feast of the Lord?

6 For lo, they are gone from s destruction: but Egypt shal gather them vp, and Memphis shal burye them: the nettles shal possess the pleasant places of their siluer, & the thorne shalbe in their tabernacles.

7 The daies of visitacion are come: the dayes of recompense are come: Israel shal knowe it: h the Prophet is a foole: the spiritual man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquitie: therefore the hatred is great.

8 The watchman of Ephraim i shalde be with my God: but the Prophet is the snare of a fouler in all his waies, & hatred in y House of his God.

9 They k are depely set: they are corrupt as in the daies of Gibeah: therefore he wil remeber their iniquitie, he wil visite their sinnes.

10 I founde Israel like l grapes in the wilderness: I sawe your fathers as the first ripe in the fig tre at her first time: but they went to Baal-Peor, and separated them selues vnto that shame, and their abominacions were according to m their louers.

11 Ephraim their glorie shal flee away like a birde: from the birth n and from the wombe, and from the conception.

12 Though they bring vp their children, yet I wil depriue them from being men: yea, wo to them, when I departe from them.

13 Ephraim, as I sawe, is as a tre o in Tyrus planted in a cottage: but Ephraim shal bring forth the his children to the murderer.

14 O Lord, giue them: what wilt thou giue them? giue them a p baren wombe & drye breasts.

15 All their wickednes is in q Gilgal: for there do I hate them: for the wickednes of their inuencions, I wil cast them out of mine House: I wil loue them no more: all their princes are rebelles.

16 Ephraim is smitten, their roote is dried vp: they can bring no fruit: yea, though they bring forth, yet wil I slaie euen the dearest of their bodie.

17 My God wil cast the away, because they did not obey him: and they shal wander among the nations.

ke them baren, rather then that this great slaughter shulde come vpon their children. q The chief cause of their destruction is that they commit idolatrie and corrupt my religion in Gilgal.

CHAP. X.

Against Israel and his idoles: 14 His destruction for the same.

d All their doings boche touching politie and religio shalbericied as things polluted. e The meat offering which they offered for them selues. f When y Lord shal take away all y occasions of strength, which shalbe the moke grievous paine of your captiuitie, when you shal se yourselfes cut of fro God.

g Though they thinke to escape by fleeing y destruction that is at hand, yea shal they be destroyed in y place wether they flee for foccour.

h Then they shal knowe f they were deluded by them who chalged to them selues to be their Prophets & spiritual men.

i The Prophetes duette is to bring men to God and not to be a snare to pul them from God.

k This people is so rooted in their wickednes: y Gibeah which was like to Sodome was neuer more corrupt. Iud. 19.22.

l Meaning, y he so esteemed thm and deliued in them.

m They were as abominable vnto me, as their louers y idoles.

n Signifying y God wold destroy their childre by these sundry meanes, and so consume them by litle and litle.

o As they kept tender plantes in their houses in Tyrus to preferue them fro the colde ayre of y sea, so was Ephraim at the first vnto me, but now I wil giue him to the slaughter.

p The Prophet scieng the great plagues of God toward Ephraim, prauieth to God to make a Whereof though the grapes were gathered, yet euer as it gathered new strength, it increased new wickednes, so that y^e correction which shulde haue brought the to obedience, did but viter their stubbernes b As they were riche and had abundance c To wit, from God

d The day shal come y^e God shal take away their King, & then they shal fele the frute of their finnes, and how they trusted in him in vaine, 2. King 17.6
e In promising to be faithful toward God.
f Thus their in tegritie and fidelitie which they prestred, was nothing but bitternes and grief.
g When y^e calfe shalbe carried away

The Prophet Ioél firſt rebuketh them of Iudañ, that being now puniſhed with a great plague of famine, remaine ſtil obſtinat. Secondly he threateneth greater plagues, becauſe they grewe daily to a more hardenes of heart, & rebellion againſt God notwithstanding his puniſhments. Thirdly he exhorteth them to repentance, ſhewing that it muſte be earneſt, and procede from the heart becauſe they had grieuouſly offended God. And ſo doing, he promiſeth, that God wil be merciful, & not forget his covenant that he made with their fathers but wil ſend his Chriſt who ſhal gather the ſcat-tered ſhepe, and reſtore them to life, and libertie, though they ſemed to be dead.

4 Like the noyce of charrets in the toppes of the mountaines shal they leape, like the noyce of a flame of fyre that deuoueth the stubble, and as a mightie people prepared to the battel.

e They shal be pale and blacke for feare, as Nahum 2.10.

5 Before his face shal the people tremble: all faces shal gather blackenes.

6 They shal runne like strong men, and go vp to the wall like men of warre, and euery man shal go forwarde in his waies, & they shal not staie in their paths.

f For none shal be able to resist them.

7 Nether shal one thrust another, but euery one shal walke in his path: & when they fall vpon the sword, they shal not be wounded.

o Called the salt sea, or Persian sea: meaning y^e though his armie were so great, y^e it filled all fro this sea to the sea called mediterraneum, yet he wolde scatter them.

p That is, such as shulde come by iuste measure & as was wont to be sent when God was reuenged ciled with the. Lev. 26.4. deut. 11.14.

q That is, in greater abundance and more generally then in time past: and this was fulfilled vnder Christ, when as Gods graces, and his Spirit vnder the Gospel was abundantly giuen to y^e Church, Isa. 44.3 & 2.17. ioh. 7.38.

As they had visions, and dreames in old time, so shal they now haue clearer reuelations

He warneth faithful what terrible things shulde come, to the intent that they shulde not loke for continual quietnes in this worlde, & yet in all these troubles he wolde preferre them.

The order of nature shal seme to be charged for horrible afflictions that shal be in the worlde, Isa. 13, 10 ezek 32, 7. chap 1, 15. mat 24, 29 u Gods iudgements are for the destruction of the infidels, and to moue the godlie to call vpon the Name of God, who wil giue them saluation. x Meaning hereby the Gentiles, Rom 10, 13 men shal dreame, & your yong men shal se visions,

29 And also vpon the seruants, and vpon the maides in those daies wil I powre my Spirit.

30 And I wil shewe wonders in the heauens and in the earth: blood and fyre, and pillars of smoke.

31 The sunne shalbe turned into darknes, & the moone into blood, before the great and terrible daie of the Lord come.

32 But whosoever shal call vpon the Name of the Lord, shal be saued: for in mount Ziön, and in Ierusalém shal be deliuerance, as the Lord hathe said, and in the remnant, whome the Lord shal call.

CHAP. III.

Of the iudgement of God against the enemies of his people.

For beholde, in those daies and in y^e time, whē I shal bring againe the captiuitie of Iudáh and Ierusalém,

2 I wil also gather all nations, and wil bring them downe into the vallei of Ichosaphát, and wil plead withē there for my people, and for mine heritage I srahēl, whome thei haue scattered among the nations, and parted my land.

3 And thei haue cast lottes for my people, & haue giuen the childe for the harlot, & sold the girle for wine, that they might drinke.

4 Yea, & what haue you to do with me, o Tyrus & Zidon and all the coastes of Palestina? wil ye render me a recompense? and if ye recomptse me, swiftly & speedely, wil I render your recompense vpon your head:

5 For ye haue taken my siluer and my gold, and haue caryed into your temples my goodlie & pleasant things.

6 The children also of Iudáh and the children of Ierusalém haue you sold vnto y^e Grecians, that ye might send them farre from their border.

7 Beholde, I wil raise them out of the place where ye haue sold them, and wil render your rewarde vpon your owne head,

8 And I wil sell your sonnes and your daughters into the hand of the children of Iudáh, and thei shal sell them to the Sabians, to a people faireof: for the Lord himself hathe spoken it.

9 Publish this among the Gentiles: prepare warre, wake vp the mightie men: let all the men of warre drawe nere & come vp.

10 Breake your plowshares into swordes, and your sieths into speares: let the weakes saie, I am strong.

11 Assemble your selues, and come all ye heathen and gather your selues together rounde about: there shal y^e Lord cast downe thy mightie men.

12 Let the heathen be wakened, and come vp to the vallei of Ichosaphát: for there wil I sit to iudge all the heathen rounde about.

13 Put in your sheeths, for the haruest is ripe: come, get you downe, for y^e winepresse is full: yea, the winepresses runne ouer, for their wickednes is great.

14 O multitude, o multitude, come into the vallei of threshing: for the daie of the Lord is nere in the vallei of threshing.

15 The sunne and moone shalbe darkened, and the starres shal withdrawe their light.

16 The Lord also shal roare out of Ziön, and vtter his voice from Ierusalém, & the heauens, and the earth shal shake, but the Lord wil be the hope of his people, and y^e strength of the children of I srahēl.

17 So shal ye knowe that I am y^e Lord your God dwelling in Ziön, mine holie Mountaine: then shal Ierusalém be holy, & the ier shall no strangers goe thowre her anye more.

18 And in that daie shal the mountaines droppe downe newe wine, and the hilles shal flowe with milke, and all the riuers of Iudáh shal runne with waters, and a fountaine shal come forth of the House of the Lord, and shal watter the vallei of Shittim.

19 Egypt shalbe waste, and Edóm shalbe a desolate wildernes, for the iniuries of the children of Iudáh, because thei haue shed innocent blood in their land.

20 But Iudáh shal dwell for euer, and Ierusalém from generacion to generacion.

21 For I wil cleanse their blood, that I haue not cleansed, and the Lord wil dwell in Ziön.

For afterwarde God sold de the by Nebuchad-nar, and Alexander the great, for the louche bare to his people, and thereby they were comforted as though y^e price had bene theirs.

Whē I shal execute my iudgements against inueniemes, I wil cause euery one to be ready, and to prepare their weapons to destroy one another, for my Church sake.

Thus he shal encourage the enemies: when their wickednes is full ripe to destroy one another, which he calleth the vallei of Gods iudgement.

God assureth his against all troubles, that when he destroyeth his enemies, his children shalbe deliuered.

The strangers shal no more destroy his Church: if they do, it is the people by their finnes make the breach for the enemy.

He promitteth to his Church abundance of graces, read Ezek 47, 1 which shulde watter and comfort moste barren places, Amos. 9, 13

The malicious enemies shal haue no parte of this grace.

He had suffred his Church hitherto to lye in their filthines, but now he promitteth to cleanse them and to make them pure vnto him.

When I shal deliuer my Church, vnder the Jewes, and of the Gentiles.

It appeareth that he attendeth to that great victorie of Ichosaphát, when as God without mans helpe destroyed the enemies. 2 Kin 20, 26 also he hath respect to this worde, Ichosaphát, which significth pleading or iudgement, because God wolde iudge the enemies of his Church as he did there.

That which the enemye gette for the sale of my people, he bestowed it vpon harlots and drinke.

He taketh cause of his Church in had against y^e enemye, as though the iniurie were done to himself.

Haue I done you wrong, that ye wil render me the like?

THE ARGUMENT.

Among many other Prophetes that God raised vp to admonish the Israelites of his plagues for their wickednes and idolatrie, he stirred vp Amós, who was an herdman or shepherd of a poore towne, and gaue him bothe knowledge and constancie to reprove all estates and degrees, and to denounce Gods horrible iudgements against them, except they did in time repent: shewing them, that if God spare not the other nacions about them, who had liued as it were in ignorance of God in respect of them, but for their sinnes wil punish them, that they colde loke for nothing, but an horrible destructiõ, except they turned to the Lord by vsfained repentance. And finally, he comforteth the godlie with hope of the comming of the M:siáh, by whome they shoulde haue perfite deliuerance and saluacion.

a Which was a towne six miles from Ierusalém in Iudea, but he prophesied in Israel.
b In his daies the kingdome of Israel did mooste flourish.
c Which, as Iosephus writeth, was whē Vzriah wolde haue vsurped the Priests office, and therefore was smitten with the leprosie.
d Whatsoever is fruitfull and pleasant in Israel, shal shortly perish.
e He sheweth first that all people rounde about shoulde be destroyed for their manifold sinnes: which are ment by thre and foure which make seuen, because the Israelites shoulde the more depely consider Gods iudgements toward them.
f If Syrians shal not be spared for committing this crueltie against one citie, it is not possible Israel shoulde escape punishment which hath committed so many & grievous sinnes against God & man.
g The antiquitie of their buy idigs shal not auoide my iudgements.
h Tiglath Pileser led the Syrians captiue, and brought them to Cyrene, which he call:eth here Kir.
i They joy ned them selues with the Edomites their enemies, which carryed them away captiue.

THe wordes of Amós, who was amõg the herdmen^a at Tecó^a, which he sawe vpon Israhél, in the daies of Vzriah King of Iudáh, and in the daies of^b Ieroboám the sonne of Ioáth King of Israhél, two yere before the^c earth quake.

2 And he said, The Lord shal roare from Ziõn, and vtter his voyce from Ierusalém, and the dwelling places of the shepherds shal perish, and the top of^d Carmél shal wither.

3 Thus saith the Lord, For thre transgressions of Damascus, and for foure I wil not turne to it, because they haue^e threshed Gileád with threshing instrumēt of yro.

4 Therefore wil I send a fyre into the house of Hazaél, and it shal deuoure the^f palaces of Ben-hadád.

5 I wil breake also the barres of Damascus, and cut of the inhabitant of Bikeath-áuen: and him that holdeth the scepter out of Beth-éden, & the people of Aíám shal go into captiuitie vnto^h Kir, saith^g y Lord.

6 Thus saith the Lord, For thre transgressions of Azzáh, and for foure, I wil not turne to it, because theyⁱ carried away prisoners the whole captiuitie to shut them vp in Edóm.

7 Therefore wil I send a fyre vpon the walles of Azzáh, and it shal deuoure the palaces thereof.

8 And I wil cut of the inhabitant from Ashdód, and him that holdeth the scepter from Ashkelón, and turne mine hand to Ekron, and the remnant of the Philistims shal perish, saith the Lord God:

9 Thus saith the Lord, For thre transgressions of Tyrus, and for foure, I wil not turne to it, because they shut the whole captiuitie in Edóm, and haue not remembered the^k brotherlie couenant.

10 Therefore wil I send a fyre vpon the walles of Tyrus, and it shal deuoure the palaces thereof.

11 Thus saith the Lord, For thre trásgressions of Edóm, and for foure I wil not turne to it, because he did pursue his brother with the sworde, and did^l cast of all pitie, and his anger spoiled him euermore, and his wrath watched him^m alway.

12 Therefore wil I send a fyre vpoⁿ Témán, and it shal deuoure the palaces of Bozrah.

13 Thus saith the Lord, For thre trásgressions of the children of Ammón, and for foure, I wil not turne to it, because theyⁿ haue ript vp the women with childe of Gileád, y^o they might enlarge their border.

14 Therefore wil I kindle a fyre in the wall of Rabbáh, and it shal deuoure the palaces thereof, with shouting in the daie of battel, & with a tempest in the day of the whitewinde.

15 And their King shal go into captiuitie, he and his princes together, saith^p y Lord.

CHAP. II.

Against Moáb, Iudáh, and Israel.

1 Thus saith the Lord, For thre trásgressions of Moáb, and for foure, I wil not turne to it, because it burnt the^q bones of the King of Edóm into lime.

2 Therefore wil I send a fyre vpon Moáb, and it shal deuoure the palaces of Kerioth, & Moáb shal dye with tumult, with shouting, & with the sounde of a trumpeter.

3 And I wil cut of the Iudge out of the middes thereof, & wil slay all the princes thereof with him, saith the Lord.

4 Thus saith the Lord, For thre trásgressions of Iudáh, & for foure, ^b I wil not turne to it, because they haue cast away^c y Law of the Lord, & haue not kept his comādements, & their lies caused the^d to erre after the which their fathers haue walked.

5 Therefore wil I send a fyre vpoⁿ Iudáh, & it shal deuoure the palaces of Ierusalém.

6 Thus saith^e y Lord, For thre transgressions of^f Israhél, & for foure, I wil not turne to it, because they solde^g y righteous for Yyy. iiii.

CHAP. V.

A lamentacion for the captiuitie of Israél.

1 HEARE ye this worde, which I lift vp vpon you, euena lamentacion of the house of Israél.

2 The virgine Israél is fallen, and shal no more rise: she is left vpon her land, & there is none to raise her vp.

3 For thus saith the Lord God, The citie which went out by a thousand, shal leaue an hundredth: and that which went forth by an hundredth, shal leaue ten to the house of Israél.

4 For thus saith the Lord vnto the house of Israél, Seke ye me, and ye shal liue.

5 But seke not Beth-él, nor enter into Gilgál, and go not to Beer-sheba: for Gilgál shal go into captiuitie, and Beth-él shal come to naught.

6 Seke the Lord, and ye shal liue, lest he breake out like fyre in the house of Ioséph and deuoure it, & there be none to quenche it in Beth-él.

7 They turne iudgemēt to wormewood, and leaue of righteousnes in the earth.

8 He maketh Pleiades, and Orion, and he turneth the shadowe of death into the morning, and he maketh the day darcke as night: he calleth the waters of the sea, and powreth them out vpon the open earth: the Lord is his Name.

9 He strengtheneth the destroyer against the mightie: and the destroyer shal come against the fortresse.

10 They haue hated him, that rebuked in the gate: and they abhorre him that speaketh vprightly.

11 For asmuch then as your treading is vpon the poore, and ye take from him burdens of wheat, ye haue buylt houses of hewen stone, but ye shal not dwell in them: ye haue planted pleasant vinyardes, but ye shal not drinke wine of them.

12 For I knowe your manifolde transgressions, and your mightie finnes: they afflict the iust, they take rewardes, & they oppresse the poore in the gate.

13 Therefore the prudent shal kepe silence in that time, for it is an euil time.

14 Seke good and not euil, that ye may liue: and the Lord God of hostes shal be with you, as you haue spoken.

15 Hate the euil, and loue the good, and establish iudgement in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of hostes wil be merciful vnto the remnant of Ioséph.

16 Therefore the Lord God of hostes, the Lord saith thus, Mourning shal be in all stretes: and they shal say in all the hie waies, Alas, alas: and they shal call the housbādman to lamentacion, & suche as can mourne, to mourning.

17 And in all the vines shal be lamentacion: for I wil passe through thee, saith the Lord.

18 Wo vnto you, that desire the day of the Lord: what haue you to do with it? the day of the Lord is darkenes and not light.

19 As if a man did flee from a Lyon, and a beare met him, or went into the house, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.

20 Shal not the day of the Lord be darkenes, and not light? euen darkenes and no light in it?

21 I hate & abhorre your feast daies, and I wil not smel in your solemne assemblies.

22 Thogh ye offer me burnt offerings and meat offerings, I wil not accept them: neither wil I regarde the peace offering of your fat beasts.

23 Take thou away from me the multitude of thy songs (for I wil not heare the melodie of thy viols)

24 And let iudgemēt runne downe as waters, and righteousnes as a mightie riuer.

26 But you haue borne Siccúth your King and Chiun your images, and the starre of your gods, which ye made to your selues. 27 Therefore wil I cause you to go into captiuitie beyonde Damascus, saith the Lord, whose Name is the God of hostes.

CHAP. VI.

Against the princes of Israël living in pleasures.

1 WO to^a them that are at ease in Zion and trust in the mountaine of Samaria, ^b which were famous at the beginning of the nations: and the house of Israël came to them.

2 Go you vnto Calnéh, & se: & from thence go you to Hamáth the great: the go downe to Gath of the Philistims: be^c thei better then these king domes? or the border of their land greater then your border,

3 Ye that put farre away the ^d euil day, and approche to the seat of iniquitie?

4 Thei lie vpon beddes of yuorie, & stretch them selues vpon their beddes, and eat the lambes of the flocke, and the calves out of the stall.

5 They sing to the sounde of the viole: thei inuent to them selues instruments of musick like ^e Dauid.

6 They drinke wine in bowls, and anoint them selues with the chief ointments, but no man is ^f sory for the affliction of Ioséph.

7 Therefore now shal thei go captiue with the first that go captiue, and ^g the sorowe of them that stretched them selues, is at hád.

8 ^h The Lord God hathe sworne by him self, saith the Lord God of hostes, I abhorre: the excellencie of Iakób, and hate his palaces: therefore wil I deliuer vp the citie with all that is therein.

9 And if there remaine ten men in one house, thei shal dye.

10 And his vncl^k shal take him vp & burne him to cary out the bones out of the house, and shal say vnto him, that is by ^l y sides of the house, Is there yet any with thee? And he shal say, None. Then shal he say, ^m Holde thy tongue: for we may not remembre the Name of the Lord.

11 For beholde, the Lord commandeth, and he wil smite ⁿ y great house with breaches, and the litle houses with clefts.

12 Shal nor^o runne vpon the rocke? or wil one plowe ^p there with oxe? for ye haue turned iudgement into gall, and the frute of righteousnes into wormewood.

13 Yereioyce in a thing of noight: ye say, Haue not we gotté vs? hoines by our owne strength?

14 But beholde, I wil raise vp against you a nacion, o house of Israël, saith the Lord God of hostes: and thei shal afflict you, as the entring in of ^q Hamáth vnto the riuer of the wildernes.

God sheweth certeine visions, whereby he signifieth the destruction of the people of Israël. 10 The false accusation of Amaziáh 12 His crafty counsell

1 THus hathe ^r y Lord God shewed vnto me, and beholde, he formed ^s a greshoppers in the beginning of the shutting vp of the latter groeth: and lo, ^t it was in the latter groeth ^b after the Kings mowing.

2 And whé they had made an end of eating the grasse of the land, then I said, O Lord God, spare, I beseeche thee: who shal raise vp Iakób? for he is smale.

3 So the Lord ^c repented for this. It shal not be, saith the Lord.

4 ¶ Thus also hathe the Lord God shewed vnto me, and beholde, the Lord God called to iudgement by fyre, ^d and it deuoured the great depe, and did eat vp a parte.

5 Then said I, O Lord God, cease, I beseeche thee: who shal raise vp Iakób? for he is smale.

6 So the Lord repented for this. This also shal not be, saith the Lord God.

7 ¶ Thus againe he shewed me, and beholde, the Lord stode vpon a wall made by line ^e with a line in his hand.

8 And the Lord said vnto me, Amós, what seeest thou? And I said, A line. Then said the Lord, Beholde, I wil set a line in the middes of my people Israël, and wil passe by them no more.

9 And the hie places of Ithák shalbe desolate, and the temples of Israël shalbe destroyed: and I wil rise against the house of Ieroboám with the sworde.

10 ¶ Then Amaziáh the Priest of Beth-él sent to Ieroboám King of Israël, saying, Amós hathe conspired against thee in the middes of the house of Israël: the land is not able to beare all his wordes.

11 For thus Amós saith, Ieroboám shal dye by the sworde, and Israël shalbe led away captiue out of their owne land.

12 Also ^u Amaziáh said vnto Amós, O thou the Seer, go, flee thou away into the land of Iudáh, and there eat ^v thy bread and prophecie there.

13 But prophecie no more at Beth-él: for it is the Kings chappel, and it is the Kings court.

11 Beholde, the daies come, saith the Lord God, that I wil send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the worde of the Lord.

12 And they shal wander from sea to sea, and from the North euen vnto the East shal they runne to & fro to seke the worde of the Lord, and shal not finde it.

13 In that day shal the fayre virgines and the yong men perish for thirst.

14 They that sweare by the sinne of Samaria, and that say, Thy God, o Dan, lieth, & the maner of Beer-sheba liueth, euen they shal fall, and neuer rise vp againe.

THE ARGUMENT.

The Idumeans, which came of Eſáu, were mortal enemies alway to the Iſraelites, which came of Iakób, & therefore did not onely vexe them continually with ſondry kindes of crueltie, but alſo ſtirred vp others to fight againſt them. Therefore when they were now in their greateſt proſperitie, and did moſte triumphe againſt Iſraél, which was in great affliction and miſerie, God raiſed vp his Prophet to comfort the Iſraelites, for aſmuch as God had now determined to deſtroy their aduerſaries, which did ſo ſore vexe them, and to ſend them ſuche as ſhulde deliuer them, and ſet vp the kingdome of Mefsiáh, which he had promiſed.

The viſion of Obadiáh.

Thus ſaith y^h Lord God againſt Edóm, We haue heard a rumor ſiô the Lord, and an ambafadour is ſent amôg the heathen: ariſe, and let vs riſe vp againſt her to battel.

Beholde, I haue made thee ſmale among the heathen: thou art vtterly deſpised.

The pride of thine heart hath deceiued thee: thou that dwelleſt in the cleftes of the rockes, whoſe habitacion is hie, that ſaith in his heart, Who ſhal bring me downe to the grounde?

Yea though thou exalt thy ſelf as the eagle, & make thy neſt among the ſtarres, thence wil I bring thee downe, ſaith the Lord.

Came theeues to thee or robbers by night? how waſt thou brought to ſilence? wolde they not haue ſtollen, til they had ynough? if the grapegatherers came to thee, wolde they not leaue ſome grapes?

How are the things of Eſáu ſoght vp, & his treaſures ſearched?

All the men of thy confederacie haue driuen thee to the borders: the men that were at peace with thee, haue deceiued thee, and preuailed againſt thee: they that eat thy bread, haue laid a woude vnder thee: there is none vnderſtanding in him.

Shal not I in that day, ſaith the Lord, eue deſtroy the wiſe men out of Edóm, and vnderſtanding from the mount of Eſáu.

And thy ſtrong men, ô Temán, ſhal be afrated, becauſe euerie one of the mount of Eſáu ſhal be cut of by ſlaughter.

For thy crueltie againſt thy brother Iakób, ſhame ſhal couer thee, and thou ſhalt be cut of for euer.

When thou ſtoodeſt on the other ſide, in the day y^h the ſtrangers caryed away his ſubſtance, and ſtrangers entred into his gates, and caſt lottes vpon Ieruſalém, euen thou waſt as one of them.

But thou ſhuldeſt not haue beholden the day of thy brother, in the day that he was made a ſtranger, nether ſhuldeſt thou haue reioyced ouer the children of Iudáh, in the day of their deſtruction: thou ſhuldeſt not haue spoké proudly in the day of affliction.

Thou ſhuldeſt not haue entred into the gate of my people in the day of their deſtruction, nether ſhuldeſt thou haue once looked on their affliction in the day of their deſtruction, nor haue laid hands on their ſubſtance in the day of their deſtruction.

Nether ſhuldeſt thou haue ſtand in the croſſe waies to cut of them, that ſhulde eſcape, nether ſhuldeſt thou haue ſhut vp f That is, thy familiar friends and gheſtes haue by ſecret practiſes deſtroyed thee.

g He ſheweth the cauſe why the Edomites were ſo ſharply puniſhed: to wit, becauſe they were enemies to his Church, whoſe now he coſporeth by poiſoning their enemies

h Whé Nebuchad-nezzár came againſt Ieruſalém, y^h toynded it with him & had it part of y^h ſpoile, & ſo did he reioyce when my people, y^h is, thy brother were afflicted, where as thou ſhuldeſt haue pitied & holped thy brother.

i When the Lord deprived them of their former ſignitie and gaue them to be carryed into captiuitie.

a God hath certainly reuelled to his Prophetes y^h he wil riſe vp the heathé to deſtroy the Edomites, whereof y^h rumour is now publiſhed, Ierem. 49, 14

b Thus y^h heathen incourage them ſelues to riſe againſt Edóm.

c Which deſpiſeth all others in reſpect of thyſelf & yet art but an handſome compariſon of others, and art ſhut vp among the hilles as ſeparate from the reſt of the world.

d God wil ſo deſtroy them y^h he wil leaue none, though theeues when they come, take but til they haue ynough, and they that gather grapes, euer leaue ſome behinde them, Ierem. 49, 19 e They in whom thou didſt truſt, for to haue helpe and friendſhip of them ſhal be thine enemies and deſtroy thee.

the remnant thereof in the daie of affliction.

15 For the daie ^k of the Lord is nere, vpon all the heathen: as thou hast done, it shal be done to thee: thy rewarde shal retaine vpon thine head.

16 For as ye haue ^l drunke vpon mine holy Mountaine, so shal all the heathen drinke continually: yea, thei shal drinke and swallowe vp, and thei shal be ^m as thogh thei had not bene.

17 But vpon mount Ziön shal be deliuerácc, and it shalbe holy, & the house of Iakób shal possesse their possessions,

18 And the house of Iakób shalbe ⁿ a fyre, and the house of Iosépha flame, and the house of Esáu as stubble, & thei shal kindle in them and deuoute them: and there shal be no remnant of the house of Esáu: for the Lord hath spoken it.

19 And thei shal possesse the South side of the ^o mount of Esáu: and the plaine of the Philistims, and thei shal possesse the fieldes of Ephráim, & the fields of Samaria, and Benjamin shal haue Gileád.

20 And the captiuitie of this hoste of the children of Iisráel, which were among the ^p Canaanites, shal possesse vnto Zarepháth, and the captiuitie of Ierusalém, which is in Sepharád, shal possesse the cities of the South.

21 And thei that shal saue, shal come vp to Mount Ziön to iudge the mount of Esáu, and the kingdome shalbe the Lords.

o He describeth how the Church shalbe enlarged & haue great possessions, but this chiefly is accomplished vnder Christ when as the faithfull are made heires and lords of all things by him which is their head.
p By the Canaanites the Iewes meane the Dutche men, and by Zarepháth, France, and by Sepharád, Spaine q Meaning y God wil raise vp in his Church suche as shal rule & gouerne for y defence of y same, and destruction of his enemies vnder Messias, whom the Prophet calleth here the Lord & head of this kingdome.

IONAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

When Ionáh had long prophesied in Israél and had liúe profited, God gaue him expresse charge to go, and denounce his iudgements against Ninuèh the chief citie of the Assyrians, because he had appointed, that thei which were of the heathen, shoulde conuert by his mightie power of his words, and that within thre daies preaching, that Israél might se how horribly thei had provoked Gods wrath, which for the space of so many yeres, had not conuerted to the Lord for so many Trophetes and so diligent preaching. He prophesied vnder Ioásh, and Ieroboám, as 2 King. 14, 25.

CHAP. I.

3 Ionáh fled when he was sent to preache. 4 A tempest ariseth, and he is cast into the sea for his disobedience.

He worde of the Lord came ^a also vnto Ionáh the sonne of Amittái, saying, Arise, and go to ^b Ninuèh, that ^c great citie, and crye against it: for thei wickednes is come vp before me.

3. But Ionáh rose vp to ^d flee into Tarsish from the presence of the Lord, and went downe to ^e Iaphó: & he founde a ship going to Tarsish: so he paid the fare thereof, and went downe into it, that he might go with them vnto Tarsish, from the ^f presence of the Lord.

4 But the Lord sent out a great winde into the sea, and there was a mightie tempest in the sea, so that the ship was like to be broken.

5 Then the mariners were affiaied, and cryed euerie man vnto his god, and cast the wares that were in the ship, into the sea to lighten it of them: but Ionáh was gone downe into the sides of the ship, and he laie downe, and was fast a slepe.

6 So the shipmaster came to him, and said vnto him, What meanest thou, ó sleeper! Arise, call vpon thy ^h God, if so be ⁱ God wil thinke vpon vs, that we perish not.

7 And thei said euerie one to his felowe, Come, and let vs cast ⁱ lottes, that we maie knowe, for whose cause this euil is vpon vs. So thei cast lots, & the lot fell vpon Ionáh.

8 Then said thei vnto him, Tel vs for whose cause this euil is vpon vs: what is thine occupation? and whence comest thou? which is thy countrei? and of what people art thou?

9 And he answered them, I am an Ebrew, & I feare the Lord God of heauen, which hath made the sea, and the drye land.

10 Then were the men exceedingly afraid, and said vnto him, Why hast thou done this? (for the men knewe, that he fled from the presence of the Lord, because he had tolde them)

11 Then said thei vnto him, What shal we do vnto thee, that the sea maie be calme vnto vs? (for the sea wrought and was troublous)

12 And he said vnto them, Take me, and cast me into the sea: so shal the sea be calme vnto you: for I knowe that for my sake this great tempest is vpon you.

13 Neuertheles, the men rowed to bring it to the land, but thei coulde not: for the sea wrought, and was troublous against them.

a After that he had preached along time in Israél: and so Ezekiel, after that for a time he had prophesied in Iuda, he had visions in Babylon, Ezek 11

b For being y great obstination of y Iudaeites, he sent his Prophet to the Gentiles y they might pounce the to repentance or at least make the inexcusable: for Ninuèh was the chief citie of the Assyrians

c For as authors write, it continued in circuit about eight & fortie milie & had a thousand and fyue hundred rowers, and at this time there were an hundred & ewerie thousand childre therein, Chap 4, 11. d Whereby he declared his weaknes, that wolde not promptly follow the Lords calling, but gaue place to his owne reason, which perswaded him that he shoulde nothing at all profite there, seeing he had done so small good among his owne people. Chap 4, 22 e Which was the nauca, and port to take shipping thither, called also Ioppe. f From that vocacion whereunto God had called him, and wherein he wolde haue assisted him g As one y wolde haue cast of this care, and sollicitude by seeking rest and quietnes

h As they had called on their idoles, which declared that idolaters haue no stay nor certainte, but in their troubles seke, thei can not tel to whome
i Which declared that y matter was in great extremitie, and doute, which thing was Gods motion in them for the trial of the cause: and this may not be done but in matters of great importance k This declareth that the very wicked in their necessities flee vnto God for succour, and also that they are touched with a certain feare to shew mans blood, where as they knowe no manifest signe of wickednes.

l They were touched with a certaine repentance of their life past, and began to worship the true God, by whome they sawe them selues so wonderfully deliuered: but this was done for feare and not of a pure heart and affection, nether according to Gods worde in Thus the Lord wolde chastise his Prophet with a most terrible spectacle of death, & hereby also confirmed him of his fauour and support in this his charge which was intined him.

14 Wherefore thei cryed vnto the Lord, & said, We beseeche thee, O Lord, we beseeche thee, let vs not perish for this mans life, and laie not vpon vs innocent blood: for thou, O Lord, hast done, as it pleased thee.

15 So thei toke vp Ionah, and cast him into the sea, & the sea ceased from her raging.

16 Then the men feared the Lord exceedingly, & offered a sacrifice vnto the Lord, and made vowes.

17 Now the Lord had prepared a great fish to swallowe vp Ionah: and Ionah was in the belly of the fish three daies, and three nights.

CHAP. I I.

Jonah in the fish belly. 3 His prayer. 18 He is deliuered.

a Being now swallowed vp of death, and seeing no remedy to escape, his faith braut out vnto the Lord knowing that he was able to deliuer him.

b For he was now in the fishes belly as in a graue or place of darkness.

c Thus declared what his prayer was, & how he laboured betwene hope and despayre, confiding in the neglect of his vocation & Gods iudgements for the same: but yet in the end faith gaue the victorie.

d Thou hast deliuered me from the belly of the fish & all these dangers, as it were raising me from death to life.

e They that depend vpon any thing saue on God alone.

f They refuse their owne felicitie & that goodnes which they shoulde receiue of God.

1 Then Ionah praied vnto the Lord his God out of the fishes belly, and said, I cryed in mine affliction vnto the Lord, & he heard me: out of the belly of hel cryed I, and thou heardst my voice.

2 For thou haddest cast me into the bottome of the sea, and the floods compassed me about: all thy surges, and all thy waues passed ouer me.

3 Then I said, I am cast awaie out of thy sight: yet wil I looke againe towarde thine holy Temple.

4 The waters compassed me about vnto the soule: the depth closed me rounde about, & the wedes were wrapt about mine head.

5 I went downe to the bottome of the mountanes: the earth with her barres was about me for euer, yet hast thou broght vp my life from the pit, O Lord my God.

6 When my soule fainted within me, I remembered the Lord: and my praier came vnto thee, into thine holy Temple.

7 Thei that waite vpon lying vanities, forsake their owne mercie.

8 But I wil sacrifice vnto thee with the voice of thanksgiving, and wil paie that that I haue vowed: saluacion is of the Lord.

9 And the Lord spake vnto the fish, and it cast out Ionah vpon the drye land.

Jonah is sent againe to Nineuē. 3 The repentance of the King of Nineuē.

a This is a great declaration of Gods mercie which he receiuerth him againe & sendeth hi forth as his Prophet which had

1 And the worde of the Lord came vnto Ionah the seconde time, saying, Arise, go vnto Nineuē that great citie, and preache vnto it the preaching, which I bid thee.

2 So Ionah arose and went to Nineuē before shewed so great infirmite.

ording to the worde of the Lord: now Nineuē was a great and excellent citie of thre daies iourney.

2 And Ionah began to entre into the citie a daies iourney, and he cryed, and said, Yet fortie daies, & Nineuē shalbe ouerthrowen.

3 So the people of Nineuē beleued God and proclaimed a fast, & put on sackcloth from the greatest of them euē to the least of them.

4 For worde came vnto the King of Nineuē, and he rose from his throne, and he laied his robe from him, and covered him with sackcloth, and sate in ashes.

5 And he proclaimed and said through Nineuē, (by the counsell of the King and his nobles) saying, Let nether man, nor beast, bullocke nor shepe tast any thing, nether fede nor drinke water.

6 But let man and beast put on sackcloth, and crye mightely vnto God: yea, let euerie man turne from his euil waie, and from the wickednes that is in their hands.

7 Who can tel if God wil turne, and repent and turne awaie from his fierce wrath, if we perish not?

8 And God sawe their workes that thei turned from their euil wayes: & God repented of the euil that he had said that he wolde do vnto them, and he did it not.

b Read Chap. 1, 1.

c He went forward one daie in the citie, & preached, & so he continued till the citie was conquered.

d For he declared that he was a Prophet sent to them from God to denounce his iudgements against them.

e Not that dumme beasts had sinned or colde repent, but by their example man might be admonished, considering that for his sinne he is angry of God hangd ouer all creatures.

f He willed, that the men shoulde earnestly call vnto God for mercie.

g For partly by the threatening of the Prophet, & partly by the motion of his owne conscience & he doubted whether God wolde shewe them mercie.

h That is, the frutes of their repentance, which did procede of faith which God had planted by the ministerie of his Prophet. 1 Read Ierem 18, 8.

The great goodnes of God toward his creatures.

1 Therefore it displeaseth Ionah exceedingly, and he was angrie.

2 And he praied vnto the Lord, and said, I praie thee, O Lord, was not this my saying, when I was yet in my countrey: therefore I preuented it to flee vnto Tarshish: for I knew that thou art a gracious God, and merciful, slowe to angrie and of great kindness, and repentest thee of the euil.

3 Therefore now O Lord, take I beseeche thee, my life from me: for it is better for me to dye then to liue.

4 The Lord said the Lord, Dost thou wel to be angrie?

5 So Ionah went out of the citie and sate on the East side of the citie, and there made him a boothe, and sate vnder it in the shadowe till he might see what shoulde be done in the citie.

6 And the Lord God prepared a gourd, & made it to come vp ouer Ionah, that it might be a shadowe ouer his head and deliuer him from his grief. So Ionah was exceeding glad of the gourd.

7 But God prepared a worme when the morning rose the next daie, and it smote a Because hereby he shoulde be taken as a false prophet, & so the Name of God, which he preached, shoulde be blasphemed.

b Read Chap. 1, 3.

c Thus he praied of grief fearing lest Gods Name by this forgiveness might be blasphemed as though he sent his Prophets forthe to denounce his iudgements in vaine.

d Wilt thou be iudge when I do things for my glorie, and when I do not?

e For he doubted as yet whether God wolde shewe the mercie or not: and therefore after fourte dayes he departed out of the citie, looking what yf God wolde send f Which was a further meane to comfort him from the heat of the sunne, as he remained in his boothe.

the gourde, that it withered.

8 And when the sunne did arise, God prepared also a feruent East winde: and the sunne bet vpon the head of Ionah, that he fainted, and wished in his heart to dye, and said, It is better for me to dye, then to liue.

9 And God said vnto Ionah, Doeſt thou wel to be angry for the gourde? And he said, I do wel to be angry vnto thy death.

10 Then said the Lord, Thou hast had pittie on the gourde for the which thou hast not laboured, nether madeſt it growe, which came vp in a night, and perished in a night, 11 And ſhulde not I spare Nineueh that great citie, wherein are six ſcore thousand perſones, that cannot diſcerne betwene their right hand, & their left hand, and alſo muche cattel?

^h Thus God mercifully reprouech him, which wolde putte him selfe & this gourde, and yet wolde reſtraine God to ſhewe his compaſſion to ſo manie thouſand people

MICAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

Micah the Prophet of the tribe of Iudah ſerued in the worke of the Lord, concerning Iudah and Iſrael, at the leaſt thirtie yeres at what time Iſaiah prophesied. He declarereth the deſtruction firſt of the one kingdome, and then of the other, becauſe of their manifolde wickednes, but chiefly for their idolatry. And to this end he noteth the wickednes of the people, the crueltie of the princes and gouernours, and the permiſſion of the falſe prophetes, and the deliuing in them. Then he ſetteth forth the coming of Chriſt, his kingdome, & the ſeruicie thereof. This Prophet was not that Micah which reſiſted Ahab, & all his falſe prophetes, as 1. King. 22, 8, but another of the ſame name.

ⁱ The deſtruction of Iudah & Iſrael becauſe of their idolatry.

^a Some in Marſhah a citie of Iudah

THe worde of the Lord, that came vnto Micah the Morathite in the dayes of Iotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah Kings of Iudah, which he ſawe concerning Samaria and Ieruſalem.

^b Becauſe of the malice, & obſtinacie of the people whome he had ſo oft exhorted to repentance, he ſomewhat the to Gods iudgements taking all creatures, & God him ſelf to witnes, that the preaching of his Prophecie, & they were abuſed, ſhal be reuenged
^c Meaning hereby that God wil come to iudgement againſt the cities & holdes of Samaria, which ſhulde haue bene an exaple to all Iſrael of true religio & iuſtice, was puddle, and ſtewes of all idolatry, and corruption, & boacted them ſelues of their father Iacob.
^e That is, the idolatry and infection
^f Which they gathered by euil practiſes, & thought that their idoles had enriched them therewith for their ſeruiſe vnto them.

2 Heare, all ye people: hearken thou, O earth, and all that therein is, and let the Lord God be witnes againſt you, euen the Lord from his holie Temple.

3 For beholde, the Lord cometh out of his place, and wil come downe, & tread vpon the high places of the earth.

4 And the mountaines ſhal melt vnder him (ſo ſhal the valles cleaue) as waxe before the fyre, & as the waters that are powred downeward.

5 For the wickednes of Iacob is all this, & for the ſinnes of the houſe of Iſrael: what is the wickednes of Iacob? Is not Samaria? & which are the high places of Iudah? Is not Ieruſalem?

6 Therefore I wil make Samaria as an heape of the field, & for the planting of a vineyard, and I wil cauſe the ſtones thereof to tumble downe into the valley, & I wil diſcouer the fundacions thereof.

7 And all the grauen images thereof ſhal be broken, and all the gifts thereof ſhal be burnt with the fyre, and all the idoles thereof wil I deſtroye: for ſhe gathered it of the hyre of an harlot, and they ſhal reu-ne to the wages of an harlot.

8 Therefore I wil moune & houle: I wil go without clothes, and naked: I wil make lamentacion like the dragons, & mourning as the oſtriches.

9 For her plagues are grieuous: for it is come into Iudah: the enemy is come vnto the gate of my people, vnto Ieruſalem.

10 Declare ye it not at Gath, nether wepe ye: for the houſe of Ephraim roule thy ſelf in the duſt.

11 Thou that dwelleſt at Shaphir, go together naked with ſhame: ſhe that dwelleth at Zaanan, ſhal not come forthe in mourning of Beth-el: the enemy ſhal receiue of you for his ſtanding.

12 For the inhabitant of Maroth waited for good, but euil came from the Lord vnto the gate of Ieruſalem.

13 O thou inhabitant of Lachiſh, binde the chariot to the beaſtes of price: ſhe is the beginning of the ſinne to the daughter of Zion: for the tranſgreſſions of Iſrael were founde in thee.

14 Therefore ſhalt thou giue preſents to Moresheth Gath: the houſes of Achzib ſhal be as a lie to the Kings of Iſrael.

15 Yet wil I bring an heire vnto thee, O inhabitant of Mareshah, he ſhal come vnto Adullam, the glorie of Iſrael.

16 Make thee balde: and ſhaue thee for thy delicate children: enlarge thy baldenes as the egle, for they are gone into captiuitie from thee.

^o Thou firſt receiuedſt idolatry of Ieroboam, & ſo diſt infect Ieruſalem
^p Thou ſhalt bribe Philitiſts thy neighbours, but they ſhal deceiue thee, as wel as they of Ieruſalem
^q He prophesied againſt his owne citie, & becauſe it ſignified an heritage, he ſaith God wolde ſend an heire to poſſeſſe it
^r For ſo they thought them ſelues for the ſtrength of their citie.

^g The gaine came by their idoles, ſhulde be conſumed as a thig of noughe: for as wages or riches of harlottes are wickedly gotten, ſo are they vilely and ſpedely ſpent.
^h Let the Philitiſts our enemies reioyce at our deſtruction ⁱ Which was a citie nere to Ieruſalem, Iosha. 18, 23, & ſignifieth duſt: therefore he wil let them to mourne, & roule the ſelues in duſt, for their iuſtice crime ^k Theſe were cauſes whereby the enemy ſhulde paſſe as he came to Iudah
^l He ſhal not departe before he hath ouercome you, and ſo you ſhal pay for his taryng
^m For Raſhakh had ſhut vp Ieruſalem, & they coulde not ſend to ſuccour them.
ⁿ To ſee a way: for Sancherib ſaid ſiege firſt to the citie, & remained therein whiche ſent his captiues, & armed againſt Ieruſalem
^o Thou firſt receiuedſt idolatry of Ieroboam, & ſo diſt infect Ieruſalem
^p Thou ſhalt bribe Philitiſts thy neighbours, but they ſhal deceiue thee, as wel as they of Ieruſalem
^q He prophesied againſt his owne citie, & becauſe it ſignified an heritage, he ſaith God wolde ſend an heire to poſſeſſe it

ⁱ Threatnings againſt the wanton & deſtroye people.
² They wilde teache the Prophetes to preache.

WO vnto the, that imagine iniquitie, and worke wickednes vpon their beddes: whe y morning is light they practise it because their had hath the power.

And they couet fields, and take them by violence, and houses, and take them away: so they oppresse a man and his house, and his heritage.

Therefore thus saith the Lord, Beholde, against this familie haue I deuifed a plague, whereout ye shal not plucke your neckes, and ye shal not go so proudly, for this time is euil.

In that day shal they take vp a parable against you, and lament with a dolful lamentacion, & say, We be vterly wasted: he hath changed the porcion of my people: how hath he taken it away to restore it vnto me: he hath diuided our fields.

Therefore thou shalt haue none that shalt cast a coard by lot in the Congregation of the Lord.

They that prophecied, Prophecie ye not. They shal not prophecie to them, neither shal they take shame.

O thou that art named the house of Iaakob, is the Spirit of the Lord shotted? are these his workes? are not my wordes good vnto him? that walketh vprightly?

But he that was yester day my people, is risen vp on the other side, as against an enemy: they spoyle the beautiful garmet from the that passe by peaceably, as though they returned from the waire.

The women of my people haue ye cast out from their pleasant houses, & from their children haue ye taken away my glorie continually.

Arise and departe, for this is not your rest: because it is polluted, it shal destroye you, euen with a fore destruction.

If a man walke in the Spirit, & wolde lie falsely, saying, I wil prophecie vnto thee of wine, and of strong drinke, he shal eue be the Prophet of this people.

I wil surely gather thee wholly, o Iaakob: I wil surely gather the remnant of Israel: I wil put them together as the shepe of Bozrah, euen as the flocke in the middes of their folde: the cities shal be full of brute of the men.

The breaker vp shal come vp before them: they shal break out, and passe by the gate, and go out by it, and their King shal go before them, and the Lord shal be vpon their heads.

That is, shewe him self to be a Prophet. He sheweth what Prophecies they delite in that is, in flatterers, which tel them pleasant tales, & speake of their commodities. To destroye thee. The enemy shal breake their gates and wailes and lead them in to Caldea. To drue them forward, and to helpe their enemies.

CHAP. III.

Against the tyrannie of princes and false prophetes.

And I said, Heare, I pray you, o heads of Iaakob, and ye princes of the house of Israel: shulde not ye knowe a iudgement?

But they hate the good, & loue the euil: they plucke of their skinned from them, & their flesh from their bones.

And they eat also the flesh of my people, and slay of their skinned from them, & they breake their bones, & chop them in peeces, as for the pot, & as flesh within the caldron.

Then shal they crye vnto the Lord, but he wil not heare them: he wil eue hide his face from them at that time, because they haue done wickedly in their workes.

Thus saith the Lord, Concerning the prophetes that disceiue my people, and bite them with their teeth, and crye peace, but if a man put not into their mouthes, they prepare waire against him, Therefore night shalbe vnto you for a vision, and darkeenes shalbe vnto you for a diuination, and the sunne shal go downe ouer the Prophetes, and the day shalbe darke ouer them.

Then shal the Seers be ashamed, and the sothesayers confounded: yea, they shal all couer their lippes, for they haue none answer of God.

Yet notwithstanding I am full of power by the Spirit of the Lord, and of iudgement and of strength to declare vnto Iaakob his transgression, and to Israel his sinne.

Heare this, I pray you, ye heads of the house of Iaakob, and princes of the house of Israel: they abhorre iudgement, and peruert all quietie.

They buyld vp Zion with blood, and Ierusalem with iniquitie.

The heads thereof teache for hyre, & the Prophetes thereof prophecie for money: yet wil they leane vpon the Lord, & say, Is not the Lord among vs? no euil can come vpon vs.

Therefore shal Zion for your sake be plowed as a field, & Ierusalem shal be an heape, and the mountaine of the house, as the hie places of the forest.

of his vocatiō by the Spirit of God, fettereth him self alone against all the wicked, shewing how God bothe gaue him giues, habilite, and knowledge, to discern between good & euil, and also constancie to reprove the finnes of the people, and not to flatter them. They buyld their houses by bribes, which be calleth blood and iniquitie. They wil say, that they are the people of God, and abuse his Name as a pretence to cloke their hypocrisie. Read Ieremiah, 26, 18.

CHAP. IIIII.

Of the kingdome of Christ, and felicitie of his Church.

Vt in the last dayes it shal come to passe, that the mountaine of the House of the Lord shal be prepared in the top of the mountaines, and it shalbe exalted aboute the hills, and people shal flowe vnto it.

a That thing which is iust & lawful, bothe to gouerne my people aright, & also to discharge your owne consciences?

The Prophet condemneth the wicked gouernors not onely of couetoufnes, theft, and murder, but compareth them to wolues, lyons, & mozte cruel beasts.

That is, when I shal visite their wickedness: for though I heare y gods voice before they crye, I sa 65, 24, yet I wil not heare these though they crye, I sa 1, 15- iam 2, 13 1 pet 3, 11

They deuoure all their substance, & then flatter them, promising that all shal go well: but if one restraine from their bellies, then they inuent all wayes to mischiefe.

As you haue loud to walke in darkeenes, and to prophecie lies so God shal rewarde you with grosse blindness, and ignorance, so y whe all others shal see the bright beames of Gods graces, ye shal as blinde men grope as in y night.

When God shal discover them to the worlde, they shal be afraid to speake: for all shal knowe y they were but false prophetes, and did belye the worde of God.

The Prophecie being assured of his vocatiō by the Spirit of God, fettereth him self alone against all the wicked, shewing how God bothe gaue him giues, habilite, and knowledge, to discern between good & euil, and also constancie to reprove the finnes of the people, and not to flatter them.

When Christ shal come, and the Temple shalbe destroyed.

Read I sa 2, 3

a Affose as they rise, they execute their wicked deutes of y night, and according to their power hurt others. Ebr. is so pouer.

b Thus the Iewes lament and say that there is no hope of restitucio leing their possessions are diuided among the enemies. Ye shal haue no more lands to diuide, as you had in times past, and as you vfed to measure them in the tuble.

d Thus the people warne the Prophetes that they speake to them no more: for they can not abide their threatnings.

e God saith, that they that nor prophecie, nor receiue no more of their rebukes nor tantes. Are these your workes according to his Law?

g Do not the godlie finde my wordes comfortable?

h That is, afore time.

i The poore can haue no comoditie by them, but they spoyle them, as though they were enemies.

k l That is, their substance, and liuing, which is Gods blessing, and as it were, parte of his glorie. I Ierusalem shal not be your sauegarde: but the cause of your destruction.

m That is, shewe him self to be a Prophet. He sheweth what Prophecies they delite in that is, in flatterers, which tel them pleasant tales, & speake of their commodities.

n To destroye thee.

p The enemy shal breake their gates and wailes and lead them in to Caldea.

q To drue them forward, and to helpe their enemies.

a He sheweth that there is no true Church but where as the people are taught by Gods pure worde d By his corrections and threatnings he wil bring the people into subjection which are in the vermost corners of the worlde e They that abstaine from all euil doing, and exercise them selues in godlines & in wel doing f Read Isa 2, 4 g He sheweth that the people of God ought to remaine constant in their religion, albeit all the worlde giue them felues to their superstition & idolatry h I wil cause that Israél, which is now as one lame & halting, and so almost destroyed, shall liue againe & growe into a great people. i Meaning Ierusalem where the Lords flocke was gathered k The flourishing state of the kingdom, as it was vnder Dauid & Salomon, which thing was accomplished to the Church by the coming of Christ. l In the meane season he sheweth that they shulde indure great troubles and tribulations when they sawe the felues neither to haue King nor counsell m He sheweth that the faithful ought not to measure Gods iudgements by the bragges and threatnings of the wicked, but that they are admouished to liue vp their hearts to God to call for deliuerance. n God giueth his Church this victorie so oft as he ouercometh their enemies: but the accomplishment hereof shalbe at the last coming of Christ

2 Yea, many nacions shal come and say, Come, and let vs go vp to the Mountaine of the Lord, and to the House of the God of Iaakób, and he wil teache vs his waies, & we wil walke in his paths: for the Law shal goe forth of Ziön, and the worde of the Lord from Ierusalém.
3 And he shal iudge among many people, & rebuke mightie nacions a faire of, & they shal breake their swordes into mattocks, and their speares into sickles: nacion shal not lift vp a sworde against nacion, nether shal they learne to fight any more.
4 But they shal sit euery man vnder his vine, and vnder his fig tree, and none shal make them afraid: for the mouth of the Lord of hosties hath spoken it.
5 For all people wil walke in the name of his god, and we wil walke in the Name of the Lord our God, for euer and euer.
6 At the same day, saith the Lord, wil I gather her that halteth, and I wil gather her that is cast out, & her that I haue afflicted.
7 And I wil make her that halted, a remnant, & her that was cast farre of, a mightie nacion: and the Lord shal reigne ouer them in Mount Ziön, from hence forth euen for euer.
8 And thou, towre of the flocke, strong holde of the daughter Ziön, vnto thee shal it come, euen the first dominion, & kingdom shal come to the daughter Ierusalém.
9 Now why dost thou crye out with lamentacion, there no King in thee is thy counseller perished: for sorrow hath taken thee, as a woman in trauail.
10 Sorrow and mourne, daughter Ziön, like a woman in trauail: for now shalt thou goe forth of the citie, and dwell in the field, & shalt goe into Babel, but there shalt thou be deliuered: there the Lord shal redeme thee from the hand of thine enemies.
11 Now also many nacions are gathered against thee, saying, Ziön shalbe condemned and our eye shal loke vpon Ziön.
12 But they knowe not the thoughts of the Lord: they vnderstand not his counsell, for he shal gather them as the sheaues in the barne.
13 Arise, and thresh, daughter Ziön: for I wil make thine home yion, and I wil make thine houes brass, & thou shalt breake in pieces many people: and I wil consecrate their riches vnto the Lord, and their substance vnto the ruler of the whole worlde.

1 Now assemble thy garisons, daughter of garisons: he hath laied siege against vs: they shal smite the iudge of Israél with a rodde vpon the cheeke.
2 And thou Beth-leém Ephráthah art little to be among the thousands of Iudáh, yet out of thee shal he come forth vnto me, that shal be the ruler in Israél: whose goings forth haue bene from the beginning & from euerlasting.
3 Therefore wil he giue them vp, vntil the time that she which shal beare, shal trauail: then the remnant of their brethren shal returne vnto the children of Israél.
4 And he shal stand, and fede in strength of the Lord, & in the maiestie of the Name of the Lord his God, & they shal dwell still: for now shal he be magnified vnto the ends of the worlde.
5 And he shal be our peace whé Asshúr shal come into our land: when he shal tread in our palaces, then shal we raise against him seuen shepherds, and eight principal men.
6 And they shal destroy Asshúr with the sworde, & the land of Nimóid with their swordes: thus shal he deliuer vs from Asshúr, when he cometh into our land, & when he shall tread within our borders.
7 And the remnant of Iaakób shal be among many people, as a dewe from the Lord, and as the showres vpon the grasse, that waiteth not for man, nor hopeth in the sonnes of Adám.
8 And the remnant of Iaakób shal be among the Gentiles in the middes of many people, as the lyon among the beasts of the forest, and as the Lyons whelp among the flockes of shepe, who when he goeth thorow, treadeth downe and reareth in pieces, and none can deliuer.
9 Thine hand shal be lift vp vpon thine aduersaries, & all thine enemies shalbe cut of.
10 And it shal come to passe in that day, saith the Lord, that I wil cut of thine horses out of the middes of thee, and I wil destroy thy charrets.
11 And I wil cut of the cities of thy land, and ouerthrowe all thy strong holdes.
12 And I wil cut of thine enchanters out of thine hand: and thou shalt haue no more soothsayers.
13 Thine idoles also wil I cut of, & thine images out of the middes of thee: and thou shalt no more worship the worke of thine hands.
14 And I wil plucke vp thy groues out of the middes of thee: so wil I destroy thine enemies.
15 And I wil execute a vengeance in my a He forewarneth them of the dangers which shal come, before they enioy these comforts, shewing that forasmuch as Ierusalem was accustomed to her garisons to trouble others the Lord wolde now cause other garisons to vex her, and that her Rulers shulde be smitten on the face most contemptuously b For so the Iewes desired their countrey, that for euery thousand there was a chief captain and because Beth-leém was not able to make a thousand, he calleth it little, but yet God wil raise vp his captain and gouernour therein: & thus it is not the least by reason of this benefit, as mat 2, 6 c He sheweth that the coming of Christ & all his waies were appointed of God from all eternitie d He compareth the Iewes to women which childe, who for a time shulde haue great sorowes, but at length they shulde haue a comfortable deliuerance, Ioh 16, 21 e That is, Christes kingdom shalbe stable and euerslasting, and his people, aswell the Gétiles as the Iewes shal dwell in safetie f This Mefsiáh shalbe a sufficient sauegarde for vs, and though the enemye made vs for a time, yet shal God strike vp many which shal be able to deliuer vs g These whom God shal raise vp for deliuerance of his Church, shal destroy all the enemies thereof, which are ment here by the Assyrians and Babylonians which were the chief at that time h By these gouernours wil God deliuer vs when the enemye cometh into our land i This Remnant or Church which God shal deliuer, shal onely depend on Gods power and defence, as doeth the grasse of the field, and not on the hope of man k I wil destroy all things wherein thou puttest thy confidence, as thy vaine confidence and idolatry, and so wil helpe thee.

CHAP. VI.

An exhortacion to the dumme creatures to heare the iudgement against Israel being vnkende. 6 What manner of sacrifices do please God.

Hearken ye now what the Lord saith, Arise thou, and contend before the mountaines, and let the hilles heare thy voyce.

Heare ye, o mountaines, the Lords quarel, and ye mightie fundacions of the earth: for the Lord hath a quarel against his people, and he wil pleade with Israel.

O my people, what haue I done vnto thee? or wherein haue I grieved thee? testifye against me.

Surely I brought thee vp out of the land of Egypt, & redeemed thee out of the house of seruants, and I haue sent before thee, Moses, Aaron, and Miriam.

O my people, remember now what Balaam King of Moab had diuised, and what Balaam the sonne of Beor answered him, from Shittim vnto Gilgal, that ye may knowe the righteousness of the Lord.

Wherewith shal I come before y Lord, & bowe my self before the hie God? Shal I come before him with burnt offrings, & with calves of a yere olde?

Wil the Lord be pleased with thousands of rams, or w ten thousand riuers of oyle? shal I giue my firstborne for my trasgression, euen the frute of my bodie for the sinne of my soule?

He hath shewed thee, o man, what is good, and what the Lord requireth of thee: surely to do iustly, and to loue mercie, and to humble thy self, to walke with thy God.

The Lords voyce cryeth vnto the citie, and the man of wisdom shal se thy name: Heare the rod, and who hath appointed it.

Are yet the treasures of wickednes in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure, that is abominable?

Shal I iustifie the wicked balances, and the bag of deceitful weights?

For the riche men thereof are ful of crueltie, & the inhabitants thereof haue spoken lies, & their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.

Therefore also wil I make thee sicke in smiting thee, & in making thee desolate because of thy sinnes.

Thou shalt eat and not be satisfied, & thy casting downe shalbe in the middes of thee, and thou shalt take holde, but shalt not deliuer: & that which thou deliuerest, wil I giue vp to the sworde.

1 Meaning, that the circle shulde go about to see her men, holde on that which they wolde preserve.

Thou shalt sowe, but not reape: thou shalt treade the oliues, but thou shalt not anoint thee with oyle, and make swete wine, but shalt not drinke wine.

CHAP. VII.

A complaint for the smale number of the righteous, & the wickednes of these times. 14 The prosperitie of the Church.

Woe is me, for I am as the somer gatherings, & as the grapes of the vintage: there is no cluster to ear: my soule desired the first ripe frutes.

The good man is perished out of the earth, and there is none righteous among men: thei all lie in waite for blood: euery man hunteth his brother with a net.

To make good for the euil of their hands, the prince asked, and the iudge iudgeth for a rewarde: therefore the great man he speaketh out the corruption of his soule: so they wrap it vp.

The best of them is as a briar, and the most righteous of them is sharper then a thorne hedge: the day of thy watchmen & the visitacion cometh: then shalbe their confusion.

Trust ye not in a friend, nether put ye confidence in a counseller: keepe the dores of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bosome.

For the sonne reuileth the father: the daughter riseth vp against her mother: the daughter in law against her mother in law, and a mans enemies are y men of his owne house.

Therefore I wil loke vnto the Lord: I wil waite for God my Sauour: my God wil heare me.

Reioyce not against me, o mineemie: though I fall, I shal arise: when I shal sit in darknes, the Lord shal be a light vnto me.

I wil beare the wrath of the Lord because I haue sinned against him, vntil he pleade my cause, and execute iudgement for me: then wil he bring me forth to the light, & I shal se his righteousness.

Then she that is mineemie, shal loke vpon it, and shame shal couer her, which said vnto me, Where is the Lord thy God? Mine eies shal beholde her: now shal she be troden downe as the myre of the stretes.

m You haue reueiled all the corrupeion and idolatrie, wherewith the tribes were infected vnder Omri and Abab his sonnes: and to excuse your doings, you alledge the Kings autoritie by his statutes, and also wisdom & policie in so doing, but you shal not escape punishment, but as I haue shewed you great fauour, and taken you for my people, so shal your plagues be accordingly, Luk 12,47.

a The Prophet taketh vpon him the person of y earth, which complaineth that all her frutes are gone, so y none is left: y is, that there is no godlie man remaining: for all are giuen to crueltie & deceit, so that none spareth his owne brother

b He sheweth that y prince, the iudge and the riche man are linked together, all to do euil and to cloke the doings one of another

f Meaning of the Prophetes & gouernours

g The Prophet sheweth that the onelic remedy for the godlie in desperat euils is to flee vnto God for succour.

h This is spoken in the person of the Church which calleth the malignant Church her beneme.

1 To wit, whē God shal shew him self a deliuerer of his Church, and a destroyer of his enemies k Meaning, the cruel empire of the Babylonians l When the Church shalbe restored, they that were enemies afore, shal come out of all the corners of the worlde vnto her, so that neether holdes, riuers, seas nor mountaines shalbe able to let them
m Afore this grace appeare, he sheweth how grieuouſly the hypocrites shall be punished, seeing that the earth it self, which can not sime, shall be made waste because of their wickednes n The Prophet prayeth to God to be merciful vnto his Church, when they shulde be scattered abroad as in solitarie places in Babylon and to be beneficial vnto them as in time past
o God promisseth to be favorable to his people as he had bene afore tyme

11 This is the day, that thy walles shal be buylt: this day shal driue faire away ^k the decre.
12 In this day also they shal come vnto thee from ^l Asshúti, and from the strong cities, and from the strong holdes euen vnto the riuier, and from sea to sea, & from mountaine to mountaine.
13 Notwithstanding, the land shalbe desolate because of the that dwell therein, and for the sinites of ^m their inuentions.
14 ⁿ Fede thy people with thy rod, the flocke of thine heritage (which dwell solitarie in the wood) as in the middes of Camél: let them fede in Bashán and Gileád, as in olde time.
15 ^o According to the dayes of thy coming out of the land of Egypt, wil I shewe vnto thee marueilous things.

16 The nacions shal se, and be confounded for all their power: they shal ^p laye their hand vpon their mouth: ^q their eares shal be deafe.
17 They shal ^r lick the dust like a serpet: thei shal moue out of their holes like wormes: they shal be afraide of the Lord our God, and shal feare because of thee.
18 Who is a God like vnto thee, that taketh away iniquitie, & ^s passeth by the trasgression of the remnant of his heritage! He reteineth not his wrath for euer, because mercie pleaseth him.
19 He wil turne againe, and haue compassiō vpon vs: he wil subdue our iniquities, & cast all ^t their sinnes into the bottome of the sea.
20 Thou wilt performe ^u thy trueth to Iakób, & mercie to Abrahám, as thou hast sworne vnto our fathers in olde time.

p They shalbe as dumme men & dare bragge no more q They shalbe afrayd, and afrayd to heare men speake, lest they shulde heare of their destruction r They shal fall flat on the grounde for feare s As thogh he wolde not se it, but winke at it t Meaning, of his elect u The Church is assured, that God wil declare in effect the trueth of his merciful promes, which he had made of olde to Abrahám, and to all that shulde apprehende the promes by faith.

NAHUM.

THE ARGUMENT.

AS they of Nineuē shewed them selues prompt and ready to receiue the worde of God at Ionahs preaching, and so turned to the Lord by repentance so after a certeine tyme rather giuing the selues to worldelie meanes to increase their dominion, then seeking to continue in the feare of God, and trade wherein they had begone, they cast off the care of religion, and so returned to their vomite, and prouoked Gods iuste iudgement against them, in afflicting his people. Therfore their citie Nineuē was destroyed, and Meróch-baladan King of Babel (or as some thinke Nebuchad-nexxár) enioyed the empire of the Assyriens. But because God haibe a continual care of his Church, he stirreth vp his Prophet to comfort the godlie, shewing that the destruction of their enemies shulde be for their consolation. And as it semeth, he prophesied about the time of Heczekiáh, and not in the time of Manasseh his sonne, as the Iewes write.

g The ^h Lord is slowe to angrie, but he is great in power, and wil not surely cleare the wicked: the Lord ⁱ bathe his way in the whirle winde, and in the stoime, and the cloudes are the dust of his fete.

The Prophet complaineth vnto God, considering the great felicitie of the wicked, and the miserable oppression of the godlie, which endure all kinde of affliction & crueltie, and yet can see none end. Therefore he had this reuelation shewed him of God, that the Caldeans shulde come and take them awaie captiues, so that they coulde loke for none end of their troubles as yet, because of their stubbernes and rebellion against the Lord. And lest the godlie shulde despaire, seeing this horrible confusion, he comforteth them by this that God wil punish the Caldeans their enemies, when their pride and crueltie shalbe at height: wherefore he exhorteth the faithfull to patience by his owne example, and sheweth them a forme of prayer, wherewith they shulde comfort themselves.

a Complains against the wicked that persecute the iust.

He burden, which Habakkúk y^e Prophet did see. O Lord, how long shal I crye, and thou wilt not heare! euen crye out vnto thee for violence, and thou wilt not helpe!

Why dost thou shewe me iniquitie, and cause me to beholde sorowe for spoyling, and violence are before me: and there are that raise vp strife and contention.

Therefore the Law is dissolved, and iudgement doeth neuer go forthe: for the wicked doeth compass about the righteous: therefore wrong iudgement procedeth.

Beholde among the heathen, and regarde, & wonder, & marueil: for I wil worke a worke in your daies: ye wil not beleue it, though it be tolde you.

For lo, I raise vp the Caldeans, that bitter and furious nacion, which shal go vpon the breadth of the land to possesse the dwelling places, that are not theirs.

Thei are terrible & feareful: their iudgement and their dignitie shal procede of them selues.

Their horses also are swifter than the leopards, and are more swifte then the wolues in the euening: & their horsemen are many: & their horsemen shal come fro farre: thei shal flie as y^e eagle hastening to meat.

They come all to spoyle: before their faces shalbe an Eastwinde, and they shal gather the captiuitie, & as the sand.

And thei shal mocke the Kings, and the princes shalbe a skorne vnto them: thei shal deride euery strong holde: for they shal gather dust, and take it.

Then shal thei take a courage, & transgresse & do wickedly, impugning this their power vnto their god.

Art not thou of olde, o Lord my God mine holy one? we shal not dye: O Lord, y^e hast ordeined them for iudgement, and o God, thou hast established them for correction.

Thou art of pure eyes, and canst not see euil: y^e canst not beholde wickednes: wherefore dost thou loke vpon the transgressors, & holdest thy tongue when the wicked deuoureth the man, that is more righteous then he?

And makest men as the fish of the sea, & as the creeping things, that haue no ruler ouer them.

Thei take vp all with the angle. thei catche it in their net, and gather it in their yarne, whereof they reioyce & are glad.

Therefore thei sacrifice vnto their net and burne incense vnto their yarne, because by them their porcion is fat & their meat plenteous.

Shal thei therefore stretch out their net & not spare continually to slaye y^e nacions: & not spare continually to slaye y^e nacions:

A vision, Against pride, conetoufnes, drunkennes and idolatrie.

a I will reioyce in mine owne iudgement, and onely depend on God to be instructed what I shal answer them that abuse my preaching, and to be armed against all reuoltions.

b Write it in great letters, that he that runneth, may read it. c Which contained the destruction of the enemy, & the comfort of the Church: which thing though God execute not according to mans haughty affections, yet the issue of both is certaine at his time appointed.

d To trust in him self or in any worldly thing, is neuer to be quiet: for the onelie rest is to stay vpon God by faith, Rom. 7. 17. galat 3. 11 ebr 10. 38.

e He comparereth the proude, and conetous man to a drunkard that is without reason and sense, whome God will punish, & make him a laughing stocke to all the world: & thus he speaketh for the comfort of the godlie, and against the Caldeans.

f Signifying, that all the world shal with the destruction of tyrants, and that by their oppression, & conetoufnes they heape but vpon them felues more heauie burdens: for the more they get, the more are they troubled.

g That is, the Medes and Persians, that should destroye the Babylonians.

h Signifying, that the conetous man is the ruine of his owne house, when as he thinketh to encheate by crueltie and oppression. i The stones of the house shal crye, and say that they are buyt of blood, and the wood shal answer and say the same of it self. k Meaning, that God wil not deferre his vengeance long, but wil come, and destroye all their labours, as though they were consumed with fyre. l In the destruction of the Babylonians his glorie shal appere through all the worlds.

I Wil stand vpon my watche, and set me vpon the towre, and wil loke & see what he wolde say vnto me, & what I shal answer to him that rebuketh me.

And the Lord answered me, & said, Write the vision, and make it plaine vpon tables, that he may runne that readeth it.

For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the last it shal speake, & not lie: though it tary, waite: for it shal surely come, & shal not stay.

Beholde, he that lifteth vp him self, his minde is not vpright in him, but the iuste shal liue by his faith.

Yea, in dede the proude man is as he that transgresseth by wine: therefore shal he not endure, because he hath enlarged his desire as the hel, and is as death, and can not be satisfied, but gathereth vnto him all nacions, and heapeth vnto him all people.

Shal not all these take vp a parable against him, and a tainting prouerbe against him, and say, Ho, he that increaseth that which is not his? how long, and he that ladeth him self with thicke claye?

Shal they not rise vp suddenly, that shal bite thee, and awake, that shal strike thee? and thou shalt be their pray?

Because thou hast spoiled manie nacions, all the remnant of the people shal spoile thee, because of mens blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the citie, & vnto all that dwell therein.

Ho, he that coueteth an euil couetousnes to his house, that he may set his nest on hie, to escape from the power of euil.

Thou hast consulted shame to thine owne house, by destroying manie people, and hast sinned against thine owne soule.

For the stone shal crye out of the wall, and the beame out of the timber shal answer it.

Wo vnto him that buyldeth a towne with blood, and erecteth a citie by iniquitie.

Beholde, is it not of the Lord of hostes that the people shal labour in the very fyre? the people shal euen weary them selues for very vanitie.

For the earth shal be filled with the knowledge of the glorie of the Lord, as the waters couer the sea.

Wo vnto him that giueth his neigboure to drinke: thou ioynest thine heate, & makest him drunken also, that thou maist see their priuities.

Thou art filled with shame for glorie: drinke thou also, and be made naked: the cuppe of the Lords right hand shal be turned vnto thee, and shameful spuing shal be for thy glorie.

For the crueltie of Lebanon shal couer thee: so shal the spoile of the beastes, which made them afraid, because of mens blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the citie, and vnto all that dwell therein.

What profiteth the image for the maker thereof, hath he made it an image, and a teacher of lies, though he that made it, trust therein, when he maketh dumme idoles.

Wo vnto him that saith to the wood, Awake, and to the dumme stone, Rise vp, it shal teache thee: beholde, it is laide ouer with golde and siluer, and there is no breath in it.

But the Lord is in his holie Temple: let all the earth kepe silence before him.

like crueltie shal be executed against them. He sheweth that the Babylonians gods colde nothing auail them: for they were but blockes or stones, read Ierem 10. 8. q If thou wilt consider what it is, and how that it hath nether breath nor life, but is a dead thing.

THE ARGUMENT.

Seeing the gre t rebellion of the people, and that there was now no hope of amendement, he de-nounceth the great iudgement of God, which was at hand, shewing that their countrey shoulde be viterly destroyed, and they caried away captiues by the Babylonians. Yet for the comfort of the faithful he prophesied of Gods vengeance against their enemies, as the Philistims, Moabites, Assyrrians and others, to assure them that God had a continual care over them. And as the wicked shoulde be punished for their sinnes and transgressions: so he exhorteth the godlie to pacience, and to trust to finde mercie by reason of the fre promes of God made vnto Abrahám: and therefore quietly to abyde til God shewe them the effect of that grace, whereby in the end they shoulde be gathered vnto him, and counted as his people and children.

10 This shal they haue for their pride, because they haue reproched and magnified themselves against the Lord of hostes people.

11 The Lord wil be terrible vnto them: for he wil consume all the gods of the earth, and euerie man shal worship him from his place, euen all the yles of the heathen.

And because that all were giuen to their owne pleasures & commodines, he declareth that that plague of famine, which God sent them among them, was a iuste reward of their ingratitude, in that they contemned Gods honour, who had deliuered them. CHAP. I.

The time of the prophetic of Haggái. An exhortaci^o to buyld the Temple agayne.

IN the secóde yere of King^a Darius, in the sixt moneth, in the first day of the moneth, came the worde of the Lord (by the ministterie of the Prophet Haggái) vnto^b Zerubbábel the sonne of Shealtiel, a prince of Iudáh, and to Iehoshúa the sonne of Iehozadák the hie Priest, saying,

Thus speaketh y^e Lord of hostes, saying,
This people say, The time is not yet come, that the Lords House shuld be buylded.

Then came the worde of the Lord by the ministrie of y^e Prophet Haggái, saying,
Is it time for your selues to dwell in your builded houses, & this House lie waste?
Now therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes, Consider your owne waies in your hearts,

Ye haue sowne muche, & bring in litle:
ye eat, but ye haue not ynough: ye drinke, but ye are not filled: ye clothe you, but ye be not warme: and he that earneth wages, putteth the wages into a broken bagge.

Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Consider your owne waies in your hearts.

Go^f vp to the mountaine, & bring wood, & buyld this House, & I wil be fauorable in it, and I wil^h be glorified, saith the Lord.

Ye looked for muche, and lo, it came to litle: and when ye broght it home, I did blowⁱ vpon it. And why, saith the Lord of hostes? Because of mine House that is waste, and ye runne euery man vnto his owne house.

Therefore the heauen ouer you staied itself from dewe, and the earth staied her frute.

And I called for a drought vpon the lād, and vpon the mountaines, and vpon the corne, and vpon the wine, and vpon the oyle, vpon all that the grounde bringeth forthe: bothe vpon men and vpon cattel, and vpon all the labour of the hands.

When Zerubbábel the sonne of Shealtiel, and Iehoshúa the sonne of Iehozadák the hie Priest with all the remnāt of the people, heard the^k voyce of the Lord their God, & the wordes of the Prophet Haggái (as the Lord their God had sent him) then the people did feare before y^e Lord.

Then spake Haggái the Lords messenger in the Lords message vnto the people, saying, I am with you, saith the Lord.

And the Lord stirred vp^l the spirit of Zerubbábel, the sonne of Shealtiel a prince of Iudáh, and the spirit of Iehoshúa the sonne of Iehozadák the hie Priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people, and they came, and did the worke in the House of the Lord of hostes their God.

CHAP. II.

He sheweth that the glorie of the secóde Temple shal exceede the first.

IN the foure and twentieth daye of the sixt moneth, in the secóde yere of King Darius,

In the seuenth moneth, in the one & twentieth daye of the moneth, came the worde of the Lord by the ministrie of the Prophet Haggái, saying,

Speake now to Zerubbábel the sonne of Shealtiel prince of Iudáh, & to Iehoshúa the sonne of Iehozadák the hie Priest, & to the residue of the people, saying,

Who is left among you, that sawe this House in her first glorie, & how do you se it now? Is it not in your eyes, in comparison of it as nothing?

Yet now be of good courage, o Zerubba-bél, saith the Lord, and be of good comfort, o Iehoshúa, sonne of Iehozadák the hie Priest: and be strong, all ye people of the land; saith the Lord, & do it: for I am with you, saith the Lord of hostes,

According to the worde that I couenanted with you, when ye came out of Egypt:
so my Spirit shal remaine among you, feare ye not.

For thus saith the Lord of hostes, Yet the Priests concerning the Law, and say,

If one beare^g a holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and with his skut do touche the bread, or the potage, or the wine, or oyle, or any meat, shal it be holy? And the Priests answered and said, No.

Then said Haggái, If a polluted persone touche any of these, shal it be vnclane?
And the Priests answered, & said, It shal be vnclane.

is this people, and so is this nacion before me, saith the Lord: and so are all the workes of their hands, and that which they offer here, is vncleane.

h Consider how God did plague you with famine afore you began to buyde the Temple. That is, before the building was begun.

h From the time they began to buyde the Temple, he promitteth God wolde blese them: & albeit as yet the frute was not come for she, yet in the gathering they shulde haue plenty.

16 And now, I pray you, consider in your mindes: from this day, and afore, euen afore a stone was laid vpon a stone in the Temple of the Lord:

17 Before these things were, when one came to an heape of twentie measures, there were but ten: when one came to the wine presse for to drawe out fiftie vessels out of the presse, there were but twentie.

18 I smote you with blasting, and with mildewe, and with haile, in all the labours of your hands: yet you turned not to me, saith the Lord.

19 Consider, I pray you, in your mindes from this day, and afore from the foure and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, euen from the day that the fundacion of the Lords Temple was laid: consider it in your mindes.

20 Is the seed yet in the barne? as yet the vines, and the figre, & the pome grante, and the oliue tre hath not brought forth: from this day wil I blese you.

21 And againe the worde of the Lord came vnto Haggai in the foure & twentieth day of the moneth, saying,

22 Speake to Zerubbabel the prince of Iudah, and say, I wil shake the heauens and the earth, 23 And I wil ouerthrowe the throne of kingdomes, and I wil destroy the strength of the kingdomes of the heathen, & I wil ouerthrowe the charrets, & those that ride in them, and the horse and the riders shal come downe, euerie one by the sworde of his brother.

24 In that day, saith the Lord of hostes, wil I take thee, o Zerubbabel my seruant, the sonne of Shealtiel, saith the Lord, & wil make thee as a signet: for I haue chosen thee, saith the Lord of hostes.

h He exhorteth them to patience and to abide til the baruck came and then they shulde see Gods blessings.

m I will make a change and renue all things in Christ, of whome Zerubbabel here is a figure. Hereby he sheweth that there shalbe no let or hinderance when God wil make this wonderful restitution of his Church. Signifying that his dignitie shulde be most excellent, which thing was accomplished in Christ.

T H E A R G U M E N T.

Two moneths after that Haggai had begonne to prophesie, Zechariah was also sent of the Lord to helpe him in the labour, and to confirme the same doctrine. First therefore he putteth them in remembrance, for what cause God had so sore punished their fathers: and yet comforteth them, if they wil repent vnfeignedly, & not abuse this great benefite of God in their deliuerance, which is a figure of that true deliuerance, that all the faithful shoulde haue from death and sinne by Christ. But because they stil remained in their wickednes and coldenes to set forth the Gods glorie, & were not yet made better by their long banishment, he rebuketh them moste sharply: yet for the comfort of the repentant, he euer mixeth the promes of grace, that they might by this meanes be prepared to receiue Christ, in whome all shoulde be sanctified to the Lord.

C H A P. I.

h He exhorteth the people to returne to the Lord, & to shew the wickednes of their fathers. h He signifieth the restitution of Ierusalem and the Temple

In the eight moneth of the seconde yere of Darius, came the worde of the Lord vnto Zechariah the sonne of Berechiah, the sonne of Iddo, the Prophet, saying,

The Lord hath bene sore displeased with your fathers.

Therefore say thou vnto them, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Turne ye vnto me, saith the Lord of hostes, & I wil turne vnto you, saith the Lord of hostes.

Be ye not as your fathers, vnto whome former Prophets haue cryed, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Turne you now from your euil wayes, & from your wicked workes: but they wolde not heare, nor hearken vnto me, saith the Lord.

5 Your fathers, where are they? and do the Prophetes liue for euer?

6 But did not my wordes and my statutes, which I commanded by my seruants the Prophetes, take holde of your fathers? & they returned, & said, As the Lord of hostes hath determined to do vnto vs, according to our owne wayes, & according to our workes, so hath he delt with vs.

7 Vpon the foure and twentieth day of the eleuenth moneth, which is the moneth Shebat, in the seconde yere of Darius, came the worde of the Lord vnto Zechariah the sonne of Berechiah, the sonne of Iddo the Prophet, saying,

8 I sawe by night, and beholde a man riding

As men astonished with my iudgements, and not that they were touched with true repentance. Which consisteth parte of Ianuarie and parte of Februarie. This vision signifieth the restitution of the Church, but as yet it shulde not appeare to mans eyes, which is here ment by the night, by the bottome & by the mirre trees, which are blacke and giue a darke shadowe: yet he compareth God to a King, who hath his postes and messengers abroad, by whome he still worketh his purpose and bringeth his matters to passe. Who was the chief among the rest of the horie men.

e Though your fathers be dead, yet Gods iudgements in punishing the ought stil to be before your eyes: & though the Prophetes be dead, yet their doctrine remaineth for euer. 2 Pet. 1. 19. f Seeing ye sawe the force of my doctrine in punishing your fathers, why do not ye feare the threatenings contained in the same and declared by my Prophets?

a Who was the sonne of Hysaiis. b This was not Zechariah, whereof is mention 2 Chron. 24. 20. but had the same name, & is called the sonne of Berechiah, as he was, because he came of those progenitors, as of Ioiada or Berechiah and Iddo. c He speaketh this to feare the with Gods iudgements, they shulde not prouoke him as their fathers had done, whome he so grievously punished. d Let your frutes declare, if you are Gods people & that he hath wrought in you by his Spirit & mortified you: for els ma hath no power to returne to God, but God must conuert him, as Ier. 3. 18. Iam. 5. 25. 1/2. 21. 8. & 31. 6. & 45. 21. 1/2. 31. 12. 1/2. 18. 31. 0. by 14. 2. 1/2. 20. 12.

1 These figured & diuers of Gods Angels by whom God sometime punisheth and sometime comforteth & bringeth forthe his workes in diuers forces ding vpon a red horfe, and he stode amog the mirre trees, that were in a bottome, & behinde him were there 1 red horses speckeled and white.

Then said I, O my Lord, what are these? And the Angel that talked with me, said vnto me, I wil shewe thee what these be.

And the man that stode among the mirre trees, answered and said, These are they whome the Lord hath sent to go through the worlde.

11 And they answered the Angel of the Lord, that stode among the mirre trees, & said, We haue gone thorowe the worlde: and beholde, all the worlde sitteth stil, and is at rest.

12 Then the Angel of the Lord answered and said, O Lord of hostes, how long wilt thou be vnmerciful to Ierusalém, and to the cities of Iudáh, with whome thou hast bene displeas'd now these thre score and ten yeres?

13 And the Lord answered the Angel that talked with me, with good wordes and comfortable wordes.

14 So the Angel that communed with me, said vnto me, Crye thou, and speake, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, I am a ielouse ouer Ierusalém and Ziön w^a a great zeale, 15 And am greatly angrie against the careles heathen: for I was angrie but a little, & they helped forward the afflictioⁿ.

16 Therefore thus saith the Lord, I wil returne vnto Ierusalém with tender mercie: mine house shal be buylded in it, saith the Lord of hostes, & a line shal be stretched vpon Ierusalém.

17 Crye yet, and speake, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, My cities shal yet be broken with plentie: the Lord shal yet comforte Ziön, and shal yet chuse Ierusalém.

18 Then lift I vp mine eyes and sawe, and beholde, 2 foure hornes.

19 And I said vnto the Angel that talked with me, What be these? And he answered me, These are the hornes which haue scattered Iudáh, Israél, and Ierusalém.

20 And the Lord shewed me foure carpenters.

21 The said I, What come these to do? And he answered, and said, These are the hornes, which haue scattered Iudáh, so that a man durst not lift vp his head: but these are come to fraye them, and to cast out the hornes of the Gentiles, which lift vp their horne ouer the land of Iudáh, to scattre it.

2 That is, Christ the Mediator praised for the saluation of his Church, & was now troubled when all the countreys about them were at rest

3 Though for a time God differre his helpe & comfort fro his Church, yet this declarer that he loueth them still more dearly, as a most merciful father his childre, or an housband his wife, and when it is expedient for them, his helpe is euer ready

4 In destroyng the reprobate I showed my selfe, but a litle angrie toward my Church, but my enemy wolde haue destroyed them also, and considered nor the end of my chastisements.

5 To measure out the buyldings

6 The abundance shalbe so great that the places of stone shal not be able to containe these blessings that God will send, but shal euen break for fullnes.

7 Which signified all the enemies of the Church, East, West, North, South f These carpenters or smithes are Gods instruments, which with their mallets and hammers breake these hard and strong hornes, which wolde ouerthrowe the Church, and declare that none enemies horne is so strong, but God hath a hammet to breake it in pieces.

CHAP. II.

The restoring of Ierusalém and Iudáh.

1 Lift vp mine eyes againe and looked, and beholde, a man with a measuring line in his hand.

2 Then said I, Whither goest thou? And he said vnto me, To measure Ierusalém, that I may se what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof.

3 And beholde, the Angel that talked with me, went forthe: and another Angel went out to mete him,

4 And said vnto him, Runne, speake to this young man, and say, Ierusalém shal be inhabited without walles, for the multitude of men and cattel therein.

5 For I, saith the Lord, wil be vnto her a wall of fyre rounde about, and wil be the glorie in the middes of her.

6 Ho, ho, come forth, and slee from the land of the North, saith the Lord: for I haue scattered you into foures windes of the heauen, saith the Lord.

7 Saue thy self, O Ziön, that dwellest with the daughter of Babel.

8 For thus saith the Lord of hostes, After this glorie hath he sent me vnto the nations, which spoiled you: for he that toucheth you, toucheth the apple of his eye.

9 For beholde, I wil lift vp mine hand vpon them: and they shal be a spoile to those that serued them, and ye shal knowe, that the Lord of hostes hath sent me.

10 Reioyce, and be glad, O daughter Ziön: for lo, I come and wil dwell in the middes of thee, saith the Lord.

11 And many nacions shalbe ioyned to the Lord in that day, and shal be my people: and I wil dwell in the middes of thee, and thou shalt knowe that the Lord of hostes hath sent me vnto thee.

12 And the Lord shal inherit Iudáh his portion in the holy land, and shal chuse Ierusalém againe.

13 Let all flesh be stil before the Lord: for he is raised vp out of his holy place.

a That is, the Angel who was Christ: for in respect of his office he is oftentimes called an Angel, but in respect of his eternal essence, is God and so called

c Signifying the spiritual Ierusalém and Church vnder Christ, which shulde be extended by Gospel through all the worlde and shulde neede no material walles, nor trust in any worldelic strength, but shulde be safely preserved, and dwell in peace among all their enemies.

d To defende my Church, to feare the enemies, and to destroy them if they approche nere.

e In me they shal haue their full felicitie & glorie

f He calleth to the, which partly for feare and partly for their owne ease remained still in captiuitie, and so preferred their owne private commodities to the benefices of God promised in his Church.

g As it was I that scattered you, so haue I power to restore you the Church i Seing that God hath begunne to shewe his grace among you by deliuering you, he continueth the same stil toward you, and therefore sendeth me his Angel, and his Christ to defend you from your enemies, that they shal not hurt you, neither by the way nor at home. k Ye are so deare vnto God, that he can no more suffer your enemies to hurt you, then a man can abide to be thrust in the eye. Psal 178 l Vpon the heathen your enemies m They shalbe your seruantes as you haue bene theirs n This must necessarily be vnderstand of Christ, who being God equal with his Father, was sent as he was Mediator to dwell in his Church, and to gouerne them

2 And the Lord said vnto Satā, The Lord reproue thee, o Satan: euen the Lord that hathe chofen Ierusalēm, reproue thee. Is not this a brande taken out of the fyre?
3 Now Iehoshua was clothed with filthy garments, and stode before the Angel.
4 And he answered and spake vnto those that stode before him, saying, Take away the filthy garments from him. And vnto him he said, Beholde, I haue caused thine iniquitie to departe from thee, & I wil clothe thee with change of raiment.
5 And I said, Let them set a faire diademe vpon his head. So they set a faire diademe vpon his head, and clothed him with garments, & the Angel of y Lord stode by.
6 And the Angel of the Lord testified vnto Iehoshua, saying,
7 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, If thou wilt walke in my waies, and kepe my watche, thou shalt also iudge mine House, & shalt also kepe my courtes, and I wil giue thee place among these that stand by.
8 Heare now, o Iehoshua y hie Priest, thou and thy fellowes that sit before thee: for they are monstrous persones: but be-holde, I wil bring forth the Branch my 9 For lo the stones that I haue laid before Iehoshua: vpon one stone shalbe seuen thereof, saith y Lord of hostes, & I wil ta-

10 In that day, saith the Lord of hostes, shal vine, and vnder the fig tree.

3 And two oliue trees ouer it, one vpo the 4 So I answered, & spake to the Angel that talked with me, saying, What are these, my Lord?

5 Thē the Angel that talked w me, answered and said vnto me, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my Lord.
6 Then he answered and spake vnto me, saying, This is the worde of the Lord vnmie nor strength, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of hostes.

7 Who art thou, o great mountaine, before Zerubbabél: thou shalt be a plaine, & he shal bring forth the head stone thereof,

8 Moreouer, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,
9 The hands of Zerubbabél haue laid the fundaciō of this house: his hands shal also finish it, and thou shalt knowe that the Lord of hostes hathe sent me vnto you.
10 For who hathe despised the day of the small things, but they shal reioyce, and shal se the stone of tinne in the hand of Zerubbabél: these seuen are the eies of y
Lord, which go throuwe y whole worlde.
11 Then answered I, and said vnto him, What are these two oliue trees vpon the right and vpon the left side thereof?
12 And I spake moreouer, and said vnto him, What be these two oliue branches, which throuwe the two golde pipes emp-tie them selues into the golde?
13 And he answered me and said, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my

Then the Angel that talked with me, wet forthe, & said vnto me, Lift vp now thine eyes, and se what is this that goeth forthe.

And I said, What is it? And he said, This is an Ephah y goeth forthe. He said moreover, This is the fight of them, through all the earth.

And beholde, there was lift vp a talent of lead: & this is a woman that sitteth in the middes of the Ephah.

And he said, This is wickednes, & he cast it into the middes of the Ephah, & he cast the weight of lead vpon the mouth thereof.

Then lift I vp mine eyes, and looked: and beholde, there came out two women, & the winde was in their wings (for thei had wings like the wings of a storke) & they lift vp the Ephah betwene the earth and the heauen.

Then said I to y Angel that talked with me, Whither do these beare the Ephah?

And he said vnto me, To buyld it an house in y land of Shinar, & it shal be established and set there vpon her owne place.

CHAP. VI.

By the foure charrettes he describeth the foure monarchies.

AGaine, I turned and lift mine eyes, and looked: and beholde, there came foure charrettes out from betwene two mountaines, and the mountaines were mountaines of brasse.

In the first charet were red horses, and in the seconde charet blacke horses,

And in the thirde charet white horses, & in the fourte charet, horses of diuers colours, and reddish.

Then I answered, and said vnto the Angel that talked with me, What are these, my Lord?

And the Angel answered, and said vnto me, These are the foure spirits of y heauen, which go forthe from standing with the Lord of all the earth.

That with the blacke horse wet forthe into the land of the North, and the white went out after them, & they of diuers colours went forthe towarde the South country.

And the reddish went out, & required to go, and passe through the worlde, and he said, Go passe through the worlde. So they went thorowout the worlde.

Then cryed he vpon me, and spake vnto me, saying, Beholde, these that go towarde the North country, haue pacified my spirit in the North country.

And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

Take of them of the captiuitie, euen of Heldai, & of Tobiah, and Gedai, which are come from Babél, and come thou the same day, and go vnto the house of Ioshiath, the sonne of Zephaniah.

Take euen siluer, and golde, and make crownes, and set them vpon the head of Iehoshua, the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest,

And speake vnto him, saying, Thus speaketh the Lord of hostes, and saith, Beholde the man whose name is the Branche, and he shal growe vp out of his place, and he shal buyld the Temple of the Lord.

Euen he shal buyld the Temple of the Lord, and he shal beare the glorie, and shal sit and rule vpon his throne, and he shal be a Priest vpon his throne, & the counsell of peace shal be betwene the bothe.

And the crownes shal be to Helém, and to Tobiah, and to Gedai, and to the sonne of Zephaniah, for a memorial in the Temple of the Lord.

And thei that are farre of, shal come & buyld in the Temple of the Lord, and ye shal know, that the Lord of hostes hathe sent me vnto you. And this shal come to passe, if ye wil obey the voyce of the Lord your God.

The true fasting. II The rebellion of the people is the cause of their affliction.

AND in the fourth yere of King Darius, the worde of y Lord came vnto Zechariah in the fourth day of the ninth moneth, euen in Chisleu.

d That is, prepare my self with all deuotion to this fast e Which was now since the time the Temple was destroyed
f For there were bothe of the people, and of the Priests, which doubted as touching this conuersion, besides the which as yet remained in Caldea, & reasoned of it as of one of the chief points of their religion
g For they thought they had deserved toward God because of this fast, which they inuented of them selues: and though fasting of it self be good, yet because they thought it a seruice toward God, and trusted therein, it is here reproued
h Did ye not eat and drinke for your owne commodities, & necessitie: and so likewise ye did abstaine according to your owne fantasies, and not after the prescribe of my Law i Hereby he condemneth their hypocriticie, & thought by their fasting to please God, and by such things as they inuented, and in the meane season wolde not serue him as he had commanded k He sheweth, that they did not fast with a sincere heart, but for an hypocriticie, & that it was not done of a pure religion, because that they lacked the offices of charitie, which they had declared that they were godly, Mat 23 23.
l And wolde not carry the Lords burden, which was iweet and easy, but wolde beare their owne, which was heauie & grieuous to the flesh, thinking to merit thereby m Which declareth, that they inuented not only against the Prophetes but against the Spirit of God that spake in them n That is, after they were carryed captiue
o By their finnes whereby they prouoked Gods anger

3 And to speake vnto the Priests, which were in the House of the Lord of hostes, and to the Prophetes, saying, Shulde I wepe in the fift moneth, and separate my self as I haue done these so manie yeres
 4 Then came the worde of the Lord of hostes vnto me, saying,
 5 Speake vnto all the people of the land, & to the Priests, and say, When ye fasted, and mourned in the fift and seuenth moneth, euen these seuentie yeres, did ye fast vnto me? so do I approve it
 6 And when ye did eat, and when ye did drinke, did ye not eat for your selues, & drinke for your selues
 7 Shulde ye not heare the wordes, which the Lord hath cryed by the ministrie of the former Prophetes whē Ierusalēm was inhabited, and in prosperitie, and the cities thereof rounde about her, when the South and the plaine was inhabited
 8 And the worde of the Lord came vnto Zechariah, saying,
 9 Thus speaketh the Lord of hostes, saying,
 10 Execute true iudgement, and shewe mercie and compassion, euerie man to his brother, 11 And oppresse not the widowe, nor the fatherles, the stranger nor the poore, and let none of you imagine euil against his brother in your heart.
 12 But they refused to hearken, & pulled away the shulder, and stopped their eares, that they shulde not heare.
 13 Yea, they made their hearts as an adamant stone, lest they shulde heare the Lawe and the wordes which the Lord of hostes sent in his Spirit by the ministerie of the former Prophetes: therefore came a great wrath from the Lord of hostes.
 14 Therefore it is come to passe, that as he cryed, and they wolde not heare, so they cryed, & I wolde not heare, saith the Lord of hostes.
 15 But I scattered them among all the nations, whome they knew not: thus the land was desolate after them, that no man passed through nor returned: for they laid the pleasant land waste.

for Zion with great ielousie, & I was ielous for her with great wrath.
 3 Thus saith the Lord, I wil returne vnto Zion, and wil dwell in the middes of Ierusalēm, & Ierusalēm shalbe called a citie of trueth, and the Mountaine of the Lord of hostes, the holie Mountaine.
 4 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, They shal yet olde men and olde women dwell in the stretes of Ierusalēm, and euerie man with his staffe in his hand for very age.
 5 And the stretes of the citie shalbe ful of boyes and girles, playing in the stretes thereof.
 6 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Though it be vnpossible in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these dayes, shulde it therefore be vnpossible in my sight, saith the Lord of hostes
 7 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Beholde, I wil deliuer my people from the East countrey, and from the West countrey.
 8 And I wil bring them, & they shal dwell in the middes of Ierusalēm, and they shal be my people, and I wil be their God in trueth and in righteousnes.
 9 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Let your hands be strong, ye that heare in these dayes these wordes by the mouth of the Prophetes, which were in the day, that the fundacion of the House of the Lord of hostes was laide, that the Temple might be buylded.
 10 For before these dayes there was no hier for a man nor anie hier for a beast, nether was there anie peace to him that went out or came in because of the affliction: for I set all men, euerie one against his neighbour.
 11 But now, I wil not intreate the residue of this people as afore time, saith the Lord of hostes.
 12 For the sede shalbe prosperous: the vine shal giue her frute, and the grounde shal giue her increase, & the heauen shal giue their dewe, & I wil cause the remnant of this people to possesse all these things.
 13 And it shal come to passe, that as ye were a curse among the heathē, o house of Iudah, and house of Israel, so wil I deliuer you, & ye shalbe a blessing: feare not, but let your hands be strong.
 14 For thus saith the Lord of hostes, As I thought to punish you: when your fathers prouoked me vnto wrath, saith the Lord of hostes, and repented not,
 15 So againe haue I determined in these dayes to do wel vnto Ierusalēm, and to the house of Iudah: feare ye not.
 16 These are the things that ye shal do. Speake ye euerie man the trueth vnto his neighbour: execute iudgement truly and vp rightly in your gates.

b Because she shalbe faithful, and loyal toward me her loufband.
c Though their enemies did greatly molest and trouble them, yet God wolde come, and dwell among them, & so preserve them so long as nature wolde suffer them to liue, and increase their children in great abundance.
d He sheweth wherein our faith standeth, that is, to beleue that God can performe that which he hath promised though it seeme neuer so vnpossible to man, Rom 4, 20.
e So that their returne shal not be in vain: for God wil accomplish his promises, & their prosperitie shalbe sure and stable f Let nether respect of your priuate comodities, nether counsel of others, nor feare of enemies discourage you in the going forward with the buylding of the Temple, but be constant & obey the Prophetes, & encourage you thereto.
g For God carried your worke, so that nether man nor beast had profite of their labours.
h Read Ezek 18, 20
i Which declarerh, that man can not turne to God til he change mans heart by his Spirit, and so beginne to do well, which is to pardon his finnes and to giue him his graces.

17 And let none of you imagine euil in your hearts against his neighbour, & loue no false othe: for all these are the things that I hate, saith the Lord.

18 And the worde of the Lord of hostes came vnto me, saying,

19 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, The fast of the fourth moneth, and the fast of the fift, and the fast of the seuenth, and the fast of the tenth, shal be to the house of Iudáh ioye and gladnes, and prosperous hie feastes: therefore loue the trueth and peace.

20 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, That there shal yet come people, and the inhabitants of great cities.

21 And they that dwell in one citie, shal go to another, saying, Vp, let vs go and pray before the Lord, and seke the Lord of hostes: I wil go also.

22 Yea, great people and mightie nations shal come to seke the Lord of hostes in Ierusalém, and to pray before the Lord.

23 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, In those dayes shal ten men take holde out of all langages of the nations, euen take holde of the skirt of him that is a Iewe, & say, We wil go with you: for we haue heard, that God is with you.

k Which fast was appointed when the citie was besieged, & was the first fast of these foure: & here the Propbet sheweth, that if Jewes will repent, and turne wholly to God, they shal haue no more occasiõ to fast, or to shew signes of heauines: for God wil send them ioy & gladnes. 10 And I wil cut of the charrets from Ephráim, and the horse from Ierusalém: the bowe of the battel shalbe broken, and he shal speake peace vnto the heathen, & his dominion shalbe from sea vnto sea, and from the riuer to the end of the land.

11 Thou also shalt be sauèd through the blood of thy couenant. I haue losed thy prisoners out of the pit wherein is no water.

12 Turne you to the strong holde, ye prisoners of hope: euen to day do I declare, that I wil render the double vnto thee.

13 For Iudáh haue I bent as a bowe for me: Ephráims hand haue I filled, and I haue raised vp thy sonnes, o Ziõ, against thy sonnes, o Grecia, and haue made thee as a gyants sworde.

14 And the Lord shalbe sene ouer them, & his arrowe shal go forthe as lightning: and the Lord God shal blowe the trumpet, and shal come forthe with the whirlwindes of the South.

15 The Lord of hostes shal defend them, & they shal deuoure them, and subdue them with sling stones, and they shal drinke, & make a noyse as thorowe wine, and they shalbe filled like bowles, & as the hornes of the altar.

16 And the Lord their God shal deliuer them in that day as the flocke of his people: for they shalbe as the stones of the cowne listid vp vpon his land.

2 Surely the idoles haue spoken vanitie, and the forsayers haue sene a lie, and the dreamers haue tolde a vaine thing: they comfort in vaine: therefore they went away as shepe: they were troubled, because there was no shepherd.

3 My wrath was kindled against the shepherds, and I did visite the goates: but the Lord of hostes wil visite his flocke the house of Iudáh, & wil make them as his beautiful horse in the battel.

4 Out of him shal the corner come forth: out of him the naile, out of him the bowe of battel, & out of him euery appointer of tribute also.

5 And they shalbe as the mightie men, which treade downe their enemies in the myre of the stretes in the battel, & they shal fight, because the Lord is with them, and the riders on horses shalbe confounded.

6 And I wil strengthen the house of Iudáh, and I wil preserve the house of Ioséph, and I wil bring them againe, for I pittie them: and they shalbe as though I had not cast them off: for I am the Lord their God, and wil heare them.

7 And they of Ephraim shalbe as a gyant, & their heart shal reioyce as thorowe wine: yea, their children shal see it, & be glad: their heart shal reioyce in the Lord.

8 I wil hiss for them, and gather them: for I haue redeemed them: & they shal encrease, as they haue encreased.

4 Thus saith the Lord my God, Fede the shepe of the slaughter.

5 They that possesse them, slaye them and sinne not: and they that sell them, say, Blessed be the Lord: for I am riche, and their owne shepherds spare them not.

6 Surely I wil no more spare those which dwell in the land, saith the Lord: but lo, I wil deliuer the men euerie one into his neighbours hand, and into the hand of his King: and they shal smite the land, and out of their hands I wil not deliuer them.

7 For I fed the shepe of slaughter, such the poore of the flocke, and I toke vnto me two staues: the one I called, Beautie, and the other I called, Bandes, and I fed the shepe.

8 Three sheperdes also I cut of in one moneth, & my soule lothed them, & their soule abhorred me.

9 Then said I, I wil not fede you: that that dyeth, let it dye: and that that perisheth, let it perish: & let the remnant eat, euerie one the flesh of his neighbour.

10 And I toke my staffe, euen Beautie, and brake it, that I might disanul my couenant, which I had made with all people.

11 And it was broken in that day: and so the poore of the shepe that waited vpon me, knewe that it was the worde of the Lord.

13 And the Lord said vnto me, Cast it vnto the potter: a goodlie price, that I was valued at of them: And I toke the thirtie pieces of siluer, and cast them to the potter in the House of the Lord.

14 Then brake I mine other staffe, euen the Bandes, that I might dissolue the brotherhode betwene Iudáh and Israel.

e Which being now destitute to be slayned, were deluded as out of the lions mouth
f Their gouernours destroye them without any remorse of conscience, or yet thinking that they do euill g He noteth the hypocrites, which haue the Name of God in their mouths, though in their life and doings they denie God, attributing their gaine to Gods blessing, & cometh of the spoile of their brethren h I wil cause one to destroy another i Their gouernours shal execute crueltie ouer them k That is, the small remnant, whom he thought worthy to shewe mercie vnto l God sheweth his great benefites towards his people to coueince them of greater ingratitude, which wolde nether be ruled by his moste beautiful order of gouernement, nether continue in the bandes of brotherlie vnitie, and therefore he breaketh both the one and the other.
m Some read, for Brides, Destroyers, but in the 14 vers the first reading is confirmed n Whereby he sheweth his care and diligence that he wolde suffer them to haue no euil rulers, because they shalbe consider his great loue, meaning the people, because they wolde not acknowledge these great benefites of God o He sheweth that the least parte euer profit by Gods iudgements.
p Besides their ingratitude God accuseth them of malice & wickednes, which did not only forget his benefites, but esteemed them as things of nought.
q Shewing that it was to litle to pay his wages, which coulde scarce suffice to make a few tiles for to couer the Temple, signifying, that they shalbe haue a certaine kinde of regiment, & outwards shewe of gouernement: but in effect it shalbe nothing: for they shalbe be wolves, and deuouring heards in stead of shepherds.
r And is in health and sounde deth vp : but he shal eat the flesh of the fat, and teare their clawes in peces.

17 O idole shepherd that leaueth the flocke: the sworde shal be vpon his arme, and vpon his right eye. His arme shal be cleane dryed vp, and his right eye shal be vtterly darkened.

CHAP. XII.

Of the destruction and buylding againe of Ierusalém.

1 The burden of the worde of the Lord vpon Israel, saith the Lord, which spred the heauens, and layed the fundacion of the earth, and formed the spirit of man within him.

2 Beholde, I wil make Ierusalém a b cuppe of poison vnto all the people rounde about: and also with Iudáh wil be, in the siege against Ierusalém.

3 And in that day wil I make Ierusalém an heauie stone for all people: all that lift it vp, shal be toine, though all the people of the earth be gathered together against it.

4 In that day, saith the Lord, I wil smite euery horse with stonishment, & his rider with madnes, and I wil open mine eyes vpon the house of Iudáh, and wil smite euery horse of the people with blindenes.

5 And the princes of Iudáh shal say in their hearts, The inhabitants of Ierusalém shal be my strength in the Lord of hostes their God.

6 In that day wil I make the princes of Iudáh like coles of fyre among the wood, & like a fyre brande in the sheafe, and they shal deuoure all the people rounde about on the right hand, and on the left: and Ierusalém shal be inhabited againe in her owne place, euens in Ierusalém.

7 The Lord also shal preserue the tentes of Iudáh, as afore time: therefore the glorie of the house of Dauid shal not boast, nor the glorie of the inhabitants of Ierusalém against Iudáh.

8 In that day shal the Lord defende the inhabitants of Ierusalém, and he that is feble among them, in that daye shal be as Dauid: and the house of Dauid shal be as gods house, & as the Angel of the Lord before them.

9 And in that day wil I seke to destroye all the nacions that come against Ierusalém.

10 And I wil powre vpon the house of Dauid, & vpon the inhabitants of Ierusalém the Spirit of grace and of compassiõ, and they shal loke vpon me, whome they haue perced, and they shal lament for him, as one mourneth for his onelie sonne, and be sorie for him as one is sorie for his first borne.

11 In that day shal there be a great mourning in Ierusalém: as the mourning of

1 Hadadrimmõn in the valley of Megiddõn. 2 And the klad shal bewaile euerie familie a parte, the familie of the house of Dauid a parte, and their wiues a parte: the familie of the house of Nathan a parte, and their wiues a parte:

3 The familie of the house of Leui a parte, and their wiues a parte: the familie of Semei a parte, and their wiues a parte:

4 All the families that remaine, euery familie a parte, and their wiues a parte.

5 Of the fountaine of grace. 2 Of the cleane viddance of idolatrye. 3 The zeale of the godlie against false prophetes.

CHAP. XIII.

1 In that day there shal be a fountaine opened to the house of Dauid, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalém, for sinne & for vncleannes.

2 And in that day, saith the Lord of hostes, I wil cut of the names of the idoles out of the land: and they shal no more be remembered: and I wil cause the prophetes, and the vncleane spirit to departe out of the land.

3 And when anie shal yet prophesie, his father & his mother that begate him, shal say vnto him, Thou shalt not liue: for thou speakest lies in the Name of the Lord: and his father and his mother that begate him, shal thrust him through, when he prophesieth.

4 And in that daye shal the Prophetes be ashamed euerie one of his vision, when he hath prophesied: nether shal they weare a rough garment to deceiue.

5 But he shal say, I am no Prophet: I am an husband man: for man taught me to be an herdman from my youth vp.

6 And one shal say vnto him, What are these woundes in thine hands? Then he shal answer, Thus was I wounded in the house of my friends.

7 Arise, o sworde, vpon my shepherd, and vpon the man, that is my fellow, saith the Lord of hostes: smite the shepherd, & the shepe shal be scattred: and I wil turne mine hand vpon the litle ones.

8 And in all the land, saith the Lord, two partes therein shal be cut of, & dye: but the third shal be left therein.

9 And I wil bring that third parte thorow the fyre, and wil fine them as the siluer is fined, and wil trye them as golde is tryed:

1 Which was the name of a towne & place nere to Megiddõ where Iosiah was slayne. 2 Chro 35, 22

k That is, in all places where the Iewes shal remaine. l Signifying this mourning or repentance shulde not be a vaine ceremonye: but euery one touched with his owne grief shal lament these certayne families he containeth all the tribes, and sheweth that bothe the Kings and the Priests had by their finnes perced Christ

m Vnder these Kings and the Priests had by their finnes perced Christ n Called also Simeon o To wit, which were elect by grace, and preserued from the common destruction a He sheweth what shal be the frute of their repentance, to wit, remission of finnes by the blood of Christ, & shal be a continual running fountaine, and purge the fro all vncleannes.

b He promisseth that God wil also purge them from all superstition & that their religion shal be pure

c Meaning, false prophetes and teachers, who are the corrupters of all religion, whome the Prophet here calleth vncleane spirits

d That is, whif they shal prophesie lies & make God, who is the author of truth, a cloke thereunto

e He sheweth what zeale the godlie shal haue vnder the kingdome of Christ

f God shal make them ashamed of their errors and lies and brig them to repentance, and they shal no more weate Prophetes apparel to make their doctrine seeme more holy.

g They shal confesse their former ignorance, & be content to labour for their liuing

h Hereby he sheweth that though their parents and friends delt more gently with them, and put them not to death, yet they wolde so punish their children, that became false prophetes, that the markes & signes shulde remaine for euer

i The Prophet warneth the Iewes, before this great comfort shulde come vnder Christ, these shulde be an horrible dissipacion among the people: for their gouernours and pastors shulde be destroyed, and the people shulde be as scattred sheepe: and the Euangelist applieth this to Christ, because he was the head of all Pastors, Matt 26, 31

k The greatest parte shal haue no porcion of these blessings, and yet they that shal enioye them, shal be tryed with great afflictions, so that it shal be known that onely Gods power and his mercies do preserue them

r By the arme he signifieth strength, as he doeth wisdom and iudgement by the eye: that is, the plague of God shal take away both thy strength and iudgement

Chap. XII. a That is, the tribes, which neglected Gods benefite in deliuering their brethren, and had rather remaine in captiuitie, then to returne home, when God called them.

b Ierusalém shal be defended against all her enemies: so shal God defend all Iudáh also, and shal destroye the enemies:

c Euerie captaine, that had many vnder him afore, shal now thinke himselfe a small power of Ierusalém shal be sufficient to defend them against all enemies, because the Lord is among them.

d The people are now as it were dispersed by the fields, and lie open to their enemies, shal be no lesse preserued by my power, then if they were vnder their Kings (which is met by the house of Dauid) or in their defended ciues

e They shal haue feeling of my grace by faith, and knowe that I haue compassiõ on them

f That is, whome they haue cheimally vexed with their obstinacie, and grieued my Spirit, Iohn 19, 38, where it is referred to Christs bodie, which here is referred to the Spirit of God

g They shal turne to God by true repentance, whome

h They shal

before they had so grievously offended by their ingratitude, whome they shal lament and repent exceedingly for their offences against God they shal call on my Name, & I wil heare them: I wil say, It is my people, and they shal say, The Lord is my God.

CHAP. XIII.

Of the doctrine that shal procede out of the Church, & of the restauration thereof

^a He armeth the godlie against the great tentacions, that shulde come, before they enjoyed this prosperous estate promised vnder Christ, that when these dangers shulde come, they might knowe that they were warned of them afore
^b As your fathers, and you haue had experience bothe at the red Sea and at all other times
^c By this manner of speache the Prophet sheweth Gods power, and care ouer his Church, and how he wil as it were by miracle saue it
^d So that out of all the partes of the worlde they shal see Ierusalém, & as before hid wth this mountaine: and this he meaneth of the spiritual Ierusalém & Church.
^e He speaketh of the hypocrites, which colde not abide Gods presence, but shulde flee into all places where they might hide them among the mountaines
^f Read Amos, 1. 11
^g Because they did not credit the Prophetes wordes, he turneth to God, and comforteth him self in y^e that he knewe y^e these things shulde come, & saith, Thou, o God, with thine Angels wilt come to performe this great thing
^h Signifying, that there shulde be great troubles in the Church, and that the time hereof is in the Lords hands, yet at length (which is here ment by the cue-ning) God wolde send comfort. ⁱ That is, the spiritual graces of God, which shulde euer continue in moeste abundance
^k All idolatrie and superstition shalbe abolished, and there shalbe one God, one faith, and one religion
^l This newe Ierusalém shalbe sene through all the worlde & shal excell the first in excellencie, wealth and greates.

BEholde, the day of the Lord cometh, and thy spoyle shal be ^a diuided in the middes of thee.

For I wil gather all natiōs against Ierusalém to battel, and the citie shalbe taken, & the houses spoyled, and the women defiled, & half of the citie shal go into captiuitie, & the residue of the people shal not be cut of from the citie.

Then shal the Lord go forth, and fight against those naciōs, as when ^b he fought in the day of battel.

And his fete shal stand in that day vpon the ^c mount of oliues, which is before Ierusalém on the East side, and the mount of oliues shal cleaue in the middes thereof: toward the East & toward the West there shalbe a very great ^d valley, & halfe of the mountaine shal remoue toward the North, and halfe of the mountaine toward the South.

And ye shal flee vnto the ^e valley of the mountaines: for the valley of the mountaines shal reache vnto Azál: yea, ye shal flee like as ye fled from the ^f earthquake in the dayes of Vzzáh King of Iudáh: and the Lord is my God shal come & all the Saints with thee.

And in that day shal there be no cleare light, but darke.

And there shalbe a day (it is known to y^e Lord) ^h neither day nor night, but about the cueuing time it shalbe light.

And in that day shal there ⁱ waters of life go out from Ierusalém, halfe of the toward the East sea, & halfe of them toward the vttermoſt sea, & shalbe, bothe in sommer and winter.

And the Lord shalbe King ouer all the earth: in that day shal there be one ^k Lord, and his Name shalbe one.

All the land shalbe turned ^l as a plaine from Géba to Rimmón, toward the South of Ierusalém, and it shalbe lifted vp, & inhabited in her place: from Beniamins gate vnto the place of the first gate, vnto the corner gate, and from the towre of Hananiél, vnto the Kings wine presses.

And men shal dwell in it, and there shalbe no more destruction, but Ierusalém shalbe safely inhabited.

And this shalbe the plague, wherewith the Lord wil smite all people, that haue fought against Ierusalém: their flesh shal consume away, though they stand vpon their fete, and their eyes shal consume in their holes, & their tongue shal consume in their mouth.

But in that day ^m a great tumult of the Lord shalbe among them, and euerie one shal take ⁿ the hand of his neighbour, and his hand shal rise vp against the hand of his neighbour.

And Iudáh shal fight also against Ierusalém, and the arme of all the heathen shalbe gathered round about, with ^o golde and siluer, and great abundance of apparel.

Yet this shalbe the plague of the horse, of the mule, of the camel and of the asse and of all the beasts that be in these tentes as this ^p plague.

But it shal come to passe that euerie one that is left of all the naciōs, which came against Ierusalém, shal go vp from yere to yere to worship the King the Lord of hostes, and to kepe the feast of Tabernacles.

And who so wil not come vp of all the families of the earth vnto Ierusalém to worship the King the Lord of hostes, euen vpon them shal come no raine.

And if the familie of ^q Egypt go not vp, and come not, it shal not ^r raine vpon them. This shalbe the plague wherewith y^e Lord wil smite all the heathen, that come not vp to kepe the feast of Tabernacles.

This shalbe the punishment of Egypt, & the punishment of all the naciōs that come not vp to kepe the feast of Tabernacles.

In that day shal there be ^s written vpon the bridels of y^e horses, The holines vnto the Lord, and the ^t pottes in the Lords House shalbe like the bowles before the altar.

Yea, euerie pot in Ierusalém and Iudáh shalbe holie vnto the Lord of hostes, and all they that sacrifice, shal come and take of them and seeth therein: and in that day there shalbe no more the ^u Canaanite in the House of the Lord of hostes.

¶ Cccc.ii.

^m God wil neuerly raise vp warre without but sedition at home to trye them ⁿ To hurt, and oppresse him

^o The enemies are riche, and therefore shal not come for a pray, but to deſtroy & shedde blood.

^p As the men shulde be destroyed, ver. 18.

^q By y^e Egyptians, which were greatest enemies to true religion, he meaneth all the Gentiles

^r Signifying, that to what seruire they were put now (whether to labour, or to seruire in warre) they were now holie, because the Lord had sanctified the ^s As precious the one as the other, because they shalbe sanctified.

^t But all shalbe pure, and cleane & there shal nether be hypocrite, or any that shal corrupt y^e true seruire of God.

THE ARGUMENT.

THIS Prophet was one of the three, which God raised up for the comfort of his Church after the Captiuitie, and after him there was no more until Iohn Baptist was sent, which was either a token of Gods wrath, or an admonition that they shoulde with more feruent desires loke for the comming of Messiah. He confirmeth the same doctrine, that the two former do, but chiefly he re- proueth the Priests for their couctousnes, and for that they serued God after their owne fantasies, and not according to the prescript of his worde. He also noeth certain peculiar sinnes, which were then among them, as marrying of idolatrous and manie wiuues, murmurings against God, impa- cience, and such like. Notwithstanding for the comfort of the goodlie he declareth that God wolde not forget his promes made vnto their fathers, but wolde send Christ his messenger, in whome the co- nentant shoulde be accomplished, whose comming shoulde be terrible to the wicked, and bring all con- solation and roye vnto the goodlie.

CHAP. I.

A complain against Israel and chiefly the Priests.

Read Isa 13. 1

THE burde of the wor- de of y Lord to Israel by y ministerie of Malachi.

I haue loued you, saith the Lord: yet ye say, b Wherein hast thou loued vs? Was not Esau Iacob, Iacob,

And I hated Esau, and made his moun- taines waste, and his heritage a wildernes for dragons.

Thogh Edom say, We are impouerished, but we wil r- turne and buyld the desolate places, yet saith the Lord of hostes, they shal buyld, but I wil destroye it, and they shal call them, The border of wickednes, and the people, with whome the Lord is angrie for euer.

And your eyes shal se it, and ye shal say, The Lord wil be magnified vpon the bor- der of Israel.

A sonne honoreth his father, and a ser- uant his master. If then I be a father, whe- re is mine honour: & if I be a master, whe- re is my feare, saith the Lord of hostes vn- to you, d o Priests, that despise my Na- me: and ye say, e Wherein haue we despi- sed thy Name?

Ye offer f vnclene bread vpon mine al- tar, & you say, Wherein haue we polluted thee? In that ye say the table of the Lord is not s to be regarded.

And if ye offer the blinde for sacrifice, it is h not euil: and if ye offer the lame and sicke, it is not euil: offer it now vnto thy prince: wil he be content w thee, or accept thy persone, saith the Lord of hostes? 9 And now, I pray you, i pray before God, that he may haue mercie vpo vs: this hathe bene by your meanes: wil he regarde k your persones, saith the Lord of hostes?

10 Who is there euen among you, l that wolde shut the dores, and kinde not fire on mine altar in vaine, I haue no pleasure in you, saith the Lord of hostes, nether wil I accept an offering at your hand.

11 For from the rising of the sunne vnto the going downe of the same, my Name is m great among the Gentiles, and in euerie place incense shalbe offred vnto my Name, and a pure offering. for my Na- me is great among the heathen, saith the Lord of hostes.

12 But ye haue polluted it, in that ye say, The table of the Lord is n polluted, and the frute thereof, euen his meat is not to be regarded.

13 Ye said also, Beholde, it is a o wearines, and ye haue snuffed at it, saith the Lord of hostes, and ye offred that which was torne & the lame and the sicke: thus ye offred an offering: shulde I accept this of your hand, saith the Lord?

14 But cursed be the deceiuet, which hathe in his flocke p a male, and voweth, and sa- crificeth vnto y Lord a corrupt thing: for I am a great King, saith the Lord of ho- stes, and my Name is terrible among the heathen.

i He derideth y Priests who bare y people in had, y they praied for the. & sheweth y they were the occasion, that these euils ca- me vpon the people k Will God co sider your offi ce and state, seing you are so couctous, & wicked?

l Because the Leuites who kept y dores, did not trye whether y sa- crifices that ca me in, were ac- cording to the Law, God wi- sheth, that thei wolde rather shut the dores then to recei- ue suche as were not per- fite

m God shew- eth, y their in- gratitude, and negle of his true seruite

n shalbe y cause of the calling of the Gentiles: & here y Pro- phet that was vnder the Law framed his woraes to the capacite of y people, and by the altar, and sacrifice he meaneth the spiri- tual ser- uice

o vice of God, which shulde be vnder the Gospel, when an end shulde be made to all these legal ceremonies by Christs onely sacrifice p Bothe y Priests and y people were infected w this error, y they passed not what was offred: for they thought y God was aswel content w the leane as with the fat: but in the meane season they shewed not that obedience to God, which he required, & so comitted bothe impietie, and also shewed their contempt of God & co- uctousnes o The Priests & people were bothe weary with seruing God, & passed not what manner of sacrifice & seruite they gaue to God, for that it was least profitable, was thought good ynough for the Lord p That is, hathe babi- lonic to serue the Lord according to his worde, and yet wil serue him ac- cording to his couctous miade

CHAP. II.

Threatenings against the Priests being seducers of the people.

1 And now, o ye a Priests, this comman- dement is for you.

a He speaketh vnto the chief- ly, but vnder them he con- taineth the peo- ple also.

2 If

b Which de- clareth their great ingrati- tude that did not acknowle- ge this loue, which was so euident in that he chose Abra- ham from our of all y worl- de, and next chose Iacob the younger bro- ther of whom they came and left Esau the elder

c For besides that the signes of mine hatred appeared euen when he was made seruant vnto his yög- er brother, being yet in his mothers belly, and also afterward in y he was put fro his birthright, yet euen now before your eyes the signes hereof are eu- ident, in that y his countrey lieth waste, & he shal neuer retorne to in- habit it, where as ye my peo- ple whome y enemie hated more then the are by my gra- ce and lone ro- warde you de- liuered, read Rom 9. 13

d Besides the rest of the people he condēneth y Priests chiefly because they shulde haue reprobued others for their hypocritie, & obstinacie against God, & not haue hardened them by their example to greater euils e He noeth their grosse hy pocritie, w wolde not se their fautes, but moke impudently cou- ered them, & so were blinde guides f Ye receiue all maner offerings for your owne griedines, and do not examine whether they be according to my Law or no

g Not that they said thus, but by their doings they declared no lesse h You make it no faute: whereby he condēneth the, y thinke it sufficiēt to serue God partly, as he hathe comāded, & partly after mā fantasie, and so come not to that purenes of religio, which he requireth, & therefore in re- proche he sheweth the, y a mortal man wolde not be content to be so serued.

b To serue me according to my worde
c That is, the abundance of Gods benedictions d Your seed sowne that cometh to no profite e You boast of your holines, sacrifices and feastes, but they shal turne to your shame, and be as vile as dongue

f The Priests objected against the Prophet that he colde not reprove the, but he must speake against the priests hode, and the office established of God by promes, but he sheweth, that the office is nothing sclder, when these vilenes, & dongue are called by their owne names
g He sheweth what were the two condicions of the couenat made with the tribe of Leui, on Gods parte, that he wolde giue the long life & felicitie, and on their parte, that they shulde faithfully serue him according to his worde h I prescribed Ieui a certaine Law to serue me.

i He serued me & set forth the my glorie with all humilitie and submission k He sheweth that the Priest ought to haue knowledge to instruct other in the worde of the Lord
l He is as the treasure house of Gods worde and ought to giue to euerie one according to their necessitie, and not to reserue it for him self in shewing, that whosoever doeth not declare Gods wil, is not his messenger, and Priest

m The Prophet accuseth the ingratitude of the Iewes toward God and man: for seeing they were all borne of one father Abraham, and God had elected them to be his holie people, they ought neither to offend God nor their brethren.
n Whereby they had bounde them selues to God to be an holie people o They haue toynd them selues in mariage with them that are of another religion p That is, the Priests
q Ye cause the people to lament, because that God doeth not regard their sacrifices, so that they seme to sacrifice in vaine
r This is another faute, whereof he accuseth them, that is, that they brake the lawes of mariage

s The Prophet accuseth the ingratitude of the Iewes toward God and man: for seeing they were all borne of one father Abraham, and God had elected them to be his holie people, they ought neither to offend God nor their brethren.
t As the one halfe of thy selfe.
u She that was toynd to thee by a solemne couenaut, and by the inuocation of Gods Name x Did not God make man and woman as one flesh and not many?
y By his power & vertue he colde haue made many women for one man z Suche as shulde be borne in lawful and moderate mariage wherein is no excess of lustes a Containe your selues within your boundes, and be sober in minde, and bridle your affections
b Not that he doeth allowe diuorcement, but of the two fautes he sheweth the lesse c He thinketh it sufficient to kepe his wife fil, albeit he take others, and so as it were couereth his faute.
d Ye murmured against God, because he heard not you as you called e In thinking that God fauored the wicked, and hath no respect to them that serue him, f Thus they blasphemed God in condemning his power and iustice, because he iudged not according to their fantasies

1 If ye wil not heare it; nor consider it in your heart to giue glorie vnto my Name, saith the Lord of hostes, I wil euen send a curse vpon you, and wil curse your blessings: yea, I haue cursed them already because ye do not consider it in your heart.
2 Beholde, I wil corrupt your seed, & cast dogue vpon your faces, euen the dongue of your solemne feastes, and you shalbe like vnto it.
3 And ye shal knowe, that I haue sent this commandement vnto you, that my couenant, which I made with Leui, might stand, saith the Lord of hostes.
4 My couenant was with him of life and peace, and I haue gaue him feare, & he feared me, and was afraide before my Name.
5 The law of truth was in his mouth, & there was no iniquitie founde in his lippes: he walked with me in peace and equitie, and did turne manie away from iniquitie.
6 For the Priests lippes shulde preserue knowledge, and they shulde seke the lawe at his mouth: for he is the messenger of the Lord of hostes.
7 But ye are gone out of the way: ye haue caused manie to fall by the Law: ye haue broke the couenat of Leui, saith the Lord of hostes.
8 Therefore haue I also made you to be despised, and vile before all the people, because ye kept not my wayes, but haue bene parcial in the Law.
9 Haue we not all one father? hath not one God made vs? why do we transgresse euerie one against his brother, and breake the couenat of our fathers?
10 Iudah hath transgressed, and an abomination is committed in Israel and in Ierusalem: for Iudah hath defiled the holines of the Lord, which he loued, and hath married the daughter of a strange god.
11 The Lord wil cut of the man that doeth this: bothe the master, and the seruant out of the tabernacle of Iakob, and him that offereth an offering vnto the Lord of hostes.
12 And this haue ye done againe, and couered the altar of the Lord with teares, with weeping and with mourning: because the offering is no more regarded, neither receiued acceptably at your hands.
13 Yet ye say, 'Wherein? Because the Lord hath bene witnes betwene thee and thy wife of thy youth, against whome thou hast transgressed: yet is she thy companion, and the wife of thy couenant.

14 And did not he make one? yet had he abundance of spirit: and wherefore one? because he sought a godlie seed: therefore kepe your selues in your spirit, and let none trespass against the wife of his youth.
15 If thou hatest her, put her away, saith the Lord God of Israel, yet he couereth the iniurie vnder his garment, saith the Lord of hostes: therefore kepe your selues in your spirit, and transgresse not.
16 Ye haue wearied the Lord with your wordes: yet ye say, 'Wherein haue we wearied him? Whē ye say, 'Buerie one doeth euil, is good in the sight of the Lord, and he deliteth in them. Or where is the God of iudgement?
17 Of the messenger of the Lord, Iohn Baptist, and of Christs office.
18 Beholde, I wil send my messenger, & he shal prepare the way before me: & the Lord whome ye seke, shal speedely come to his Temple: euen the messenger of the couenant whome ye desire: beholde, he shal come, saith the Lord of hostes.
19 But who may abide the day of his coming? and who shal endure, when he appeareth? for he is like a purging fyre, and like fullers sope.
20 And he shal sit downe to trye and fine the siluer: he shal euen fine the sonnes of Leui, and purifie them as gold & siluer, that they may bring offerings vnto the Lord in righteousness.
21 Then shal the offerings of Iudah and Ierusalem be acceptable vnto the Lord, as in olde time and in the yeres afore.
22 And I wil come neere to you to iudgement, and I wil be a swifte witnes against the sothesayers, and against the adulterers, and against false swearers, and against those that wrongfully kepe backe the hirelings wages, and vex the widdowe, and the fatherles, and oppresse the stranger, & feare not me, saith the Lord of hostes.
23 For I am the Lord: I change not, and ye sonnes of Iakob are not consumed.
24 From the daies of your fathers, ye are gone away from mine ordinances, and haue not kept them: & returne vnto me, and I Therefore he accuseth them of ingratitude, and sheweth that in that they are not daily consumed, it is a token, that he doeth stil defend them: and so his mercie toward them neuer changeth.

CHAP. III.

Of the messenger of the Lord, Iohn Baptist, and of Christs office.

1 Beholde, I wil send my messenger, & he shal prepare the way before me: & the Lord whome ye seke, shal speedely come to his Temple: euen the messenger of the couenant whome ye desire: beholde, he shal come, saith the Lord of hostes.
2 But who may abide the day of his coming? and who shal endure, when he appeareth? for he is like a purging fyre, and like fullers sope.
3 And he shal sit downe to trye and fine the siluer: he shal euen fine the sonnes of Leui, and purifie them as gold & siluer, that they may bring offerings vnto the Lord in righteousness.
4 Then shal the offerings of Iudah and Ierusalem be acceptable vnto the Lord, as in olde time and in the yeres afore.
5 And I wil come neere to you to iudgement, and I wil be a swifte witnes against the sothesayers, and against the adulterers, and against false swearers, and against those that wrongfully kepe backe the hirelings wages, and vex the widdowe, and the fatherles, and oppresse the stranger, & feare not me, saith the Lord of hostes.
6 For I am the Lord: I change not, and ye sonnes of Iakob are not consumed.
7 From the daies of your fathers, ye are gone away from mine ordinances, and haue not kept them: & returne vnto me, and I d He sheweth that the hypocrites which wish so much for the Lords comming, will not abide when he draweth neere: for he wil consume them, and purge his & make them cleane.

e He beginneth at the Priests that they might be lightes and shiues vnto others
f They murmured against God, because they sawe not his helpe euer present to defend them: & therefore he accuseth them of ingratitude, and sheweth that in that they are not daily consumed, it is a token, that he doeth stil defend them: and so his mercie toward them neuer changeth.

And Iosias kept the Passeouer to his Lord in Ierusalem, and offred the Passeouer in the fourteenth day of the first moneth,

- 2 And appointed 5 Priestes in order according to their dailie courses, being clothed with long garments in the Temple of the Lord.
- 3 And he spake to the Leuites the holy ministers of Israel, that they shulde sanctifie them selues to the Lord, to set the holy Arke of the Lord in the House, which Salomon the sonne of King Daud had buyt,
- 4 And said, Ye shal no more beare the Arke vpon your sholders: now therefore serue the Lord your God, and take the charge of his people of Israel, and prepare according to your families and tribes,
- 5 After the writing of Daud King of Israel, and according to the maiestie of Salomen his sonne, and stand in the Temple (according to the ordre of the dignitie of your fathers the Leuites) which were appointed before your brethren the children of Israel.
- 6 Offer in ordre the Passeouer, and make readie the sacrifices for your brethré, and kepe the Passeouer after the Lords commandement guen to Moyses.
- 7 And Iosias gaue to the people that was present, thirtie thousand lambes and kiddes with thre thousand calues.
- 8 These were guen of the Kings possessions according to the promes, to the people, and to the Priestes, and to the Leuites. Then gaue Helkias and Zacharias and Syelus the gouernours of the Temple, to the Priestes for the Passeouer two thousand shepe, and thre hundreth calues.

- 9 Furthermore, Iechonias, and Samaias, and Nathanael his brother, and Sabias, and Chielus, and Ioram captaines gaue to the Leuites for the Passeouer five thousand shepe and feuen hundreth calues.

- 12 And they roasted the Passeouer with fyre as* apperteined, & they sod their offrings with perfumes in caldrons and portes,

- 13 And set it before all them that were of the people, and afterward they prepared for them selues, and for the Priestes their brethren the sonnes of Aaron.

- 14 For the Priestes offred the fatte vnto the euening, and the Leuites did make ready for them selues, and for the Priestes their brethren the sonnes of Aaron.

- 15 And the holy singers, the sonnes of Asaph, were in their orders, accordig to the appointed ordinances of Daud, to wit, Asaph, and Azarias, and Eddimus, which was of the Kings appointment.

- 16 And the porters were at euerie gate, so that it was not lawful, y anie shulde passe his ordinarie watche: for their brethré the Leuites made readie for them.

- Passeouer,
- 18 And offre sacrifices vpon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandement of King Iofias.
- 19 So the children of Israel, which were present at that time, kept the Passeouer and the feast of vnleauened bread seuen daies.
- 20 And there was not suche a Passeouer kept in Israel since the time of Samuel the Prophet.
- 21 And all the Kings of Israel did not offre suche a Passeouer, as did Iofias, and the Priestes, and the Leuites, and the Iewes, and all Israel, which were founde to remaine in Ierusalem.
- 22 In the eighteenth yere of the reigne of Iofias was this Passeouer kept.
- 23 The workes of Iofias were vpriight before his Lord with a heart ful of godlines.
- 24 And concerning ſ̄ things which came to passe in his time, they are written before, ^{to wit,} of those that sinned & did wickedly against the Lord aboue euerie nacion and kingdome, and grieued him with ^{se} sensible things, so that the wordes of the Lord stode vp against Israel.
- 25 ¶ Now after all these actes of Iofias it came to passe that when Pharao King of Egypt came to moue warre at Carchamis vpon Euphrates, Iofias went out against him.
- 26 But ſ̄ King of Egypt sent to him, saying, What haue I to do with thee, o King of Iudea?
- 27 I am not sent of the Lord God against thee: but my warre is vpon Euphrates, and now the Lord is with me, and the Lord hasteneth me forward: departe from me, and be not against the Lord.
- 28 But Iofias wolde not turne backe his chariot fro him, but prepared him self to fight with him, not regarding the wordes of Ieremias the Prophet by the mouth of the Lord.
- 29 But he set him self in battel aray against him in the field of Megeddo, & the princes came downe to King Iofias.
- 30 And the King said to his seruants, Conuaye me out of the battel, for I am very weake. And by and by his seruants brought him out of the battel.
- 31 So he gate vp on his seconde chariot, and being come againe to Ierusalem he changed his life, and was buryed in his fathers graue.
- 32 And in all Iudea was Iofias bewailed, yea, Ieremias the Prophet did lament for Iofias, and the gouernours and their wiues did lament him vnto this day: & this was ordained in all the kindred of Israel to be done continually.
- 33 But these things are written in the boke
- of the stories of the Kings of Iudea, and euerie one of the actes ſ̄ Iofias did, & his glorie, and his knowledge in the lawe of the Lord, and the things which he did before, and the things now rehearsed are registred in the boke of the Kings of Israel and Iudea.
- 34 Then they of the nacion toke * Ioachaz ^{2 King. 23.31} the sonne of Iofias, and made him King ^{2. chro. 36.1.} in steade of his father Iofias, when he was thre and twentie yere olde.
- 35 And he reigned in Iudea and in Ierusalem thre moneths: for the King of Egypt deposed him from reigning in Ierusalem.
- 36 He taxed also the people of an hundredth talents of siluer, & one talent of gold.
- 37 And the King of Egypt made Ioacim his brother King of Iudea & Ierusalem.
- 38 And he bounde Ioachaz and his gouernours: but when he had taken Zaraccs his brother, he led him away into Egypt.
- 39 Twentie and fiue yere olde was Ioacim, when he reigned in Iudea and Ierusalem, and he did euil in the sight of the Lord.
- 40 Wherefore against him came vp Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, who when he had boude him with a chaine of brasse, led him away into Babylon.
- 41 Then Nabuchodonosor toke of the holie vessels of the Lord, & caryed rhe away, and set them in his temple at Babylon.
- 42 But all his actes, and his prophanation, and his reproche are written in the Chronicles of the Kings.
- 43 And Ioacim his sonne reigned for him: and when he was made King, he was eigh-tene yere olde.
- 44 And he reigned thre moneths and ten dayes in Ierusalem, and he did euil in the sight of the Lord.
- 45 ¶ So a yere after Nabuchodonosor sent and broght him to Babylon with the holy vessels of the Lord.
- 46 And he made Sedecias King of Iudea and Ierusalem when he was one and twentie yere olde, & he reigned eleuen yeres.
- 47 And he did euil in ſ̄ sight of the Lord, nether did he feare the wordes spoken * by ^{Ier. 38.21.} Ieremias the Prophet from the mouth of the Lord.
- 48 For after that he was sworne to King Nabuchodonosor, he forsware him self by the Name of the Lord and fel away, and hardened his necke and his heart. and transgressed the Lawes of the Lord God of Israel.
- 49 Also the gouerners of the people, and the Priestes committed many things against the lawes and passed all the pollutions of all nations, and polluted the Temple of the Lord, which was sanctified in Ierusalem.

51 But they derided his messengers, and in the day, that the Lord spake unto them, they mocked his Prophetes, 52 So that he, being moued to anger against his people for their great wickednes, commanded the Kings of the Chaldeas to invade them.

53 These killed their yong men with the sworde roude about their holie Temple, nether did they spare yong man, nor maiden, nether olde man, nor childe among them.

54 But he deliuered the all into their hands, and all the holy vessels of the Lord, bothe great & smale with the vessels of the Arke of God: and they toke, & caryed away the Kings treasures into Babylon.

55 And they set fyre in the House of the Lord and brake downe the walles of Ierusalem and burnt their towres with fyre.

56 They consumed also all the precious things thereof, & broght them to nought, and those that were left by the sworde, he caryed away into Babylon.

1 Cyrus gaue leave to the Iewes to returne. 10 He sent the holy vessels 13 The names of them that returned. 16 Their aduersaries did let their buylding, and the Kings letters for the same.

2 Chro. 36. 22 & 24. 1, 2.

1 IN the first yere of the reigne of Cyrus King of the Persians, to fulfil the worde of the Lord by the mouth of Ieremias,

2 The Lord raised vp the spirit of Cyrus King of the Persians, and he made proclamation through out all his kingdome, euen by expresse lettres,

3 Saying, Thus saith Cyrus King of the Persians, The Lord of Israel, euen the moste high Lord, hath made me King ouer the whole worlde,

4 And he hath commanded me to buylde him an House in Ierusalem, which is in Iudea.

5 If there be anie therefore of you of his people, let the Lord, euē his Lord be with him, & let him go vp to Ierusalem, which is in Iudea & buylde the House of the Lord of Israel: he is the Lord which dwelleth in Ierusalem.

6 All they then that dwell in the places rounde about, those, I say, that are in his place, let them helpe him with golde and siluer,

7 With giftes, with horses and cattel, and other things, which shalbe broght, according to the vowes into the Temple of the Lord, which is in Ierusalem.

8 ¶ Then arose the chief of the families of Iudea, and of the tribe of Beniamin, and the Priests & Leuites, & all whose minde the Lord had moued to go vp, and buylde an House to the Lord in Ierusalem.

9 And those that were about them, helped them in all things with siluer and golde, horses, and cattel, and with diuers vowes of many whose mindes were stirred vp.

10 Also King Cyrus broght out the holy vessels of the Lord, which Nabuchodonosor had caryed out of Ierusalem, and had consecrated them in the Temple of his idoles.

11 Now when Cyrus King of the Persians had broght them out, he deliuered the to Mithridates his treasurer, 12 By whome they were giuen to Abassar the gouernour of Iudea.

13 Whereof this was the number: a thousand golden cuppes, and a thousand siluer cuppes, basens of siluer for the sacrifices, nine and twentie vials, of golde thirtie, and of siluer two thousand, foure hundred and ten, and a thousand other vessels.

14 So all the vessels of golde and siluer, which they caried away, were five thousand, foure hundred, thre score and nine.

15 They were broght by Sanabassar with them of the captiuitie of Babylon to Ierusalem.

16 ¶ But in the time of Artaxerxes King of the Persians Belemus, & Mithridates, and Tabellius, and Rathumus, and Beelrethmus, & Semellius the secretarie, & others which were ioyned to these, dwelling in Samaria and in other places, wrote vnto him this epistle here following against the, that dwelt in Iudea & Ierusalem, TO THE KING ARTAXERXES OVR LORD,

17 Thy seruants, Rathumus the writer of things that come to passe, and Semellius the secretarie, and the rest of their counsel, & the iudges which are in Coelosyria and Phenice.

18 Be it now therefore knowen to our lord the King, that the Iewes which came vp from you, are come to vs into Ierusalem, that rebellious and wicked citie, & buylde the marked places, and make vp the walles thereof, and laye the fundacions of the Temple.

19 Therefore if this citie be buylt, and the walles be finished, they wil not onely not indure to paye tribute, but wil also resist Kings.

20 And because the things, pertaining to the Temple, go forward, we thought it not

- mete to passe ouer siche a thing,
- 21 But to declare it to our lord the King, that if it be thy pleasure, it may be sogut out in the bokes of thy fathers,
- 22 And thou shalt finde in the Chronicles the writings concerning these things, and shalt knowe that this cite did alwaies rebel, & did trouble bothe Kings and cities,
- 23 And that the Iewes are rebellious, raising alwaies warres therein: for the which cause also this cite was made desolate.
- 24 Now therefore, o lord the King, we declare it, that if this cite be buylt and the walles thereof repared, you shal haue no more passage into Coelosyria, nor Phenice.
- 25 ¶ Then the King wrote againe to Rathumus, that wrote the things that came to passe, and to Beeltethmus, and to Samellius the secretarie, and to the rest of those that were ioyned with them, and to the dwellers of Samaria, Syria and Phenice, these things that followe.
- 26 I haue red the epistle, which ye sent to me: therefore I commanded, that it shulde be soght out, and it was founde, that this cite hath alwaies practised against Kings,
- 27 And that the men thereof were giuen to rebellion and warres, and how that mightie Kings and fierce haue reigned in Ierusalem, which toke tribute of Coelosyria and Phenice.
- 28 Now therefore I haue commanded to forbid these men to buylde vp the cite, and that it be taken hede that no more be done,
- 29 And that those wicked things, w^{ch} shulde molest the King, go not forwarde.
- 30 Then when Rathumus, & Semellius the secretarie and the rest, which were ioyned with them, had red the things, which King Artaxerxes had writen, they moued their tents with spede to Ierusalem with horses and men in araye,
- 31 And began to let them which buylt, so that the buylding of the Temple in Ierusalem ceased vnto the seconde yere of the reigne of Darius King of the Persians.

- 1 The feast of Darius 16 The thre wise sentences.*
- 1 NOW when Darius reigned, he made a great feast to all his subiects & to all those of his owne house, and to all the princes of Media and Persia,
- 2 And to all the gouernours & captaines, and lieutenants that were with him, from India vnto Ethiopia of an hundreth and seuen and twentie prouinces.
- 3 And when they had eaten and drunke, & were satisfied, they departed, and King Darius went into his chamber, and slept, til he wakened againe.
- 4 ¶ In the meane time thre yong men of the garde, keepers of the Kings bodie, said one to another.
- 5 Let euerie one of vs speake a sentence, & he that shal ouercome, and whose sentence shal appeare wiser then the others, Darius the King shal giue him great gifts, and great things in token of victorie,
- 6 As to weare purple & to drinke in golde, and to slepe in golde, and a chariot with bridles of golde, an head tyte of fine linē, and a chaine about his necke.
- 7 And he shal sit next to Darius for his wisdom, and shalbe called Darius counsiller.
- 8 Then euerie man wrote his sentence and sealed it, and put it vader the pillowe of King Darius,
- 9 And said, when the King rose, they wolde giue him the writing, and whose sentence the King and the thre princes of Persia shulde iudge to be wisest, to him shulde the victorie be giuen, as it was appointed.
- 10 One wrote, The wine is strongest.
- 11 The other wrote, The King is strongest.
- 12 The other wrote, women are strongest, but trueth ouercometh all things.
- 13 ¶ And when the King rose, they toke the writings and gaue them to him, and he red them,
- 14 And sent and called all the noble men of Persia and of Media, and the gouernours & the captaines, and lieutenants, and the consuls;
- 15 And sate him downe in the counsel, and the writing was red before them.
- 16 Then he said, Call the yong men, that they may declare their owne sentences. So they called them, and they came in.
- 17 Then he said vnto them, Declare vnto vs the writings. So the first began, which had spoken of the strength of wine,
- 18 And said on this maner, O ye men, how strong is wine! it deceiueth all men that drinke it.
- 19 It maketh the minde of the King and of the fatherles bothe one, of the bonde man and of the fre man, of the poore man and of the riche man.
- 20 It turneth also euerie thought into ioye and gladnes, so that one remembreth no maner of sorow, nor det.
- 21 It maketh euerie heart riche, so that one remembreth nether King nor gouernour, & causeth to speake all things by talents. Or, poudes.*
- 22 When men haue drunk, they haue no minde to loue ether friends or brethren, and a litle after they drawe out swordes.
- 23 But when they are from the wine, they do not remember what they haue done.

Of the strength of a King. 13 Of the strength of women. 34 Of the strength of trueth, which semēces is approued, 47 And his peition granted.

1 THEN the seconde which had spokē of the strēgth of the King, began to say,
 2 O ye men, are not men strongest, which beare rule by land and by sea, and ouer all things which are in them!
 3 But the King is yet greater: for he ruleth all things, & is lord of them, so that they do all things which he commādeth them.
 4 If he bid the make warre one against another, they do it: if he send them out against the enemies, they go and breake downe mountaines and walles and towres.
 5 They kil & are killed, & do not passe the cōmandement of the King: if they ouercome, they bring all to the King, as wel the spoyle as all other things,
 6 And those also which go not to warre & battel, but til the earth: for when they haue sowne it againe, thei reape it, & bring it to the King, and cōpell one another to paye tribute to the King.
 7 Yet he is but one man: if he bid, Kil, they kil: if he sai, Spare, they spare.
 8 If he bid, Smite, they smite: if he bid the, Make desolate, they make desolate: if he bid, Buylde, they buylde.
 9 If he bid, Cut of, they cut of: if he bid, Plante, they plante.
 10 So all his people & all his armies obey one mā: in the meane while he sitteth downe, he eateth, and drinketh and slepeth.
 11 For these kepe him rounde about: nether can any one go & do his owne busines, nether are they disobedient vnto him.
 12 O ye men, how shulde not the King be strongest, seing he is thus obeyed! So he helde his tongue.
 13 ¶ Then the thirde which had spoken of women & of the trueth (this was Zorobabel) began to speake, 14 O ye men, nether the mightie King, nor many men nor wine is strongest: who then ruleth them or hath the dominion ouer the! are they not women!
 15 Women haue borne the King & all the people which beare rule by sea & by land.
 16 Euen of them were they borne, and they nourished them, which planted the vines, of which the wine is made.
 17 They also make mens garments & make men honorable, nether can men be without women.
 18 And if thei haue gathered together gold & siluer, or any goodlic thing, do they not loue a faire and beautiful woman!
 19 Do they not leaue all those things & giue the selues wholly vnto her, & gape, and gaze vpon her, & all men desire her more then gold, or siluer, or any precious thing!

 20 A man leaueh his owne father which ha the nourished him, & his owne counrei, and is ioyned with his wife.
 21 And for y woman he ieopardeth his life, and nether remembreth father nor mother nor countrey.
 22 Therefore by this ye may knowe that y women beare rule ouer you: do ye not labour and trauail, and giue and bring all to the women?
 23 Yea, a man taketh his sworde and goeth for the to kil & to steale, and to saile vpon the sea, and vpon riuers, 24 And he seeth a lion & goeth in darkenes, & when he hath stollen, rauished & spoiled, he bringeth it to his loue.
 25 Wherefore a man loueth his owne wife more then father or mother.
 26 Yea, many haue runne mad for women, and haue bene seruants for them.
 27 Many also haue perished & haue erred and sinned for women.
 28 Now therefore do you not beleue me: is not the King great in his power? do not all regions feare to touche him?
 29 Yet I sawe him & Apame, the Kings concubine, the daughter of the famous Baccus, sitting on the right hand of the King.
 30 And she toke the crowne of the Kings head, & put it vpon her owne, and stroke the King with her left hand.
 31 Yet in the meane season the King gaped and gazed on her: & if she laughed at him, he laughed: & if she were angrie with him, he did flatter her that he might be reconciled with her.
 32 How then, o ye men, are not women more strong, seing they do thus?
 33 ¶ Then the King and the princes looked one vpon another, and he began to speake of the trueth.
 34 O ye men, are not women stronger? great is the earth, & the heauen is hic, and the sonne is swift in his course: for he turneth rounde about heauē in one day, & runneth againe into his owne place.
 35 Is not he great that maketh these things? therefore the trueth is greater and strōger then all.
 36 All the earth calleth for trueth, and the heauen blesteth it: and all things are shaken and tremble, nether is there any vniuil thing with it.
 37 The wine is wicked, the King is wicked, women are wicked, & all the children of men are wicked, and all their wicked workes are suche, and there is no trueth in the, and they perish in their iniquitie.
 38 But trueth doeth abide, and is strong for euer, and liueth and reigneth for euer and euer.

- 39 With her there is no receiuing of persons nor difference: but she doeth y^e things which are iuste, & abstaineth from vniust & wicked things, and all men fauour her workes.
- 40 Nether is there any vniust thing in her iudgement, and she is the strength and the kingdome and the power, and maiestie of all ages. Blessed be the God of truth.
- 41 So he ceased to speake, and then all the people cryed, & said then, Truth is great and strongest.
- 42 The King said vnto him, Aske what thou wilt besides y^e which is appointed, & we wil giue it thee, because thou art founde the wisest, and thou shalt haue libertie to sit by me, and shalt be called my cousin.
- 43 ¶ Then he said to the King, Remembre the vowe that thou hast vowed to buylde Ierusalem, in the day that thou tokest the kingdome,
- 44 And to send againe all the vessels y^e were taken out of Ierusalem, which Cyrus set a parte when he made a vowe to cut of Babylon, & vowed to send them thither.
- 45 Thou also hast vowed to buylde the Temple, which the Idumeans burnt whē Iudea was destroyed by the Chaldeans.
- 46 And now, o Lord the King, this is that which I desire & require of thee, & this is the magnificence, which I require of thee: I require therefore that thou woldest accomplish the vowe which thou hast vowed with thine owne mouth to do to the King of heauen.
- 47 Then King Darius rising vp, kissed him, & wrote him letters to all the stewar-des and lieutenants, and captaines, and gouernours, that they shulde bring on y^e waye bothe him, & all that were with him, which went vp to buylde Ierusalem.
- 48 And he wrote letters to all the lieutenants in Coelosyria and Phenice, & to the that were in Libanus, that they shulde bring cedre wood from Libanus to Ierusalem, and buylde the cite with him.
- 49 And he wrote for all y^e Iewes, which wēt vp out of his kingdome vnto Iudea, concerning their libertie, that no price, nor lieutenant, nor gouernour, nor steward shulde enter into their dores,
- 50 And that all the region which they kept, shulde paye no tribute, and that the Idumeans shulde let go the villages of the Iewes which they helde,
- 51 And that euerie yere there shulde be giuen for the buylding of the Temple twentie talents vntil it were buylt,
- 52 And to mainteine y^e burnt offrings vpon the altar euerie day (as they had a commandement to offer seuentene) other ten talents euerie yere.
- 53 And that all they which went from Babylon to buylde y^e cite, shulde haue libertie, aswel they as their posteritie, and all the Priests that went away.
- 54 He wrote also touching the charges and the Priests garment, wherein they shulde minister.
- 55 And he wrote that they shulde giue the Leuites their charges vntil the House were finished, and Ierusalem buylt.
- 56 Also he wrote that they shulde giue pensions & wages to them that kept the cite.
- 57 And he sent away all the vessels which Cyrus had set aparte out of Babylon, and whatsoeuer Cyrus had commanded to do, he also commanded to do it, and to send to Ierusalem.
- 58 And when the yong man was gone forth, ^{or, Zorobabel,} he lift vp his face to heauen towards Ierusalem, and gaue thanks to the King of heauen,
- 59 Saying, Of thee is the victorie, & of thee is wisdom, & of thee is glorie, and I am thy seruant.
- 60 Blessed be thou which hast giue me wisdom: for vnto thee I acknowledge it, o Lord of our fathers.
- 61 ¶ So he toke y^e letters & went out & came to Babylon & telled all his brethren.
- 62 And they blessed y^e God of their fathers, because he had giue them the fredome & libertie
- 63 To go vp & to buylde Ierusalem, & the Temple, where his Name is renoued, & they reioyced with instruments of musicke and ioye, seuen daies.

40 For "Neemias and Atharias said to the that they shulde not be partakers of the holie thigs, til there arose an hie Priest clothed with doctrine and trueth.

*or, fortie and 41 So all they of Israel from them of twelue yere olde and litle children, were "fortie thousand besides men seruants and women seruants, two thousand, thre hundreth and fixtie.

46 And the Priests and the Leuites and the people dwelt in Ierusalem and in the countrie, & the holie singers & the porters and all Israel in their "villages.

47 ¶ But* when the seuenth moneth was nere, and when the children of Israel were euerie one at home, they were all gathered together with one accorde into the open place of the first gate, which is toward the East.

48 Then Iesus the sonne of Iosedec and his brethren the Priests with Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel & his brethre, rising vp, made ready y altar of the God of Israel, 49 To offie burnt offrings vpon it according as it is written in the boke of Moyfes the man of God.

50 Whither also there were gathered against them of all nacions of the land: but they dressed the altar in his owne place, although all the nacions of the land were their enemies and vexed them, and they offred sacrifices according to the season, and burnt offrings to the Lord, morning & euening.

Leui. 23. 34.

51 They kept also the feast of tabernacles, as it is ordeined in the Law, & offred sacrifices euerie day, as was requisite, 52 And afterwarde, the continual oblations and offrings of the Sabbaths & of the new moneths & of all holy feasts.

Ezra 3.8.

53 ¶ And all* thei which had made any vowe to God, began to offie sacrifice vnto God in the first day of y seueth moneth, although the Temple of God was not yet buylt.

54 They gaue also money to the masons & to the workemen, and meat and drink e with gladnes, 55 And charrets to the Sidonians and to those of Tyrus to bring ceder wood out of Libanus, which shulde be broght by flots to the hauen of Ioppe according to the commandement giuen vnto them by Cyrus King of Persia.

56 And in the second yere and second moneth came into the Temple of God in Ierusalem, Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and Iesus the sonne of Iosedec, and their brethre, and the Priests & Leuites, and all they that came out of captiuitie into Ierusalem, Eccles. 4. 9. 12.

57 And * layed the fundacion of the House of God in the first day of the second moneth of the second yere after their returne into Iudea and Ierusalem.

58 And they appointed y Leuites frō twētie yere olde ouer the workes of the Lord, and Iesus & his sonne, & his brethre, & his brother Cadmiel, & the sonnes of Madiabon with the sonnes of Ioda, the sonne of Heliadun, with their sonnes, & brethren, euen all the Leuites with one accorde did followe after the worke, calling vpō the workes in the House of God: thus the workemen buylt the Temple of the Lord.

59 And the Priests stode clothed with their long garments with musical instruments & trumpets, and the Leuites the sonnes of Asaph with cymbales, 60 Singing & blessing y Lord, according to the ordinace of Dauid King of Israel.

61 And they sung with loud voice songs to the praise of the Lord, because his mercie and glorie is for euer in all Israel.

62 Then all the people blewe trumpets, and cryed with loud voice, praising y Lord for the raising vp of the House of the Lord.

63 Also some of the Priests & Leuites, and chief men, to wit, the Ancients, which had sene the former House,

64 Came to se the buyldig of this with weeping and great crying, & manie with trumpets and ioye cryed with loude voice, 65 So that the people colde not heare the trumpets, because of the weping of the people: yet there was a great multitude that blew trumpets so that they were heard far of.

66 ¶ Wherefore when the enemies of the tribes, of Iuda & Benjamin heard it, they came to know what noise of trumpets it was,

67 And they knewe that they of the captiuitie buylt the Temple to the Lord God of Israel.

68 Wherefore they coming to Zorobabel, & Iesus, and the chief of the families, said vnto vnto them, Let vs buyld also with you.

69 For we obey your Lord, as you do, and sacrifice vnto him since the dayes of¹ Assareth King of the Assyrians, which brought vs hether.

70 Then Zorobabel, and Iesus, & the chief of the families of Israel said to them, It doeth not apperteyne to vs, and to you to buyld an House to the Lord our God.

71 For we alone wil buylde it to the Lord God of Israel, as it becometh vs, & as² Cyrus the King of the Persians bad vs.

72 Howbeit the people of the land made them sluggish that were in Iudea, and letted them to buyld the worke, and by their ambushments and seditions & conspiracies hindred the finishing of the buylding.

73 All the time of King Cyrus life: so that they were let from the buylding two yere, vntil the reigne of Darius.

CHAP. VI.

¹ Of Aggeus and Zacharias. ² The buylding of the Temple. ³ Sisinnes wolde let them. ⁷ His epittle to Darius. ²³ The Kings answer to the contrarye.

¹ BVt¹ in the second yere of the reigne of Darius, Aggeus & Zacharias the sonne of Addo² y³ Prophetes prophecied to the Iewes, euen vnto them that were in Iudea and Ierusalem, in the Name of the Lord God of Israel, which they called⁴ vpon.

² Then Zorobabel sonne of Salathiel, and Iesus the sonne of Iosedec stode vp, and began to buylde the House of the Lord, w⁵ is in Ierusalem, the Prophetes of the Lord being with them, & helping them.

³ ¶ In that time Sisinnes the gouernour of Syria, and Phenice, and Sathrabouzanes with his companions came vnto them, ⁴ And said vnto them, By whose commandement buyld you this House & this buylding, and enterprise all these other things? and who are the buylders that enterprise suche things?

⁵ But the Ancients of the Iewes had grace of the Lord after that he had visited the captiuitie, ⁶ That they were not letted to buyld, vntil it was signified vnto Darius of these matters, and an answer was receiued.

⁷ ¶ The copie of the epittle, which he did write and send to Darius, SISINNES gouernour of Syria and of Phenice, and Sathrabouzanes, and their companiōs, presidents in Syria and Phenice, salute King Darius.

⁸ It may please the King our master plainly to vnderstand, that when we came to the countrey of Iudca, and entred into the cite of Ierusalem, we found in the cite of Ierusalem the Ancients of the Iewes that were⁶ the captiuitie, ⁹ Buylding an House to the Lord, great & newe, of hewen stones, and of great price, and the timber all ready laid vpon the walles.

¹⁰ And these workes are done with great speede, yea, and the worke hathe good successe in their hands, so that it wil be finished with all glorie & diligence.

¹¹ Then we asked their Ancients, saying, By whose commandement buyld you this House & lay y⁷ fundacion of these workes?

¹² We asked them these things to the intēt to notifie them to thee, and to write to thee the men that gouerned it: therefore we demāded the names of the gouernours in writing.

¹³ But they answered, saying, We are the seruants of the Lord, which hathe created the heauen and the earth.

¹⁴ And⁸ this House was buylt vp manie yeres ago by a King of Israel great & strōg, and was finished.

¹⁵ But when our fathers, prouoking God to wrath, sinned against the Lord of Israel, which is in heauē,⁹ he deliuered them into the hands of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon of the Chaldeans, ¹⁶ Who brake downe the House & burnt it, & caryed the people captiue to Babylon.

¹⁷ But in the first yere of the reigne of Cyrus ouer the countrey of Babylon, King Cyrus wrote that this House shulde be buylt vp.

¹⁹ And a cōmandement was giuē vnto him, y¹¹ he shulde cary away those vessels, & put thē in y¹³ Tēple at Ierusalē, & that this Tēple of y¹⁴ Lord shulde be buylt in this place.

²⁰ The same Sanabassar¹⁵, being come hether, layed the fundacions of the House of the Lord at Ierusalem, and since that time til now, it is in buylding, & is not finished.

²¹ Now therefore if it please the King, let it be soght vp in the Kings libraries concerning Cyrus.

²³ Then King Darius commanded to searche in the Kings libraries, that were in Babylon, and there was founde in Ecbarane, which is a towre in the region of Media, a place where suche things were layed vp for memorie.

- 24 In the first yere of the reigne of Cyrus, King Cyru. commāded the House of the Lord at Ierusalem to be buylded, where thei did sacrifice with the continual fyre.
- 25 Of the wth the height shulde be of threescore cubites, the breadth of threescore cubites with thre rowes of hewen stones, & one rowe of newe wood of that countrey, and that the colts shulde be payed out of the house of King Cyrus.
- 26 And that the holie vessels of the House of the Lord, aswel those of golde as of siluer, which Nabuchodonosor had caryed out of the house in Ierusalem, and broght into Babylon, shulde be restored to the House, which is in Ierusalem, & set in the place where they were afore.
- 27 Also he commanded that Sisinnes, gouernour of Syria and Phenice, and Sathabouzanes, and their companions, and those which were constitute captaines in Syria and Phenice, shulde take hede to refraine from that place, and to suffer Zorobabel the seruant of the Lord, and gouernour of Iudea, and the Elders of the Iewes to buyld that House of the Lord in that place.
- 28 And I also haue commanded to buyld it cleane vp againe, and that they be diligent to helpe them of the captiuitie of the Iewes, til the House of the Lord be finished,
- 29 And that some parte of the tribute of Coelosyria and Phenice shulde be diligently giuen to these men for sacrifice vn to the Lord, and to Zorobabel the gouernour, for bulles, rams and lambes:
- 30 Also corne, & salte, and wine, and oile continually euerie yere without faile, as the Priests, which are in Ierusalem shal testifie to be spent euerie day,
- 31 That offerings may be made to the high God for the King, and his children, & that they may pray for their liues.
- 32 Furthermore he commanded that whosoever shulde transgresse anie thing afore spoken or writen, or derogate anie thing thereof, that a tre shulde be taken out of his possession, and he be hanged thereon, and that his goods shulde be the Kings.
- 33 And therefore let the Lord whose Name is there called vpon, destroye euerie King and nation, which stretcheth out his had to hinder or do euil to that House of the Lord which is in Ierusalem.
- 34 *I Darius the King haue ordeined that it shulde be diligētly executed according to these things.
- 1 Then Sisinnes the gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice, and Sathabouzanes, & their companions, obeying King Darius commandements,
- 2 Assisted diligently the holie workes, working with the Ancients and gouernours of the Sanctuarie.
- 3 And the holie workes prospered by Ageus and Zacharias the Prophetes which prophecied.
- 4 So they finished all things by the commandement of the Lord God of Israel, and with the consent of Cyrus and Darius, and Artaxerxes Kings of the Persians.
- 5 Thus the holie House was finished in the thre and twentieth day of the moneth Adar in the sixt yere of Darius King of the Persians.
- 6 ¶ And the childre of Israel, and y Priests and the Leuites, and the rest, which were of the captiuitie, & had anie charge, did according to the things writen in the boke of Moses.
- 7 And they offred for the dedication of the Temple of the Lord, an hundreth bulles, two hundreth rams, foure hundreth lambes,
- 8 And twelue goates for the sinne of all Israel, according to the number of the chief of the tribes of Isiael.
- 9 And the Priests, and the Leuites stode according to their kinreds clothed with long robes in the workes of the Lord God of Israel, according to the boke of Moses, and also the porters in euerie gate.
- 10 And the children of Israel offred the Passeouer together with them of the captiuitie, in the fourtēth day of the first moneth, after that the Priests and Leuites were sanctified.
- 11 But all the children of the captiuitie were not sanctified together, but all the Leuites were sanctified together.
- 12 And they offred the Passeouer, for all the children of the captiuitie, and for their brethren the Priests, and for them selues.
- 13 Then all the children of Isiael which were of the captiuitie did eat, euen all they that had separated them selues from the abominations of the people of the land, and soght the Lord.
- 14 And they kept the feast of vnleautned bread seuen dayes, reioyng before the Lord,
- 15 Because he had turned the counsel of the King of the Assyrians towards them to strengthen their hands in the workes of the Lord God of Isiael.

- 2 The sonne of Sadoc, the sonne of Achitob, the sonne of Amarias, the sonne of Ezias, the sonne of Memeroth, the sonne of Zaraias, the sonne of Saurias, the sonne of Boccas, the sonne of Abisum, the sonne of Phinees, the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aai on was the hie Priest.
- 3 This Esdras went out of Babylon, & was a scribe wel taught in the Law of Moyses, giuen by the Lord God of Israel.
- 4 Also the King gaue him great honour, & he founde grace in his sight in all his requistes.
- 5 With him also there departed some of the children of Israel, and of the Priests and Leuites, and of the holy singers, and of the porters, and of the ministers of the Temple vnto Ierusalem,
- 6 In the seuēth yere of the reigne of Artaxerxes, & in the list moneth: this was the seuēth yere of the King (for thei went out of Babylō in the first day of the first moneth,
- 7 And came to Ierusalem according as the Lord gaue them speede in their iournay)
- 8 For Esdras had gotten great knowledge, so that he wolde let nothig passe that was in the Law of the Lord, and in the cōmandements, and he taught all Israel all the ordinances and iudgements.
- 9 So the commissiō written by King Artaxerxes was giuen Esdras the Priest and reader of the Law of the Lord: the copie thereof followeth.
- 10 King Artaxerxes to Esdras the Priest, & reader of the Law of the Lord, Salutaciō.
- 11 Forasmuche as I consider things with pitie, I haue commanded that they that wil and desire of the naciō of the Iewes, and of the Priests and Leuites, which are in our kingdome, shulde go with thee vnto Israel.
- 12 Therefore as many as be willing, let them departe together, as it hathe semed good to me and my seuen friends the counsellors,
- 13 That they may visite the things that are in Iudea and Ierusalem diligently, as it is contēned in the Law of the Lord,
- 14 And cary the gifts to the Lord of Israel in Ierusalem, which I and my friends haue vowed: also all the golde and siluer, which shal be founde in the countrey of Babylon appertēning to the Lord in Ierusalem,
- 15 With that which is giuen of the people to the Temple of the Lord their God, that it might be broght to Ierusalem, as wel siluer as golde, for bulles, and rams, & lambes, and things thereunto pertainēg,
- 16 That they may offer sacrifices to the Lord vpon the altar of the Lord their God, which is in Ierusalem.
- 17 And whatsoeuer thou and thy brethren wil do with the golde or siluer, accōplish it according to the wil of thy God.
- 18 And the holy vessels of the Lord, which are giuen thee for the vse of the Temple of thy God, which is in Ierusalem, thou shalt set before thy God in Ierusalem.
- 19 And what other things soeuer thou shalt remember for the vse of the Temple of thy God, thou shalt giue it out of thy Kings treasure.
- 20 And I also King Artaxerxes haue commanded the treasurers of Syria and Phenice, that whatsoeuer Esdras, the Priest & reader of the Law of the hiest God, shal send for, they shulde giue it him with all speede, euen to the some of an hundreth talents of siluer,
- 21 And likewise vnto an hundreth cores of corne, and an hundreth pieces of wine and other things in abundance.
- 22 Let all things be done to the hiest God according to the Law of God with diligence, that wrath come not vpo the kingdome of the King and of his sonnes.
- 23 Also to you it is commanded, that of none of thy Priests or Leuites, or holy singers, or porters or ministers of the Temple, or of the workemen of this Temple, no tribute nor taxe be taken, nor that any haue power to taxe them in any thing.
- 24 Thou also, Esdras, according to the wisdom of God, ordeine iudges and gouernours, that they may iudge in all Syria & Phenice all those which are wel instructed in the Law of thy God, and teache those, which are not instructed.
- 25 And let all those which shal transgresse the Law of God & the King, be diligently punished, ether with death, or other punishment, ether with penaltie of money, or banishment.
- 26 ¶ The Esdras the scribe said, Blessed be the onelie Lord God of my fathers, which hathe put this in the heart of the King to glorifie his House which is in Ierusalem,
- 27 And hathe honoured me before thy King, and the counsellors, and all his friends and gouernours.
- 28 ¶ Therefore I was encouraged by the helpe of the Lord my God, and gathered men of Israel to go vp with me.
- 29 These are the guides after their families and order of dignities, which came vp with me out of Babylon in the reigne of Artaxerxes the King.

- 36 Of the sonnes of Ioab " Badias sonne of Iezelus, and with him two hundredth and twelue men.
- 37 Of the sonnes of " Banid, Assalimoth sonne of Iosaphias, and with him an hundredth and threscore men.

- 41 ¶ And I gathered them together to the flood called *Theras, & pitched our tents there thre daies, and nombred them.
- 42 But when I had founde there none of the Priests nor Leuites,
- 43 I sent to Eleazar, and beholde, there came " Maafman, and Ainathan, & Samaian, and " Iribon, & Nathan, Ennatan, Zacharian, & Mosollamon the chief, & best learned.
- 44 And I bad them to go to Daddeus the captaine, which was in the place of the tresurie,
- 45 With charge to bidde Daddeus and his brethren, & the tresurers that were there, to send to vs them, which shulde offer sacrifice in the House of our Lord.
- 46 And they broght vnto vs by the mightie hand of our Lord learned men of the sonnes of Moisi, the sonne of Leui, the sonne of Israel, to wit, " Cisebebran & his sonnes, and his brethren being eightene.
- 47 And Asebia, and " Annon, & Ofaian his brethrē of the sonnes of " Canaineus with their sonnes, twentie perones.
- 48 And of the ministers of the Temple, w̄ Dauid gaue, & those which were rulers ouer the worke of the Leuites, to wit, ministers of the Temple, two hundredth & twētie, of whome all the names were registred.
- 49 ¶ And there I proclaimed a fast for the yong men before the Lord to aske of him a good iourney bothe for vs, and for them that were with vs, for our children, & for our cattel.
- 50 For I was ashamed to aske the King footemen, or horsemen, or conuict for fauegarde against our enemies,
- 51 Because we had said to the King, that the power of our Lord shulde be with thē that fought him to direct them in all thigs.
- 52 Wherefore we praied our Lord againe, according to these things, whome we founde fauorable.
- 53 Then I chose from among the chief of γ tribes & of the Priests, twelue men, to wit, " Efebrias and Assanias, and with them ten of their brethren.
- 54 And I weighed them the siluer and the golde, & the holy vessels of the House of our Lord, which the King and his counsellors, & his princes, & all Israel had giue.
- 55 And I weighed thē, six hundredth & fifty talents of siluer, & siluer vessels of an hundredth talēts, & an hundredth talēts of golde,
- 56 And twentie golden basens, & twelue vessels of brasse, of fine brasse shining like golde.
- 57 And I said to them, You are also holy to the Lord, and the vessels are holy, and the golde, and the siluer is a vowe to the Lord of our fathers.
- 58 Watch and kepe them, til that you giue thē to the heads of the families of the Priests, and Leuites, and captaines of the families of Israēl in Ierusalem in the chambers of the House of our God.
- 59 So the Priests & Leuites toke the siluer and the golde, & the vessels, & caryed thē to Ierusalem to the Temple of the Lord.
- 60 And we departed frō the flood Thera, in the twelue day of the first moneth, & came to Ierusalem, according to γ mightie power of our Lord with vs: and the Lord deliuered vs from the beginning of our iourney from all enemies. So we came to Ierusalem.
- 61 And thre daies being past there, in the fourth day the siluer that was weighed, & the golde was deliuered in the House of our Lord to " Marmoth the Priest the sonne of Iouri,
- 62 And with him to Eleazar γ sonne of Phinees: & there were with them, Iosabad the sonne of Iesus, & " Moeth sonne of Sabbanus, Leuites: all was deliuered them by number and weight.
- 63 And all the weight of them was written that same houre.
- 64 Afterwards those that were come out of the captiuitie, offered sacrifices to the Lord God of Israel, euen twelue bulles for all Israel, rams foure score and sixtene,

- Ezra 9.10* 67 ¶ When these things were done, the gouernours came to me, saying, The people of Israel, the princes and the Priests, & the Leuites haue not separated from them the strange people of the land,
- 68 Nor the pollutions of the Gentiles, to wit, of the Cananites, and Cherites, and Phercites, and Iebusites, and Moabites, and Egyptians, and Idumeans.
- 69 For they haue dwelt with their daughters, bothe they and their sonnes, and the holie sede is mixed with the strange people of the lād, & the gouernours & rulers haue bene partakers of this wickednes frō the beginning of the thing.
- 70 And asson. as I had heard these things, I rent my clothes, and the holie garment, & I pulled the heere of mine head, and of my bearde, and fate me downe sorowful, and verie sad.
- 71 Thē also all they that were moued with the woide of the Lord God of Israel, came to me: whiles I wepte for the iniquitie, but I fate verie sad til the euening sacrifice.
- 72 Then I rose from the fast with my clothes torne, and the holie garment, and bowed my knees and stretched forth mine hands to the Lord,
- Ezra 9.6.* 73 And I said, O Lord, I am ashamed, & confounded before thy face.
- 74 For our sinnes are increased about our heades, & our ignorances are lifted vp to heauen.
- 75 Yea, euen from the time of our fathers we are in great sinne vnto this day.
- 76 For our sinnes therefore, and our fathers we with our brethren, with our Kings and Priests haue bene giuen vp to the Kings of the earth, to the sworde and to captiuitie, and for a pray with all shame vnto this day.
- 77 Au now how great hathe thy mercie bent, o Lord, that there shulde be left vs a roote, and name in the place of thine holines!
- 78 And what thou shuldest reueale to vs a light in the House of the Lord our God, and giue vs meat in the time of our seruitude!
- 79 For when we were in bondage, we were not left of our God, but he gaue vs fauour before the Kings of the Persians, that they shulde giue vs meat,
- 80 And that they shulde honour the Temple of our Lord, and raise vp Sion that is desolate, and giue vs assurance in Iudea & Ierusalem.
- 81 And now, o Lord, what shal we say, hauing these things: for we haue transgressed thy commandements, which thou hast giuen by the hands of thy seruants the Prophetes, saying,
- 82 * Because the land, which ye go to inherit, is a land polluted by the pollutions of the strangers of the land, which haue filled it with their filthines,
- 83 Therefore now ye shal not ioine their daughters with your sonnes, nether giue your daughters to their sonnes,
- 84 Nether shal you desire to haue peace with them for euer, that ye may be made strong, and eat the good things of the lād, and haue it for an inheritance to your children for euer.
- 85 Therefore all that is come to passe, was done for our wicked workes, and for our great sinnes: yet, Lord, thou hast forborne our sinnes,
- 86 And hast giuen vs suche a roote: but we againe haue turned backe to transgresse thy Law, & to mixe vs with the vncleannes of the people of the land.
- 87 Mightest thou not be angrie with vs to destroy vs, so that thou shuidest nether leaue vs roote nor sede nor name?
- 88 But, o Lord of Israel, thou art true: for there is a roote left, euen vnto this day.
- 89 Beholde, we are now before thee with our iniquities, nether can we indure before thee: for these things.
- 90 ¶ And as Esdras prayed and confessed Ezra 10.3. and wept, and laye vpon the ground before the Temple, a verie great multitude was gathered vnto him out of Ierusalem of men and woman, and yong children: or there was great lamentation among the multitude.
- 91 Then Iechonias y sonne of Ieei of the sones of Israel, crying out said, O Esdras, we haue sinned against the Lord God: we haue taken in marriage strange women of the nation of the land.
- 92 And now all Israel is doubtful: therefore let vs make an othe concerning this to the Lord to put away all our wiues, which are strangers, with their children.
- 93 If it seme good to thee, and to all them that obey the Law of the Lord, rise vp and put it in execution.
- 94 For to thee doeth it apperteine, & we are with thee to make thee strong.
- 95 Then Esdras arose, & made all the chief of the families of the Priests and Leuites of all Israel to sweare, that they wolde do thus: and they sware.
- CHAP. IX.
- 7 After Esdras had red the law for the strange wiues, 10 They promise to put them away.

- 3 And there was a proclamation in all Iudca and Ierusalem to all them, that were of the captiuitie, that they shulde be gathered to Ierusalem,
- 4 And that all they which shulde not mete there within two or three dayes, according to the ordinace of the Elders, which bare rule, shulde haue their cattel confiscated to the Temple, and he cast out from among them of the captiuitie.
- 5 Then all they which were of the tribe of Iuda and Beniamin, came together within three dayes into Ierusalem: this was the ninth moneth and twentieth day of the moneth.
- 6 And all the multitude sate in the broad place of the Temple shaking, because of the extreme winter.
- 7 Then Esdras arose and said to them, Ye haue sinned: for ye haue married strange wiues, so that ye haue augmented the finnes of Israel.
- 8 Now therefore confesse and glorifie the Lord God of our fathers,
- 9 And do his wil, and separate your selues from the people of the land, and from the strange wiues.
- 10 Then all the multitude cryed out and said with a loude voyce, We wil do so as thou hast said.
- 11 But because the multitude is great, and the time is winter, so that we can not stand without, and the worke is not of one day nor of two, seing that manie of vs haue sinned in this matter,
- 12 Let the chief men of the multitude and all they which haue strange wiues of our families, tarie:
- 13 And let the Priests and iudges come out of all places at the day appointed, til they haue appeased the wrath of \bar{y} Lord against vs for this matter.
- 14 Then Ionathas Asaels sonne, and "Ezecias sonne of Thecan were appointed concerning these things, and Mosollam and Sabateus did helpe them.
- 15 And they which were of the captiuitie, did after all these things.
- 16 Esdras the Priest also chose him certaine men, chief of their families, all by name: & they sate together in the first day of the tenth moneth to examine this matter.
- 17 And they made an end of the things pertaining to them that had married strange wiues in the first day of \bar{y} first moneth.
- 18 And there were founde of the Priests, which had married strange wiues,

- 38 ¶ Then all the multitude assembled together with one consent into the broad place before the gate of the Temple toward the East, Nehe 8.2.
- 39 And spake to Esdras the Priest, and reader, that he shulde bring the Law of Moyses, which had bene giue by the Lord God of Israel.

41 And he red in the first broad place of the gate of the Temple, from morning to midday, before the men and the women, and all the multitude hearkened to y^e Law.

42 So Esdras the Priest and reader of the Law, stode vpon a pulpet of wood that was prepared.

45 Then Esdras toke y^e boke of the Law before the multitude (for he sate honourably before them all)

46 And they all stode vpright when he expounded the Law, and Esdras blessed the Lord the moste hie God, the moste mightie God of hostes.

47 And the whole multitude cryed, Amen.

dus, and Ananias, & Biatas the Leuites lift vp their hands, and fell downe on the grounde, and worshiped the Lord, 49 And taught the Law of the Lord, and stode also earnestly vpon the reading.

50 Then said Aththarates to Esdras the ^{or, Nehemias} chief Priest and reader, & to the Leuites, that taught the multitude in all things, This day is holie vnto the Lord, and all haue wept in hearing of the Law.

51 Go therefore and eat the fat meates, & drinke the swete dringes, and send presents to them that haue not.

52 For this day is holie to the Lord, and be not sorie: for the Lord God wil glorifie you.

53 So the Leuites commanded all these things to the people, saying, This day is holie to the Lord: be not sad.

54 Then they departed all to eat, and drinke, and to reioyce, and to giue presents to the that had not, and to make good chere.

14 * I gaue you light in a pillar of fyre, and great wonders haue I done amōg you: yet haue ye forgotten me, saith the Lord. ^{Exo. 13. 21.}

15 Thus saith y^e Almightye Lord, The quailes were a tokē vnto you: I gaue you tentes for sauegarde, wherein ye murmured: ^{Exod 16. 13. psal. 104. 40.}

16 And ye triumphed not in my Name for the destruction of your enemies, but ye yet murmure stil.

17 Where are the benefites, that I haue done for you? when ye were hungrie in the wilderness, * did ye not crye vnto me? ^{Nomb. 14. 30.}

18 Saying, Why hast thou broght vs into Eccc.iii.

this wildernes to kill vs: It had bene better for vs to haue serued the Egyptians, then to dye in this wildernes.

19 I had pitie vpon your mournings, and gaue you Manna to eat: so ye did eat Angels fode.

20 *When ye were thirtie, did not I cleaue the stone, & waters did flowe out to satisfie you: from the heat I couered you with the leaues of the trees, 21 And I gaue you fat countreis: I cast out the Cananites, & Pherefites, & Philistims before you: what shal I do more for you, saith the Lord?

22 Thus saith the almightie Lord, *When ye were in the wildernes at the bitter waters, being a thirst, and blaspheming my Name, 23 I gaue you not fyre for the blasphemies, but cast a tre into the water, and made the riuer swete.

24 What shal I do vnto thee, o Iacob: thou *Iuda woldest not obey: I wil turne me to other nations, and vnto those wil I giue my Name, that they may kepe my lawes.

25 Seing ye haue forsaken me, I wil also forsake you: when ye aske mercie of me, I wil not haue pitie vpon you.

26 *When ye call vpon me, I wil not heare you: for ye haue defiled your hands with blood, and your fete are swift to commit murther, 27 Although ye haue not forsaken me, but your owne selues, saith the Lord.

28 Thus saith the almightie Lord, Haue I not prayed you, as a father his sonnes, and as a mother her daughters, and as a nurse her yong babes, 29 That ye wolde be my people, as I am your God, and that ye wolde be my children, as I am your father?

30 *I gathered you together as an henne gathereth her chickens vnder her wings: but now what shal I do vnto you? I wil cast you out from my sight.

31 *Whē you bring gifts vnto me, I wil turne my face from you for your solēne feast dayes: your new moones, & your circumcisions haue I forsaken.

32 I sent vnto you my seruants the Prophetes, whome ye haue taken and slaine, and torne their bodies in pieces, whose blood I wil reuenge, saith the Lord.

33 Thus saith the almightie Lord, Your house shal be desolate: I wil cast you out as the winde doeth the stubble.

34 Your children shal not haue generaciō: for they haue despised my commandemēt, & done the thing that I hate before me.

35 Your houses wil I giue vnto a people so come, who shal beleue me though they heare me not, and they, vnto whome I neuer shewed miracle, shal do the things that I command them.

36 Though they se no Prophetes, yet shal they hate their iniquities.

37 ¶ I wil declare the grace that I wil do for the people to come, whose children reioyce in gladnes, and though they haue not seene me with bodelie eyes, yet in heart they beleue the things that I say.

38 Now therefore brother, beholde what great glorie, and se the people that come from the East.

39 Vnto whome I wil giue for leaders Abraham, Isahac, Iacob, Oseas, Amos, Micheas, Ioel, Abdias, Ionas, 40 Naum, Habacuc, Sophonias, Aggeus, Zacharias, and Malachias (which is called also the *messenger of the Lord)

Malach 3,1.

CHAP. II.

*The Synagogue findeth faute wth her owne children.
18 The Gentiles are called.*

1 Thus saith the Lord, I broght this people out of bondage: I gaue them also my commandements by my seruants the Prophetes, whome they wolde not heare, but despised my counsels.

2 The mother that bare them, saith vnto them, Go you away, o children: for I am a widdowe and forsaken.

3 I broght you vp with gladnes, but with sorowe and heauines haue I lost you: for ye haue sinned against the Lord your God, and done the thing that displeaseth him.

4 But what shal I now do vnto you? I am a widdowe and forsaken: go ye, o my children, and aske mercie of the Lord.

5 And thee, o father, I call for a witnes for the mother of these children, which wolde not kepe my couenant,

6 That thou bring them to confusion, and their mother to a spoile, that their kinred be not continued.

7 Let their names be scatered among the heathen: let them be put out of the earth, for they haue despised my couenant.

8 Wo vnto thee, Assur: for thou hidest the vnrighteous in thee: o wicked people, remember * what I did vnto Sodom and Gomorra, Gen 19,24.

9 Whose lād is mixt with cloudes of pitch and heapes of ashes: so wil I do vnto the, that heare me not, saith the almightie Lord.

10 ¶ Thus saith the Lord vnto Esdras, Tel my people, that I wil giue them the kingdom of Ierusalem, which I wolde haue giuen vnto Israel.

11 And I wil get me glorie by them, and giue the the euerlasting tabernacles, which I had prepared for those.

12 They shal haue at wil the tre of life, smelling of ointement: they shal nether labour nor be weary.

13 Go ye, & ye shal receaue it: pray that the time, time, which is long, may be shortened: the kingdome is already prepared for you: watche.

- 14 Take heauen and earth to witnes: for I haue abolished the euil, and created the good: for I liue, saith the Lord.
- 15 Mother, embrace thy children, and bring them vp with gladnes: make their fete as fait as a pillar: for I haue chosē thee, saith the Lord.
- 16 And those that be dead, wil I raise vp from their places, and bring them out of the graues: for I haue knowen my Name in Israel.
- 17 Feare not, thou mother of the children: for I haue chosē thee, saith the Lord.
- 18 I wil send thee my seruants Esau and Iremie to helpe thee, by whose counsel I haue sanctified & prepared for thee twelue trees laden with diuers frutes,
- 19 And as many fountaines, flowing with milke and hony, and seuen mightie mountaines, whereupon there growe roses and lilies, whereby I wil fil thy children with ioye.
- 20 Execute iustice for the widdowe: iudge the cause of the fatherles: giue to the poore: defende the fatherles: clothe the naked.
- 21 Heale the wounded, and sicke: laugh not a lame man to scorne: defend the crepel, and let the blinde come into the light of my clerenes.
- 22 Kepe the olde & the yong that are within thy wailles.
- 23 *Wherefoeuer thou findest the dead, take them and burye them, and I wil giue thee the first place in my resurrection.
- 24 Abide still, o my people, and rest: for thy quietnes shal come.
- 25 Nourish thy childré, o thou good nurse: stablish their fete.
- 26 None of the seruants that I haue giuen thee, shal perish: for I wil seke them from among thy number.
- 27 Be not weary: for when the day of trouble and heauines commeth, other shal wepe and be soroweful, but thou shalt be merry and haue abundance.
- 28 The heathen shal enuie thee, and shal do nothing against thee, saith the Lord.
- 29 Mine hands shal couer thee, so that thy children shal not se hell.
- 30 Be ioyful, o thou mother, with thy children: for I wil deliuer thee, saith the Lord.
- 31 Remember thy children that slepe: for I wil bring the out of the sides of the earth, and wil shewe mercie vnto them: for I am merciful, saith the Lord almightie.
- 32 Embrace thy children, vntil I come and shewe mercie vnto the: for my fountaines runne ouer, and my grace shal not faile.
- 33 I Esdras receiued a charge of the Lord

Tob. 1, 20.

vpō the mount Horeb, that I shulde go vnto them of Israel, but when I came to them, they cast me of, and despised the commandment of the Lord.

- 34 And therefore I say vnto you, o ye heathen, that heare and vnderstand, Wait for your shepherd, who shal giue you euerlasting rest: for he is nere at hand, that shal come in the end of the worlde.
- 35 Be ready to the rewarde of the kingdome: for the euerlasting light shal shine vpō you for euermore.
- 36 Fic the shadowe of this worlde: receiue y ioye of your glorie: I testifie my Sauiour openly.
- 37 Receiue the gift that is giuen you, and be glad, giuing thankes vnto him, that hath called you to the heauenlic kingdome.
- 38 Arise, and stand vp, and beholde the nōber of those that are sealed for the feast of the Lord,
- 39 Which are departed from the shadowe of the worlde, and haue receiued glorious garments of the Lord.
- 40 Take thy number, o Sion, and shut vp them that are clothed in white, which haue fulfilled the Law of the Lord.
- 41 The nōber of thy children whome thou longest for, is fulfilled: beseche y power of the Lord, that thy people which haue bene called si o the beginning, may be sanctified.
- 42 *I Esdras sawe vpō mount Sion a great people whome I colde not number, and they all praised the Lord with songs. Reuel. 7, 9.
- 43 And in the middes of them there was a yong man hie in stature then them all, & vpō euerie one of their heads he set crownes, and was hie then the others, which I muche maruelled at.
- 44 So I asked the Angel, and said, Who are these, my lord?
- 45 Who answered, and said vnto me, These be they, that haue put of the mortal clothing, and haue put on the immortal, and haue cōfessed the Name of God: now are they crowned, and receiue the palmes.
- 46 Then said I vnto y Angel, What yong man is it, that setteth crownes on them, & giueth them the palmes in their hands.
- 47 And he answered, & said vnto me, It is the sonne of God, whome they haue confessed in the worlde. Then began I greatly to commend them, that had stand so strongly for the Name of the Lord.
- 48 Then the Angel said vnto me, Go thy way, and tel my people, what, and how great wonders of the Lord God thou hast sene.

CHAP. III.

The wonderful workes, which God did for the people, are recited. 31 Esdras maruelleth that God suffereth the Babylonians to haue rule ouer his people, & his seruants also.

- 1 IN the thirtieth yere after the fall of the citie, as I was at Babylon, I lay troubled vpon my bed, and my thoughts came vp to mine heart,
- 2 Because I sawe the desolacion of Sion, & the wealth of them that dwelt at Babylon.
- 3 So my spirit was sore moued, so that I beganne to speake fearful wordes to the most High, and said,
- 4 O Lord, Lord, thou spakest at the beginning when thou alone plantedst the earth, and gauest cōmandemēt vnto the people,
- Gen 2,7.* 5 *And a bodie vnto Adam, without soule, who was also the workmanship of thine hands, and hast breathed in him the breth of life, so that he liued before thee,
- 6 And leddest him into Paradise, which thy right hand had planted, or euer the earth brought forth.
- or, went forward.* 7 Euen then thou gauest him commandement to loue thy way but he transgressed it, and immediatly thou appointedst death to him and his generacion, of whome came nacions, tribes, people and kinreds out of number.
- Gen 6,12.* 8 *And euerie people walked after their owne wil, and did wonderful things before thee, and despised thy commandements.
- Gen 7,10.* 9 *But at ȳ time appointed thou broughtest the flood vpon those ȳ dwelt in the worlde and destroyedst them,
- 10 So that by the flood, that came to euerie one of them, which came by death vnto Adam,
- 1. Pet. 3,20.* 11 Yet thou ledest one, euen *Noe, with his houfholde, of whome came all righteous men.
- 12 And when they that dwelt vpon ȳ earth, began to multiplie, and the number of the children, people and many nacions were increased, they began to be more vngodlie then the first.
- Gen 12,1.* 13 Now when they liued wickedly before thee, *thou didest chose thee a man from among them, whose name was *Abraham.
- Gen 17,5.* 14 Whome thou louedst, and vnto whome onely thou shewedst thy wil,
- 15 And madest an euerlasting couenāt with him, promising him that thou woldest neuer forsake his sede.
- Gen 21,2.* 16 *And vnto him thou gauest Isahac, *vnto Isahac also thou gauest Iacob and Esau,
- Gen 25,25.* *and didest chose Iacob, and cast of Esau, and so Iacob became a great multitude.
- Malac. 1,1.* 17 And whē thou leddest his sede out of Egypt, *ȳ broughtest the vp to mount Sina,
- rom. 9,13.* 18 And enclinedst the heauens and bowedst downe the earth, and didest moue the grounde, and cause the depths to shake, and didest astonish the worlde.
- Exod. 19,2.* 19 And thy glorie went thorowe foure gates of fyre, with earthquakes, winde and
- colde, that thou mightest giue the Lawe vnto the sede of Iacob, and that which the generacion of Israel shulde diligently obserue.
- 20 Yet tokest thou not away from them the wicked heart, that thy Law might bring forthe frute in them.
- 21 For * Adam first hauing a wicked heart, Gen 3,6. was ouercome and vanquished, & all they that are borne of him.
- 22 Thus remained weakenes ioyned with the lawe in the hearts of the people, with the wickednes of the roote: so that the good departed away, & the euil abode stil.
- 23 So the times passed away, and the yeres were brought to an end, *til thou didest raise thee vp a seruant called Dauid, 1 Sam. 16,13.
- 24 *Whome thou commandedst to buyld a citie vnto thy Name, to call vpon thee therein with incense and sacrifice. 2 Sam. 5,1.
- 25 Whē this was done many yeres, the inhabitants forsoke thee,
- 26 Following the waies of A lam and all his generacion: for they also had a wicked heart.
- 27 Therefore thou gauest thy citie ouer into the hands of thine enemies.
- 28 But do they that dwell at Babylon, any better, that they shulde haue the dominio of Sion?
- 29 For when I came thether, and sawe their wicked dedes without number (for this is the thirtieth yere that I se many trespassing) I was discouraged.
- 30 For I sawe, how thou sufferedst them that sinne, and sparedst the wicked doers, where as thou hast destroyed thine owne people, and preferred thine enemies, and thou hast not shewed it.
- 31 I can not perceiue how this commeth to passe. Are the dedes of Babylon better then they of Sion?
- 32 Or is there any other people ȳ knoweth thee besides Israel? or what generacion hathe so beleued thy Testimonies, as Iacob?
- 33 And yet their rewarde appeareth not, and their labour hathe no frute: for I haue gone here & there thorow out the heathē, and I se them flourish, and thinke not vpon thy commandements.
- 34 Weigh ȳ therefore our wickednes now in the balance, and theirs also that dwell in the worlde, and no mention of thee shal be founde but in Israel.
- 35 Or when is it that they that dwell on the earth, haue not sinned in thy sight? or what people hathe so kept thy commandements?
- 36 Thou shalt surely finde that Israel by name hathe kept thy precepts, but not the heathen.

CHAP. IIII.

2 The Angel reproveth Eſdras, because he ſemed to entre into the profounde iudgements of God.

1 And the Angel that was ſent vnto me, whoſe name was Vniel, answered,

2 And ſaid, Thine heart hath taken to much vpon it in this worlde, and thou thinkeſt to comprehend the waies of the Hieſt.

3 The ſaid I, Yea, my lord. And he answered me, and ſaid, I am ſent to ſhewe thee thre waies, and to ſet forth the thre ſimilitudes before thee,

4 Whereof if thou canſt declare me one, I wil ſhewe thee alſo the way, that thou deſireſt to ſe, and I wil ſhewe thee from whence the wicked heart cometh.

5 And I ſaid, Tell on, my lord. Then ſaid he vnto me, Go thy way: weigh me the weight of the fyre, or meaſure me y^e blaſt of the winde, or call me againe the daye that is paſt.

6 Then answered I, and ſaid, What man is borne, that can do that, which thou requireſt me, concerning theſe things?

7 And he ſaid vnto me, If I ſhulde aſke thee how deepe dwellings are in the middes of the ſea, or how great ſprings are in the beginning of the depth, or how great ſprings are in the ſtretching out of the heauen, or which are the borders of Paradiſe,

8 Peradventure thou wouldeſt ſay vnto me, I neuer went downe to the deepe, nor yet to the hell, nether did I euer clime vp to heauen.

9 But now haue I aſked thee but of fyre & winde, and of the day, whereby thou haſt paſſed, and from the which things thou canſt not be ſeparated, and yet canſt thou giue me none answer of them.

10 He ſaid moreouer vnto me, Thine owne things, and ſuche as are growen vp with thee, canſt thou not knowe:

11 How ſhulde thy veſſel then be able to comprehend the wayes of the Hieſt, and now outwardly in the corrupt worlde, to vnderſtand the corruption, that is euident in my ſight?

12 Then ſaid I vnto him, It were better that we were not at all, the^e that we ſhulde liue in wickednes, and to ſuffer, and not to knowe wherefore.

Iudg 9. 8. 24. 170. 25. 18. 13 And he answered me, & ſaid, * I came to a foreſt in the plaine where the trees helde a counſel, 14 And ſaid, Come, let vs go fight againſt the ſea, that it may giue place to vs, and that we may make vs more woods.

15 Likewise the floods of the ſea toke counſel and ſaid, Come, let vs go vp and fight againſt the trees of the wood, that we may get another countrey for vs.

16 But the purpoſe of the wood was vaine: for the fyre came and conſumed it.

17 Likewise alſo the purpoſe of the floods of the ſea: for the ſand ſtode vp and ſtopped them.

18 If thou were iudge betwene theſe two, whome wouldeſt thou iuſtifie, or whome wouldeſt thou condemne?

19 I answered and ſaid, Verely it is a fooliſh purpoſe, that thei bothe haue deuifed: for the grounde is appointed for y^e wood, and the ſea hath his place to beare his floods.

20 Then answered he me, and ſaid, Thou haſt giuen a right iudgement: but why iudgeſt thou not thy ſelf alſo?

21 For like as the grounde is appointed for the wood, and the ſea for his floods, ſo * they that dwell vpon earth, can vnderſtand nothing, but that which is vpon earth: & they that are in the heauens, the things that are about the height of the heauens. Iſa 55. 8. Iohn 3. 32. 1. Cor. 2. 13.

22 Then answered I, & ſaid, I beſeeche thee, o Lord, let vnderſtanding be giuen me.

23 For I did not purpoſe to inquire of thine hid things, but of ſuche as we dailey meddle with all, namely wherefore Iſrael is made a reſproche to the heathen, and for what cauſe the people, whome thou haſt loued, is giuen ouer to wicked nations, and why the Law of our fathers is aboliſhed, and the writen ceremonies are come to none effect, 24 Why we are toſſed to and fro through the worlde as the greeſhoppers, and our life is a very feare, and we are not thought worthe to obtaine mercie.

25 But what wil he do to his Name, which is called vpon ouer vs? Of theſe things haue I aſked the queſtion.

26 Then answered he me, and ſaid, The more thou ſearcheth, the more thou ſhalt maruel: for the worlde haſteth faſt to paſſe away, 27 And can not comprehend the things, that are promiſed to the righteous in time to come: for this worlde is full of vnrighteouſnes and weakenes.

28 But to declare thee the things whereof thou aſkeſt, the euil is ſowen, but the deſtruction thereof is not yet come.

29 If the euil now that is ſowen, be not turned vp ſide downe, and if the place where the euil is ſowen, paſſe not away, then can not the thing come, that is ſowen w^o good.

30 For the corne of euil ſede hath bene ſowen in the heart of Adam from the beginning, & how muche vngodlines hath he brought vp vnto this time? & how much ſhal he bring forth vntil the harueſt come?

31 Pondere with thy ſelf, how muche frute of wickednes the coine of euil sede bringeth forthe,

32 And when the stalkes shalbe cut downe, which are without number, how great an haruest must be prepared.
33 Then I answered, and said, How, & when shal these things come to passe? wherefo-re are our yerres fewe and euil?
34 And he answered me, saying, Hastenot to be aboute y^e mo^uste High: for thou laborest in vaine to be aboute him, though thou indeuor neuer so muche.
35 Did not the soules also of the righteous aske question of these things in their chabers, saying, How long shal I thus hope? & when cometh the frute of my baine and our wages?
36 And vpon this Ieremiel the Archangel answered, and said, When the number of y^e sedes is filled in you: for he hathe weighed the worlde in the balance.
37 The measure of the times is measured:
the ages are counted by number, and they shal not be moued or shaken, til the measure thereof be fulfilled.
38 Then answered I, & said, O lord, lord, we are all euen full of sinne, 39 And for our sake parauenture the haruest of y^e righteous is not fulfilled, because of the sinne of them that dwell vpon earth.
40 So he answered me, and said, Go, & aske a woman with childe, when she hathe fulfilled her nine moneths, if her wombe may kepe the birth anie longer within her.
41 Then said I, No, lord, she can not. And he said vnto me, In the graue the places of soules are like the wombe.
42 For as she that is with childe, hasteth to escape the necessitie of the trauail, so do these places hast to deliuer those thigs that are committed vnto them.
43 That which thou desirest to se, shalbe shewed thee from the beginning.
44 Then answered I, and said, If I haue founde grace in thy sight, and if it be possible, and if I be mete therefore, 45 Shewe me whether there be more to come then is past, or more things past, then are to come.
46 What is past, I knowe, but what is to come, I knowe not.
47 And he said vnto me, Stand on the right side, and I wil expounde thee this by example.
48 So I stode, and beholde, a whote burning ouen passed before me: and when the flame was gone by, I loked, & beholde, the smoke had the vpper hand.
49 After this there passed before me a waterrie cloude, and sent downe muche raine with a storme: and when the stormie raine was past, the droppes came after.
50 Then said he vnto me, Consider with thy self, as the raine is more the^e the droppes, and as fyre exceedeth the smoke, so the porcion that is past, hathe the vpper had,

& the droppes and the smoke were muche.
51 Then I prayed, & said, Maie I liue, thinkest thou vntil that time? or what shal come to passe in those daies?
52 He answered me, and said, Of the tokens whereof thou askest me, I can tell thee a parte: but I am not sent to shewe thee of thy life: for I do not knowe it.

CHAP. V.

1 In the latter times truth shalbe hid 6 Vnrightheousnes & all wickednes shal reigne in the worlde. 23 Israel is rescued, and God deliuereth the 31 God doeth all thing in season

1 NEuertheles concerning the tokens, beholde, the times shal come, that they which dwell vpon earth, shalbe taken in a great nober, & the way of the truth shalbe hid & y^e land shalbe baren fro^e faith, 2 And* iniquitie shalbe increased more the^e Mat 24, 12 thou hast sene now, or hast heard in time past.
3 And it shal come to passe, that one shal set in fote, and thou shalt se the land defo-late, which now reigneth.
4 Yea, if God gr^{at}e thee to liue, thou shalt se after the third trumpet, that the sunne shal suddenly shine againe in the night, &
the moone thre times a day.
5 Blood shal drop out of the wood, and the stone shal giue his voyce, and the people shalbe moued.
6 And he shal rule, of whome they hope not that dwell vpon earth, and the foules shal change place.
7 And the sea of Sodom shal cast out fish, and make a noyse in the night, which many shal not knowe, but they shal all heare the voyce thereof.
8 There shalbe a confusion in many places, and the fyre shal oft breake forthe, & the wilde beasts shal change their places, and menstruous women shal beare monstres, 9 And salt waters shalbe founde in the swe-te, & all friēds shal fight one against another: then shal wit hide it self, and vnder-standing departe into his secret chamber.
10 It shalbe fought of many, and yet not be founde: then shal vnrighteousnes and voluptuousnes haue y^e vpper hand vpon earth.
11 One land also shal aske another, & say,
Is righteous iustice gone thorowe thee?
And it shal say, No.
12 At the same time shal men hope, but not obtaine: they shal labour, but their enterprises shal not prosper.
13 To shewe thee suche tokē I haue leaue, and if thou wilt praie againe and wepe as now, and fast seuen daies, thou shalt heare yet greater things then these.
14 ¶ Then I awaked, and a fearefulnes went thorow

- thorow all my bodie, and my minde was feble and fainted.
- 15 But the Angel that was come to talke with me, helde me, comforted me, and set me vp vpon my seie.
- 16 And in the seconde night, Salathiel the captaine of the people came vnto me, saying, Where hast thou bene? and why is thy countenance so heaui?
- 17 Knowest thou not that Israel is committed vnto thee in the land of their captiuitie?
- 18 Vp then and eat, & forsake vs not, as the shepherd that leaueth his flocke in y hands of the cruel wolues.
- 19 Then said I vnto him, Go thy waies fro me, and come not nere me: and when he heard it, he went from me.
- 20 And I fasted seuen daies, mourning and weping, as Vriël the Angel had commanded me.
- 21 And after seuen daies the thoughts of mine heart were very grieuous vnto me againe.
- 22 And I had a desire to reason againe, and I beganne to talke with the moste High againe,
- 23 And said, O Lord, Lord: of euerie forest of the earth, and of all the trees thereof thou hast chosen thee one onely vineyarde.
- 24 And of all lands of the worlde thou hast chosen thee one pit, & of all the flours of the grounde thou hast chosen thee one lillie.
- 25 And of all y depths of the sea thou hast filled thee one riuer, and of all buylded cities thou hast sanctified Sion vnto thy self.
- 26 And of all the foules that are created, thou hast named thee one doue, and of all the cattel that are made, thou hast appointed thee one shepe.
- 27 And among all the multitude of people thou hast gotten thee one people, and vnto this people whome thou louedst, thou gauest a Law, that is proued of all.
- 28 And now, O Lord, why hast thou giuen this one people ouer vnto many? and vpon one roote thou hast set others, & hast scattered thine onelie people among many.
- 29 They treade them downe, which haue withstand thy promises, and beleue not thy testimonies.
- 30 And if thou didst somuche hate thy people, they shulde haue bene punished with thine owne hands.
- 31 ¶ Now when I had spoken these wordes, y Angel that came to me the night afore, was sent vnto me,
- 32 And said vnto me, Heare me, and I wil teache thee, & hearkē that I may instruct thee further.
- 33 And I said, Speake on, my lord. Then said he vnto me, Thou art fore vexed and troubled for Israels sake. Louest thou the better, then he doeth that made them?
- 34 And I said, No, lord: but of very sorow haue I spokē: for my raines paine me euerie houre, while I labour to comprehend the way of the moste High, & to seke out parte of his iudgement.
- 35 And he said vnto me, Thou canst not. And I said, Wherefore, lord, wherefore was I borne? or why was not my mothers wombe then my graue? so had I not sene the trouble of Iacob, and the grief of the stocke of Israel.
- 36 And he said vnto me, Number vnto me the things that are not yet come, or gather me the droppes, that are scared, or make me the withered floures grene againe.
- 37 Open me the places that are closed, and bring me foithe the windes, that are shut vp therein: shewe me the image of a voyce, and then wil I declare thee the thing, that thou askest and laborest to knowe.
- 38 And I said, O Lord, Lord, who cā knowe these things, but he that hathe not his dwelling with men?
- 39 But I that am ignorant, how can I speake of these things, whereof thou askest me?
- 40 Then said he vnto me, Like as thou canst do none of these things, that I haue spoken of, so canst thou not finde out my iudgement, nor the least benefite, that I haue promised vnto my people.
- 41 Then I said, Beholde, O Lord, the last things are present vnto thee, and what shal they do that haue bene before me, or we that be now, or they that shal come after vs?
- 42 And he said vnto me, I wil compare my iudgemēt vnto a ring: as there is no slacknes of the last, so is there no swiftnes of the first.
- 43 Then I answered, and said, Coldest thou not make at once those y haue bene, those that are now, & those that shal come, that thou mightest shewe thy iudgement the soner?
- 44 The answered he me, The creature, said he, can not preuent the Creator, nether can the worlde holde them at once, that shaibe created therein.
- 45 And I said, As thou hast taught thy seruant, that thou, which gapest strength to all, hast giuen life at once to all the worke created by thee, and hast sustained it, so might it now also containe all men at once.
- 46 And he said vnto me, Aske the wombe of a woman, and say vnto her, Why must thou haue time before thou bringest forth: require her to bring forth the ten at once.

- 47 And I said, Surely the can not, but by distance of time.
- 48 Then said he vnto me, So haue I deuided the number of the earth by times when fende is sown vpon it.
- 49 For as a yong child begetteth not that that belongeth to the aged, so haue I ordeined the time which I haue created.
- 50 ¶ I asked againe, and said, Seing thou hast now shewed me y way, I wil procede to speake before thee: for our mother, whome thou hast tolde me is yong, draweth she nere vnto age?
- 51 He answered me, and said, Aske a woman that traueileth, and she wil teil thee.
- 52 Say vnto her, Wherefore are not they (whome thou hast now broght for the) like those that were before thee, but lesse of stature?
- 53 And she shal answer thee, Some were borne in y floure of youth, others were borne in the time of age, when the wombe failed.
- 54 Consider now thy self, how that ye are lesse of stature, then those that were before you,
- 55 And so are they that come after you, lesse then ye, as the creatures which now beginne to be olde, and haue passed ouer the strength of youth.
- 56 Then said I, Lord, I beseeche thee, if I haue founde fauour in thy sight, shewe thy seruant, by whome doest thou gouerne thy workemanship?

CHAP. VI.

*God hath foreseene all things in his secret counsel, and is autor thereof, and hath created them for his childre.
25 The felicitie of the age to come.*

- 1 AND he said vnto me, In the beginning when the rounde worlde was made, and before the borders of the worlde were set, and before the windes blew one against another:
- 2 Before the noyce of thundres sounded, before the bright lightenig did shine forth, before the fundacions of Paradise were laide:
- 3 Before the faire floures did appeare, before the moueable powers were stablished, before the innumerable armies of Angels were gathered:
- 4 Before the heights of the aire were lifted vp, before y measures of the heavens were named, before the chimneis in Sion were hote:
- 5 Before the present yeres were sought out, and before the afflictions of them that now sinne, were turned away, and they that haue laid vp the treasure of faith, were sealed,
- 6 Then did I purpose these things, & they were made by me alone, and by none other: by me also they shalbe ended, and by none other.
- 7 Then answered I, and said, What shalbe the diuision of times? or when shalbe the end of the first, and the beginning of it that followeth?
- 8 And he said vnto me, From Abraham vnto Isaac, when Iacob and Esau were borne of him, * Iacobs hand helde first the heale of Esau. Gen 25, 26.
- 9 For Esau is the end of this worlde, and Iacob is the beginning of it that followeth.
- 10 The hand of man is betwixt the heale and the hand. Other thing, Esdras, aske thou not.
- 11 ¶ I answered the, & said, O Lord, Lord, if I haue founde fauour in thy sight,
- 12 I beseeche thee, make an end to shewe thy seruant thy tokens, whereof thou shewedst me parte the last night.
- 13 So he answered me, and said, Stand vp vpon thy fete, and heare a mightie sounding voyce.
- 14 There shal come as an earthquake, but the place where thou standest, shal not be moued.
- 15 And therefore when he speaketh, be not afraied: for of the end shal be the worde, & of the fundacion of the earth shal it be vnderstand.
- 16 Therefore while one speaketh of the, it trembleth and is moued: for it knoweth, that it must be changed at the end.
- 17 And when I had heard it, I stode vp vpon my fete, and hearkened, and beholde, there was a voyce that spake, and the founde of it was like the founde of many waters:
- 18 And it said, Beholde, the daies come, that I wil come & inquire of them that dwell vpon the earth,
- 19 And when I beginne to inquire of them, who by their vnrighteousnes haue hurt others, and when the affliction of Sion shal be fulfilled,
- 20 And the worlde, that shal vanish away, shalbe sealed; the wil I shewe these signes: the bokes shalbe opened before the heauen, and they shal se all it together.
- 21 And the children of a yere olde shal speake with their voyces: the womē with child shal bring forth the vntimelie childre of thre or foure moneths olde, and they shal liue that are raised vp.
- 22 Then suddēly shal the sownen places appeare as the vnsowne, & the full store houses shal suddenly be founde emptye.
- 23 And the trumpet shal founde, and all they that heare it, shalbe suddenly afraied.
- 24 At that time shal friends fight with friends, as with enemies, and the earth shal feare with them: the springs of the welles shal stand still, & in thie houres they shal not renne.
- 25 Whosoever remaineth from all these things

- things that I haue tolde thee, shal be saued & se my saluacion, & the end of your worlde.
- 26 And the men that are receiued, shal se it:
they that haue not tasted death from their birth, and the heart of the inhabitants shal be changed, and turned to another meaning.
- 27 For euil shal be put out, and disceate shal be quenched,
- 28 But faith shal flourish: corruption shal be ouercome, and the trueth which hathe bene so long without frute, shal come forth.
- 29 ¶ And when he talked with me, beholde,
I loked a litle vpon him before whome I stode.
- 30 And these wordes said he vnto me, I am come to shewe thee the time of the night to come.
- 31 If thou wilt pray againe, and fast seuen daies more, I wil tel thee more things, & greater then these, which I haue heard in the day.
- 32 For thy voyce is heard before y^e Highest:
surely y^e mightie hathe sene thy righteous dealing: he hath sene also thy chastitie, which thou hast kept since thy youth.
- 33 Therefore hathe he sent me to shewe thee all these things, and to say vnto thee, Be of good comfort, and feare not,
- 34 And haste not in the vaine consideration of the first times, nor make haste to the latter times.
- 35 And after this I wepte againe and fast-ed seuen daies in like maner, that I might fulfil the thre weekes, which he had appointed me.
- 36 And in the eight night was mine heart vexed within me againe, and I began to speake before the moste High.
- 37 For my spirit was greatly set on fyre, &
my soule was in distresse,
- 38 And I said, o Lord, thou spakest expressly in the first creation (euen the first day) and commandedst* that the heauen and the earth shulde be made, and the worke followed thy worde.
- 39 And then was there the spirit, and the darknes was on euerie side with silence:
there was no mans voyce as yet created of thee.
- 40 Then commandedst thou a bright light to come forth out of thy treasures, that it might giue light to thy worke.
- 41 Vpon the second day thou createdst the heauenlie ayre, and commandedst it, that, going betwene, it shulde make a diuision betwene the waters, that the one parte might remaine aboue, and the other beneath.
- 42 Vpon the third day thou commandedst, that y^e waters shulde be gathered together in the seuenth parte of y^e earth: six partes didest thou drye, & kept them to the intent that of these there shulde be that shulde serue thee, being sowed of God and tilled.
- 43 Assone as thy worde went forth, the worke was incontinently made.
- 44 For immediatly great and innumerable frute did spring vp, and manie diuerse pleasures for the taste, and floures of vnchangeable colour, and odours of a moste wonderful smel & these things were created the third day.
- 45 * Vpō the fourth day thou createdst the Gen 1, 4.
light of the sunne, and of the moone, and the order of the staries,
- 46 And gauest them a charge, to do* seruice Gen 1, 4.
euen vnto man that was for to be made. Ex 13
- 47 And vpon the fift day thou saidest vnto deu 4, 19.
the seuenth parte* where the waters were gathered, that it shulde brig forth the beafts, as foules and fishes: and it was so.
- 48 For the dome waters, and without life brought forth the liuing things at the commandement of God that the nations might praise thy wonderous workes.
- 49 Then didst thou prepare two liuing things: the one thou calledst Behemoth, & 101, Beasts
the other thou calledst Leuiathan,
- 50 And didest separate the one from the other: for the seuenth parte, where the water was gathered, colde not holde them.
- 51 Vnto Behemoth thou gauest one parte, which was dried vp the third day, that he shulde dwell in the same parte, wherein are a thousand hilles.
- 52 But vnto Leuiathan thou gauest y^e seuenth parte, that is wett, and hast prepared him to deuoure what thou wilt, and when thou wilt.
- 53 Vpon the sixt day thou gauest commandement vnto the earth, that before thee it shulde bring forth the beafts, catel and creeping things.
- 54 And besides this Adam, whome thou madest lord ouer all the workes which y^e hast created, of him come we all, and the people also, whome thou hast chof. n.
- 55 All this haue I spokē before thee, o Lord, because thou hast created the worlde for our sakes.
- 56 As for the other people, which also come of Adam, thou hast declared them that they are nothing before thee, but be like vnto spittle, and hast compared their riches vnto a drop that falleth from a vessel.
- 57 And now, o Lord, beholde these heathen which haue bene reputed as nothing, haue begonne to be lords ouer vs, and to deu-oure vs.
- 58 And we thy people (whome thou hast called the first borne, the onely begotten, and thy seruent louer) are giuen into their hands.
- 59 If the worlde then be created for our sakes, why haue we not the inheritaunce thereof in possession? or how long shal we suffer these things?

CHAP. VII.

1 Without tribulation none can come to felicitie. 12 God aduertiseth all in time. 28 The coming and death of Christ. 32 The resurrection and last iudgement. 43 After the which all corruption shal cease. 48 All fell in Adam. 59 The true life. 62 The mercies and goodnes of God.

1 AND when I had made an end of these wordes, there was sent vnto me an Angel, which had bene sent downe to me the nights afore.

2 And he said vnto me, Vp, Esdras, and heare the wordes that I am come to tell thee.

3 And I said, Speake on, my God. Then said he vnto me, The sea is set in a wyde place, that it might be deepe and great,

4 But presuppose that the entrance thereof were narrow, and like the riuers,

5 Who colde go into the sea to loke vpon it, and to rule it? If he went not thorow the narowe, how colde he come into the broade?

6 There is also another thing: a citie is buylded and set vpon a broade field, and is ful of all good things:

7 The entrance thereof is narrowe and in a dangerous place to fall, that there is fyre at the right hand, and a deepe water at the lefte,

8 And there is but one path betwixt them, euen betwene the fyre and the water, so that there colde but one man go there.

9 If this citie were giuen vnto a man for an inheritaunce, if he neuer went thorow the peril before it, how colde he receaue his inheritaunce?

10 And I said, It is so, Lord. Then said he, So is the portion of Israel.

11 Surely for their sakes haue I made the worlde: and when Adam transgressed my statutes, then came this thing to passe.

12 Then were the entrances of the worlde made narowe, full of sorowe and trauail: they are but fewe and euil, and full of perils, and very painefull.

13 For the entrances of the fore worlde were wyde and sure, and broght immortal frute.

14 If then they that are liuing, labour not to enter by these strait and brittle things, they can not attaine to those things that are hid.

15 Why then disquietest thou thy self, seing thou art corruptible? and why art thou moued, seing thou art mortal?

16 And why hast thou not considered in thy minde the things to come, rather then them that are present?

17 Then said I, O Lord, Lord, * seing thou hast ordeined in thy Law, that the righteous shulde inherite these things, and that the vngodlie shulde perish, 18 Shulde the righteous suffer straitnes in hoping for large things? yet they that haue liued vngodly and suffered straitnes, shal not see the large things.

19 Then he said vnto me, There is no iudge more iuste then God, and there is none more wise then the moste High.

20 For manie perish in this life, because they despise the Law of God that is appointed.

21 For God hathe diligently admonished suche as came, so oft as they came, what they shulde do to haue life, and what they shulde obserue, to auoid punishment.

22 Neuertheles, they were not obedient vnto him, but spake against him, and imagined vaine things, 23 And deceued them selues by their wicked dedes, & denied the power of the moste High, and regarded not his waies.

24 But they despised his Law, and refused his promises: they haue vntaithfully broken his ordinances, and haue not performed his workes.

25 And therefore, Esdras, vnto the emptie are emptie things, & to the full full things.

26 Beholde, the time shal come, that these tokens which I haue tolde thee, shal come to passe, and the bride shal appeare, and she shal come forth, and be sent that now is vnder the earth.

27 And whosoeuer shal escape these euils, he shal see my wonders.

28 For my sonne Iesus shal appeare with those that be with him, and they that remaine, shal reioyce within foure hundred yeres.

29 After these same yeres shal my sonne Christ dye, and all men that haue life, 30 And the worlde shalbe turned into the olde silence for seuen dayes, as in the fore iudgements, so that no man shal remaine.

31 But after seuen dayes, the worlde that is yet a slepe, shalbe raised vp: and that shal dye, that is corrupt.

32 Then the earth shal restore those, that haue slept in her, and so shal the dust those that dwell therein in silence, and the secret places shal deliuer the foules that were committed vnto them.

33 And the most High shal appeare vpon the seate of iudgement, and miseries shal vanish away, and long suffering shal haue an end.

34 Iustice onely shal continue: the truth shal remaine, and faith shal be strong.

35 The worke shal followe, and the rewarde shal be shewed: the good dedes shal be of force, and vnrightheousnes shal beare no more rule.

Then

- Gen. 12. 23. enod. 32. 3.* 36 Then said I, * Abraham prayed first for the Sodomites, and Moyses for the fathers that sinned in the wildeynes,
- 37 And they that came after him, for Israel in the time of Achaz, and Samuel,
- 2 Sam. 24. 17. 3 Chro 6. 14.* 38 And * Dautd for the destruction, * and Salomon for them that came into the Sanctuarie,
- 1 King 17. 21. 2 King 19. 25.* 39 * And Elias for those that receiued raine, and for the dead that he might liue,
- 40 And Ezechias for the people in the time of Sennacherib, and diuerse others for manie.
- 41 Euen so now, seing vice is increased, & wickednes abundeth, and the righteous haue prayed for the vngodlie, wherefore shal not the same effect followe also now?
- 42 Then he answered me, & said, This present life is not the end: oft times honou is retained in it: therefore haue they prayed for the weake.
- 43 But the day of iudgement shal be the end of this worlde, and the beginning of the immortalitie to come, wherein all corruption shal cease.
- 44 Intemperancie shal passe away: infidelitie shalbe cut of: righteousness shal growe vp, and the veritie shal spring vp.
- 45 The he shal no mā be able to saue him that is destroyed, nor oppresse him that hath gotten the victorie.
- 46 I answered then, and said, This is my first and last saying, that it had bene better not to haue giuen the earth vnto Adā, or when it was giuen him, to haue kept him that he shulde not haue sinned.
- 47 For what profit is it for men in this present life to be in heaunes, and after death to feare punishment?
- Rom. 1. 18.* 48 O Adam, what hast thou done? * for in that that thou hast sinned, thou art not fallen alone, but the fall also redundeth vnto vs that come of thee.
- 49 For what profit is it vnto vs, if there be promised an immortal life, when we do the workes that bring death?
- 50 And that an euerlasting hope shulde be promised vs, seing that we bitide our selues to deadlie vanitie?
- 51 And that there shulde be appointed vs dwellings of health and safetie, if we haue liued wickedly?
- 52 And that the glorie of the moste High shulde be kept to defende the which haue led a pacient life, if we haue walked in the wicked wayes?
- 53 And that an eternal Paradise shulde be shewed, whose frute remaineth incorruptible, wherein is safetie and health, if we wil not enter into it?
- 54 (For we haue bene conuersant in vnpleasant places)
- 55 And that the faces of them, which haue abstained, shulde shine more then starrs, if our faces be blacker then darckeness?
- 56 For while we liued, we did not remēber whē we did vnrighteously, that we shulde suffer after death.
- 57 Then answered he me, and said, This is the maner of the battel, which man, that is borne in the earth, shal fight,
- 58 That if he be ouercome, he shulde suffer as thou hast said: but if he get the victorie, he shulde receaue the thing that I said.
- 59 For this is the life, whereof Moyses spake vnto the people, while he liued, saying, * Chuse thee life that thou maist liue. Deu. 30. 19.
- 60 Neuertheles, they beleued him not, nether the Prophetes after him, nor me also which haue said vnto them,
- 61 That heaunes shulde not so be to their destruction, as toyce shulde come vnto the, to whom saluacion is persuaded.
- 62 I answered then and said, I know, Lord, that the moste High is called merciful, in that he hathe mercie vpo them, which are not yet come to that worlde,
- 63 And y he hathe pittie on those that walke in his Law,
- 64 And that * he is pacient: for he long sufferth those y haue sinned as his creatures, Rom. 2. 4.
- 65 And that he is liberal: for he wil giue as muche as nedeth,
- 66 And that he is of great mercie: for he ouercometh in mercie those that are present, and that are past, and them which are to come.
- 67 For if he were not abundant in his mercies, the worlde colde not continue, nor they that haue the possession thereof.
- 68 He pardoneth also: for if he gaue not of his goodnes that they, which haue done euil, might be relieved from their wickednes, the ten thousand parte of men shulde not remaine alie.
- 69 And if he, being iudge, forgave not those that be healed with his worde, and toke away the multitude of sinnes,
- 70 There shulde peraduenture be verie fewe left in an vnnumerable multitude.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The number of the godlie is smale 6 The workes of God are excellent 20 Esdras prayer for him and for his people. 39 The promes of saluation to the iuste. 55 The destruction of the vnjust.

1 AND he answered me, saying, The most High made this worlde for manie, but the worlde to come for fewe.

2 I wil tel thee a similitude, o Esdras. As whē thou askest the earth, it shal say vnto thee, that it giueth muche earthlie matter to make pottes, but litle dust that golde cometh of, so is it with the worke of this worlde.

Mat 20, 16. 3 *There be manie created, but fewe shalbe saued.
 4 Then answered I, and said, The swalowe vp the wit, ô my soule, and deuoure vnderstanding.
 5 For thou hast promised to heare, and thou wilt prophetic: for thou hast no longer space, but the life giuen thee.
 6 O Lord, if thou suffer not thy seruant, that we may intreat thee, that thou maist giue sêde vnto our heart, and prepare our vnderstanding, that there may come fruite of it, whereby euerie one which is corrupt, may liue, who cā set him self for mā.
 7 For thou art alone, and we all are one workmanship of thine hands, as thou hast said.
 8 For when the bodie is facioned now in the wombe, & thou hast giue it members, thy creature is preserued by fyre & water, and the worke, created by thee, doeth suffer nine moneths the creature, which is facioned in it.
 9 But the thing that containeth, and that which is cōteined, shal bothe be preserued, and when time is come, the wombe, being preserued, deliuereth ȳ things that growe in it.
 10 For thou hast commāded the members, eue the breasts, to giue milke vnto ȳ frute appointed to the breasts, 11 That the thing, which is created, may be nourished for a time, til thou disposest it to thy mercie.
 12 Thou bringest it vp with thy righteousnes, nuturest it in thy Law, & reformest it with thy iudgement.
 13 Thou slayest it as thy creature, & giuest it life as thy worke.
 14 Seeing then that thou destroyest him, which with so great labours is facioned, it is an easie thing to appoint by thy cōmādemēt, that the thing also which is made, might be preserued.
 15 Now therefore, ô Lord, I wil speake (as touching men in general thou shalt rather prouide) but concerning thy people, for whose sake I am sorie, 16 And for thine inheritāce for whose cause I mourne: for Israel, for whome I am woful, and for Iacob, for whose sake I am grieued.
 17 For them wil I pray before thee, as wel for my self, as for them: for I see our fautes that dwelt in the land.
 18 ¶ But I haue heard the sudden comming of the iudge, which is to come.
 19 Therefore heare my voyce, and vnderstand my wordes, which I wil speake before thee. The beginning of ȳ wordes of Esdras, before he was taken vp.
 20 O Lord, that liuest for euer, which beholdest from aboue that which is aboue, and in the ayre,

 21 Whose throne is incestimable, & his glorie incomprehensible, before whome the hoste of the Angels stand with trembling, 22 Whose keeping is turned in winde and fyre, whose worde is true, and sayings sted fast, whose commandement is strong, and gouernement terrible, 23 Whose loke driueth vp the dēprths, and wrath maketh ȳ mountaines to melt away as the thing beareth witness.
 24 Heare the prayer of thy seruant, and receiue into thine eares the petition of thy creature.
 25 For while I liue, I wil speake, and so long as I haue vnderstanding, I wil answer.
 26 Loke not vpon the sinnes of thy people, rather then thy faithful seruants.
 27 Haue not respect vnto the wicked dedes of men, rather then to them that haue thy testimonies in afflictions.
 28 Thinke not vpon those that haue walked fainedly before thee, but remember them that reuerence thy wil.
 29 Let it not be thy wil to destroye them, which haue liued like beasts, but loke vpon them that haue clearly taught thy Law.
 30 Take not displeasure with them, which appeare worse then beasts, but loue them, that alway put their trust in thy righteousnes and glorie.
 31 For we and our fathers haue all the same sickness: but because of vs that are sinners, thou shalt be called merciful.
 32 If therefore thou wilt haue mercie vpon vs, thou shalt be called merciful towards vs which haue no workes of righteousnes.
 33 For the righteous, which haue laid vp manie good workes, let them receiue the rewarde of their owne dedes.
 34 But what is man, that thou shuldest take displeasure at him? or what is this mortal generacion, that thou shuldest be so grieued towards it?
 35 *For verely there is no man among them that be borne, but he hath done wickedly, nor anye that doeth confesse thee, which hath not done amissē. 1. King 8. 45. 2 chro 6. 36.
 36 For in this, ô Lord, thy righteousnes and thy goodnes shalbe praised, if thou be merciful vnto them, which haue not the substance of good workes.
 37 ¶ Then answered he me, and said, Some things hast thou spoken aright, and according vnto thy wordes it shalbe.
 38 For I wil not verely consider the workes of them, before the death, before the iudgement, before destruction:
 39 But * I wil reioyce in the wayes of the Gen 4. righteous, and I wil remember the pilgrimage, the saluation and the rewarde that they shal haue.

- 40 Like as I haue spoken now, so shal it come to passe.
- 41 For as the housbād man soweth muche sēde vpon the grounde, & planteth many trees, & yet alway the thing that is sowed, cometh not vp in time, neither yet doeth all that is plāted, take roote: so neither shal thei all that are brought into the worlde, be sauēd.
- 42 I answered then & said, If I haue founde grace, let me speake.
- 43 Like as the housbandmans sēde perisheth, if it come not vp, and receiue not raine in due season, or if it be destroyed with to muche raine,
- 44 So perisheth man, which is created with thine hands, & thou art called his patern, because he is created to thine image, for whose sake thou hast made all things, and licked him vnto the housbandmans sēde.
- 45 Be not wroth with vs, o Lord, but spare thy people & haue mercie vpo thine inheritance: for thou wilt be merciful vnto thy creature.
- 46 Then answered he me, and said, The things present are for the present, and the things to come for suche as be to come.
- 47 For thou art farre of that thou shuldest loue my creature about me: but I haue oft times drawn nere vnto thee and vnto it, but neuer to the vnrighteous.
- 48 In this also thou art maruelous before the Highest,
- 49 In that thou hast humbled thy self, as it becometh thee, and hast not iudged thy self worthy to boast thy self greatly among the righteous.
- 50 For many miseries & calamities remaine for them that shal liue in the latter time, because thei shal walke in great pride.
- 51 But learne thou for thy self, and seke out the glorie for suche as be like thee.
- 52 For vnto you is paradise opened: the tre of life is planted: the time to come is prepared, plenteousnes made ready: the citie is buylded, and rest is prepared, perfitte goodnes and absolute wisdom.
- 53 The roote of euil is sealed vp from you: the weakenes and moth is destroyed from you, and into hell fleeth corruption to be forgotten.
- 54 Sorowes are vanished away, and in the end is shewed y treasure of immortalitie.
- 55 Therefore aske thou no more questions concerning the multitude of them that perish.
- 56 For when thei had libertie, thei despised the most High: they contemned his Law & forsoke his wayes.
- 57 Moreover, they haue troden downe his righteous,
- 58 *Saying in their heart, that there was no
- God, thogh they knewe that they shulde dye.
- 59 For as the thing that I haue spoken of, is made readie for you: so is thirst and peine prepared for them: for God wolde not that man shulde perish:
- 60 But they, after that they were created, haue defiled the Name of him that made them, & are vnthankful vnto him, which prepared life for them.
- 61 Therefore my iudgement is now at hād.
- 62 These things haue I not shewed vnto all men, but vnto thee, and to a fewe like thee: then I answered, and said,
- 63 Beholde now, o Lord: thou hast shewed me the many wonders, which thou art determined to do in y last time, but in what time, thou hast not shewed me.

CHAP. IX.

1 All things in this worlde haue a beginning and an end. 10 Torments for the wicked after this life. 15 The number of the wicked is more then of the good. 29 The Jewes ingratitude: 36 Therefore they perish. 38 The vision of a woman lamenting.

- 1 HE answered me then, & said, Measure the time with it self, & when thou seest that one parte of the tokens come to passe, which I haue tolde thee before,
- 2 Then shalt thou vnderstand, that it is the time wherein the moste High wil begin to visite the worlde which he made.
- 3 Therefore whē there shalbe sene an earthquake in the worlde, and an uproare of the people,
- 4 Thē shalt thou vnderstād that the moste High spake of those things, frō the daies that were before thee, euen from the beginning.
- 5 For as all that is made in the worlde, hath a beginning and an end, and the end is manifest,
- 6 So the times also of the moste High haue plaine beginnings in wonders and signes, and end in effect and miracles.
- 7 And euerie one that shal escape safe, & shalbe deliuered by his workes, and by the faith wherein ye haue beleued,
- 8 Shalbe preferred from the said perils and shal se my saluacion in my land, and within my borders: for I haue kept me holy frō the worlde.
- 9 Then shal they haue pitie of them selues, which now haue abused my wayes: & thei that haue cast them out dispitefully, shal dwell in peines.
- 10 For suche as in their life haue receiued benefites, and haue not knowen me,
- 11 But haue abhorred my Law, while they were yet in libertie, and when they had yet leasure of amendment, and wolde not vnderstand but despised it,
- 12 They must be taught it after death by peine.

13 And therefore be thou no more careful, to knowe how the vngodlie shalbe punished, but inquire how the righteous shalbe sauēd, and whose the worlde is, and for whome it is, and when.

14 Then answered I, and said,

15 I haue afore said that which I say now & wil speake it hereafter, that there be many mo of them which perish, then of thē that shalbe sauēd,

Chap. 9. 3.
mar. 20. 16.

16 As the flood is greater then a drop.

17 And he answered me, saying, As the field is, so is also the sede: as the floures be, so are the colours also: such as the workemā is, such is the worke: and as the hous bādman is, so is his hous bādrie: for it was the time of the worlde.

18 Surely whē I prepared the worlde, which was not yet made for thē to dwell in that now liue, no man spake against me.

19 For then euerie one obeyed, but now the maners of them that are created in this worlde, that is made, are corrupted by a perpetual sede, & by a Law, whereout they can not rid them selues.

20 So I considered the worlde, & beholde, there was peril, because of the deuises, that were sprung vp into it.

21 Yet when I sawe it, I spared it greatly, and haue kept me one grape of the cluster, and a plant out of a great people.

22 Let therefore y multitude perish, which are borne in vaine: and let my grape be kept, and my plant, which I haue dressed with great labour.

23 ¶ Neuertheles, if thou wilt cease seuen daies mo(but thou shalt not fast in them,

24 But shalt go into a faire field, where no house is buylded, & shalt eat onely of the floures of the field, and eat no flesh, nor drinke wine, but the floures onely, 25 And pray vnto y moste High continually) then wil I come, and talke with thee.

26 So I went my waye, as he had commanded me, into the field, which is called Ardath, & there I sate among the floures, & did eat of the herbes of the field, and the meat of the same satisfied me.

27 And after seuen dayes, as I sate vpo the grasse, and mine heart was vexed within me, as afore,

28 I opened my mouth, and began to talke before the moste High, and to say,

29 O Lord, when thou woldest shewe thy self vnto vs, * thou declaredst thy self vnto our fathers in the wildernes, in a place where no man dwelleth, in a baren place, when they came out of Egypt, 30 And expressely spakest vnto thē, saying, Hearē me, o Israel, and marke my wordes, thou sede of Iacob.

31 For beholde, I sawe my Law in you, that it may bring forthe frute in you, and that ye may be honored by it for euer.

32 But our fathers, which receiued the Law, kept it not, nether obserued thine ordinances, nether did the frute of the Law appeare, nether colde it, for it was thine.

33 *For they that receiued it, perished because they kept not the thing y was sown in them. Exod. 32. 28.

34 And lo, it is a custome when the grounde receiueth sede, or the sea a ship, or a vessel meat and drinke, if that perish wherein a thing is sowe, or wherein any thing is put,

35 Likewise the thing that is sown, or is put therein, and the things that are receiued, must perish: so the things that are receiued, do not remaine with vs: but in vs it cometh not so to passe.

36 For we that haue receiued the Law, perish in sinne, and our heart also which receiued it.

37 But the Law perisheth not, but remaineth in his force.

38 ¶ And when I spake these things in mine heart, I loked about me, & vpon the right side * I sawe a woman, which mourned sore, and lamented with a loude voyce, and was grieued in heart, and rent her clothes, and she had ashes vpon her head.

Chap. 10. 44.

39 Then I left my thoughts, wherein I was occupied, and turned me vnto her, 40 And said vnto her, wherefore wepest thou? why art thou so sory in minde?

41 And she said vnto me, Syr, let me alone, that I may bewaile my self, and increase sorowe: for I am sore vexed in my minde, and broght verie lowe.

42 Then I said vnto her, What aileth thee? tel me.

43 And she said vnto me, I thy seruant haue bene baren, & haue had no childe, haung an hous band thirtie yeres.

44 And euery houre, & euery day these thirtie yeres I pray to the moste High day & night.

45 And after thirtie yeres God heard me thine handmaid, & loked vpo my miserie, considered my trouble, & gaue me a sonne, & I was glad of him: so was mine hous bād also, and all they of my countrey, and we gaue great honour vnto the Almightye.

46 And I nourished him with great travail.

47 So when he grew vp, and came to take a wife, I made a feast.

CHAP. X

Esdras and the woman that appeareth vnto him, commune together.

1 BVt when my sonne went into his chamber, he fell downe, and dyed.

2 Then we all ouerthrew the lights, & all my neighbours rose vp to comfort me: so I rested vntil the seconde day at night.

3 And when they had all left of to comfort me, that I shulde be quiet, thē I rose vp by night,

- might, & fled, and am come into this field as thou seeft,
- 4 And am not purposed to returne into the citie, but to remaine here, and nether to eat nor drinke, but continually to mourne & fast, vntil I dye.
- 5 Then left I my purpose wherein I was, and spake to her angerly, and said,
- 6 Thou foolish womā aboute all other, seeft thou not our heaunes, and what cometh vnto vs?
- 7 For Sion our mother is all woful and is fore afflicted, and mourneth extremely.
- 8 Seeing we be all now in heaunes, and make our mone (for we be all sorrowful) art thou sorie for one sonne?
- 9 Demande the earth, and she shal tell thee that it is she which ought to mourne for the fall of so manie that growe vpon her.
- 10 For frō the beginning all men are borne of her, and other shal come, and beholde, they walke almoste all into destruction, & the multitude of them shalbe destroyed.
- 11 Who shulde then rather mourne, she that hathe lost so great a multitude, or thou which art sorie but for one?
- 12 But if thou woldest say vnto me, My mourning is not like the mourning of the earth (for I haue lost the frute of my wōbe, which I brought for the with heaunes, & bare with sorrowes,
- 13 But the earth is according to the maner of the earth, and the present multitude returneth into her as it came)
- 14 Then say I vnto thee, As thou hast borne with traueil, so the earth also from the beginning giueth her frute vnto man, euen to him that labored her.
- 15 Now therefore withholdeth thy sorrow in thy self, and beare constantly that which cometh vnto thee.
- 16 For if thou allowest Gods purpose, and receuest his counsel in time, thou shalt be commended therein.
- 17 Go thy way then into the citie to thine housband.
- 18 ¶ Then she said vnto me, I wil not, I wil not go into the citie; but here wil I dye.
- 19 So I continued to speake more with her, and said,
- 20 Do not so, but be counseled: for how manie fallēs hathe Sion? Be of good comfort because of the sorowe of Ierusalem.
- 21 For thou seeft y^e our Sanctuarie is layed waste: our altar is broken downe: our Temple is destroyed.
- 22 Our psalterion fainteth, and the song ceaseth, and our mirth is vanished away, and the light of our candelsticke is quenched, and the Arke of our couenant is takē away, and our holie things are defiled, and the Name that is called vpon vs, is almoste dishonored, and our children are put to shame, and our Priests are burnt, & our Leuites are caryed into captiuitie, and our virgines are defiled, and our wiues rauished, and our righteous men spoyled, & our children destroyed, and our yong men are brought in bondage, and our strong mē are become weake,
- 23 And, which is the greatest of all, Sion the seale hathe lost her worship: for she is deliuered into the hands of them that hate vs.
- 24 And therefore shake of thy great heaunes, and put away the multitude of sorrowes, that the Almighty may be merciful vnto thee, and that the moste High may giue thee rest and ease from thy labour.
- 25 And when I was talking with her, her face and beautie shined suddenly, and her countenance was bright, so that I was afrayed of her & mused what it might be.
- 26 And beholde, immediatly she cast out a great voyce, very fearful, so y^e the earth shoke at the noyce of the woman.
- 27 And I looked, and beholde, the woman appeared vnto me nomore: but there was a citie buylded, and a place was shewed frō the grounde and fundacion. Then was I afrayed, and cryed with a loude voyce, and said,
- 28 Where is Vriel the Angel * which came Chap. 4. 2. to me at the first? for he hathe caused me to come into manie and depe considerations, and mine end is turned into corruption, and my prayer to rebuke.
- 29 And as I was speaking these wordes, beholde, he came vnto me, and looked vpon me.
- 30 And lo, I laye as one dead, and mine vnderstanding was altered, and he toke me by the right hand and comforted me, and set me vpon my feete, and said vnto me,
- 31 What aileth thee? and why is thine vnderstanding vexed? and the vnderstanding of thine heart? & wherefore art thou sorie?
- 32 And I said, Because thou hast forsaken me, and I haue done * according vnto thy Chap. 5. 20. wordes: I went into the field, and there haue I sene things, & se that I am not able to expresse.
- 33 Then said he vnto me, Stand vp manly, and I wil giue thee exhortacion.
- 34 Then said I, Speake vnto me, my lord, and forsake me not, lest I dye through rashnes.
- 35 For I haue sene that I knewe not, and heare that I do not knowe.
- 36 Or is mine vnderstanding disceiued, or doeth my minde, being haucie, erre?
- 37 Now therefore I beseeche thee that thou wilt shewe thy seruant of this wondre.
- 38 The he answered me, and said, Heare me, and I wil informe thee, & tel thee wherefore thou art afrayed: for the moſte High hathe reuciled manie ſecret things vnto thee.

39 He hath ſene thy good purpoſe, that thou art ſoſſie continually for thy people, and makſt great lamentacion for Sion.

40 This therefore is the vnderſtanding of the viſiō, which appeared vnto thee a litle while ago.

41 Thou ſaweſt a womā mourning, & thou beganneſt to comfort her:

42 But now ſeeſt thou the likenes of the woman no more, but there appeared vnto thee a citie buylded.

43 And where as ſhe tolde thee of the death of her ſonne, this is the ſolution,

44 This woman, which thou ſaweſt, ſhe is Sion: and where as ſhe tolde thee (euen the which thou ſeeſt now as a citie buylded)

45 And as touching that ſhe ſaid vnto thee, that ſhe was baren thirtie yeres, this was conceining that, there was euen thirtie yeres where in there was no offſing offred in her.

46 But after thirtie yeres, Salomon buylt the citie, and offred offſings: then bare the baten a ſonne.

47 And where as ſhe tolde thee, that ſhe nourished him with labour, that was the inhabiting of Ieruſalem.

48 But where as ſhe tolde thee that her ſonne, as his chance was, dyed when ſhe came into her chamber, that is the fall that is come to Ieruſalem.

49 And when thou ſaweſt her like one that mourned for her ſonne, thou beganneſt to cōfort her: of theſe things which haue caſed theſe are to be opened vnto thee.

50 For now the moſte High ſeech, that thou art ſoſſie in thy mind, & becauſe thou ſuffreſt with all thine heart for her, he ſhewed thee the clerenes of her glorie, and the fairnes of her beautie.

51 And therefore I bad thee remaine in the field where no houſe was buylt.

52 For I knewe that the moſte High wolde ſhewe theſe things vnto thee.

53 Therefore I commāded thee to go into ſy field, where no fundaciō nor buylding is.

54 For the worke of mans buylding can not ſtand in that place where the citie of the moſte High ſhulde be ſhewed.

55 And therefore feare not, nether let thine heart be afrayed, but go in, and ſe the beautie & greatnes of the buylding as muche as thou art able to ſe with thine eyes.

56 And after this ſhalt thou heare, as muche as thine eares may comprehend.

57 For thou art bleſſed aboue manie, & art called with ſy moſte High among the few.

58 But to morow at night thou ſhalt remaine here,

59 And the moſte High ſhal ſhewe thee viſiōs of high things, which the moſte High wil do vnto them that dwell vpon earth, in the laſt dayes. So I ſlept the ſame night & anothei, as he had commāded me.

C H A P. X I.

The viſion of an egle coming furthe of the ſea, and of her feathers. 37 Of a lyon coming out of the foreſt.

THEN ſaw I a dreame, & beholde, there came vp from the ſea an egle, which had twelue feathered wings & thre heads.

2 And I ſawe and beholde, ſhe ſpred her wings ouer all the earth, & all the windes of the ayre blew on her, and gathered them ſlues.

3 And I behelde, & out of her feathers grew out other contrarie feathers, and they became litle feathers and ſmale.

4 But her heads remained ſtil, & the head in the middes was greater than the other heads, yet ruſted it with them.

5 Moreover, I ſawe that the egle ſlewe with his feathers and reigned vpon earth & ouer them that dwelt therein.

6 And I ſawe that all things vnder heauen were ſubiect vnto her, and no man ſpake againſt her, no not one creature vpon earth.

7 I ſawe alſo that the egle ſtode vpon her clawes, & ſpake to her feathers, ſaying, 8 Watch not all together: ſlepe cuerie one in his owne place, and watch by courſe.

9 But let the heads be preferued for the laſt.

10 Neuertheles, I ſawe that ſy voice went not out of her heads, but from the middes of her bodie.

11 Then I nombred her contrarie feathers, and beholde, there were eight of them.

12 And I lokd, and beholde vpon the right ſide there aroſe one feather, and reigned ouer all the earth.

13 And when it had reigned, the end of it came, and the piace thereof appeared no more. So the next ſtode vp, and reigned: it continued a long time.

14 And when it had reigned, the end of it came alſo, and as the fiſt, ſo it appeared no more.

15 Then there came a voyce vnto it, and ſaid,

16 Heare thou that haſt kept the earth ſo long: this I ſay vnto thee, before thou beginneſt to appeare no more,

17 There ſhal none after thee attein vnto thy time, nether to the halfe thereof.

18 Then aroſe the third and reigned as the other afore, and it appeared no more alſo.

19 So came it to all ſy others one after another, ſo that euerie one reigned, and then appeared no more.

20 Then I lokd, and beholde in proceſſe of time ſy feathers that followed, ſtode vp on the right ſide, that they might rule alſo, & ſome of the ruled, but within a while they appeared no more.

21 For

- 21 For some of the were set vp, but ruled not.
- 22 After this I looked & beholde, y^e twelue feathers appeared nomore, nor y^e two wings.
- 23 And there was no more vpon the egles bodie, but two heads that rested and six wings.
- 24 Then sawe I also that two wings deuided them selues from the six, and remained vnder the head, that was vpon the right side: for the foure continued in their place.
- 25 So I looked, & beholde, the vnderwings thought to set vp them selues, and to haue the rule.
- 26 Then was there one set vp, but shortly it appeared no more.
- 27 And the second were soner gone then the first.
- 28 The I behelde, & lo, the two that remained, thought also in them selues to reigne.
- 29 And whē they so thought, beholde, they awaked one of the heads that were at rest, which was in the middes: for that was greater then the two.
- 30 And then I sawe, that the two heads were ioyned therewith.
- 31 And beholde, the head was turned with them, that were with it, and did eat vp the two vnderwings that wolde haue reigned.
- 32 But this head put the whole earth in feare and bare rule in it, ouer all those that dwelt vpon earth with much labour, & it had the gouernāce of the worlde, more the all the wings that had bene.
- 33 After this I looked, and beholde, the head that was in the middes, suddenly appeared no more, as did the wings.
- 34 But the two heads remained, which also ruled likewise vpon earth, and ouer those that dwelt therein.
- 35 And I behelde, and lo the head vpon the right side deuoured that was vpon the left side.
- 36 ¶ Then I heard a voyce which said vnto me, Loke before thee, and consider y^e thing that thou seest.
- 37 So I sawe, and beholde as it were a lyon that roareth, renning hastely out of the wood: and I sawe that he sent out a mans voyce vnto the egle, and spake, and said,
- 38 Heare thou, I wil talke with thee, & the moſte High ſhal ſay vnto thee,
- 39 Art not thou that that of the foure beaſts remaineſt, whome I made to reigne in my worlde, that by them the end of times might come,
- 40 And the fourth is come, and hath ouercome all the beaſts that were paſt, & hath power ouer the worlde with great feaſtfulnes, and ouer the whole compaſſe of the earth with moſte wicked oppreſſion, and that dwelleth ſo long time in all y^e worlde with diſceite?
- 41 For y^e haſt not iudged the earth wth trueth.
- 42 Seing thou haſt troubled the meke, thou haſt hurte the peaceable, and thou haſt loosed lycers, and deſtroied the dwellings of them that brought forth frute, & haſt caſt downe the walles of ſuche as did thee no harme,
- 43 Therefore is thy wrongfull dealing come vp vnto the moſte High, and thy pride vnto the Mightie.
- 44 The moſte High alſo hath looked vpon the proude times, & beholde, they are ended, and their abominacions are fulfilled.
- 45 Therefore appeare no more, thou egle, nor thine horrible wings, nor thy wicked feathers, nor thy malicious heads, and thy wicked clawes, nor all thy vaine bodie,
- 46 That all the earth may be reſreſhed, & come againe, as one deliuered from thy violence, & that ſhe may hope for the iudgement and mercie of him that made her

CHAP. XII.

The declaration of the former viſions.

- 1 AND when the lion spake these wordes to the egle, I sawe,
- 2 And beholde, the head that had the vpper hand, appeared no more, nether did the foure wings appeare any more, that came to it, and set vp them selues to reigne, whose kingdome was smale and ful of vproares.
- 3 And I sawe, and beholde, they appeared no more, and the whole bodie of the egle was burnt, so that the earth was in great feare. Then I awaked out of the trouble and trance of my minde, and fro the great feare, and said vnto my spirit,
- 4 Lo, this haſt thou done vnto me in that thou ſearch:ſt out the waies of the moſte High.
- 5 Lo, yet am I wearie in my minde, and verie weake in my ſpirit, and litle ſtrength is there in me, for the great feare that I receiued this night.
- 6 Therefore now I wil beſeche the moſte High that he wil cōfort me vnto the end.
- 7 And I ſaid, O Lord, Lord, if I haue ſoude grace before thy ſight, & if I am iuſtified with thee before many other, and if my prayer in dede be come vp before thy face,
- 8 Comfort me, and ſhewe me thy ſeuant the interpretacion and difference of this horrible light, that thou maiſt perfectly comforte my ſoule,
- 9 Seing thou haſt iudged me worthie to ſhewe me the laſt times.
- 10 ¶ Then he ſaid vnto me, This is the interpretacion of this viſion,
- 11 The egle, whome thou ſaweſt come vp from the ſea, is the * kingdome which was ſene in the viſion of thy brother Daniel. Dan. 7.7.
- 12 But it was not expounded vnto him. therefore now I declare it vnto thee.
- 13 Beholde, the daies come, that there ſhal

- rise vp a kingdome vpon the earth, and it shalbe feared aboute all kingdomes that were before it.
- 14 In it shal twelue Kings reigne one after another,
- 15 Whereof the seconde shal beginne to reigne and shal haue more time then the twelue.
- 16 And this do the twelue wings signifie, which thou sawest.
- 17 As for the voice that thou heardest speake, and that thou sawest not go out from the heads, but from the middes of the bodie thereof, this is the interpretacion,
- 18 That after the time of that kingdome there shal arise great strife, & it shalbe in danger to fall, but it shal not then fall, but shalbe restored againe to his beginning.
- 19 Concerning the eight vnderwings, which thou sawest hang vnto her wings, this is the interpretacion,
- 20 In him shal arise eight Kings, whose time shal be but smale, and their yeres swift, and two of them shal perish.
- 21 But when the midde time cometh, there shalbe foure kept a time, whiles his time beginneth to come, that it maye be ended, but two shalbe kept vnto the end.
- 22 And where as thou sawest thre heads resting, this is the interpretacion,
- 23 In his last dayes shal y^e moſte High raise vp thre kingdomes, and shal call againe manie things into the, and they shal haue the dominion of the earth,
- 24 And of those that dwell therein, with muche grief aboute all those that were before them: therefore are they called the heads of the egle.
- 25 For they shal accomplish his wickednes, and shal finish his last end.
- 26 And where as thou sawest that the great head appeared no more, it signifieth that one of them shal dye vpon his bed, and yet with peine.
- 27 For the two that remaine, the sworde shal deuoure them.
- 28 For the sworde of the one shal deuoure the other: but at the last, shal he fall by the sworde him self.
- 29 And where as y^e sawest two vnderwings, that went of towarde the head, which was on the right side, this is the interpretaciō,
- 30 These are thei whome y^e moſte High hathe preferred for their end, whose kingdome is litle, and ful of trouble as thou sawest.
- 31 And the lyon whome thou sawest rising vp out of the wood and roaring, and speaking vnto the egle, and rebuking hei for her vnrighteousnes with all the wordes that thou hast heard,
- 32 This is the winde which the moſte High hathe kept for them, and for their wickednes vnto the end, & he shal reprove them, and cast before them their spoiles.
- 33 For he shal set them alieue in the iudgement, and shal rebuke them and correct them.
- 34 For he wil deliuer the residue of my people by affliction, which are preferred vpon my borders, and he shal make them ioyful, vntil the comming of the day of iudgement, whereof I haue spoken vnto thee from the beginning.
- 35 This is the dreame that thou sawest, and these are the interpretacions.
- 36 Thou onely hast bene mete to know this secret of the moſte High.
- 37 Therefore write all these things that thou hast sene, in a booke and hide them,
- 38 And teache them the wise of the people, whose hearts thou knowest may comprehend and kepe these secrets.
- 39 But waite thou here yet seuen daies mo, that it may be shewed thee whatfocuer it pleaseth the moſte High to declare vnto thee: and with that he went his way.
- 40 And when all the people perceued, that the seuen daies were past, and I not come againe into the citie, they gathered them all together, from the least vnto the moſte, and came vnto me, and spake vnto me, saying,
- 41 What haue we offended thee? or what euil haue we done against thee, that thou forsakest vs, and sittest in this place?
- 42 For of all the people thou onely art left vs as a grape of the vine, and as a candle in a darke place, & as an hau: n or shippe preferred from the tempest.
- 43 Are not the euils which are come vnto vs, sufficient?
- 44 If thou then forsake vs, how muche better had it bene for vs, that we had bene burnt also as Sion was burnt?
- 45 For we are no better then they that dyed there: and they wept with a loude voyce, Then answered I them, and said,
- 46 Be of good comfort, o Isiael, and be not heauie, thou house of Iacob.
- 47 For the moſte High hathe you in remembrance, & the Almighty hathe not forgotten you in temptacion.
- 48 As for me I haue not forsakē you, nether am I departed from you, but am come into this place to praye for the desolation of Sion, that I might seke mercie for the low estate of your Sanctuarie.
- 49 And now go your way home euerie mā, and after these daies wil I come vnto you.
- 50 So the people went their way into the citie, as I commanded them:
- 51 But I remained stil in the field seuen daies, as he had commanded me, and did eat onely of the floures of the field, & had my meat of the herbes in those daies.

CHAP. XIII.

The vision of a winde coming forth of the sea, which became a man. His properties & power against his enemies. 21 The declaration of this vision.

- 1 AND after the seuen daies I dreamed a dreame by night.
- 2 And beholde, there arose a winde frō the sea, and it moued all the waues thereof.
- 3 And I looked, & beholde, there was a mightie man with the thousands of heauen: and when he turned his countenance to loke, all the things trembled that were sene vnder him.
- 4 And whē the voyce wēt out of his mouth, all they burned that heard his voyce, as the earth faileth when it feeleth the fyre.
- 5 After these things I sawe, and beholde, there was gathered together a multitude of men out of nōber, frō the foure windes of the heauē, to fight against the man that came out from the sea.
- 6 And I looked, and beholde, he graued himself a great mountaine, and slewe vp vpon it.
- 7 But I wolde haue sene the counrei or place whereout the hil was grauen, and I colde not.
- 8 I sawe after these things, and beholde, all they which came to fight against him, were sore afraied, and yet they durst fight.
- 9 Neuertheles, when he sawe the fiercenes of the multitude that came, he lifted not vp his hand: for he helde no sworde nor any instrument of warre,
- 10 But onely, as I sawe, he sent out of his mouth, as it had bene a blaste of fyre, and out of his lippes the winde of the flame, and out of his tongue he cast out sparkes and stormes.
- 11 And they were all mixt together, euē this blast of fyre, the winde of the flame, and the great storme, and fell with violence vpon the multitude, which was prepared to fight, and burnt them vp all, so that of the innumerable multitude there was nothing sene, but onely dust, and smel of smoke. When I sawe this, I was afraied.
- 12 ¶ Afterwarde sawe I the same man come downe from the mountaine, and calling vnto him another peaceable multitude.
- 13 And there came many vnto him, some with ioyful countenance, & some with sad: some of thē were bound, and some brought of them that were offred: and I was sicke thorow great feare, and awaked, and said,
- 14 Thou hast shewed thy seruāt these wonders from the beginning, and hast counted me worthie to receiue my praier.
- 15 Shewe me now therefore the interpretation of this dreame.
- 16 For thus I consider in mine vnderstanding, wo vnto them ȳ shalbe left in those daies, and muche more wo vnto them that are not left behinde.

- 17 For they that were not left, were in heauines.
- 18 Now vnderstand I the things that are laid vp in the latter daies, which shal come bothe vnto them, and to those that are left behinde.
- 19 Therefore are they come into great perils and many necessities, as these daies declare.
- 20 Yet is it easier, that he that is in danger, shulde fall into these, & forese the things to come hereafter, then to passe away as a cloude out of the worlde.
- 21 ¶ Then answered he me, & said, The interpretation of the vision wil I shewe thee, and I wil open to thee the thing that thou hast required.
- 22 Where as thou hast spoken of them that are left behinde, this is the interpretation,
- 23 He that shal beare the danger in that time, he shal kepe him self. They that be fallen into danger, are suche as haue workes and faith towarde the moste Mightie.
- 24 Knowe therefore, that they which be left behinde, are more blessed thē they that be dead.
- 25 These are the meanings of the vision, Where as thou sawest a man coming vp from the middes of the sea,
- 26 The same is he whome the moste High hath kept a great season, who by his owne self shal deliuer his creature, & he shal order them that are left behinde.
- 27 ¶ And where as thou sawest, that out of his mouth there came as a blast with fyre and storme,
- 28 And ȳ he nerher helde sworde nor weapon, but that by his fiercenes he destroyed the whole multitude, that came to fight against him, this is the interpretation,
- 29 Beholde, the daies come that the moste High wil beginne to deliuer thē that are vpon the earth:
- 30 And he shal astonish the hearts of them that dwell vpon the earth:
- 31 And one shal prepare to fight against another, cite against cite, & place against place, and nation against nation, & realme against realme. Mat. 24.7.
- 32 When this commeth to passe, then shal the tokens come, that I shewed thee before, & then shal my Sonne be reueiled, whom thou saw: st go vp as a man.
- 33 And when all the people heare his voyce, euerie mā shal in their owne land leaue the battel that they haue one against another.
- 34 And an innumerable multitude shalbe gathered as one, as they that be willing to come, and to fight against him.

35 But he shal stand vpo the toppes of mount Sion.
 36 And Sion shal come, and shalbe shewed to all, being prepared and buylded, as thou sawest the hil grauen forthe without any hands.
 37 And this my Sonne shal rebuke the wicked inuentions of those nacions, which for the:1 wicked life are fallen into the tempest, 38 And into torments like to flame, whereby they shalbe tormented: and without any labour wil he destroy them, euen by the Law, which is compared vnto the fyre.
 39 And where as thou sawest that he gathered another peaceable people vnto him, 40 Those are the ten tribes which were carryed away captiues out of their owne lād,
 * in the time of Oseas the King, whome Salmanaſai the King of the Assyrians toke captiue, and carryed them beyonde the riuer: so were they brought into another land.
 41 But they toke this counſel to thé selues, that they wolde leaue the multitude of the heathen, and go for the into a further countray, where neuer mankinde dwelt,
 42 That they might there kepe their statutes, which they neuer kept in their owne land.
 43 And they entred in at the narowe passages of the riuer Euphrates.
 44 For the moſte High then shewed thé signes, * and ſtayed the ſprings of the flood til they were paſſed ouer.
 45 For thorow ȳ countrey there was a great iourney, euen of a yere and an halfe, and the ſame region is called 'Arſareth.
 46 Then dwelt they there vntil the latter time: and when they come forthe againe, 47 The moſte High ſhal holde ſtil the ſprings of the riuer againe, that they may go thorow: therefore ſawest thou the multitude peaceable.
 48 But ther that be left behinde of thy people, are thoſe that be founde within my borders.
 49 Now when he deſtroieth the multitude of the nacions that are gathered together, he ſhal defende the people that remaine, 50 And then ſhal he ſhewe great wonders vnto them.
 51 Then ſaid I, O Lord, Lord, ſhewe me this, wherefore haue I ſene the man coming vp from the middes of the ſea?
 52 And he ſaid vnto me, As thou canſt neither ſeke out, nor knowe theſe things, that are in the deepe of the ſea, ſo can no man vpon earth ſe my Sonne, or thoſe that be with him, but in the time of that day.
 53 This is the interpretation of the dream which thou ſawest, and whereby thou onely art lightened.

107. Araratib.

54 For thou haſt forſaken thine owne Law, and applied thy diligence vnto mine, and ſoght it.
 55 Thy life haſt thou ordered in wiſdome, & haſt called vnderſtanding thy mother.
 56 Therefore haue I ſhewed thee ȳ wardes with the moſte High: and after theſe other daies I wil ſpeake other things vnto thee, and wil declare the great and wonderful things.
 57 Then went I forthe vnto the field, glorying and prauiſing the moſte High for the wonders which he did in time, 58 Which he gouerneth, and ſuche things as come in their ſeaſons: and there I ſate thre dayes.

CHAP. XIII.

3 How God appeared to Moſes in the buſh 10 All things decline to age 15 The latter times worſe then the former 29 The ingratitude of Iſrael. 35 The reſurrexiion and iudgement

1 Vpon the thirde day I ſate vnder an oke, and beholde, there came forthe a voyce vnto me out of the buſh, & ſaid, Esdras, Esdras?

2 And I ſaid, Here am I, Lord, & ſtoode vp vpon my fete.

3 Then ſaid he vnto me, * In the buſh I reueiled my ſelf, and ſpake vnto Moſes, whē my people ſerued in Egypt: Exo. 3.6.

4 And I ſent him, and led my people out of Egypt, and brought him vpon the mount Sinai, & I helde him with me a lōg ſeaſon;

5 And I tolde him many wōders, & ſhewed him the ſecrets of the times and the end, and commanded him, ſaying,

6 Theſe wordes ſhalt thou declare, & theſe ſhalt thou hide.

7 An know I ſay vnto thee, that thou lay vp in thine heart the ſignes that I haue ſhewed, and the dreames that thou haſt ſene, & the interpretations which thou haſt heard.

8 For thou ſhalt be taken away from all, and thou ſhalt remaine hence forthe with my counſel, & with ſuche as be likt thee, vntil the times be ended.

9 For the worlde hath loſt his youth, & the times beginne to waxe olde.

10 For the worlde is deuided into twelue partes, & ten partes of it are gone already and halfe of the tenth parte.

11 And there remaineth that which is after the halfe of the tenth parte.

12 Therefore ſet thine houſe in order, and reforme thy people, and comfort ſuche of them as be in trouble, and now renounce the corruption.

13 Let go from thee mortal thoughts: caſt away from thee the burdens of men, & put of now the weake nature, 14 And ſet aſide thy moſte grieuous thoughts, and haſte thee to departe from theſe times.

15 For

- 15 For greater euils then those, which thou hast sene now, shal thei commit.
- 16 For the weaker that the worlde is by reason of age, the more shal the euils be increased vpon them that dwell therein.
- 17 For the trueth is fled faire away, & lies are at hand: for now hasteth the vision to come, that thou hast sene.
- 18 ¶ Then answered I, and said before thee,
- 19 Beholde, o Lord, I wil go as thou hast commanded me, and reforme the people, which are present: but they that shal be borne afterwarde, who shal admonish the?
- 20 Thus the worlde is set in darknes, and they that dwell therein, are without light.
- 21 For thy Law is burnt, therefore no man knoweth the things that are done of thee, or the workes that shalbe done.
- 22 But if I haue founde grace before thee, send the holie Gost into me, & I wil write all that hath bene done in the worlde since the beginning, which was written in thy Law, that men may finde the path, & that they which wil liue in the latter daies, may liue.
- 23 And he answered me, saying, Go, and gather the people, and say vnto them, that they seke thee not for fortie daies,
- 24 But prepare thee many boxe tables, and take with thee these five, Sarea, Dabria, Selemia, Ecanus, and Asiel, which are readie to write swiftly,
- 25 And come hether, & I wil light a candle of vnderstanding in thine heart, which shal not be put out til the things be performed which thou shalt beginne to write.
- 26 And the shalt thou declare some things openly vnto the perfite men, and some things shalt thou shewe secretly vnto the wise to morowe this houre shalt thou beginne to write.
- 27 Then went I forthe, as he commanded me, and gathered all the people together, and said,
- 28 Heare these wordes, o Israel,
- 29 *Our fathers at y beginning were strangers in Egypt, from whence they were deliuered,
- 30 And receiued the Law of life, * which they kept not, which ye also haue trasgrefsed after them.
- 31 Then was the land, euen the lad of Sion parted amog you by lot: but your fathers and ye also haue done vnrighteously, and haue not kept the wayes, which the moste High commanded you.
- 32 And for so muche as he is a righteous Iudge, he toke from you in time the thing that he had guen you.
- 33 And now are ye here, and your brethren among you.
- 34 Therefore if so be that ye wil subdue your owne vnderstanding, and reforme your heart, ye shalbe kept aliuie, and after death shal ye obtaine mercie.
- 35 For after death shal the iudgemēt come, when we shal liue againe: & then shal the names of the righteous be manifest, and the workes of the vngodlie shalbe declared.
- 36 Let no man therefore come now vnto me, nor seke me these fortie daies.
- 37 So I toke the five men, as he commanded me, and we went into the field, and remained there.
- 38 The next daye beholde, a voyce called me, saying, Esdras, * open thy mouth, and drinke that I giue thee to drinke.
- 39 Then opened I my mouth, and beholde, he reached me a full cuppe, which was full as it were with water: but the colour of it was like fyre.
- 40 And I toke it and dranke, and when I had dronke it, mine heart had vnderstanding and wisdom grewe in my brest: for my spirit was strengthened in memorie.
- 41 And my mouth was opened, and shut no more.
- 42 The moste High gaue vnderstanding vnto the five men, that they wrote the hie things of the night, which they vnderstode not.
- 43 But in the night they did eat bread, but I spake by day, & helde not my tongue by night.
- 44 In fortie daies, they wrote two hundredeth and foure bokes.
- 45 And when the fortie dayes were fulfilled, the moste High spake, saying, The first that thou hast written, publish openly, y the worthe and ynworthe may read it.
- 46 But kepe the seuentie last, that thou maiest giue them to the wise among thy people.
- 47 For in them is the veine of vnderstanding, and the fountaine of wisdom, and the riuer of knowledge: and I did so.

CHAP. XV.

The prophesie of Esdras is certene. 5 The euils that shal come on the worlde. 9 The Lord wil aduenge the innocent blood 12 Egypt shal lament 16 Sedition 20 And punishment vpon the Kings of the earth. 24 Cursed are they that sinne. 29 Troubles & warres vpon the whole earth 33 God is the reuenger of his elect.

BEholde, speake thou in the eares of my people the wordes of prophecie, which I wil put in thy mouth, saith the Lord:

2 And cause them to be written in a lettre: for they are faithful and true.

3 Feare not the imaginacions against thee: let not the vnfaithfulnes of the speakers trouble thee, that spake against thee.

4 For euery vnfaithful shal dye in his vnfaithfulnes.

5 Beholde, saith the Lord, I wil bring plagues.

gues vpon all the worlde, the sworde, famine, death and destruction:

6 Because that iniquitie hath fully polluted all the earth, and their wicked workes are fulfilled.

7 Therefore, saith the Lord, I wil holde my tongue no more for their wickednes, (they do vngodlie) nether wil I suffer the in the things, that they do wickedly.

*Resuel 6, 10.

8 Beholde, * the innocent and righteous blood cryeth vnto me, and the soules of the iust crye continually.

9 I wil surely auenge them, saith the Lord, and receiue vnto me all y^e innocent blood from among them.

10 Beholde, my people is led as a flocke to the slaughter: I wil not suffer them now to dwell in the land of Egypt, 11 But I wil bring them out with a mightie hand, and a stretched out arme, & smite it with plagues as afore, & wil destroie all the land thereof.

12 Egypt shal mourne, and the fundacions thereof shalbe smitten with the plague and punishment, that God shal bring vpon it.

13 The plowemē that till the grounde, shal mourne: for their sedes shal faile thorowe the blasting and haile, and by an horrible starre.

14 Wo to the worlde, & to them that dwell therein.

15 For the sworde and their destruction draweth nere, and one people shal stand vp to fight against another with swordes in their hands.

16 For there shalbe sedicion among men, & one shal inuade another: they shal not regarde their King, & the princes shal measure their doings by their power.

17 A man shal desire to go into a citie, and shal not be able.

18 Because of their pride the cities shalbe troubled, the houses shalbe afraid, & men shal feare.

19 A man shal haue no pitie vpon his neighbour, but shal destroye their houses with the sworde, & their goods shalbe spoyled for lacke of bread, and because of great trouble.

19, 20.

20 Beholde, saith God, I call together all the Kings of the earth to reuerence me, which are from the East, and from the South, from the East, and from Libanus, to turne vpon the, & to repay the things, that they haue done to them.

21 As they do yet this day vnto my chosen, so wil I do also, and recompense them in their bosome: thus saith the Lord God, 22 My right had shal not spare the sinners, nether shal the sworde cease from them, that shed innocent blood vpon earth.

23 The fyre is gone out from his wrath, and hath consumed the fundacions of the earth, and the sinners like the strawe, that is kindled.

24 Wo to them that sinne, and kepe not my commandements, saith the Lord.

25 I wil not spare them: departe, o childre, from the power: defile not my Sanctuarie.

26 For the Lord knoweth all them that sinne against him, and therefore deliuereth he them vnto death and destruction.

27 For now are the plagues come vpon the worlde, and ye shal remaine in them: for God wil not deliuer you, because ye haue sinned against him.

28 Beholde, an horrible vision cometh from the East, 29 Where generacions of dragons of Arabia shal come out with manie charrets, and the multitude of them shalbe caryed as the winde vpon the earth, that all they which heare them, may feare and tremble.

30 Euen the Carmanians raging in wrath, shal go forthe as the bores of the forest, and shal come with great power, and stand against them in bartel, and shal destroye a porcion of the land of the Assyrians.

31 But after this shal the dragons haue the vpper hand, and remember their nature, and shal turne about, and conspire to consume them with a great power.

32 Then these shalbe troubled, and kepe silence by their power, and shal flee.

33 From the land of the Assyrians shal the enemy besiege them, and consume some of them, and in their hoste shalbe feare & dread, and strife among their Kings.

34 Beholde cloudes from the East, & from the North vnto the South, and they are verie horrible to loke vpon, ful of wrath and storme.

35 They shal smite one vpon another: and they shal smite downe a great multitude of starres vpon the earth, euen their owne starre, & the blood shalbe from the sworde vnto the bellie, 36 And the dongue of mā vnto the Camels litter.

37 And there shalbe great fearefulnes, and trembling vpon earth, and they that see the wrath, shalbe afraid, and a trembling shal come vpon them.

38 And then there shal come great stormes from the South, and from the North, and parte from the West.

39 And from the East shal windes arise and shal open it with the cloude, which he raised vp in wrath, & y^e starre, raised to feare the East & West winde, shalbe destroyed.

40 And the great, and mightie cloudes shal be lift vp, ful of wrath, and the starre, that they may make all the earth afraid, and them

- them that dwell therein, & that they may powre out ouer euerie hie place, and lifted vp, an horrible constellation,
- 41 As fyre and hayle, and flying swordes, & many waters, that all fields may be full, & all riuers wth the abundāce of great waters.
- 42 And they shal breake downe the cities and walles, and mountaines, and hilles, and the trees of the wood, and the grasse of the medowes, and their corne.
- 43 And they shal go with a streight course vnto Babylon, and make it afraied.
- 44 They shal come to her, and besiege her, and shal powre forthe the constellation, & all the wrath against her: then shal the dust and smoke go vp vnto the heauen, and all they that be about her, shal bewaile her.
- 45 And they that remaine vnder her, shal do seruice vnto them, y^e haue put her in feare.
- 46 ¶ And thou Asia, that art partaker of the hope of Babylon, and the glorie of her prison,
- 47 Wo vnto thee, o wretch, because thou hast made thy self like vnto her, and hast dect thy daughters in whoredome, y^e they might please & glorie in thy louers, which haue alway desired to comit whoredome with thee.
- 48 Thou hast followed her that is hated in all her workes, and in her inuencions: therefore saith God,
- 49 I wil send plagues vpō thee, wedowhed, pouertie, and famine, & the sworde, and pestilēce, to waste thine houses with destruction and deareh.
- 50 And y^e glorie of thy power shalbe dried vp, as a floure when the heat riseth, that is sent vpon thee.
- 51 Thou shalt be sicke as a poore wife y^e is plagued and beaten of women, so that the mightie and the louers shal not be able to receiue thee.
- 52 Wolde I thus hate thee, saith y^e Lord,
- 53 If thou hadest not alway slaine my chosen, exalting the stroke of thine hands, and said ouer their death, when y^e wast drōken,
- 54 Set forthe y^e beaurie of thy countenance?
- 55 The rewarde of thy whoredome shalbe in thy bosome: therefore shalt thou receiue a rewarde.
- 56 As thou hast done vnto my chosen, saith the Lord, so wil God do vnto thee, & wil deliuer thee vnto the plague.
- 57 And thy children shal dye of hunger, & thou shalt fall by the sworde, & thy cities shalbe broken downe, and all thy men shal fall by the sworde in the field.
- 58 And they that be in the mountaines shal dye of hunger, and eat their owne flesh, & drinke their owne blood for wāt of bread and thirst of water.
- 59 And thou, as vnhappy, shalt come thorough the sea, and receiue plagues againe,
- 60 In the passage they shal cast downe the slaine citie, and shal roote out one parte of thy land, & consume y^e porcion of thy glorie, & shal retourne to her y^e was destioied.
- 61 When thou shalt be cast downe, thou shalt be to them as stubble, and they shalbe to thee as fyre.
- 62 And they shal destroy thee, & thy cities, thy land, & thy mountaines: all thy woods and all thy fruteful trees shal they burne with fyre.
- 63 Thy childre shal they carye away captiue, and shal spoile thy substance, & marre the beaurie of thy face.

CHAP. XVI.

Against Babylon, Asia, & Egypt and Syria. 18. 38 Of the evils that shal come vpon the worlde, with admonition how to gouerne them selues in afflictions 54 To acknowledge their finnes. & to comit them selues to the Lord. 55 Whose mightie prouidence and iustice is to be reuerenced

WO to ther, Babylon & Asia: wo to thee, Egypt and Syria.

1 Gird your selues with sacke & heereclothe, and mourne your children, & be forie: for your destruction is at hand.

2 A sworde is sent vnto you, and who wil turne it backe? a fyre is sent among you, & who wil quenche it?

3 Plagues are sent vnto you, and who can driue them away?

4 May any mā driue away an hungrie lion in the wood? or quenche the fyre in stubble whē it hath once begon to burne? may one turne againe the arrowe, that is shot of a strong archer?

5 The mightie Lord sendeth the plagues, and who can driue them away? the fyre is gone forthe in his wrath, and who can quench it?

6 He shal cast lightnings, & who shal not feare? he shal thunder, and who shal not be afraied?

7 The Lord shal threaten, & who shal not vtterly be broken in pieces at his presence? the earth quaketh & the fundaciō thereof: the sea ariseth vp with waues frō the depe, & the waues thereof are troubled, & the fishes thereof, before the Lord and the glorie of his power.

8 For stiōg is his right hand, y^e bendeth the bowe: his arrowes y^e he shooteth, are sharpe, & shal not misse, when they beginne to be shot into the ends of the worlde.

9 Beholde, the plagues are sent, & shal not turne againe, til they come vpon earth.

10 The fyre is kindled, & shal not be put out, til it consume the fundacions of the earth.

11 As an arrow w^{ch} is shot of a mightie archer, returneth not backward, so y^e plagues that shalbe set vpō earth, shal not turne againe.

12 Wo is me, wo is me: who wil deliuer me in those daies?

13 The beginning of sorowes and great

- mourning : the beginning of famine, and great death: the beginning of warres, and the powers shal feare : the beginning of euils, and all shal tremble. What shal I do in these things, when the plagues come?
- 15 Beholde, famine and plague, and trouble, and anguish are sent as scourges for amendment.
- 16 But for all these things they wil not turne fro their wickednes, nor be alway mindeful of the scourges.
- 17 Beholde, vitales shalbe so good cheape vpon earth, that they shal thinke them selues to be in good case: but then shal the euils bud forthe vpon earth, euen the sworde, the famine and great confusion.
- 18 For many of them that dwell vpon earth, shal perish with famine, and the other that escape y^e famine, shal the sworde destroy.
- 19 And the dead shalbe cast out as dongue, and there shalbe no man to comforte the: for the earth shalbe waited, and the cities shalbe cast downe.
- 20 There shalbe no mā left to till the earth, and to sowe it : the trees shal giue frute, but who shal gather them?
- 21 The grapes shalbe ripe, but who shal treade them? for all places shalbe desolate, so that one mā shal desire to se another, or to heare his voyce.
- 22 For of one cite there shalbe ten left, and two of the field, which shal hide them selues in the thicke woods, and in the cleftes of rockes.
- 23 As when there remaine thre or foure oliues in the place where oliues growe, or among other trees,
- 24 Or as whē a vineyarde is gathered, there are left some grapes of them that diligently soght thorowe the vineyarde:
- 25 So in those daies there shalbe thre or foure left by them that searche their houses wth the sworde.
- 26 And the earth shalbe left waste, and the fields thereof shal waxe olde, & her waies and all her paths shal growe full of thornes, because no man shal traueil there-through.
- 27 The virgines shal mourne, hauing no bridegromes : the women shal make lamentacion, hauing no housbands : their daughters shal mourne hauing no helpers.
- 28 In the warres shal their bridegromes be destroyed, and their housbands shal perish with famine.
- 29 But, ye seruants of the Lord, heare these things, and marke them.
- 30 Beholde the worde of the Lord, receaue it : beleue not the gods of whome y^e Lord speaketh: beholde the plagues drawe nere, and are not slacke.
- 31 As a trauiailing woma which in the ninth moneth bringeth forthe her sonne, when the houre of birth is come, two or thre houres afore the peines come vpon her bodie, and when the childe cometh to the birth, they tarie not a whit,
- 32 So shal not the plagues be slacke to come vpoⁿ the earth, & the worlde shal mourne, & sorowes shal come vpon it on euerie side.
- 33 O my people, heare my worde: make you ready to the battel, and in the troubles be euen as strangers vpon earth.
- 34 He that selleth, let him be as he y^e fleeth his way: & he that byeth, as one y^e wil lose.
- 35 Who so occupieth marchādise, as he that winneth not : and he that buyldeth, as he that shal not dwell therein:
- 36 He y^e soweth, as one that shal not reape: he that cutteth the vine, as he that shal not gather the grapes:
- 37 They that mary, as they that shal get no children: and they that mary not, so as the widdowes.
- 38 Therefore they that labour, labour in vaine.
- 39 For strangers shal reape their frutes, and spoile their goods, and ouerthrowe their houses, and take their children captiue: for in captiuitie & famine shal they get their children.
- 40 And they that occupie their marchādise with couetousnes, the more they decke their cities, their houses, their possessions, and their owne persones,
- 41 So muche more wil I be angrie against them for their sinnes, saith the Lord.
- 42 As a whore enuieth an honest and vertuous woman,
- 43 So shal righteousnes hate iniquitie, whē she decketh her self, & shal accuse her openly, when he shal come that shal bridle the autor of all sinne vpon earth.
- 44 And therefore be ye not like thereunto, nor to the workes thereof: for or euer it be long, iniquitie shalbe taken away out of the earth, and righteousnes shal reigne among you.
- 45 Let not the sinner say, that he hath not sinned : for coles of fyre shal burne vpon his head, which saith, I haue not sinned before the Lord God and his glorie.
- 46 Beholde, the Lord knoweth all the workes of men, their imaginaciōs, their thoghtes and their hearts. Luk. 16. 15.

- 49 He searcheth the depth, and the treasures thereof: he hath measured the sea, and what it containeth.
- 50 He hath shut the sea in the middes of the waters, and with his worde hath he hanged

- hanged the earth vpon the waters.
- 51 He spread:th out the heauē like a vawte: vpon the waters hathe he founde it.
- 52 In the desert hathe he made springs of water, and poles vpon the toppes of the mountaines, to powre out floods from the hie rockes to water the earth.
- 53 He made man, and put his heart in the middes of the bodie, and gaue him breth, life and vnderstanding.
- 54 And the Spirit of the almightie God, which made all things, & hathe searched all the hid things in the secrets of y^e earth,
- 55 He knowerh your inuencions, and what ye imagine in your heart when ye sinne & wolde hide your finnes.
- 56 Therefore hathe the Lord searched and fought out all your workes, and wil put you all to shame.
- 57 And when your finnes are brought forthe before man, ye shalbe confounded, and your owne finnes shal stand as your accusets in that day.
- 58 What wil ye do, or how wil ye hide your finnes before God and his Angels?
- 59 Beholde, God him selfe is the iudge: feare him: cease from your finnes, and forget your iniquities, and medle no more from hence forthe with them: so shal God lead you forthe, and deliuer you from all trouble.
- 60 For beholde, the heate of a great multitude is kindled against you, and they shal take away certeme of you, and shal slaye you for meat to the idoles.
- 61 And they that consent vnto them, shalbe had in derision and in reproche, and troden vnder foote.
- 62 For in euerie place and cities that are nere, there shalbe great insurrectiō against those that feare the Lord.
- 63 They shalbe like mad man: they shal spare none: they shal spoyle, & waste suche as yet feare the Lord.
- 64 For they then shal waste and spoile their goods, and cast them out of their houses.
- 65 The shal the tryal of my chosen appeare, as the golde is tryed by the fyre.
- 66 Heare, o ye my beloued, saith the Lord: beholde, the daies of trouble are at hand, but I wil deliuer you from them: be not ye afraid: doute not, for God is your captaine.
- 67 Who so kepeth my commādements and precepts, saith y^e Lord God, let not your finnes weigh you downe, and let not your iniquities lift them selues vp.
- 68 Wo vnto the that are bounde with their finnes, and couered with their iniquities, as a field is hedged in with bushes, and the path thereof couered with thornes, whereby no man may trauail: it is shut vp, and is appointed to be deuoured with fyre.

Tobias, being captiue amongst the Assyrians, did not leaue the way of truethe.

THIS booke of the wordes of Tobit sonne of Tobiel, the sonne of Ananuel, the sonne of Gabael, of the seed of Asael & of the tribe of Nephthalim, a King. 17. 3.

¹⁰⁷ Or, Salmana-

- ¹ Who in the time of Enemessar King of the Assyriās was * ledde away captiue out of Thisbe, which is at the right hand of that citie, w^{ch} is called properly Nephthalim, in Galilee about Ase.
- ³ I Tobit haue walked all my liue long in the way of truethe and iustice, and I did mane things liberally to the brethren, w^{ch} were of my nation, and came with me to Ninus into the land of the Assyrians.
- ⁴ And when I was in mine owne countrei in the land of Israel, being but yong, all the tribe of Nephthalim my father fell from the house of Ierusalem, which was chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, that all the tribes shulde sacrifice there, where the Tēple of the tabernacle of the moſte High was consecrated, and buylt vp for all ages.

Tobias was merciful

- ⁵ * Now all the tribes, which fell from God, yea, and my father Nephthalims house of-fred to the heifur called Baal.
- ⁶ But I (as it was ordeined to all Israel by an euerlasting decre) went alone often to Ierusalem, * bringing the first frutes, and the tenth of beaſts, with that which was first shote, and offered them at the altar to the Priests the children of Aaron.
- ⁷ The first tenth parte I gaue to y^e Priests the sonnes of Aaron, which ministered in Ierusalem: the other tenth parte I solde, & came & bestowed it euery yere at Ierusalem.
- ⁸ The thirde tenth parte I gaue vnto them to whome it was mete, as Debora my fathers mother had commanded me: for my father left me as a pupil.
- ⁹ ¶ Furthermore when I was come to the age of a mā, I married Anna of mine owne kinred, and of her I begate Tobias.
- ¹⁰ ¶ But when I was ledde captiue to Ninus, all my brethren, & those w^{ch} were of my kinred did eate of the * bread of y^e Gētiles.

11 But I kept my self from eating,
12 Because I remembered God with all mine heart.

He found grace in the fight of Salmanaïar

13 Therefore the most High gaue me grace and fauour before Enemessar, so that I was his puruoyer.

Or, sonne Or, in Reges a sime of Media

14 ¶ And I went into Media, and I deliuered ten taléts of siluer to Gabael the brother of Gabrias in the land of Media.

15 But when Enemessar was dead, Sennacherib his sonne reigned in his stead: whose stare because it was troubled, I colde not go into Media.

Or, Salmanaïar The charitie of Tobias

16 ¶ But in the time of "Enemessar, I gaue many almes to my brethren, and gaue my bread to them which were hungrie, 17 And my clothes to the naked: and if I sawe any of my kinred dead, or cast about the walles of Nineuc, I buryed him.

2 King 19, 28 isa 37, 36. eccles 48, 14. 1 mac 7, 41. 2 mac 8, 19.

18 And if the King Sennacherib had slaine any, when he* was come and fled from Iudea, I buryed thé priuely (for in his wrath he killed many) but the bodies were not foude whē they were fought for of y King.

19 Therefore whē a certeine Nineuite had accused me to the King, becaufe I did bury them, I hid my self: and becaufe I knewe that I was fought to be slaine, I withdrewe my self for feare.

Tobit fleeth from the face of Sennacherib.

20 Then all my goods were spoyled, nether was there any thing left me besides my wife Anna and my sonne Tobias.

2 King 19, 37. 2 chr 32, 21.

21 Neuertheles* within fiue and fiftie daies two of his sonnes killed him, and they fled into the mountaines of Arrarath, & Sarchedonus his sonne reigned in his stead, who appointed ouer his fathers accóptes and ouer all his domestical affaires Achiacharus my brother Anaels sonne.

To his returneth.

22 And when Achiacharus had made a request for me, I came againe to Nineue: now Achiacharus was cupbearer & keeper of y signet, & steward, & ouersawe the accóptes: so Sarchedonus appointed him next vnto him, & he was my brothers sonne.

CHAP. II.

1 Tobit calleth the faithfull to his table. 3 He leaueh the feast to bury the dead 10 How he became blinde 13 His wife laborath for her liuing. 16 She reprocheth him bitterly.

1 NOW when I was come home againe, & my wife Anna was restored vnto me with my sonne Tobias, in the feast of Pentecoste, which is the holy feast of the seuen wekes, there was a great dinner prepared me, in the which I sate downe to eat.

Tobit doeth bid to diner those which feare God.

2 And when I sawe abundãce of meat, I said to my sonne, Go, & bring what poore man soeuer y shalt finde of our brethrē which doth remēber God, & lo I wil tary for thee.

3 But he came againe, and said, Father, one of our nation is strangled, and is cast out in the market place.

Tobit, leauing his yokes, taketh vp the dead bodie into his house so burye it.

4 Thē before I had tasted anie meat, I start vp, and broght him into mine house vntil the going downe of the sunne.

5 Then I returned and walked, and ate my meat in heaunes,

6 Remembring that prophecie of* Amos, whad said, your solēne feasts shalbe turned into mourning, & your ioyes into wailing.

Amos 8, 18. 1 mac 1, 45.

7 Therefore I wept, & after y going downe of y sunne I wēt & made a graue & buried hī.

8 But my neighbours mockt d me, and said, Doeth he not feare, to dye for this cause, who* fled away, and yet, lo, he buryeth the dead againe.

Tobit is rebuked of his neighbours. Chap. 1, 23.

9 The same night also when I returned fió the buryal, & slept at y wall of mine house because I was polluted, & hauing my face vncouered,

10 And I knewe not y sparowes were in the wall, & as mine eyes were open, the sparowes cast downe warme dogue into mine eyes, & a whitenes came in mine eies, & I went to the phisiciãs who helped me not. Moreouer Achiacharus did nourish me, vntil I went into Elimais.

He is made blinde for an example of patience to his posteritie.

11 And my wife Anna did take womens workes to do.

The wife of Tobit laboreth for her liuing.

12 And whē she had sent them home to the owners, thei paid the wages, & gaue a kid.

13 Which whē it was at mine house, and began to bleat, I said vnto her, From whēce is this kid: is it not stollen: render it to the owners: *for it is not lawful to eat anie thing that is stollen.

The innocencie of Tobit. Deu. 22, 10.

14 But she said, It was giuē for a gifte more thē y wages: but I did not beleue, & bade her to rēder it to y owners, & I did bluff, because of her. Furthermore she said, *Where are thine almes, & thy righteoufnes: behold, they all now appeare in thee.

CHAP. III.

1 The prayer of Tobit. 7 Sarra Raguels daughter, & the thing that came vnto her. 12 Her prayer heard. 19 The Angel Raphael sent.

1 THÉ I, being sorowful, did wepe, & in my sorowe prayed, saying,

2 O Lord, thou art iuste, & all thy workes, & all thy wayes are mercie & truet, and thou iudget truely & iustely for euer.

3 Remēber me & loke on me, nether punish me accordig to my sins or mine ignorãces or my fathers, w̄ haue sinned before thee.

4 For thei haue not obered thy cōmandemēt: wherefore y hast deliuered vs* for a spoile, & vnto captiuitie, and to death, and for a prouerbe of a reproche to all them among whome we are disperfed, and now "thou hast manie and iuste causes,

Deu. 28, 28.

5 To do w̄ me accordig to my sinnes, & my fathers, because we haue not kept thy cōmandemēt, nether haue walked in truet, before thee.

* Or, thy indgements are manie and iuste.

6 Now therefore deale with me as semeth best vnto thee, & cōmande my spirit to be takē frō me, y I may be dissolued, & become earth: for it is better for me to dy thē to liue, because I haue heard false reproches, & am verie sorowful: cōmande therefore that I may be dissolued out of this distresse, and go into the euerlasting place: turne not thy face away from me.

7 ¶ It came to passe the same day that in Ecbatane a citie of Media Sarra the daughter of Raguel was also reproched by her fathers maides, Sarra is checked of her fathers maides.

8 Because she had bene maryed to seuē houbands, whome Asmodeus the euil spirit had killed, before that they had lien with her. Doest thou not knowe, said they, that thou hast strangled thine houbands: thou hast had now seuen houbads, nether wast thou named after anie of them.

Or, when she beate them for their fautes, that said.

9 Wherefore doest thou beat vs for them? if they be dead, go thy wayes hence to thé, that we may neuer se of thee ether sonne or daughter.

10 When she heard these things, she was verie sorowful, so that she thought to haue strangled her self. And she said, I am the onely daughter of my father, & if I do this I shal selander him, and shal bring his age to the graue with sorowe.

Sarra prayeth, & wisheth that she maybe deliuered from shame.

11 Then she prayed towarde the windowe & said, Blessed art thou, ó Lord my God, and thine holie & glorious Name is blessed, and honorable for euer: let all thy workes praise thee for euer.

12 And now, ó Lord, I set mine eyes, & my face toward thee, 13 And say, Take me out of the earth, that I may heare no more anie reproche.

The innocēcie of Sarra

14 Thou knowest, ó Lord, that I am pure from all sinne with man,

Her chastitie.

15 And that I haue neuer polluted my name, nor the name of my father in the land of my captiuitie: I am the onely daughter of my father, nether hath he anie mā child to be his heire, nether anie nere kinsman or childe borne of him, to whome I may kepe my self for a wife: my seuen houbands are now dead, & why shulde I liue? But if it please not thee that I shulde dye, cōmande to loke on me, and to pitie me that I do no more heare reproche.

The prayers of Tobit, and Sarra are heard bothe at a time.

16 So the prayers of them bothe were heard before the maiestie of the great God.

17 And Raphael was sent to heale them bothe, that is, to take away ſ whitenes of Tobits eyes, & to giue Sarra the daughter of Raguel for a wife to Tobias the sonne of Tobit, & to binde Asmodeus ſ euil spirit because she belonged to Tobias by right. The self same time came Tobit home, and entred into his house, and Sarra the daughter of Raguel came downe frō her chāber.

Precepts and exhortations of Tobit to his sonne

Chap. 1. 14.

1 IN that day Tobit remēbred * ſ siluer, which he had deliuered to Gabael in Rages a citie of Media,

2 And said with him self, I haue wished for death: wherefore do I not call for my sonne Tobias that I may admonish him before I dye?

3 And when he had called him, he said, My sonne, after that I am dead, bury me, & despise not thy mother, but honour her all the dayes of thy life, & do that which shal please her, and anger her not.

Tobits exhortation to his sonne, whē he thought he shuld dye. The mother is to be reuerenced.

CHAP. V.

1 Tobias sent to Rages. 5 He meteth with the Angel Raphael, which did conduct him.

1 Tobias then answered & said, Father, I wil do all things which thou hast commanded me.

2 But how can I receiue the siluer, seing I knowe him not?

3 Then he gaue him the hand writing, and said vnto him, Seke thee a man, which may go with thee, whiles I yet liue, and I wil giue him wages, and go and receiue the money.

4 Therefore when he was gone to seke a man, he founde Raphael the Angel.

5 But he knewe not, & said vnto him, May I go with thee into the land of Media: and knowest thou those places wel?

6 To whome the Angel said, I wil go with thee: for I haue remained with our brother Gabael.

7 Then Tobias said to him, Tarie for me, til I tell my father.

8 Then he said vnto him, Go, and tary not: so he went in & said to his father, Beholde, I haue founde one, which wil go with me. Then he said, Call him vnto me, that I may knowe of what tribe he is, and whether he be faithful to go with thee.

9 So he called him, and he came in, & they saluted one another.

10 The Tobit said vnto hi, Brother, shewe me of what tribe and familie thou art.

11 To whome he said, Dost y^e seke a stocke or familie, or an hired man to go with thy sonne? Then Tobit said vnto him, I wolde knowe thy kindred and thy name.

12 Then he said, I am of the kindred of Azarias & Ananias y^e great, & of thy brethrē.

14 But tel me, what wages shal I giue thee? wilt thou a grote a day & things necessarie, as to mine owne sonne?

15 Yea, moreouer if ye returne safe, I wil adde some thing to the wages.

16 So they agreed. Then said he to Tobias, Prepare thy self for the iourney, and go you on Gods Name. And whē his sonne had prepared all things for the iourney, his father said, Go thou with this man, & God which dwelleth in heauen, prosper your iourney, and the Angel of God kepe you companie. So they went forthe bothe and departed, and the dogge of the yong man with them.

17 But * Anna his mother wept, and said to Tobit, Why hast thou sent away our sonne: is he not the staffe of our hand to minister vnto vs?

18 Wolde to God we had not laid money vpo money, but that it had bene cast away in respect of our sonne.

19 For that which God hathe giuen vs to liue with, doeth suffice vs.

20 Then said Tobit, Be not careful, my sister: he shal returne in safetrie, & thine eyes shal se him.

21 For the good Angel doeth kepe him cōpanie, and his iourney shal be prosperous, and he shal returne safe.

22 Then she made an end of weping.

2 Tobias deliuered from the fish. 3 Raphael sheweth him certaine medecines. 10 He conducteth him toward Sarra.

1 And as they went on their iourney, they came at night to the flood Tygris, and there abode.

2 And when the yong man went to wash him self, a fish leaped out of the riuier, and wolde haue deuoured him.

3 Then the Angel said vnto him, Take the fish. And the yong man toke the fish, and drewe it to land.

4 To whome the Angel said, Cut the fish, and take the heart, and the liuer, and the gall, and put them vp surely.

5 So the yong man did as the Angel commanded him: & when they had rosted the fish, they ate it: then they bothe went on their way, til they came to Ecbatane.

6 ¶ Then the yong man said to the Angel, Brother Azarias, what auailt the heart, and the liuer, and the gall of the fish?

8 As for the gall, anoint a man that hath whiteness in his eyes, and he shall be healed.

9 ¶ And when they were come neere to Rages,

10 The Angel said to the yong man, Brother, to day we shall lodge with Raguel, who is thy cousin: he also hath one onely daughter named Sarra: I will speake for her that she may be giuen thee for a wife.

Nomb 27. 8. & 36. 8. 11 For to thee doeth the right of her pertaine, seeing thou alone art remnant of his kinred, 12 And the maid is faire and wise: now therefore heare me, and I will speake to her father, that we may make the marriage when we are returned from Rages: for I knowe that Raguel can not marie her to another according to the Law of Moyses: els he should deserue death, because the right doeth rather appertaine to thee then to any other man.

13 Then the yong man answered the Angel, I haue heard, brother Azarias, that this maid hath bene giuen to seuen men, who all dyed in the marriage chamber:

14 And I am the onely begotten sonne of my father, and I am afraid, lest I go into her, and dye as the other: for a wicked spirit loueth her, which hurteth no bodie, but those which come into her: wherefore I also feare lest I dye, and bring my fathers and my mothers life because of me to the graue with sorrowe: for they haue no other sonne to burye them.

15 Then the Angel said vnto him, Dost thou not remeber the precepts which thy father gaue thee, that thou shouldst marie a wife of thine owne kinred? wherefore heare me, o my brother: for she shall be thy wife, neither be ye careful of the euil spirit: for this same night shall she be giuen thee in marriage.

16 And when thou shalt go into thy bed, thou shalt take of the hote coles for perfumes, and make a perfume of the heart, and of the liuer of the fish, 17 Which if the spirit do smell, he will flee away, and neuer come againe any more: but when thou shalt come to her, rise vp bothe of you, and praye to God which is merciful, who will haue pittie on you, and saue you: feare not, for she is appointed vnto thee from the beginning, & thou shalt kepe her, & she shall go with thee: moreover I suppose that she shall beare thee children: now when Tobias had heard these things, he loued her, and his heart was effectually ioyned to her.

CHAP. VII.

Tobias marryeth Sarra Raguels daughter.

1 And when they were come to Ecbatane, they came to the house of Raguel: and Sarra met them, and after they had saluted one another, she broght them into the house.

Raphael & Tobias come to Raguel.

2 Then said Raguel to Edna his wife, How like is this yong man to Tobit my cousin?

3 And Raguel asked, Whence are you, my brethre? To whome they said, that they were of the tribe of Nephtholim, and of the captiues that dwelt at Nineue.

4 The he said to them, Do ye knowe Tobit our kinsman? And they said, We knowe him. Then said he, Is he in good health?

5 And they said, He is bothe aliue, and in good health: and Tobias said, He is my father.

6 Then Raguel leaped, and kissed him, and wept,

7 And blessed him, & said vnto him, Thou art the sonne of a good and honest man: but when he had heard that Tobit was blinde, he was sorrowful and wept.

8 And likewise Edna his wife, and Sarra his daughter wept. Moreover they receiued them with a readie minde, and after that they had killed a ram of the flocke, they set muche meat on the table. The he said Tobias to Raphael, Brother Azarias, put forthe those things whereof thou spakest in the waye, that this busines may be dispatched.

Tobias greeteth Raguels daughter to wife

9 So he communicated the matter with Raguel, and Raguel said to Tobias, Eat, and drinke and make merry.

10 For it is mete that thou shouldst marie my daughter: neuertheles, I will declare vnto thee the truth.

11 I haue giuen my daughter in marriage to seuen men, who dyed that night which they came in vnto her: neuertheles, be thou of a good courage and merry. But Tobias said, I will eat nothing here, vntill ye bring her hether, and betrothe her to me.

12 Raguel said then, Marie her then according to the custome: for thou art her cousin, and she is thine. God which is merciful, make this prosperous to you in all good things.

13 Then he called his daughter Sarra, & she came to her father, and he toke her by the hand, & gaue her for wife to Tobias, saying, Beholde, take her after the Law of Moyses, and lead her away to thy father: and he blessed them,

Raguel giueth his daughter Sarra to Tobias

14 And called his wife Edna, and he toke a booke and wrote a contract, and sealed it.

15 Then they began to eate.

16 After, Raguel called his wife Edna, and said vnto her, Sister, prepare another chā-ber, and bring her in thether.

17 Which when she had done, as he had bidden her, she broght her thether: then Sarra wept and her mother wiped away her daughters teares,

18 And said vnto her, Be of good comfort, my daughter: the Lord of heauen & carth giue thee ioye for this thy sorrow: be of good comfort, my daughter.

Tobias driueth away the euil spirits 4 He prayeth to God with his wife 11 Raguel prepareth a graue for his sonne in law. 16 Raguel blesseth the Lord.

1 AND when they had supped, they broght Tobias in vnto her.

2 And as he went, he remembered the wordes of Raphael, & toke coles for perfumes, and put the heart and liuer of the fish thereupon, and made a perfume.

3 The which smel when the euil spirit had smelled, he fled into the vtmost partes of Egypt, whome the Angel bounde.

4 And after that they were bothe shut in, Tobias rose out of the bed, and said, Sister, arise and let vs pray, that God wolde haue pittie on vs.

Tobias followeth Raphaels counsell, as Chap 6,7

Gen 2,7.

5 Then began Tobias to say, Blessed art thou, O God of our fathers, and blessed is thine holic and glorious Name for euer: let the heaucns blesse thee, and all thy creatures.

6 Thou madest Adam, and gauest him *Eua his wife for an helpe, and stay: of them came mankinde: thou hast said, It is not good, that a man shulde be alone: let vs make vnto him an aide like vnto him self.

7 And now, O Lord, I take not this my sister for fornicacion, but vprightly: therefore grante me mercie, that we may become aged tog: ther.

8 And she said with him, Amen.

Raguel, thinking Tobias was dead, made a graue for him.

9 So they slept bothe that night, and Raguel arose, and went and made a graue,

10 Saying, Is not he dead also?

11 But when Raguel was come into his house,

12 He said to his wife Edna, Send one of the maides, and let them se whether he be aliue: if not, that I may burye him, & none knowe it.

13 So the maid opened the doie, and went in, and founde them bothe a slepe, 14 And came forthe, and tolde them that he was a liue.

Raguel praies God for Tobias.

15 The Raguel praised God, & said, O God, thou art worthe to be praised with all pure, & holic praise: therefore let thy Saintes praise thee with all thy creatures, and let all thine Angels and thine elect praise thee for euer.

16 Thou art to be praised, O Lord: for thou hast made me ioyful, and that is not come to me which I suspected: but thou hast dele with vs according to great mercie.

17 Thou art to be praised because thou hast had mercie of two that were the onely begotten children of their fathers: grante them mercie, O Lord, & finish their life in health with ioye and mercie.

18 Then Raguel bade his seruants to fil the graue

19 And he kept the wedding feast fourtene daies.

20 For Raguel had said vnto him by an othe, that he shulde not departe before that the fourtene daies of the mariage were expired, 21 And then he shulde take the halfe of his goods and returne in safetie to his father, and shulde haue the rest, when he and his wife were dead.

Raguel giueth halfe of his goods toward the mariage of his daughter to Tobias.

CHAP. IX.

Raphael leadeth Gabael to Tobias mariage.

1 THEN Tobias called Raphael, & said vnto him,

2 Brother Azarias, take with thee a seruant and two camels, and go to Rages of the Medes to Gabael, and bring me the money and bring him to the wedding.

3 For Raguel hath sworne that I shal not departe.

4 But my father counteth the daies: and if I tary long, he wil be verie sory.

Tobias care for his sonne.

5 So Raphael went out and came to Gabael, and gaue him the hand writing, who broght forthe bagges which were sealed vp, and gaue them to him.

The Angel goeth on Tobias message.

6 And in the morning they went forthe, bothe together, and came to the wedding. And Tobias begate his wife with childe.

CHAP. X.

Tobit and his wife thinke long for their sonne. 10 Raguel sendeth away Tobias and Sarra.

1 NOW Tobit his father counted euery day, & when the daies of the iournay were expired, and they came not,

2 Tobit said, Are they not mocked? or is not Gabael dead, and there is no man to giue him the money?

The father & mother are in heaucns for Tobias tarying

3 Therefore he was verie sory.

4 Then his wife said to him, My sonne is dead, seing he tarieth: and she began to bewaile him, and said,

5 Now * I care for nothing, my sonne, since I haue lost thee the light of mine eyes.

Chap 1,23.

6 To whome Tobit said, Holde thy peace: be not careful, for he is safe.

7 But she said, Holde thy peace, and deceiue me not: my sonne is dead: and she went out euery day by the waye, which they went, nether did she eat meat on the daye time, & did consume whole nights in bewailing her sonne Tobias vntil the fourtene tene daies of the wedding were expired, w^{ch} Raguel had s^worne, that he shulde tate there. Then Tobias said to Raguel, Let me go: for my father and my mother loke no more to se me.

8 But his father in law said vnto him, Take with me, and I will send to thy father, and they shal declare him thine affaires.

9 But Tobias said, No, but let me go to my father.

Raguel giueth Tobias, & his wife leave to departe.

10 Then Raguel arose, and gaue him Sarra his wife, and halfe his goods, as seruants, and cattel, and money, 11 And he blessed them, & sent them away, saying, The God of heauen make you, my children, to prosper before I dye.

Sarra is instructed by her parents.

12 And he said to his daughter, Honour thy father, & thy mother in law which are now thy parents, that I may heare good reporte of thee: and he kissed them. Edna also said to Tobias, The Lord of heauen restore thee, my deere brother, and giante that I may se thy children of my daughter Sarra; that I may reioyce before the Lord. Beholde now, I committe to thee my daughter as a pledge: do not intreat her euil.

CHAP. XI.

1 The returne of Tobias to his father. 9 How he was re- ceued. 10 His father hathe his sight restored and prai- seth the Lord.

1 After these things Tobias went his way, prausing God that he had giuen him a prosperous iourney, and blessed Raguel and Edna his wife, and went on his way till he dr^w nere to Nineue.

2 Then Raphael said to Tobias, Thou knowest, brother, how thou didst leaue thy father.

The Angels counsell to Tobias.

3 Let vs haste be fore thy wife, and prepare the house,

4 And take in thine had the gall of the fish. So they went their way, & the dogge fol- lowed them.

5 Now Anna sate in the way loking for her sonne,

6 Whome when she sawe coming, she said to h^r father, beholde, thy sonne cometh, & the man that went with him.

7 Then said Raphael, I knowe, Tobias; that thy father shal receiue his sight.

8 Therefore anoint his eyes with the gall, and being prickted therewith, he shal rub- be and make the whitenes to fall away, and shal se thee.

9 ¶ Then Anna rāne forthe, and fel on the necke of her sonne, and said vnto him, Se- ing I haue sene thee, my sonne, from hence forthe I am content to dye, and they wep- te bothe.

10 Tobit also went forthe towards the do- re, and stombled, but his sonne ranne vn- to him, 11 And toke holde of his father & sprinkled of the gall on his fathers eyes, saying, Be of good hope, my father.

12 And when his eyes began to picke, he rubbed them.

13 And the whitenes pilled away from the corners of his eyes, and when he sawe his sonne, he fel vpon his necke, 14 And he wept and said, Blessed art thou, O Lord, & blessed be thy Name for euer, and blessed be all thine hoilie Angels.

15 For thou hast scourged me, and hast had pittie on me: for beholde, I se my sonne To- bias: and his sonne, being glad went in, & tolde his father the great things that had come to passe in Media.

16 Then Tobit went out to mete his daugh- ter in law, reioycing and prausing God to the gate of Nineue: and they which sawe him go, maruciled, because he had receued his sight.

17 But Tobit testified before them all that God had had pittie on him. And when he came nere to Sarra his daughter in law, he blessed her, saying, Thou art welcome, daughter: God be blessed, which hathe broght thee vnto vs, & blessed be thy father: and there was great ioye among all his brethren which were at Nineue.

18 And Achiarus & Nafbas his brothers sonne came.

19 And Tobias mariage was kept seuen dayes with great ioye.

CHAP. XII.

2 Tobias' declareth to his father the pleasures that Ra- phael had done him. 5 The which he wolde recompen- se 11 15. Raphael declareth that he is an Angel sent of God.

1 Then Tobit called his sonne To- bias, and said vnto him, Prouide, my sonne, wages for the man, which wēt with thee, and thou must giue him more.

2 And he said vnto him, Of father, it shal not giue me to giue him halfe of those thigs which I haue broght.

3 For he hathe broght me againe to thee in safetie, and hathe made whole my wife, and hathe broght me the money, & hathe likewise healed thee.

4 Then the olde man said, It is due vnto him.

5 So he called the Angel, & said vnto him, Take halfe of all that ye nauē broght, and go away in safetie.

6 But he toke them bothe a parte, and said vnto them, Praise God, and conesse him, and giue him the glorie, and praise him for the things which he hathe done vnto you before all them that liue. It is good to praise God, and to exalte his Name, and to shewe forthe his euident workes with honour: therefore be not weaue to conesse him.

- 7 It is good to kepe close the secrets of a King, but it is honorable to reueile the workes of God: do that which is good, & no euil shal touche you.
- 8 Prayer is good with fasting, and almes, & righteousnes. A litle with righteousnes is better then much with vnrighteousnes: it is better to giue almes then to laye vp golde.
- 9 For almes doeth deliuer from death, and doeth purge all sinne. Those which exercise almes and righteousnes, shalbe filled with life.
- 10 But they that sinne, are enemies to their owne life.
- 11 Surely I wil kepe close nothing fró you: neuertheles, I said it was good to kepe close the secret of a King, but that it was honorable to reueile the workes of God.
- 12 Now therefore whé thou didest pray, & Sarra thy daughter in lawe, I did bring to memorie your prayer before y^e holie one: & when thou didest burye the dead, I was with thee likewise.
- 13 And when thou wast not grieued to rise vp, and leaue thy diner to burye the dead, thy good dede was not hid from me: but I was with thee.
- 14 And now God hathe sent me to heale thee, and Sarra thy daughter in law.
- 15 I am Raphael one of the seuē holie Angels, which present y^e prayers of the Saintes, and which go forthe before his holie maiestie.
- 16 Then they were bothe troubled, and fell vpon their face: for they feared.
- 17 But he said vnto them, Feare not, for it shal go wel with you: praise God therefore.
- 18 For I came not of mine owne pleasure, but by the good wil of your God: wherefore praise him in all ages.
- 19 *All these dayes I did appeare vnto you, but I did nether eat nor drinke, but you sawe it in vision.
- 20 Now therefore giue God thanks: for I go vp to him that sent me: but write all things which are done, in a booke.
- 21 And when they rose, they sawe him no more.
- 22 Then they confessed the great & wonderful workes of God, and how the Angel of the Lord had appeared to them.

CHAP. XIII.

A thanks giuing of Tobit, who exhorteth all to praise the Lord.

- 1 Then Tobit wrote a prayer of reioicing, and said, Blessed be God that liueth for euer, & blessed be his kingdome.
- 2 *For he doeth scourge, and hathe pitie: it leadeth to hel, and bringeth vp, nether is there anie that can auoide his hand.
- 3 Confesse him before the Gétiles, ye children of Israel: for he hathe scattred you among them.

- 4 There declare his greatnes, and extoll him before all the liuing: for he is our Lord and our God & our father for euer.
- 5 He hathe scourged vs for our iniquities, and wil haue mercie againe, & wil gather vs out of all naciós, among whome we are scattred.
- 6 If you turne to him with your whole heart, and with your whole minde, and deale vprightly before him, then wil he turne vnto you, and wil not hide his face fró you, but ye shal se what he wil do with you: therefore confesse him with your whole mouth, and praise the Lord of righteousness, and extoll the euerlasting King. I wil confesse him in the land of my captiuitie, and wil declare his power, & greatnes to a sinful nació O ye sinners, turne & do iustice before him: who can tel if he wil receue you to mercie, and haue pitie on you?
- 7 I wil extoll my God, and my soule shal praise the King of heauen, and shal reioyce in his greatnes.
- 8 Let all men speake, and let all praise him for his righteousnes.
- 9 O Ierusalem the holie citie, he wil scourge thee for thy childrens workes, but he wil haue pitie againe on the sones of righteous men.
- 10 Giue praise to the Lord duely, & praise the euerlasting King, that his tabernacle may be buylded in thee againe with ioye: and let him make ioyful there in thee those that are captiues, and loue in thee for euer those that be miserable.
- 11 Manie naciós shal come fró farre to the Name of the Lord God, with giftes in their hands, euē giftes to the King of heauen: all generaciós shal praise thee, & giue signes of ioye.
- 12 Cursed are all they, which hate thee: but blessed are they for euer which loue thee.
- 13 Reioyce, and be glad for the children of the iuste: for thei shalbe gathered, and shal blesse the Lord of the iuste.
- 14 Blessed are they which loue thee: for thei shal reioyce in thy peace. Blessed are they which haue bene sorrowful for all thy scourges: for they shal reioyce for thee, when they shal se all thy glorie, and shal reioyce for euer.
- 15 Let my soule blesse God the great King.
- 16 For Ierusalem shalbe buylt vp with sapphires, and emerodes, and thy wallis with pretious stones, and thy towres, and thy bulwarkes with pure golde.
- 17 And the streetes of Ierusalem shalbe paved with beral, and carbuncle, and stones of Ophir.
- 18 And all her streetes shal say, "Halleluiah, and 4 Lessons of Tobit to his sonne. 5 He prophesieth the destruction of Nineue. 7 And the restoring of Ierusalem and the Temple. 13 The death of Tobit, and his wife. 16 Tobias age and death.

1 SO Tobit made an end of praising God.

2 And he was eight and fiftie yere olde, when he lost his sight, which was restored to him after eight yere, and he gaue almes, and he continued to feare the Lord God, and to praise him.

3 And when he was verie aged, he called his sonne, and six of his sonnes sonnes, and said to him, My sonne, take thy children (for beholde, I am aged, and am ready to departe out of this life)

4 Go into Media, my sonne: for I beleue that those things which Ionas the Prophet spake of Nineue, that it shal be destroyed, & for a time peace shal rather be in Media, and that our brethren shal be scattred in the earth from that good land, & Ierusalem shal be desolate, and the House of God in it shal be burned, and shal be desolate for a time.

Ezra. 3. 2. & 6. 14.

5 Yet againe God wil haue pitie on them and bring them againe into the lād where they shal buylde a Temple, but not like to the first, vntil the times of that age be fulfilled, & being finished, they shal returne frō euerie place out of captiuitie, & buylde vp Ierusalem gloriously, and the House of God shal be buylt in it for euer with a glorious buylding, as the Prophetes haue spoken thereof.

6 And all nations shal turne, and feare the Lord God truly, & shal burye their idoles.

7 So shal all nations praise the Lord, & his people shal confesse God, and the Lord shal exalte his people, and all those which loue the Lord in trueth and iustice, shal reioyce, & those also which shewe mercie to our brethren.

8 And now, my sonne, departe out of Nineue, because that those things which the Prophet Ionas spake, shal surely come to passe.

9 But kepe thou the Law, & the commandements, & shewe thy self merciful & iust that it may go wel with thee.

10 And burye me honestly, and thy mother with me: but tarie no lōger at Nineue. Remember, my sonne, how a man handled Achtiacharus that broght him vp, how out of light he broght him into darkenes, and how he rewarded him againe: yet Achtiacharus was saued, but the other had his rewarde: for he went downe into darkenes. Manasses gaue almes, & escaped the snare of death, which they had set for him, but Aman fell into the snare and perished.

11 Wherefore now, my sonne, cōsider what almes doeth, and how righteousnes doeth deliuer. Whē he had said these things, he gaue vp the goft in the bed, being an hundred and eight and fiftie yere olde, and he buried him honorably.

Or, his soule failed him as she bed.

12 And when Anna was dead, he buried her with his father: but Tobias went with his wife and children to Ecbatane to Raguel his father in lawe.

13 Where he became olde with honour, and he buried his father and mother in lawe honorably, & he inherited their substance and Tobits his father.

14 And he dyed at Ecbatane in Media, being an hundred and seuē & twentie yere olde.

15 But before he dyed, he heard of the destruction of Nineue, which was taken by Nabuchodonosor and Assuerus, and before his death, he reioyced for Nineue.

IV D E T H.

CHAP. I.

2 The buylding of Ecbatane. 5 Nabuchodonosor made warre against Arphaxad and ouercame him. 12 He threateneth them that wolde not helpe him.

1 IN the twelfth yere of the reigne of Nabuchodonosor, who reigned in Nineue the great citie (in the daies of Arphaxad, which reigned ouer the Medes in Ecbatane,

2 And buylt in Ecbatane the walles rounde about, of hewen stone, thre cubites broad, and six cubites long, and made the height of the wall seuētie cubites, & the breadth thereof fiftie cubites,

3 And made the towres thereof in the gates of it of an hundred cubites, & the breadth thereof in the fundaciō threscore cubites,

4 And made the gates thereof, euen gates that were lifted vp on hie, seuētie cubites, & the breadth of them fortie cubites, for y going forthe of his mightie armies, and for the setting in aray of his foremen)

5 Euen in those daies, King Nabuchodonosor made warre with King Arphaxad in the great field, which is the field in the coastes of Ragau.

6 Then came vnto him all they that dwelt in the mountaines, & all that dwelt by Euphrates, and Tygris and Hydaspes, & the counrey of Arioch the King of the Elymeans, and verie manie nations assembled them selues to the battel of the sonnes of Chelod.

7 And Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians sent vnto all that dwelt in Persia, & to all that dwelt in the West, & to those that dwelt in Citicia, and Damascus, and Libanus and Antilibanus, and to all that dwelt vpon the sea coast,

8 And to the people, that are in Carmel, & Galaad, and the hies Galile, and the great field of Esarelam,

9 And to all that were in Samaria, & the cities thereof, & beyonde Iorden vnto Ieru salé, & Betane, & Chellus, & Cades, & the riuier of Egypt, and Taphnes, and Rameffe and all the land of Gescm, 10 Vnto one come to Tanis, & Memphis, & to all the inhabitants of Egypt, & to one come to the mountaines of Ethiopia.

11 But all the inhabitants of this counrey did not passe for the commandement of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians, nether woide they come with him to the battel. for they did not feare him: yea, he was before them as one mā: therefore they sent away his ambassidours from them without offe, and with dishonour.

12 Therefore Nabuchodonosor was very angrie with all this counrey, and swaie by his throne and kingdome that he wolde surely be auenged vpon all those coastes of Citicia and Damascus, and Syria, and that he woide slay with the sworde all the inhabitants of the land of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and all Iudea, and all that were in Egypt, til one come to the borders of the two seas.

13 Then he marched in battel aray with his power against King A. phaxad in the seuententh yere, and he preuailed in his battel: for he ouerthrowe all the power of Arphaxad, and all his horse men, and all his chariots.

14 And he wanne his cities, and came vnto Echatane, and toke the towres, and spoiled the stretes thereof, and turned the beautie thereof into shame.

15 He toke also Arphaxad in the mountaines of Ragzu, & smote him through with his dardes and destroyed him vterly that daye.

16 So he returned afterwarde to Nineue, bothe he and all his companie with a verie great multitude of men of warre, and there he passed the time, and banketed, bothe he, and his armie an hundred and twentie dayes.

CHAP. II.

9 Nabuchodonosor commanded presumptuously that all people shoulde be brought in subiects, 6 And to destroy those that disobeyed him 15 The preparation of Olofernes armie. 23 The conquest of his enemies.

17 ANd in the eightenth yere, the two and twentieth day of the first moneth, there was talke in the house of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians, that he shoulde aduenge him selfe on all the earth, as he had spoken.

2 So he called vnto him all his officers and all his nobles, and comunicated with the his secret counsil, and set before them with his owne mouth all the malice of the earth.

3 Then they decreed to destitoe all flesh, that had not obeyed the commandement of his mouth.

4 And when he had ended his counsil, Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians called Olofernes his chief captaine, and which was next vnto him, and said vnto him,

5 Thus saith the great King, the lord of the whole earth, Beholde, thou shalt go forthe from my presence, and take with thee men that trust in their owne strength, of footemen, an hundred and twentie thousand, & the number of horses with their riders, twelue thousand,

6 And thou shalt go against all the West counrey, because they desobeyed my commandement.

7 And thou shalt declare vnto them, that they prepare for me the land and the water: for I wil go forthe in my wrath against them, and wil couer the whole face of the earth with the feere of mine armie, and I wil giue them as a spyle vnto them,

8 So that their wounded shal fill their valleys, & their riuers, & the flood shal ouerflowe, being filled with their dead.

9 And I wil bring their captiuitie to the vtmost partes of all the earth.

10 Thou therefore shalt departe hence, and take vp for me all their counrey: and if they yelde vnto thee, thou shalt referue the for me vntil the day that I rebuke the.

11 But concerning them that rebell, let not thine eye spare the, but put the to death, & spyle them wheresoever thou goest.

12 For as I liue, and the power of my kingdome, whatsoeuer I haue spoken, that wil I do by mine hand.

13 And take thou heede that thou transgresse nor any of the comandements of thy Lord, but accomplish them fully, as I haue commanded thee, and diffuse not to do them.

14 ¶ Then Olofernes went forthe from the presence of his lord, and called all the gouernours, and captaines, and officers of the armie of Assur,

15 And he mustred the chosen men for the battel, as his lord had commanded him, vnto an hundred & twentie thousand, and twelue thousand archers on horsebacke.

16 And he set them in aray according to the maner of setting a great armie in aray.

17 And he toke camels & asses for their burdens,

- dens, a very great number, and shepe, and oxen, & goates without number for their prouision,
- 18 And vitaille for euerie man of the armie, and very muche golde & siluer out of the Kings house.
- 19 Then he went forthe and all his power, to go before in the viage of King Nabuchodonosor, & to couer all the face of the earth Westwarde, with their charets, and horsemen, and chosen fotemen.
- 20 A great multitude also of sundrie sortes came with them like grathoppers, and like the grauel of the earth: for the multitude was without number.
- 21 And they went forthe of Nineue thre daies iornay towarde the countrey of Bectileth, and pitched from Bectileth nere the mountaine which is at the left hand of the vpper Cilicia.
- 22 Then he toke all his armie, his fotemen and horsemen, and charets, and went from thence into the mountaines,
- 23 And he destroyed Phud and Lud, and spoyled all the children of Rasses, and the children of Ismael, which were towarde the wildernes at the South of the Chelians.
- 24 Then he went ouer Euphrates, and went through Mesopotamia, & destroyed all the hie cities that were vpon the iouer of Arbounai, vntil one come to the sea.
- 25 And he toke the borders of Cilicia, and destroyed all that resisted him, and came to the borders of Iapheth, which were towarde the South and ouer against Arabia.
- 26 He compassed also all the children of Madian, and burnt vp their tabernacles, and spoyled their lodges.
- 27 Then he went downe into the countrey of Damascus, in the time of wheat harvest and burnt vp all their fields, and destroyed their flockes and the herds: he robbed their cities, and spoyled their countrey, and smote all their yong men with the edge of the sworde.
- 28 Therefore feare and trembling fel vpon all the inhabitants of the sea coast, which were in Sidon and Tyrus, and them that dwelt in Sar & Ocina, & all that dwelt in Iemnaan: & they that dwelt in Azotus, & Ascalon feared him greatly.

CHAP. III.

The people subiect to Olofernes & he destroyed their gods that Nabuchodonosor might onely be worshipped.

- 1 SO they sent ambassadours to him with messages of peace, saying,
- 2 Beholde, we are the seruantes of Nabuchodonosor the great King: we lie downe before thee: vse vs as shaibe good in thy fight.
- 3 Beholde, our houses and all our places, and all our fields of wheat, and our floc-kes, and our herdes, and all our lodges and tabernacles lie befoie thy face: vse them as it pleaseth thee.

- 4 Beholde, euen our cities and the inhabitants thereof are thy seruants: come, and take them, as semeth good to thee.
- 5 ¶ So the men came to Olofernes, and declared vnto them after this maner.
- 6 Then came he downe towarde the sea coast, bothe he and his armie, and set garisons in the hie cities, and toke out of the chosen men for the warre.
- 7 So they and all the countrey rounde about receiued the, with crownes, with dances, and with timbrels.
- 8 Yet he brake downe all their borders, and cut downe their woods: for it was inoynd him to destroy all the gods of the land, that all nacions shulde worshipp Nabuchodonosor onely, and that all tongues and tribes shulde call vpon him as God.
- 9 Also he came against Esdraelon, nere vnto Iudea, ouer against the great sitat of Iudea,
- 10 And he pitched betwene Geba, and a citie of the Scythians, and there he taried a moneth, that he might assemble all the baggage of his armie.

CHAP. IIII.

The Israelites were afrased and defended their countrey, & Ioacim the Priest writeth to Bethulsa, that they shulde fortifie them selues. & They cryed to the Lord, and humbled them selues before him.

- 1 NOW the childre of Israel that dwelt in Iudea, heard all that Olofernes the chief captaine of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians had done to the nacions, and how he had spoiled all their temples, and brought them to noight.
- 2 Therefore they feared greatly his presence, and were troubled for Ierusalem, and for the Temple of the Lord their God.
- 3 For they were newly returned from the captiuitie, and of late all the people was assembled in Iudea, and the vessels and the altar of the House had bene sanctified because of the pollution.
- 4 Therefore they sent into all the coastes of Samaria, and the villages, and to Bethoro, and Belmen, and Iericho, and to Choba, and Esora, and to the valley of Salm,
- 5 And toke all the toppes of the hie mountaines, and walled the villages that were in them, and put in vitales for the prouision of warre: for their fields were of late reaped.
- 6 Also Ioacim the hie Priest which was in those daies in Ierusalem, wrote to the that dwelt in Bethulia & Betemestham, which is ouer against Esdraelon towarde the open countrey nere to Dothaim,

- 7 Exhorting them to kepe the passages of the mountaines: for by them there was an entrie into Iudea, & it was easie to let the that wolde come vp, because the passage was streit for two men at the moste.
- 8 And the children of Israel did as Ioacim the hie Priest had commanded them with the Ancients of all the people of Israel, which dwelt at Ierusalem.
- 9 Then cryed euerie man of Israel to God with great seruencie, and their soules with great affection.
- 10 Bothe they, and their wiues, & their children, and their cattel, and euerie stranger, and hireling, and their boght seruants put sackcloth vpon their loynes.
- 11 Thus euerie man & woman, and the children, and the inhabitants of Ierusalem fell before the Temple, & sprinkled ashes vpon their heades, and spred out their sackcloth before the face of the Lord: also they put sackcloth about the altar,
- 12 And cryed to the God of Israel, all with one consent moste earnestly, that he wolde not giue their children for a pray, and their wiues for a spoyle, and the cities of their inheritance to destruction, & the Sanctuary to pollution and reproche, and vnto derision to the heathen.
- 13 So God heard their prayers, and looked vpon their affliction: for the people fasted many daies in all Iudea and Ierusalem before the Sanctuary of the Lord almightie.
- 14 And Ioacim the hie Priest, and all the Priests that stode before the Lord, & ministred vnto y^e Lord, had their loynes girt with sackcloth, and offered the continual burnt offering, with prayers and the fre giftes of the people,
- 15 And had ashes on their mytres, & cryed vnto y^e Lord with all their power for grace, and that he wolde loke vpon all the house of Israel.
- C H A P. V.
- Achior the Ammonite doeth declare to Olofernes of the manner of the Israelitis.*
- 1 Then was it declared to Olofernes the chief captaine of the armie of Assur, that the children of Israel had prepared for warre, and had shut the passages of the mountaines, and had walled all the topes of the hie hilles, and had laied impediments in the champion countrey.
- 2 Wherewith he was very angrie, and called all the princes of Moab, and the captaines of Ammon, and all the gouernours of the sea coast.
- 3 And he said vnto the, Shewe me, o ye sonnes of Chanaan, who is this people y^e dwelleth in the mountaines? and what are the cities that they inhabit? and what is the multitude of their armie? and wherein is their strength and their power? and what King or captaine is raised among them ouer their armie?
- 4 And why haue they determined not to come to mete me, more then all the inhabitants of the West?
- 5 ¶ Then *said Achior the captaine of all the sonnes of Ammon, Let my lord heare the worde of the mouth of his seruant, and I wil declare vnto thee the trueth concerning this people, that dwell in these mountaines, nere where thou remainest: & there shal no lie come out of the mouth of thy seruant.
- 6 This people come of the stocke of the Chaldeans.
- 7 And *they dwelt before in Mesopotamia, because they wolde not follow the gods of their fathers, which were in the land of Chaldea.
- 8 But they went out of the way of their ancestres and worshipped the God of heauē, the God whome they knewe: so they cast them out from the face of their gods, and they fled into Mesopotamia, & sojourned there many daies.
- 9 Then *their God comanded them to departe fro the place where they sojourned, and to go into the land of Chanaan, where they dwelt, and were increased with golde and siluer, and with very muche cattel.
- 10 But when a famine couered all the land of Chanaan, they went downe into Egypt, and dwelt there til they returned, and became there a great multitude, so that one colde not number their linage.
- 11 *Therefore the King of Egypt rose vp against them, and vsed deceit against them, and broght them lowe with laboring in bricke, and made them sclaves.
- 12 Then they cryed vnto their God, and he smote all the land of Egypt with incurable plagues: so the *Egyptians cast them out of their sight.
- 13 And *God dryed the red Sea in their presence,
- 14 And *broght them into mount Sina and Cades barne, and cast forthe all that dwelt in the wildernes.
- 15 So they dwelt in the land of the Amorites, and they destroyed by their strength all them of Eschon, and passing ouer Iordan, they inherited all the mountaines.
- 16 And they *cast forthe before them the Chanaanites & the Pheresites, and the Iebusites, and them of Sichein, and all the Gergesites, and they dwelt in that countrey many daies.
- 17 And whiles they sinned not before their God, they prospered, because the God that hated iniquitie, was with them.
- 18 But *when they departed from the way which he appointed them, they were destroyed in many battels after a wonderful sorte,

- o King 25.1.* soure,* & were led captiues into a lād that was not theirs: & the Tēple of their God was cast to the ground & their cities were taken by the enemies.
- 627.25.* 19 But * now they are turned to their God, & are come vp siō the scattering wherein they were scattered, and haue possessed Ierusalem, where their Temple is, and dwell in the mountaines which were desolate.
- 20 Now therefore, my lord & gouernour, if there be anie faute in this people, so that they haue sinned against their God, let vs consider that this shalbe their ruine, and let vs go vp, and we shal ouercome them.
- 21 But if there be none iniquitie in this people, let my lord passe by, lest their Lord defend them, and their God be for them, and we become a reproche before all the worlde.
- 22 ¶ And when Achior had finished these sayings, all the people, standing rounde about the tent, murmured: & the chief men of Olofernes, and all that dwelt by the sea side and in Moab, spake that he shulde kill him.
- 23 For, say they, we feare not to mete y children of Israel: for lo, it is a people that haue no strength nor power against a mightie armie.
- 24 Let vs therefore go vp, o lord Olofernes, and they shal be meat for thy whole armie.
- CHAP. VI.
- Olofernes blasphemeth God whome Achior confessed. 14 Achior is deliuered into the hands of them of Bethulia. 18 The Bethulians crye vnto the Lord.*
- 1 AND when the tumulte of the men that were about the counsel, was ceased, Olofernes, the chief captaine of the armie of Assur, said vnto Achior before all the people of the strangers, and before all the children of Moab, & of them that were hited of Ephraim,
- 2 Because thou hast prophesied among vs to day, and hast said that the people of Ierusalem is able to fight, * because their God wil defend them: and who is god but Nabuchodonosor?
- Chap. 5.5.* 3 He wil send his power, and wil destroye them from the face of the earth, and their God shal not deliuer them: but we his seruants wil destroye them as one man: for they are not able to susteine the power of our horses.
- 4 For we wil tread them vnder fete with them, and their mountaines shalbe drunken with their blood, and their fields shal be filled with their dead bodies, and their fote-steppes shal not be able to stand before vs: but they shal vtterly perishe.
- 5 The King Nabuchodonosor, lord of all the earth, hath said, euen he hath said,
- None of my wordes shalbe in vaine.
- 6 And thou Achior an hireling of Ammon, because thou hast spoken these wordes in the day of thine iniquitie, thou shalt see my face no more from this day vntil I take vengeance of that people that is come out of Egypt.
- 7 And then shal the yron of mine armie, and the multitude of them that serue me, passe through thy sides, and thou shalt fall among their slayne, when I shal put them to flight.
- 8 And my seruants shal cary thee into the mountaines, and they shal leaue thee at one of the hie cities: but thou shalt not perish, til thou be destroyed with them.
- 9 And if thou persuaide thy self in thy minde, that they shal not be taken, let not thy countenance fall: I haue spoken it, and none of my wordes shalbe in vaine.
- 10 Then commanded Olofernes them concerning Achior, that they shulde bring him to Bethulia, and deliuer him into the hands of the children of Israel.
- 11 So his seruants toke him, and broght him out of the campe into the plaine: and they went out from the middes of the plaine into the mountaines, and came vnto the fountaines that were vnder Bethulia.
- 12 And when the men of the citie sawe the from the toppe of the mountaine, they toke their armour, and went forth of the citie vnto the toppe of the mountaine, euen all the throwers with slings, and kept them from comming vp, by casting stones against them.
- 13 But they went priuely vnder the hill, & bounde Achior, and left him lying at the fote of the hill, & returned to their lord.
- 14 Then the Israelites came downe from their citie, and stode about him, and lofed him & broght him into Bethulia, & presented him to the gouernours of their citie,
- 15 Which were in those daies, Ozias the sonne of Micha, of the tribe of Simeon, and Chabris the sonne of Gothoniel, & Charmis the soane of Melchiel.
- 16 And they called together all the Ancients of the citie, and all their youth ranne together, and their women to the assemble: and they set Achior in the middes of all their people. Then Ozias asked him of that which was done.
- 17 And he answered & declared vnto them the wordes of the counsel of Olofernes, and all the wordes that he had spoken in the middes of the princes of Assur, and whatsoever Olofernes had spoken proudly against the house of Israel.
- 18 Then the people fel downe and worshipped God, and cryed vnto God, saying,
- 19 O Lord God of heauen, beholde their pride, and haue mercie on the basenes of

- our people, and beholde this day the face of those that are sanctified vnto thee.
- 20 Then they comforted Achior, & praised him greatly.
- 21 And Ozias toke out of the assemblie into his house, & made a feast to the Elders, and they called on the God of Israel all that night for helpe.
- CHAP. VII.
- 1 Olofernes doeth besiege Bethulia & The counsell of the Idumeans and other against the Israelites. 23 The Bethulians murmure against their gouernours for lacke of water.*
- 1 THE next day, Olofernes commanded all his armie and all his people, which were come to take his parte, that they shulde remoue their campes against Bethulia, and that they shulde take all the streites of the hill, and to make waite against the children of Israel.
- 2 Then their strong men remoued their camps in that daye, and the armie of the men of waite was an hundreth thousand and seuentie fotemen, & twelue thousand horsmē, beside the baggage & other men that were afote among them, a very great multitude.
- 3 And they camped in the plaine nere vnto Bethulia, by the fountaine, and they spred abroad toward Dothaim vnto Belbaim, & and in length from Bethulia vnto Ciamō, which is ouer against Esdraelom.
- 4 Now the children of Israel, when they sawe y^e multitude, were greatly troubled, & said euerie one to his neighbour, Now wil they shut vp all the whole earth: for nether the hie mountaines nor the valleis, nor y^e hilles are able to abide their burden.
- 5 Then euerie one toke his weapōs of warre, and burning fyres in their towres, they remained and watched all that night.
- 6 But in the secōde day, Olofernes broght forthe all his horsemen in the sight of the childrē of Israel, which were in Bethulia,
- 7 And vewed the passages vp to their citie, and came to the fountains of their waters, & toke thē & set garisons of men of warre ouer thē, and remoued toward his people.
- 8 Then came vnto him all the chief of the children of Esau, and all the gouernours of the people of Moab, & all the captaines of the sea coast, and said,
- 9 Let our captaine now heare a worde, lest an inconuenience come in thine armie.
- 10 For this people of the children of Israel do not trust in their speares, but in the height of the mountaines, wherein they dwell, because it is not easy to come vp to the toppes of their mountaines.
- 11 Now therefore, my lord, fight not against them in battel aray, and there shal not so muche as one man of thy people perish.
- 12 Remaine in thy campe, and kepe all the men of thine armie, and let thy men kepe still the water of the countrey, that cometh forthe at the fote of the mountaine.
- 13 For all the inhabitants of Bethulia haue their water thereof: so shal thirst kill thē, and they shal giue vp their citie: and we and our people wil go vp to the toppes of the mountaines that are nere, & wil campe vpon them, & wache that none go out of the citie.
- 14 So thei & their wiues, & their children shalbe consumed with famine, & before the sworde come against thē, thei shalbe ouerthrowen in y^e stretes wher thei dwell.
- 15 Thus shalt thou reder them an euil reward, because thei rebelled & obeyed not thy persone peaceably.
- 16 And these wordes pleased Olofernes & all his soldiers, and he appointed to do as they had spoken.
- 17 So the campe of the children of Ammon departed, & with them fise thousand of the Assyrians, and they pitched in the valley, & toke the waters, and the fountains of the waters of the childrē of Israel.
- 18 Then the children of Esau went vp with the children of Ammon, & camped in the mountaines ouer against Dorhaim, & thei sent some of thē selues toward the South, and toward the East, ouer against Rebel, which is nere vnto Chusi, that is vpon the riuer Mochmur: and the rest of the armie of the Assyrians camped in the field, and couered the whole land: for their tents & their baggage were pitched in a wonderful great place.
- 19 Then the children of Israel cryed vnto the Lord their God, because their heart failed: for all their enemies had cōpassed them about, and there was no way to escape out from among them.
- 20 Thus all the companie of Assur remained about them, bothe their fotemen, charriots and horsemen, foure and thirtie dayes: so that euē all the places of their waters failed all the inhabitants of Bethulia.
- 21 And the cisternes were emptie, and they had not water ynough to drinke for one day: for they gaue them to drinke by measure.
- 22 Therefore their children swoned, and their wiues & yong men failed for thirst, and fel downe in the stretes of the citie, & by the passages of the gates, and there was no strength in them.
- 23 Then all the people assembled to Ozias, and to the chief of the citie, bothe yong men and women, and children, and cryed with a loude voyce, and said before all the Elders,
- 24 The *Lord iudge betwene vs & you: for you haue done vs great iniurie, in that ye haue

- haue not required peace of the children of Assur.
- 25 For now we haue no helper: but God hath the folde vs into their hands, that we shulde be thrown downe before them with thirst and great destruction.
- 26 Now therefore call them together, & deliuer the whole citie for a spoile to y^e people of Olofernes, and to all his armie.
- 27 For it is better for vs to be made a spoile vnto thē, then to dye for thirst: for we will be his seruants that we may liue, & not se y^e death of our infants before our eyes, nor our wiues, nor our children to dye.
- 28 We take to witnes against you the heauē and the earth, & our God and Lord of our fathers, which punisheth vs, according to our sinnes & the sinnes of our fathers, that he lay not these things to our charge.
- 29 Then there was a great crye of all w^h one cōsent in y^e middes of the assemblie, & they cryed vnto y^e Lord God w^h a loude voyce.
- 30 Then said Ozias to thē, Brethren, be of good courage: let vs waite yet fūe daies, in the which space the Lord our God may turne his mercie toward vs: for he wil not forsake vs in the end.
- 31 And if these daies passe, and there come not helpe vnto vs, I wil do according to your worde.
- 32 So he separated the people, euerie one vn to their charge, & they wēt vnto the walles and towres of their citie, & sent their wiues & their children into their houses, and they were very lowe broght in the citie.
- C H A P. V I I I.
- The parentage, life & conuersation of Iudeth. 11 She rebuketh the fastenes of the gouernours 12 She sheweth that they shulde not tempe God, but waite vpon him for succour. 33 Her enterprise against the enemies.*
- 1 NOW at that time, Iudeth heard thereof, which was the daughter of Merari the sonne of Ox, the sonne of Ioseph, the sonne of Oziel, the sonne of Elcia, the sonne of Ananias, the sonne of Gedeō, the sonne of Raphaim, the sonne of Acito, the sonne of Eliu, the sonne of Eliab, the sonne of Nathanael, the sonne of Samael, y^e sonne of Salafadai, the sonne of Israel.
- 2 And Manasses was her housband, of her stocke and kinred, who dyed in the barely haruest.
- 3 For as he was diligēt ouer thē that boude sheaues in y^e field, the heat came vpon his head, & he fel vpon his bed, & dyed in the citie of Bethulia, & they buried him with his fathers in the field betwene Dothaim and Balamo.
- 4 So Iudeth was in her house a widowe threyeres and foure moneths.
- 5 And she made her a tente vpon her house, and put on sackcloth on her loynes, and ware her widowes apparel.
- 6 And she fasted all y^e daies of her widow-
- hede, saue the day before the Sabbath and the Sabbaths, and the day before the newe moones, & in the feastes & solemne daies of the house of Israel.
- 7 She was also of a goodlie countenance & very beautiful to beholde: & her housband Manasses had left her golde & siluer, and men seruants, and maide seruants, and catel, and possessions, where she remained.
- 8 And there was none y^e colde bring an euil reporte of her: for she feared God greatly.
- 9 Now when she heard y^e euil wordes of the people against the gouernour, because they fainted for lacke of waters (for Iudeth had heard all the wordes y^e Ozias had spoken vnto them, and that he had s^worne vnto thē to deliuer the citie vnto the Assyrians within fūe daies) Chap 7.25.
- 10 Then she sent her maide y^e had the gouernement of all things that she had, to call Ozias and Chabris and Charmis the Ancients of the Citie.
- 11 And they came vnto her, and she said vnto them, Heare me, o ye gouernours of the inhabitants of Bethulia: for your wordes y^e ye haue spokē before the people this day, are not right, touching this othe which ye made & pronounced betwene God & you, & haue promised to deliuer y^e citie to the enemies, vnles within these daies the Lord turne to helpe you.
- 12 And now who are you that haue tempted God this day, & set your selues in the place of God among the children of men?
- 13 So now you seke the Lord almightie, but you shal neuer knowe any thing.
- 14 For you can not finde out y^e depth of the heart of mā, nether cā ye perceiue y^e things y^e he thinketh: thē how can you seach out God, that hath made all these things, and knowe his minde, or comprehend his purpose? Nay my brethren, prouoke not the Lord our God to anger.
- 15 For if he wil not helpe vs within these fūe daies, he hath power to defend vs when he wil, euen euerie day, or to destroy vs before our enemies.
- 16 Do not you therefore binde y^e counsels of the Lord our God: for God is not as man that he may be threatned, nether as y^e sonne of man to be broght to iudgement.
- 17 Therefore let vs waite for saluacion of him & call vpon him to helpe vs, & he wil heare our voyce if it please him.
- 18 For there appeareth none in our age, nether is there any now in these daies, nether tribe, nor familie, nor people, nor citie among vs, which worship y^e gods made with hands, as hath bene afore time.
- 19 For y^e which cause our fathers were giuē to the sworde, & for a spoile, & had a great fall before our enemies. Iud. 2. 11. 4. 2. & 6. 21.
- 20 But we knowe none other God: therefore re we trust that he wil not despise vs, nor any of our linage.

21 Nether when we shalbe taken,shal Iudea be so famous: for our Sanctuarie shalbe spoiled, and he wil require the prophanacion thereof at our mouth,

22 And the feare of our biethren, and the captiuitie of the countrey, & the desolatō of our inheritance wil be turne vpon our heads among the Gentiles, where soeuer we shalbe in bondage, & we shalbe an offence & a reproche to all thé that possess vs.

23 For our seruitude shal not be directed by fauour, but the Lord our God shal tune it to dishonour.

24 Now therfore, o brethren, let vs shewe an example to our brethren, because their hearts depend vpon vs, & the Sanctuarie, & the House, and the altar rest vpon vs.

25 Moreover, let vs giue thākes to the Lord our God, which tryeth vs euen as he did our fathers.

Gen. 22, 1.

Gen. 31, 7.

26 Remember what things he did to Abraham, and how he tryed Isaac, and all that he did to Iacob in Mesopotamia of Syria when he kept the shepe of Laban his mothers brother.

27 For he hath not tryed vs as he did them to the examination of their hearts, nether doeth he take vengeance on vs, but the Lord punisheth for instruction them that come nere to him.

28 ¶ Then said Ozias to her, All that thou hast spoken, hast thou spoken with a good heart, and there is none that is able to resist thy wordes.

29 For it is not to day that thy wisdom is knowen, but from the beginning of thy life all the people haue knowen thy wisdom: for the deuice of thine heart is good.

30 But the people were very thirstie, and compelled vs to do vnto them, as we haue spoken, & haue broght vs to an othe which we may not transgresse.

31 Therefore now pray for vs, because thou art an holy woman, that the Lord may send vs rayne to fill out cisternes, and that we may faint no more.

32 Then said Iudeth vnto them, Hear me, and I wil do a thing, which shalbe declared in all generations, to the children of our nacion.

33 You shal stand this night in the gate, and I wil go forthe with mine handmaid: and within the daies that ye haue promised to deliuer the citie to our enemies, the Lord wil visite Israel by mine hand.

34 But inquire not you of mine actes: for I wil not declare it vnto you, til the things be finished that I do.

35 Then said Ozias & the princes vnto her, Go in peace, and the Lord God be before thee, to take vengeance on our enemies.

36 So they returned from the tent, and went to their wardes.

CHAP. IX.

Iudeth humblith her self before the Lord, and maketh her prayers for the deliuerance of her people. 7 Against the pride of the Assyrians. 11 God is the helpe of the humble.

1 Then Iudeth fel vpon her face, and put ashes vpon her head, and put of the sackcloth wherewith she was clothed. And about the time that the incense of that evening was offered in Ierusalē in the House of the Lord, Iudeth cryed with a loude voyce, and said,

2 O Lord God of my father Simeon, to whom thou gauest a sworde to take ven-

3 geance of the strangers which opened the wombe of the maide, and defiled her, and discouered the thigh with shame, and polluted the wombe to reproche (for thou hadest commanded that it shulde not so be,

4 Y yet they did things for the which thou gauest their princes to the slaughter, for they were deceiued & washed their beds with blood) and hast striken the seruants with the gouernours, and the gouernours vpon their thrones,

5 And hast giuen their wiues for a pray and their daughters to be captiues, & all their spoiles for a bootie to thy children that thou louedst: which were moued with thy zeale, and abhorred the pollution of their blood, & called vpon thee for aide, o God, o my God, heare me also a widdowe.

6 For thou hast wrought the things afore, & these, and the things that shalbe after, and thou considerest the things that are present, and the things that are to come.

7 For the things which thou doest purpose, are present, & say, Beholde, we are here: for all thy waies are ready, & thy iudgements are foreknowen.

8 Beholde, the Assyrians are multiplied by their power: they haue exalted themselves with horses & horsemen: they glorie in the strength of their footemen: they trust in shield, speare and bowe, and sling, and do not knowe that thou art thy Lord that breakest the battels: the Lord is thy Name.

9 Breake thou their strength by thy power, and breake their force by thy wrath: for they haue purposed to defile thy Sanctuarie, & to pollute the tabernacle where thy glorious Name resteth, and to cast downe with weapons the hornes of the altar.

10 Beholde their pride, and send thy wrath vpon their heads: giue into mine hand which am a widow, thy strength which I haue conceiued.

11 Smite by the deceit of my lippen the seruant with the prince, and the prince with the seruant: abbate their height by the hand of a woman.

12 For thy power standeth not in the multitude, nor thy might in strong men: but thou,

12 Surely, surely thou art the God of my father, & the God of \bar{y} inheritance of Israel, the Lord of heauen and earth, the creator of the waters, the King of all creatures: heare thou my prayer, 13 And grant me wordes & craft, & a wounde, and a stroke against the that entreprife cruel things against thy couenant, and against thine holy House, & against the toppe of Sion, and against the house of the possession of thy children.

14 Shewe euidently among all thy people, & all the tribes, that they may knowe that thou art the God of all power & strength, & that there is none other that defendeth the people of Israel, but thou.

CHAP. X.

12 Iudeth decketh her selfe & goeth forthe of the citie. 13 She is taken of the watch of the Assyrians and brought to Olofernes.

1 Now after she had ceased to crye vnto the God of Israel, and had made an end of all these wordes,

2 She rose where she had fallen downe, and called her maide, & went downe into the house, in the which she abode in the Sabbath daies and in the feast daies,

3 And putting away the sackcloth wherewith she was clad, & putting of the garments of her widowhode, she washed her body with water, & anointed it with muche ointement, & dressed the heere of her head, and put attire vpon it, and put on her garments of gladnes, wherewith she was clad during the life of Manasses her housbād.

4 And she put slippers on her fete, & put on bracelets, & sleues, and rings, & earrings, & all her ornaments, and she decked her selfe brauely to allure the eyes of all men that shulde see her.

5 Then she gaue her maide a bottel of wine, and a pot of oyle, and filled a scrippe with floure, & with drye figges, & with fine bread: so she lapped vp all these things together and laid them vpon her.

6 Thus they went forthe to the gate of the citie of Bethulia, and found standing there Ozias, and the ancients of the citie, Charbis and Charmis.

7 And whē they sawe her that her face was changed, & that her garment was chāged, they marueiled greatly at her wonderful beautie, and said vnto her,

8 The God, \bar{y} God of our fathers giue thee fauour, and accomplish thine enterprises to the glorie of the children of Israel, and to the exaltation of Ierusalem. Then they worshipped God.

9 And she said vnto them, Cōmande the gates of the citie to be opened vnto me, that I may go forthe to accomplish the things which you haue spoken to me. So they cōmanded the yong men to open vnto her, as she had spoken.

10 And whē they had done so, Iudeth wēt out, she and her maide with her, and the men of the citie looked after her, vntil she was gone downe the mountaine, and til she had passed the valley, and colde see her no more.

11 Thus they went streight forthe in the valley, and the first watche of the Assyriās met her, 12 And toke her, & asked her, Of what people art thou? and whēce comest thou? and whether goest thou? And she said, I am a womā of the Hebrewes, and am fled from them: for they shalbe giuen you to be consumed.

13 And I come before Olofernes, the chief captaine of your armie, to declare him true things, and I wil shewe before him the way wherēby he shal go and winne all the mountaines, without losing the bodie or life of anie of his men.

14 Now when the men heard her wordes, & behelde her countenance, they wondered greatly at her beautie, and said vnto her,

15 Thou hast saued thy life, in that thou hast hasted to come downe to the presence of our lord: now therefore come to his tente, and some of vs shal cōduct thee vntil thei haue deliured thee into his hāds.

16 And whē \bar{y} standest before him, be not afraid in thine heart, but shewe vnto him according as thou hast to say, and he wil intreat thee wel.

17 Then they chose out of the an hundred men, and prepared a charet for her and her maide, and brought her to the tent of Olofernes.

18 Then there was a running to and fro, throughout the campe: for her comming was bruted among the tentes: & thei came and stode rounde about her: for she stode without the tent of Olofernes vntil they had declared vnto him concerning her.

19 And they marueiled at her beautie, and wondered at the children of Israel because of her, & euerie one said vnto his neighbour, Who wolde despise this people, that haue among the suche women? surely it is not good that one mā of them be left: for if thei shulde remaine, they might deceiue the whole earth.

20 Then Olofernes garde went out, and all his seruantes, and they brought her into the tente.

21 Now Olofernes rested vpon his bed vnder a canopie, which was wouen with purple and golde and emeraudes, and precious stones.

- 22 So they shewed him of her, and he came forthe vnto the entrie of his tent, and they caried lampes of siluer before him.
- 23 And when Iudeth was come before him and his seruants, they all marueiled at the beautie of her countenance, and she fel downe vpon her face, & did reuerence vnto him, & his seruants toke her vp.

CHAP. XI.

2 Olofernes comforteth Iudeth, 3 And asketh the cause of her coming. 5 She deceiveth him by her faire wordes.

1 Then said Olofernes vnto her, Womā, be of good comfort: feate not in thine heart: for I neuer hurt any that wolde serue Nabuchodonosor y King of all the earth.

2 Now therefore if thy people that dwel- leth in the mountaines, had not despised me, I wolde not haue lifted vp my speare against them: but they haue procured these things to them selues.

3 But now tel me wherefore thou art fled from them, and art come vnto vs: for thou art come for safegard: be of good cōfort, thou shalt liue frō this night, & hereafter.

4 For none shall hurt thee, but intreat thee wel, as they do the seruants of King Nabuchodonosor my lord.

5 Then Iudeth said vnto him, Receiue the wordes of thy seruāt, & suffer thine handmaide to speake in thy presence, and I wil declare no lie to my lord this night.

6 And if thou wilt follow the wordes of thine handmaide, God wil bring the thing perfectly to passe by thee, & my lord shall not faile of his purpose.

7 As Nabuchodonosor King of all y earth liueth, and as his power is of force, who hath sent thee to reforme all persones, not onely men shall be made subiect to him by thee, but also the beastes of the fields, & the cattel, & the foules of the heauen shall liue by thy power vnder Nabuchodonosor & all his house.

8 For we haue heard of thy wisdom and of thy prudent spirit, & it is declared through the whole earth, that thou onely art excellent in all the kingdome, and of a wonderful knowledge, and in feates of warre marueilous.

Chap. xi.

9 Now as concerning the matter which Achior did speake in thy counsel, we haue heard his wordes: for the men of Bethulia did take him, & he declared vnto them all that he had spoken vnto thee.

10 Therefore, o lord & gouernour, reiect not his wordes, but set it in thine heart, for it is true: for there is no punishment against our people, nether can the sworde preuaile against them, except they sinne against their God.

11 Now therefore lest my lord shulde be frustrate, and voide of his purpose, & that death may fall vpon them, and that they may be taken in their sinne whiles they prouoke their God to angre, which is so oft times as they do that which is not be- seming, 12 (For because their vittailles faile, and all their water is wasted, they haue determined to take their cattel, and haue purposed to consume all things that God had forbidden them to eat by his Lawes:

13 Yea, they haue purposed to consume the first frutes of the wheat, and the tithes of the wine, and of the oile which they had reserued and sanctified for the Priests that serue in Ierusalem before the face of our God: the which things it is not lawful for anie of the people to touche w their hāds.

14 Moreouer they haue sent to Ierusalem, because they also that dwel there, haue done the like, suche as shulde bring them licence from the Senate)

15 Now when they shall bring them worde, they wil do it, and they shall be giuen thee to be destroyed the same day.

16 Wherefore I thine handmaid, knowing all this, am fled from their presence, and God hath sent me to worke a thing with thee, whereof all the earth shall wonder, & whosoever shall heare it.

17 For thy seruant feareth God, and worshippeth the God of heauē day and night, and now let me remaine with thee, my lord, and let thy seruant go out in the night into the valley, and I wil pray vnto God, that he may reueile vnto me when they shall commit their sinnes, 18 And I wil come and shewe it vnto thee: then thou shalt go forthe with all thine armie, & there shall be none of them that shall resist thee.

19 And I wil lead thee through the middes of Iudea, vntil thou come before Ierusalem, and I wil set thy throne in the middes thereof, and thou shalt driue them as shepe that haue no shepherd, and a dogge shall not bark with his mouthe against thee: for these things haue bene spokē vnto me, & declared vnto me accordig to my foreknowledge, and I am sent to shewe thee.

20 ¶ Then her wordes pleased Olofernes, and all his seruants, and they marueiled at her wisdom, and said, 21 There is not suche a woman in all the worlde, bothe for beaurie of face, and wisdom of wordes.

22 Likewise Olofernes said vnto her, God hath done this, to send thee before y people, that strēgth might be in our hāds, and destruction vpo the that despise my lord.

23 And now thou art bothe beautiful in thy cōutenāce, & wittie in thy wordes: surely if thou do as y hast spoken, thy God shall be my my God, and thou shalt dwell in the house of Nabuchodonosor, & shalt be renomed throughout the whole earth.

CHAP. XII.

1 Iudeth wolde not pollute her self with the meat of the Gentiles. 5 She maketh her request that she might go out by night to pray. 11 Olofernes causeth her to come to the banquet.

Then he commanded to bring her in where his treasures were layed, and bade that they shulde prepare for her of his owne meates, and that she shulde drinke of his owne wine.

*Gen 43. 32.
ecc 1. 12.*

But Iudeth said, *I may not eat of them, lest there shulde be an offence, but I can suffice my seife with the things that I haue broght.

Then Olofernes said vnto her, If the things that thou hast, shulde faile, how shulde we giue thee the like? for there is none with vs of thy nation.

Then said Iudeth vnto him, As thy soule liueth, my lord, thine handmaide shal not spend those things that I haue, before the Lord worke by mine hand the things that he hath determined.

Then the seruants of Olofernes broght her into the tent, and she slept vntil midnight, and rose at the morning wache,

And sent to Olofernes, saying, Let my lord commāde that thine hādmaide may go forthe vnto prayer.

Then Olofernes commanded his garde that thei shuld not stay her: thus she abode in the campe thre dayes, and went out in the night into the valley of Bethulia, and washed her self in a fountaine, euen in the water by the campe.

And when she came out, she prayed vnto the Lord God of Israel, that he wolde direct her way to the exaltation of the children of her people.

So she returned, & remained pure in the tent, vntil she ate her meat at euening.

And in the fourthe day, Olofernes made a feast to his owne seruants onely, and called none of them to the bāket, that had the affaires in hand.

Thē said he to Bagoas the eunuche who had charge ouer all that he had, Go and persuaide this Hebrew woman, which is with thee, that she come vnto vs and eat, & drinke with vs.

For it were a shame for vs, if we shulde let suche a womā alone, & not talke w her, & if we do not allure her, she wil mocke vs

Then wēt Bagoas frō the presence of Olofernes, & came to her, & said, Let not this faire maide make difficultie to go into my lord, & to be honored in his presence, and to drinke wine with vs ioyfully, & to be intreated as one of the daughters of the children of Assur, which remaine in the house of Nabuchodonosor.

Then said Iudeth vnto him, Who am I now, that I shulde gaine say my lord? Surely whatsoeuer pleaseth him, I wil do speedely, and it shalbe my ioye vnto the day of my death.

So she arose & trimmed her w garments, and with all y ornaments of women, & her maide wēt, & spred for her skinnes on the groude ouer against Olofernes, which she had receiued of Bagoas for her daily vse, that she might sit and eat vpon them.

Now when Iudeth came & fate downe, Olofernes heart was iauished with her, and his spirit was moued, and he desired greatly her companie: for he had waited for the time to deceiue her from the day that he had sene her.

Then said Olofernes vnto her, Drinke now, and be merry with vs.

So Iudeth said, I drinke now, my lord, because my state is exalted this day more then euer it was since I was borne.

Thē she toke, & ate & drāke before him the things, that her maide had prepared.

And Olofernes reioyced because of her & drāke muche more wine thē he had drūke at anie time in one day since he was borne.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Iudeth prayeth for strength. 2 She smiteth of Olofernes necke. 10 She returneth to Bethulia & reioyceth her people.

Now whē the euening was come, his seruants made haste to departe, and Bagoas shut his tent without, & dismissed those that were present, from the presence of his lord, & they went to their beddes: *for they were all wearie, because the feast had bene long.

Ecc 3. 12.

And Iudeth was left alone in the tent, & Olofernes was stretched along vpon his bed: for he was filled with wine.

Now Iudeth had cōmanded her maide to stād without her chāber, & to waite for her cōming forthe as she did daily: for she said, she wolde go forthe to her prayers, & she spake to Bagoas according to the same purpose.

So all went forthe of her presence, & none was left in the chāber, nether litle nor great: thē Iudeth standing by his bed, said in her heart, O Lord God of all power, beholde at this present the workes of mine hands for the exaltation of Ierusalem.

For now is y time to helpe thine inheritāce, & to execute mine enterprises, to y destruction of y enemies w are risen against vs.

Then she came to the post of y bed which was at Olofernes head, & toke downe his fauchin from thence,

And approached to the bed, & toke holde of the heere of his head, and said, Strengthen me, o Lord God of Israel this day.

And she smote twice vpon his necke with all her might, and she toke away his head from him,

- 9 And roled his bodie downe from the bed, and pulled downe the canopie from the pillars, and anone after she went forthe, & gaue Olofernes head to her maid,
- 10 And she put it in her scrippe of meat: so they twaine went together according to their custome vnto prayer, and pressing through the tentes, went about by that valley, and went vp the mountaine of Bethulia, and came to the gates therof.
- 11 ¶ The said Iudeth afarre of to the watche men at the gates, Open now the gate: God, euen our God is with vs to shewe his power yet in Ierusalem, and his foice against his enemies, as he hath euen done this day.
- 12 Now whē the men of her citie heard her voyce, they made haste to go downe to the gate of their citie, and they called the Elders of the citie.
- 13 And they came all together bothe smale and great: for it was about their expectation, that she shulde come. So they opened the gate & receiued her, & made a fyre for a light, & stode rounde about the twaine.
- 14 Then she said to the with a loude voyce, Praise God, praise God: for he hath not taken away his mercie from the house of Israel, but hath destroyed our enemies by mine hands this night.
- 15 So she toke the head out of the scrippe & shewed it, and said vnto them, Beholde the head of Olofernes, the chief captaine of the armie of Assur, and beholde the canopie, wherein he did lie in his drunkēnes, & the Lord hath smitten him by the hand of a woman.
- 16 As the Lord liueth, who hath kept me in my way that I went, my countenance hath deceiued him to his destruccion, & he hath not committed sinne with me by any pollution or vilenie.
- 17 Then all the people were wonderfully astonished, and bowed them selues, and worshiped God, and said with one accorde, Blessed be thou, our God, which hast this day brought to nought the enemies of thy people.
- 18 Then said Ozias vnto her, O daughter, blessed art thou of the moste his God aboue all the women of the earth, and blessed be the Lord God, which hath created the heauens and the earth, which hath directed thee to the cutting of of the head of the chief of our enemies.
- 19 Surely this thine hope shal neuer departe out of the heartes of men: for they shal remember the power of God for euer.
- 20 And God turne these things to thee for a perpetual praise, and visite thee with good things, because thou hast not spared thy life, because of the affliction of our nation, but thou hast holpen our ruine, walking a streight way before our God. And all the people said, So be it, so be it.

C H A P. XIII.

- 1 Iudeth causeth to hang vp the head of Olofernes.
 10 Achior soyneth him selfe to the people of God.
 11 The Israelites go out against the Assyrians.

1 THEN said Iudeth vnto them, Heare me also, my brethren, and take this head, and hang it vpon the hiest place of your walles. 2 Mac 15.51

2 And so sone as the morning shal appeare and the sonne shal come forthe vpon the earth, take you euerie one his weapons, and go forthe euerie valiant man out of the citie, and set you a captaine ouer them, as though you wolde go downe into the field, towards the watche of the Assyrians, but go not downe.

3 Then they shal take their armour, & shal go into their campe, and raise vp the captaines of the armie of Assur, and they shal runne to the tent of Olofernes, but shal not finde him: then feare shal fall vpon the, and they shal flee before your face.

4 So you and all that inhabite the coastes of Israel, shal pursue them, & ouerthrowe them as they go.

5 But before you do these things, call me Achior the Ammonite, that he may see, and knowe him that despised the house of Israel, and that sent him to vs as to death.

6 Then they called Achior out of the house of Ozias, and when he was come and sawe the head of Olofernes in a certeine mans hand in the assemblie of the people, he fell downe on his face, and his spirit failed.

7 But when they had taken him vp, he fell at Iudeths fete, & reuerenced her, and said, Blessed art thou in all the tabernacle of Iuda, and in all nacions, which, hearing thy name, shalbe astonished.

8 Now therefore tel me all the things, that thou hast done in these dayes. The Iudeth declared vnto him in the middes of the people all that she had done from the day that she went forthe, vntil that houre she spake vnto them.

9 And whē she had left of speaking, the people reioyced with a great voyce, and made a noyce of gladnes through their citie.

10 And Achior, seing all things that God had done for Israel, beleued in God vnfainedly, and circumcised the foreskine of his flesh, and was ioyned vnto the house of Israel vnto this day.

11 ¶ As sone as the morning arose, they hanged the head of Olofernes out at the wall, & euerie man toke his weapons, and they went forthe by bandes vnto the flaytes of the mountaine.

12 But when the Assyrians sawe them, they sent

- sent to their captaines, which went to the governours and chief captaines, and to all their rulers.
- 13 So they came to Olofernes tent and said to him y had the charge of all his things, Wake our lord: for the sclaues haue bene bolde to come downe against vs to battel, that they may be destroyed for euer.
- 14 Then went in Bagoas, & knocked at the dore of the tent: for he thought that he had slept with Iudeth.
- 15 But because none answered, he opened it, and went into the chamber, and founde him cast vpon the floore, and his head was taken from him.
- 16 Therefore he cryed with a loude voyce, with weping and mourning, & a mightie crye, and rent his garments.
- 17 After, he went into the tent of Iudeth where she vsed to remaine, and founde her not: then he leaped out to the people and cryed,
- 18 These sclaues haue committed wickednes: one woman of the Hebrewes hath brought shame vpon the house of King Nabuchodonosor: for beholde, Olofernes lieth vpon the grounde without an head.
- 19 When the captaines of the Assyrians armie heard these wordes, they rent their coates, and their heart was wonderfully troubled, and there was a crye and a verie great noyce throughout the campe.

CHAP. XV.

1 The Assyrians are afraid and flee. 3 The Israelites pursue them & Ioacim the hie Priest cometh to Bethulia to se Iudeth and to praise God for her.

- 1 AND whē thei that were in the tents, heard, they were astonished at the thing that was done.
- 2 And feare and trembling fel vpon them, so that there was no man that durst abide in the sight of his neighbour: but altogether amafed, thei fled by euerie way of the plaine and of the mountaines.
- 3 They also that had camped in the mountaines rounde about Bethulia, were put to flight: thē the children of Israel, euery one that was a warrior among them, rushed out vpon them.
- 4 Then sent Ozias to Bethomasthem, and to Bebai, and Chobai, and Chola and to all the coastes of Israel, suche as shulde declare vnto them the things that were done, and that all shulde rushe forthe vpon their enemies to destroy them.
- 5 Now when the children of Israel heard it, they all fell vpon them together vnto Choba: likewise also thei that came from Ierusalem & from all the mountaines: for men had tolde thē what things were done in the campe of their enemies, and they that were in Galaad and in Galile chased them with a great slaughter vntil they came to Damascus and to the coastes thereof.

- 6 And the residue that dwelt at Bethulia, fel vpon the campe of Assur and spoiled them, and were greatly enriched.
- 7 And the children of Israel that returned from the slaughter, had the rest: & the villages & the cities that were in the mountaines & in the plaine, had a great bootie: for the abundance was verie great.
- 8 Then Ioacim the hie Priest, and the Ancients of the children of Israel that dwelt in Ierusalem, came to confirme the benefites that God had shewed to Israel, and to se Iudeth, and to salute her.
- 9 And when they came vnto her, thei blessed her with one accorde, & said vnto her, Thou art the exaltacion of Ierusalem: thou art the great glorie of Israel: thou art the great ioycing of our nacion.
- 10 Thou hast done all these things by thine hand: thou hast done muche good to Israel, & God is pleased therewith: blessed be thou of the almightie Lord for euermore: and all the people said, So be it.
- 11 And the people spoyled the campe the space of thirtie daies, and thei gaue vnto Iudeth Olofernes tent, and all his siluer & beddes, and basins, and all his stuffe, & she toke it and laied it on her mules, & made readie her charets, & laied them thereon.
- 12 Then all the women of Israel came together to se her, and blessed her, and made a dance among them for her, and she toke branches in her hand, and gaue also to the women that were with her.
- 13 They also crowned her with oliues, and her that was with her, and she went before the people in the dance, leading all the women: and all the men of Israel followed in their armour, with crownes and with songs in their mouthes.

CHAP. XVI.

Iudeth praiseth God with a song. 19 She offereth to the Lord Olofernes stuffe 23 Her continuance life and death. 25 All Israel lamenteth her.

- 1 THEN Iudeth began this confession in all Israel, and all the people sang this song with a loude voyce.
- 2 And Iudeth said, Beginne vnto my God with tymbrels: sing to my Lord with cymbales: tune vnto him a psalme: exalt his praise, and call vpon his Name.
- 3 For God breaketh the battels, and pitched his campe in the middes of the people, & deliuered me out of the hand of the persecuters.

5 He said that he wolde burne vp my borders & kill my yong men with the sworde, and dash the sucking children against the grounde, & make mine infants as a pray, and my virgines a spoile.

6 But the almightie Lord hathe broght them to naught by the hand of a woman.

7 For the mightie did not fall by the yong men, nether did the sonnes of Tiran smite him, nor the hie gyants inuade him, but Iudeth the daughter of Merari did discomfite him by the beaurie of her countenance.

8 For she put of the garment of her widowhode, for the exaltacion of those that were oppressed in Israel, and anointed her face with ointment, and bounde vp her heere in a coife, and toke a linnen garment to deceiue him.

9 Her slippers rauished his eyes: her beaurie toke his minde prisoner, and the fauchin passed through his necke.

10 The Persians were astonished at her boldenes, and the Medes were troubled with her hardines.

11 But mine afflicted reioyced, & my feble ones showted: then they feared, they listet vp their voyce and turned backe.

12 The children of maides perced them, and wounded them as they fled away like children: they perished by the battel of the Lord.

13 I wil sing vnto the Lord a song and praise, O Lord, thou art great and glorious, maruelous and inuincible in power.

Gen 1.24.
psal 33.9.
14 Let all thy creatures serue thee: * for thou hast spoken and they were made: thou hast sent thy Spirit, and he made them vp: & there is none that can resist thy voyce.

15 For the mountaines leape vp from their fundacions with the waters: the rockes melt at thy presence like waxe: yet thou art merciful to them that feare thee.

16 For all sacrifice is to litle for a swete sauour, and all the fat is to litle for thy burne offering: but he that feareth the Lord, is great at all times.

17 Wo to the nacions that rise vp against my kinred: the Lord almightie wil take vengeance of them in the day of iudgement, in sending fyre and wormes vpon their flesh, and they shal fele them & wepe for euer.

18 ¶ After, when they went vnto Ierusalem, they worshiped the Lord, and assone as the people were purified, they offered their burnt offerings, and their fre offerings, and their giftes.

19 Iudeth also offered all the stufte of Olofaines, which the people had giuen her, and gaue the canopie which she had taken of his bed, for an oblacion to the Lord.

20 So the people reioyced in Ierusalem by the Sanctuarie, for the space of thre moneths, and Iudeth remained with them.

21 After this time, euerie one returned to his owne inheritance, and Iudeth went to Bethulia, and remained in her owne possession, and was for her time honorable in all the countrey.

22 And manie desired her, but none had her companie all the dayes of her life after that Manasses her housband was dead, & was gathered to " his people.

23 But she increased more and more in honour, and waxed olde in her housbands house, being an hundreth and fve yere olde, & made her maid fre: so she dyed in Bethulia, and they buryed her in the graue of her housband Manasses.

24 And * the house of Israel lamented her Gen 50.10 feuen daies, & before she dyed, she did distribute her goods to all them that were nereft of kinred to Manasses her housband, and to them that were the nereft of her kinred.

25 And there was none that made the children of Israel anie more afraid in the daies of Iudeth, nor a long time after her death.

Certeine porcions of the storie of Esther, which are

Which follow the tenth chapter.

4 WHEN Mardocheus said, God hath done these things.
5 For I remember a dreame, which I sawe concerning these matters, and there was nothing there-

6 of omitted.
6 A litle fountaine which became a flood, and was a light, and as the sunne, & as much water, this flood was Esther whome the King married, and made Queene.

7 And the two dragons are I and Aman.

8 And the people are they that are assembled to destroye the name of the Iewes.

9 And my people is Israel, which cryed to God, and are saued: for the Lord hath saued his people, and the Lord hath deliuered vs from all these euils, and God hath wrought signes, and great wonders, which haue not bene done among the Gentiles.

10 Therefore hath he made two lottes, one for the people of God, and another for all the Gentiles.

11 And these two lottes came before God for all nations, at the houre and time appointed, and in the day of iudgement.

12 So God remembered his owne people, & iustified his inheritance.

13 Therefore those dayes shalbe vnto the in the moneth Adar the tenth and fifteth day of the same moneth, with an assemblie and ioye, and with gladnes before God, according to the generations for euer among his people.

CHAP. XI.

1 IN the fourth yere of the reigne of Ptolomeus and Cleopatra Dositheus, who said he was a Priest and Leuite, and Ptolomeus his sonne, that brought the former letters of Phurais, which thei said Lyfismachus the sonne of Ptolomeus, which was at Ierusalem, interpreted,

2 In the second yere of the reigne of great Artaxerxes in the first day of the moneth Nisan Mardocheus the sonne of Iarus, the sonne of Semei the sonne of Cis of the tribe of Beniamin had a dreame,

3 A Iewe dwelling in the citie of Susis, a noble man, that bare office in the Kings court.

4 He was also one of the captiuitie which Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon brought from Ierusalem with Iechonias.

5 And this was his dreame, Beholde a noice of a tempest with thunders, and earth quakes, and uproare in the land.

6 Beholde two great dragons came forthe ready to fight one against another.

7 Their crye was great, whereby all the heathen were ready to fight against the righteous people.

8 And the same day was full of darkenes & obscuritie, & trouble, & anguish: yea, aduersitie, and great affliction was vpon the earth.

9 For then the righteous fearing their afflictions, were amazed, and being ready to dye, cryed vnto God.

10 And while they were crying, the litle wel grewe into a great riuer, and flowed ouer with great waters.

11 The light & the sunne rose vp, & the lowlie were exalted, & deuoured the glorious.

12 Now when Mardocheus had sene this dreame, he awoke and rose vp and thought in his heart vntil the night, what God wolde do, & so he desired to know all the matter.

CHAP. XII.

1 AT the same time dwelt Mardocheus in the Kings court with Bagathas, and Thara, the Kings eunuches & keepers of the palace.

2 *But when he heard their purpose, and their imaginacions, he perceued that they went about to lay their hands vpon the King Artaxerxes, and so he certified the King thereof.

3 Then caused the King to examine the two eunuches with torments, and when they had confessed it, they were put to death.

4 This the King caused to be put in the Chronicles. Mardocheus also wrote the same thing.

5 So the King commanded that Mardocheus shulde remaine in the court, and for the aduertisement, he gaue him a rewarde.

6 But Amas the sonne of Amadathus the Agagite, who was in great honour and reputation with the King, went about to hurt Mardocheus & his people, because of the two eunuches of the King who were put to death.

Esther 2.20 & 6.2.

Ioseph Act 29 li. 33 chap 6.

- 2 When I was made lord ouer manie people, & had subdued the whole earth vnto my dominion, I wolde not exalte my self by the reason of my power, but purposed with equitie alway and gētelnes to gouerne my subiects, and wholly to set them in a peaceable life, and thereby to bring my kingdome vnto tranquillitie, that mē might safely go thorow on euerie side, and to renew peace againe, which all men desire.
- 3 Now when I asked my counsellers how these things might be brought to passe, one that was conuersant with vs, of excellent wisdom, and constant in good wil, and shewed him self to be of sure fidelitie, which had the seconde place in the kingdome, euen Aman,
- 4 Declared vnto vs, that in all naciōs there was scatered abroade a rebellious people, that had Lawes contrarie to all people, and haue alway dispised the commandments of Kings, and so that this general empire, that we haue begonne, can not be gouerned without offence.
- 5 Seing now we perceiue, that this people alone are altogether contrarie vnto euerie man, vsing strange and other maner of lawes, and hauing an euil opinion of our doings, and go about to stablishe wicked matters, that our kingdome shulde not come to good estate,
- 6 Therefore haue we commanded, that all they that are appointed in writing vnto you by Aman (which is ordeined ouer the affaires, & is as our seconde father) shal all with their wiues and childrē be destroyed and rooted out with the sworde of their enemies without all mercie, and that none be spared the fortenth day of the twelfth moneth Adar of this yere,
- 7 That they which of olde, and now also haue euer bene rebellious, may in one day with violence be thruste downe into the hell, to the intente that after this time our affaires may be without troubles, and wel gouerned in all pointes.
- 8 Then Mardocheus thought vpon all the workes and of the Lord, and made his prayer vnto him,
- 9 Saying, O Lord, Lord, the King almightie (for all things are in thy power) and if thou hast appointed to saue Israel, there is no man that can withstande thee.
- 10 For thou hast made heauen and earth, and all the wonderous things vnder the heauen.
- 11 Thou art Lord of all things, and there is no man that can resist thee, which art the Lord.
- 12 Thou knowest all things, & thou knowest, Lord, that it was nether of malice, nor presumption, nor for anie desire of glorie, that I did this, and not bowe downe to

- proude Aman.
- 13 For I wolde haue bene cōtent with good wil for the saluation of Israel, to haue kist the sole of his fete.
- 14 But I did it, because I wolde not preferre the honour of a man aboute the glorie of God, and wolde not worship anie but onely thee, my Lord, and this haue I not done of pride.
- 15 And therefore, o Lord God and King, haue mercie vpon thy people: for they imagine how they may bring vs to naught, yea, they wolde destroye the inheritance, that hathe bene thine frō the beginning.
- 16 Dispise not the porcion, which thou hast deliuered out of Egypt for thine owne self.
- 17 Heare my prayer, and be merciful vnto thy portion: turne our sorowe into ioye, that we may liue, o Lord, and praise thy Name: shut not the mouthes of them that praise thee.
- 18 All Israel in like maner cryed moste earnestly vnto the Lord, because that death was before their eyes.

CHAP. KIIII.

The prayer of Esther for the deliuerance of her, and her people.

- 1 Q Vene Esther also, being in danger of death, resorted vnto the Lord,
- 2 And laid away her glorious apparel, and put on the garments of sighing, and mourning. In the stead of precious ointement, she scatered ashes, and dongue vpon her head: and she humbled her bodie greatly with fasting, and all the places of her ioye filled she with the heere that she plucked of.
- 3 And she prayed vnto the Lord God of Israel, saying, O my Lord, thou onely art our King: helpe me desolate womā, which haue no helper but thee.
- 4 For my danger is at hand.
- 5 Frō my youth vp I haue heard in the kindred of my father, that thou, o Lord, tokest Israel from among all people, and our fathers from their predecessours for a perpetual inheritance, and thou hast performed that which thou didest promise them.
- 6 Now Lord, we haue sinned before thee: therefore hast thou giuen vs into the hāds of our enemies.
- 7 Because we worshipped their gods, o Lord, thou art righteous.
- 8 Neuertheles, it satisfieth them not, that we are in bitter captiuitie, but they haue stroken hands with their idoles,
- 9 That they wil abolishe the thing that thou with thy mouth hast ordeined, & destroye thine inheritance, to shut vp the mouthe of them that praise thee, and to quence the glorie of thy tēple, and of thine altar,
- 10 And

- 10 And to open the mouthes of the heathen, that they may praise the power of the idoles, and to magnifie a fleshlie King for euer.
- 11 O Lord, giue not thy scepter vnto them that be nothing, lest they laugh vs to scorne in our miserie: but turne their deuise vpon them selues, and make him an example, that hathe begonne the same against vs.
- 12 Thinke vpon vs, o Lord, and shewe thy self vnto vs in the time of our distresse, and strengthen me, o King of gods, and Lord of all power.
- 13 Giue me an eloquent speache in my mouth before the Lion: turne his heart to hate our enemy, to destroye him, and all suche as consent vnto him.
- 14 But deliuer vs with thine hand, and helpe me that am solitarie, which haue no defence but onely thee.
- 15 Thou knowest all things, o Lord: thou knowest, that I hate the glorie of the vnrighteous, & that I abhorre the bed of the vncircumcised, and of all the heathen.
- 16 Thou knowest my necessitie: for I hate this token of my preeminence, which I beare vpon mine head, what time as I must shewe my self, & that I abhorre it as a mestruous cloth, & that I weare it not when I am alone by my self,
- 17 And that I thine hand maide haue not eaten at Amans table, and that I haue had no pleasure in the Kings feast, nor drunke the wine of the drinke offrings,
- 18 And that I thine hand maide haue no ioye sence the day that I was brought hether, vntil this day, but in thee, o Lord God of Abraham.
- 19 O thou mightie God aboute all, heare the voyce of them, that haue none other hope, and deliuer vs out of the hand of the wicked, and deliuer me out of my feare.

CHAP. XV.

1 Mardocheus moueth Esther to go in to the King and make intercession for her people. 2 And she performeth his request.

- 1 Mardocheus also bade Esther to go in vnto the King, and pray for her people, and for her countrey.
- 2 Remember, saith he, the daies of thy lowe estate, how thou wast nourished vnder mine hand: for Aman which is next vnto the King, hathe giuen sentence of death against vs.
- 3 Call thou therefore vpon the Lord, and speake for vs vnto the King, and deliuer vs from death.
- 4 And vpon the thirde day when she had ended her prayer, she laid away the mourning garments, and put on her glorious apparel,

- 5 And decke her self goodly, after that she had called vpon God, which is the beholder and sauour of all things, & toke two handmaidens with her.
- 6 Vpon the one she leaned her self, as one that was tender.
- 7 And the other followed her, and bare the traine of her vesture.
- 8 The shine of her beautie made her face rose coloured: and her face was chearful & amiable, but her heart was sorowful for great feare.
- 9 Then she went in thorow all the doores, and stode before the King, and the King fate vpon his royal throne, & was clothed in his goodlie araye, all glittering with golde and precious stones, and he was very terrible.
- 10 Then he lift vp his face, that shone with maiestie, and looked fiercelly vpon her: therefore the Quene fel downe, and was pale and faint and leaned her self vpon the head of the maide, that went with her.
- 11 Neuertheles, God turned the Kings minde: he was gentle, who being careful, leaped out of his throne, and toke her in his armes, til she came to her self againe: and comforted her with louing wordes, and said,
- 12 Esther, what is the matter? I am thy brother, be of good cheare,
- 13 Thou shalt not dye: for our commandement toucheth the commons, and not thee. Come nere.
- 14 And so he helde vp his golden sceptre, & laid it vpon her necke,
- 15 And kissed her, and said, Talke with me.
- 16 Then said she, I sawe thee, o lord, as an Angel of God, & mine heart was troubled for feare of thy maiestie.
- 17 For wonderful art thou, o lord, and thy face is ful of grace.
- 18 And as she was thus speaking vnto him, she fel downe againe for faintnes.
- 19 Then the King was troubled, and all his seruants comforted her.

CHAP. XVI.

The copie of the letters of Artaxerxes, whereby he reuoketh those which he first sent forth.

- 1 The great King Artaxerxes, which Joseph Anti. 11. chap. 6. reigneth from India vnto Ethiopia, ouer an hundred and seuen and twentie prouinces, sendeth vnto the princes and rulers that haue the charge of our affaires, Salutation.
- 2 There be many that through the goodnes of Princes and honour giuen vnto them, become very proude,
- 3 And in deuoure not onely to hurt our subiects, but not content to liue in wealth, do also imagine destruction against those that do them good,
- 4 And take not onely all thakefulnes away

- from men, but in pride & presumption, as they that be vnmindful of benefites, they thinke to escape the vengeance of God, that seeth all things, & is cōtrarie to euil.
- 5 And oft times manie, which be set in office, and vnto whome their friends causes are committed, by vaine intisemēts do wrappe them in calamities, that can not be remedied: for they make them partakers of innocent blood,
- 6 And discertfully abuse the simplicitie, & gentlenes of princes with lying tales.
- 7 This may be proued not onely by olde histories, but also by those things that are before our eyes, and are wickedly committed of suche pestilences as are not worthie to beare rule.
- 8 Therefore we must take hede hereafter, that we may make y^e kingdome peaceable for all mē, what chāge so euer shal come,
- 9 And discerne the things that are before our eyes, to withstand thē with gentlenes.
- 10 For Aman, a Macedonian, the sonne of Amadathus, being in dede a strāger from the Persians blood, and farre from our goodnes, was receiued of vs,
- 11 And hath proued the friendship that we beare towarde all nations, so that he was called our father, and was honored of euerie man, as the next persone vnto the King.
- 12 But he colde not vse him self soberly in this great dignitie, but wēt about to depriue vs of the kingdome, & of our life.
- 13 With manifolde disceite also hath he desired to destroye Mardocheus our pferuer, which hath done vs good in all thigs, and innocent Esther the partaker of our kingdome, with all her nation.
- 14 For his minde was (when he had taken them out of the way) to lay waite for vs, and by this meanes to translate the kingdome of the Persians vnto them of Macedonia.
- 15 But we finde that the Iewes (which were accused of this moste wicked mā that they might be destroyed) are no euil doers, but vse moste iust Lawes,
- 16 And that they be y^e children of the moste high and almightie and euer liuing God, by whome the kingdome hath bene pferued vnto vs, and our progenitours in verie good ordre.
- 17 Wherefore ye shal do wel, if ye do not put in execution those letters, that Aman the sonne of Amadathus did write vnto you.
- 18 For he that inuented them, hāgeth at Susis befoie the gates with all his familie, & God (which hath all things in his power) hath spedely rewarded him after his deseruing.
- 19 Therefore ye shal publishe the copie of this letter in all places, that the Iewes may frely liue after their owne Lawes.
- 20 And ye shal aide them, that vpon the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth Adar they may be aduenged of them, which in the time of their trouble wolde haue oppressed them.
- 21 For almightie God hath turned reioye the day, wherein the chosen people shulde haue perished.
- 22 Moreouer, among other solemne daies ye shal kepe this day with all gladnes,
- 23 That bothe now & in time to come this day may be a remēbrance of deliuerāce for vs and all suche as loue the prosperitie of the Persians, but a remēbrance of destruction to those that be sedicious vnto vs.
- 24 Therefore all cities and countreis that do not this, shal horribly be destroyed with sworde and fyre, and shal not onely not be inhabited of men, but be abhorred also of the wilde beastes and foules for euer.

1 Wisdom* righteousnes, ye that be iudges of the earth: thinke reuerently of the Lord, & seke him in simplicitie of heart. 2 *For he will be founde of them that tempte him not, & appeareth vnto suche as be not vnfaithful vnto him.

3 For wicked thoughts seperate from God: and his power when it is tryed, reprobeth the vnwise,

4 Because wisdom can not enter into a wicked heart, nor dwell in the body that is subiect vnto sinne.

5 For the holy* Spirit of discipline fleeth from discert, & withdraweth him self from the thoughts y^e are without vnderstanding, and is rebuked when wickednes cometh.

will not absolue him, y^e blasphemeth with his lippes: for God is a witness of his reines, and a true beholder of his heart, and an hearer of the tongue.

7 For the Spirit of the Lord filleth all the worlde: and the same that mainteineth all things, hath the knowledge of the voyce.

8 Therefore he that speaketh vnrighteous things, can not be hid: nether shal the iudgement of reproche let him escape.

9 For inquisition shalbe made for the thoghtes of the vngodlie, and the founde of his wordes shal come vnto God for the correction of his iniquities.

10 For y^e care of ielousie heareth all things, and the noyce of the grudgings shal not be hid.

11 Therefore beware of murmuring, which profiteth nothing, & refraine your tongue from sclander: for there is no worde so secret, that shal go for noight, & the mouth that speaketh lies, slaieth the soule.

14 For he created all things, that they might haue their being: and the generacions of the worlde are preserued, and there is no payson of destruction in them, & the kingdom of hell is not vpon eath.

15 For righteousness is immortal, but vnrighteousnes bringeth death.

16 And the vngodlie call it vnto them both with hands and wordes: and while they thinke to haue a friend of it, they come to naught: for they are confederate with it: therefore are they worthie to be partakers thereof.

6 For all the children that are borne of the wicked bed, shal be witnes of the wickednes against their parents when they be asked.

16 But the children of adulterers shal not be partakers of the holy things, and the seed of the wicked bed shal be rooted out.

12 For wickednes by bewitching obscureth the things that are good, & the vnstedfastnes of concupiscēce peruerteth the simple minde.

17 And thogh they liue lōg, yet shal they be nothing regarded, and their last age shal be without honour.

13 Thogh he was sone dead, yet fulfilled he muche time.

15 Yet the people se & vnderstand it not, & cōsider no suche things in their hearts, how that grace and mercie is vpon his Saintes, and his prouidence ouer the elect.

16 Thus the righteous that is dead, cōdemneth the vngodlie which are liuing: & the youth that is sone brought to an end, the long life of the vnrighteous.

17 For they se the end of the wise, but they vnderstand not what God hathe deuised for him, and wherefore the Lord hathe preferred serued him in safetie.

- 18 They se him and despise him, but the Lord wil laugh them to scorne,
- 19 So that they shal fall hereafter without honour, and shal haue a shame among the dead for euermore: for without anie voyce shal he burle them and cast them downe, and shake them from the fundacions, so that they shalbe vterly wasted, and they shalbe in sorowe, and their memorial shal perish.
- 20 So they being afraied, shal remember their sinnes, & their owne wickednes shal come before them to conuince them.

CHAP. V.

1 The constancies of the righteous before their persecuters. 14 The hope of the vnfaithful is vaine. 15 The blessednes of the saintes and godlie.

- 1 Then shal the righteous stand in great boldenes before the face of suche as hauē tormented him, and taken away his labours.
- 2 When thei se him, thei shalbe vexed with horrible feare, and shalbe amased for his wonderful deliuerance,
- 3 And shal change their mindes, and sigh for grief of minde, and say within them selues, This is he whome we sometime had in derision, and in a parable of reproche.
- 4 *We fooles thought his life madnes, and his end without honour.
- 5 How is he counted among the children of God, and his poicion is among the Saintes!
- 6 Therefore we haue erred from the waye of trueth, and the light of righteousnes hath not shined vnto vs, and the sunne of vnderstanding rose not vpon vs.
- 7 We haue wearied our selues in the waye of wickednes and destruction, and we haue gone through daigerous waies: but we haue not knowen the way of the Lord.
- 8 What hath pride profited vs? or what profite hath the pompe of riches brought vs?

- 9 All those things are *passed away like a shadow, and as a poste that passeth by:
- 10 As a shippe that passeth ouer the waues of the water, which when it is gone by, the trace thereof can not be founde, nether the path of it in the floods:
- 11 Or as * a birde that fleeth thorowe in the aire, and no man can se anie token of her passage, but onely heare the noise of her wings, beating the light winde, parting the aire thorow the vehemencie of her going, & fleeth on shaking her wings, where as afterwarde no token of her way can be founde:
- 12 Or as when an arrowe is shot at a marke, it parteth the aire, which immediatly cometh together againe, so that a man can not knowe where it went thorowe.

- 13 Euen so we, as sone as we were borne, we beganne to drawe to our end, and haue shewed no token of vertue, but are consumed in our owne wickednes.
- 14 For* the hope of the vngodlie is like the dust that is blowne away with the winde, and like a thinne fume that is scattered abroad with the storme, and as the smoke, which is disperfed with the winde, and as the remembrance of him passeth, that tarieth but for a day.

- 17 He shal take his ielousie for armour, & shal arme the creatures to be reuenged of the enemies.
- 18 He shal put on righteousnes for a breastplate, and take true iudgement in stead of an helmet.
- 19 He wil take holines for an inuincible shield.
- 20 He wil sharpe his fierce wrath for a sworde, and the worlde shal fight with him against the vnwise.
- 21 Then shal the thunder boltes go straight out of the lightnings, and shal flee to the marke as out of the bent bowe of y clouds, and out of his angre that throweth stones, shal thicke haile be cast, and the water of the sea shalbe wrothe against them, & the floods shal mightely ouerflowe.
- 22 And a mightie winde shal stand vp against them, and like a storme shal scatter them abroad. Thus iniquitie shal bring all the earth to a wildernes, and wickednes shal ouerthrowe the thrones of the mightie.

CHAP. VI.

The calling of Kings, princes and iudges, which are also exhorted to searche wisdom.

- 1 Heare therefore, o ye Kings, and vnderstand: learne, ye that be iudges of the ends of the earth.
- 2 Giue care, ye that rule the multitudes & glorie in the multitude of people.
- 3 For the rule * is giuen you of the Lord, and power by the moste High, which wil trye your workes, and searche out your imaginacions.
- 4 Because that ye being officers of his kingdome haue not iudged aright, nor kept the Law, nor walked after the wil of God,
- 5 Horribly and sodenly wil he appeare vnto you: for an hard iudgement shal they haue that beare rule.

7 For he that is Lord ouer all, wil spare no * persone, nether shal he feare anie greatnes: for he hathe made the small and great, and careth for all a like,
8 But for the mightie abideth yforer tryal.
9 Vnto you therefore, o tyrants, do I speake, that ye may learne wisdom, and not go amisse.
10 For they that kepe holines holily, shalbe holie, and they that are learned therin, shal finde a defence.
11 Wherefore set your delite vpon my wordes & desire them, & ye shalbe instructed.
12 Wisdom: shineth & neuer fadeth away, and is easly sene of them that loue her, & founde of suche as seke her, 13 She preuenteth them that desire her, that she may first shewe her self vnto them.
14 Whoso awaketh vnto her betimes, shal haue no great trauail: for he shal finde her sitting at his doores.
15 To thinke vpon her then is perfite vnderstanding: and who so watcheth for her, shalbe sone without care.
16 For she goeth about, seking suche as are mete for her, and sheweth her self cherefully vnto them in the wayes, and meteth them in euerie thoght.
17 For the moste true desire of discipline is her beginning: and the care of discipline is loue:
18 And loue is the keeping of her lawes: and the keeping of the lawes is the assurance of immortalitie:
19 And immortalitie maketh vs nere vnto God.
20 Therefore the desire of wisdom lea- deth to the kingdome.
21 If your delite be then in thrones, & scepters, o Kings of the people, honour wisdom, that ye may reign: for euer.
22 Now I wil tell you what wisdom is, & whence it cometh, & wil not hide the mysteries from you, but wil seke her out from the beginning of her natiuitie, and bring the knowledge of her into light, and wil not kepe backe the trueth.
23 Nether wil I haue to do with consuming chuike: for suche a man shal not be partaker of wisdom.
24 But the multitude of the wise is the preseruacion of the worlde, and a wise King is the staye of the people.
25 Be therefore instructed by my wordes, & ye shal haue profite.

CHAP. VII.

Wisdom ought to be preferred aboue all things.

1 I My self am also mortal and a man like all other, and am come of him that was first made of the earth.
2 And in my mothers wōbe was I facioned to be flesh in ten moneths: I was * brought together into blood of the sēde of man, and by the pleasure that cometh with slepe.

3 And when I was borne, I receiued the commune aire, and fel vpon the earth, which is of like nature, crying & weeping at the first as all other do.
4 I was nourished in swadling clothes, and with cares.
5 For there is no King that had anie other beginning of birth.
6 All * men then haue one entrance vnto life, and a like going out. Iob. 2, 21. 1 Tim. 6, 7.
7 Wherefore I praised, and vnderstanding was giuen me: I called & the Spirit of wisdom came vnto me.
8 I preferred her to scepters and thrones, & counted riches nothing in comparison of her.
9 * Nether did I compare precious stones vnto her: for all golde is but a litle grauel in respect of her, and siluer shalbe counted but clay before her. Iob. 28, 15.
10 I loued her aboue health and beautie, & purposed to take her for my light: for her light can not be quenched.
11 All * good things therefore came to me together with her, and innumerable riches thorow her hands. 1. King. 3, 19. Matt. 6, 33.
12 So I was glad in all: for wisdom was the autor thereof, & I knewe not that she was the mother of these things.
13 And I learned vnfaignedly, & communicated without enuie, and I do not hide her riches.
14 For she is an infinite treasure vnto men, which whoso vse, become partakers of the loue of God, & are accepted for the gifts of knowledge.
15 God hath granted me to speake according to my minde, and to iudge worthely of the things, that are giuen me: for he is the leader vnto wisdom, and the director of the wise.
16 For in his hand are bothe we and our wordes, and all wisdom, & the knowledge of the workes.
17 For he hath giue me the true knowledge of the things that are, so that I knowe how the worlde was made, and the powers of the elements,
18 The beginning and the end, & the middes of the times: how the times alter, and the change of the seasons,
19 The course of the yere, the situation of the starres, 20 The nature of liuing things, and the furiousnes of beasts, the power of y windes, and the imaginacions of men, the diuersities of plants, and the vertues of rootes.
21 And all things bothe secrete and knowen do I knowe: for wisdom the worker of all

- all things, hathe taught me it.
- 22 For in her is the spirit of vnderstanding, which is holie, the onely begotten, manifolde, subtil, moueable, cleare, vndefiled, euident, not hurtful, louing the good, sharpe, which can not be letted, doing good,
 - 23 Courteous, stable, sure, without care, hauing all power, circumspect in all things, and passing through all, intellectual, pure and subtil spirits.
 - 24 For wisdom is nimble then all nimble things: she goeth thorow and attaineth to all things, because of her purenes.
 - 25 For she is y^e brath of the power of God, and a pure influence that floweth from the glorie of the Almighty: therefore can no defiled thing come vnto her.
 - 26 For * she is the brightnes of the euerlasting light, the vndefiled miroure of the maiestie of God, and the image of his goodnes.
 - 27 And being one, she can do all things, and remaining in her self, renueth all, and according to the ages she entreth into the holie soules, and maketh them the friends of God and Prophetes.
 - 28 For God loueth none, if he dwell not with wisdom.
 - 29 For she is more beautiful then the sunne, and is aboue all the order of the starres, and the light is not to be compared vnto her.
 - 30 For night cometh vpon it, but wickednes can not ouercome wisdom.

CHAP. VIII.

The effects of wisdom

- 1 SHe also reacheth from one end to another mightely, and comely doeth she order all things.
- 2 I haue loued her, and sought her from my youth: I desired to marye her, suche loue had I vnto her beautie.
- 3 In that she is conuersant with God, it commendeth her nobilitie: yea, the Lord of all things loueth her.
- 4 For she is the scholemasters of the knowledge of God, and the chooser out of his workes.
- 5 If riches be a possession to be desired in this life, what is richer then wisdom, that worketh all things?
- 6 For if prudence worketh, what is it among all things, that worketh better then she?
- 7 If a man loue righteousnes, her labours are vertuous: for she teacheth sobernes & prudencie, righteousnes and strenght, which are the mosse profitable things that men can haue in this life.
- 8 If a man desire great experience, she can tell the things that are past, and discerne things to come: she knoweth the subtilties of wordes, and the solutions of daike sentences: she foreseeeth the signes and wonders, or euer they come to passe, and the successe of seasons and times.

- 9 Therefore I purposed to take her vnto my companie, knowing that she wolde counsel me good things, and comfort me in cares and griefs.
- 10 For her sake shal I haue glorie among the multitude and honour among the Elders though I be yong.
- 11 I shal be founde of sharpe iudgement, so that I shal be marueilous in the sight of great men.
- 12 When I holde my tongue, they shal abide my leasure: when I speake, they shal heare diligently, & if I talke muche, they shal laye their hands vpon their mouth.
- 13 Moreover, by her I shal obteine immortalitie, and leaue an euerlasting memorial among them that come after me.
- 14 I shal gouerne the people, and the nations shalbe subdued vnto me.
- 15 Horrible tyrants shalbe afraied when they heare me. among the multitude I shalbe counted good, and mightie in battel.
- 16 When I come home, I shal rest with her: for her companie hathe no bitterness, and her fellowshipe hathe no tediousnes, but mirth and ioye.
- 17 Now when I considered these things by my self, and pondered them in mine heart, how that to be ioyned vnto wisdom is immortalitie,
- 18 And great pleasure is in her friendship, and that in the workes of her hands are infinite riches, and that in the exercise of talking with her is prudencie, and glorie by communing with her, I went about, seeking how I might take her vnto me.
- 19 For I was a wittie childe, and was of a good spirit.
- 20 Yea, rather being good, I came to an vndefiled bodie.
- 21 Nevertheless, when I perceiued that I colde not enioye her, except God gaue her (and that was a pointe of wisdom also, to knowe whose gifte it was) I went vnto the Lord, and besought him, and with my whole heart I said,

1 The miracles done for Israel. 13 The vengeance of sinners. 28 The great power and mercie of God.

1 He prospered their workes in the háds of thine holy Prophet.
Exod. 16, 1. 2 *They went through the wildernes that was not inhabited, and pitched their ten-tes in places where there lay no way.
Exod. 17, 10. 3 *They stode against their enemies, & we-

Num. 20, 11. 4 *When they were thirsty, they called vp ô thee, and water was giuen them out of the hie rocke, and their thirst was quenched out of the hard stone.
 5 For by the things whereby their enemies were punished, by the same were the Israelites helped in their nede.
 6 For in steade of a fountaine of running water, the enemies were troubled at the corrupt blood, which was to rebuke the commandement of the killing of the chil-dre, but thou gauest vnto thine owne abundance of water vnloked for, Exod. 7, 20. 7 Declaring by the thirst that was at that time * how thou hadest punished thine aduersaries.
 8 For when they were tryed and chastised with mercie, they knewe how the vn-godlie were iudged and punished in wrath.
 9 For these hast thou exhorted as a father, and proued them: but thou hast condem-didest examine them 10 Whether they were absent or present, their punishment was alike: for their grief was double with mourning, and the remembrance of things past.

 11 For when they perceiued that through their torments good came vnto them, they felt the Lord.
 12 And seing the things that came to passe, at the last they wondered at him, whome vse of reason, & vile beastes, thou sendidst a multitude of vnreasonable beastes vpon them for a vengeance, that they might knowe, that wherewith a man sinneth, by the same also shal he be punished.

14 *For vnto thine almightie hand, y made the worlde of naught, it was not vnpossi-ble to send among them a multitude of beares, or fiercé Lyons, 15 Or furious beasts newly created, and vnknown, which shulde breathe out blastes of fyre, and cast out smoke as a tempest, or shoote horrible sparkes like lightnings out of their eyes.
 16 Which might not onely destroye them with hurting, but also to kill them with their horrible sight.
 17 Yea, without these might they haue bene cast downe with one winde, being persecu-ted by thy vengeāce, and scattered abroade thorow the power of thy Spirit: but thou hast ordered all things in measure, number & weight.
 18 For thou hast euer had great strength & might, and who can withstand the power of thine arme!
 19 For as the small thing that the balance weigheth, so is the worlde before thee, & as a droppē of the morning dewe, that falleth downe vpon the earth.
 20 But thou hast mercie vpon all: for thou hast power of all things, and makest as thogh thou sawest not the sinnes of men, because they shulde amende.
 21 For thou louest all the things that are, & hatest none of them whome thou hast made: for thou woldest haue created nothing that thou hadest hated.
 22 And how might anie thing endure, if it werē not thy wil? or how colde anie thing be preserued, except it were called of thee?
 23 But thou sparest all: for they are thine, ô
 Lord, which art the louer of soules.

deut. 1. 28.*

8 * Neuertheles, thou sparedst them also, as men, and sendedst the forerunners of thine hoste, euen hornettes to destroye them by litle and litle,

9 Not that thou wast vnable to subdue the vngodlie vnto the righteous in battel, or with cruel beastes, or with one rough worde to destroye them together.

10 But in punishing them by litle and litle, thou gauest the space to repent, knowing wel, that it was an vnrighteous nation, & wicked of nature, & that their thought coulde neuer be altered.

11 For it was a cursed seede from the beginning: yet hast thou not spared them when they sinned, because thou feared any man.

Rom. 9. 22.

12 For who dare say, * What hast thou done? or who dare stand against thy iudgement? or who dare accuse thee for the nations that perish, whome thou hast made? or who dare stand against thee to reuenge the wicked men?

1. Pet. 3. 7.

13 For there is none other God but thou, * that carest for all things, that y maiest declare how y thy iudgement is not vnright.

14 There dare nether King nor tyrant in thy sight require accountes of them whome thou hast punished.

Job. 12. 23.

15 For so muche then as thou art righteous thy self, thou ordrest all things righteously, * thinking it not agreeable to thy power to condemne him, that hath not deserued to be punished.

16 For thy power is the beginning of righteousnes, and because thou art Lord of all things, it causeth thee to spare all things.

17 When men thinke thee not to be of a perfite power, thou declarst thy power, and reprocst the boldenes of the wise.

18 But thou ruling the power, iudgest with equitie, & gouernest vs with great fauour: for thou maist shew thy power when thou wilt.

19 By suche workes now hast thou taught thy people, that a man shulde be iust and louing, and hast made thy children to be of a good hope: for thou giuest repentance to sinners.

20 For if thou hast punished the enemies of thy children that had deserued death with so great consideration, and requesting vnto them, giuing them time & place that they might change from their wickednes,

21 With how great circumspection wilt thou punish thine owne childre, vnto whose fathers thou hast sworne and made covenants of good promises?

22 So when thou doest chasten vs, thou punishest our enemies a thousand times more, to the intent that when we iudge, we shulde diligently consider thy goodnes, and when we are iudged, we shulde hope for mercie.

23 Wherefore thou hast tormented the wicked that haue liued a dissolute life by their owne imaginations.

24 * For they went astray verie farre in the waies of errour, and esteemed the beasts, which their enemies despised, for gods, being abused after the maner of childre, that haue none vnderstanding. *Chap. 11. 16.
Rom. 1. 23.*

25 Therefore hast thou sent this punishment that they shulde be in derision as children without reason.

26 But they that wil not be reformed by those scorneful rebukes, shal fele the worthie punishment of God.

27 For in those things when they suffered, they disdeined: but in these whome they counted godlie when they sawe the selues punished by them, they all acknowledged y true God whome afore they had denied to knowe: therefore came extreme damnation vpon them.

CHAP. XIII.

*1. All things be vaine, except the knowledge of God.
2. Idolaters and idoles are mocked.*

1 Vreily all men are vaine by nature, and are ignorant of God, * and coulde not knowe him that is, by the good things that are sene, nether consider by the workes the workemaster. Rom. 1. 19.

2 * But they thought the fyre, or the winde, or the swift aye, or the course of the starres, or the raging water, or the lights of heauen to be gouernours of the worlde, and gods. *Deu. 4. 19.

3 Thogh they had suche pleasure in their beautie that they thought them gods, yet shulde they haue knowen, how muche more excellent he is that made them: for the first auctor of beautie hath created these things.

4 Or if they marueiled at the power, and operation of them, yet shulde they haue perceiued thereby, how muche he that made these things, is mightier.

5 For by the greatnes of their beautie, and of the creatures, the Creator being compared with them, may be considered.

6 But yet the blame is lesse in these, that seke God and wolde finde him, & yet peradventure do erre.

7 For * they go about by his workes to seke him, and are perswaded by the sight, because the things are beautifull that are sene. Rom. 1. 21.

8 Howbeit they are not to be excused.

9 For if they can knowe so muche, that they can

- can discern the worlde, why do they not rather finde out the Lord thereof?
- 10 But miserable are they, and among the dead is their hope, that call them gods which are the workes of mens hands, golde, and siluer, and the thing that is inuented by arte, and the similitude of beasts, or anie vaine stone that hath bene made by the hand of antiquitie.
- 11 *Or as when a carpenter cutteth downe a tre mete for the worke, and pareth of all the baske thereof cunningly, and by arte maketh a vessel profitable for the vse of life.
- 12 And the things that are cut of from his worke, he bestoweth to dresse his meat to fil him self,
- 13 And that which is left of these things, which is profitable for nothing (for it is a croked piece of wood and ful of knobbes) he carueth it diligently at his leasure, and according as he is expert in cunning, he giueth it a proporcion, and facioneth it after the similitude of a man,
- 14 Or maketh it like some vile beast, and sketh it ouer with red, and painteth it, and couereth euerie spotte that is in it.
- 15 And when he hath made a conuenient tabernacle for it, he setteth it in a wall, and maketh it fast with yron,
- 16 Prouiding so for it, lest it fall: for he knoweth y it can not helpe it self, because it is an image, w^{ch} hath nede of helpe.
- 17 Then he prayeth for his goods, and for his mariage and for children: he is not ashamed to speake vnto it, that hath no life.
- 18 He calleth on him that is weake for health: he prayeth vnto him that is dead for life: he requireth him of helpe that hath no experience at all.
- 19 And for his iourney, him that is not able to go, and for gaine, and worke, and successe of his affaires he requireth further a^{id}e of him, that hath no maner of power.

1 The detestation and abominacion of images, & A curse of them, and of him that maketh them. 14 Whereof idolatrie proceeded. 23 What evils come of idolatrie.

- 1 A Gaine, another man purposing to saile, and intending to passe thorowe the raging waues, calleth vpon a stocke more rotten then the shippe that carrieth him.
- 2 For as for it, couetousnes of money hath founde it out, and the craftesman made it by cunning.
- 3 But thy providence, o father, gouerneth it: * for thou hast made away, euen in the sea, and a sure path among the waues,
- 4 Declaiing thereby, that thou hast power to helpe in all things, yea, thogh a man wet to the sea without meanes.
- 5 Neuertheles thou woldest not, that the workes of thy wisdome shulde be vaine, and therefore do men commit their liues to a smale piece of wood, and passe ouer the stormie sea in a shippe, and are saued.
- 6 *For in the olde time also whē the proude gyants perished, the hope of the worlde went into a shippe which was gouerned by thine hand, and so left sede of generacion vnto the worlde.
- 7 For blessed is the tre whereby righteousnes commeth.
- 8 But that is cursed that is made with hāds, *bothe it, & he that made it: he because he made it, and it being a corruptible thing, because it was called god.
- 9 *For the vngodlie, and his vngodlines are bothe like hated of God: so truely the worke & he that made it, shalbe punished together.
- 10 Therefore shal there be a visitation for the idoles of the nations: for of the creatures of God they are become abominacion, * and stumbling blockes vnto the soules of men, & a snare for the fete of the vnwised.
- 11 For the inuenting of idoles was the beginning of whoredome, and the finding of them is the corruption of life.
- 12 For they were not from the beginning, nether shal they continue for euer.
- 13 The vaine glorie of men brought them into the worlde: therefore shal they come shortly to an end.
- 14 When a father mouined grieuoussly for his sonne that was taken away suddenly, he made an image for him y was once dead, whome now he worshippeth as a god, & ordeined to his seruants ceremonies and sacrifices.
- 15 Thus by proces of time this wicked custome preuailed, and was kept as a law, and idoles were worshipped by the commandment of tyrants.
- 16 As for those that were so farre of that men might not worship them presently, they did counterfeit the visage that was farre of, and made a gorgeous image of a King, whome they wolde honour, that they might by all meanes flatter him that was absent, as thogh he had bene present.
- 17 Again the ambition of the craftesman thrust forward the ignorant to increase the superstition.
- 18 For he peradventure willing to please a noble man, labored with all his cunning to make the image of the best facion.
- 19 And so thorowe the beautie of the worke the multitude was allured, and so toke him now for a god, which a litle afore was but honored as a man.
- 20 And this was the deceiuing of māns life, when men, being in seruitude, through ca-

22 For ether they slewe their owne childre in sacrifice, or vsed secret ceremonies, or raging dissolutenes by strange rites, 23 And so kept nether life nor marriage cleane: but ether one slewe another by treason, or els vexed him by adulterie.

24 So were all mixt together, blood and slaughter, theste & deceit, corruption, vnfaithfulness, tumukes, periurie, 25 Disquieting of good men, vnthankfulness, defiling of soules, changing of birth, disordre in marriage, adulterie & vnclenes.

26 For the worshiping of idoles that ought not to be named, is the beginning and the cause and the end of all euil.

27 For ether they be mad when they be merie, or prophecie lies, or liue vngodlie, or els lightly forswear them selues.

28 For in so muchie as their trust is in the idoles, which haue no life, though they sweare falsely, yet they thinke to haue no hurt.

29 Therefore for two causes shal they iustly be punished, because they haue an euil opinion of God, adding them selues vnto idoles, and because they sweare vntruly to deceiue, and despise holines.

30 For it is not the power of them by whome they swear, but the vengeance of them that sinne, which punisheth alwayes the offence of the vngodlie.

CHAP. XV.

The voyce of the fasthful, praising the mercie of God by whose grace they serue not idoles.

1 BVt thou, o our God, art gracious and true, long suffering, and gouerneest all things by mercie.

2 Though we sinne, yet are we thine: for we knowe thy power: but we sinne not, knowing that we are counted thine.

3 For to knowe thee, is perfite righteousnes, and to knowe thy power is the roote of immortalitye.

4 For nether hathe the wicked inuention of men disceiued vs, nor the vnprofitable labour of the painters, nor an image spotted with diuers colours.

5 Whose sight stirreth vp the desire of the ignorant: so that he coueteth the forme that hathe no life, of a dead image.

6 They that loue suche wicked things, are worthis to haue suche things to trust to, and they that make them, and they that desire them, and they that worship them.

Rom. 9. 20.

7 The *potter also tempereth soft earth, & facioneth euerie vessel with labour to our vse: but of the same clay he maketh bothe the vessels, that serue to cleane vses, and the contrarie likewise: but whereto euerie vessel serueth, the potter is the iudge.

8 So by his wicked labour he maketh a vaine god of the same clay: euen he, which a litle afore was made of earth him self, and within a litle while after goeth thither againe whence he was taken, when he shal make accounte for the lone of his life.

Luk. 12. 20.

9 Notwithstanding he careth not for the labour he taketh, nor that his life is shor-te, but he strueth with the golde smithes, and siluer smithes, and counterfaiteth the cooper smithes, and taketh it for an honour to make deceiuable things.

10 His heart is ashes, and his hope is more vile then earth, and his life is lesse wor-thie of honour then claye.

11 For he knoweth not his owne maker, that gaue him his soule, that had power & breathed in him the breth of life.

12 But they counte our life to be but a partime, and our conuersacion as a market, where there is gaine: for they say we ought to be getting on euerie side, thogh it be by euil meanes.

13 Now he that of earth maketh fraile vessels and images, knoweth him self to offend about all other.

14 All the enemies of thy people, that holde them in subiection, are moeste vnwise, & more miserable then the verie fooles.

15 For they iudge all the idoles of the nations to be gods, which nether haue eye sight to se, nor noses to smel, nor eares to heare, nor fingers of hãds to grope, & their fete are slowe to go.

16 For man made them, and he that hathe but a borowed spirit, facioned them: but no man can make a god like vnto him self.

17 For seing he is but mortal him self, it is but mortal that he maketh with vnrighteous hands: he him self is better thẽ they whome he worshippeth: for he liued, but they neuer liued.

18 Yea, they worshipped beasts also, which are their moeste enemies, & which are the worste, if they be cõpared vnto others, because they haue none vnderstanding.

19 Nether haue they anie beautie to be desired in respect of other beasts: for they are destitute of Gods praise, and of his blessing.

- 3 To the intent that thei that desired meat, by the things which were shewed and sent among them, might turne away their necessarie desire, & that thei, which had suffered penurie for a space, shulde also fele a newe taste.
- 4 For it was requisite, that they which vsed tyrannie, shulde fall into extreme povertie, and that to these onelie it shulde be shewed, how their enemies were torméted.
- 5 * For when the cruel fiercenes of y^e beasts came vpon them, and they were hurt with the stings of cruel serpents,
- 6 Thy wrath endured not perpetually, but they were troubled for a litle season, that they might be reformed, hauing a signe of saluacion, to remember the commandement of thy Law.
- 7 For he that turned toward it, was not healed by the thing that he sawe, but by thee, ô Sauour of all.
- 8 So in this thou shewedst our enemies, that it is thou, which deliucrest from all euil.
- 9 * For the biting of greshoppers and flies killed them, and there was no remedie founde for their life: for they were worthe to be punished by suche.
- 10 But the teeth of the venomous dragons colde not ouercome thy children: for thy mercie came to helpe them, & healed the.
- 11 For they were pricked, because thei shulde remember thy wordes, and were speedely healed, lest they shulde fall into so depe forgetfulnes, that thei colde not be called backe by thy benefite.
- 12 For nether herbe nor plaster healed them, but thy worde, ô Lord, which healeth all things.
- 13 For thou hast the power of life & death, * and ledest downe vnto the gates of hel, and bringest vp againe.
- 14 A man in dede by his wickednes may flate another: but when the Spirit is gone forthe, it turneth not againe, nether can he call againe the soule that is taken away.
- 15 But it is not possible to escape thine hand.
- 16 * For the vngodliethat wolde not knowe thee, were punished by the strength of thine arme, with strange raine and with haile, and were pursued with tempest, that they colde not auoide, & were consumed with fyre.
- 17 For it was a wonderous thing that fyre might do more then water, which quencherh all things: but the worlde is the aduenger of the righteous.
- 18 For some time was the fyre so tame, that the beasts, which were sent against the vngodlie, burnt not: and that, because they shulde se and knowe, that they were persecuted with the punishment of God.
- 19 And some time burnt the fyre in y^e middes of the water about the power of fyre, that it might destroye the generacion of the vniust land.
- 20 * In the stead whereof thou hast fed thine owne people with Angels fode, and sent them bread readie from heauen without their labour, which had abundance of all pleasures in it & was mete for all tastes.
- 21 For thy sustinance declared thy swetnes vnto thy children, which serued to the appetite of him, that took it, & was mete to that that euerie man wolde.
- 22 Moreouer the * snowe and yce abode the fyre & melted not, that thei might knowe, that the fyre burning in the hayle, & sparkling in the raine, destroyed the frute of the enemies.
- 23 Againe it forgate his owne strength, that the righteous might be nourished.
- 24 For the creature that serueth thee which art the maker, is fierce in punishing the vnrighteous: but it is easie to do good vnto suche as put their trust in thee.
- 25 Therefore was it changed at the same time vnto all facions to serue thy grace, which nourisheth all things, according to the desire of them that had nede thereof,
- 26 That thy children whome thou louest, ô Lord, might knowe, * that it is not the increase of frutes that sedeth men, but that it is thy worde, which preferueth the that trust in thee.
- 27 For that which colde not be destroyed with the fyre, being onely warmed a litle with the sunne beames, melted,
- 28 That it might be knowen that we ought to preuente the sunne rising to giue thanks vnto thee, and to salute thee before the daye spring.
- 29 For the hope of the vnthankful shal melt as the winter yce, and flowe away as vnprofitable waters.

CHAP. XVII.

The iudgements of God against the wicked.

- 1 For thy iudgements are great, and can not be expressed: therefore men do erre, that wil not be reformed.
- 2 For when the vnrighteous thought to haue thine holie people in subiection, thei were bounde with the bands of darkenes, and long night, and being shut vp vnder the rose, did lie there to escape the euerlasting prouidence.
- 3 And while they thought to be hid in their darke sinnes, thei were scattered abroad in the darke couering of forgetfulnes, fearig horribly and troubled with visions.
- 4 For the denne that hid them, kept them not from feare: but the foundes that were about them, troubled them, and terrible

8 For they that promised to drive away feare and trouble from the sicke persons, were sicke for feare, & worthie to be laughed at.

9 And though no feareful thing did feare them, yet were they affraid at the beastes which passed by them, and at the hyssing of the serpents: so that they dyed for feare, and said they sawe not the ayre, which by no meanes can be auoided.

10 For it is a feareful thing, when malice is condemned by her owne testimonie: and a conscience that is touched, doeth euer forecast cruel things.

11 For feare is nothing els, but a betraying of the succours, which reason offreth.

12 And the lesse that the hope is within, the more doeth he esteeme the ignorance of the thing, that tormenteth him, great.

13 But they that did endure the night that was intollerable, and that came out of the dungeon of hell, which is insupportable, slept the same slepe, 14 And sometimes were troubled with monstrous visions, and sometime they sowned, as though their owne soule shulde betray them: for a sudden feare not looked for, came vpon them.

- 18 Then laye there one here, another there halfe dead, & shewed y cause of his death.
- 19 For the visions that vexed them, shewed them these things afore: so that they were not ignorant, wherefore they perished.
- 20 Now tentacion of death touched the righteous also, and *among the multitude in the wildernes there was a plague, but the wrath indured not long.
- 21 For the blameles man made haste, & defended them, and toke the weapons of his ministraciō, euen prayer, & the reconciliacion by the perfume, & set him self against the wrath, and so broght the miserie to an end, declaring that he was thy seruant.
- 22 For he ouer came not the multitude with bodelic power, nor with force of weapōs, but with the worde he subdued him that punished, alledging the othes and couenāt made vnto the fathers.
- 23 For when the dead were fallen downe by heapes one vpon another, he stode in the middes, and cut of the wrath, and parted it from comming to the liuing.

- 8 Through the which all the people went that were defended with thine hand, seing thy wonderous marueiles.
- 9 For they neyed like horses, and leaped like lambes, praising thee, o Lord, which hadest deliuered them.
- 10 For thei were yet mindeful of those things which were done in the land where they dwelt, how the groude broght forth the flies in steade of cattel, & how the riuer scrawled with the multitude of frogges in steade of fishes.

THE WISDOME OF Iesus the sonne of Sirach, called Ecclesiasticus.

This argument was founde in a certeine Greke copie.

This Iesus was the sonne of Sirach, and Sirachs father was also called Iesus, and he liued in the latter times, after the people had bene led away captiue, and broght home againe, and almoste after all the Prophetes. Now his grandfather, as he him self witnesseth, was a man of great diligence, and wisdom among the Hebrewes, who did not onely gather the graue sentences of wise men, that had bene before him, but he him self also spake manie ful of great knowledge and wisdom. So this first Iesus dyed, and left this which he had gathered, and Sirach afterwarde left it to Iesus his sonne, who took it and put it in order in a booke, and called it W I S - D O M E, intitling it bothe by his owne name, his fathers name, and his grandfathers: thinking by this title of Wisdom to allure the reader to read this booke with more great desire, and to consider it more diligently. Therefore this booke containeth wise sayings, and darke sentences, and similitudes with certeine diuine histories which are notable and ancient, euen of men that were approued of God, and certeine prayers, and songs of the auctor him self: moreover, what benefites the Lord had bestowed vpon his people, and what plagues he had heaped vpon their enemies. This Iesus did imitate Salomon, and was no lesse famous in wisdom and doctrine, who was therefore called a man of great knowledge, as he was in dede.

The prologue of the Wisdom of Iesus the sonne of Sirach.

Where as manie, and great things haue bene giuen vs by the Law, and the Prophetes, and by others that haue followed them, (for the which things Israel ought to be commended by the reason of doctrine and wisdom, whereby the readers ought not onely to become learned them selues, but also may be able by the diligent studie thereof to be profitable vnto strangers bothe by speaking & writing) after that my grandfather Iesus had giuen him self to the reading of the Law, and the Prophetes, & other booke of our fathers, and had gotten therein sufficient iudgement, he purposed also to write some thing pertaining to learning and wisdom, to the intent that they which were desirous to learne, & wolde giue them selues to these things, might profite muche more in liuing according to the Law. Wherefore, I exhorte you to receiue it louingly, and to read it with diligence, and to take it in good worthe, though we seme to some in some things not able to attaine to the interpretation of suche wordes as are hard to be expressed: for the things that are spoken in the Hebrew tongue, haue another force in them selues then whē they are translated into another tongue, and not onely these things, but other things also, as the Law it self, & the Prophetes, & other booke haue no smale difference when they are spoken in their owne language. Therefore in the eight and thirtieth yere, when I came into Egypt vnder King Euergetes, and continued there, I founde a copie ful of great learning, and I thought it necessarie, to bestowe my diligence, and trauaile to interpret this booke. So for a certeine time with great watching and studie I gaue my self to the finishing of this booke, that it might be published, that they which remaine in banishment, and are desirous to learne, might applie them selues vnto good maners, and liue according to the Law.

- 8 There is one wife, [euen the moſte high Creator of all things, the almightie, the King of power] and verie terrible, which ſitteth vpon his throne.

- 10 He hathe powred her out vpon all his workes, and vpon all fleſh, according to his giſt, and giueth her abundantly vnto them that loue him.
- 11 The feare of the Lord is glorie, & gladnes, and reioycing, and a ioyful crowne.
- 12 The feare of the Lord maketh a mery heart, and giueth gladnes, and ioye and long life.
- 13 Whoſo feareth the Lord, it ſhal go wel with him at the laſt, and he ſhal finde fauour in the day of his death.
- 14 [The loue of God is honorable wifdome, and vnto whome it appeareth in a viſion, they loue it for the viſion, and for the knowledge of the great workes thereof]
- 15 * The feare of the Lord is the beginning of wifdome, and was made with the faithful in the wōbe: [ſhe goeth with the choſen women, and is knowne with the righteous and faithful.
- 16 The feare of the Lord is an holie knowledge.
- 17 Holines ſhal preferue, & iuſtifie ȳ heart, and giueth mirth and gladnes.
- 18 Who ſo feareth the Lord, ſhal proſper, & in the day of his end, he ſhal be bleſſed]
- 19 She hathe buyt her euerlaſting fundacions with men, and is giuen to be with their ſede.
- 20 To feare God is the fulnes of wifdome, and filleth men with her frutes.
- 21 She filleth their whole houſe with [all] things deſireable, and the garners with the things, that ſhe bringeth forthes, and bothe twaine are giſtes of God.
- 22 The feare of the Lord is the crowne of wifdome, & giueth peace & perſite health: he hathe ſene her and nombred her.
- 23 * She raineth downe knowledge, and vnderſtāding of wifdome, and hathe brought vnto honour, them that poſſeſſed her.
- 24 The feare of the Lord is the roote of wifdome, and her branches are long life.
- 25 [In the treaſures of wifdome is vnderſtanding, and holie knowledge, but wifdome is abhorred of ſinners.]
- 26 The feare of the Lord driueth out ſinne: and when ſhe is preſent, ſhe driueth away anger.
- 27 ¶ For wicked angre can not be iuſtified: for his raſhnes in his angre ſhal be his deſtruction.
- 28 A patient man wil ſuffer for a time, and then ſhal he haue the rewarde of ioye.
- 29 He wil hide his wordes for a time, and manie mens lippes ſhal ſpeake of his wifdome.
- 30 In the treaſures of wifdome are the ſecrets of knowledge, but ȳ ſinner abhorreth the worſhip of God.
- 31 If thou deſire wifdome, kepe the cōmandements, and the Lord ſhal giue her vnto thee, [and wil fil her treaſures.]
- 32 For the feare of the Lord is wifdome and diſcipline: he hathe pleaſure in faith and mekenes.
- 33 Be not diſobedient to the feare of the Lord, and come not vnto him with a double heart.
- 34 ¶ Be not an hypocrite that men ſhulde ſpeake of thee, but take hede what thou ſpeakeſt.
- 35 Exalte not thy ſelf, leſt thou fall & bring thy ſoule to diſhonour, and ſo God diſcouer thy ſecretes, & caſt thee downe in the middes of the cōgregacion, becauſe thou woldeſt not receiue the true feare of God, and thine heart is ful of diſceite.

CHAP. II.

He exhorteth the ſeruants of God to righteousnes, loue, vnderſtanding, and patience, 11 To truſt in the Lord. 13 A curſe vpon them that are ſainte hearted and impacient.

- 1 MY ſonne, if thou wilt come into the ſeruice of God, [ſtand faſt in righteousnes and feare, and] prepare thy ſoule to tentacion.
- 2 Settle thine heart, and be patient: [bow downe thine eare, and receiue the wordes of vnderſtanding] and ſhrinke not awaie, whē thou art aſſailed, [but waite vpō God patiently.]
- 3 Ioyne thy ſelf vnto him, and departe not away, that thou maiſt be increaſed at thy laſt end.
- 4 Whatſoever cometh vnto thee, receiue it patiently, and be patient in the change of thine affliction.
- 5 * For as golde [& ſiluer are] tryed in the fyre, euen ſo are men acceptable in the fornace of aduerſitie.

- 6 Beleue in God and he wil helpe thee: order thy waye aright, & trust in him: [holde fast his feare, and growe olde therein.]
- 7 Ye that feare the Lord, waite for his mercie: shrinke not awaye from him that ye fall not.
- 8 Ye that feare the Lord, beleue him and your rewarde shal not faile.
- 9 O ye that feare the Lord, trust in good things, & in the euerlasting ioy & mercie.
- 10 [Ye that feare y^e Lord, loue him, & your hearts shalbe lightened.]
- 11 Consider the olde generacions [of men, ye children,] and marke them wel: * was there euer anye confounded, that put his trust in the Lord? or who hath continued in his feare, and was forsaken? or whome did he euer dispise, that called vpon him?
- 12 For God is gracious and merciful, and forgueth sinnes and saueth in the time of trouble, [& is a defender for all the that seke him in the trueth.]
- 13 Wo vnto them, that haue a feareful heart, [and to the wicked lippes] and to the faint hands, and to the sinner that goeth two * maner of wayes.
- 14 Wo vnto him that is faint hearted, for he beleueth not: therefore shal he not be defended.
- 15 Wo vnto you that haue lost pacience, [& haue forsaken the right wayes, and are turned backe into frowarde wayes:] for what wil ye do when the Lord shal visit you?
- 16 They that feare the Lord, wil not disobey his worde: and they that * loue him, wil kepe his wayes.
- 17 They that feare the Lord, wil seke out the things that are pleasant vnto him: and they that loue him, shalbe fulfilled with his Law.
- 18 They that feare the Lord, wil prepare their hearts, and humble their soules in his sight.
- 19 [Thei that feare the Lord, kepe his commandements, and wil be pacient til he se them,
- 20 Saying, If we do not repent] we shal fall into the hads of the Lord, and not into the hands of men.
- 21 Yet as his greatnes is, so is his mercie.

CHAP. III.

2: To our father and mother ought we to giue double honor 10 Of the blessing and curse of the father and mother. 21 No man ought ouer curiously to searche out the secrets of God.

- 1 T [He children of wisdome are the Church of the righteous, & their offspring is obedience and loue.]
- 2 Heare your fathers iudgement, o childre, and do thereafter, that ye may be safe.
- 3 For the Lord wil haue the father honored of he children, and hath consumed the autoritie of the mother ouer the children.

- 4 Who so honoreth his father, his sinnes shalbe forgouen him, [and he shal abstine from them, & shal haue his daily desires.]
- 5 And he that honoreth his mother, is like one that gathereth treasure.
- 6 Who so honoreth his father, shal haue ioye of his owne children, & when he maketh his prayer, he shalbe heard.
- 7 He that honoreth his father, shal haue a long life, and he that is obedient vnto the Lord, shal comfort his mother.
- 8 He that feareth the Lord, honoreth his parents, and doeth seruiue vnto his parents, as vnto lords.
- 9 * Honour thy father and mother in dede and in worde [& in all paciēce,] that thou maist haue Gods blessing, [& that his blessing may abide with thee in the end.]
- 10 For y^e blessing of the father establisheth the houses of the children, & the mothers curse rotteth out the fundacions.
- 11 Reioyce not at the dishonour of thy father: for it is not honour vnto thee, but shame.
- 12 Seing that mā's glorie cometh by his fathers honour, & the reproche of y^e mother is dishonour to the children,
- 13 My sonne, helpe thy father in his age, and greue him not as long as he liueth.
- 14 And if his vnderstanding faile, haue pacience with him, & despise him not when thou art in thy full strength.
- 15 For the good intreatie of thy father shal not be forgottē, but it shalbe a fortres for thee against sinnes, [and for thy mothers offence thou shalt be recompensed with good, and it shalbe founded for thee in righteoufnes.]
- 16 And in the day of trouble thou shalt be remembered: thy sinnes also shal melt away as the yce in the faire wether.
- 17 He that forsaketh his father, shal come to shame, and he that angreth his mother, is cursed of God.
- 18 ¶ My sonne, performe thy doings with mekenes, so shalt thou be beloued of them that are approued.
- 19 The * greater thou art, the more humble thy self [in all things,] & thou shalt finde fauour before the Lord.

is not nedeful for thee to se with thine eyes the things that are secret.

- 24 Be not curious in superfluous things: for many things are shewed vnto thee about the capacite of men.
- 25 The meddling with suche hathe beguiled many, and an euil opinion hathe deceiued their iudgement.
- 26 Thou canst not se without eyes: professe not the knowledge therefore that thou hast not.
- 27 A stubberne heart shal fare euil at the last: and he that loueth danger, shal perish therein.
- 28 An heart that goeth two waies, shal not prosper: and he that is frowarde of heart, shal stumble therein.
- 29 An obstinate heart shalbe ladē with sorrowes: and the wicked man shal heape sinne vpon sinne.
- 30 The persuation of the proude is without remedie, & his steppes shalbe plucked vp: for the plant of sinne hathe taken roote in him, [and he shal not be esteemed.]
- 31 The heart of him that hathe vnderstanding, shal perceiue secret things, and an attentiu eare is the desire of a wise man.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Almes must be done with gentlenes. 12 The studie of wisdom and her fruite. 20 An exhortation to eschewe euil, and to do good.

- 1 MY sonne, defraude not the poore of his liuing, and make not the nedie eyes to waite long.
- 2 Make not an hungrie soule sorrowful, nether vex a man in his necessitie.
- 3 Trouble not the heart that is grieued, & differre not the gift of the nedie.
- 4 Refuse not the prayer of one that is in trouble: turne not away thy face from the poore.
- 5 Turne not thine eyes aside [in angre] from the poore, and giue him none occasion to speake euil of thee.
- 6 For if he curse thee in the bitterness of his soule, his prayer shalbe heard of him that made him.
- 7 Be courteous vnto the cōpanie [of poore, and humble thy soule vnto the Elder,] and bowe downe thine head to a man of worship.
- 8 Let it not greue thee to bowe downe thine eare vnto the poore, [but pay thy dette,] and giue him a friendlie answer.
- 9 ¶ Deliuer him that suffieth wrong, from the hand of the oppressour, & be not faint hearted when thou iudgest.

- 10 Be as a father vnto the fatherles, and as an housband vnto their mother: so shalst thou be as the sonne of the moste High: and he shal loue thee more then thy mother doeth.
- 11 Wisdom exaltech her children, and receiue them that seke her, [& wil go before them in the way of righteousness.]
- 12 He that loueth her, loueth life, and they that seke life in the morning, shal haue great ioye.
- 13 He that kepeth her, shal inherit glorie: for vnto whome she enticeth, him the Lord wil blesse.
- 14 They that honour her, shalbe the seruants of the holie one, and them that loue her, the Lord doeth loue.
- 15 Who so giueth eare vnto her, shal iudge the nacions, and he that goeth vnto her, shal dwell safely.
- 16 He that is faithful vnto her, shal haue her in possession, and his generacion shal possesse her.
- 17 For first she wil walke with him by crooked waies, and bring him vnto feare, and drede, and torment him with her discipline vntil she haue tryed his soule, and haue proued him by her iudgements.
- 18 Then wil she returne the straight way vnto him, and comfort him, and shew him her secrets, [and heape vpon him the treasures of knowledge, and vnderstanding of righteousness.]
- 19 But if he go wrong, she wil forsake him, and giue him ouer into the hands of his destruction.
- 20 [¶ My sonne,] *Make muche of time, and eschewe the thing that is euil, Rom. 12, 11
- 21 And be not ashamed [to say the trueth] for thy life: for there is a shame that bringeth sinne, and a shame that bringeth worship and fauour.
- 22 Accept no persone against thine owne conscience, that thou be not confounded to thine owne decaye, [and forbear not thy neighbour in his faute.]
- 23 And kepe not backe counsell when it may do good, nether hide thy wisdom when it may be famous.
- 24 For by the talke is wisdom knowne, and learning by the wordes of the tongue, [& counsell, wisdom and learning by the talking of the wise, & stedfastnes in the workes of righteousness.]
- 25 In no wise speake against the worde of trueth, but be ashamed of the lies of thine owne ignorance.
- 26 Be not ashamed to confesse thy sinnes, & resist not the course of the riuer.
- 27 Submit not thy self vnto a foolish man, nether accept the persone of the mightie.

- 28 Strive for the truth vnto death, [and defend iustice for thy life,] and the Lord God shal fight for thee [against thine enemies.]
- 29 Be not hastie in thy tongue, nether slacke and negligent in thy workes.
- 30 Be not as a lion in thine owne house, nether beat thy seruants for thy fantaie, [nor oppresse them that are vnder thee.]
- 31 ^{147.20,21.} Let not thine hand be stretched out to receiue, and shut when thou shuldest giue.

CHAP. V.

2 In riches may we not put any confidence. 7 The vengeance of God ought to be feared, and repentance may not be differred.

- 1 TRUST not vnto thy riches, and say not, I haue ynough for my life: [for it shal not helpe in \bar{y} time of vengeance and indignation.]
- 2 Followe not thine owne minde and thy strength to walke in the wayes of thine heart:
- 3 Nether say \bar{y} , [How haue I had strength?] or who wil bring me vnder for my workes? for God the aduenger wil reuenge the wrong done by thee.
- 4 And say not, I haue sinned, and what euil hath come vnto me? for the Almighty is a pacient rewarder, but he wil not leaue thee vnpunished.
- 5 Because thy sinne is forgiuen, be not without feare, to heape sinne vpon sinne.
- 6 And say not, The mercie of God is great: he wil forgiue my manifolde sinnes: for mercie & wrath come from him, & his indignacion cometh downe vpon sinners.
- 7 Make no tarying to turne vnto the Lord, and put not of from day to day: for suddenly shal the wrath of the Lord breake forthe, & in thy securitie thou shalt be destroyed, and thou shalt perish in time of vengeance.
- 8 Trust not in wicked riches: for they shal not helpe thee in the day of punishment [and vengeance.]
- 9 Be not caryed about with euerie winde, and go not into euerie way: for so doeth the sinner that hath a double tongue.
- 10 Stand fast in thy sure vnderstanding [& in the way and knowledge of the Lord] & haue but one maner of worde, [& followe the worde of peace and righteousnes.]
- 11 Be humble to heare the worde of God, that thou maist vnderstand it, and make a true answer with wisdom.
- 12 Be swift to heare good things, and let thy life be pure, & giue a pacient answer.
- 13 If thou hast vnderstanding, answer thy neighbour: if not, laye thine hand vpon thy mouth, [lest thou be trapped in an vndiscrete worde, and so be blamed.]

CHAP. VI.

1 It is the propertie of a sinner to be euil tongued. 6 Of friendship. 22 Desire to be taught.

- 1 BE not of a friend [thy neighbours] enemy: for suche shal haue an euil name, shame and reproche, and he shal be in infamie as the wicked that hath a double tongue.
- 2 Be not proude in the deuice of thine owne minde, lest thy soule rent thee as a bull,
- 3 And eat vp thy leaues, and destroie thy frute, and so thou be lefte as a drye tree [in the wildernes.]
- 4 For a wicked soule destroieeth him that hath it, and maketh him to be laughed to scorne of his enemies, [and bringeth him to the porcion of the vngodlie.]
- 5 A swete talke multiplieth the friends [& pacifieth them that be at variance,] and a swete tongue increaseth muche good talke.
- 6 Holde friendship with manie, neuertheless haue but one counseler of a thousand.
- 7 If thou gettest a friend, proue him first, & be not hastie to credit him.
- 8 For some man is a friend for his owne occasion, and wil not abide in the day of thy trouble.
- 9 And there is some friend that turneth to enimitie, and taketh parte against thee, & in contention he wil declare thy shame.
- 10 Againe some friend is but a companion at the table, and in the day of thine affliction he continueth not.
- 11 But in thy prosperitie he wil be as thou thy self, and wil vse libertie ouer thy seruants.
- 12 If thou be broght low, he wil be against thee, and wil hide him self from thy face.
- 13 Departe from thine enemies, and beware of thy friends.
- 14 A faithful friend is a strong defence, and he that findeth suche one, findeth a treasure.
- 15 A faithful friend ought not to be changed for any thing, and the weight [of golde & siluer] is not to be compared to the goodness [of his faith.]
- 16 A faithful friend is the medicine of life [and immortalitie,] & they that feare the Lord, shal finde him.
- 17 Who so feareth the Lord, shal direct his friendship a right, and as his owne self, so shal his friend be.

- 18 ¶ My sonne, receiue doctrine from thy youth vp: so shalt thou finde wisdom [which shal indure] til thine olde age.
- 19 Go to her as one that ploweth, and sowe, and waite for her good frutes: for thou shalt haue but litle labour in her worke: but y^e shalt eat of her frutes right sone.
- 20 How exceeding sharpe is she to the vnleained: he that is without iudgement, wil not remaine with her.
- 21 Vnto suche one she is as a fine touchstone, and he casteth her from him without delay.
- 22 For thei haue the name of wisdom, but there be but fewe that haue the knowledge of her.
- 23 [For with them that knowe her, she abideth vnto the appearing of God.]
- 24 Giue eare, my sonne: receiue my doctrine, and refuse not my counsel,
- 25 And put thy fete into her linkes, and thy necke into her chaine.
- 26 Bowe downe thy shulder vnto her, and beare her, and be not wearie of her bands.
- 27 Come vnto her with thy whole heart, & kepe her waies with all thy power.
- 28 Seke after her, and searche her, & she shal be shewed thee: and when thou hast gotten her, forsake her not.
- 29 For at the last thou shalt finde rest in her, and that shal be turned to thy ioye.
- 30 Then shal her fetters be a strong defence for thee, [and a sure fundacion] & her chaines a glosious raiment.
- 31 For there is a golden ornament in her, & her bands are the laces of purple colour.
- 32 Thou shalt put her on as a robe of honour, & shalt put her vpon thee, as a crowne of ioye.
- 33 My sonne, if thou wilt, thou shalt be taught, and if thou wilt applic thy minde, thou shalt be wittie.
- 34 If thou loue to heare, thou shalt receiue [doctrine,] and if thou delite in hearing, thou shalt be wise.
- 35 Stand with the multitude of the Elders, which are wise, and ioync with him that is wise.
- 36 * Desire to heare all godlie talke, and let not the graue sentences of knowledge escape thee.
- 37 And if thou seeest a man of vnderstanding, get thee sone vnto him, and let thy foote weare the steppes of his dores.
- 38 Let thy minde be vpon the ordinances of the Lord, and be continually occupied in his comandements: so shal he stablish thine heart, and giue thee wisdom at thine owne desire.
- 1 D O ne euil: so shal no harme come vnto thee.
- 2 Departe from the thing that is wicked, and sinne shal turne away from thee.
- 3 My sonne, sowe not vpon the forowes of vnrighteousnes, lest that thou reape them feuen folde.
- 4 Aske not of the Lord preeminence, nether of the King the seate of honour.
- 5 * Iustifie not thy self before the Lord: [for he knoweth thine heart,] & boast not thy wisdom in the presence of the King.
- 6 Seke not to be made a iudge, lest thou be not able to take away iniquitie, and lest thou, fearing the peison of the mightie, shuldest commit an offence against thine vprihtnes.
- 7 Offend not against the multitude of a citie, and cast not thy self among the people.
- 8 * Binde not two sinnes together: for in one sinne shalt thou not be vnpunished.
- 9 Say not, God wil loke vpon the multitude of mine oblacions, and when I offer to the moste high God, he wil accept it.
- 10 Be not faint hearted, when thou makest thy praier, nether slacke in giuing of almes.
- 11 Laugh no mā to scorne in the heauines of his soule: for [God which seeth all things] is he *that can bring downe, & set vp againe.
- 12 Sow not a lie against thy brother, nether do the same against thy friend.
- 13 Vse not to make anie maner of lie: for the custome thereof is not good.
- 14 Make not manie wordes when thou art among the Elders, nether repeate a thing in thy praier.
- 15 Hate not laborious worke, nether the housbandrie, which the moste High hath created.
- 16 Nomber not thy self in the multitude of the wicked, but remember that vengeance wil not slacke.
- 17 Humble thy minde greatly: for the vengeance of the wicked is fyre and wormes.
- 18 Giue not ouer thy friend for anie good, nor thy true brother for y^e golde of Ophir.
- 19 Departe not from a wise and good woman, [that is fallen vnto thee for thy porcion in the feare of the Lord:] for her grace is aboute golde.
- 20 ¶ Where as thy seruāt worketh truely, intreate him not euil, nor y^e hireling that bestoweth him self wholie for thee.
- 21 Let thy soule loue a good seruant, and defraude him not of libertie, [nether leaue him a poore man.]
- 22 * If thou haue cattel, loke wel to them, and if thei be for thy profite, kepe them with thee.

We must take heed with whom we haue to do.

1 STRIVE not with a mightie mā, lest thou fall into his hands.
 2 *Make not variance with a riche mā, lest he on y^other side weigh downe thy weight: *for golde [and siluer] hath destroyed manie & hath subuerted y^e hearts of Kings.
 3 Striue not with a man that is ful of wordes, and laie no stickes vpon his fyre.
 4 Playe not with a man that is vntaught, lest thy kinned be dishonored.
 5 *Despise not a man that turneth him self away from sinne, nor cast him not in the teeth with ali, but remēber that we are all worthe blame.
 6 *Dishonour not a man in his olde age: for they were as we which are not olde.
 7 Be not glad of the death of thineemie, but remember that we must dye all, [and so enter into ioy.]
 8 *Despise not the exhortacion of the [Elders] y^e be wise, but acquaint thy self with their wise sentences: for of the thou shalt learne wisdom, [and the doctrine of vnderstanding,] and how to sesue great men [without complaint.]

 9 Go not from the doctrine of the Elders: for they haue learned it of their fathers, & of them thou shalt learne vnderstanding, and to make answer in the time of nede.
 10 Kindle not the coles of sinners, [when thou rebukest them,] lest thou be burnt in the fyrie flames [of their finnes.]
 11 Rise not vp against him that doeth wrong, y^e he lay not waite as a spie for thy mouth.

 6 *Cast not thy minde vpon harlots [in a - Prou. 5.11. nie maner of thing,] lest thou destroye [bothe thy self and] thine heritage.
 7 Go not about gazing in the streates of the citie, nether wander thou in the secret places thereof.
 8 *Turne awaye thine eye from a beautiful woman, and loke not vpon othe: rs beautie: for manie * haue perished by the beautie of women: for therow it loue is kindled as a fyre.

- 10 Many wondering at y^e beautie of a strange womā, haue bene cast out: for her wordes burne as a fyre.]
- 11 Sit not at all with another mā's wife, [neither lie with her vpon the bed,] nor banquet with her, lest thine heart incline vnto her, and so through thy desire fall into destruction.
- 12 ¶ Forsake not an olde friend: for the new shal not be like him: a newe friend is as newe wine: when it is olde, thou shalt drinke it with p^leaseure.
- 13 *Desire not y^e honou^r: [& riches] of a sinner: for y^e knowest not what shalbe his end.
- 14 Delite not in the thing that the vngodlie haue pleasure in, but remēber that they shal not be founde iust vnto their graue.
- 15 Kepe thee frō the man that hath the power to slaye: so shalt thou not doute the feare of death: and if thou come vnto him, make no faute, lest he take away thy life: remember that thou goest in the middes of snares, and that thou walkest vpon the towres of the cite.
- 16 Trye thy neighbour as nere as thou cast, *and aske counsel of the wise.
- 17 Let thy talke be with the wise, & all thy cōmunicatiō in the Law of y^e moste High.
- 18 Let iust men eat and drinke with thee, and let thy reioycing be in the feare of the Lord.
- 19 In the hands of the craftsmen shal the workes be commended, and the wise prince of the people by his worde, [& the worde by the wisdom of the Elders.]
- 20 A man ful of wordes is dangerous in his cite, and he that is rash in his talking, shalbe hated.

CHAP. X.

1 Of Kings and iudges. 7 Pride and covetousnes are to be abhorred. 28 Labour is praised.

1 A Wise iudge wil instruct his people with discretion: the gouernance of a prudent man is wel ordered.

2 As the iudge of the people is him self, so are his officers, and what maner of man the ruler of the cite is, suche are all they that dwell therein.

1 King 19.1. 3 *An vnwise King destroieth his people, but where they that be in autoritie, are men of vnderstāding, there the cite prosperieth.

4 The gouernement of the earth is in the hand of the Lord, [and all iniquitie of the nacions is to be abhorred,] and when time is, he wil set vp a profitable ruler ouer it.

5 In the hand of God is the prosperitie of man, and vpon the scribes wil he laye his honour.

Leu. 19.17. 6 *Be not angrie for any wrong, with thy neighbour, and do nothing by inurious practises.

7 Pride is hateful before God and man, & by bothe doeth one commit iniquitie.

8 *Because of vnrighteous dealing and wrongs and riches gotten by deceit, the kingdome is translated from one people to another. 1er. 27.8. dan 4.14.

9 There is nothing worse then a couetous man: [why art thou proude, o earth and ashes?] there is not a more wicked thing, then to loue money: for suche one wolde euen sel his soule, & for his life euerie one is compelled to pul out his owne bowels.

10 [All tyrannie is of smale indurance, and the disease that is hard to heale, is grievous to the physicion.]

11 The physicio cutteth of y^e fore disease, & he that is to day a King, to morow is dead.

12 Why is earth & ashes proude, seing that when a man dyeth, he is the heire of serpents, beastes and wormes?

13 The beginning of mans pride, is to fall away from God, & to turne away his heart from his maker.

14 For pride is the original of sinne, and he that hathe it, shal powre out abominacion, til at last he be ouerthrowen: therefore the Lord bringeth the persuasious [of the wicked] to dishonour, and destroieth them in the end.

15 The Lord hath cast downe the thrones of the [proude] princes, & set vp the meke in their steade.

16 The Lord plucketh vp the rootes of the [proude] nacions, and planteth the lowlie with glorie among them.

17 The Lord ouerthroweth the lands of the heathen, and destroieth thē vnto y^e foundations of y^e earth: he causeth thē to wither away, & destroieth them, and maketh their memorial to cease out of the earth.

18 [God destroieth the memorial of the proude, & leaueth the remembrance of the humbie.]

19 Pride was not created in mē, nether wrath in the generacion of women.

20 There is a fede of mā, which is an honorable fede: the honorable fede are they y^e feare y^e Lord: there is a fede of mā, which is without honour: y^e fede without honour, are they that trāsgresse the cōmandemēts of the Lord: it is a fede that remaineth w^h feareth the Lord, & a faire plant, that loue him: but they are a fede without honour, that despise the Law, & a deceiueable fede that breake the commandements.

21 He y^e is the chief amōg brethrē, is honorable: so are they y^e feare y^e Lord in his sight.

22 The feare of the Lord causeth that the kingdome faileth not, but the kingdome is lost by crueltie and pride.

23 The feare of the Lord is y^e glorie aswel of the riche & the noble, as of the poore.

24 It is not mete to despise the poore man that hath vnderstanding, nether is it conuenient to magnifie the riche that is a wicked man.

25 The great man and the iudge & the man of autoritie, are honorable, yet is there none of them greater, then he that feareth the Lord.

Pro. 17. 2. 26 *Vnto the seruant that is wise, shal they that are free, do seruice: he y hathe knowledge, wil not grudge whē he is reformed, [& the ignorant shal not come to honor.*]

2. Sam. 12. 13. 27 Seke not excuses when thou shuldest do thy worke, nether be ashamed thereof through pride in the time of aduersitie.

Pro. 12. 9. 28 *Better is he that laboreth & hathe plentifulnes of all things, then he that is gorgeous, and wanteth bread.

29 My sonne, get thy self praise by mekenes, and esteeme thy self as thou deseruest.

30 Who wil counte him iust that sitheth against him self or honour him, that dishonoreth his owne soule?

31 The poore is honored for his knowledge [and his feare,] but the riche is had in reputation because of his goods.

32 He that is honorable in pouertie, how muche more shal he be when he is riche? & he that is vnhoneft beig riche, how muche more wil he be so when he is in pouertie?

CHAP. XI.

1 The praise of humilitie. 2 After the outward appearance ought we not to iudge. 7 Of rash iudgements. 14 All things come of God. 29 All men are not to be brought into thine house.

Gen. 41. 40. 1 Wisdomē *lifteth vp y head of him that is lowe, and maketh him to sit among great men.

2 Commend not a man for his beautie, nether despise a man in his vtter appearance.

3 The bee is but smal among the soules, yet doeth her frute passe in swēnes.

Eccl. 12. 2. 4 Be not proude of clothing & raimēt, * & exalte not thy self in the day of honour: for the workes of the Lord are wōderful, [and glorious,] secret, [and vnknown] are his workes among men.

5 Many tyrāts haue sit downe vpon y earth, * & the vnlikelie hathe worne the crowne.

2. Sam. 15. 28. 6 Many mightie men haue bene brought to dishonour, & the honorable haue bene deliuered into other mens hands.

Esther. 6. 10. 7 ¶ *Blame [no mā] before thou haue inquired the matter: vnderstand first, and then reforme [righteously.]

Deu. 13. 14. 8 *Giue no sentence, before thou hast heard the cause, nether interrupt men in the middes of their tales.

17. 6. 9 Striue not for a matter that thou hast not to do with, and sit not in the iudgement of sinners.

10. 17. 22. 10 My sonne, medle not with many matters: *for if thou gaine muche, thou shalt not be blameles, and if thou follow after it, yet shalt thou not attein it, nether shalt thou escape, though thou flee from it.

11 *There is some man that laboreth and taketh peine, and the more he hasteth, the more he wanteth. Pro. 10. 3.

12 Againe there is some that is slouthful, & *hathe nede of helpe: for he wāteth strēgth, and hathe great pouertie, yet the eye of the Lord loketh vpō him to good, and setteth him vp from his lowe estate, 1. Cor. 4. 10.

13 And he listeth vp his head: so that manie men marueil at him, [& giue honour vnto God.]

14 *Prosperitie & aduersitie, life & death, pouertie and riches come of the Lord. Iob. 14. 12.

Eccl. 2. 4. 15 Wisdome & knowledge, and vnderstanding of the Lawe are of the Lord: loue & good workes come of him.

16 Errour and darckenes are appointed for sinners, and they that exalte them selues in euil, waxe olde in euil.

17 The gift of the Lord remaineth for the godlie, & his good wil giueth prosperitie for euer.

18 ¶ Some man is riche by his care and niggardship, & this is y porcion of his wages, 19 In that he saith, *I haue gotten rest, and now wil I eat continually of my goods, yet he considereth not, y the time draweth nere, that he must leaue all these things vn to other men, and dye him self. Luk. 12. 18.

20 Stand thou in thy state, and exercise thy self therein, and remaine in thy worke vnto thine age.

21 Marueil not at the workes of sinners, but trust in the Lord, and abide in thy labour: for it is an easie thing in the sight of the Lord suddenly to make a poore man riche.

22 The blessing of the Lord is in the wages of the godlie, and he maketh his prosperitie sone to florish.

23 ¶ Say not, What profite and pleasure shal I haue? and what good things shal I haue hereafter?

24 Againe say not, I haue ynough, & possesse many things, * & what euil can come to me hereafter? Chap. 18. 25.

25 In thy good state remēber aduersitie, & in aduersitie forget not prosperitie.

26 For it is an easie thing vnto the Lord in the day of death to rewarde a man according to his waies.

27 The aduersitie of an houre maketh one to forget pleasure: and in a mans end, his workes are discovered.

28 Iudge none blessed before his death: for a man shalbe known by his children.

29 Bring not euertie man into thine house: for the discentful haue manv tranes, [and are like stomackes that belche stinkingly.]

30 As a partriche is takē vnder a basket, [& the hinde is taken in the snare,] so is the heart of the proude man, which like a spie watcheth watcheth for thy fall.

- 31 For he lieth in waite & turneth good vnto euil, and in things worthe praise he wil finde some faute.
- 32 Of one litle sparke is made a great fyre, [& of one disceritful man is blood increafed:] for a sinful mā laieth waite for blood.
- 33 Beware of a wicked man: for he imagineth wicked things to bring thee into a perpetual shame.
- 34 Lodge a ſtrāger, and he wil deſtroie thee with vnquietnes, & driue thee from thine owne.

CHAP. XII.

1 Vnto whome we ought to do good. 10 Enemies ought not to be truſted.

- 1 WHen thou wilt do good, knowe to whome thou doest it, so shalt thou be thanked for thy benefites.
- 2 Do good vnto the righteous, & thou shalt finde [great] rewarde, thogh not of him, yet of the moſte High.
- 3 He can not haue good that continueth in euil, and giueth no almes: [for the moſte High hateth the ſinners, and hathe mercie vpon them that repent.]
- 4 Giue vnto ſuche as feare God, and receiue not a ſinner.
- 5 Do wel vnto him that is lowlie, but giue not to ſyngodlie: holde backe thy bread, and giue it not vnro him, leſt he ouercome thee thereby: els thou shalt receiue twiſe as muche euil for all the good that thou doest vnto him.
- 6 For the moſte High hateth the wicked, & wil repay vengeance vnto the vngodlie, & kepeth them againſt the day of horrible vengeance.
- 7 Giue vnto the good, and receiue not the ſinner.
- 8 A friend can not be knowen in proſperitie, nether can an enemy be vnknowen in aduerſitie.
- 9 When a man is in wealth, it griueth his enemies, but in heauines & trouble a mans very friend wil departe from him.
- 10 Truſt neuer thine enemy: for like as an yron ruſteth, ſo doeth his wickednes.
- 11 And thogh he make muche crouching & kneeling, yet aduiſe thy ſelf, & beware of him, & thou shalt be to him, as he that wipeth a glaſſe, and thou shalt knowe that all his ruſt hathe not bene wel wiped away.
- 12 Set him not by thee, leſt he deſtroie thee, & ſtand in thy place.
- 13 Nether ſet him at thy right hand, leſt he ſike thy roume, & thou at the laſt remēber my wordes, & be pricked with my ſayings.
- 14 Binde not two ſinnes together: for there ſhal not one be vnpuniſhed.
- 15 Who wil haue pitie of ſy charmer, that is ſtinged of the ſerpēt? or of all ſuche as come nere the beaſtes? ſo is it w̄ him that kepeth companie with a wicked man, & wrap peth him ſelf in his ſinnes.

- 16 For a ſeaſon wil he bide with thee: but if thou ſtomble, he tayeth not.
- 17 *An enemy is ſwete in his lippes: he can make manie good wordes, and ſpeake manie good things: yea, he can weepe with his eyes, but in his heart he imagineth how to throwe thee into the pit: and if he may finde opportunitie, he wil not be ſatiſfied with blood.
- 18 If aduerſitie come vpon thee, thou shalt finde him there firſt, and thogh he pretēd to helpe thee, yet ſhal he vndermine thee: he wil ſhake his head, and clappe his hāds, and wil make manie wordes, and diſguiſe his countenance.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The companies of the proude & of the riche are to be eſchewed. 15 The loue of God. 17 Lak is compame with their like.

- 1 HE* that toucheth pitch, ſhalbe defiled with it: and he that is familiar with the proude, ſhal be like vnto him.
- 2 Burthen not thy ſelf aboute thy power, whiles thou liueſt, and companie not with one that is mightier, and richer then thy ſelf: for how agre the kettel and the earthen pot together? for if the one be ſmitten againſt the other, it ſhalbe brokē.
- 3 The riche dealeth vnrighteouſly, and threatneth with all: but the poore being oppreſſed muſt intreat: if the riche haue done wrong, he muſt yet be intreated: but if the poore haue done it, he ſhal ſtraight waife be threatned.
- 4 If thou be for his profite, he vſeth thee: but if ſy haue nothing, he wil forſake thee.
- 5 If thou haue anie thing, he wil liue with thee: yea, he wil make thee a bare man, and wil not care for it.
- 6 If he haue nede of thee, he wil defraude thee, and wil laugh at thee, and put thee in hope, and giue thee all good wordes, & ſay, What wanteſt thou?
- 7 Thus wil he ſhame thee in his meat, vntil he haue ſupt thee cleane vp twiſe or thriſe, and at the laſt he wil laugh thee to ſcorne: afterwarde, when he ſeeth thee, he wil forſake thee, and ſhake his head at thee.
- 8 [Submit thy ſelf vnto God, & waite vpō his hand.]
- 9 Beware that ſy be not diſceiued in thine owne conceit & broght downe by thy ſimples: [be not to hūble in thy wiſdome.]
- 10 ¶ If thou be called of a mightie man, abſent thy ſelf: ſo ſhal he call thee the more oft.
- 11 Preaſe not thou vnto him, that thou be not ſhut out, but go not thou farre of, leſt he forget thee.
- 12 Withdrowe not thy ſelf frō his ſpeache, but beleue not his manie wordes: for with muche communicatiō wil he tempt thee, and laughingly wil he grope thee.

13 He is vnmerciful, & kepeth not promes: he wil not spare to do thee hurt, and to put thee in prison.

14 Beware, & take good hede: for thou walkest in peril of thine ouerthrowing: when thou hearest this, awake in thy slepe.

15 Loue the Lord all thy life, and call vpon him for thy saluacion.

16 ¶ Euerie beast loueth his like, and euerie man loueth his neighbour.

17 All flesh wil resort to their like, & euerie man wil kepe companie with suche as he is him self.

18 How can the wolfe agre with the lambe? nomore ca the yngodlie with y righteous.

19 What felowship hath the hyena with a dogge? and what peace is betwene the riche and the poore?

20 As the wilde asse is the lions praye in the wildernes, so are poore men the meat of the riche.

21 As the proude hate humilitie, so do the riche abhorre the poore.

22 If a riche mā fall, his friēds set him vp againe: but whē the poore falleth, his friēds driue him away.

23 If a riche man offend, he hath many helpers: he speaketh proude wordes, and yet men iustifie him: but if a poore man faile, they rebuke him, & thogh he speake wisely, yet can it haue no place.

24 Whē the riche mā speaketh, euerie mā holdeth his tongue: and loke what he saith, they praise it vnto the cloudes: but if the poore mā speake, they say, What felow is this? and if he do amisse, they wil destroie him.

25 Riches are good vnto him that hath no sinne [in his conscience,] and pouertie is euil in the mouth of the yngodlie.

26 The heart of a man chāgeth his countenance, whether it be in good or euil.

27 A chearful countenance is a token of a good heart: for it is an hard thig to knowe the secrets of the thoght.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The offence of the tongue, 17 Man is but a vaine thing.

21 Happie is he that continueth in wisdom.

Chap 19.7.
iam. 3.2.

1 Blessed is the man that hath not fallen by [the worde of] his mouth, & is not tormented with the sorow of sinne.

2 Blessed is he that is not condemned in his conscience, and is not fallen from his hope in the Lord.

3 Riches are comelie for a nigarde, and what shulde an enuious man do with money?

4 He that gathereth together from his owne soule, heapeth together for others, that wil make good cheare with his goods.

5 He that is wicked vnto him self, to whom wil he be good? for suche one can haue no pleasure of his goods.

6 There is nothing worse, then when one enuieeth him self: and this is a rewarde of his wickednes.

7 And if he do anie good, he doeth it, not knowing thereof, and against his wil, and at the last he declareth his wickednes.

8 The enuious man hath a wicked loker: he turneth away his face, and dispiseth men.

9 A couetous mans eye hath neuer ynough of a porciō, and his wicked malice withereth his owne soule.

10 A wicked eye enuieeth the bread, & there is scarcenes vpon his table. Pro. 17. 20.

11 My sonne, do good to thy self of that thou hast, and giue the Lord his due offerings.

12 Remēber that death tarieth not, & that the couenant of the graue is not shewed vnto thee.

13 Do good vnto thy friēd before thou dye, & according to thine habilitie stretch out thine hand, and giue him. *Chap. 4. 1.

luk. 1. 4. 3.*

14 Defraude not thy self of the good day, and let not the porcion of the good desires ouerpasse thee.

15 Shalt thou not leaue thy trauals vnto another, and thy labours for the deuiding of the heritage?

16 Giue and take and sanctifie thy soule: [worke thou righteousnes before thy death:] for in the hell there is no meat to finde.

17 ¶ All flesh waxeth olde, as a garment, & this is the condition of all times, Thou shalt dye the death. *Isa. 40. 6.

19 All corruptible things shal faile, and the worker thereof shal go withal.

20 [Euerie excellēt worke shal be iustified, and he that worketh it, shal haue honour thereby.]

21 ¶ Blessed is the man that doeth meditate honest things by wisdom, [& exerciseth him self in iustice,] and he that reasoneth of holie things by his vnderstanding, Psal. 1. 2.

22 Which cōsidereth in his heart her wayes, and vnderstandeth her secrets.

23 Go thou after her as one that seeketh her out, and lie in waite in her wayes.

24 He shal loke in at her windowes, & hearken at her dores.

25 He shal abide beside her house, and fasten a stake in her walles: he shal pitche his tent besides her.

26 And he shal remaine in the lodging of good men, & shal set his childre vnder her couering, and shal dwell vnder her branches.

27 By her he shalbe couered from the heat, and in her glorie shal he dwell.

CHAP. XV.

1 The goodnes that followeth him which feareth God.
2 God reuelleth and casteth of the sinner. 11 God is not the author of euil.

1 HE that feareth the Lord, wil do good: and he that hathe the knowledge of the Law, wil kepe it sure.

2 As an [honorable] mother shal she mete him, and she, as his wife married of a virgine, wil receiue him.

3 With the bread [of life] and vnderstanding shal she fede him, & giue him the water of [wholsome] wisdom to drinke.

4 He shal assure him self in her, and shal not be moued, and shal holde him self fast by her, and shal not be confounded.

5 She shal exalt him aboue his neighboures, and in the middes of the congregaciō shal she open his mouth: [with the spirit of wisdom, and vnderstanding shal she fil him, and clothe him with the garment of glorie.]

6 She shal cause him to inherit ioye, & the crowne of gladnes, & an euerlasting name.

7 But foolish men wil not take holde vpō her: [but suche as haue vnderstanding, wil mete her:] the sinners shal not se her.

8 For she is farre frō pride [and disceite,] & men that lie, cā not remember her: [but men of truth shal haunt her, & shal prof-per euen vnto the beholding of God.]

9 Praise is not semelie in the mouth of the sinner: for that is not sent of the Lord.

10 But if praise come of wisdom, [and be pléteous in a faithful mouth] thé the Lord wil prosper it.

11 Say not thou, It is through the Lord that I turne backe: for thou oghrest not to do the things that he hateth.

12 Say not thou, He hathe caused me to er-re: for he hathe no nede of the sinful man.

it.

titude of infidels, & vnprofitable childrē.]

3 For one that is iuste, is better then a thousand suche, and better it is to dye without children, then to leaue behinde him vn-godlie children.

4 For by one that hathe vnderstanding, shal

- 20 These things doeth no heart vnderstand worthely, [but he vnderstandeth euerie heart.]
- 21 And who vnderstandeth his wayes? and the storme that no man can see? for the moste parte of his workes are hid.
- 22 Who can declare y^e workes of his righteousnes? or who can abide them? for his ordinance is farre of, and the trying out of all things faileth.
- 23 He that is humble of heart, wil consider these things: but an vnwise and erroneous mā casteth his minde vpon foolish things.
- 24 My sonne, hearken vnto me, and learne knowledge; and make my wordes with thine heart.
- 25 I wil declare thee weightie doctrine, & I wil instruct thee exactly in knowledge.
- 26 The Lord hathe set his workes in good order fro the beginning, & parte of them hathe he fundred from the other when he first made them.
- 27 He hathe garnished his workes for euer, and their beginnings so long as they shal indure, they are not hungrie nor wearied in their labours, nor cease from their offices.
- 28 None of them hindreth another, nether was anie of them disobedient vnto his wordes.

1 Not to continue in sinne. 5 The prayer of the afflicted. 6 To hate to be reprobud. 17 The mouths of the wise man 26 The thought of the foole.

1 MY sonne, hast thou sinned: do so no more,*but pray for the fore sinnes [that they may be forguien thee.]

2 Flee from sinne, as from a serpent: for if thou comest to nere it, it wil bite thee: the teeth thereof are as the teeth of a lyon, to slaye the soules of men.

3 All iniquitie is as a two edged sworde, the woundes whereof can not be healed.

4 Strife & iniuries waste riches: so the house of the proude shalbe desolate.

5 *The prayer of the poore going out of the mouth, cometh vnto the eares of the Lord, and iustice is done him incontinently.

6 Who so hateth to be reformed, is in the way of sinners: but he that feareth the Lord, conuerteth in heart.

7 An eloquent talker is knowen afarre of: but he that is wise, perceueth when he falleth.

8 Who so buyldeth his house with other mēs money, is like one that gathereth stones to make his graue.

9 *The congregacion of the wicked is like towne wrapped together: their end is a flame of fyre to destroye them.

10 The way of sinners is made plaine with stones, but at the end thereof is hel; [darkenes and paines.]

11 He that kepeth the Law of the Lord, ruleth his owne affections thereby: and

- the increase of wisdom is the end of the feare of God.
- 12 He that is not wise, wil not suffer him self to be taught: but there is some wit that increaseth bitterness.
- 13 The knowledge of the wise shal abounde like water that runneth ouer, and his counsel is like a pure fountaine of life.
- 14 * The inner partes of a foole are like a broken vessel: he can kepe no knowledge whiles he liueth.
- 15 When a man of vnderstanding heareth a wise worde, he wil comend it, and increase it: but if an ignorant man heare it, he wil disallowe it, and cast it behinde his backe.
- 16 The talking of a foole is like a burden in the way, but there is comelines in the talke of a wise man.
- 17 They inquire at the mouthe of the wise man in the congregacion, and they shal ponder his wordes in their heart.
- 18 As is an house that is destroyed, so is wisdom vnto a foole, and the knowlege of the vnwise is as wordes without order.
- 19 Doctrine vnto fooles is as fetters on the fete, and like manacles vpon the right hand.
- 20 * A foole listeth vp his voyce with laughter, but a wise mā doeth scarce smile secretly.
- 21 Learning is vnto a wise man a iewel of golde, and like a bracelet vpon his right arme.

- 23 A foole wil pepe in at the dore into the house: but he that is wel nurtered, wil stand without.
- 24 It is the point of a foolish mā to hearken at the dore: for he that is wise, wil be grieved with such dishonour.
- 25 The lippes of talkers wil be telling suche things as pertaine not vnto the, but y wordes of suche as haue vnderstanding, are weighed in the balance.
- 26 The heart of fooles is in their mouth: but the mouth of the wise is in their heart.

- 2 A slothful man is to be compared to the dongue of oxē, & euerie one that taketh it vp, wil shake it out of his hand.
- 3 An euil nurtered sonne is the dishonour of the father: & the daughter is least to be esteemed.
- 4 A wise daughter is an heritage vnto her housband: but she that liueth dishonestly, is her fathers heauines.
- 5 She that is bolde, dishonoreth bothe her father and her housband; [and is not inferior to the vngodlie,] but they bothe shal dispise her.
- 6 A tale out of time is as musicke in mourning: but wisdom knoweth the seasons of correction and doctrine.
- 7 Who so teacheth a foole, is as one that gleweth a potcherde together, and as he that waketh one that slepeth, from a sounde slepe.
- 8 If children liue honestly, & haue wherewith, they shal put away the shame of their parents.
- 9 But if children be proude, with hautines and foolishnes they defile the nobilitie of their kinred.
- 10 Who so telleth a foole of wisdom, is as a man, which speaketh to one y is a slepe: whē he hathe tolde his tale, he saith, What is the matter?
- 11 * Wepe for the dead, for he hathe lost the light: so wepe for the foole, for he wanteth vnderstanding: make smale weping for the dead, for he is at rest: but the life of the foole is worse then the death.
- 12 Scūe dayes do men mourne for him that is dead: but the lamentacion for the foole, & vngodlie [shulde endure] all the dayes of their life.
- 13 Talke not muche with a foole, & go not to him that hathe no vnderstanding: * beware of him, lest it turne thee to paine, and lest thou be defiled when he shaketh him self. Depart from him, & thou shalt finde rest, and shalt not receiue sorowe by his foolishnes.
- 14 What is heauier then lead? and what ocher name shulde a foole haue?
- 15 * Sād and salt, and a lump of yron is easier to beare, then an vnwise, [foolish and vngodlie man.]
- 16 As a frame of wood ioyned together in a buylding can not be losed with shaking, so the heart that is stablished by aduised counsel, shal feare at no time.
- 17 The heart that is confirmed by discrete wisdom, is as a faire plaistering on a plaine wall.
- 18 As reedes that are set vp on hie, can not abide the winde, so the feareful heart with foolish imaginacion can indure no feare.
- 19 He that hurteth the eye, bringeth forth the teares, & he that hurteth y heart, bringeth forth the affection.
- 20 Who so casteth a stone at y birdes, fraieth them away: & he that vpbraideth his friend, breaketh friendship.
- 21 Thogh

- 21 Though thou drewest a sworde at thy friend, yet dispaire not: for there may be a returning to fauour.
- 22 If thou haue opened thy mouth against thy friend, feare not: for there may be a reconciliation, so that vpon aiding or pride or disclosing of secrets or a traitterous woũde do not let: for by these things euerie friend wil departe.
- 23 Be faithfull vnto thy friend in his pouertie, that thou maist reioyce in his prosperitie. Abide stedfast vnto him in the time of his trouble, that thou maist be heire with him in his heritage: for pouertie is not alwayes to be contemned, nor the riche that is foolish, to be had in admiration.
- 24 As the vapour, and smoke of the chimney goeth before the fyre, so euil wordes, [rebukes & threatenings] go before bloodshedding.
- 25 I wil not be ashamed to defende a friend: nether wil I hide my self from him, though he shulde do me harme: whosoever heareth it, shal beware of him.
- 26 Who shal set a watch before my mouth, and a seale of wisdom vpon my lippes, that I fall not suddenly by them, and that my tongue destroye me not?

CHAP. XXIII.

- 2 A prayer of the autor. 13 Of othes, blasphemie, and vnwise communication 16 Of three kindes of finnes. 23 Manus finnes proceeds of adulterie. 27 Of the feare of God.
- 15 *The man that is accustomed to opprobrious wordes, wil neuer be reformed all the daies of his life. 2 Sam. 16, 7.

1 O Lord, father & gouernour of all my whole life, leaue me not to their counsel, and let me not fall by them.

Or, my lippes.

¶ That is of tongue and lippes.

- 2 Who wil correct my thought, and put the doctrine of wisdom in mine heart, that they may not spare me in mine ignorance, nether let their fautes passe?
- 3 Lest mine ignorances increase, and my finnes abounde to my destruction, and lest I fall before mine aduersarie, and mine enemies reioyce ouer me, whose hope is farre from thy mercie.
- 4 O Lord, father & God of my life, [leaue me not in their imaginacion] nether giue me a proude looke, but turne away from thy seruants a stout minde.
- 5 Take from me vaine hope, and concupiscence, and retaine him in obedience, that desireth continually to serue thee.
- 6 Let not thy griedines of the bellie, nor lust of the flesh holde me, and giue not me thy seruant ouer into an impudent minde.
- 7 ¶ Heare, O ye children, the instruction of a mouth that shal speake truth: who so kepeth it, shal not perishe thorow his lippes, [nor be hurte by wicked workes.]
- 8 The siner shalbe taken by his owne lippes: for the euil speaker and the proude do offende by them.
- 9 *Accustome not thy mouth to swearing: [for in it there are many falles,] nether take vp for a custome the naming of the Holy one: [for thou shalt not be vnpunished for suche things.]
- 10 For as a seruant which is oft punished, can not be without some skarre, so he that sweareth and nameth God continually, shal not be fauteles.
- 11 A man that vseth much swearing, shalbe filled with wickednes, and the plague shal neuer go from his house: when he shal offend, his faute shalbe vpon him, and if he knowledge not his sinne, he maketh a double offence: and if he sweare in vaine, he shal not be innocent, but his house shalbe full of plagues.
- 12 There is a worde which is clothed with death: God giante that it be not founde in the heritage of Iacob: but they that feare God, eschewe all suche, & are not wrapped in sinne.
- 13 Vse not thy mouth to ignorant rashnes: for therein is the occasion of sinne. Or, inordinate swearing.
- 14 ¶ Remember thy father and thy mother when thou art set among great men, lest thou be forgotten in their sight, and so through thy custome become a foole, and wish that thou hadest not bene borne, and curse the day of thy natiuitie.
- 16 There are two sortes [of me] that abounde in sinne, and the third bringeth wrath [and destruction:] a minde note as fyre, that can not be quenched til it be consumed: an adulterous man that giueth his bodie no rest, til he haue kindled a fyre.
- 17 (All bread is swete to a whoremonger: he wil not leaue of til he perishe.)
- 18 A man that breaketh wedlocke, & thinketh thus in his heart, * Who seeth me? I am copassed about with darkenes: the walles couer me: no bodie seeth me: whome neede I to feare? the moste High wil not remember my finnes. 1 Sa 29, 15.
- 19 Suche a man onely feareth the eyes of men, & knoweth not that the eyes of the Lord are ten thousand times brighter than the sunne, beholding all the waies of me, [and the ground of the deepe,] and considereth the moste secret partes.
- 20 He knewe all things or euer they were made, and after they be brought to passe also he loketh vpon them all.
- 21 *The same man shalbe punished in the streets of the citie, [& shalbe chased like a yong horsefoale,] and when he thinketh not vpon it, he shalbe taken: [thus shal he be put to shame of euerie man, because he wolde not vnderstand the feare of the Lord.] Leu 20, 10. dent. 22, 22.

- 21 And thus shal it go also with euerie wife, that leaueth her housband, and getteth inheritance by another.
- Exod. 20, 14.* 22 *For first she hathe disobeyd the Law of the moste High, and secondly, she hathe trespassed against her owne housband, & thurdly, she hathe plaide the whore in adulterie, and gotten her children by another man.
- 24 She shalbe broght out into the congregacion, and examinacion shalbe made of her children.
- 25 Her children shal not take roote, and her branches shal bring forth no frute.
- 26 A shameful reporte shal she leaue, and her reproche shal not be put out.
- 27 And they that remaine, shal knowe that there is nothing better then the feare of the Lord, and that there is nothing sweter then to take hede vnto the commandements of the Lord.
- 28 It is great glorie to followe the Lord, and to be receued of him is long life.
- CHAP. XXIII.
- 1 A praise of wisdom proceeding forth of the mouth of God. 6 Of her workes and place where she resteth. 20 She is giuen to the children of God.
- 1 Wisdom shall praise her self, [and be honored in God,] and reioyce in the middes of her people.
- 2 In the congregacion of the moste High shal she open her mouth, and triumph before his power.
- 3 [In the middes of her people shal she be exalted, and wondred at in the holy assemblie.
- 4 In the multitude of the chosen she shalbe commended, and among suche as be blessed, she shalbe praised, and shal say,]
- 5 I am come out of the mouth of the moste High, [first borne before all creatures.
- 6 I caused y light that faileth not, to arise in the heauen,] and couered the earth as a cloude.
- 7 My dwelling is aboue in the height, and my throne is in the pillar of the clouds.
- 8 I alone haue gone round about the compassse of heauen and haue walked in the bottom of the depth.
- 9 I possessed the waues of the sea, and all the earth, and all people, and nacion, [and with my power haue I troden downe the hearts of all, bothe High and low.]
- 10 In all these things I fought rest, & a dwelling in some inheritance.
- 11 So the creator of all things gaue me a commandement, and he that made me, appointed me a tabernacle, and said, Let thy dwelling be in Iacob, and take thine inheritance in Israel, and roote thy selfe among my chosen.
- Prov. 8, 23.*

- 14 I toke roote in an honorable people, euē in the porcion of the Lords inheritance.
- 15 I am set vp on hie like a ceder in Libanus, and as a cipers tre vpon the mountaynes of Hermon.
- 16 I am exalted like a palme tre^o about the Or, in Cader bankes, and as a rose plante in Iericho, as a faire oliue tre in a pleasant field, and am exalted as a plane tre by the water.
- 17 I smelled as the cinnamom, & as a bagge of spices: I gaue a swete odour as the best myrrhe, as galbanum, and onix, and swete storax, & perfume of incense in an house.
- 18 As the terebinth, haue I stretched out my branches, and my branches are the braches of honour and grace.
- 19 *As the vine haue I broght forth the [fruite] of swete fauour, and my floures are the frute of honour and riches. Iohn 1, 9.
- 20 I am the mother of beautiful loue, and of feare, and of knowledge, and of holy hope: I giue eternal thigs to all my children to whome God hathe commanded.
- 21 [In me is all grace of life and truth: in me is all hope of life and vertue.]
- 22 Come vnto me all ye that be desirous of me, and fill your selues with my frutes.
- 23 *For the remembrance of me is sweter then honie, and mine enheritance [sweter] then the honie combe: [the remembrance of me endureth for euer more.] Psal. 119, 12.
- 24 They that eat me, shal haue y more hunger, and they that drinke me, shal thirst the more.
- 25 Who so hearkeneth vnto me, shal not come to confusion, & they that worke by me, shal not offende: [they that make me to be knowen, shal haue euerlasting life.]
- 26 All these things are the boke [of life,] & the couenant of the moste high God, [& the knowledge of the truth,] * & the Law Exod. 20, 1.

- 27 Be not weary to behaue your selues valiantly with the Lord, that he may also confirme you: cleaue vnto him: for the Lord almightie is but one God, & besides him there is none other Sauour.
- 28 [Out of Dauid his seruant he ordeined to raise vp a moste mightie King y shalbe fit in the throne of honoure for euer more.]
- 29 He filleth all things with his wisdom, as *Physon, & as Tygris, in the time of the Gen. 2, 2. new frutes.
- 30 He maketh the vnderstanding to abound like *Euphrates, & as Iorden in the Ios. 3, 7. time time of the haruest.

- 31 He maketh the doctrine of knowledge to appeare as the light, and ouerfloweth as Geon in the time of the vintage.
- 32 The first man hathe not knowen her perfectly: no more shal the last seke her out.
- 33 For her consideratious are more abundant then the sea, and her counsel is profounder then the great deepe.
- 34 I wisdom [haue cast out floods:] I am as an arme of the riuier: I runne into Paradise as a watercondite.
- 35 I said, I wil watter my faire garden, and wil watter my pleasant ground: and lo, my ditche became a flood, and my flood became a sea.
- 36 For I make doctrine to shine as the light of the morning, and I lighten it for euer.
- 37 [I wil pearce thorow all the lower partes of the earth: I wil loke vp o all suche as be a slepe, & lighten all them that trust in the Lord.]
- 38 I wil yet powre out doctrine, as prophecie, and leaue it vnto all ages for euer.

- 1 THRE things reioyce me, and by them I am I beautified before God & men: *the vntie of brethren, the loue of neighbours, a man and wife that agre together.
- 2 ¶ Three sortes of men my soule hateth, & I viterly abhorre the life of them: a poore man that is proude: a riche man that is a liar, and an olde adulterer that doteth.
- 3 ¶ If thou hast gathered nothing in thy youth, what canst thou finde in thine age?
- 4 ¶ Oh, how pleasant a thing is it whic graie headed men minister iudgement, & when the elders can giue good counsel!
- 5 Oh, how comelie a thig is wisdom vnto aged men, and vnderstanding and prudence to men of honour!
- 6 The crowne of olde me is to haue muche experience, and the feare of God is their glorie.
- 7 ¶ There be nine thigs, which I haue iudged in mine heart to be happie, and the tenth wil I pronounce with my tongue: a man that while he liueth, hathe ioye of his children, and seeth the fall of his enemies.
- 8 ¶ Wel is him that dwelleth with a wife of vnderstanding, *and that hathe not fallen with his tongue, and that hathe not serued suche as are vnworthic of him.

- 9 Wel is him that findeth prudence, and he that can not speake in the cares of them that wil heare.
- 10 ¶ Oh, how great is he that findeth wisdom! yet is there none aboue him, that feareth the Lord.
- 11 The feare of the Lord passeth all things in clerenes.
- 12 [Blessed is the man, vnto whome it is granted to haue the feare of God.] Vnto whome shal he be likened that hathe attained it?
- 13 The feare of the Lord is the beginning of his loue, and faith is the beginning to be ioyned vnto him.
- 14 [¶ The greatest heauines is the heauines of the heart, and the greatest malice is the malice of a woman]
- 15 Giue me any plague, saue onely the plague of the heart, and any malice, saue the malice of a woman:
- 16 Or any assalt, saue the assalt of them that hate, or any vengeance, saue the vengeance of the enemye.
- 17 There is not a more wicked head then the head of the serpent, and there is no wrath about the wrath of an enemye.
- 18 *I had rather dwell with a lion and dragon, then to kepe house with a wicked wife.
- 19 The wickednes of a woman chageeth her face, and maketh her countenance blacke as a sacke.
- 20 Her housband is sitting among his neighbours: because of her he sighteth sore as he beware.
- 21 All wickednes is but litle to the wickednes of a woman: let the porcion of the sinner fall vpon her.
- 22 As the climbing vp of a sandie way is to the sete of the aged, so is a wife ful of wordes to a quiet man.
- 23 *Stumble not at the beautie of a woman, and desire her not for thy pleasure.
- 24 If a woman nourish her housband, she is angrie and impudent and ful of reproche.
- 25 A wicked wife maketh a sorie heart, an heauie countenance, and a wounded minde, weake hands and feble knees, and can not comfort her housband in heauines.
- 26 Of the *woman came the beginning of sinne, and thorow her we all dye.
- 27 Giue the water no passage, [no not a litle,] nether giue a wicked woman libertie to go out.
- 28 If she walke not in thine obedience, [she shal confound thee in the fight of thine enemies.] Cut her of then from thy flesh: *Giue her, and forsake her.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 The praise of a good woman. 5 Of the feare of three things, and of the fourth. 6 Of the ielous and drunken woman. 28 Of two things that cause sorow, and of the thurde which moueth wrath.

Blessed is the man that hathe a verteous wife: for the number of his yeres shalbe double.

2 An honest womā reioyceth her housbād, and she shal fill the yeres of his life with peace.

3 A verteous womā is a good portiō which shalbe giuen for a gift vnto suche as feare the Lord.

4 Whether a man be riche or poore, he hathe a good heart toward the Lord, & they shal at all times haue a chereful countenance.

5 ¶ There be thre things that mine heart feareth, & my face is affraied of the fourth: treason in a citie: the assemblie of the people, and false accusation: all these are heuier then death.

6 ¶ But the sorow and grief of the heart is a woman that is ielous ouer another: and she that communeth with all, is a scourge of the tongue.

7 An euil wife is as a yoke of oxen y drawe diuerse waies: he that hathe her, is as thogh he helde a scorpion.

8 A drunken woman and suche as can not be tamed, is a great plague: for she can not couer her owne shame.

9 The whordome of a womā may be knowē in the pride of her eyes, and eyeliddes.

Chap. 42, 11. 10 ¶ If thy daughter be not shamefast, holde her straitly, lest she abuse her self thorough ouer muche libertie.

11 Take hede of her that hathe an vnshamefast eye: & marueile not if she trespass against thee.

12 As one that goeth by the way, and is thirstie, so shal she open her mouth, and drinke of euerie next water: by euerie hedge shal she sitte downe, & open her quiuer against euerie arrowe.

13 The grace of a wife reioyceth her housband, and fedeth his bones with her vnderstanding.

14 A peaceable woman and of a good heart is a gift of the Lord, and there is nothing so muche worthe as a womā wel instructed.

15 A shamefast & faithful woman is a double grace, and there is no weight to be compared vnto her continent minde.

16 As the sunne when it ariseth in the high places of the Lord, so is the beautie of a good wife the ornament of her house.

17 As the clere light is vpon the holie candlestick, so is the beautie of the face in a ripe age.

18 As the golden pillers are vpon the sockettes of siluer: so are faire sete with a constant minde.

19 [Perpetual are the fundaciōs that be laide vpon a strong rocke: so are the cōmandements of God in the heart of an holie woman.]

20 My sonne, kepe the strength of thine age stable, and giue not thy strength to strangers.

21 When thou hast gotten a fruteful possesiō through all the fields, sowe it with thine owne sēde, trusting in thy nobilitie.

22 So thy stocke that shal liue after thee, shal growe, trusting in the great liberalitie of their nobilitie.

23 An harlot is compared to a sowe: but the wife that is married, is counted as a towre against death to her housband.

24 A wicked womā is giuen as a rewarde to a wicked man: but a godlie woman is giuē to him that feareth the Lord.

25 A shameles woman contemneth shame: but a shamefast woman wil reuerence her housband.

26 A shameles woman is cōpared to a dogge: but she that is shamefast, reuerēceth the Lord.

27 A woman that honoreth her housband, shalbe iudged wise of all: but she that despi seth him, shalbe blased for her pride.

28 A lowde crying woman and a babler let her be sought out to driue away y enemies: the minde of euerie man that liueth with suche, shalbe conuersant among the troubles of warre.

29 There be two things that grieue mine heart, and the thirde maketh me angrie: a mā of warre that suffreth pouertie: and mē of vnderstāding that are not set by: & whē one departeth from righteousnes vnto sinne: the Lord appointeth suche to y sworde.

30 [There be two things, which me thinke to be hard and perilous.] A marchant can not lightly kepe him from wrong, and a vitailer is not without sinne.

CHAP. XXVII.

3 Of the poore that wolde be riche. 5 The probacion of the man that feareth God. 13 The unconstantnes of a soole. 16 The secrets of friends are not to be vizered. 26 The wicked imagineth euil which turneth vpon him self.

Because of pouertie haue manie finned: and he that seketh to be riche, 1. Tim 6, 9. prou. 13, 4. turneth his eyes aside.

2 As a nail in the wall sticketh fast betwene the ioyntes of the stones, so doeth sinne sticke betwene the selling and the bying.

3 If he holde him not diligently in the feare of the Lord, his house shal sone be ouerthrowen.

4 As when one sifteth, the filthines remaineth in the siue, so the filth of man remaineth in his thoght.

5 The fornace proueth the potters vessel:

Prou. 27, 21. *so doeth [tentacion] trye mens thoughts.
 6 The frute declareth if the tre haue bene trimmed: so the worde [declareth] what man hathe in his heart.
 7 Praise no man except thou haue heard his talke: for this is the tryal of men.
 8 ¶ If thou followest righteousnes, thou shalt get her, & put her on as a faire garment, [and shalt dwell with her, and she shal defend thee for euer: and in the daye of knowledge thou shalt finde stedfastnes.]
 9 The birdes resort vnto their like: so doeth the truth tunc vnto them, that are practised in her.
 10 As the lyon waiteth for the beast, so doeth sinne vpon them that do euil.
 11 The talking of him that feareth God, is all wisdome: as for a foole, he changeth as the moone.
 12 If thou be among the vndiscerete, obserue the time, but haunte stil the assemblie of them that are wise.
 13 The talking of fooles is grieuous, and their sporte is in the plauser of sinne.
Chap. 23, 10. 14 *The talke of him that sweareth muche, maketh the heere to stand vp: & to strue with suche, stoppeth the eares.
 15 The strife of the proude is blood shedding, and their skouldings are grieuous to heare.
Chap. 19, 10. & 22, 28. 16 *Who so discovereth secrets, leseth his credit, & findeth no friend after his wil.
 17 Loue thy friéd, & be faithful vnto him: but if thou bewrayest his secrets, thou shalt not get him againe.
 18 For as a man destroyeth hisemie, so doest thou detroye the friendship of thy neighbour.
 19 As one that letteth a buide go out of his hand, so if thou giue ouer thy friéd, thou canst not gette him againe.
 20 Followe after him no more, for he is to farre of: he is as a roe escaped out of the snare: [for his soule is wounded.]
 21 As for woundes, they may be bounde vp againe, and an euil worde may be reconciled: but whoso bewrayeth the secrets of a friend, hathe lost all his credit.
Prou. 10, 10. 22 *He that winketh with the eyes, imagineth euil: and he that knoweth him, wil let him alone.
 23 When thou art present, he wil speake swetely, and praise thy wordes: but at the last he wil tunc his tale, and sclander thy saying.
 24 Manie things haue I hated, but nothing so euil as suche one: for the Lord also hateth him.
 25 Who so casteth a stone on hie, casteth it vpon his owne head: and he that smiteth with guile, maketh a great wounde.
Prou. 26, 27. eccles. 10, 8. 26 Who so *diggeth a pit, shal fall therein,

[and he that laieth a stone in his neighbours way, shal stamble thercon,] and he that laieth a snare for another, shalbe také in it him self.
 27 He that worketh euil, shalbe wrapped in euil, and shal not knowe from whence they come vnto him.
 28 Mockerie & reproche followe the proude, and vengeance lurketh for them as a lyon.
 29 They that reioyce at the fall of y righteous, shalbe taken in the snare, & anguish shal consume them before they dye.
 30 Dispite & angre are abominable thigs, and the sinful man is subiect to thē bothe.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 We ought not to desire vengeance, but to forgie the offence. 13 Of the vices of the tongue, and of the dangers thereof.

1 HE* that seketh vengeance, shal finde vengeance of the Lord, and he wil surely kepe his sinnes.
 2 ¶ Forgie thy neighbour the hurt that he hathe done to thee, so shal thy sinnes be forgiuen thee also, when thou praest.
 3 Shulde a man beare hatred against man, and *desire forgiuenes of the Lord?
 4 He wil shewe no mercie to a man, which is like him self: and wil he aske forgiuenes of his owne sinnes?
 5 If he that is but flesh, nourishe hatred, [and aske pardone of God,] who wil intreate for his sinnes?
 6 Remembre the end, & let enimitie passe: imagine not death and destruction to another through angre, but perseuere in the commandements.
 7 Remember the commādements: so shalt thou not be rigorous against thy neighbour: [consider diligently] the couenant of the moiste High, and forgie his ignorance.
 8 *Beware of strife, & thou shalt make thy sinnes fewer: for an angrie man kindleth strife.
 9 And the sinful man disquieteth friends, and bringeth in false accusations among them that be at peace.
 10 *As the matter of the syre is, so it burneth, and mans angre is according to his power: and according to his riches his angre increaseth, and the more vehement the angre is, the more is he inflamed.
 11 An hastie brauling kindleth a fyre, and an hastie fighting sheddeth blood: [a tongue that beareth false witness, bringeth death.]
 12 If thou blowe the sparke, it shal burne: if thou spit vpon it, it shal be quenched, and bothe these come out of the mouth.

- 15 The double tongue hath cast out manie vertuous women, and robbed them of their labours.
- 16 Whoso hearkeneth vnto it, shal neuer finde rest, and neuer dwell quietly.
- 17 The stroke of the rodde maketh markes in the flesh, but the stroke of the tongue breaketh the bones.
- 18 There be manie that haue perished by the edge of the sworde, but not so manie as haue fallen by the tongue.
- 19 Wel is him that is kept frō an euil tongue, and cometh not in the angre thereof, which hath not drawen in that yoke, nether hath bene bounde in the bandes thereof.
- 20 For the yoke thereof is a yoke of yron, and the bands of it are bandes of brasle.
- 21 The death thereof is an euil death: hell were better then suche one.
- 22 It shal not haue rule ouer them that feare God, nether shal they be burnt with the flame thereof.
- 23 Suche as forsake the Lord, shal fall therein: and it shal burne them, and no man shalbe able to quenche it: it shal fall vpon them as a lyon, and deuoure them as a leopard.
- 24 Hedge thy possession with thornes, and make dores and barres for thy mouth.
- 25 Binde vp thy siuer and golde, & weigh thy wordes in a balance, and make a dore and a barre, [and a sure bridle] for thy mouth.
- 26 Beware that thou slide not by it, and so fall before him that lieth in wait, [and thy fall be incurable, euen vnto death.]

- 5 Til they receiue, they kisse his hands, and for their neighbours good they humble their voyce: but when they shulde paie againe, they prolong the terme, and giue a 7 There be manie which refuse to lend because of this inconuenience, fearing to be defrauded without cause.

Or, give thine almes secretly.

13 [A mans almes is as a purse with him, and shal kepe a mans fauour as the apple of the eye, and afterwarde shal it arise, and paye euerie man his rewarde vpon his head.]

14 It shal fight for thee against thine enemies, better then the shield of a strong man, or speare of the mightie.

15 An honest man is ¶ suretie for his neighbour: but he that is impudent, forsaketh him.

¶ Of suretieshippe.

16 Forget not the friendship of thy suretie: for he hath laied his life for thee.

17 The wicked despiseth the good dede of his suretie.

18 The wicked wil not become suretie: and he that is of an vnthankful minde, forsaketh him that deliuered him.

19 [Some man promiseth for his neighbour: and when he hath lost his honestie, he wil forsake him.]

20 Suretieshippe hath destroyed manie a riche man, & remoued them as the waues of the sea: mightie men hath it driuen away from their houses, and caused them to wander among strange nations.

21 A wicked man, transgressing the commandements of the Lord, shal fall into suretieshippe: and he that medleth muche with other mens busines, is intangled in controuersies.

22 ¶ Helpe thy neighbour according to thy power, and beware that thou thy self fall not.

23 * The chief thing of life is water, and bread, and clothing, and lodging to couer thy shame.

Chap. 39. 31.

Sober living. 24 ¶ The poore mans life in his owne lodge is better then delicate fare in another mans.
 25 Be it litle or muche, holde thee contented, that the house speake not euil of thee.
 26 For it is a miserable life to go from house to house: for where thou art a stranger, thou darest not open thy mouth.
 27 Thou shalt lodge and fede vnthankful men, & after shalt haue bitter wordes for the same, saying, 28 Come, thou stranger, and prepare the table, and fede me of that thou hast readie.
 29 Giue place, thou stranger, to an honorable man: my brother cometh to be lodged, and I haue neede of mine house.
 30 These things are heauie to a mā that hath the vnderstanding, the vpbraiding of the house, and the reproche of the tender.

¶ The praise of health.

1 HE that loueth his sonne, * causeth him oft to fele the rodde, that he may haue ioye of him in the end.
 2 He that chastiseth his sone, shal haue ioy in him, and shal reioyce of him amōg his acquaintance.
 3 He that * teacheth his sonne, griueth the enemye, and before his friends he shal reioyce of him.
 4 Though his father dye, yet is he as thogh he were not dead: for he hath left one behinde him that is like him.
 5 In his life he sawe him, and had ioye in him, and was not sorie in his death, [neither was he ashamed before his enemies.]
 6 He left behinde him an aduenger against his enemies, and one that shulde shewe fauour vnto his friends.
 7 He that flattereth his sonne, bindeth vp his woundes, and his heart is griued at euerie crye.
 8 An vntamed horse wil be stubburne, and a wanton childe wil be wilful.
 9 If thou bring vp thy sonne delicately, he shal make thee afraide: and if thou playe with him, he shal bring thee to heauines.
 10 Laugh not with him, lest thou be sorie with him, and lest thou gnash thy teeth in the end.
 11 * Giue him no libertie in his youth, and winke not at his folie.
 12 Bowe downe his necke while he is yong, and beat him on the fles, while he is a childe, lest he waxe stubburne, and be disobedient vnto thee, and so bring sorow to thine heart.
 13 Chastise thy childe, and be diligent therein, lest his shame griue thee.
 14 ¶ Better is the poore, being whole and strong, then a riche man that is afflicted in his bodie.

 15 Health and strength is aboute all golde, and a whole bodie aboute infinite treasure.
 16 There is no riches aboute a sounde bodie, and no ioye aboute the ioye of the heart.
 17 Death is better then a bitter life, [and long rest,] then continual sickenes.
 18 The good things that are powred on a mouth shut vp, are as masses of meat set vpon a graue.
 19 What good doeth the offering vnto an idole: for he can nether eat, nor smell: so is he that is persecuted of the Lord, [& beareth the rewarde of iniquitie.]
 20 He seeth with his eyes, and groneth like * a gelded man, that lieth with a virgin Chap. 20.8. and sigheth.
 21 * Giue not ouer thy minde to heauines, Prou. 12.21. & 15.13. & 17.20. and vex not thy self in thine owne counsel.
 22 The ioye of the heart is the life of mā, and a mans gladnes is the prolonging of his daies.
 23 Loue thine owne soule, and comforte thine heart: driue sorow farre from thee: for sorow hath slaine many, and there is no profite therein.
 24 Enuie and wrath shorten the life, and carefulesnes bringeth age before the time.
 25 A noble and good heart wil haue consideration of his meat and diet.

 2 This waking care breaketh the slepe, as a great sickenes breaketh the slepe.
 3 The riche hath the great labour in gathering riches together, and in his rest he is filled with pleasures.
 4 The poore laboreth in diuing poorely, and when he leaueth of, he is still poore.
 5 He that loueth golde, shal not be iustified, and he that followeth corruption, shal haue ynough thereof.
 6 * Many are destroyed by the reason of golde, Chap. 8.30. and haue founde their destruction before them.
 7 It is as a stumbling blocke vnto the that sacrifice vnto it, and euerie foole is taken therewith.

21 Go not in the way where thou maist fall, nor where thou maist stumble among the stones, nether trust thou in the way that is plaine.

22 And beware of thine owne children, [and take hede of them that be thine owne housholde.]

23 In euerie good worke be of a faithful heart: for this is the keping of the com- mandements.

2 A wise man hateth not the Law: but he that is an hypocrite therein, is as a shippe in a storme.

3 A man of vnderstanding walketh faith- fully in the Law, and the Law is faithful vnto him.

4 As the question is made, prepare the an- swer, and so shalt thou be heard: be sure of the matter, and so answer.

Chap. 21, 17. 5 The heart of the^r foolish is like a carte- whele: and his thoghts are like a rolling axeltre.

6 As a wilde horse neieth vnder euerie one that sitteth vpon him, so is a scorneful friend.

7 Why doeth one day excell another, seing that the light of the daies of the yere come of the sunne?

8 The knowledge of the Lord hathe parted them a sondre, and he hathe by them dispo- sed the times and solemne feastes.

9 Some of them hathe he chosen and sancti- fied, & some of them hathe he put among the daies to number.

Gen 1, 27. & 2, 7. 10 And all men are of the^r grounde, and Adam was created out of the earth: but the Lord hathe deuided them by great know- ledge, and made their waies diuers.

11 Some of them hathe he blessed and exal- ted, and some of them hathe he sanctified, and appropriate to him self: but some of the hathe he cursed, and broght the lowe, and put them out of their estate.

order it at his pleasure, so are men also in the hand of their creator, so that he may rewarde them as liketh him best.

13 Against euil is good, and against death is life: so is the godlic against the sinner, and the vngodlie against the faithful.

14 So in all the workes of the moste High thou maist se that there are euer two, one against another.

15 ¶ I am awaked vp last of all, as one that gathereth after them in the vintage. In the blessing of the Lord I am increased, and haue filled my wine presse, like a grape ga- therer.

18 Giue not thy sonne and wife, thy bro- ther and friēd, power ouer thee while thou liuest, and giue not away thy substance to another, lest it repent thee, and thou in- treat for the same againe.

19 As long as thou liuest, and hast breth, giue not thy self ouer to anie persone.

20 For better it is that thy children shulde pray vnto thee, then that thou shuldest lo- ke vp to the hands of thy children.

21 In all thy workes be excellent, that thi- ne honour be neuer stained.

22 At the time when thou shalt end thy dayes, and finish thy life, distribute thine inheritance.

23 ¶ The fodder, the whippe and the burden belong vnto the asse: and meat, correctiō and worke vnto thy seruant.

24 If thou set thy seruant to labour, thou shalt finde rest: but if thou let him go idle, he shal seke libertie.

25 The yoke & the whippe bow downe the hard necke: so tame thine euil seruāt with the whippes and correction.

26 Send him to labour, that he go not idle: for idlenes bringeth much euil.

27 Set him to worke, for that belongeth vnto him: if he be not obedient, ¶ put on more heauie fetters. ¶ How sclauēs were ordered in olde time.

28 But be not excessiuetowarde anie, and without discrecion do nothing.

- 4 Who can be cleynd by the vncleane? or what trueth can be spoken of a lier?
- 5 Soth sayings, witchcraft, and dreaming is but vanitie, and a minde that is occupied with fantasies, is as a woman that triuailleth.
- 6 Where as suche visōs come not of y^e moste High to trye thee, set not thine heart vpon them.
- 7 For dreames haue disceiued many, and they haue failed that put their trust therein.
- 8 The Law shalbe fulfilled without lies, & wisdom is sufficient to a faithful mouth: [what knowledge hathe he that is not tryed?]
- 9 A man that is instructed, vnderstandeth muche, and he that hath the good experiēce, can talke of wisdom.
- 10 He that hathe no experience, knoweth litle, and he that erreth, is ful of craftie.

- 16 ¶ For the eyes of the Lord haue respect vnto them, that loue him: he is their mightie protection, and strong grounde, a defence from the heat, and a shadowe for the nowne day, a succour fro stombing, & an helpe fro failing.
- 17 He setteth vp the soule, & lightneth the eyes: he giueth health, life and blessing.
- 18 ¶ He that * giueth an offering of vnrighteous goods, offereth a mocking sacrifice, & the giftes of the vnrighteous, please not him.

¶ Against the wicked.

Lera. 10. 25.

¶ A prayer for the godlie.

Exod. 4. 22.

Numb. 6. 23.

¶ The praise of a good woman.

¶ Of friend-ship.

Chap. 6. 10. 4 *There is some companiō which in prof-peritie reioyceth with his friēd:but in the time of trouble he is against him.
5 There is some companion that helpeth his friend for the bellie sake, & taketh vp the buckeler against the enemie.
6 Forget not thy friend in thy minde, and thinke vpon him in thy riches.
¶ Of whome we shulde take counsel. 7 Seke ¶no counsel at him of whome thou art suspected, and disclose not thy counsel vnto suche as hate thee.
*Chap. 8. 21.
& 9. 21.* 8 *Euerie counseler praiseth his owne cousel: but there is some that counseleth for him self.
*¶ Or, what neede
he haue.* 9 Beware of the counseler, and be aduised afore whereto thou wilt vse him: for he wil counsel for him self, lest he cast the lot vpon thee,
10 And say vnto thee, Thy way is good, & afterwarde he stand against thee, and loke what shal become of thee.
11 [Alike no counsel for religion of him, that is without religion, nor of iustice, of him that hathe no iustice,] nor of a womā touching her of whome she is ielous, nor of a cowarde in matters of warre, nor of a marchant concerning exchange, nor of a bier for the sale, nor of an enuous man touching thankfulness, nor of the vnmerciful touching kindenes, [nor of an vnhonest man of honestie,] nor of an slothful for anie labour, nor of an hireling for the finishing of a worke, nor of an idle seruant for muche busines: hearken not vnto these in anie matter of counsel.
22 But be cōtinual with a godlie man who-me thou knowest to kepe the commandements of the Lord, whose minde is according to thy minde, & is sorie for thee whē thou stumblest.
23 Take counsel of thine owne heart: for there is no man more faithful vnto thee, then it.
24 For a mans minde is sometime more accustomed to shewe more thē seuen watchmen that sit aboute in an high tower.
25 And aboute all this pray to ŷ most High, that he wil direct thy waye in trueth.
26 Let reason go before euerie enterprise, & counsel before euerie action.
27 ¶The [changing] of the countenance is a signe of the changing of the heart: foure things appeare good and euil, life and death, but the tongue hathe euer more the gouernement ouer them.
28 ¶Some mā is wittie, & hathe instructed manie, and yet is vnprofitable vnto him self.
¶ Or, wisdom. 29 Some man wil be wise in wordes, and is hated, yea, he is destitute of all foode, 20 Because grace is not giuen him of the Lord: for he is destitute of all wisdom.

21 Another is wise for him self, and the fru-tes of vnderstanding are faithful in his mouth.
22 A wise man instructeth his people, and the frutes of his wisdom faile not.
23 A wise mā shalbe plēteously blessed, and all they ŷse him, shal thinke him blessed.
24 The life of man standeth in the number of dayes: but the dayes of Israel art innumerable.
25 A wise man shal obtaine credit among his people, and his name shalbe perpetual.
26 My sonne, proue thy foule in thy life, & se what is euil for it, and permit it not to do it.
27 For all things are not profitable for all men, nether hathe euerie soule pleasure in euerie thing.
28 Be not ¶griēdie in all delites, and be not ¶Of tēperācie.

eases.

that dieteth him self, prolongeth his life. *¶ Or, as he that is due vnto him, because of ne-cessitie: for the Lord hathe created him.

2 For of the moste High cometh healing, and he shal receiue gites of the King.
3 The knowledge of the physicion listeth vp his head, and in the sight of great men he shalbe in admiration.
4 The Lord hathe created medecines of the earth, and he that is wise, wil not abhorre it.
5 *Was not ŷ water made swete with wood, *Exod. 15. 25.

that men might know the vertue thereof?
6 So he hathe giuen men knowledge, that he might be glorified in his wonderous workes.
7 With suche doeth he heale men, and taketh away their paines.
8 Of suche doeth the apothecarie make a confection, and yet he can not finish his owne workes: for of ŷ Lord cometh prof-peritie and welth ouer all the earth.
9 My sonne, faile not in thy sickenes, but *praye vnto the Lord, & he wil make thee whole. I. sa. 38. 2.
10 Leaue of from sinne, and order thine hands a right, and clense thine heart from all wickednes.
11 Offer swete incense, and fine floure for a remembrāce: make the offering fat, for thou art not the ¶first giuer.
12 Then giue place to the physicion: for the Lord hathe created him: let him not go from thee, for thou hast neede of him.

prifes may haue good successe.

14 For they also shal praye vnto the Lord, that he wolde prosper that, which is giuen for ease, & their physicke for the prolonging of life.

15 He that sinneth before his maker, let him fall into the hands of the physicion.

¶ Of mourning
¶ Or, the custome.
16 My sonne, powre forthe teares ouer the dead, ¶ and beginne to mourne, as if thou hadest suffred great harme thy self, & then couer his bodie according to his appointment, and neglect not his buryal.

17 Make a grievous lamentacion, and be earnest in mourning, & vse lamentacion as he is worthie, & that, a daye or two, lest thou be euil spoken of, and then comforte thy self for thine heauines.

Prou. 15, 13
¶ 17, 22.
18 *For of heauines cometh death, and the heauines of the heart breaketh y strength.

19 Of the affection of the heart cometh sorrow, and the life of him that is afflicted, is according to his heart.

20 Take no heauines to heart: driue it away and remember the last end.

21 Forget it not: for there is no turning againe: thou shalt do him no good, but hurte thy self.

22 Remember his iudgement: thine also shalbe likewise, vnto me yester daye, and vnto thee to day.

1. Sam. 12, 20.
23 *Seing the dead is at rest, let his remembrance rest, & comforte thy self againe for him, when his spirit is departed from him.

24 ¶ The wisdome of a learned mā cometh by vsing wel his vacant time: and he that ceaseth from his owne matters and labour, may come by wisdome.

25 How can he get wisdome that holdeth the plough, and he that hathe pleasure in the gode, and in driuing oxen, and is occupied in their labours, and talketh but of the brede of bullockes?

26 He giueth his minde to make forowes, and is diligent to giue the kine fodder.

27 So is it of euerie carpenter, and workemaster that laboreth night and daye: and they that cut, and graue seales, and make sondrie diuerfities, and giue them selues to contrefait imagerie, and watch to performe the worke.

28 The smithe in like maner abideth by his anuil, and doeth his diligēce to labour the yron: the vapour of the fyre dryeth his flesh, and he muste fight with the heat of the fornace: the noyce of the hammer is euer in his eares, and his eyes loke stil vpon the thing that he maketh: he setteth his minde to make vp his workes: therefore he watcheth to polish it perfutely.

29 So doeth the potter sit by his worke: he turneth the whele about with his fete: he is careful alwaye at his worke, and maketh his worke by number.

30 He facioneth the claye with his arme, & with his feete he tempereth the hardnes thereof: his heart imagineth how to couer it with lead, and his diligence is to clenfe the ouen.

31 All these hope in their hands, and euerie one bestoweth his wisdome in his worke.

32 Without these can not y cities be maintained, nor inhabited, nor occupied.

33 And yet they are not asked their iudgement in the counsel of the people, neither sit they vpon the iudgement seates, nor vnderstand the order of iustice: they can not declare matters according to the forme of the Law, and they are not mete for hard matters.

34 But thei mainteine the state of the worlde, and their desire is concerning their worke and occupacion.

CHAP. XXXIX.

1 A wise man. 16 The workes of God 24 Vnto the good, good things profite, but vnto the euil, euen good things are euil.

1 HE onelie that applieth his minde to the Law of the moste High, and is occupied in the meditacion thereof, seketh out the wisdome of all the ancient, & exerciseth him self in the prophesies. ¶ Of true wisdom.

2 He kepeth the sayings of famous men, & entreth in also to the secrets of darke sentences.

3 He seketh out the mysterie of graue sentences, and exerciseth him self in darke parables.

4 He shal serue among great men and appeare before the prince: he shal traueil through strange countreis: for he hathe tryed the good and the euil among men.

5 He wil giue his heart to resorte early vnto the Lord that made him, & to praye before the moste High, and wil open his mouth in prayer, and praie for his sinnes.

6 When the great Lord wil, he shalbe filled with the Spirit of vnderstanding, that he may powre out wise sentences, & giue thankes vnto the Lord in his praier.

7 He shal direct his counsel, & knowledge: ¶ Vnto the Lord. so shal he meditate in his secrets.

8 He shal shewe forthe his sciēce and learning, and reioyce in the Law & couenant of the Lord.

9 Manie shal commend his vnderstanding, and his memorie shal neuer be put out, nor departe away: but his name shal continue from generacion to generacion.

10 *The congregacion shal declare his wisdom, and shewe it. Chap. 44, 14.

11 Thogh he be dead, he shal leaue a greater fame then a thousand: and if he liue stil, he shal get the same.

12 Yet wil I speake of mo things: for I am ful as the moone.

- 13 Harken vnto me, ye holy children, and bring forthe frute, as the rose that is planted by the brokes of the field,
- 14 And giue ye a swete smel as incense, and bring forthe flowres as the lilie: giue a smel and sing a song of praise: blesse the Lord in all his workes.
- 15 Giue honour vnto his Name, and shewe forthe his praise with the songs of your lippes, and with harpes, and ye shal say after this maner,
- 16 * All the workes of the Lord are exceeding good, and all his commandements are done in due season.
- 17 And none may say, What is this? wherefore is that? for at time conuenient they shal all be soght out: at his commandement the water stode as an heape, & at the worde of his mouth the waters gathered them selues.
- 18 His whole fauour appeared by his commandement, and none can diminish that which he wil saue.
- 19 The workes of all flesh are before him, and nothing can be hid from his eyes.
- 20 He seeth from euerlasting to euerlasting, & there is nothing wonderful vnto him.
- 21 A man nede not to say, What is this? wherefore is that? for he hathe made all things for their owne vse.
- 22 His blessing shal renne ouer as the streame, and moisture the earth like a flood.
- 23 As he hathe turned the waters into saltnes, so shal the heathen fele his wrath.
- 24 As his waies are plaine and right vnto the iust, so are they stumbling blockes to the wicked.
- 25 ¶ For the good, are good things created from the beginning, and euil things for the sinners.
- 26 * The principal things for the whole vse of mans life is water, fyre, and yron, and salt, and meale, wheate and hony, & milke, the blood of the grape, and oyle, and clothing.
- 27 All these things are for good to y godlie: but to y sinners they are turned vnto euil.
- 28 There be spretes that are created for vengeance, which in their rigour laye on sure strokes: in the time of destruction they shewe forthe their power, and accomplish the wrath of him that made them.
- 29 Fyre, and haile, and famine, and death: all these are created for vengeance.
- 30 The teeth of wilde beasts, and the scorpions, and the serpents, and the sworde execute vengeance for the destruction of the wicked.
- 31 They shalbe glad to do his commandements: & when nede is, they shalbe readie vpon earth: and whē their houre is come,
- they shal not overpasse the commandement.
- 32 Therefore haue I taken a good courage vnto me from the beginning, and haue thoght on these things, and haue put them in writing.
- 33 * All the workes of the Lord are good, & he giueth euerie one in due season, & when nede is:
- 34 So that a man nede not to say, This is worse then that: for in due season they are all worthe praise.
- 35 And therefore praise y Lord with whole heart and mouth, and blesse the Name of the Lord.

CHAP. XI.

Many miseries in mans life. 14 Of the blessing of the righteous and prerogative of the feare of God.

Great ¶ trauail is created for all men, and an heauie yoke vpon the sonnes of Adam from the day that they go out of their mothers wombe, til the day that they returne to the mother of all things,

¶ The miseries of mans life.

2 Namely their thoghts, and feare of the heart, & their imaginacion of the things they waite for, and the daye of death,

3 From him that sitteth vpon the glorious throne, vnto him that is beneth in y earth and ashes:

4 From him that is clothed in blewe silke, and weareth a crowne, euen vnto him that is clothed in simple linen.

5 Wrath & enuie, trouble, and vnquietnes, and feare of death, & rigour, and strife, & in the time of rest the slepe in the night vpon his bed, change his knowledge.

6 A litle or nothing is his rest, and afterwarde in sleping he is as in a watchetowre in the daye: he is troubled with the visions of his heart, as one that renneth out of a battel.

7 And when all is safe, he awaketh, & marueileth that the feare was nothing.

8 Suche things come vnto all flesh, bothe man and beast, but seuen fold to the vngodlie:

9 Moreouer, * death & blood, and strife, & sworde, oppression, famine, destruction, and punishment.

Chap. 39, 35.

10 These things are all created for the wicked, and for their sakes came the * flood also.

Gen 7, 11.

11 * All things that are of the earth, shal turne to earth againe: and they that are of the * waters, shal returne into the sea.

Gen 3, 19.

chap. 41, 13.

Ecclesi 1, 7.

12 ¶ All bribes and vnrighteousnes shalbe put away: but ¶ faithfulness shal endure for euer.

¶ Faithfulness.

13 The substance of the vngodlie shalbe dried vp like a riuer, and they shal make a sounde like a great thonder in the raine.

14 When he openeth his had, he reioyceth: but but all the transgressours shal come to naught.

 15 The children of the vngodlie shal not obtaine manie branches: for the vncleane rootes are as vpon the high rockes.
 16 Their tender stalke by what water soeuer it be or water banke, it shalbe pulled vp before all other herbes.
 17 ¶ Friendlines is as a moste plentiful garden of pleasures, & mercie endurieth for euer.
 18 * To labour and to be content with that a man hathe, is a swete life: but he that findeth a treasure, is aboute them bothe.
 19 Children, and the buylding of the citie maketh a perpetual name: but an honest woman is counted aboute them bothe.
 20 Wine & musike reioyce the heart: but the loue of wisdom is aboute them bothe.
 21 The pipe and the psalterion make a swete noyce: but a pleasant tongue is aboute them bothe.
 22 Thine eye desireth fauor & beautie: but a grene sedetime, rather then them bothe.
 23 A friend, and companion come together at opportunitie: but aboute them bothe is a wife with her housband.
 24 Friends and helpe are good in the time of trouble, but almes shal deliuer more then them bothe.
 25 Golde and siluer fasten the fete: but counsellis estemed aboute them bothe.
 26 Riches and strength lift vp the minde: but the feare of the Lord is aboute them bothe: there is no want in the feare of the Lord, and it nedeth no helpe.
 27 The feare of the Lord is a pleasant garden of blessing, and there is nothing so beautiful as it is.
 28 ¶ My sonne, lead not a beggers life: for better it were to dye then to begge.
 29 The life of him that dependeth on another mans table, is not to be counted for a life: for he tormēteth him self after other mens meat: but a wise man and wel nourtred, wil beware thereof.
 30 Begging is swete in the mouth of the vnshamefast, and in his bellie there burneth a fyre.

CHAP. XII.

1 Of the remembrance of death. 3 Death is not to be feared. 8 A curse vpon them that forsake the Law of God. 12 Good name & fame. 14 An exhortacion to giue hede vnto wisdom. 17 Of what things a man ought to be ashamed.

¶ Of death.

1 O Death, how bitter is the remembrance of thee to a man that liueth at rest in his possessions, vnto the man that hathe nothing to vex him, and that hathe prosperitie in all things: yea, vnto him that yet is able to receiue meat!
 2 O death, how acceptable is thy iudgemēt vnto the nedeful, and vnto him whose strength faileth, and that is now in the last age, & is vexed with all things, and to him that dispaireth, and hathe lost pacience!

 3 Feare not the iudgement of death: remember them that haue bene before thee, and that come after: this is the ordināce of the Lord ouer all flesh.
 4 And why woldest thou be against thy pleasure of the moste High? whether it be ten or an hundreth, or a thousand yeres, there is no defense for life against the graue.
 5 ¶ The children of the vngodlie are abominable children, and so are they that kepe companie with the vngodlie.
 6 The inheritance of vngodlie children shal perish, and their posteritie shal haue a perpetual shame.
 7 The children complaine of an vngodlie father, because they are reproched for his sake.
 8 Wo be vnto you, o ye vngodlie, which haue forsaken the Law of the moste high God: for thogh you increase, yet shal you perish.
 9 If ye be borne, ye shalbe borne to cursing: if ye dye, the curse shalbe your porcion.
 10 All that is of thy earth, shal taine to earth againe: so the vngodlie go from the curse to destruction.
 11 Thogh men mourne for their bodie, yet the wicked name of the vngodlie shalbe put out.
 12 Haue regarde to thy name: for that shal continue with thee aboute a thousand treasures of golde.
 13 A good life hathe the dayes nombred: but ¶ a good name endureth euer. ¶ A good name 14 * My children, kepe wisdom in peace: for wisdom that is hid, and a treasure thy is not sene, what profite is in them bothe?
 15 A man that hideth his foolishnes, is better then a man that hideth his wisdom.
 16 Therefore beare reuerence vnto my wordes: for it is not good in all things to be ashamed: nether are all things allowed as faithful in all men. ¶ Of shamefastnes.
 17 Be ashamed of whordome before father and mother: be ashamed of lies before the prince and men of autoritie:
 18 Of sinne before the iudge and ruler: of offence before the congregacion and people: of vnrighteousnes before a companiō and friend, 19 And of theft before thy place where thou dwellest, & before the truth of God & his couenant, and to leane with thine elbowed vpon the bread, or to be reproued for giuing or taking.
 20 And of silence vnto them that salute thee, and to loke vpon an harlot, 21 And to turne away thy face from thy kinsman: or to take away a portiō or a gift, or to be euil minded toward another mans wife,

- 22 Or to sollicite anie mans maide, or to stand by her bed, or to reproche thy friēds with wordes, 23 Or to vpbraide when thou giuest anie thing, or to reporte a matter that thou hast heard, or to reueie secret wordes.
 24 Thus maieſt thou wel be shamefaſt, and ſhalt finde fauour with all men.

CHAP. XLII.

1 The Law of God muſt be taught. 9 A daughter. 14 A woman. 18 God knoweth all things, yea, euen the ſecrets of thine heart.

In what things we ought not to be ashamed.

OF these things be not thou ashamed, nether haue regarde to offēd for anie persone,

- 2 Of the Law of the most High & his covenant, & of iudgemēt to iustifie the godlie:
 3 Of the cause of thy companion, and of strangers, or of distributing the heritage among friends:
 4 To be diligent to kepe true balance, and weight, whether thou haue muche or litle:
 5 To sel marchandise at an indifferent price, and to correct thy children diligently, and to beat an euil seruant to the blood:
 6 To set a good locke where an euil wife is, and to locke where manie hands are:
 7 If thou giue anie thing by number, and weight, to put all in writing, bothe that y is giuen out, and that that is receued againe:
 8 To teache the vnlearned, & the vnwise, & the aged, that contend against y yong: thus shalt thou be wel instructed, and approved of all men liuing.

Or, is a secret watch is the father.

9 ¶ The daughter maketh the father to watche secretly, and the carefulnes that he hathe for her, taketh away his slepe in the youth, lest she shulde passe y floure of her age: and when she hathe an housband, lest she shulde be hated:

10 In her virginitie, lest she shulde be defiled, or gotten withchilde in her fathers house, and, when she is with her housbād, lest she misbeaue her self: and when she is married, lest she continue vnfruteful.

Chap. 26, 10.

11 ¶ If thy daughter be vnshamefaſt, kepe her straitly, lest she cause thine enemies to laugh thee to scorne, and make thee a cōmune talke in the citie, and diffame thee among the people, and bring thee to publicke shame.

Chap. 27, 28.

12 ¶ Beholde not euerie bodies beautie, and companie not among women.

Gen. 2, 6.

13 For as the moth cometh out of garmēts: so doeth wickednes of the woman.

14 The wickednes of a man is better then the good intreatie of a woman, to wit, of a woman that is in shame, and reproche.

15 ¶ I wil remember the workes of the Lord, and declare the thing that I haue sene: by the worde of the Lord are his workes.

16 The sunne that shineth, loketh vpon all things, and all the worke thereof is ful of the glorie of the Lord.

17 Hathe not the Lord appointed that his Sainctis shulde declare all his wonderous workes, which the almightie Lord hathe stablished to confirme all things by in his maieſtie?

18 He seeketh out the depth, and the heart, and he knoweth their practises: for y Lord knoweth all science, and he beholdeth the signes of the worlde.

19 He declareth the things that are past, and for to come, and discloseth the paths of things that are secret.

20 ¶ No thought may escape him, nether may anie worde be hid from him. Iob. 41, 4. 1 Sm. 29, 15.

21 He hathe garnished the excellent workes of his wisdom, and he is from euerlasting to euerlasting, and for euer: vnto him may nothing be added, nether can he be diminished: he hathe no nede of anie counſeler.

22 Oh, how delectable are all his workes, & to be cōsidered euē vnto y sparkes of fyre!

23 They liue all, and endure for euer: and when soeuer nede is, they are all obedient.

24 Thei are all double, one agaiſt another: he hathe made nothing y hathe anie faute.

25 The one commendeth the goodnes of the other, & who can be satisfied with beholding Gods glorie? Or, stablisheth.

CHAP. XLIII.

The summe of the creation of the workes of God.

1 THIS high ornament, the cleare firmament, the beautie of the heauē so glorious to beholde, The wonder- ful workes of God.

2 The sunne also, a marueilous instrument when it appeareth, declareth, at his going out, the worke of the moste High.

3 At noone it burneth the countrey, & who may abide for the heat thereof?

4 The sunne burneth the mountaines thre times more then he that kepeth a fornace with cōtinual heat: it casteth out the fyrie vapours, & with the shining beames blindeth the eyes.

5 Great is the Lord that made it, and by his commandement he causeth it to runne hastily.

6 ¶ The moone also hathe he made to appeare according to her season, that it shulde be a declaration of the time, and a signe for the worlde. Gen. 1, 16.

7 ¶ The feasts are appointed by the moone: the light thereof diminisheth vnto y end. Exod. 12, 2.

8 The month is called after y name thereof, & groweth wōdrously in her cōaging.

9 It is a campe pitched on high, shining in the firmament of heauen: the beautie of heauē are the glorious starres, and the ornament that shineth in the high places of the Lord.

10 By the commandement of the holie one they

- they continue in their order, and faile not in their watche.
- Gen. 9. 14.* 11 ¶ Loke vpon the raine bowe, and praise him that made it: verie beautiful is it in the brightnes thereof.
- Isa. 40. 12.* 12 *It compasseth the heauen about with a glorious circle, and the hañds of the moite High haue bended it.
- 13 ¶ Thorowe his comādemēt he maketh the snowe to haſte, and ſendeth ſwiftly the lightning of his iudgement.
- 14 Therefore he openeth his treasures, and the cloudes flie forthe as the foules.
- 15 In his power hathe he ſtrengthened the cloudes, and broken the haile ſtones.
- 16 The mountaines leape at the ſight of him: the South winde bloweth according to his wil.
- 17 The ſounde of his thonder beareth the earth: ſo doeth the ſtorme of the North: y whirlewinde alſo, as birdes that flie, ſcattereth the ſnowe, and the falling downe thereof is as y greſhoppers y light downe.
- 18 The eye marueileth at the beautie of the whitenes thereof, & the heart is aſtoniſhed at the raine of it.
- 19 He alſo powreth out the froſt vpon the earth like ſalt, and when it is froſen, it ſticketh on the toppes of pales.
- 20 When the colde North winde bloweth, an yce is froſen of the water, it abideth vpon all the gatherings together of water, and clotheth the waters as w a breſt plate.
- 21 It deuoureth the mountaines, & burneth the wildernes, and deſtroyeth that that is grene, like fyre.
- 22 The remedie of all theſe is when a cloude cometh haſtely, & when a dewe cometh vpon the heat, it reſreſheth it.
- 23 [By his worde he ſtilleth the winde:] by his counſel he appeaſeth the depe, and plāteſth y lands therein.
- 24 They that faile ouer the ſea, tel of the perils thereof, and when we heare it with our eares, we marueile thereat.
- 25 For there be ſtrange, & wonderous workes, diuers maner of beaſts, and the creation of whales.
- 26 Thorowe him are all things directed to a good end, & are ſtabliſhed by his worde.

CHAP. XLIIII.

The praiſe of certain holie men, Enoch, Noe, Abraham, Isaac and Iacob.

- 1 Et vs now comēde the famous men, and our fathers, of whome we are begotten.
- 2 The Lord hathe gotten great glorie by them, and that through his great power from the beginning.
- 3 Thei haue borne rule in their king domes, and were renoumed for their power, and were wiſe in counſel, and declared prophēcies.
- 4 * They gouerned the people by counſel & by the knowledge of learning mete for the people, in whoſe doctrine were wiſe ſentences. Exod. 18. 20.
- 5 They inuented the melodie of muſicke, and expounded the verſes that were written.
- 6 They were riche and mightie in power, and liued quietly at home.
- 7 All theſe were honorable men in their generacions, & were wel reported of in their times.
- 8 There are of them that haue left a name behinde them, ſo that their praiſe ſhal be ſpoken of.
- 9 There are ſome alſo which haue no memorial, * and are periſhed, as thogh they had neuer bene, and are become as thogh they had neuer bene borne, and their children after them. Gen. 7. 22.
- 10 But the former were merciful men, whoſe righteousnes hathe not bene forgottē.
- 11 For whoſe poſteritie a good inheritance is referued, and their ſede is contained in the couenant.
- 12 Their ſtocke is contained in the couenant, and their poſteritie after them.
- 13 Their ſede ſhal remaine for euer, & their praiſe ſhal neuer be taken away.
- 14 Their bodies are buried in peace, but their name liueth for euermore.
- 15 * The people ſpeake of their wiſdome, & the congregacion talke of their praiſe. Chap 39. 14.
- 16 ¶ Enoch pleaſed the Lord God: therefore was he tranſlated for an example of repentance to the generacions. ¶ Enoch. Gen. 5. 14. ebr. 11. 5.
- 17 ¶ Noe was founde perſite, and in the time of wrath he had a rewarde: therefore was he left as a remnant vnto the earth, when the flood came. ¶ Noe Gen. 6. 9. and 7. 1. ebr. 11. 7.
- 18 An euerlaſting couenant was made with him, that all fleſh ſhulde * periſh no more by the flood. Gen 9. 11. ¶ Abraham. Gen. 12. 3. & 15. 5. & 17. 4.
- 19 ¶ Abrahā was a * great father of manie peoples: in glorie was there none like vnto him.

- 20 He kept the Law of the moste High, & was in couenant with him, and he set the couenant* in his flesh, and in tentation he was founde faithful.
- 21 Therefore he assured him by an*othe, y he wolde blesse the nacions in his sede, & that he wolde multiplie him as the dust of the earth, and exalte his sede as the starres, and cause them to inherite from sea to sea, and from the Riuer vnto the end of the worlde.
- 22 *With || Isaac did he confirme likewise for Abraham his fathers sake, the blessing of all men, and the couenant,
- 23 And caused it to rest vpon the head of || Iacob, and made him self knowen by*his blessings, and gaue him an heritage and deuided his porcions, * and parted them among the twelue tribes.
- 24 And he broght out of him a ||merciful man, which founde fauour in the sight of all flesh.

- The praise of Moyses, Aaron, and Phinees.*
- 1 AND || Moyses, the *beloued of God & Amen, broght he forth, whose remembrance is blessed.
- 2 He made him like to the glorious Saints, and magnified him by the feare of his enemies.
- 3 By his wordes he caused the wonders to cease, and he made him *glorious in the sight of Kings, and gaue him commandements for his people, and shewed him his glorie.
- 4 *He sanctified him with faithfulnes, and mekenes, and chose him out of all men.
- 5 He caused him to heare his voyce, and broght him into the darke cloude, * and there he gaue him the commandements before his face, euen the Law of life and knowledge, that he might teache Iacob y couenant, and Israel his iudgements.
- 6 He exalted || Aaron an holie man like vnto him, euē his* brother of y tribe of Leui.
- 7 An euerlasting couenant made he with him, and gaue him the priesthode among the people, and made him blessed through his comelie ornament, & clothed him with the garment of honour.
- 8 He put perse ioye vpo him, and girded him with ornaments of strength, as with breches, and a tunicle, and an ephod.
- 9 He compassed him about with belles of golde, & with manie belles round about, *that when he went in, the sound might be heard, and might make a noyce in the Sanctuarie, for a remembrance to the childre of Israel his people,
- 10 And with an holie garment, with golde also, and blewe silke, and purple, & diuers kindes of workes, and with a breastplappe of iudgemēt, & with the ||signes of trueth,
- 11 And with worke of skarlet conningly wrought, and with precious stoness grauen like seales, & set in golde by golde smithes worke for a memorial with a writing grauen after the number of the tribes of Israel.
- 12 And with a crowne of golde vpon the mitre, bearing the forme and marke of holines, an ornamēt of honour, a noble worke garnished, and pleasant to loke vpon.
- 13 Before him were there no suche faire ornaments: there might no strāger put them on, but onely his children, and his childrés children perpetually.
- 14 Their sacrifices were wholly consumed euerie day twise continually.
- 15 *Moyses filled his hands, and anointed him with holie oyle: this was appointed vnto him by an euerlasting couenant, & to his sede, so long as the heauens shulde remaine, that he shulde minister before him, & also to execute the office of the priesthode, and blesse his people in his name.
- 16 Before all men liuing the Lord chose him that he shulde present offrings before him, and a swete saouour for a remembrance to make reconciliation for his people.
- 17 *He gaue him also his commandements and autoritie according to the Lawes appointed, that he shulde teache Iacob the testimonies, and giue light vnto Israel by his Law.
- 18 *Strangers stode vp against him, & enuied him in the wildernes, euen the men that toke Dathans and Abirams parte, & the companie of Core in furie and rage.
- 19 This the Lord sawe, and it displeased him, and in his wrathful indignacion were they consumed: he did wonders vpon them, and consumed them with the fyrie flame.
- 20 *But he made Aaron more honorable, and gaue him an heritage, and parted the first frutes of the first borne vnto him: vnto him specially he appointed bread in abundance.
- 21 For the Priests did eat of the sacrifices of the Lord, which he gaue vnto him and to his sede.
- 22 *Els had he none heritage in the land of his people, nether had he any porcion among the people: for the Lord is the porcion of his inheritance.
- 23 The third in glorie is || Phinees the sonne of Eleazar, because he had zeale in the feare of the Lord, & stode vp with good courage of heart, when the people were turned backe, and made reconciliation for Israel.
- 24 Therefore was there a couenant of peace made with him, that he shulde be the chief of the Sanctuarie and of his people, and that he and his posteritie shulde haue

CHAP. XLIX.

Of Iosias, Hezekiah, Dauid, Ierems; Ezechiel, Zorobabel, Iesus, Nehemias, Enoch, Ioseph, Sem & Seth.

1 THE remembrance of Iosias is like the composition of the perfume that is made by the arte of the apothecarie: it is swete as honie in all mouthes, and as musicke at a banket of wine.

2 He behaued him self vprightly in the reformation of the people, and toke away all abominacions of iniquitie.

3 He directed his heart vnto the Lord, & in the time of y vngodlie he established religion.

4 All, except Dauid and Ezekias, and Iosias, committed wickednes: for euen the Kings of Iuda foroke the Law of the moiste High, and failed.

5 Therefore he gaue their honre vnto other, and their honor to a strange naciō.

6 He burnt the elect cite of the Sanctuarie, and destroyed the stretes thereof according to the prophecie of Ieremias.

7 For they intreated him euil, which neuerthles was a Prophete, sanctified frō his mothers wombe, that he might roote out, and afflict, and destroye, and that he might also buyld vp, and plant.

8 Ezechiel sawe the glorious visiō, which was shewed him vpon the charet of the Cherubims.

9 For he made menciō of the enemies vnder the figure of the raine, and directed the that went right,

10 ¶ And let the bones of the twelue Prophetes flourish out of their place, and let their memorie be blessed: for they comforted Iacob, and deliuered them by assured hope.

11 ¶ How shal we praise Zorobabel, which was as a ring on the right hand!

12 So was Iesus also the sonne of Iosedec: these men in their time buylded the house, and set vp the Sanctuarie of the Lord againe, which was prepared for an euerlasting worship.

13 ¶ And among the elect was Neemias whose renoume is great, which set vp for vs the walles that were fallen, and set vp the gates and the barres, and laied the fundacions of our houses.

14 ¶ But vpon the earth was no man created like Enoch: for he was takē vp from the earth.

16 ¶ Sem and Seth were in great honour among men: and so was Adam aboute euerie liuing thing in the creacion.

Of Simon the sonne of Onias. 22 An exhortacion to praise the Lord. 27 The auisor of thus booke.

1 SIMON the sonne of Onias the hie Priest, which in his life set vp the house againe, and in his dayes established the Temple,

2 Vnder him was the fundaciō of the double height laied, and the hie walles that compasseth the Temple.

3 In his daies the places, to receiue water that were decayed, were restored & the brasē was about in measure as the sea.

4 He toke care for his people, that they shuide not fall, & fortified the citie against the siege.

5 How honorable was his conuersation among the people, and when he came out of the house couered with the vaile!

6 He was as the morning starre in the middes of a cloude, and as the moone when it is ful,

7 And as the sunne shining vpon the Temple of the moiste High, and as the rain-bowe that is bright in the faire cloudes,

8 And as the floure of the roses in y spring of the yere, and as lilies by the springs of waters, and as the branches of the frankincense tre in the time of somer,

9 As a fyre & incense in the censer, and as a vessel of masie golde, set with all maner of precious stones,

10 And as a faire oliue tre that is fruteful, and as a cypresse tre, which groweth vp to the cloudes.

11 When he put on the garment of honour and was clothed with all beautie, he went vp to the holy altar, and made the garmēt of holines honorable.

12 When he toke the porcions out of the Priests hands, he him self stode by the herth of the altar, compassed with his brethren rounde about, as the branches do the cedre tre in Libanus, & they compassed him as the branches of the palme trees.

- 15 He stretched out his hand to the drinke offering, and powred of the blood of the grape, and he powred at the fote of the altar a perfume of good sauour vnto the moste high King of all.
- 16 Then showed the sonnes of Aaron, and blew with brazen trumpets, and made a great noyce to be heard, for a remembrance before the moste High.
- 17 Then all the people together hasted, & fell downe to the earth vpon their faces to worship their Lord God almightie, and moste high.
- 18 The singers also sang with their voyces, so that the sounde was great, and the melody swete.
- 19 And the people prayed vnto the Lord moste high with prayer before him that is merciful, til the honour of the Lord were performed, and they had accomplished his seruice.

- 22 Now therefore giue praise all ye vnto God, that worketh great things euerie where, which hath increased our dayes from the wombe, and delte with vs according to his mercie,
- 23 That he wolde giue vs ioyfulness of heart, & peace in our dayes in Israel, as in olde time,
- 24 That he wolde confirme his mercie with vs, and deliuer vs at his time.
- 25 ¶ There be two maner of people, y mine heart abhorreth, & the third is no people:
- 26 They that sit vpon the mountaine of Samaria, the Philistims, and the foolish people that dwell in Sicinus.
- 27 ¶ Iesus the sonne of Sirach, the sonne of Eleazarus, of Ierusalem, hath written the doctrine of vnderstanding, and knowledge in this booke, and hath powred out the wisdom of his heart.
- 28 Blessed is he that exerciseth him self therein: and he that layeth vp these in his heart, shalbe wise.
- 29 For if he do these things, he shalbe strong in all things: for he setteth his steppes in the light of the Lord, which giueth wisdom to the godlie. The Lord be praised for euer more: so be it, so be it.
- CHAP. II.
- A prayer of Iesus the sonne of Sirach.
- 1 I Wil confesse thee, o Lord and King, and praise thee, o God, my Sauour: I giue thanks vnto thy Name.
- 2 For thou art my defender and helper, and hast preferred my bodie from destruction, and from the snare of the scanderous tongue, and from the lippes that are occupied with lies: thou hast holpen me against mine aduersaries,
- 3 And hast deliuered me according to the multitude of thy mercie, and for thy Names sake, from the roaring of them that were readie to deuoure me, and out of the hands of such as sought after my life, and from the manifold afflictions, which I had,
- 4 And from the fyre that choked me rounde about, and from the middes of the fyre that I burned not,
- 5 And from the botome of the belie of hel, from an vnleane tongue, from lying wordes, from false accusation to the King, & from the slander of an vnrighteous tongue.
- 6 [My soule shal praise the Lord vnto death:] for my soule drewe nere vnto death: my life was nere to the hel beneath.
- 7 They compassed me on euerie side, & there was no man to helpe me: I looked for the succour of men, but there was none.
- 8 Then thought I vpon thy mercie, o Lord, and vpon thine actes of olde, how thou deliurest such as waite for thee, and sauest them out of the hands of the enemies.
- 9 Then list I vp my prayer from the earth, and praied for deliuerance from death.
- 10 I called vpon the Lord the father of my Lord, that he wolde not leaue me in the daye of my trouble, and in the time of the proude without helpe.
- 11 I wil praise thy Name continually, and wil sing praise with thanksgiving: & my prayer was heard.
- 12 Thou sauedst me from destruction, and deliueredst me from the euil time: therefore wil I giue thanks and praise thee, & blesse the Name of the Lord.
- 13 Whē I was yet yong, or euer I wēt abroad, I desired wisdom openly in my prayer.
- 14 I praied for her before the Temple, and sought after her vnto farre countreys, and she was as a grape that waxeth ripe out of the floure.
- 15 Mine heart reioyced in her: my foote walked in the right way, & from my youth vp sought I after her.
- 16 I bowed somewhat downe mine eare, & receiued her, & gate me muche wisdom:
- 17 And I profited by her: therefore wil I ascribe the glorie vnto him, that giueth me wisdom.
- 18 For I am aduised to do thereafter: I wil be ielous of that that is good: so shal I not be confounded.
- 19 My soule hath wrestled with her, and I haue examined my workes: I lifted vp mine

- mine hands on hye, and considered the ignorances thereof.
- 20 I directed my soule vnto her, and I founde her in purenes: I haue had mine heart ioyned with her from the beginning: therefore shal I not be forsaken.
- 21 My bowels are troubled in seeking her: therefore haue I gotten a good possession.
- 22 The Lord hath giue me a tongue for my rewarde, wherewith I wil praise him.
- 23 Drawe nere vnto me, ye vnlearned, and dwell in the house of learning.
- 24 Wherefore are ye slowe, and what say you of these things, seeing your soules are very thurstie?
- 25 I opened my mouth, and said, * Bye her Isa 55.1. for you without money.
- 26 Bowe downe your necke vnder the yoke, & your soule shal receiue instruction: she is ready that ye may finde her.
- 27 Beholde with your eyes, * how that I haue had but litle labour, & haue gotten vnto me muche rest. Chap. 6. 20.
- 28 Get learning with a great some of money: for by her ye shal possesse muche golde.
- 29 Let your soule reioyce in the mercie of the Lord, and be not ashamed of his praise.
- 30 Do your durtie betimes, and he wil giue you a rewarde at his time.

CHAP. I.

Baruch wrote a booke during the captiuitie of Babylon, which he red before Iechoniah and all the people to the Iewes sent the booke with money vnto Ierusalem to their other brethren, to the use that they shoulde pray for them.

1 And these are the wordes of the booke, which Baruch the sonne of Nerias, the sonne of Maasias, the sonne of Sedecias, the sonne of Helcias, the sonne of Helcias wrote in at Babylon,

2 In the fift yere, and in the seventh day of the moneth, what time as the Chaldeans toke Ierusalem, and burnt it with fyre.

3 And Baruch did read the wordes of this booke, that Iechonias the sonne of Ioacim King of Iuda might heare, & all the people that were come to heare the booke,

4 And in the audience of the gouernour, & of the Kings sonnēs, & before the Elders, & before the whole people, frō the lowest vnto the hiest, before all them that dwelt at Babylon by the riuer Sud.

5 Which when they heard it, wept, fasted and made prayers before the Lord.

6 They made a collection also of money, according to euery mans power,

7 And sent it to Ierusalem vnto Ioacim the sonne of Helcias the sōne of Salom Priest, and vnto the other Priests, and to all the people, which were with him at Ierusalē,

8 When he had receiued the vessels of the Temple of the Lord, that were taken away out of the Temple, to bring the againe into the land of Iuda, the tenth day of the moneth Sivan, to wit, siluer vessels, which Sedecias the sonne of Iosias King of Iuda had made,

9 After that Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon had led away Iechonias from Ierusalem, and his princes, & his nobles, prisoners, and the people, and caryed them to Babylon.

10 And they said, Beholde, we haue sent you money, wherewith ye shal bye burnt offerings for sinne, and incense, and prepare a meat offering, & offre vpon the altar of the Lord our God,

11 And pray for the life of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, and for the life of Baltasar his sonne, that their daies may be vpon earth, as the daies of heauen, 12 And that God wolde giue vs strength & lighten our eyes, that we may liue vnder the shadowe of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, and vnder the shadowe of Baltasar his sonne, that we may long do the seruice, and finde fauour in their sight.

13 Pray for vs also vnto the Lord our God (for we haue sinned against the Lord our God, and vnto this day the furie of the Lord and his wrath is not turned from vs)

14 And rede this booke (which we haue sent to you to be rehearsed in the Temple of the Lord) vpon the feast daies, and at time conuenient.

15 Thus shal ye say, * To the Lord our God belongeth righteoufnes, but vnto vs y confusion of our faces, as it is come to passe this day vnto them of Iuda, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem,

16 And to our Kings, and to our princes, & to our Priests, and to our Prophetes, and to our fathers,

17 Because we haue * sinned before the Lord our God,

18 And haue not obeyed him, nether hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord our God, to walke in the commandements that he gaue vs openly.

19 From the day that the Lord broght our fathers out of the land of Egypt, euen vnto this day, we haue bene disobedient vnto his law.

to the Lord our God, and we haue bene negligent to heare his voyce.

Deu. 28. 25. 20 *Wherefore these plagues are come vpon vs, and the curse which the Lord appointed by Moyses his seruant at the time that he broght our fathers out of the land of Egypt, to giue vs a land that floweth with milke and honie, as appeareth this day.

21 Neuertheles, we haue not hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord our God, according to all the wordes of the Prophetes, whome he sent vnto vs.

22 But euerie one of vs followed the wicked imaginacion of his owne heart, to serue strange gods, and to do euil in the sight of the Lord our God.

C H A P. I I.

1 The Iewes confesse that they suffer iustly for their finnes. The true confession of the Christiāns 11 The Iewes desire to haue the wrath of God turned from them 32 He promisseth that he wil call agayne the people from captiuitie, and giue them a newe and euerlasting testament.

1 Therefore the Lord our God hathe performed his worde, which he pronounced against vs, & against our iudges that governed Israel, and against our Kings, and against our princes, & against the men of Israel and Iuda,

Deu. 28. 23. 2 To bring vpon vs great plagues, suche as neuer came to passe vnder y whole heauē, as they that were done in Ierusalem, according to things, that were written in the Lawe of Moyses,

3 That some among vs shulde eat the flesh of his owne sonne, & some the flesh of his owne daughter.

4 Moreouer, he hathe deliuered them to be in subiection to all the kingdomes, that are rounde about vs, to be as a reprocie and desolation among all the people rounde about where the Lord hathe scattred them.

5 Thus they are broght beneth and not aboue, because we haue sinned against the Lord our God, and haue not heard his voyce.

Chap. 1. 15. 6 *To the Lord our God apperteineth righteousness, but vnto vs & to our fathers open shame, as appeareth this day.

7 For all these plagues are come vpon vs, which the Lord hathe pronounced against vs.

8 Yet haue we not prayed before the Lord, that we might turne euerie one from the imaginacions of his owne wicked heart.

9 So the Lord hathe watched ouer the plagues, and the Lord hathe broght them vpon vs. for the Lord is righteous in all his workes, which he hathe commanded vs.

10 Yet we haue not hearkened vnto his voyce, to walke in the commandements of the Lord that he hathe giuen vnto vs.

Dan 9. 15. 11 *And now, o Lord God of Israel, that hast broght thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mightie hand, and an hie arme, and with signes, and with wonders, and with great power, and hast gotten thy self a Name, as appeareth this day, 12 O Lord our God, we haue sinned: we haue done wickedly: we haue offended in all thine ordinances.

13 Let thy wrath turne from vs: for we are but a fewe left among the heathen, where thou hast scattred vs.

14 Heare our praier, o Lord, and our petitions, and deliuer vs for thine owne sake, and giue vs fauour in the sight of the, which haue led vs away, 15 That all the earth may know that thou art the Lord our God, and that thy Name is called vpon Israel and vpon their posteritie.

16 Therefore loke downe from thine holy Temple, and thinke vpon vs: encline thine eare, o Lord, and heare vs.

18 But the soule that is vexed for the greatness of sine, and he that goeth cokedly, and weake, and the eyes that faile, and the hungrie soule wil giue thee praise & righteousness, o Lord.

19 For we do not require mercie in thy sight, o Lord our God, for the righteousness of our fathers, or of our Kings,

20 But because thou hast sent out thy wrath and indignacion vpon vs, as thou hast spoken by thy seruants the Prophetes, saying,

21 *Thus saith the Lord, Bowe downe your shoulders, and serue the King of Babylon: so shal ye remaine in the land, that I gaue vnto your fathers.

22 But if ye wil not heare the voyce of the Lord, to serue the King of Babylon, 24 But we wolde no hearken vnto thy voyce, to serue the King of Babylon: therefore hast thou performed the wordes that thou spakest by thy seruants the Prophetes: namely, that the bones of our Kings, and the bones of our fathers shulde be caryed out of their places.

- 27 O Lord our God, thou hast intreated vs according to equitie, and according to all thy great mercie.
- 28 As thou spakest by thy seruant Moyfes, in the day when thou didest cōmand him to write thy Lawe before the childre of Israel, saying,
- 29 *If ye wil not obey my voyce, then shal this great swarme and multitude be turned into a verie fewe among the nacions where I wil scater them.
- 30 For I knowe that they wil not heare me: for it is a stifnecked people: but in the land of their captiuitie they shal remember them selues,
- 31 And knowe that I am y Lord their God: then wil I giue them an heart to vnderstand, and eares.
- 32 And they shal heare, and praise me in the land of their captiuitie, & thinke vpon my Name.
- 33 Then shal they turne them from their harde backes, and from their euil workes: for they shal remember the way of their fathers, which sinned before the Lord.
- 34 And I wil bring them againe into the land, which I promised with an othe vnto their fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Iacob, and they shal be lords of it: and I wil increase them, and they shal not be diminished.
- 35 And I wil make an euerlasting couenant with them, that I wil be their God, & they shalbe my people: and I wil no more driue my people of Israel out of the land that I haue giuen them.

- 2 Heare, o Lord, and haue mercie: for thou art merciful, and haue pitie vpon vs, because we haue sinned before thee.
- 3 For thou endurest for euer, and we vtterly perish.
- 4 O Lord almightie, the God of Israel, heare now the praier of the dead Israelites, and of their children, which haue sinned before thee, and not hearkened vnto the voyce of thee their God, wherefore these plagues hang vpon vs.
- 5 Remember not the wickednes of our fathers, but thinke vpon thy power, and thy Name at this time.
- 6 For thou art the Lord our God, & thee, o Lord, wil we praise.
- 7 And for this cause hast thou put thy feare in our hearts, that we shulde call vpon thy Name, and praise thee in our captiuitie: for we haue considered in our mindes all the wickednes of our fathers, that sinned before thee.
- 8 Beholde, we are yet this day in our captiuitie, where thou hast scatered vs, to be a reproche, and a curse, and subiect to payments, according to all the iniquities of our fathers, which are departed from the Lord their God.
- 9 O Israel, heare the commandements of life: hearken vnto them, that thou maiest learne wisdom.
- 10 What is the cause, o Israel, that thou art in thine enemies land, and art waxen olde in a strange countrey?
- 11 And art defiled with the dead: and art counted with them, that go downe to the graues?
- 12 Thou hast forsaken the fountaine of wisdom.
- 13 For if thou hadest walked in the way of God, thou shuldest haue remained safe for euer.

- 16 Where are the princes of the heathen, & suche as ruled the beasts vpon the earth?
- 17 They that had their pastime with the foules of the heauen, that hoorded vp siluer, and golde, wherein men trust, & made none end of their gathering?
- 18 For they that coyned siluer, and were so careful of their worke, and whose inuention had none end,
- 19 Are come to naught, and gone downe to hel, and other men are come vp in their steades.
- 20 Whē they were yong, they sawe y light, and dwelt vpon the earth: but they vnderstode not the way of knowledge,

- 22 It hath not bene heard of in the land of Chanaan, nether hath it bene sene in Theman,

- 25 It is great, and hath none end: it is hie, and vnmeasurable.
- 26 There were the gyants, famous from the beginning, that were of so great stature, and so expert in warre.
- 27 Those did not the Lord chose, nether gaue he the way of knowledge vnto them.
- 28 But they were destroyed, because they had no wisdom, and perished through their owne foolishnes.

- 32 But he that knoweth all things, knoweth her, and he hath founde her out with his vnderstanding: this same is he which hath prepared the earth for euermore, and hath filled it with foure footed beastes.
- 33 When he sendeth out the light, it goeth: and when he calleth it againe, it obeyeth him with feare.
- 34 And the starres shine in their watch, and reioyce. When he calleth them, they say, Here we be: and so with cherefulness they shewe light vnto him that made them.
- 35 This is our God, and there shal none other be compared vnto him.

- 7 For ye haue displeased him that made you, offering vnto deuils and not to God.

- 9 When she sawe the wrath comming vpon you from God, she said, Hearken, ye that dwell about Sion: for God hath brought me into great heaumes.
- 10 I see the captiuitie of my sonnes and daughters, which the Euerlasting wil bring vpon them.
- 11 With ioye did I nourish them, but I must leaue them with weeping and mourning.
- 12 Let no man reioyce ouer me a widdowe, and forsaken of manie, which for the finnes of my children am desolate, because they departed from the Law of God.
- 13 They wolde not knowe his righteousnes, nor walke in the wayes of his commandements: nether did they enter into the paths of discipline, through his righteousness.
- 14 Come, ye that dwell about Sion, and call to remembrance the captiuitie of my sonnes and daughters, which the Euerlasting hath brought vpon them.
- 15 For he hath brought vpon them a nation from farre, an impudent nation, and of a strange language,
- 16 Which nether reuerence the aged, nor pittie the yong: these haue caried away the dere beloued of the widdowes, leauing me alone, and destitute of my daughters.
- 17 But what can I helpe you?
- 18 Surely he that hath brought these plagues vpon you, can deliuer you from the hands of your enemies.
- 19 Go your way, O children, go your way: for I am left desolate.
- 20 I haue put off the clothing of peace, and put vpon me the sackcloth of prayer, and so long as I liue, I wil call vpon the Euerlasting.

- 27 Be of good comfort, my children, and crye vnto God: for he that led you away, hathe you in remembrance.
- 28 And as it came into your minde to go a- stray from your God, so endeouore your selues ten times more, to turne againe and to seke him.

- 35 For a fyre shall come vpon her from the Euerlasting, long to endure, & she shall be inhabited of deuils for a great season.
- 36 O Ierusalem, loke towarde the East, and beholde the ioye that cometh vnto thee from thy God.

A COPIE OF THE PISTLE, that Ieremias sent vnto them that were led away captiues into Babylon by the King of the Babylonians, to certifie the of the thing that was commanded him of God.

- 1 BEcause of the sinnes, that ye haue com- mitted against God, ye shall be led a- way captiues vnto Babylon, by Nabucho- donosor, King of the Babylonians.
- 2 So when ye be come into Babylon, ye shall remaine there manie yeres, and a long sea- son, euen seuen generacions, and after that wil I bring you away peaceably fro thece.
- 3 Now shall ye se in Babylon gods of siluer, and of golde, and of wood, borne vpon mens shulders, to cause the people to feare.
- 4 *Beware therefore that ye in no wise be like the strangers, nether be ye afraide of them, when ye se the multitude before the and behinde them worshipping them, not se one: for they are but as one of the postes of the temple.

- 19 They confesse, that euen their hearts are gnawen vpon: but when the things, that crepe out of the earth, eat them and their clothes, they feele it not.
- 20 Their faces are blacke thorow the smoke that is in the temple.
- 21 The owles, swalowes and birdes flie vpo their bodies, and vpon their heads, yea, & the cattes also.
- 22 By this ye may be sure, that they are not gods: therefore feare them not.
- 23 Notwithstanding the golde, that is about them to make them beautiful, except one wipe of the rust, they can not shine: nether when they were molten, did they fele it.
- 24 The things wherein is no breth, are bought for a moeste high price.
- ^{Isa. 46. 7.} 25 * They are borne vpon mens sholders, because they haue no feete, whereby they declare vnto men, that they be nothing worthe: yea, & they that worship them, are ashamed.
- 26 For if they fall to the grounde at anie time, they can not rise vp againe of them selues, nether if one set them vp right, can they moue of them selues, nether if they be bowed downe, can they make them selues straight: but they set giftes before them, as vnto dead men.
- 27 As for the things y^e are offered vnto them, their Priests sell them, and abuse them: likewise also the women lay vp of the same:
but vnto the poore and sicke they giue nothing.
- 28 The menstruous women, and they that are in childebed, touche their sacrifices:
- by these things ye may knowe that they are no gods: feare them not.
- 29 From whence cometh it then, that they are called gods: because the women bring giftes to the gods of siluer, and golde, and wood.
- 30 And the Priests sit in their temples, hauing their clothes rent, whose heades and beardes are shauen, & being bare headed,
- 31 Thei roare, & crye before their gods, as men do at the feast of one that is dead.
- 32 The Priests also take away of their garments, and clothe their wiues and childre.
- 33 Whether it be euil that one doth vnto the, or good, they are not able to recompense it: they can nether set vp a King nor put him downe.
- 34 In like maner they can nether giue riches, nor money: though a man make a vowe vnto them and kepe it not, they wil no require it.
- 35 They can saue no man from death, nether deliuer the weake from the mightie.
- 36 They can not restore a blinde man to his sight, nor helpe anie man at his nede.
- 37 They can shewe no mercie to the wid-dowe, nor do good to the fatherles.
- 38 Their gods of wood, golde and siluer, are as stones, that be hewen out of the mountaine, and they that worship them, shal be confounded.
- 39 How shulde a man the thinke or say that they are gods?
- 40 Morcouer the Chaldeas them selues dishonor them: for when thei se a dome man, that can not speake, thei present him to Bel,
- 41 And desire that he wolde make him to speake, as though he had anie felig: yet thei that vnderstand these things, can not leaue them: for they also haue no sense.
- 42 Furthermore the women, girded with coards, sit in the stretes, and burne strawe. ^{Or, brauns.}
- 43 And if one of them be drawn away, and lie with anie suche as come by, she casteth her neighbour in the teeth, because she was not so worthely reputed, nor her coard broken.
- 44 Whatsoeuer is done amog them, is lies:
how may it then be thought or said, that they are gods?
- 45 Carpenters and goldefsmithes make the,
nether be they anie other thing, but euen what the workeman wil make them.
- 46 Yea, they that make them, are of no long continuance: how shulde then the things that are made of them, be gods?
- 47 Therefore they leaue lies, and shame for their posteritie.
- 48 For when there cometh anie warre or plague vpo the, the Priests imagine with them selues, where they may hide the sel-ues with them.
- 49 How then can men not perceiue, that they

*Pfal 115.3.
Wisd. 13.10.*

- they be no gods, which can nether defend them selues from warre, nor from plagues?
- 50 For* seing they be but of wood, and of siluer, and of golde, men shal knowe hereafter that they are but lies, and it shalbe manifest to all nacions & Kings, that they be no gods, but the workes of mens hands, and that there is no worke of God in thé.
- 51 Whereby it maye be knowen, that they are no gods.
- 52 They can set vp no King in the lād, nor giue iaine vnto men.
- 53 They can giue no sentence of a matter, nether preferue from iniurie: they haue no power, but are as crows betwene the heauen and the earth.
- 54 When there falleth a fyre vpo the house of those gods of wood, and of siluer, & of golde, the Priests wil escape & saue thé selues, but thei buine as ý balkes therein.
- 55 Thei can not withstand anie King or enemies: how can it then be thought or said that they be gods?
- 56 Moreouer these gods of wood, of golde, and of siluer can nether defend them selues from theues nor robbers.
- 57 For they that are strongest, take awaye their golde and siluer, and apparel, wherewith they be clothed: and when they haue it, they get them awaye: yet can they not helpe them selues.
- 58 Therefore it is better to be a King, & so to shewe his power, or els a profitable vessel in an house, wherby he that oweth it, might haue profite, then suche false gods: or to be a dore in an house, to kepe suche things safe as be therein, then suche false gods: or a pilier of wood in a palace, then suche false gods.
- 59 For the sunne, and the moone, and the starres that shine, when thei are sent downe for necessaie vses, obey.
- 60 Likewise also the lightning when it shineth, it is euident: and the winde bloweth in euerie countrey.
- 61 And when God cōmandeth the cloude to go about the whole worlde, they do as thei are bidden.
- 62 Whē the fyre is sent downe from aboue to destroye hilles and woods, it doeth that which is commanded: but these are not like anie of these things, nether in forme, nor power.
- 63 Wherefore men shulde not thinke, nor say that they be gods, seing thei can nether giue sentence in iudgement, nor do men good.
- 64 For so muche now as ye are sure, that they be no gods, feare them not.
- 65 For they can nether curse, nor blesse Kings:
- 66 Nether can thei shewe signes in the heauen among the heathē, nether shine as the moone.
- 67 The beastes are better thé they: for thei can get them vnder a couert, and do them selues good.
- 68 So ye may be certified that by no maner of meanes, they are gods: therefore feare them not.
- 69 For as a skarcrowe in a garden of cucumbers kepeth nothing, so aie their gods of wood, and of siluer, and of golde:
- 70 And likewise their gods of wood, and golde and siluer are like to a white thorne in an orcharde, that euerie birde sitteth vpon, and as a dead bodie that is cast in the darke.
- 71 By the purple also and brightnes, which fadeth vpon them, ye may vnderstād, that they be no gods: yea, they them selues shal be consumed at the last, and they shalbe a shame to the countrey.
- 72 Better therefore is the iuste man, that hath none idoles: for he shalbe farre frō reprove.

THE SONG OF THE thre holie children, which follōweth in the third chapter of Daniel after this place, Thei fell downe bound into the middes of the hote fyrie fornace.

CHAP. I.

*25 The prayer of Azarias 46 The crueltie of the King.
48 The flame deuoureth the Chaldeans. 49 The Angel of the Lord was in the fornace. 51 The thre children praise the Lord and prouoke all creatures to the same.*

24 And they walked in the middes of the flame, praising God, & magnified the Lord.

25 Then Azarias stode vp, and praied on this maner, and opening his mouth in the middes of the fyre, said, 26 Blessed be thou, ó Lord God of our fathers: thy Name is worthie to be praised and honored for euermore.

27 For thou art righteous in all the things, that thou hast done vnto vs, and all thy workes are true, and thy waies are right, & all thy iudgements certeine.

28 In all the things that thou hast broght vpon vs, & vpon Ierusalem, the holie citie of our fathers, thou hast executed true

- iudgements: for by right and equitie hast thou brought all these things vpon vs, because of our sinnes.
- 29 For we haue sinned and done wickedly, departing from thee: in all things haue we trespassed,
- 30 And not obeyed thy commandements, nor kept them, nether done as thou hadest commanded vs, that we might prosper.
- 31 Wherefore in all that thou hast brought vpon vs, & in euerie thing that thou hast done to vs, thou hast done them in true iudgement:
- 32 As in deliuering vs into the hands of our wicked enemies, & moste hateful traitors, and to an vnrighteous King, and the moste wicked in all the worlde.
- 33 And now we may not open our mouthes: we are become a shame and reprofe vnto thy seruants, and to them that worshippe thee.
- 34 Yet for thy Names sake, we beseeche thee, giue vs not vp for euer, nether breake thy couenant,
- 35 Nether take away thy mercie from vs, for thy beloued Abrahams sake, and for thy seruant Isaaks sake, & for thine holy Israels sake,
- 36 To whome thou hast spoken and promised, that thou woldest multiplie their sede as the starres of heauen, and as the sand, that is vpon the seashore.
- 37 For we, O Lord, are become lesse then anye nacion, and be kept vnder this daye in all the worlde, because of our sinnes:
- 38 So that now we haue nether prince, nor Prophet, nor gouernour, nor burnt offering, nor sacrifice, nor oblation, nor incense, nor place to offer y^e fruit frutes before thee, that we might finde mercie.
- 39 Neuertheles in a contrite heart, and an humble spirit, let vs be receiued.
- 40 As in the burnt offering of rams and bullockes, & as in ten thousand of fat lambs, so let our offering be in thy sight this day, that it may please thee: for there is no confusion vnto the that put their trust in thee.
- 41 And now we followe thee with all our heart, and feare thee, and seeke thy face.
- 42 Put vs not to shame, but deale with vs after thy louing kindenes, and according to the multitude of thy mercies.
- 43 Deliuer vs also by thy miracles, & giue thy Name the glorie, O Lord,
- 44 That all they which do thy seruants euil, may be confounded: euen let them be confounded by thy great force and power, and let their strength be broken,
- 45 That they maye knowe, that thou onelie art the Lord God, and glorious ouer the whole worlde.
- 46 ¶ Now the Kings seruants that had cast them in, ceased not to make the ouen hote with naphtha, and with pitche, and with tow, and with fagotes,
- 47 So that the flame went out of the furnace fortie and nine cubites.
- 48 And it brake forth, & burnt those Chaldeans, that it founde by the furnace.
- 49 But the Angel of the Lord went downe into the furnace with the that were with Azarias, and smote the flame of the fyre out of the furnace,
- 50 And made in the middes of the furnace like a moyste hissing winde, so that the fyre touched the not at all, nether grieved, nor troubled them.
- 51 Then these thre (as out of one mouth) praised, and glorified, and blessed God in the furnace, saying,
- 52 Blessed be thou, O Lord God of our fathers, and praised, and exalted aboute all things for euer, & blessed be thy glorious & holie Name, & praised aboute all things, and magnified for euer.
- 53 Blessed be thou in the Temple of thine holy glorie, and praised aboute all things, and exalted for euer.
- 54 Blessed be thou that beholdest y^e depths, & sittest vpon the Cherubims, & praised aboute all things, and exalted for euer.
- 55 Blessed be thou in the glorious Throne of thy kingdome, and praised aboute all things, and exalted for euer.
- 56 Blessed be thou in the firmament of heauen, and praised aboute all things, & glorified for euer.
- 57 All ye workes of the Lord, blesse ye the Lord: praise him, and exalte him aboute all things for euer.
- 58 O heauens, blesse ye the Lord: praise him, and exalte him aboute all things for euer. Psal. 148. 4.

- 63 O starres of heauē, blesse ye y^e Lord: praise him, & exalte him aboute all things for euer.
- 64 Euerie shower, & dewe, blesse ye y^e Lord: praise him, & exalte him aboute all things for euer.
- 65 All ye windes, blesse ye the Lord: praise him, and exalte him aboute all things for euer.
- 66 O fyre & heat, blesse ye the Lord: praise him, & exalte hī aboute all things for euer.

THE HISTORIE OF

^{Or, Susanna} "Sufanna, which some ioyneth to the end of Daniel, and make it the 13. chap.

- 8 The two gouerners are taken with the loue of Sufanna.
 19 They take her alone in the garden 20 They sollicite her to wickednes 23 She choseth rather to obey God, though it be to the danger of her life 34 She is accused 41 Daniel doeth deliuer her. 62 The gouerners are put to death.

1 HERE dwelt a mā in Babylon called Ioacim, 2 And he toke a wife, whose name was Sufanna, the daughter of Helcias, a verie faire woman, and one that feared God.

- 3 Her father and her mother also were godlie people, & raught their daughter according to the Law of Moses.
 4 Now Ioacim was a great riche man; and had a faire garden ioyning vnto his house, and to him resorted the Lewes, because he was more honorable then all others.

- 5 The same yere were appointed two of the anciēts of the people to be iudges, such as the Lord speaketh of, that the iniquitie came from Babylon, & frō the anciēt iudges, which semed to rule y people.
 6 These hanted Ioacims house, & all suche as had anie thing to do in the Law, came thither vnto them.
 7 Now when the people departed away at noone, Sufanna went into her housbands garden to walke.
 8 And the two Elders sawe her that she wēt in dailie and walked, so that their lust was inflamed towarde her.
 9 Therefore they turned away their ^a mīde, & cast downe their eyes, y they shulde not se heauen, nor remēbre iuste iudgements.

^a To wit, from God.

- 10 And albeit thei bothe were wouded with her loue, yet durst not one shewe another his grief.
- 11 For they were ashamed to declare their lust, that they desired to haue to dow her.
- 12 Yet they watched diligently from day to day to se her.
- 13 And the one said to the other, Let vs go now home, for it is diner time.
- 14 So they went their way, and departed, one from another: yet they returned againe, and came into the same place, and after that they had asked one another the cause, thei acknowledged their lust: the apointed they a time bothe together whē they might finde her alone.
- 15 Now when they had spied out a conuenient time, that she went in, as her maner was, with two maides onely, and thought to wash her self in the garden (for it was an hote season)
- 16 And there was no bodie there, saue the two Elders that had hid them selues, and watched for her:
- 17 She said to her maides, Bring me oyle & sope, and shut the gardē dores, that I may wash me.
- 18 And they did as she bade them, and shut the garden dores, and went out them selues at a backe dore, to fet the thing that she had commanded them: but they sawe not the Elders, because they were hid.
- 19 Now whē the maides were gone forthe, the two Elders rose vp & ranne vnto her, saying,
- 20 Beholde, the garden dores are shut, that no man can se vs, & we burne in loue with thee: therefore consent vnto vs, and lye with vs.
- 21 If thou wilt not, we wil beare witnes against thee, that a yong mā was with thee, and therefore thou didest send away thy maides from thee.
- 22 Then Sufanna sighed, and said, I am in trouble on euerie side: for if I do this thig, it is death vnto me: & if I do it not, I can not escape your hands.
- 23 It is better for me to fall into your hāds, and not do it, then to sinne in the sight of the Lord.
- 24 With that Sufanna cryed with a loude voyce, and the two Elders cryed out against her.
- 25 Then ranne the one, and opened the garden dore.
- 26 ¶ So whē the seruants of the house heard the crye in the garden, they rushed in at y backe dore, to se what was done vnto her.
- 27 But when the Elders had declared their matter, the seruants were greatly ashamed: for there was neuer suche a reporte made of Sufanna.
- 28 On the morow after, came the people to Ioacim her housband, & the two Elders came also, ful of mischieuous imaginaciō against Sufanna, to put her to death,
- 29 And said before the people, Send for Sufanna the daughter of Helcias Ioacims wife. And immediatly they sent.
- 30 So she came with her father & mother, her children and all her kinred.
- 31 Now Sufanna was very tender, and faire of face.
- 32 And these wicked mé cōmanded to vncover her face (for she was couered) that thei might so be satisfied with her beautie.
- 33 Therefore they that were about her, and all they that knewe her, wept.
- 34 Thē the two Elders stode vp in the middes of the people, and layed their hands vpon her head,
- 35 Which wept and loked vp towarde heauen: for her heart trusted in the Lord.
- 36 And the Elders said, As we walked in the garden alone, she came in with two maides, whome she sent away from her, and shut the garden dores.
- 37 Then a yong man, which there was hid, came vnto her, and lay with her.
- 38 Then we which stode in a corner of the gardē, seing this wickednes, rāne vnto thē, and we sawe them as they were together,
- 39 But we colde not holde him: for he was stronger then we, and opened the dore, and leaped out.
- 40 Now when we had taken this woman, we asked her what yong man this was, but she wolde not tel vs: of these things are we witnesses.
- 41 Then the assemblie beleued them, as those that were the Elders and iudges of the people: so thei condēned her to death.
- 42 Then Sufanna cryed out with a loude voyce, and said, O euerlasting God, that knowest the secrets, and knowest all things afore they come to passe,
- 43 Thou knowest, that they haue borne false witnes against me, and beholde, I must dye, where as I neuer did suche thigs as these men haue maliciously inuented against me.
- 44 And the Lord heard her voyce.
- 45 ¶ Therefore when she was led to be put to death, the Lord raised vp y holie spirit of a yong childe, whose name was Daniel.
- 46 Who cryed with a loude voyce, I am cleane from the blood of this woman.
- 47 Thē all the people turned them toward him, and said, What meane these wordes, that thou hast spoken?
- 48 Thē Daniel stode in the middes of thē, and said, Are ye suche fooles, o Israelites, that without examination, or knowledge of the trueth, ye haue condemnēd a daughter of Israel?
- 49 Returne againe to iudgement: for they haue haue borne false witness against her.

50 Wherefore the people turned againe in all haste, & the Elders said vnto him, Come, sit downe among vs, & shew it vs, seeing God hath giuen thee the office of an Elder.

51 Then said Daniel vnto them, Put these two aside, one farre from another, and I will examine them.

52 So when they were put a sonder, one from another, he called one of them & said vnto him, O thou that art olde in a wicked life, now thy sinnes which thou hast committed afore time, are come to light.

53 For thou hast pronounced false iudgements, and hast condemned the innocent, and hast let the guiltie go free, albeit the Lord saith, * The innocent and righteous shalt thou not slay.

Exod. 22, 7.

54 Now then, if thou hast sene her, tel me, vnder what tre sawest thou them companying together? Who answered, Vnder a lentiſke tre.

Gen. life.

55 Thē said Daniel, Verely thou hast lyed against thine owne head: for lo, the Angel of God hath received the sentence of God, to cut thee in two.

56 So put he him aside, & commanded to bring the other, & said vnto him, O thou seditious of Chanaan, and not of Iuda, beaustie hath disceiued thee, and lust hath subuerted thine heart.

57 Thus haue ye dealt with the daughters of Israel, and they for feare cōpanied with you: but the daughter of Iuda wolde not abide your wickednes.

58 Now therefore tel me vnder what tre didst thou take them cōpanying together? Who answered, Vnder a "prime tree.

Or, mirrle tre.*

59 Then said Daniel vnto him, Verely thou hast also lyed against thine head: for the Angel of God waiteth with the sworde to cut thee in two, & so to destroe you bothe.

60 ¶ With that all the whole assemblie cryed with a loude voyce, and praised God, which saueth them that trust in him.

61 And they arose against the two Elders, (for Daniel had conuict them of false witness by their owne mouth)

62 *And according to the Law of Moyses they delt with them, as they delt wickedly against their neighbour, and put them to death. Thus the innocent blood was saued the same day.

prou 19, 5.*

63 Therefore Helcias, and his wife praised God for their daughter Susanna, with Iocim her housband, and all the kindred, that there was no dishonestie founde in her.

64 From that day forth was Daniel had in great reputacion in the sight of the people.

65 And King Astyages was laide with his fathers, and Cyrus of Persia reigned in his steade.

THE HISTORIE OF Bel and of the dragon, which is the fourteenth chapter of Daniel after the Laten.

1 Now when King Astyages was laide with his fathers, Cyrus the Persian received his kingdome.

2 And Daniel did eat at the Kings table, & was honored aboue all his friends.

3 Now the Babylonians had an idole, called Bel, and there were spent vpon him euerie day, twelue ^a great measures of fine floure, and fortie shepe, and six great ^b pottes of wine.

4 And the King worshipped it, and went daily to honour it: but Daniel worshipped his owne God. And the King said vnto him, Why doest not thou worship Bel?

5 Who answered, and said, Because I may not worship idoles made with hands, but the liuing God, which hath created the heauen & the earth, and hath power vpo all flesh.

6 Then said the King vnto him, Thinkest thou not that Bel is a liuing God? seeff thou not how muche he eateth and drinketh euerie day?

7 Then Daniel smiled and said, O King, be not deceiued: for this is but claye within, and brasse without, and did neuer eat any thing.

8 So the King was wroth, and called for his Priests, and said vnto them, If ye tell me not, who this is that eateth vp these expenses, ye shal dye:

9 But if ye can certifie me that Bel eateth them, then Daniel shal dye: for he hath spokē blasphemie against Bel. And Daniel said vnto the King, Let it be according to thy worde.

10 (Now the Priests of Bel were thre score and ten beside their wiues and childre:) and the King went with Daniel into the temple of Bel.

11 So Bels Priests said, Beholde, we wil go out, and set thou the meat there, o King, & let the wine be filled: then shut the dore

^a Called Artaba, whereof euerie one contained somewhat more the nine galons, which make in all an hundred & eight galons at the least ^b Called Metreta, and euerie one of these measures contained about ten galons which in all make thre score.

Bel and the dragon.

- fast, and seale it with thine owne signet.
- 12 And to morowe when thou comest in, if thou findest not that Bel hath eaten vp all, we wil suffer death, or els Daniel that hath lied vpon vs.
- 13 Now thei thought the selues sure ynough: for vnder the table thei had made a priue entrance, and there went they in cuer, and toke away the things.
- 14 So whē they were gone forthe, the King set meates before Bel. Now Daniel had commanded his seruants to bring ashes, and these they strowed thorowout all the temple, in the presence of the King alone: then went they out, and shut the dore, & sealed it with the Kings signet, and so departed.
- 15 Now in the night came the Priests, with their wiues and children, (as they were wonte to do) and did eat and drinke vp all.
- 16 In the morning betimes, the King arose and Daniel with him.
- 17 And the King said, Daniel, are the seales whole? Who answered, Yea, o King, thei be whole.
- 18 And assone as he had opened the dore, the King looked vpon the table, and cryed with a loude voyce, Great art thou, o Bel, and with thee is no disceite.
- 19 Then laughed Daniel, and helde the King that he shulde not go in, & said, Beholde now the pauement, and make wel whose footestepes are these.
- 20 And the King said, I se the footestepes of men, women, and children: therefore the King was angrie,
- 21 And toke the Priests, with their wiues, and children, and they shewed him the priue dores, where they came in, and consumed suche things as were vpon the table.
- 22 Therefore the King slew them, and deliuered Bel into Daniels power, who destroyed him and his temple.
- 23 ¶ Moreouer in that same place there was a great dragon, which the Babylonians worshipped.
- 24 And the King said vnto Daniel, Sayest thou, that this is of brasse also? lo, he liueth and eateth and drinketh, so that thou canst not say, that he is no liuing god: therefore worshipp him.
- 25 Then said Daniel vnto the King, I wil worshippe the Lord my God: for he is the liuing God.
- 26 But giue me leaue, o King, and I wil slay this dragon without sworde or staffe. And the King said, I giue thee leaue.
- 27 Then Daniel toke pitche, and fatte, & heere, and did seeth them together, & made lompes thereof; this he put in the dragons mouthe, and so the dragon burst in funder. And Daniel said, Beholde, whome ye worshippe.
- 28 When the Babylonians heard it, they were wonderful wroth, and gathered them together against the King, saying, The King is become a Lew: for he hath destroyed Bel, and hath slaine the dragon, and put the Priests to death.
- 29 So they came to the King, and said, Deliuer vs Daniel, or els we wil destroy thee and thine house.
- 30 Now whē the King sawe, that thei pressed sore vpon him, and that necessitie constrained him, he deliuered Daniel vnto them:
- 31 Who cast him into the lions denne, where he was six daies.
- 32 In the denne there were seuen lions, and they had giuen them euerie day two bodies and two shepe, which then were not giuen them, to the intent that they might deuour Daniel.
- 33 ¶ Now there was in Iewrie a Prophet called Abbauc, which had made porage, and broken bread into a bowle, and was going into the field for to bring it to the reapers.
- 34 But y Angel of the Lord said vnto Abbauc, Go, carye the meat y thou hast, into Babylon vnto Daniel, which is in the lions denne.
- 35 And Abbauc said, Lord, I neuer sawe Babylō, nether do I knowe where the denne is.
- 36 Then the Angel toke him by the crowne of the head, and bare him by the heere of the head, and through a mightie winde set him in Babylon vpon the denne.
- 37 And Abbauc cryed, saying, O Daniel, Daniel, take the dinner that God hath sent thee.
- 38 Then said Daniel, O God, thou hast thought vpon me, and thou neuer failest the that seke thee and loue thee.
- 39 So Daniel arose, and did eat, and the Angel of the Lord set Abbauc in his owne place againe immediatly.
- 40 Vpon the seuenth day, the King went to bewaile Daniel: and when he came to the denne, he looked in, and beholde, Daniel sat in the middes of the lions.
- 41 Then cryed the King with a loude voyce, saying, Great art thou, o Lord God of Daniel, and there is none other besides thee.
- 42 And he drew him out of the denne, and cast the that were the cause of his destruction into the denne, & they were deuoured in a momente before his face.

the Maccabees.

CHAP. I.

1 The death of Alexander the King of Macedonia. 11 Antiochus taketh the kyngdome. 12 Many of the children of Israel make couenant with the Gentiles. 21 Antiochus subdueth Egypt and Ierusalem vnto his domanon. 30 Antiochus setteth vp idoles.

After that Alexander the Macedonian, y^e sonne of Philippe, went forthe of the land of Chettiim, & slewe Darius King of the Persiās and Medes, and reigned for him, as he had before in Grecia,

2 He toke great warres in hand, and wan strong holdes, and slewe the Kings of the earth.

3 So went he thorow to y^e ends of the worlde, and toke spoiles of many nacions, in so muche that y^e worlde stode in awe of him: therefore his heart was puffed vp and was hawtie.

4 Now when he had gathered a mightie stronghoste,

5 And had reigned ouer regions, nacions and kingdomes, they became tributaries vnto him.

6 After these things he fel sicke, and knewe that he shulde dye.

7 Then he called for the chief of his seruātes, which had bene broght vp with him of children, and parted his kingdome among them, while he was yet aliue.

8 So Alexander had reigned twelue yeres when he dyed.

9 And his seruants reigned euerie one in his roume.

10 And they all caused the selues to be crowned after his death, and so did their children after the many yeres, and muche wickednes increased in the worlde.

11 For out of these came the wicked roote, euen Antiochus⁹ Epiphanes the sonne of King Antiochus, which had bene an hostage at Rome, and he reigned in the hundredth and seuen and thirtieth yere of the kingdome of the Grekes.

12 In those daies wet there out of Israel wicked men, which entyced many, saying, Let vs go, and make a couenant with the heathen, that are rounde about vs: for since we departed frō them, we haue had muche sorowe.

13 So this deuice pleased them wel.

14 And certeine of the people were readie, & went to y^e King which gaue the licence to do after the ordinances of the heathen.

15 The he set thei vp a place of exercise at Ierusalē, according to the faciōs of y^e heathē,

16 And made them^a selues vncircūcised, & forsoke the holy couenant, & ioyned them selues to the heathen, and were solde to do mischief.

17 So whē Antiochus kingdome was set in order, he wet about to reigne ouer Egypt, that he might haue the dominion of two realmes.

18 Therefore he entred into Egypt with a mightie cōpanie, with charets, & elephan-tes, & with horsemē, & with a great nauie, 19 And moued warre against Ptolemeus King of Egypt: but Ptolemeus was afraid of him, and fled, and manie were wounded to death.

20 Thus Antiochus wanne many strong cities in the land of Egypt, and toke away the spoiles of the land of Egypt.

21 And after that Antiochus had smitten Egypt, he turned againe in the hundredth, fortie and thre yere, 22 And went vp towarde Israel and Ierusalē with a mightie people.

23 And entred proudly into the Sanctuarie, and toke away the golden altar, and the candlestick for the light, & all the instruments thereof, & the table of y^e shewbread, and the powring vessels, and the bowles, & the golden basins, and the vaile, and the crownes, & the golden apparel, which was before the Temple, and brake all in pieces.

24 He toke also the siluer and golde, & the precious iewels, & he toke the secret treasures that he founde, & when he had taken away all, he departed into his owne land, 25 After he had murdered many men, and spoken verie proudly.

26 Therefore there was a great lamētacion in euerie place of Israel.

27 For the princes & the Elders mourned: the yong women, and the yong men were made feble, & the beautie of the women was changed.

28 Euerie bridegrome toke him to mourning, and she that sate in the marriage chāber, was in heauines.

29 The land also was moued for the inhabitāts thereof: for all the house of Iacob was couered with confusion.

30 After two yeres the King sent his chief taxe master into y^e citres of Iuda, which came to Ierusalem with a great multitude.

31 Who spake peaceable wordes vnto them in disceite, & they gaue credit vnto him.

32 Then he fell suddenly vpon the citre, & smote it with a great plague, & destroyed muche people of Israel.

33 And when he had spoiled the citie, he set fyre on it, casting downe the houses there of, and walles thereof on euerie side.
 34 The womē and their children toke they captiue, and led away the cattel.
 35 Then fortified they the citie of Dauid with a great & thicke wall, & with mightie towres, and made it a strong holde for them.
 36 Moreouer they set wicked people there, and vngodlie persones, and fortified them selues therein.
 37 And they stored it with weapons and vitayles, and gathered the spoile of Ierusalē, and laied it vp there.
 38 Thus became they a fore snare & were in ambushment for y^e Sanctuarie, and were wicked enemies euermore vnto Israel.
 39 For they shed innocēt blood on euerie side of the Sanctuarie & defiled the Sāctuarie, 40 In so muche that the citizens of Ierusalem fled away because of them, and it became an habitacion of strāgers, being desolate of them whome she had borne: for her owne children did leaue her.
 41 Her Sāctuarie was left waste as a wilderness: her holie daies were turned into mourning, her Sabbaths into reproche, and her honour brought to naught.
 42 As her glorie had bene great, so was her dishonour, and her excellencie was turned into sorowe.
 43 Also the King wrote vnto all his kingdomes, that all the people shulde be as one, and that euerie mā shulde leaue his lawes.
 44 And all the heathen agreed to the commandement of the King.
 45 Yea, many of the Israelites consented to his religion, offering vnto idoles, & defiling the Sabbath.
 46 So the King sent letters by the messengers vnto Ierusalem, and to the cities of Iuda, that they shulde followe the strange lawes of the countrey, 47 And that they shulde forbid the burnt offerings and sacrifices, and the offerings in the Sanctuarie, 48 And that they shulde defile the Sabbaths and the feasts, 49 And pollute the Sanctuarie and the holie men,
 50 And to set vp altars, & groues, & chapels of idoles, & offer vp swines flesh, and vncleane beasts,
 51 And that they shulde leaue their childrē vncircumcised, & defile their soules with vncleannes, and pollute them selues, that they might forget the Law, & change all the ordinances, 52 And that whosoever wolde not do according to the commandement of the King, shulde suffer death.
 53 In like maner wrote he thorow out all his kingdomes, and set ouerfeers ouer all the people, for to compell them to do these things.

 54 And he commanded the cities of Iuda to do sacrifice, citie by citie.
 55 Then went many of the people vnto thē by heapes, euerie one that forsake y^e Law, and so they committed euil in the land.
 56 And they droue the Israelites into secret places, euen wherefoeuer they colde flee for succour.
 57 The fiftenth day of Casleu, in the hundredth and fife and fortieth yere, they set vp the abomination of desolacion vpon the altar, & they buylded altars thorow out the cities of Iuda on euerie side.
 58 And before the doores of the houses, and in the stretes they burnt incense.
 59 And the booke of the Law, which they founde, they burnt in the fyre, and cutte in pieces.
 60 Whosoever had a booke of the Testament founde by him, or whosoever consented vnto the Law, the Kings commandement was, that they shulde put him to death by their autoritie, 61 And they executed these things euerie moneth vpon the people of Israel that were founde in the cities.
 62 And in the fife and twentieth day of the moneth, they did sacrifice vpon the altar, which was in the stead of the altar of sacrifices.
 63 And according to the commandement, they put certeine woman to death, which had caused their children to be circumcised, 64 And they hāged vp the children at their neckes, and they spoiled their houses, and slewe the circumcisērs of them.
 65 Yet were there many in Israel, which were of courage, and determined in them selues, that they wolde not eat vncleane things, 66 But chose rather to suffer death, then to be defiled with those meats: so because they wolde not breake the holie couenant, they were put to death.
 67 And this tyrannie was verie sore vpon the people of Israel.

CHAP. II.

1 The mourning of Mattathias and his sonnes for the destruction of the holy citie. 19 They refuse to do sacrifice vnto idoles. 24 The zeale of Mattathias for the Law of God. 33 They are slaine and wil not fight againe because of the Sabbath day. 49 Mattathias dying commandeth his sonnes to sticke by the worde of God, after the example of the fathers.
 1 IN those dayes stode vp Mattathias the Priest, the sonne of Ioannes, the sonne of Simeon, of the sonnes of Ioarib of Ierusalem, and dwelt in Modan.
 2 And he had fife sonnes, Ioanan called Gaddis,

- 3 Simon called Thafsi,
 4 Iudas which was called Maccabeus, 5 Eleazar called Abaron, & Ionathā, whose name was Apphus.
 6 Now he sawe the blasphemies, which were committed in Iuda and Ierusalem:
 7 And he said, Wo is me: wherefore was I borne, to se this destruction of my people, and the destruction of the holy citie, and thus to sit still: it is deliuered into the hands of the enemies,
 8 And the Sanctuarie is in the hands of strangers: her Temple is, as a man that hath no renoume.
 9 Her glorious vessels are caryed away into captiuitie: her infants are slayne in the stretes, and her yong men are fallen by the sworde of the enemies.
 10 What people is it, that hath not some possession in her kingdome, or hath not gotten of her spoiles?
 11 All her glorie is taken away: of a fre woman, she is become an handmaid.
 12 Beholde, our Sanctuarie & our beautie, and honor is desolate, and the Gentiles haue defiled it.
 13 What helpeth it vs then to liue anie longer?
 14 And Mattathias rent his clothes, he, and his sonnes, and put sackcloth vpon them, and mourned verie sore.
 15 ¶ Then came men from the King to the citie of Modin to compell them to forsake God, and to sacrifice.
 16 So manie of the Israelites consented vnto them: but Mattathias and his sonnes assembled together.
 17 Then spake the commissiōners of the King, and said vnto Mattathias, Thou art the chief and an honorable man, & great in this citie, and hast many children and brethren.
 18 Come thou therefore first, and fulfil the Kings commandement, as all the heathen haue done, and also the men of Iuda, and suche as remaine at Ierusalē: so shalt thou and thy familie be in the Kings fauour & thou and thy children shalbe enriched with siluer & golde, & w^m manie rewards.
 19 Then Mattathias answered & said with a loude voyce, Thogh all nacions that are vnder the Kings dominion, obey him, and fall away euerie man from the religion of their fathers, and consent to his commandements, 20 Yet wil I and my sonnes, and my brethren, walke in y^e couenant of our fathers.
 21 God be merciful vnto vs, that we forsake not the Law and the ordinances.
 22 We wil not hearken vnto the Kings wordes to transgresse our religion, nether on the right side, nor on the left.
 23 And when he had left of speaking these wordes, there came one of the Jewes, in the sight of all to sacrifice vpon the altar which was at Modin, according to the Kings commandement.
 24 Now when Mattathias sawe it, he was so inflamed with zeale, that his raiues shoke, and his wrath was kindled according to the ordinance of the Law: therefore he ran vnto him, and killed him by the altar:
 25 And at the same time he slewe y^e Kings commissiōner, that compelled him to do sacrifice, and destroyed the altar.
 26 Thus bare he a zeale to y^e Law of God, * doing, as Phinees did vnto Zambri the Nomb. 25.7. sonne of Salom.
 27 ¶ Then cryed Mattathias with a loude voyce in the citie, saying, Whosoever is zealous of the Law, and wil stand by the couenant, let him come forthe after me.
 28 So he, and his sonnes fled into the mountaines, & left all that thei had in the citie.
 29 Then manie that sought after iustice & iudgement,
 30 Went downe into y^e wildernes to dwell there, bothe they, and their children, and their wiues, and their catrel: for the afflictions increased sore vpon them.
 31 ¶ Now whē it was tolde vnto the Kings seruants, and to the garisons, which were in Ierusalem in the citie of Daud, that men had broken the Kings commandement, & were gone downe into the secret places in the wildernes, 32 Then many pursued after them: and baying ouertaken them, thei camped against them, and set the battel in array against them on the Sabbath day, 33 And said vnto them, Let this now be sufficient: come forthe & do according to the commandement of the King, and ye shal liue.
 34 But they answered, We wil not go forthe, nether wil we do the Kings commandement, to defile the Sabbath day.
 35 Then they gaue them the battel.
 36 But the other answered them nothing, nether cast anie one stone at the, nor stopped the priuie places, 37 But said, We wil dye all in our innocencie: the heauen and earth shal testifie for vs, that ye destroy vs wrongfully.
 38 Thus thei gaue them the battel vpon the Sabbath, and slewe bothe men and catrel, their wiues and their children to the number of a thousand people.
 39 ¶ When Mattathias & his friends vnderstode this, thei mourned for them greatly,
 40 And said one to another, If we all do as our brethren haue done, and fight not against the heathen for our liues, & for our Lawes, then shal thei incōtinently destroy vs out of the earth.
 41 Therefore they concluded at the same time, say ſig, Whoſoeuer ſhal come to make battel with vs vpon the Sabbath daye, we wil fight againſt him, that we dye not all, as our brechren that were murdered in the ſecret places.

42 Then came vnto them the aſſemblic of the Aſideans, which were of the ſtrongeſt men of Iſrael, all ſuche as were wel minded toward the Law.

43 And all they that were fled for perfecucion, ioyned them ſelues vnto them, and were an helpe vnto them.

44 So they gathered a power, and ſmote the wicked men in their wrath, & the vngodlie in their angre: but the reſt fled vnto the heathen, and eſcaped.

45 Then Mattathias and his friends went about, and deſtroyed the altars, 46 And circumciſed the children by force that were vncircumciſed, as manie as they founde within the coaſts of Iſrael, 47 And they purſued after the proude mē: and this acte prospered in their hands.

48 So they recouered the Law out of the hand of the Gentiles, & out of the hand of Kings, and gaue not place to ſ wicked.

49 Now when the time drewe nere, that Mattathias ſhulde dye, he ſaid vnto his ſonnes, Now is pride and perfecucion increased, and the time of deſtruction, and the wrath of indignacion.

50 Now therefore, my ſonnes, be ye zealous of the Law, & giue your liues for the couenant of our fathers.

51 Call to remembrance what actes our fathers did in their time: ſo ſhal ye receiue great honour and an euerlaſting name.

61 And thus ye may conſider thorowe out all ages, that whoſoeuer put their truſt in him, ſhal not want ſtrength.

62 Feare not ye then the wordes of a ſinful mā: for his glorie is but dongue and wormes.

63 To day is he ſet vp, & to morowe he ſhal not be founde: for he is turned into his duſt, and his purpoſe perſheth.

64 Wherefore, my ſones, take good hearts, and ſhewe your ſelues men for the Law; for by it ſhal you obtaine glorie.

65 And beholde, I knowe that your brother Simon is a man of counſel: giue eare vnto him alway: he ſhal be a father vnto you.

66 And Iudas Maccabeus hath bene mightie and ſtrong, euen from his youth vp: let him be your captaine and fight you the battel for the people.

67 Thus ſhal ye bring vnto you all thoſe that obſerue the Law, & ſhal aduenge the iniuries of your people.

68 Recompence fully the heathen, and giue your ſelues to the commandement of the Law.

69 So he bleſſed them, and was laied with his fathers, 70 And dyed in the hundreth, fortie & ſix yere, and his ſonnes buryed him in his fathers ſepulchre at Modin, & all Iſrael made great lamentacion for him.

CHAP. III.

1 Iudas is made ruler ouer the Iewes. 11 He killeth Apollonius & Seron the princes of Syria. 44 The confidence of Iudas toward God. 55 Iudas determineth to fight againſt Lyſias, whom Antiochus had made captaine ouer his hoſte.

1 Then Iudas his ſonne, called Maccabeus, roſe vp in his place.

2 And all his brethren helped him, and all they that helde with his father, and fought with courage the battel of Iſrael.

3 So he gate his people great honour: he put on a breſtplate as a gyant, and armed him ſelf, and ſet the battel in array, and defended the ſampe with the ſworde.

4 In his actes he was like a lyon, and as a lyons whelp roaring after the pray.

5 For he purſued the wicked, & fought them out, & burnt vp thoſe that vexed his people,

6 So that the wicked fled for feare of him, and all the workers of iniquitie were put to trouble: and ſaluacion prospered in his hand.

7 And he grieued diuers Kings, but Iacob reioyced by his actes, and his memorial is bleſſed for euer.

8 He went alſo thorowe the cities of Iudaa, and deſtroyed the wicked out of them, and turned away the wrath from Iſrael.

9 So was he renowned vnto the ends of the earth, and he aſſembled together thoſe that were readie to perſh.

10 ¶ But Apollonius gathered the Gentiles, and a great hoſte out of Samaria, to fight againſt Iſrael.

a Who was gouernour of Syria. Ioseph Antiq. 12. chap. 9.

11 Which

- 21 Which when Iudas perceiued, he went forth to mete him, and smote him, & flue him, so that many fel downe slaine, & the rest fled.
- 22 So Iudas toke their spoiles, and toke also Apollonius sworde, and fought with it all his life long.
- 23 ¶ Now whē Seron a prince of ſy armie of Syria, heard that Iudas had gathered vnto him the congregacion, and Church of the faithful, and went forth to the warre,
- 24 He ſaid, I wil get me a name, and wil be glorious in the realme: for I wil go fight with Iudas, & thē that are with him, which haue deſpised the Kings commandement.
- 25 So he made him readie to go vp, and there went with him a mightie hoſte of the vngodlie to helpe him, & to be aduenged of the children of Iſrael.
- 26 And when he came nere to the going vp of Bethhoron, Iudas went forth to mete him with a ſmale companie.
- 27 But when they ſawe the armie coming againſt them, they ſaid to Iudas, How are we able, being ſo fewe, to fight againſt ſo great a multitude, & ſo ſtrong, ſeing we be ſo wearie, and haue ſalted all this day?
- 28 Then ſaid Iudas, It is an eaſie thing for many to be ſhut vp in the hands of fewe, and there is no difference before the God of heauen, to deliuer by a great multitude, or by a ſmale companie.
- 29 For the victorie of the battel ſtādeth not in the multitude of ſy hoſte, but the ſtrēgth cometh from heauen.
- 30 They come againſt vs with a cruel and proude multitude, to deſtroy vs, and our wiues, and our children, and to robbe vs.
- 31 But we do fight for our liues, and for our Lawes,
- 32 And God him ſelf wil deſtroie thē before our face: thereforē be not ye afraid of them.
- 33 And whē he had left off ſpeaking, he leſt ſuddenly vpon them: ſo was Seron and his hoſte deſtroied before him.
- 34 And they purſued them from the going downe of Bethhorō vnto the plaine: where there were ſlaine eight hundreth men of them, and the reſidue fled into the land of the Philiftims.
- 35 Then the feare & terrour of Iudas & his brethre fel vpon the naciōs rounde about,
- 36 So that his ſame came vnto the King: for all the Gentiles colde tell of the warres of Iudas.
- 37 ¶ But when King Antiochus heard theſe tidings, he was angrie in his minde: wherefore he ſent forth, & gathered all ſy power of his realme a very ſtrong armie,
- 38 And opened his treaſurie, and gaue his hoſte a yeres wages in hand, commanding thē to be readie for a yere for all occaſiōs.
- 29 Neuertheles, when he ſawe that the money of his treaſures failed, & that the tributes in the countrey were ſmale, becauſe of the diſſencion, & plagues ſy he had broght vpon the land, in taking away the lawes which had bene of olde time,
- 30 He feared leſt he ſhulde not haue now at the ſeconde time, as at the firſt, for the charges & giſtes that he had giuē with a liberal hand afore: for in liberalitie he farre paſſed the other Kings ſy were before him.
- 31 Wherefore he was heauie in his minde, and thought to go into Perſia, for to take tributes of the countreis, and to gather muſche money.
- 32 So he leſt Lyſias a noble man and of the Kings blood to ouerſe the Kings buſines, from the riuer of Euphrates vnto the borders of Egypt,
- 33 And to bring vp his ſonne Antiochus, til he came againe.
- 34 Moreouer, he gaue him halfe of his hoſte and elephants, & gaue him the charge of all things that he wolde haue done,
- 35 And concerning thoſe which dwelt in Iuda and Ieruſalem, that he ſhulde ſend an armie againſt them, to deſtroy and roote out the power of Iſrael & the remnant of Ieruſalem, and to put out their memoria from that place,
- 36 And to ſet ſtrangers for to inhabite all their quarters, & parte their lād amōg thē.
- 37 And the King toke the halfe of the hoſte that remained, & departed from Antiochia his royal citie, in the yere an hūdreth fortie and ſeuē, and paſſed the riuer Euphrates, & went thorow the hie countreis.
- 38 Then Lyſias choſe Ptolemeus the ſonne of Doriminus, & Nicanor, and Gorgias, mightie men, and the Kings friends,
- 39 And ſent with them fortie thouſand ſore men, & ſeuē thouſand horſemen, to go into the land of Iuda, & to deſtroie it, as the King commanded.
- 40 So they wēt forth with all their power and came and pitched by ¶ Emmaus in the plaine countrey.
- 41 Now when the marchants of the countrey heard the rumour of them, they toke very muſche ſiluer & golde, & ſeruants, & came into the cāpe to bye the childre of Iſrael for ſclaues, & the ſtrength of Syria & of ſtrange naciōs ioyned with them.
- 42 ¶ Now when Iudas & his brethren ſawe that trouble increaſed, and that the hoſte drewe nere vnto their borders, cōſidering the Kings wordes, whereby he had commanded to deſtroy the people, and vtterly abolifh them,
- 43 They ſaid one to another, Let vs redreſſe the decay of our people, and let vs fight for our people, and for our Sanctuarie.
- 44 Then the cōgregaciō were ſone readie gathered to fight, and to praye, and to desire mercie and compassion.

45 As for Ierusalem, it was not inhabited, but was as a wildernes. There went none that was borne in it, in or out at it, and the Sanctuarie was troden downe, and the strangers kept the forteresse, and it was the habitacion of the heathen: & the mirth of Iacob was taken away: the pipe and the harpe ceased.

46 So they gathered them selues together, and came to Maspha before Ierusalem: for in Maspha was y place where they praied afore time in Israel.

47 And they fasted that day, and put sackcloth vpon them, and cast ashes vpon their heads, and rent their clothes,

48 And opened the booke of the Law, wherein the heathē foght to paint the likenes of their idoles, 49 And brought the Priests garments, and the first frutes, and the tithes, and set there the Nazarites, which accomplished their daies.

50 And they cryed with a loude voyce, toward heauen, saying, What shal we do with these? and whether shal we carye them away?

51 For thy Sanctuarie is troden downe and defiled, and thy Priests are in heauines, & brought downe.

52 And beholde, the heathē are come against vs to destroie vs: thou knowest what thigs they imagine against vs.

53 How can we stand before them, except thou helpe vs?

54 Then they blew the trumpets, & cryed with a loude voyce.

55 And after this Iudas ordeined captaines ouer the people, euen captaines ouer thousands, and captaines ouer hundreths, and captaines ouer fifties, and captaines ouer ten.

56 And they cōmanded them that buylded houses, or married wiues, or planted vineyardes, or were fearful, that thei shulde returne euerie one to his owne house, according* to the Law.

57 So the hoste remoued, and pitched vpon the Southside of Emmaus.

58 And Iudas said, Arme your selues, and be valiant men, & be readie against the morning to fight with these naciōs, which are gathered together against vs, to destroie vs and our Sanctuarie.

59 For it is better for vs to dye in battel, then to se the calamities of our people & of our Sanctuarie.

1 THen toke Gorgias siue thousand foe Joseph lib. 12. chap. 12. men, and a thousand of the best horsemen, and departed out of the campe by night,

2 To inuade the campe of the Iewes, and to slaye thē suddenly: and the men of the forteresse were his guides.

3 Now when Iudas heard it, he remoued, & they that were valiant men to smite the Kings armie which was at Emmaus, 4 Whiles yet the armie was dispersed fro the campe.

5 In the meane season came Gorgias by night into Iudas campe: & when he founde no man there, he foght thē in the mountaines: for said he, They flee from vs.

6 But assone as it was day, Iudas shewed him self in the field with thre thousand mē, which had nether harnes nor swordes to their mindes.

7 And thei sawe that the armies of the heathen were strong, and wel armed, and their horsemen about them, and that these were experte men of warre.

8 Then said Iudas to the mē that were with him, Feare ye not their multitude, nether be afraied of their assalt.

9 Remember, how our fathers were deliuered* in the red Sea, when Pharao pursued them with an armie. Exod. 14. 9.

10 Therefore now let vs crye vnto heauen, and the Lord wil haue mercie vpon vs, & remember the couenant of our fathers, & wil destroie this hoste before our face this day:

11 So shal all the heathen knowe, that there is one, which deliuereth and saueth Israel.

12 Then the strangers list vp their eyes, & sawe them coming against them, 13 And they went out of their rétes into the battel, and they that were with Iudas, blew the trumpets.

14 So they ioyned together, and the heathē were discomfited and fled by the plaine.

15 But the hinmoste of thē fel by the sword, and they pursued them vnto Gazerō, and into the plaines of Idumea, and of Azotus, and of Iamnia, so that there were slaine of them about thre thousand men. 10r. Affirmatiō

16 So Iudas turned againe with his hoste fro pursuing them,

17 And said vnto the people, Be not griedie of the spoiles: for there is a battel before vs.

18 And Gorgias and the armie is here by vs in the mountaine: but stand ye now fast against your enemies, and ouercome them: then may ye safely take the spoiles.

19 As Iudas was speaking these wordes, there appeared one parte which looked from the the mountaines.

- 20 But when Gorgias sawe that his were fled, and that Iudas soldiers burnt the tentes: (for the smoke that was sene, declared what was done.)
- 21 When they sawe these things, they were fore afraied, and when they sawe also that Iudas and his hoste were in the field readie to set them selues in array,
- 22 They fled euerie one into the land of strangers.
- 23 So Iudas turned againe to spoile the tentes, where he gate muche golde and siluer, and precious stones, and purple of the sea, and great riches.
- 24 Thus they went home, and sang psalmes, and praised towarde the heauen: for he is gracious, and his mercie endureth for euer.
- 25 And so Israel had a great victorie in that day.
- 26 ¶ Now all the strangers that escaped, came, & tolde Lysias all the things that were done.
- 27 Who when he heard these things, was fore afraied, and discouraged, because suche things came not vpon Israel as he wolde, nether suche things as the King had commanded him, came to passe.
- 28 Therefore the next yere following, gathered Lysias thre score thousande chosen forte men, and fise thousande horsemen to fight against Ierusalem.
- 29 So they came into Idumea, and pitched their tentes at Beth-sura, where Iudas came against them with ten thousand men.
- 30 And whē he sawe that mightie armie, he praied and said, Blessed be thou, o Sauour of Israel,* which didest destroie the assalte of y^e mightie man by the hād of thy seruāt Dauid,* & gauest the hoste of the strāgers into the hād of Ionathan, y^e sonne of Saul, and of his armour bearer:
- 31 Shut vp this armie in y^e hand of thy people of Israel, & let thē be confounded with their power, and with their horsemen.
- 32 Make them afraied, and consume their boldenes & strength, that thei may be astonished at their destruction.
- 33 Cast them downe by the sworde of them that loue thee: thē shal all thei that knowe thy Name, praise thee with songs.
- 34 So they ioynd together, and there were slaine of Lysias hoste, fise thousand men, and they fell before them.
- 35 Thē Lysias, seing his armie put to flight and the manlines of Iudas soldiers, and that they were readie, either to liue or dye valiantly, he went into Antiochia, and gathered strangers, and when he had furnished his armie, he thought againe (being prepared) to come against Iudea.
- 36 Then said Iudas & his brethré, Beholde,

- our enemies are discomfited: let vs now go vp to cleanse, and to reaire the Sanctuarie.
- 37 So all the hoste gathered them together, and went vp into the mountaine of Sion.
- 38 Now whē they sawe the Sanctuarie layed waste, and the altar defiled, and the dores burnt vp, and the shrubbes growing in the courtes, as in a forrest, or as on one of the mountaines, and that the Priests chambers were broken downe,
- 39 They rent their clothes, and made great lamentation, and cast ashes vpon their heads,
- 40 And fel downe to the grounde on their faces, and blewe an alarme with the trumpets, and cryed towarde heauen.
- 41 Then Iudas commanded certeine of the men to fight against those which were in y^e castel, til he had clenfed the Sanctuarie.
- 42 So he chose Priests that were vndefiled, suche as delited in the Law,
- 43 And they clenfed the Sāctuarie, and bare out the defiled stones into an vnclane place,
- 44 And consulted what to do with the altar of burnt offrings, which was polluted.
- 45 So they thoght it was best to destroie it, lest it shulde be a reproche vnto them, because the heathen had defiled it: therefore they destroyed the altar,
- 46 And layed vp the stones vpon the mountaine of the Temple in a conuenient place, til there shulde come a Prophet, to shewe what shulde be done with them.
- 47 So they toke whole stones according to the Law, and buylded a new altar according to the former,
- 48 And made vp the Sanctuarie, and the things that were within the Temple, and the courtes, and all things.
- 49 They made also new holie vessels, and broght into the Temple the candelsticke, and the altar of burnt offrings, and of incense and the table.
- 50 And they burnt incense vpō the altar, & lighted the lampes which were vpon the candelsticke, that they might burne in the Temple.
- 51 Thei set also the shewbread vpon the table, and hanged vp the vailes, and finished all the workes that they had begon to make.
- 52 And vpon the fise and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, which is called the moneth of Chassu, in the hundreth and eight and fortieth yere they rose vp betimes in the morning,
- 53 And offred sacrifice according to the Law, vpō the new altar of burnt offrings, that they had made.
- 54 According to the time, and according to the day, that the heathen had defiled it, in - the same day was it made new with songs, and harpes, and lutes, and cymbales.

- 55 And all the people fel vpon their faces, worshipping & praising towarde the heauen him that had giuen the good successe.
- 56 So they kept the dedication of the altar eight daies, offering burnt offerings with gladnes, & offered sacrifices of deliuerance and praise,
- 57 And decete the forefronte of the Temple with crownes of golde and shields, & dedicated the gates and chambers, & hanged dores vpon them.
- 58 Thus there was very great gladnes among the people, and the reproche of the heathen was put away.
- 59 So Iudas and his brethren with the whole cōgregation of Israel ordeined that the daies of dedicacion of the altar shulde be kept in their season from yere to yere, by the space of eight daies, from the fiue and twentie day of the moneth Chasleu, with mirth and gladnes.
- 60 And at the same time buylded they vp mount Sion with hie walles and strong towers rounde about, lest the Gentiles shulde come, and treade it downe, as they had done afore.
- 61 Therefore they set a garison there to kepe it, & fortified Beth-sura to kepe it, that the people might haue a defense against Idumea.

CHAP. V.

Judas vanquished the heathen that go about to destroye Israel, & is holpen of his brethren Simon and Jonathan so he ouerthroweth the citie of Ephron, because they denyed him passage thorowe it.

- 1 Now when the nations rounde about heard, that the altar was buylded, & the Sanctuarie renued, as afore, they were foregriued.
- 2 Therefore they thought to destroye the generation of Iacob that was among them, and begane to slaye and destroye the people.
- 3 Then Iudas fought against the children of Esau in Idumea at Arrabathene, because they besieged the Israelites, and he smote them with a great plague, and droue them to straites, and toke their spoiles.
- 4 He thought also vpon the malice of the children of Ben, which had bene a snare and a hinderance vnto the people, when they laye in waite for them in the hie way.
- 5 Wherefore he shut them vp in towers, and besieged them, and destroyed them vnterly, and burnt their towers with fyre, with all that were in them.
- 6 Afterward, went he against the children of Ammon, where he founde a mightie power, and a great multitude with Timotheus their captaine.
- 7 So he had manie battels with them, but they were destroyed before him, and so he discomfited them,
- 8 And toke Gazer with the townes thereof, and so turned againe into Iudea.
- 9 ¶ Then the heathen that were in Galaad, gathered them together against the Israelites that were in their quarters, to slay them: but they fled to the castel of Dathe-man,
- 10 And sent letters to Iudas, and to his brethren, saying, The heathen that are about vs, are gathered against vs, to destroye vs,
- 11 And they make them readie for to come, and to take the forteresse, whereunto we are fled, and Timotheus is captaine of their hoste.
- 12 Come now therefore, and deliuer vs out of their hands: for manie of vs are slaine:
- 13 And all our brethre that were at Tubin, are slaine, and they haue taken away their wiues, and their children, and their goods, and destroyed there almoste a thousand men.
- 14 While these letters were yet a reading, beholde, there came other messengers fro Galile with their clothes red, which tolde the same tidings,
- 15 And said, that they of Ptolemais, and of Tyrus, and of Sidon, and of all Galile of the Gentiles were gathered against them to destroye them.
- 16 When Iudas, and the people heard these wordes, a great Congregation came together, to cōsulte what they might do for their brethre, that were in trouble, & whome they besieged.
- 17 Then said Iudas to Simon his brother, Chuse thee out men, and go & deliuer thy brethren in Galile, and I and my brother Jonathan, wil go into the countrey of Galaad.
- 18 ¶ So he left Iosephus the sonne of Zacharias, and Azarias to be captaines of the people, and to kepe the remnant of the holte in Iudea,
- 19 And commanded them, saying, Take the ouersight of this people, and make no warre against the heathen, vntil we come againe.
- 20 And vnto Simon were giuen thre thousand men to go into Galile, and to Iudas eight thousand men for the countrey of Galaad.
- 21 Then went Simon into Galile, and gaue diuers battels to the heathen, and the heathen were discomfited by him.
- 22 And he pursued them vnto the gates of Ptolemais: & there were slaine of the heathen almoste thre thousand men: so he toke their spoiles.
- 23 Thus they rescued them that were in Galile hile and in Arbattis with their wiues, and their children, and all that they had, and brought them into Iudea with great ioye.

24 ¶ Iudas Maccabeus also, and his brother Ionathan went ouer Iorden, and trauailed thre dayes iourney in the wildernes,

25 Where they met with the Nabathites, who receiued them louingly, & tolde the euerie thing that was done vnto their brethren in the countrey of Galaad,

26 And how that manie of them were besieged in Bosorra, & Bosor, in Atemis, Chafbon, Maged and Carnaim (all these cities are strong, and great)

27 And that they were kept in other cities of Galaad, and to morrow they are appointed to bring their hoste vnto these fortes, and to take them, and to destroye them all in one day.

28 So Iudas & his hoste turned in all haste by the way of the wildernes towarde Bosorra, and wan the citie, and slewe all the males with the edge of the sworde, and toke all their spoile, and set fyre vpon the citie.

29 And in the night he remoued from thence, and went towarde the forteresse.

30 And betimes in the morning when they looked vpon, beholde, there was an innumerable people bearing ladders, and instruments of warre, to take the forte, and had assailed them.

31 When Iudas sawe that the battel was begon, and that the crye of the citie went vpon to heauen with trumpets, and a great sounde, 32 Then he said vnto the armie, Fight this day for your brethren.

33 So he wēt forth behinde them with thre companies, and they blew the trumpets, & cryed with prayer.

34 Then the hoste of Timotheus knewe, that it was Maccabeus, and they fled from him, & he smote them with a great slaughter, so that there was killed of them the same day, almoste eight thousand men.

35 ¶ Then departed Iudas vnto Maspha, & laid siege vnto it, and wanne it, and slewe all the males thereof, and spoiled it, and set fyre vpon it.

36 From thence went he and toke Chafbō, Maged, and Bosor, and the other cities in Galaad.

37 After these things gathered Timotheus another hoste, and he camped before Raphon beyonde the flood.

38 Now Iudas had sent to espie the hoste, & they brought him worde againe, saying, All the heathen that be rounde about vs, are gathered vnto him, and the hoste is verie great,

39 And he hath hyred the Arabians to helpe them, and they haue pitched their tentes beyonde the flood, & are readie to come and fight against thee. So Iudas went to meete them.

40 Then Timotheus said vnto the captaynes of his hoste, When Iudas and his hoste come nere the flood, if he passe ouer first vnto vs, we shal not be able to withstand him: for he wil be to strong for vs.

41 But if he be afraid, and campe beyonde the flood, we wil go ouer vnto him, and shal preuaile against him.

42 Now whē Iudas came nere to the flood, he caused the gouernours of the people to remaine by the flood, and commāded the, saying, Suffer none to pitche a tent, but let euerie man come to the battel.

43 So he went first ouer towarde them, and all people after him: and all the heathen were discomfited before him, & cast away their weapons, and fled into the temple that was at Carnaim.

44 Which citie Iudas wanne, and burnt the temple with all that were in it: so was Carnaim subdued, and might not withstand Iudas.

45 ¶ Then Iudas gathered all the Israelites that were in the countrey of Galaad, from the least vnto the most, with their wiues and their children, and their baggage, a verie great hoste, to come into the land of Iuda.

46 So they came vnto Ephron, which was a great citie by the way, and strongly defended: they colde not passe, nether at the right hand nor at the left, but must go thorowe it.

47 But they that were in the citie, shut the selues in, and stopped vpon the gates with stones: and Iudas sent vnto them with peaceable wordes, saying,

48 Let vs passe thorowe your land, that we may go into our owne countrey, and none shal hurt you: we wil but onely go thorowe on fote: but they wolde not open vnto him.

49 Wherefore Iudas commanded a proclamation to be made thorowe out the hoste, that euerie man shulde assault it according to his standing.

50 So the valiant men set vpon it, and assailed the citie all that day, and all that night, and the citie was giuen ouer into his hands:

51 Who slewe all the males with the edge of the sworde, and destroyed it, and toke the spoile thereof, and went thorowe the citie ouer them that were slaine.

52 Then went they ouer Iorden into the great plaine before Bethsan.

53 And Iudas gathered together those that were behinde, and gaue the people good exhortation all the way thorowe, til they were come into the land of Iuda.

54 Thus they went vpon with ioye, and glad-nes vnto mount Sion, where they offered burnt offrings, because there were none of them slaine, but came home againe in safetie.

55 ¶ Now whiles Iudas and Jonathan were in the land of Galaad, and Simon their brother in Galile before Ptolemais, 56 Ioseph the sonne of Zacharias, and Azarias the captaines, hearing of the valiant actes, and battels which they had achieved, said, 57 Let vs get vs a name also, and go fight against the heathen that are round about vs.

58 So they gaue their hoste a commandement and went towarde Iamnia.

59 But Gorgias and his men came out of the citie to fight against them.

60 And Ioseph and Azarias were put to flight and pursued vnto the borders of Iudea: and there were slaine that day of the people of Israel about two thousand men: so y there was a great ouerthrowe among the people of Israel, 61 Because they were not obedient vnto Iudas, and his brethre, but thought to do some valiant thing.

62 Also they came not of the stocke of these men, by whose hands deliuerace was giuen to Israel.

63 But the man Iudas, and his brethren were greatly commended in the fight of all Israel, and of all the heathen, wheresoeuer their name was heard of.

64 And the people came vnto them, bidding them welcome.

66 Then remoued he to go into the land of the strangers, and went thorow Samaria.

67 At the same time were the Priests of the cities slaine in y battel, which wolde shewe their valiantnes, and went forthe to battel without counsel: and when Iudas came to Azotus in the strangers lād, he brake downe their altars, and burnt with fyre the images of their gods, and toke away the spoiles of the cities, and came againe into the land of Iuda.

CHAP. VI.

2 Antiochus, willing to take the citie of Elimaïs, is driuen away of the citizens. 3 He falleth into sickness, and dyeth. 17 His sonne Antiochus is made King. 34 The manner to prouoke elephanes to fyght. 43 Cleazarus valiant acte. 49 The siege of Sion.

Ioseph Antiq. 12. chap. 13.

NOW when King Antiochus trauailed thorow the high countreys, he heard that Elimaïs in the countrey of Persia was a citie greatly renoumed for riches, siluer and golde,

2 And that there was in it a verie riche temple, where as were couerings of golde, cote armoures, and harnes, which Alexandre King of Macedonia the sonne of Philippe (y reigned first in Grecia) had left there.

3 Wherefore he went about to take the citie, and to spoile it, but he was not able: for y citizens were warned of the matter,

4 And rose vp against him in battel, & he fled and departed thence with great heauines, and came againe into Babylon.

5 Moreover, there came one which broght him tidings in the coutrey of Persia, that the armies that went against the land of Iuda, were driuen away,

6 And that Lysias, which went forthe first with a great power, was driuen away of the Iewes, and that they were made strong by the armour, and power, and diuers spoiles which they had gotten of the armies whome they had destroyed,

7 And that they had pulled downe the abominacion, which he had set vp vpon the altar at Ierusalem, and fenced the Sactuarie with high walles, as it was afore, and Beth-sura his citie.

8 So when the King had heard these wordes, he was astonished, and fore moued: therefore he laid him downe vpon his bed, & fel sicke for verie sorowe, because it was not come to passe, as he had thought.

9 And there continued he manie dayes: for his grief was euer more & more, so that he sawe he must nedes dye.

10 Therefore he sent for all his friends, & said vnto them, The slepe is gone from mine eyes, and mine heart faileth for verie care.

11 And I thinke with my self, Into what aduersitie am I come? & into what floods of miserie am I fallen now, where as aforetime I was in prosperitie, and greatly fet by, by reason of my power?

12 And now do I remember the euils that I haue done at Ierusalem: for I toke all the vessels of golde & of siluer that were in it, and sent to destroye the inhabitants of Iuda without cause.

13 I knowe that these troubles are come vpon me for the same cause, and beholde, I must dye with great sorowe in a strange land.

14 Then called he for Philippe, one of his friends, whome he made ruler of all his realme, 15 And gaue him the crowne, and his robe, and the ring, that he shulde instruct his sonne Antiochus, and bring him vp, til he might reigne him self.

16 So King Antiochus dyed there in the hundreth, and fortie and ninth yere.

17 ¶ When Lysias knewe, that the King was

- was dead, he ordeined Antiochus his sonne (whome he had broght vp) to reigne in his fathers stead, and called him Eupator.
- 18 Now they that were in the castle at Ierusalem, kept in the Israelites rounde about the Sanctuarie, and fought alwaies their hurt, and the strengthening of $\text{\textcircled{y}}$ heathen.
- 19 Therefore Iudas thoght to destroy thē, & called all the people together to besiege them.
- 20 So they came together, and besieged thē in the hundreth and fiftie yere, and made instruments to shoote and other engins of warre.
- 21 But certeine of them that were besieged, gate forthe, (vnto whome some vngodlie men of Israel ioyned them selues.)
- 22 And they went vnto the King, saying, How long wilt thou cease from executing iudgement, and aduenge our brethren?
- 23 We haue bene readie to serue thy father, & to go forwarde in those things, that he appointed, & to obey his commandemēt.
- 24 Therefore they of ournacions fel from vs for this cause, and wheresoever they founde anie of vs, they slewe them, and spoyled our inheritance.
- 25 And they haue not onely laied hand vpon vs, but vpon all about their borders.
- 26 And beholde, this day are they besieging the castle at Ierusalem to take it, and haue fortified the Sanctuarie, and Beth-sura.
- 27 And if thou doest not preuent thē quickly, they wil do greater things then these, and thou shalt not be able to ouercome them.
- 28 When the King heard this, he was verie angrie, and called all his friends, the captaines of his armie, and his horsemen,
- 29 And bandes that were hired, came vnto him frō the Kings, that were confederate, and from the yles of the sea.
- 30 So the number of his armie was an hundreth thousand fote men, & twentie thousand horsemen, and two and thirtie elephants exercised in battel.
- 31 These came through Idumea and drewe nere to Beth-sura, and besieged it a long season, and made engins of warre: but they came out, and burnt them with fyre, and fought valiantly.
- 32 Then departed Iudas from the castle, & remoued the hoste towardē Beth-zacarias ouer against the Kings campe.
- 33 So the King arose verie earely, & broghe the armie and his power towardē the way of Beth-zacarias, where the armies set thē selues in array to the battel, and blewē the trumpets.
- 34 And to prouoke the elephants for to fight, they shewed thē the blood of grapes and mulberries,
- 35 And they set the beafts according to the ranges: so that by euerie elephant there stode a thousand men armed with coates of maile and helmets of brasse vpō their heads, and vnto euerie beaft were ordeined siue hundreth horsemen of the best,
- 36 Which were readie at all times wheresoever the beaft was: and wheresoever the beaft went, they went also, and departed not from him.
- 37 And vpon them were strong towres of wood that couered euerie beaft, which were fastened thereon with instruments, & vpon euerie one was two and thirtie men, that fought in them, and the Indian that ruled him.
- 38 They sit also the remnant of the horsemen vpon bothe the sides in two wings of the hoste to stirre them vp, and to kepe them in the valleis.
- 39 And when the sunne shone vpon the golden shields, the mountaines glistered therewith, and gaue light as lāpes of fyre.
- 40 Thus parte of the Kings armie was spred vpon the hie mountaines, and parte beneth: so they marched forwardē warely and in order.
- 41 And all they that heard the noyce of their multitude, and the marching of the companie, and the ratteling of the harnes, were astonished: for the armie was verie great and mightie.
- 42 Then Iudas and his hoste entred into the battel, & they slewe six hundreth men of the Kings armie.
- 43 ¶ Now when Eleazar, the sonne of Abaron, sawe one of the elephātes armed with royal harnes, and was more excellent then all $\text{\textcircled{y}}$ other beafts, he thoght that the King shulde be vpon him.
- 44 Wherefore he ieoparded him self to deliuer his people, and to get him a perpetual name,
- 45 And ranne boldely vnto him through the middes of the hoste, slaying on the right hand, and on the left, so that they departed away on bothe sides.
- 46 So went he to the elephants fete, and gate him vnder him, and slewe him: then fel the elephant downe vpon him, & there he dyed.
- 47 But the other, seing the power of $\text{\textcircled{y}}$ King and the fiercenes of his armie, departed from them.
- 48 ¶ And the Kings armie went vp to mete them towardē Ierusalem, and the King pitched his tents in Iudea towardē mount Sion.
- 49 Moreouer, the King toke truce with thē that were in Beth-sura: but when they came out of the citie, because they had no vitailles there, and were shut vp therein, & the land had rested,
- 50 The King toke Beth-sura, and set there

- 2 garison to kepe it,
 51 And besieged the Sanctuarie many dayes, & made instruments to shoote, & other engins of warre, and instruments to cast fyre and stones, and pieces to cast dartes and slings.
- 107, the Jewes.* 52 Thei also made engins against their engins, and foght a long season.
- 53 But in the garners there were no vitailles: for it was the seuenth yere, and then they that were in Iudea, & were deliuered from the Gentiles, had eaten vp the residue of the store,
- 54 So that in the Sanctuarie were fewe men left: for the famine came so vpon thē, that they were scattered euerie mā to his owne place.
- 55 ¶ Now when Lysias heard that Philippe (whome Antiochus the King, whiles he liued, had ordeined to bring vp Antiochus his sonne, that he might be King)
- 56 Was come againe out of Persia, & Media, and the Kings hoste with him, and thoght to take vnto him the rule of thigs,
- 57 He and his halted, and were stirred forward by them in the castel to go and tell the King, and the captaines of the hoste, and to others, saying, We decrease dayly, & our vitailles are but smale: and the place that we laye siege vnto, is strong, and the affaires of the realme depende vpon vs.
- 108, gine bands.* 58 Now therefore let vs agre with these men, & take truce with them, and with all their nacion,
- 59 And grāte them to liue after their Law, as they did afore: for they be griued, and do all these things, because we haue broken their Lawes.
- 60 So the King and the princes were content, and sent vnto them to make peacc, & they receiued it.
- 61 When the King & the princes had made an othe vnto them, they came vpō this out of the fortresse.
- 62 And the King went vp to mount Sion: but when he sawe that the place was wel defended, he brake his othe that he had made, and commanded to breake downe the wall rounde about.
- 63 Then departed he in all haste, and returned vnto Antiochia where he founde Philippe hauing dominion of the citie: so he foght against him, and toke the citie by force.
- fewe men vnto a citie of the sea coast, and reigned there.
- 3 And when he came into the possession of his fathers kīgdome, his soldiers toke Antiochus and Lysias, and broght them vnto him.
- 4 But when it was tolde him, he said, Shewe me not their faces.
- 5 So thei put thē to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the throne of his kingdome,
- 6 There came vnto him all the wicked and vngodlie men of Israel, whose captaine was Alcimus, that wolde haue bene the hie Priest.
- 7 These men accused the people vnto the King, saying, Iudas and his brethren haue slayne all thy friends, and driuen vs out of our owne land.
- 8 Wherefore send now some man, whome thou trustest, that he maye go and se all the destruction, which he hathe done vnto vs, and to the Kings land, and let him punish them with all their partakers.
- 9 Then the King chose Bacchides a friēd of his, which was a great man in the realme, and ruled beyonde the flood, and was faithfull vnto the King, and sent him,
- 10 And that wicked Alcimus, whome he made hie Priest, and commanded him to be aduenged of the children of Israel.
- 11 So they departed, and came with a great hoste into the land of Iuda, and sent messengers to Iudas and his brethren, deceitfully with peaceable wordes.
- 12 But they beleued not their saying: for thei sawe that they were come with a great hoste.
- 13 Then a companie of the gouernours assembled vnto Alcimus and Bacchides to intreat of reasonable points.
- 14 And the "Asideans were the first that required peace among the children of Israel." 109, Asidians.
- 15 For said they, He that is a Priest of the sede of Aarō, is come with this armie: therefore he wil not hurt vs.
- 16 Then he spake vnto them peaceably, and swore vnto them, and said, We wil do you no harme, nether your friends:
- 17 And they beleued him: but he toke of thē thre score men, and slewe them in one day according to the wordes that were written.
- 18 *Thei haue cast y bodies of thy Saintes, and their blood rounde about Ierusalem, and there was no man that wolde burye them. 110, 79, 8.
- 19 So there came a feare and trembling among all the people: for they said, There is nether trueth nor righteousnes in them: for they haue broken the appointment & othe that they made.
- 20 Thē Bacchides remoued frō Ierusalem, and & pitched his tente at Beth-zecha, where he sent forthe & toke manie of the mē that had forsaken him, & certeine of the people whome he slewe & cast into the great pit.

 20 Then committed he the countrey vnto Alcimus, & left men of warre with him to helpe him: so Bacchides wēt vnto y King.
 21 Thus Alcimus stroue for y priesthode.
 22 And all suche as troubled the people resorted vnto him: in somuche, that they obtained the land of Iuda, and did muche hurt in Israel.
 23 Now when Iudas sawe all the mischief, that Alcimus and his companie had done amōg the Israelites more then the heathē, 24 He went forthe rounde about all the borders of Iudea, and punished those, that were fallen away, so that they came no more abroade in the countrey.
 25 But when Alcimus sawe that Iudas & his people had gotten the vpper hād, & knewe that he was not able to abide them, he went againe to the King, and accused thē of wicked things.
 26 Then the King sent Nicanor one of his chief princes, which hated Israel deadly, & commanded him, that he shulde destroye the people.
 27 ¶ So Nicanor came to Ierusalem with a great hoste, and sent vnto Iudas, and his brethren deceitfully with friendiie wordes, saying, 28 Let there be no warre betwene me, and you: I wil come with fewe men, to se how ye do, friendly.
 29 So he came vnto Iudas, and they saluted one another peaceably: but the enemies were prepared to take away Iudas.
 30 Neuertheles, it was tolde Iudas, that he came vnto him vnder disceit: therefore he feared him, and wolde not se his face no more.
 31 When Nicanor perceiued that his counsel was bcwrayed, he went out to fight agānst Iudas, beside Carphasalama.
 32 Where there were flaine of Nicanors hoste about fīue thousand men: so they fled vnto the citie of Dauid.
 33 After this came Nicanor vp vnto moūt Sion, and some of the Priests with the Elders of the people went forthe of the Sanctuarie to salute him peaceably, & to shew him the burnt offering that was offered for the King.
 34 But he laughed at them, and mocked thē and counted them prophane, and spake proudly.
 35 And swore in his wrath, saying, If Iudas and his hoste be not deliuered now into mine hands, if euer I come againe in safetie, I wil burne vp this house. With that, went he out in a great anger.
 36 Then the Priests came in, and stode before the altar in the Temple, weping, and saying, 37 For so muche as thou, o Lord, hast chosen this House, that thy Name might be called vpon therein, and that it shulde be an house of prayer, and petition for thy people, 38 Be aduenged of this man and his hoste, and let them be flaine by the sworde: remember their blasphemies, & suffre them not to continue.

 39 ¶ When Nicanor was gone from Ierusalem, he pitched his tent at Beth-horon, & there an hoste met him out of Syria.
 40 And Iudas pitched in Adasa with three thousand mē where Iudas prayed, saying, 41 O Lord, * because the messengers of King Sēnacherib blasphemed thee, thine Angel went forthe, and slewe an hundreth, foure score, and fīue thousand of them.
 42 So destroye thou this hoste before vs to day, that all other may knowe that he hath spokē wickedly agānst thy Sāctuarie, & punish him according to his malice.
 43 So the armies ioynd together in battel, the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar: but Nicanors hoste was discomfited, and he him self was first flaine in the battel.
 44 Now when his armie sawe that Nicanor was flaine, they cast away their weapons and fled.
 45 But they pursued after thē a dayes iourney from Adasa vnto Gasera, blowing an alarme with the trumpets after them.
 46 So they came forthe of all the townes of Iudea rounde about, and rushed vpon them, and threwe them from one to another, so that they all fel by the sworde, & there was not one of them lefte.
 47 Then they toke the spoyles, and the pray and smote of Nicanors head, and his right hand, which he helde vp so proudly, and brought it with them, and hanged them vp afore Ierusalem.
 48 So the people reioyced greatly, and kept that day as a day of great gladnes.
 49 And they ordeined, to kepe ycrely that day on the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar.
 50 Thus the land of Iuda was in rest a litle while.

the Galatiās whome they had conquered, and made to paye tribute,

3 And what they had done in the countrey of Spaine: how that they had wonne there the mines of siluer and golde,

4 And that by their counsel, and gentle behaviour they were rulers in euerie place, thogh the place was farre from them, and that they had discomfited, and giuen great ouerthrowes to y^e Kings that came against them, from the vitermost parte of y^e earth, and that others gaue them tribute euerie yere,

^{Or, Cities.}

5 How they had also discomfited by battel Philippe and Peres Kings of the Macedonias, and others, that rose against the, and how they ouercame them,

6 And how great Antiochus King of Asia that came against the in battel, hauing an hundreth and twentie elephants, with horsemen, & charrets, and a verie great armie, was discomfited by them,

7 And how they toke him aliue, and ordeined him, with suche as shulde reigne after him, to paye a great tribute, & to giue hostages, and a separat portion,

8 Euen the countrey of India, and Media, and Lydia, and of his best countreys, which they toke of him and gaue them to King Eumenes.

9 Againe when it was tolde them that the Greciās were comming to destroye them,

10 They sent against the a captaine, which gaue them battel, & slewe manie of the, & toke manie prifoners with their wiuies, and children, and spoyled them, and conquered their land, and destroyed their strong holdes, and subdued them to be their bōdmen, vnto this day:

11 Moreouer, how they destroyed, & broght into subiection other kingdomes & yles, whosoever had withstand them:

12 But that thei kept amitie with their owne friends, and those that stayerd vpon them: finally, that conquered kingdomes, bothe farre and nere, in so muche that whosoever heard of their renoume, was afrayed of them.

13 For whome they wolde helpe to their kingdomes, those reigned, and whome they wolde, they put downe: thus were thei in moste high autoritie.

14 Yet for all this that none of them ware a crowne, nether was clothed in purple, to be magnified thereby,

15 But that thei had ordeined them selues a counsel, wherein thre hundreth and twētie men consulted daielely, and prouided for the commune affaires, to gouerne them wel,

16 And that they committed their gouernement to one man euerie yere, who did rule ouer all their countrey, to whome euerie man was obedient: and there was nether hatred nor enuie among them.

17 ¶ Then Iudas chose Eupolemus the sonne of Iohn, the sonne of Accus, and Iafon, the sonne of Eleazar, and sent them vnto Rome to make friēdship, & mutual fellowship with them,

18 That they might take from them the yoke (for they sawe that the kingdome of the Grecians wolde kepe Israel in bondage)

19 So they went vnto Rome, which was a verie great iourney, and came into the Senat where they spake and said, 22 And this is the copie of the epistle that they wrote in tables of brasse and sent to Ierusalem, that they might haue by them a memorial of the peace, and mutual fellowship.

26 Also they shal giue nothing to the that come to fight for the, nor serue them with wheat nor weapōs, nor monei, nor shippes as it pleaseth the Romaines, but they shal kepe their couenantes without taking anie thing of them.

CHAP. IX.

After the death of Nicanor Demetrius sendeth his armie against Iudas. 18 Iudas is slaine. 31 Ionathan is put in the head of his brother. 47 The battel betweene Ionathan, and Bacchides. 55 Alcimus is smitten with the palse, and dyeth. 63 He cometh vpon Ionathan by the counsell of certeine wicked persones, and is overcome. 70 The truce of Ionathā with Bacchides.

Ioseph. Anti. 12. chap. 18.

Or, the right borne.

Or, Laifa.

1 I had heard how Nicanor, and his hoste had giuen the battel, he sent Bacchides, and Alcimus againe into Iudea, and his chief strength with them.

2 So they went forthe by the way that is towarde Galgala, and pitched their tentes before Mesaloth which is in Arbelis, and wanne it and slewe muche people.

3 And in the first moneth of the hundreth, fiftie and two yere, they layed their siege against Ierusalem.

4 But they raised their campe, and came to Berea, with twentie thousand foote men & two thousand horsemen.

5 Now Iudas had pitched his tent at Eleafa, & thre thousand chosen men with him.

6 And when they sawe, that the multitude of the armie was great, they were sore afraid, and manie conueied them selues out of the hoste, so that there abode no mo of them, but eight hundreth men.

7 When Iudas sawe that his hoste failed him, and that he must nedes fight, he was sore troubled in minde that he had no time to gather them together, and was discouraged.

Neuertheles, he said vnto them that remained, Let vs rise, and go vp against our enemies, if peradventure we may be able to fight with them.

8 But they wolde haue staied him, saying, We are not able: but let vs rather saue our liues: turne backe now, seing our brethren are departed: for shal we fight against the, that are so fewe?

9 Then Iudas said, God forbid, that we shulde do this thing, to fle from them: if our time be come, let vs dye manfully for our brethren, and let vs not staine our honour.

10 Then the hoste remoued out of the tentes, and stode against them, who had deuided their horsemen into two troupes, and they that threwe with slings, and the archers marched in the forewarde, and they that fought in the forewarde, were all valiant men.

11 And Bacchides was in the right wing. So the armie drewe nere on bothe sides, & blew the trumpets.

12 They of Iudas side blew the trumpets also, & the earth shoke at the noyce of the armies, and the battel continued from morning to night.

14 And when Iudas sawe that Bacchides and the strength of his armie was on the right side, he toke with him all the hardie men, 15 And brake the right wing, and followed vp on them vnto mount Azotus.

16 Now when they which were of the left wing, sawe that the right wing was discomfited, they followed Iudas behinde, and the that were with him hard at the heles.

17 Then was there a fore battel: for many were slaine of bothe the parties.

18 Iudas also him self was killed, and the remnant fled.

19 So Ionathan and Simon toke Iudas their brother, and buryed him in his fathers sepulchre in the citie of Modin.

20 And all the Israelites wept for him, and mourned greatly for him, and lameted many daies, saying, 21 How is the valiant man fallen which deliuered Israel!

22 Concerning the other things of Iudas, bothe the battels and the valiant actes that he did, & of his worthines, they are not writen: for they were very many.

23 ¶ Now after the death of Iudas, wicked men came vp in all the coastes of Israel, & there arose all suche as gaue them selues to iniquitie.

24 In those daies was there a very great famine in the land, and all the countrey gaue ouer them selues with them.

25 And Bacchides did chuse wicked men, and made them lords in the land.

26 These foght out, and made searche for Iudas friends, and broght them vnto Bacchides, which aduéged him self vpon the, and mocked them.

27 And there came so great trouble in Israel, as was not since the time that no Prophet was sene among them.

28 Then came all Iudas friends together, & said vnto Ionathan,

29 Seing thy brother Iudas is dead, & there is none like him to go forthe against our enemies, euen against Bacchides, and against the of our nacion that are enemies vnto vs, 30 Therefore, this day we chuse thee that thou maist be our prince and captaine in his place to order our battel.

31 So Ionathan toke the gouernance vpon him at the same time, and ruled in stead of his brother Iudas.

32 But when Bacchides knewe it, he foght for to slay him.

33 Then Ionathan and Simon his brother, perceiuing that, fled into the wildernes of Thecua with all their companie, and pitched their tentes by the water poole of Asphar.

Ioseph Anti. 13. cha. 1. & 8

Or, against the enemies of our nacion.

- 34 Which when Bacchides vnderstode, he came ouer Iorden with all his hoste vpon the Sabbath day.
- 35 (Now had Ionathan sent his brother John, a captaine of the people, to pray his friends the Nabathites, that they wolde kepe their baggage which was muche.
- ^{Or, Lambri.} 36 But the children of Ambri came out of Medaba, & toke John, and all that he had, & when they had taken it, went their way.
- 37 After this came worde vnto Ionathan, and to Simon his brother, that the children of Ambri made a great marriage, & broght the bride from Medaba with great pompe: for she was daughter to one of the noblest princes of Canaan.
- 38 Therefore they remembred John their brother, and went vp, and hid them selues vnder the couert of the mountaine.
- 39 So they list vp their eyes, and loked, and beholde, there was a great noyce, & muche preparation: then the bridegrome came forthe, and his friends and his brethren met them with tymbrels, and instruments of musike, and manie weapons.
- 40 Then Ionathans men that lay in ambu-she, rose vp against the, & slewe manie of them, and the remnant fled into the mou-taines, so that they toke all their spoiles.
- 41 Thus the marriage was turned to mourning, and the noyce of their melodie into lamentacion.
- 42 And so when they had aduenged the blood of their brother, they turned againe vnto Iorden.
- 43 When Bacchides heard this, he came vnto the border of Iorden with a great power vpon the Sabbath day.)
- 44 Then Ionathan said vnto his companie, Let vs rise now, & fight against our enemies: for it is not to day as in time past.
- 45 Beholde, y^e battel is before vs, and behinde vs, and the water of Iorden on this side and that side, and the marise, and forest, so y^e there is no place for vs to turne aside.
- 46 Wherefore crye now vnto heaven, that ye may be deliuered from the power of your enemies: so they ioyned battel.
- 47 Then Ionathan stretched out his hand to smite Bacchides: but he turned aside fro him and reculed.
- 48 Then Ionathan, and they that were with him, leapt into Iorden, and swimmmed ouer vnto the further bāke: but the other wolde not passe through Iorden after them.
- 49 So in that day were slaine of Bacchides side about a thousand men.
- 50 Then he turned againe to Ierusalem, & buylt vp the strong cities in Iuda, as the castel of Iericho, and Emmaus, and Beth-horon, and Bethel, and Thamnatha, Pharaohoni, & Tephro, with high walles, with gates, and with barres,
- 51 And set garisons in the, that they might vse their malice vpon Israel.
- 52 He fortified also the citie Beth-sura, and Gazara, and the castel, & set a garison in them with prouision of vitailles.
- 53 He toke also the chiefe men's sonnes in the cuntry for hostages, and put them in the castel at Ierusalem to be kept.
- 54 ¶ Afterwarde in the hundreth, fiftie and thre yere, in the seconde moneth, Alcimus commanded, that the walles of the inner court of the Sāctuarie shulde be destroyed, and he pulled downe the monumentes of the Prophetes, and began to destroy them.
- 55 But at the same time Alcimus was plagued, and his enterprises were hindred, & his mouth was stopped: for he was smitten with a palfie, & colde no more speake, nor giue order concerning his house.
- 56 Thus dyed Alcimus with great torment at the same time.
- 57 And when Bacchides sawe, that Alcimus was dead, he turned againe to the King, & so the land of Iuda was in rest two yeres.
- 58 Then all the yngodlie men helde a counsel, saying, Beholde, Ionathan and his com-panie dwell at ease, & without care: wherefore let vs bring Bacchides hither, and he wil take them all in one night.
- 59 So they went and consulted with him.
- 60 Who arose and came with a great hoste, and sent letters priuely to his adherentes, which were in Iudea, to take Ionathan and those that were with him: but they colde not, for their counsel was knowen vnto them.
- 61 And they toke fiftie men of the cuntry, which were the chief workers of this wickednes, and slewe them.
- 62 ¶ Then Ionathan and Simon with their companie departed vnto Beth-basin which is in the wildernes, and repaired the decay thereof, and made it strong.
- ^{Or, Beth-bassin.} 63 Whē Bacchides knewe this, he gathered all his hoste, and sent worde to them that were of Iudea.
- 64 Then came he & laid siege to Beth-basin, and foght against it a long season, and made instruments of warre.
- 65 But Ionathan had left his brother Simō in the citie, & went forthe into the cuntry, and came with a certeine number,
- 66 And slewe Odomeras and his brethren and the children of Phasiron in their tentes: so he began to slaye, and increased in power.
- ^{Or, Odarras.} 67 Simon also and his companie went out of the citie, and burnt vp the instruments of warre,
- 68 And foght against Bacchides, and discōfited him, and vexed him sore, so that his counsel and iorney was in vaine.
- 69 Wherefore he was very wroth at y^e wicked ked men, that gaue him counsel to come into the countrey, & slewe many of them, and purposed to returne into his owne countrey.

70 Whereof when Ionathan had knowledge, he sent ambassadours vnto him, to intreat of peace with him, & that the prisoners shulde be deliuered.

71 Which thing he accepted, and did according to his desire, and made an othe, that he wolde neuer do him harme all the daies of his life.

72 So he restored vnto him the prisoners that he had taken afore time out of the lād of Iuda, and so returned and went into his owne land, nether did he come any more into their borders.

73 Thus the sworde ceased from Israel, and Ionathan dwelt at Machmas, and began there to gouerne the people, and destroyed the vngodlic men out of Israel.

CHAP. X.

Demetrius desireth to haue peace with Ionathan. 18 Alexander also desireth peace with the Iewes. 48 Alexander maketh warre against Demetrius. 50 Demetrius is slayne. 51 The friendship of Ptolemeus & Alexander.

Ioseph. Antiq. 13. chap. 2. 3.

1 IN the hundreth and thre score yere came Alexander the sonne of Antiochus Epiphanes, and toke Ptolemais, and they receiued him, and there he reigned.

2 Now when Demetrius the King heard it, he gathered an exceeding great hoste, and went forthe against him to fight.

3 Also Demetrius sent letters vnto Ionathā, with louig wordes, as thogh he wolde preferre him.

4 For he said, We wil first make peace with him, before he ioyne with Alexander against vs.

5 Els he wil remember all the euil that we haue done against him, & against his brethren and his nacion.

6 And so he gaue Ionathan leaue to gather an hoste, and to prepare weapons, and to be confederate with him, and commanded the hostages that were in the castel, to be deliuered vnto him.

7 ¶ Then came Ionathan to Ierusalem, and red the letters in the audience of all the people, & of them that were in the castel.

8 Therefore they were sore afrated, because they heard that the King had giuē him licence to gather an armie.

9 So they that were of the castel, deliuered the hostages vnto Ionathan, who restored them to their parents.

10 Ionathan also dwelt at Ierusalem, & began to buyld, and repaire the citie.

11 And he commanded the workemen to buyld the walles, & the mount Sion rounde about with hewen stone, to fortifie it: & so they did.

12 Then the strangers that were in the castels which Bacchides had made, fled, 13 So that euerie man left his place, & went into his owne countrey.

14 Onely at Beth-sura remained certeine which had forsaken the Law and the commandements: for it was their refuge.

15 ¶ Now when King Alexander had heard of the promises that Demetrius had made vnto Ionathan: and when it was tolde him of the battels and noble actes, which he and his brethren had done, and of the paines that they had indured, 16 He said, Might we finde suche a mā: now therefore we wil make him our friend and confederate.

17 Vpon this he wrote a letter, and sent it vnto him, with these wordes, saying, 18 KING ALEXANDER to his brother Ionathan sendeth salutation.

19 We haue heard of thee, that thou art a very valiant man, and worthie to be our friend.

20 Wherefore this day we ordeine thee to be the hie Priest of thy nacion, and to be called the Kings friend: and he sent him a purple robe, and a crowne of golde, that thou maist consider what is for our profite, and kepe friendship towarde vs.

Or, mire. Or, take part.

21 So in the seuēth moneth of the hundreth and thre score yere, vpon the feast daye of the tabernacles, Ionathan put on the holie garment, & gathered an hoste, & prepared many weapons.

22 ¶ Which when Demetrius heard, he was marueilous sory, and said, 23 What haue we done, that Alexander hath preuented vs in getting the friendship of the Iewes for his strength?

Ioseph. Antiq. 13. chap. 3.

24 Yet wil I write and exhorde them, and promes them dignities and rewardes, that they may helpe me.

25 Whereupon he wrote vnto them these wordes, KING DEMETRIUS vnto the nacions of the Iewes sendeth greting.

26 We haue heard that ye haue kept your couenant towarde vs, and continued in our friendship, and haue not ioyned with our enemies, whereof we are glad.

27 Now therefore remaine stil, and kepe fidelitie towarde vs, and we wil recompense you for the good things that ye haue done for vs, 28 And wil release you of many charges, & giue you rewardes.

29 And now I discharge for your sake all the Iewes from tributes, & fre you from the customes of salte, and the crowne taxes, and from the thirde parte of the sede.

30 And frō the halfe of the frute of y trees which is mine owne duetie, I so release the that fro this day forthe, none shal take any thing of the land of Iuda, or of the thre gouernements which are added therunto as of Samaria and of Galile, from this daye forthe for euermore.

a And of the counrey beyon de Iorden, as Iosephus writteth.

31 Ierusalem also with all things belonging thereto, shalbe holie and fre from the tenthes and tributes.

32 Also I release the power of the castel which is at Ierusalem, and giue it vnto the hie Priest, y he may set in it suche men, as he shal chuse to kepe it.

33 Moreouer I frely deliuer euerie one of the Iewes that were taken away prisoners out of the land of Iuda through out all my realme, and euerie one of them shalbe free from tributes, yea, euen their catel,

34 And all the feastes, and Sabbaths, & new moones, and the daies appointed and the thre daies before the feast, & the thre daies after the feast, shalbe daies of fredome & libertie for all the Iewes in my realme, 35 So that in them no man shal haue power to do any thing, or to vexe any of them in any maner of cause.

36 Also thirtie thousand of the Iewes shalbe writn vp in the Kings hoste, and haue their wages paid them as apperteineth to all them that are of the Kings armie: and of the shalbe ordeined certeine to kepe y Kings strong holdes.

37 And some of them shalbe set ouer the Kings moste secret affaires, and their gouernours and their princes shalbe of them selues, and they shal liue after their owne lawes, as the King hath commanded in the land of Iuda.

38 And the thre gouernements that are added vnto Iudea from the counrey of Samaria, shalbe ioyned vnto Iudea, and they shalbe as vnder one, and obey none other power, but the hie Priest.

39 And I giue Ptolemais & the borders thereof vnto the Sanctuarie at Ierusalem, for the necessarie expēses of the holie things.

40 Moreouer, I wil giue euerie yere fiftene thousand sicles of siluer of the Kings reuenues out of the places apperteining vnto me.

41 And all the ouerplus which they haue not paid for the things due, as they did in the former yeres, from hence forthe they shal giue it towarde the workes of the Temple.

42 And besides this, the siue thousand sicles of siluer which they receiued yerely of the accounte appointed for the interteinemēt of the Sanctuarie, these yeres passed, euen these things shalbe released because they apperteine to the Priests that minister.

43 Item, whofoeuer they be that flee vnto the Temple at Ierusalem, or within the liberties thereof, and are indetted to y King for any maner of thing, they shalbe pardoned, and all that they haue in my realme.

44 For the buylding also and repairing of the workes of the Sanctuarie, expēses shal be giuen of the Kings reuenues.

45 And for the making of the walles of Ierusalem, and fortifying it rounde about that the holdes in Iudea may be buylt vp, shal also the cosles be giuen out of the Kings reuenues.

46 ¶ But when Ionathan & the people heard these wordes, thei gau no credit vnto the, nether receiued them: for thei remembred the greāt wickednes that he had done in Israel, and how sore he had vexed them.

47 Wherefore they agreed vnto Alexander: for he was the first that had intreated of true peace with them, and so were confederat with him alway.

48 Then gathered King Alexander a great hoste, & camped ouer agaiast Demetrius.

49 So the two Kings ioyned battel, but Demetrius hoste fled, and Alexander pursued him, and preuailed agaiast them.

50 So that fore battel continued til the sunne went downe, and Demetrius was slaine the same day.

51 ¶ Then Alexander sent ambassadours Ioseph. Antiq. 13, chap. 5. vnto Ptolemeus the King of Egypt with these wordes, saying,

52 For so muche as I am come againe to my realme, and am set in the throne of my fathers, and haue gotten the dominion, and haue destroyed Demetrius, and enioye my countrey,

53 Seing that I haue euen giuen him the battel, and he and his armie is discomfited by me, & I sit in the throne of his kingdome, 54 Let vs now make friēdship together, and giue me now thy daughter to wife: so shal I be thy sonne in law, and giue thee rewarde, and vnto her things according to thy dignitie.

55 Then Ptolemeus the King gaue answer, saying, Happie be the day, wherein thou art come againe vnto the lande of thy fathers, and sittest in the throne of their kingdome.

56 Now therefore wil I fulfil thy writing: but mete me at Ptolemais that we may se one another, and that I may make thee my sonne in law, according to thy desire.

57 So Ptolemeus wēt out of Egypt with his daughter Cleopatra, & came vnto Ptolemais in the hūdreth thre score & two yere, 58 Where King Alexander met him, and he gaue vnto him his daughter Cleopatra, and married them at Ptolemais with great glorie, as the maner of Kings is.

59 ¶ Then wrote King Alexander vnto Ionathan, that he shulde come and mete him.

60 So he went honorably vnto Ptolemais, and there he met the two Kings, and gaue them

- them great presents of siluer and golde, and to their friends, and founde fauour in their fight.
- 61 And there assembled certeine pestilent felowes of Israel, & wicked men to accuse him: but the King wolde not heare them.
- 62 And the King commanded that they shulde take of the garments of Ionathan, & clothe him in purple: and so they did: & the King appointed him to sit by him,
- 63 And said vnto his princes, Go with him into the middes of the citie, and make a proclamacion, that no man complaine against him of anie matter, & that no man trouble him for anie maner of cause.
- 64 So when his accusers sawe his honour according as it was proclaimed, and that he was clothed in purple, they fled all away.
- 65 And the King preferred him to honour, and wrote him among his chief friends, and made him a duke, and partaker of his dominion.
- 66 Thus Ionathan returned to Ierusalem with peace and gladnes.
- 67 ¶ In the hundreth, thre score & fiue yere came Demetrius the sonne of Demetrius from Creta into his fathers land.
- 68 Whereof whé King Alexander heard, he was verie sorie, and returned vnto Antiochia.
- 69 Then Demetrius appointed Apollonius y^e gouernour of Celosyria, who gathered a great hoste, and camped in Iamnia, and sent vnto Ionathan the hie Priest, saying,
- 70 Darest thou, being but alone, lift vp thy self against vs? and I am laughed at, and reproched, because of thee: now therefore why dost thou vant thy self against vs in the mountaines?
- 71 Now then if thou trust in thine owne strength, come downe to vs into the plaine field & there let vs trye the matter together: for I haue the strength of cities.
- 72 Aske and learne who I am, and thei shal take my parte: and they shal tell thee that your fore is not able to stand before our face: for thy fathers haue bene twise chafed in their owne land.
- 73 And now how wilt thou be able to abide so great an hoste of horsemen and fotemé in the plaine, where is nether stone, nor rocke, nor place to flee vnto?
- 74 When Ionathan heard the wordes of Apollonius, he was moued in his mi^de: wherefore he chose ten thousand men, and went out of Ierusalem, & Simon his brother met him for to helpe him.
- 75 And he pitched his tents at Ioppe: but they shut him out of the citie: for Apollonius garison was in Ioppe.
- 76 Then they fought against it, and they that were in the citie, for verie feare let him in: so Ionathan wan Ioppe.
- 77 Apollonius hearing of this, toke thre thousand horsemē with a great hoste of fote men & went towarde Azotus, as thogh he wolde go forwarde, & came immediatly into y^e plaine field, because he had so manie horsemen, and put his trust in them.
- 78 So Ionathan followed vpon him to Azotus, and the armie skirmished with his arriere bande.
- 79 For Apollonius had left a thousand horsemen behinde them in ambush.
- 80 And Ionathan knewe that there was an ambushment behinde him, and thogh they had compassed in his hoste, & shot darteres at the people from the morning to the evening,
- 81 Yet the people stode stil, as Ionathan had commanded them; til their horses were wearie.
- 82 Then broght Simon forthe his hoste, & set them against the bande: but the horses were wearie, and he discomfited them, & thei fled: so the horsemen were scattered in the field,
- 83 And they fled to Azotus, and came into the temple of Dagon their idole, that thei might there saue them selues.
- 84 But Ionathan set fyre vpon Azotus and all the cities rounde about it, & toke their spoiles, and burnt with fyre the temple of Dagon with all thé that were fled into it.
- 85 Thus were slayne and burnt about eight thousand men.
- 86 So Ionathan remoued the hoste from thence, and camped by Ascalon, where the men of the citie came forthe, & met him with great honour.
- 87 After this went Ionathan and his hoste againe to Ierusalem with great spoiles.
- 88 And when King Alexander heard these things, he begā to do Ionathan more honour,
- 89 And sent him a colar of golde, as the vse is to be giuen vnto suche as are of the Kings blood: he gaue him also Accaron, with the borders thereof in possession.

CHAP. XI.

3 The dissension betwene Ptolemus and Alexander his sonne in law. 17 The death of Alexander. 19 Demetrius reigneth after the death of Ptolemus. 22 Sion is besieged of Ionathan. 42 Demetrius, seeing that no man resisted him, sendeth his armie agayne. 54 Tryphon moueth Antiochus against Demetrius.

And the King of Egypt gathered a great hoste, like the sand that lyeth vpon the sea shore, and manie ships, and went about through deceit to obtaine the kingdome of Alexander, and to ioyne it vnto his owne realme.

Vpon this he went into Syria with friendlie wordes, and was let into the cities, and men came forthe to mete him: for King Alexander had commanded them to mete him, because he was his father in Law.

- 3 Now when he entred into the citie of Ptolemais, he lefte bands and garisons in euerie citie.
- 4 And when he came nere to Azotus, they shewed him the temple of Dagō that was burnt, and Azotus, and the suburbs thereof that were destroyed, and the bodies cast abroad, and them that he had burnt in the battel: for they had made heapes of them by the way where he shulde passe.
- 5 And thei tolde the King what Ionathan had done, to the intēt thei might get him euil wil: but the King helde his peace.
- 6 And Ionathan met the King with great honour at Ioppe, where they saluted one another, and laye there.
- 7 So when Ionathan had gone with y King vnto the water that was called Eleutherus, he turned againe to Ierusalem.
- 8 So King Ptolemeus gate the dominion of the citis by the sea vnto Seleucia vpon the sea coast, imagining wicked counsels against Alexander,
- 9 ¶ And sent ambassadours vnto King Demetrius, sayig, Come, let vs make a league betwene vs, and I wil giue thee my daughter, which Alexander hathe, and thou shalt reigne in thy fathers kingdome.
- 10 For I repent that I gaue Alexander my daughter: for he goeth about to slaye me.
- 11 Thus he sclandered Alexander, as one that shulde desire his realme.
- 12 And he toke his daughter from him, and gaue her vnto Demetrius, and forsoke Alexander, so that their hatred was openly known.
- 13 Then Ptolemeus came to Antiochia, where he set two crownes vpon his owne head, of Asia and of Egypt.
- 14 In the meane season was King Alexander in Cilicia: for they that dwelt in those places, had rebelled against him:
- 15 But when Alexander heard it, he came to warre against him, and Ptolemeus broght forthe his hoste, and met him with a mightie power, and put him to flight.
- 16 Then fled Alexander into Arabia, there to be defended: so Ptolemeus was exalted.
- 17 And Zabdaiel the Arabian smote of Alexanders head, & sent it vnto Ptolemeus.
- 18 But the third day after, King Ptolemeus dyed: and thei that were in the holdes, were slayne one of another.
- 19 And Demetrius reigned in the húd्रेth, thre score and seuenth yere.
- 20 ¶ At the same time gathered Ionathan them that were in Iudea, to laye siege vnto the castle, which was at Ierusalem, and they made manie instruments of warre against it.
- 21 Then went there certeine vngodlie persones (which hated their owne people) vnto King Demetrius, and tolde him that Ionathan besieged the castle.
- 22 So when he heard it, he was angrie, and immediatly came vnto Ptolemais, & wrote vnto Ionathan, that he shulde laye no more siege vnto it, but that he shulde mere him and speake with him at Ptolemais in all haste.
- 23 Neuertheles when Ionathan heard this, he commanded to besiege it: he chose also certeine of the Elders of Israel, and the Priests, and put him self in danger,
- 24 And toke with him siluer and golde, and apparel, and diuerse presents, and went to Ptolemais vnto the King, and founde fauour in his sight.
- 25 And thogh certeine vngodlie men of his owne nacion had made complaintes vpon him,
- 26 Yet the King intreated him as his predecessers had done, and promoted him in the sight of all his friends,
- 27 And confirmed him in the hie priesthode with all the honorable things, that he had afore, & made him his chief friēd.
- 28 Ionathan also desired the King, that he wolde make Iudea fre with the thre gouernemēts, & the countrey of Samaria, & Ionathan promised him thre húd्रेth talents.
- 29 Whereunto the King consented, & gaue Ionathan writing of the same, conteyning these wordes,
- 30 KING DEMETRIUS vnto his brother Ionathan, and to the nacion of the Iewes sendeth greting.
- 31 We send you here a copie of the letter, which we did write vnto our cousin Lasthenes concerning you, that ye shulde se it.
- 32 King Demetrius vnto Lasthenes his father sendeth greting.
- 33 For the faithfulness that our friends the nacion of the Iewes kepe vnto vs, and for their good wil towards vs we are determined to do them good.
- 34 Wherefore we assigne to thé the coasts of Iudea with the thre gouernements Apherema, and Lydda, and Ramathe (which are added vnto Iudea from the countrey of Samaria) and all that apperteineth to all them that sacrifice in Ierusalem: bothe concerning the payments which the King toke yerely aforetime, bothe for the frutes of the carth, & for the frutes of the trees.
- 35 As for the other things apperteyning vnto vs of the tenths & tributes, which were due vnto vs, and the customes of salte, & crowne taxes, which were payed vnto vs, we discharge thé of all frō hence forthe.
- 36 And nothing hereof shalbe reuoked frō this time forthe and for euer.
- 37 Therefore se that ye make a copie of these things, and deliuer it vnto Ionathā, that it may be set vp vpon the holy mount in an open place.

- 38 After this when Demetrius the King sawe that his land was in rest, and that no resistance was made against him, he sent away all his hoste, euerie man to his owne place, except certeine bandes of strangers, whome he broght from the yles of the heathen: wherefore all his fathers hoste hated him.
- 39 Now was there one Tryphon, that had bene of Alexanders parte afore, which when he sawe that all his hoste murmured against Demetrius, he went to Simalcuel the Arabian, that broght vp Antiochus the sonne of Alexander,
- 40 And lay sore vpon him, to deliuer him this yong Antiochus, that he might reigne in his fathers stead: he tolde him also what great euil Demetrius had done, and how his men of warre hated him, and he remained there, a long season.
- 41 Also Ionathan sent vnto King Demetrius to driue them out which were in the castel at Ierusalem, and those that were in the fortresses; for they fought against Israel.
- 42 So Demetrius sent vnto Ionathá, saying, I wil not onely do these things for thee & thy nacion, but if opportunitie serue, I wil honour thee and thy nacion.
- 43 Now therefore thou shalt do me a pleasure, if thou wilt send me me to helpe me: for all mine armie is gone from me.
- 44 So Ionathá sent him thre thousand strong men vnto Antiochia, and they came vnto the King: wherefore the King was verie glad at their comming.
- 45 ¶ But they that were of the citie, euen an hundreth, and twentie thousand men, gathered them together in the middes of the citie, & wolde haue slaine the King.
- 46 But the King fled into the palace, & the citizens kept the stretes of the citie, and beganne to fight.
- 47 Then the King called to the Iewes for helpe, which came to him altogether, and went abroade through the citie,
- 48 And slewe the same day an hundreth thousand, and set fyre vpon the citie, and toke many spoiles in that day, & deliuered the King.
- 49 So when the citizens sawe that the Iewes had gotten the vpper hand of the citie, and that they them selues were disappointed of their purpose, they made their supplication vnto the King, saying,
- 50 ^{Or, give vs the right hand.} Grant vs peace, and let the Iewes cease from vexing vs and the citie.
- 51 So they cast away their weapons, & made peace, and the Iewes were greatly honored before the King, and before all that were in his realme, and they came againe to Ierusalem with great pray.
- 52 Then King Demetrius sat in the throne of his kingdome, and had peace in his land.
- 53 Neuertheles he dissembled in all that euer he spake, and withdrew him self from Ionathan, nether did he rewarde him according to the benefices which he had done for him, but troubled him verie sore.
- 54 ¶ After this returned Tryphon with the yong childe Antiochus, which reigned, & was crowned.
- 55 Then there gathered vnto him all the me of warre, whome Demetrius had scatered, and they fought against him, who fled and turned his backe.
- 56 So Tryphon toke the beastes, and wan Antiochia. ^{Or, stephanes.}
- 57 And yong Antiochus wrote vnto Ionathan, saying, I appoint thee to be the chief Priest, and make thee ruler ouer the foure gouernements, that thou maist be a friend of the Kings.
- 58 Vpon this he sent him golden vessels to be serued in, and gaue him leaue to drinke in golde, and to weare purple, & to haue a colar of golde.
- 59 He made his brother Simon also captaine fro the coastes of Tyrus vnto the borders of Egypt.
- 60 Then Ionathan went forthe and passed through the cities beyonde the flood, and all the men of warre of Syria gathered vnto him for to helpe him: so he came vnto Ascalon, & they of the citie receiued him honorably.
- 61 And from thence went he vnto Gaza: but they of Gaza shut him out: wherefore he laid siege vnto it, and burned the suburbs thereof with fyre, and spoiled them.
- 62 Then they of Gaza made supplication vnto Ionathan, and he made peace with them, and toke of the sonnes of the chief men for hostages, and sent them to Ierusalem, and went through the countrey vnto Damascus.
- 63 And when Ionathan heard that Demetrius prices were come into Cades, which is in Galile, with a great hoste, purposing to driue him out of the countrey,
- 64 He came against them, & left Simon his brother in the countrey.
- 65 And Simon besieged Beth-sura, and fought against it a long season, and shut it vp.
- 66 So they desired to haue peace with him, which he granted them, and afterwarde put them out from thence, and toke the citie, and set a garison in it.
- 67 Then Ionathan with his hoste came to the water of Genesar, and betimes in the morning came to the plaine of Azor.
- 68 And beholde the hostes of the strangers met him in the plaine, and had layed anti- ^{Or, bestriden} ambushments for him in the mountaines.

 69 So that when they came against them, the ambushments rose out of their places and skirmished.
 70 So that all that were of Ionathans side, fled: and there was not one of them left, except Mattathias the sonne of Absalomus, and Judas the sonne of Calphi the captaines of the hoste.
 71 Then Jonathan rent his clothes, and cast earth vpon his head, and prayed, 72 And turned againe to them to fight, and put them to flight, so that they fled away.
 73 Now when his owne men that were fled, sawe this, they turned againe vnto him, & helped him to followe after all vnto their tents at Gades, and there they camped.
 74 So there were slaine of the strangers the same day about thre thousand men, & Jonathan turned againe to Ierusalem.

CHAP. XII.

1 Jonathan sendeth ambassadours to Rome, 2 And to the people of Sparta, to renewe their couenāt of friendship. 20 Jonathan putteth to flight the princes of Demetrius. 40 Tryphon taketh Jonathan by disceise.

Joseph. Anti. 13 chap. 3.

1 Jonathan now seeing that the time was mete for him, chose certeine men, and sent them vnto Rome, to establish and renew the friendship with them.

Or, Lacedemonians.

2 He sent letters also vnto the Spartians and to other places, for the same purpose.

3 So they went vnto Rome, and entred into the Senate, and said, Jonathan the hie Priest and the nacion of the Iewes sent vs vnto you, for to renewe friendship with you, and the bonde of loue, as intimes past.

4 So the Romaines gaue them fre passports, that men shulde lead them home into the land of Iuda peaccably.

5 ¶ AND THIS is the copie of the letters that Jonathan wrote vnto the Spartians, 6 Jonathan the hie Priest with the Elders of the nacion, and the Priests, and the rest of the people of the Iewes, send greting vnto the Spartians their brethren.

Joseph. Anti. 13 chap. 5. Or, Darius.

7 Heretofore were letters sent vnto Onias the hie Priest, from Arius, which then reigned among you, that ye wolde be our brethren, as the copie here vnder written specifieth.

8 And Onias intreated the ambassadour honorably, and receiued the letters: wherein there was mencion made of the bonde of loue and friendship.

9 But as for vs, we nede no suche writings: for we haue the holy bokes in our hands for comfort.

10 Neuertheles we thought it good to send vnto you, for the renewing of the brotherhode and friendship, lest we shulde be strange vnto you: for it is long since the time that ye sent vnto vs.

11 Wherefore we remember you at all seasons continually, and in the feastes and other daies appointed when we offre sacrifices and prayers, as it is mete and conuenient to thinke vpon our brethren.

12 And we reioyce at your prosperous estate.

13 And though we haue bene enuironed with great troubles & warres, so that the Kings rounde about vs haue fought against vs, 14 Yet wolde we not be grieuous vnto you, nor to other of our cōfederates & friends in these warres.

15 For we haue had helpe from heauen, that hath soccoured vs, and we are deliuered from our enemies, and our enemies are subdued.

16 Yet haue we chosen Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Iafon, and sent them vnto the Romaines, for to renewe the former friendship with them, and league.

17 We commanded them also to go vnto you, and to salute you, and to deliuer you our letters, cōcerning the renewing of our brotherhode.

18 And now ye shal do vs a pleasure to giue vs an answer of these things.

19 ¶ And this was the copie of the letters, which Arius the King of Sparta sent vnto Onias.

20 THE KING of the Spartians vnto Onias the hie Priest sendeth greting.

21 It is founde in writing, that the Spartians and Iewes are brethren, and come out of the generacion of Abraham.

22 And now for somuche as this is come to our knowledge, ye shal do wel, to write vnto vs of your prosperitie.

23 As for vs, we haue writen vnto you, that your cattel and goods are ours, and ours are yours: these things haue we commanded to be shewed vnto you.

24 ¶ Now when Jonathan heard, that Demetrius princes were come to fight against him, with a greater hoste then afore, 25 He went from Ierusalem, and met them in the land of Hamath: for he gaue the space to come into his owne countrey.

26 And he sent spies vnto their tētes, which came againe, and tolde him, that they were appointed to come vpon him in the night.

27 Wherefore, whē the sunne was gone downe, Jonathan commanded his men to watche, and to be in armes ready to fight all the night, & sent watchmen rounde about the hoste.

28 But when the aduerfaries heard that Jonathan was ready with his men to the battel, they feared, and trembled in their hearts,

- hearts, and kindled fyres in their tentes, and fled away.
- 39 Neuertheles Ionathan and his companie knewe it not til the morning: for thei sawe the fyres burning.
- 40 Then Ionathan followed vpon them, but he colde not ouertake them: for they were gone ouer the flood Eleutherus.
- 41 So Ionathā turned to the Arabiās, which were called Zabedei, and slewe them, and toke their spoile.
- 42 He proceded further also, and came vnto Damascus, and went through all the countrey.
- 43 But Simon his brother went forthe, and came to Ascalon and to the next holdes, departing vnto Ioppe, and wanne it.
- 44 For he heard that they wolde deliuer the holde to them that toke Demetrius parte: wherefore he set a garison there to kepe it.
- 45 ¶ After this came Ionathan home, and called the Elders of the people together, and deuised with them for to buyld vp the strong holdes in Iudea,
- 46 And to make the walles of Ierusalem hier, and to make a great mount betwixt the castell and the citie, for to separate it from the citie, that it might be alone, and that men shulde nether bye, nor sel in it.
- 47 So they came together to buylde vp the citie: for parte of the wall vpon the broke of the East side was fallen downe, and they repaired it, and called it Caphenatha.
- 48 Simon also set vp Adida in Sephela, & made it strong with gates and barres.
- 49 ¶ In the meane time Tryphon purposed to reigne in Asia, and to be crowned when he had slaine the King Antiochus.
- 50 But he was afraied that Ionathan wolde not suffer him, but fight against him: wherefore he went about to take Ionathan, and to kil him: so he departed, and came vnto Bethsan.
- 51 Then went Ionathā forthe against him to the battel with fortie thousand chosen men, and came vnto Bethsan.
- 52 But when Tryphon sawe that Ionathan came with so great an hoste, he durst not lay hand vpon him,
- 53 But receiued him honorably, and commended him vnto all his friends, and gaue him rewardes, and cōmanded his men of warre to be as obedient vnto him as to him self,
- 54 And said vnto Ionathan, Why hast thou caused this people to take suche trouail, seing there is no warre betwene vs?
- 55 Therefore send them now home againe, and chuse certeine men to wait vpon thee, and come thou with me to Ptolemis: for I wil giue it thee, with the other strong holdes, and the other garisons, and all them that haue the charge of the cōmune affaires: so wil I returne, & departe: for this is the cause of my comming.
- 56 Ionathan beleued him, & did as he said, and sent away his hoste, which went into the land of Iuda,
- 57 And retained but thre thousand with him, whereof he sent two thousand into Galile, & one thousand went with him self.
- 58 Now as Ionathā entred into Ptolemis, they of Ptolemis shut the gates, and toke him, and slewe all them with the sworde, that came in with him.
- 59 Then sent Tryphon an hoste of fote-men, & horsemen into Galile, & into the great plaine, to destroye all Ionathās companie.
- 60 But when they knewe that Ionathā was taken, and slaine, and those that were with him, they encouraged one another, and came forthe against them readie to the battel.
- 61 But when thei which followed vpon the, sawe that it was a matter of life, they turned backe againe.
- 62 By this meanes all they came into the land of Iuda peaceably, and bewailed Ionathan, and them that were with him, and feared greatly, and all Israel made great lamentacion.
- 63 For all the heathē that were round about them, soght to destroye them.
- 64 For they said, Nowe haue they no captaine, nor anie man to helpe them: therefore let vs now fight against them, and roote out their memorie from amōg men.

CHAP. XIII.

1 After Ionathan was taken, Simon is chosen captaine. 17 Tryphon, taking his children, and money for the redemption of Ionathan, killeth him and his children. 31 Tryphon killeth Antiochus, and possesseth the realme. 36 Demetrius taketh truce with Simon. 43 Simon winneth Gaz. 50 He possesseth the tower of Zion. 53 He maketh his sonne Iohn captaine.

1 NOW when Simō heard that Tryphō gathered a great hoste to come into the land of Iuda, and to destroye it,

2 And sawe that the people was in great trembling and feare, he came vp to Ierusalem, and gathered the people together,

3 And gaue them exhortacion, saying, Ye knowe what great things I, & my brethrē, & my fathers house haue done for y Law, and the Sanctuarie, and the battels, & troubles that we haue sene.

4 By reason whereof all my brethren are slaine for Israels sake, and I am left alone.

5 Now therefore God forbide, that I shulde spare mine owne life in anie time of trouble: for I am not better then my brethren.

6 But I wil aduenge my nacion, and the Sanctuarie, and our wiues, and our children: for all the heathen are gathered to-

- gether to destroy vs of very malice.
- 7 In hearing these wordes the hearts of the people were kindled,
- 8 So that they cryed with a loude voyce, sayig, Thou shalt be our captaine in stead of Iudas and Ionathan thy brethren.
- 9 Fight thou our battels, and whatsoever thou commandest vs, we wil do it.
- 10 ¶ So he gathered all the men of warre, making haste to finish the walles of Ierusalem, and fortified it rounde about.
- 11 Then sent he Ionathan the sonne of Absalomus with a great hoste vnto Ioppe, which droue them out that were therein, & remained there him self.
- 12 Tryphon also remoued from Ptolemais with a great armie, to come into the lād of Iuda, & Ionathā was with him as prisoner.
- 13 And Simon pitched his tentes at Addidis vpon the open plaine.
- 14 But when Tryphon knewe that Simon stode vp in stead of his brother Ionathan, & that he wolde fight against him, he sent messengers vnto him, saying,
- 15 Where as we haue kept Ionathā thy brother, it is for money that he is owing in the Kings account cōcerning the busines that he had in hand.
- 16 Wherefore send now an hūdreth talents of siluer, & his two sonnes for hostages, y when he is letten forthe, he wil not turne from vs, and we wil send him againe.
- 17 Neuertheles Simō knewe that he dissembled in his wordes, yet commanded he the money and children to be deliuered vnto him, lest he shulde be in greater hatred of the people of Israel.
- 18 Who might haue said, Because he sent him not the money and the children, therefore is Ionathan dead.
- 19 So he sent the children and an hundreth talents: but he dissembled, and wolde not let Ionathan go.
- 20 ¶ Afterwarde came Tryphon into the land to destroye it, & went rounde about by the way, that leadeth vnto Adora: but wherefoeuer they went, thether went Simō and his hoste.
- 21 Now they that were in the castel, sent messengers vnto Tryphon, that he shulde make haste to come by the wildernes, & to send them vitailles.
- 22 So Tryphon made readie all his horsemen: but the same night fell a very great snowe, so that he came not, because of the snowe: but he remoued and went into the cōuntry of Galaad.
- 23 And when he came nere to Bascama, he slewe Ionathan and he was buryed there.
- 24 So Tryphon returned, & went into his owne land.
- 25 ¶ Then sent Simon to take the bones of Ionathan his brother, & they buryed him in Modin his fathers cities.
- 26 And all Israel bewailed him with great lamētacion, & mourned for him verie lōg.
- 27 And Simon made vpon the sepulchre of his father & his brethren, a buylding high to loke vnto, of hewen stone behinde and before,
- 28 And set vp seuen pillers vpon it, one against another, for his father, his mother, and foure brethren,
- 29 And set great pillers round about them, and set armes vpon the pillers for a perpetual memorie, and carued shippes beside the armes, that they might be sene of men sailing in the sea.
- 30 This sepulchre which he made at Modin, standeth yet vnto this day.
- 31 ¶ Now as Tryphon wēt forthe with the yong King Antiochus, he slewe him traiterously,
- 32 And reigned in his stead, and crowned him self King of Asia, and broght a great plague vpon the land.
- 33 Simon also buylte vp the castels of Iudea, and compassed them about with high towers, & great walles, euen with towers, and gates and barres, and laid vp vitailles in the strong holdes.
- 34 Moreouer Simon chose certeine men and sent them to King Demetrius, that he wolde discharge the lād: for all Tryphons doings were robberies.
- 35 Whereupon Demetrius the King answered him, and wrote vnto him after this maner,
- 36 DEMETRIUS the King vnto Simon the high Priest, and the friend of Kings, and to the Elders and to the nation of the Iewes sendeth greting.
- 37 The golden crowne, and precious stone that ye sent vnto vs, haue we receiued, and are readie to make a stedfast peace with you, and to write vnto the officers, to release you of the things wherein we made you fre.
- 38 So the things that we haue granted you, shalbe stable: the strong holdes which ye haue buylded, shalbe your owne.
- 39 Also we forgiue the ouersights, and fautes cōmitted vnto this day, and the crowne tax that ye oght vs: and where as was anie other tribute in Ierusalem, it shalbe now no tribute.
- 40 And they that are mete among you to be written with our men, let them be writē vp, that there may be peace betwene vs.
- 41 Thus the yoke of the heathē was takē frō Israel in the hundreth, & seuentie yere.
- 42 And the people of Israel began to write in their letters, & publike instruments, IN THE FIRST yere of Simō, the high and chief Priest, gouernour, and prince of the Iewes.

- 43 In those dayes Simon camped against Gaza, and besieged it rounde about, where he set vp an engine of warre, and approached nere the citie, and bet a towre, and toke it.
- 44 So thei that were in the engine, leapt into the citie, and there was great trouble in the citie,
- 45 In so muche that the people of the citie rent their clothes, and climed vp vpon the walles with their wiues, and children, and cryed with a loude voyce, beseching Simon to grant them peace, saying,
- 46 Deale not with vs according to our wickednes, but according to thy mercie.
- 47 Then Simon pitied them, and wolde fight no more against them, but put them out of the citie, and clenfed the houses, wherein the idoles were, and so entred thereunto with psalmes and thanksgiuing.
- 48 So when he had cast all the filthines out, he set suche men in it as kept the Law, and fortified it, and buylded there a dwelling place for him self.
- 49 Now, when they in the castel at Ierusalem were kept, that they colde not come forthe nor go into the countrey, nether bye nor sel, they were very hungrie, and manie of them were famished to death,
- 50 In so muche that they besoght Simon to make peace with them: which he granted them, and put them out from thence, and clenfed the castel from filthines.
- 51 And vpon the thre, and twentic day of the seconde moneth in the hūdreth, seuētie and one yere, they entred into it with thanksgiuing, and branches of palme trees, and with harpes, and with cymbales, and with vioules, and with psalmes, and songs, because the great enemy of Israel was ouercome.
- 52 And he ordeined that the same day shulde be kept euerie yere with gladnes.
- 53 And he fortified the mount of the Tēple that was beside the castel where he dwelt him self with his companie.
- 54 Simon also seing that Iohn his sonne was now a mā, he made him captaine of all the hostes, & caused him to dwell in Gazaris.

CHAP. XIII.

Demetrius is overcome of Arsaces. 11 Simon being captaine, there is great quietnes in Israel. 18 The covenant of friendship with the Romains, and with the people of Sparta is renewed.

- 1 IN the hundreth, seuētie and two yere gathered King Demetrius his hoste, & departed vnto Media, to get him helpe for to fight against Tryphon.
- 2 But when Arsaces the King of Persia and Media heard, that Demetrius was entred within his borders, he sent one of his princes to take him aliue.
- 3 So he went, and ouercame the armie of

- Demetrius, and toke him, and broght him to Arsaces, which kept him in warde.
- 4 Thus all the land of Iuda was in rest, so long as Simon liued: for he foght the welth of his nacion: therefore were they glad to haue him for their ruler, and to do him worship alway.
- 5 Simon also wanne the citie of Ioppe to his great honour to be an haueu towne, and made it an entrance vnto the yles of the sea.
- 6 He enlarged also the borders of his people, and conquered the countreis.
- 7 He gathered vp manie of their people that were prisoners, and he had the dominion of Gazaris, and Beth-sura, and the castel, which he clenfed from filthines, & there was no man that resisted him,
- 8 So that euerie mā tilled his grounde in peace, and the land gaue her frutes, & the trees gaue their frute.
- 9 The Elders sate in the opē places, & consulted altogether for the commune welth, and the yong mē were honorably clothed and armed.
- 10 He prouided vitailles for the cities, and all kinde of munition, so that his glorious fame was renoumed vnto the end of the worlde.
- 11 He made peace thorow out the land, and Israel had perfite mirth and ioye.
- 12 For euerie mā sate vnder his vine, & the fig trees, & there was no man to fray them.
- 13 There was none in the land to fight against them: for then the Kings were ouercome.
- 14 He helped all those that were in aduersitie among his people: he was diligent to se the Law kept, and he toke away the vngodlie, and wicked.
- 15 He beautified the Sāctuarie, and encreased the vessels of the Temple.
- 16 Whē the Romains heard, and the Spartians had knowledge, that Ionathan was dead, they were very forie.
- 17 But whē they heard, that Simon his brother was made high Priest in his steade, & how he had wonne the land againe with the cities in it,
- 18 They wrote vnto him in tables of brasse, to renewe the friendship, and bonde of loue, which they had made with Iudas & Ionathan his brethren.
- 19 Which writings were red before the congregacion at Ierusalem, and this is the copie of the letters that the Spartiās sent,
- 20 TH E S E N A T O R S and citie of Sparta vnto Simon the great Priest, and to the Elders, and to the Priests, and to the residue of the people of the Iewes their brethren send greting.
- 21 When your ambassadours that were sent vnto our people, certified vs of your glorie
- Yyyy.iiii.

- & honour, we were glad of their coming,
- 21 And haue registred their ambassage in y^e publike recordes in this maner, Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Iason the Iewes ambassadours came vnto vs, to renewe amitie with vs.
- 22 And it pleased the people, that the men shulde be honorably intreated, and that the copie of their ambassage shulde be registred in the publike recordes, that it might be for a memorial vnto the people of Sparta: and a copie of the same was sent to Simon the chief Priest.
- 23 After this Simon sent Numenius to Rome, with a great shield of golde of a thousand pounde weight, to confirme the friendship with them.
- 24 Which when the people vnderstode, they said, What thanks shal we recompense againe vnto Simon and his children?
- 25 For he and his brethren, and the house of his father haue stablished Israel, and ouercome their enemies, and haue confirmed the libertie thereof: therefore they wrote this in tables of brasse, and set it vpon pillars in mount Sion.
- 26 The copie of the writing is this, In the eight and twentie day of the moneth* Elul in the hundreth, seuentie and two yere, in the thirde yere of Simon the high Priest.
- 27 In Saramel in the great cōgregation of the Priests, and of the people, and of the gouernours of the nacion, and of the Elders of the countrei, we wolde signifie vnto you, y^e manie battels haue bene foghten in our countrey.
- 28 Wherein Simon the sonne of Mattathias (come of the children of Iareb) and his brethren put them selues in dāger, and resisted the enemies of their nacion, that their Sanctuarie, and Law might be maintained, & did their nacion great honour.
- 29 For Jonathan gathered his nacion together, and became their high Priest, and is laid with his people.
- 30 After that wolde their enemies haue invaded their countrey, and destroyed their land, and lay their hands on their Sanctuarie.
- 31 Then Simō resisted them, & foght for his nacion, and spent muche of his owne substance, and armed the valiant men of his nacion, and gaue them wages.
- 32 He fortified also the cities of Iudea, and Beth-sura that lyeth vpon the borders of Iudea (where the ordinance of their enemies lay sometime) and set there a garison of the Iewes.
- 33 And he fortified Ioppe, which lyeth vpon the sea, and Gazara that bordreth vpon Azotus (where the enemies dwelt afore) and there he placed Iewes, and furnished them with thigs necessarie for the reparation thereof.
- 34 Now when the people sawe the faithfulness of Simon, and to what glorie he thoght to bring his nacion vnto, they made him their gouernour, and the chief Priest, because he had done all these things, and for the vprightnes, and fidelitie that he had kept to his nacion, and that foght by all meanes to exalte his people.
- 35 For in his time they prospered wel by him, so that the heathen were taken out of their countrey, and they also which were in the citie of Dauid at Ierusalem, where they had made them a castel, out of the which they wēt, and defiled all things that were about the Sanctuarie, and did great hurt vnto religion.
- 36 And he set Iewes in it, and fortified it, for the assurance of the land, and citie, and raised vp the walles of Ierusalem.
- 37 And King Demetrius confirmed him in his high priesthode for these causes,
- 38 And made him one of his friends, and gaue him great honour.
- 39 For it was reported that the Romains called the Iewes their friends, and confederates, & that they honorably receiued Simons ambassadours,
- 40 And that the Iewes, & Priests cōsented, that Simon shulde be their prince, & high Priest perpetually, til God raised vp the true Prophet,
- 41 And that he shulde be their captaine, and haue the charge of the Sanctuarie, and so set men ouer the workes, and ouer the countrey, and ouer the weapons, and ouer the forteresses, and that shulde make provision for the holie things,
- 42 And that he shulde be obeyed of euery man, and that all the writings in the countrey shulde be made in his name, and that he shulde be clothed in purple, and wear golde,
- 43 And that it shulde not be lawful for anie of the people or Priests to breake anie of these things, or to withstand his wordes, or to call anie congregation in the countrey without him, or be clothed in purple, or weare a colar of gold:
- 44 And if anie did contrarie to these things or brake anie of them, he shulde be punished.
- 45 So it pleased all the people to agre that it shulde be done to Simon according vnto these wordes.
- 46 Simon also accepted it, and was content to be the high Priest, and the captaine, & the prince of the Iewes, and of the Priests, and to be the chief of all.
- 47 And they commanded to set vp this writing in tables of brasse, and to fasten it to the wall that compassed the Sanctuarie in an open place,
- 48 And

49 And that a copie of the same shulde be laied vp in the tresurie, that Simon and his sonnes might haue it.

 27 Antiochus refusing the helpe that Simon sent him, breaketh his covenant.

1 Moreouer King Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sent lettres from the yles of the sea vnto Simon the Priest, and prince of the Iewes, and to all the nacions, 2 Concerning these wordes, ANTIOCHVS the King vnto Simon the great Priest, & to the nacion of the Iewes sendeth greeting.

3 For so muche as certeine pestilent men haue vsurped y^e kingdome of our fathers, I am purposed to chalenge the realme againe, and to restore it to the olde estate: wherefore I haue gathered a great hoste, and prepared shippes of warre,

4 That I may go thorowe the country, & be aduenged of them, which haue destroyed our country, and wasted manie cities in the realme.

5 Now therefore I do confirme vnto thee all the liberties, whereof all the Kings my progenitours haue discharged thee, and all the payments, whereof they haue released thee.

6 And I giue thee leaue to coyne money of thine owne stampe within thy country,

7 And that Ierusalem, and the Sanctuarie be free, and that all the weapons, that thou hast prepared, and the fortresses, which thou hast buylded, & kept in thine hāds, shalbe thine.

8 And all that is due vnto the King, and all that shalbe due vnto y^e King, I forgiue it thee, from this time forth for euermore.

9 And when we haue obtained our kingdome, we wil giue thee, & thy nacion & the Temple great honour, so that your honor shalbe knowen thorowe out the worlde.

10 ¶ In the hūdreth, seuentie & foure yere, went Antiochus into his fathers land, and all the bandes came together vnto him, so that fewe were left with Tryphon.

11 So the King Antiochus pursued him, but he fled and came to Dora, which lyeth by the sea side.

12 For he sawe that troubles were towarde him, and that the armie had forsaken him.

13 Then camped Antiochus against Dora with an hundredth and twentie thousand fighting men, and eight thousand horsemen.

14 So he compassed the citie about, and the shippes came by the sea. Thus they pressed the citie by land, & by sea, in so muche that ther suffered no man to go in nor out.

15 In the meane season came Numenius, and his companie from Rome, hauing lettres written vnto the Kings and countreis, wherein were contened these wordes, 16 LVCIVS THE Consul of Rome vnto King Ptolemeus sendeth greeting.

17 The ambassadours of y^e Iewes are come vnto vs as our friends and confederates from Simon the hie Priest, and from the people of the Iewes to renew friendship, and the bonde of loue, 18 Who haue broght a shield of golde weighing a thousand pounce.

19 Wherefore we thought it good to write vnto the Kings and countreis, that they shulde not go about to hurt them, nor to fight against them, nor their cities, nor their countreie, nether to mainteine their enemies against them.

20 And we were content to receiue of them the shield.

21 If therefore there be anie pestilēt felowes fled from their country vnto you, deliuer them vnto Simon the hie Priest, that he maye punish them according to their owne Law.

22 The same things were writen to Demetrius the King, and to Attalus, and to Arrathes, and to Arsaces, 23 And to all countreis, as ^{Or, Sampsaces} Sampsaces, and to them of Sparta, and to Delus, and to Mindus and to Sicion, and to Caria, and to Samos, and to Pamphylia, and to Lycia, and to Halicarnassus, and to Rhodus, and to Phafelis, and to Cos, and to Siden, and to Cortyna, and to Gnidon, and to Cyprus, and to Cyrene.

24 And they sent a copie of them to Simon the hie Priest.

25 ¶ So Antiochus the King cāped against Dora the seconde time euer readie to take it, and made diuers engins of warre, and kept Tryphon in, that he colde nether go in nor out.

26 Thē Simon sent him two thousand chosen men to helpe him with siluer & golde, and muche furniture.

27 Neuertheles, he wolde not receiue thē, but brake all the couenant, which he had made with him afore, and withdrewe him self from him,

28 And sent vnto him Athenobius one of his friends to commune with him, saying, Ye withhold Ioppe, and Gazara with the castle that is at Ierusalem, the citie of my realme, 29 Whose borders ye haue destroyed and done great hurt in the land, and haue the gouernement of manie places of my kingdome.

30 Wherefore now deliuer the cities, which ye haue taken, with the tribures of the places, that ye haue rule ouer without the borders of Iudea,

- 31 Or els giue me for them fīue hundreth talents of siluer, and for the harme that ye haue done, and for the tributes of the places other fīue hundreth talents: if not, we wil come, and fight against you.
- 32 So Athenobius the Kings friend came to Ierusalem, & when he sawe the honour of Simon, and the cubbert of golde and siluer plate, and so great preparacion, he was astonished, and tolde him the Kings message.
- 33 Then answered Simon, and said vnto him, We haue nether taken other mens lāds, nor withholden that which apperteineth to others: but our fathers heritage, which our enemies had vnrighteously in possession a certeine time.
- 34 But when we had occasion, we recouered the inheritance of our fathers.
- 35 And whereas thou requirest Ioppe and Gazara, they did great harme to our people, and through our countrey, yet wil we giue an hundreth talents for them. But Athenobius answered him not one worde,
- 36 But turned againe angrie vnto the King, and tolde him all these wordes, and the dignitie of Simon, with all that he had sene: and the King was verie angrie.
- 37 ¶ In the meane time fled Tryphon by shippe vnto Orthosias.
- 38 Then the King made Cendebeus captaine of the sea coast, and gaue him bādes of footemen and horsemen,
- 39 And cōmanded him to remoue y^e hoste towarde Iudea, and to buylde vp Cedron, & to fortifie the gates, & to warre against the people: but y^e King pursued Tryphon.
- 40 So Cendebeus came vnto Iamnia, and began to vexe the people, and to inuade Iudea, and to take the people prisoners, & to slay them.
- 41 And he buylte vp Cedron, where he set horsemen and garisons, that they might make outrodes by the waies of Iudea, as the King had commanded him.

CHAP. XVI.

- 1 Cendebeus the captaine of Antiochus hoste is put to flight by the sonnes of Simon. 11 Ptolemeus the sonne of Abubus killeth Simon and his two sonnes at a banquet. 23 Iohn killeth them that lye in waite for his life.

Joseph Antiq. 13. chap. 23.

- 1 Then came Iohn vp from Gazara, & tolde Simon his father, what Cendebeus had done.
- 2 So Simon called two of his eldest sonnes, Iudas and Iohn, and said vnto them, I, and my brethren, and my fathers house, haue euer from our youth vnto this day foughte against y^e enemies of Israel, & the matters haue had good successe vnder our hands, & we haue deliuered Israel often times.
- 3 But I am now olde, & ye by Gods mercie are of a sufficient age: be ye therefore in stead of me, & my brother, & go forthe & fight for our nacion, & the helpe of heauen be with you.

4 So he chose twentie thousand fighting men of the countrey with the horsemen, which went forthe against Cendebeus, & rested at Modin.

5 In the morning thei arose, and went into the plaine field: & beholde, a mightie great hoste came against them bothe of foremē, & horsēmē: but there was a riuer betwixt them.

6 And Iohn ranged his armie ouer against him, and when he sawe that the people was afrayed to go ouer the riuer, he went ouer first him self, and the men seing him, passed through after him.

7 Then he deuided his men, & set the horsemen in the middes of the footemen.

8 For their enemies horsemen were verie manie: but when thei blew the trumpets, Cēdebeus fled with his hoste, whereof manie were slayne, & the remnant gate them to the forteresse.

9 Then was Iudas Iohns brother wounded: but Iohn followed after them, til he came to Cedron, which Cendebeus had buylt.

10 Also thei fled vnto the towres, that were in the fields of Azorus, and those did Iohn burne with fyre: thus were there slaine two thousand mē of them: so he returned peaceably into the land of Iuda.

11 ¶ Now in the field of Iericho was Ptolemeus the sonne of Abubus made captaine, and he had abundance of siluer and golde.

12 (For he had married the daughter of the hie Priest.)

13 Therefore he waxed proude in his minde, and thought to rule the land, & thought to slay Simon and his sonnes by deceit.

14 Now as Simon went about thorowe the cities of the countrey, & studied carefully for them, he came downe to Iericho with Mattathias, and Iudas his sonnes in the hundreth, seuentie & seuen yere, in the eleuenth moneth, which is the moneth Sabat.

15 Thē the sonne of Abubus receiued them by treason into a litle holde, called Dochus, which he had buylte, where he made them a great banquet, and had hid men there.

16 So when Simon and his sonnes had made good chere, Ptolemeus stode vp with his men, and toke their weapons, and entred in to Simon in the banquet house, and slewe him with his two sonnes, and certeine of his seruants.

17 Whereby he committed a great vilenie, and recompensed euil for good.

18 Then wrote Ptolemeus these things and sent to the King, that he might send him an hoste to helpe him, & so wolde deliuer him the countrey with the cities.

19 He

- 19 He sent other men also vnto Gazara, to take Iohn, and sent letters vnto the captaines to come to him, and he wolde giue the siluer, and golde and rewardes.
- 20 And to Ierusalem he sent other to take it, and the mountaine of the Temple.
- 21 But one ranne before, and tolde Iohn in Gazara, that his father, and his brethren were slaine, and that Ptolemus had sent to slay him.
- 22 When he heard this, he was sore astonished, & laid hands of them that were come to slay him, and slewe them: for he knewe that they went about to kill him.
- 23 Concerning other things of Iohn, bothe of his warres, and of his noble actes (wherein he behaued him self manfully) of the buylding of walles which he made, and other of his dedes,
- 24 Beholde, they are written in the chronicles of his priesthode, frō the time, that he was made high Priest after his father.

CHAP. I.

2 An epistle of the Iewes that dwelt at Ierusalem, sent vnto them that dwelt in Egypt, wherein they exhorthe them to giue thanks for the death of Antiochus. 19 Of the fyre that was hid in the pitte. 24 The prayer of Neemias.

- TH E brethren the Iewes, which be at Ierusalem, & they y are in the countrey of Iudea, vnto y brethren the Iewes, that are thoroughout Egypt, send salutation, and prosperitie.
- 2 God be gracious vnto you and remember his couenant made with Abraham, and Isaac, and Iacob his faithful seruants,
- 3 And giue you all an heart, to worship him, and to do his wil with a whole heart and with a willing minde,
- 4 And open your hearts in his Law, and commandements, and send you peace,
- 5 And heare your prayers, and be reconciled with you, and neuer forsake you in time of trouble.
- 6 Thus now we praye here for you.
- 7 When Demetrius reigned, in the hundredth, threescore and nine yere, we Iewes wrote vnto you in the trouble, and violence that came vnto vs in those yerres, after that Iason, and his companie departed out of the holie land and kingdome,
- 8 And burnt the porche, and shed innocent blood. Then we praid vnto the Lord, and were heard: we offred sacrifices and fine floure, and lighted the lampes, and set forth the bread.
- 9 Now therefore kepe ye the dayes of the feast of the Tabernacles in the moneth Challeu.
- 10 ¶ In the hundredth, fourescore and eight yere, the people that was at Ierusalem, and in Iudea, and the counsel and Iudas, vnto Aristobulus King Ptolemeus master, which is of the stocke of the annointed

- Priests, & to the Iewes that are in Egypt, sendeth greting and helth.
- 11 In so muche as God hath deliuered vs from great perils, we thake him highly, as though we had ouercome the King.
- 12 For he broght them into Persia by heapes, that fought against the holie citie.
- 13 For albeit the captaine, and the armie, that was with him, seemed inuincible, yet they were slaine in the temple of Nanea, by the disceit of Naneas Priests.
- 14 For Antiochus, as though he wolde dwell with her, came thether, he, and his friends with him, to receiue money vnder the title of a dowrie.
- 15 But when the Priests of Nanea had laid it forthe, and he was entred with a smale companie within the Temple, they shut the Temple, when Antiochus was come in.
- 16 And by opening a priue dore of the vaute, they cast stones, as it were thunder, vpon the captaine & his, and hauing brused them in pieces, they cut of their heads & threwe the to those that were without.
- 17 God be blessed in all things, which hath deliuered vp the wicked.
- 18 Whereas we are now purposed to kepe y purification of the Tēple vpon the siue & twētie day of y moneth Challeu, we thoght it necessarie to certifie you thereof, y ye also might kepe the feast of y Tabernacles, & of the fyre which was giuen vs when Neemias offred sacrifice, after y he had buylt the Temple, and the altar.
- 19 For whē as our fathers were led away vnto Persia, y Priests, which sought the honor of God, toke the fyre of the altar priuely, Leuit. 6. 15 and hid it in an hollow pit, which was drie & 10. 2. in y bottom, & therein they kept it, so that 16. 3. the place was vnknown vnto euerie mā.
- 20 Now after manie yerres when it pleased God that Neemias shulde be sent from the King of Persia, he sent of y posteritie of those Priests, which had hid it to fetch the fyre, and as they tolde vs, they founde no fyre, but thicke water.

21 Then commanded he them to drawe it vp, and to bring it: and when the things appertaining to the sacrifices were broght, Neemias commanded the Priests to sprinke the wood, and the things laid thereupō with water.

22 When this was done, and the time came that the sunne shone, which afore was hid in the cloude, there was a great fyre kindled, so that euerie man marueiled.

23 Now the Priests, and all prayed, while the sacrifice was consuming: Ionathan began, and the other answered thereunto.

24 And the prayer of Neemias was after this maner, O Lord, Lord God maker of all things, which art feareful, and strong, & righteous, and merciful, and the onelie and gracious King,

25 Onely liberal, onely iuste and almightie and euerlasting, thou that deliuerest Israel from all trouble, and hast chosen the fathers, and sanctified them, 26 Receiue the sacrifice for thy whole people of Israel, and preserue thine owne portion, and sanctifie it.

27 Gather those together, that are scattered from vs: deliuer them that serue among the heathen: loke vpon them which are despised, and abhorred, that the heathen may knowe that thou art our God.

28 Punish them that oppresse vs, and with pride do vs wrong.

Deut. 30. 5.

29 Plant thy people againe in thine holie place *as Moyses hath spoken.

30 And the Priests sang psalmes thereunto.

31 Now when the sacrifice was consumed, Neemias commanded the great stones to be sprinkled with the residue of the water.

32 Which whē it was done, there was kindled a flame, which was consumed by the light, that shined from the altar.

33 ¶ So when this matter was knowen, it was tolde the King of Persia; that in the place where the Priests, which were led away, had hid fyre, there appeared water, where-with Neemias and his companie had purified the sacrifices.

34 The King tryed out the thing, and closed the place about, and made it holie.

35 And to them that the King fauoured, he gaue and bestowed manie giftes.

36 And Neemias called the same place Ephthar, which is to say, purification: but manie men call it Nephthar.

CHAP. II.

¶ How Ieremias hid the tabernacle, the Arke, and the altar in the hill. 23 Of the five bookes of Iason contained in one.

¶ IT is founde also in the writings of Ieremias the Prophet, that he commanded them, which were caried away, to take fyre, as was declared, & as the Prophet commanded thē that were led into captiuitie,

* Giuing them a Law that they shulde not forget the commandemēts of y^e Lord, & that they shulde not erre in their mindes, when they sawe images of golde and siluer, with their ornaments.

Baruc. 6

These and suche other things commanded he them, and exhorted them that they shuld not let y^e Law go out of their hearts.

It is writen also, how the Prophet, by an oracle that he had, charged them to take the tabernacle and the arke, and follow him: & when he came vp into y^e mountaine where Moyses went vp, *and sawe the heritage of God,

Deu. 34.

Ieremias went forthe, and founde an hollowe caue, wherein he laid the Tabernacle, and the Arke, and the altar of incense, and so stopped the dore.

And there came certeine of those that followed him, to marke the place: but they colde not finde it.

Which when Ieremias perceiued, he reproued them, saying, As for that place, it shalbe vnknown, vntil the time that God gather his people together againe, & that mercie be shewed.

Thē shal the Lord shewe thē these things, and the maiestie of the Lord shal appeare and the cloude also, as it was shewed vnder Moyses, and as *when Salomō desired, that the place might be honorably sanctified.

*1. King. 4
2. Chro. 6.*

For it is manifest that he, being a wise man, offred the sacrifice of dedication, and consecracion of the Temple.

*And as when Moyses prayed vnto the Lord, the fyre came downe from heauē, & consumed the sacrifice: so, when Salomon prayed, *the fyre came downe frō heauen, and consumed the burnt offering.

Leu. 9. 2 & 10. 16.

2. Chro.:

And Moyses said, Because the sinoffring was not eaten, therefore is it consumed.

So Salomon kept those eight dayes.

These thigs also are declared in the writings, and registers of Neemias, and how he made a librarie, and how he gathered the actes of the Kings, & of the Prophets, and the actes of Dauid, and the epistles of the Kings concerning the holie giftes.

Euen so Iudas also gathered all things that came to passe by the warres that were among vs, which things we haue.

Wherefore if ye haue nede thereof, send some to fetch them vnto you.

Where as we then are about to celebrate the purification, we haue writen vnto you, and ye shal do wel, if ye kepe the same dayes.

We hope also that the God, which deliuered all his people, and gaue an heritage to them all & the kingdome, & the priesthode,

- Deu. 30, 5. hode, and the Sanctuarie,
- 18 *As he promised in the Law, wil shortly haue mercy vpon vs, & gather vs together from vnder the heauen into his holie place: for he hath saued vs from great perils, and hath cleansed the place.
- 19 As concerning Iudas Maccabeus, & his brethren, the purification of the great Temple, and the dedicacion of the altar,
- 20 And the warres against Antiochus Epiphanes, and Eupator his sonne,
- 21 And the manifest signes, that came from heauen vnto those, which manfully stode for the Iewes religion: (for though they were but fewe, yet they rane through whole countries, and pursued the barbarous armies,
- 22 And repaired the Temple that was renowned thorow out all the worlde, and deliuered the citie, and established the Lawes, that were like to be abolished, because the Lord was merciful vnto the whole lenitie)
- 23 We wil assay to abridge in one volume those things, that Iason the Cyrenean hath declared in fiewe booke.
- 24 For considering the wonderful number, & the difficultie that they haue that wolde be occupied in the rehearsal of stories, because of the diuersitie of the matters,
- 25 We haue deuoued, that they that wolde read, might haue pleasure, and that they which are studious, might easily keepe them in memorie, & that whosoever read them, might haue profite.
- 26 Therefore to vs that haue taken in hand this great labour, it was no easie thing to make this abridgement, but required bothe sweat, and watching.
- 27 Like as he that maketh a feast, & seeketh other mens commoditie, hath no smale labour: so we also for manie mens sakes are verie wel content to vndertake this great labour.
- 28 Leauing to the autor the exact diligence of euery particular, we wil labour to go forward according to the prescript order of an abridgement.
- 29 For as he that wil buylde a newe house, must provide for the whole buylding, but he that setteth out the plat or goeth about to paine it, seeketh but onely what is comelie for the decking thereof:
- 30 Euen so I thinke for vs, that it appertaineth to the first writer of a storie to enter deeply into it, and to make mencion of all things, and to be curious in euery parte.
- 31 But it is permitted to him that wil shorten it, to vse fewe wordes, and to auoyde those things that are curious therein.
- 32 Here then wil we beginne the storie, adding thus muche to our former wordes, that it is but a foolish thing to abonde in wordes before the storie, and to be shorte in the storie.
- 1 Of the honour done vnto the Temple by the Kings of the Gentiles. 6 Simon uttereth what treasure is in the Temple. 7 Heliodorus is sente to take them away. 26 He is striken of God and healed at the prayer of Onias.
- 1 WHat time as the holy citie was inhabited with all peace, and when the Lawes were very wel kept, because of the godlines of Onias the hie Priest, and hatred of wickednes,
- 2 It came to passe that euen the Kings did honour the place, and garnished the Temple with great giftes.
- 3 In so muche that Seleuchus King of Asia of his owne rentes, bare all the costes belonging to the seruice of the sacrifices.
- 4 But one Simon of the tribe of Benjamin being appointed ruler of the Temple, contended with the hie Priest concerning the iniquitie committed in the citie.
- 5 And when he colde not ouercome Onias, he gate him to Apollonius the sonne of Thraseas, which then was gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice,
- 6 And tolde him that the tresurie in Ierusalem was ful of innumerable money, which did not belong to the prouision of the sacrifices, and that it were possible that these things might come into the Kings hands.
- 7 Now when Apollonius came to the King, and had shewed him of the money, as it was tolde him, the King chose out Heliodorus his treasurer, and sent him with a commandement, to bring him the foresaid money.
- 8 Immediately Heliodorus toke his iourney as though he wolde visite the cities of Coelosyria & Phenice, but in effect to fulfil the Kings purpose.
- 9 So when he came to Ierusalem, and was courteously receiued of the hie Priest into the citie, he declared what was determined concerning the money, & shewed the cause of his coming, and asked if these things were so in dede.
- 10 Then the hie Priest tolde him that there were suche things laide vp by the widdowes and fatherles,
- 11 And that a certeine of it belonged vnto Hircanus the sonne of Tobias a noble man, and not as that wicked Simon had reported, and that in all there were but foure hundred talents of siluer, and two hundred of golde,
- 12 And that it were altogether vnpossible to do this wrong to them that had committed it of trust to the holines of the place and Temple, which is honored thorow the whole worlde for holines & integritie.
- 13 But Heliodorus because of the Kings commandement giuen him, said that in any wise it must be brought into the Kings tresurie.

Or, the fize of prouision.*

- 14 So he appointed a day, and went in to take order for these things: then there was no small grief thorough the whole citie.
- 15 For y^e Priests fell downe before the altar in the Priests garments, and called vnto heauen vpon him which had made a Law concerning things giuen to be kept, that they shulde be safely preserued for suche as had committed them to be kept.
- 16 Then thei that looked the high Priest in the face, were wounded in their heart: for his countenance, and the changing of his colour declared the sorowe of his minde.
- 17 The man was so wrapped in feare & trembling of the bodie, that it was manifest to thei that looked vpon him, what sorowe he had in his heart.
- 18 Others also came out of their houses by heapes vnto the comune prayer, because y^e place was like to come vnto contempt.
- 19 And the women, girt with sackcloth vnder their breastes, filled the stretes, and the virgines that were kept in, ranne some to the gates and some to the walles, & others looked out of the windowes.
- 20 And all helde vp their hands toward heauen, and made prayer.
- 21 It was a lamentable thing to see the multitude that fell downe of all sortes, and the expectation of the high Priest being in suche anguish.
- 22 Therefore thei called vpon the almightie Lord that he wolde keepe safe and sure the things, which were layed vp for those that had deliuered them.
- 23 Neuertheles, the thing y^e Heliodorus was determined to do, that did he performe.
- 24 And as he & his souldiers were now there present by the tresurie, he that is the Lord of the spirits, & of all power, shewed a great vision, so that all thei which presumed to come with him, were astonished at the power of God, and fell into feare, and trembling.
- 25 For there appeared vnto them an horse with a terrible man sitting vpon him, most richely barbed, and he ranne fiercely, and smote at Heliodorus with his fore fete, & it seemed that he that sate vpon the horse, had harness of golde.
- 26 Moreouer, there appeared two yong men, notable in strength, excellent in beautie, and comelie in apparel, which stode by him on ether side, and scourged him continually, and gaue him manie sore stripes.
- 27 And Heliodorus fel suddenly vnto the grounde, and was couered with great darkenes: but they that were with him, took him vp, and put him in a litter.
- 28 Thus he that came with so great companie, & manie souldiers into y^e said tresurie, was borne out: for he colde not helpe him self with his weapons.
- 29 So they did knowe the power of God manifestly, but he was donne by the power of God, and lay destitute of all hope and helth.
- 30 And they praised the Lord that had honored his owne place: for the Temple which a litle afore was full of feare and trouble, when the almightie Lord appeared, was filled with ioye and gladnes.
- 31 Then streight wayes certeine of Heliodorus friends prayed Onias, that he wolde call vpon the moste High to grant him his life, which lay readie to giue vp the goste.
- 32 So the hie Priest, considering that the King might suspect that the Iewes had done Heliodorus some euil, he offered a sacrifice for the helth of the man.
- 33 Now when the hie Priest had made his prayer, the same yong men in the same clothe appeared, and stode beside Heliodorus, saying, Giue Onias y^e hie Priest great thanks: for his sake hath the Lord granted thee thy life.
- 34 And seing that thou hast bene scourged from heauen, declare vnto all men the mightie power of God: & when they had spoken these wordes, they appeared no more.
- 35 So Heliodorus offered vnto the Lord sacrifice, and made great vowes vnto him, which had granted him his life, and thanked Onias, & went againe with his hoste to the King.
- 36 Then testified he vnto euerie man of the great workes of God that he had sene with his eyes.
- 37 And when the King asked Heliodorus, who were mete to be sent yet once againe to Ierusalem, he said,
- 38 If thou hast anie enimie or traitor, send him thither, & thou shalt receiue him well scourged, if he escape with his life: for in that place, no doubt, there is a special power of God.
- 39 For he that dwelleth in heauen, hath his eye on y^e place, and defendeth it, & he beateh & destroyeth thei that come to hurt it.
- 40 This came to passe concerning Heliodorus, and the keeping of the tresurie.

CHAP. VIII.

Simon reporteth euil of Onias. 7 Iason obtaineth the office of the hie Priest by corrupting the King, 27 And was by Menelaw defrauded by like bribing. 34 Onias is slayne traiterously by Andronicus.

THis Simon now, of whome we spake afore, being a bewraier of the money and of his owne natural countrey, reported euil of Onias, as though he had moued Heliodorus vnto this, and had bene the auenter of the euil.

2 Thus was he bolde to call him a traitour that was so beneficial to the citie, and a defender of his nacion, and so zealous of the Lawes.

3 But

- 3 But when his malice increased so farre, that thorow one that belonged to Simon, murthers were committed,
- 4 Onias considering the danger of this contention, & that Apollonius as he that was the gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice, did rage, and increased Simons malice,
- 5 He went to the King not as an accuser of the citzens, but as one that intended the commune welth bothe priuatly and publicely.
- 6 For he sawe it was not possible except the King toke order to quiet the matters, and that Simon wolde not leaue of his folie.
- 7 But after the death of Seleucus, when Antiochus, called Epiphanes, toke the kingdom, Iason the brother of Onias labored by vnlawful meanes to be hie Priest.
- 8 For he came vnto the King, and promised him thre hundredth and thre score talents of siluer, and of another rente, fourescore talents.
- 9 Besides this he promised him an hundredth and fiftie, if he might haue licence to set vp a place for exercise, and a place for the youth, and that they wolde name them of Ierusalem Antiochians.
- 10 The which thing when the King had granted, & he had gotten the superioritie, he began immediatly to drawe his kinshme to the customes of the Gentiles,
- 11 And abolished y^e friendlie priuiledges of the Kings, that the Iewes had set vp by Iohn, the father of Eupolemus, which was sent ambassadour vnto Rome, to become friends and confederates: he put downe their lawes & policies, & broght vp newe statutes, and contrarie to the Lawe.
- 12 For he presumed to buylde a place of exercise vnder the castel, & broght the chief yong men vnder his subiection, and made them weare hattes.
- 13 So there began a great desire to follow the maners of the Gentiles, and they toke vp the factions of strange nacions by the exceeding wickednes of Iason, not the hie Priest, but the vngodlie persone,
- 14 So that the Priestes were now no more diligent about the seruice of the altar, but despised the Temple, and regarded not the sacrifices, but made haste to be partakers of the wicked expenses at the playe after the casting of the stone.
- 15 For they did not set by the honour of their fathers, but liked the glorie of the Gentiles best of all.
- 16 By reason whereof great calamitie came vpon them: for they had them to be their enemies and punishers, whose custome they followed so earnestly, and desired to be like them in all things.
- 17 For it is not a light thing to transgress

- against the Lawes of God, but the time following shal declare these things.
- 18 ¶ Now when the games that were vsed eueric fiue yere, were plaide at Tyrus, the King being present,
- 19 This wicked Iason sent from Ierusalem men to loke vpon them, as thogh they had bene Antiochians, w^{ch} broght thre hundredth drachmes of siluer for a sacrifice to Hercules: albeit they that caryed them, desired they might not be bestowed on the sacrifice (because it was not comelie) but to be bestowed for other expenses.
- 20 So he that sent them, sent them for the sacrifice of Hercules: but because of thos that broght them, they were giuen to the making of galleis.
- 21 ¶ Now Apollonius the sonne of Meneotheus was sent into Egypt because of the coronation of King Ptolemeus Philometor: but when Antiochus perceued that he was euil affectioned towarde his affaires, he foght his owne assurance, and departed from thence to Ioppe, and so came to Ierusalem,
- 22 Where he was honorably receiued of Iason, and of the citie, & was broght in with torche light, & with great showtings, and so he went with his hoste vnto Phenice.
- 23 Thre yere afterwarde Iason sent Menelaus, the foresaid Simons brother, to beare the money vnto the King, and to bring to passe certeine necessarie affaires, whereof he had giuen him a memorial.
- 24 But he, being commended to the King, magnified him for the appearance of his power, & turned the priesthode vnto him self: for he gaue thre hundredth talents of siluer more then Iason.
- 25 So he gate the Kings letters patentes, albeit he had nothing in him self worthie of the hie priesthode, but bare the stomacke of a cruel tyrant, and the wrath of a wilde beast.
- 26 The Iason, which had disceiued his owne brother, being deceued by another, was compelled to flee into the countrey of the Ammonites.
- 27 So Menelaus gate the dominion: but as for the money that he had promised vnto the King, he toke none order for it, albeit Sostratus y^e ruler of the castel required it.
- 28 For vnto him appertained the gathering of y^e customes: wherefore they were bothe called before the King.
- 29 Now Menelaus left his brother Lyfimachus in his stead in the priesthode, and Sostratus left Crates which was gouernour of the Cyprians.
- 30 ¶ Whiles these things were in doing, the Tharsians and they of Mallot made insurrection, because they were giue to the Kings concubine called Antiochis.

Or, that he wold de write the Antiochians that were at Ierusalem, among them

Or, he shal be spoken of wantonnes as the Gentiles did *a This game

Or, commended men.

- 31 Then came the King in all haste, to appease the busines, leauing Andronicus a man of autoritie to be his lieutenant.
- 32 Now Menelaus, supposing that he had gotten a cōuenient time, stole certeine vessels of golde out of the Temple, and gaue certeine of them to Andronicus: and some he solde at Tyrus & in the citie thereby.
- 33 Which when Onias knewe of a suretie, he reprobued him, and withdrewe him self into a Sāctuarie at Daphne by Antiochia.
- 34 Wherefore Menelaus, taking Andronicus a parte, prayed him to slay Onias: so whē he came to Onias, he cōsuled him craftely, giuing him his right hand with an othe: (howbeit he suspect him, & perswaded him to come out of the Sanctuarie) so he slewe him incontinently without any regarde of righteousnes.
- 35 For the which cause not onely the Iewes, but many other nacions also were grieued, and toke it heauily for the vnrighteous death of this man.
- 36 ¶ And when the King was come againe from the places about Cilicia, the Iewes that were in the citie, and certeine of the Grekes that abhorred the fact also, complained because Onias was slaine without cause.
- 37 Therefore Antiochus was sorie in his minde, and he had compasion, and wept because of the modestie and great discretion of him that was dead.
- 38 Wherefore being kindled with angre, he toke away Andronicus garment of purple, and rent his clothes, and commanded him to be led through out the citie, and in the same place where he had cōmitted the wickednes against Onias, he was slaine as a murtherer. Thus the Lord rewarded him his punishment, as he had deserued.
- 39 ¶ Now when Lyfimachus had done many wicked dedes in the citie through the counsel of Menelaus, and the brute was spred abroad, y^e multitude gathered them together against Lyfimachus: for he had caryed out now muche vessel of golde.
- 40 And when the people arose, & were full of angre, Lyfimachus armed about thre thousand, & began to vse vnlaufull power, a certeinetyrant being their captaine, who was no lesse decayed in wit then in age.
- 41 But whē they vnderstode the purpose of Lyfimachus, some gate stones, some great clubbes, and some cast handfulls of dust, which lay by, vpon Lyfimachus men, and those that inuaded them.
- 42 Whereby manie of them were wounded, some were slaine, and all the other chased away: but the wicked Churchrobber him self they killed besides the treasure.
- 43 For these causes an accusation was laide against Menelaus.
- 44 And when the King came to Tyrus, thre men sent from the Senat pleaded the cause before him.
- 45 But Menelaus, being now cōuincid, promised to Ptolemeus the sonne of Demetrius muche money, if he wolde perswade the King.
- 46 So Ptolemeus went to the King into a courte, where as he was to coule him self, & turned the Kings minde.
- 47 In so muche that he discharged Menelaus from the accusacions (notwithstanding he was the cause of all mischief) and condēned those poore men to death, which if they had tolde their cause, yea, before the Scythians, they shulde haue bene heard as innocent.
- 48 Thus were they sone punished vniustly, which followed vpon the matter for the citie, and for the people, and for the holie vessels.
- 49 Wherefore they of Tyrus hated that wickednes, and ministred all things liberally for their buryal.
- 50 And so through the couetousnes of thē that were in power, Menelaus remained in autoritie, increasing in malice, and declared him selfe a great traitor to the citizēs.

CHAP. V.

2 Of the signes and tokens sene in Ierusalem. 6 Of the end and wickednes of Iason. 11 The pursute of Antiochus against the Iewes. 15 The spoiling of the Temple 27 Maccabees fleeth into the wildernes.

1 ABout the same time Antiochus vnderooke his seconde voyage into Egypt.

2 And then were there sene through out all the citie of Ierusalem, fortie dayes long, horsemen running in the aire, with robes of golde, and as bandes of speare men,

3 And as troupes of horsemen set in array, incountering & coursing one against another with shaking of shields and multitude of dartes and drawing of swordes, and shooting of arrowes, and the glittering of the golden armour sene, and harnes of all sortes.

4 Therefore euerie man prayed, that those tokens might turne to good.

5 Now when there was gone forthe a false rumour, as thogh Antiochus had bene dead, Iason toke at y^e least a thousand mē, and came suddenly vpon the citie, & they that were vpon the walles, being put backe and the citie at length taken,

6 Menelaus fled into the castel, but Iason slewe his owne citizēs without mercie, not considering that to haue the aduantage against his kinsmē is greatesst disaduantage, but thought that he had gotten the victorie of his enemies, & not of his owne nacion.

7 Yet he gate not the superioritie, but at the last receiued shame for the rewarde of his traifon,

- traison, and went againe like a vagabound into the countrey of the Ammonites.
- 8 Finally he had this end of his wicked cōuersation, y^e he was accused before Areta, the King of the Arabians, and fled from citie to citie, being pursued of euerie mā, and hated as a forsaker of the Lawes, and was in abominacion, as anemie of his countrey and citizens, and was driuen into Egypt.
- 9 Thus he that had chased manie out of their owne countrey, perished as a banished man, after that he was gone to the Lacedemonians, thinking there to haue gotten succour by reason of kinred.
- 10 And he that had cast manie out vnburied, was thrown out him self, no man mourning for him, nor putting him in his graue: nether was he partaker of his fathers sepulchre.
- 11 ¶ Now when these things that were done, were declared to the King, he thought that Iudea wolde haue fallen from him: wherefore he came with a furious minde out of Egypt, & toke the citie by violence.
- 12 He commanded his men of warre also, that they shulde kill, and not spare suche as they met, and to slay suche as went into their houses.
- 13 Thus was there a slaughter of yong mē, and olde men, and a destruction of men & women & children, and virgines, and infants were murdered:
- 14 So that within thre dayes were slayne foure score thousand, and fortie thousand taken prisoners, and there were as manie solde as were slayne.
- 15 Yet was he not content with this, but durst go into the mooste holy Temple of all the worlde, hauing Menelaus that traitour to the Lawes, and to his owne countrey, to be his guide,
- 16 And with his wicked hāds toke the holie vessels, which other Kings had giuen for y^e garnishing, glorie and honour of that place, & handled them with his wicked hāds.
- 17 So haucie in his minde was Antiochus, that he considered not, that God was not a litle wrothe for the sinnes of them that dwelt in the citie, for the which suche cōtempt came vpon that place.
- 18 For if they had not bene wrapped in manie sinnes, he, as sone as he had come, had suddely bene punished, & put backe from his presumption, as Heliodorus was, whome Seleucus the King sent to vewe the treasure.
- 19 But God hath not chosen the nacion for the places sake, but the place for the nacion sake.
- 20 And therefore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble, but afterwarde shal it be partaker of the benefites of the Lord, and as it is now forsaken in the wrath of the Almighty, so when the great Lord shalbe reconciled, it shalbe set vp in great worship againe.
- 21 ¶ So when Antiochus had taken eighteen hundreth talents out of the Temple, he gate him to Antiochia in all hafte, thinking in his pride to make men sayle vpon the drye land, and to walke vpon the sea: suche an hie minde had he.
- 22 But he left deputies to vex the people: at Ierusalem Philippe a Phrygia by birth, in maners more cruel then he that set him there:
- 23 And at Garizin Andronicus, & with the Menelaus, which was more grieuous to the citizens then the other, and was despitel against the Iewes his citizens.
- 24 He sent also Apollonius a cruel prince, with an armie of two & twentie thousand, whome he commanded to slaye those that were towarde mans age, and to sell the women, and the yonger sorte.
- 25 So when he came to Ierusalem, he fained peacc, and kept him stil vntil the holy day of Sabbath: and then finding the Iewes keping the feast, he commanded his men to take their weapons.
- 26 And so he slewe all them that were gone forthe to the shewe, and running through the citie with his men armed, he murdered a great number.
- 27 But Iudas Maccabeus, being as it were the tenth, fled into the wildernes, & liued there in the mountaines with his companie among the beastes, and dwelling there, and eating grasse, lest they shulde be partakers of the filthines.

CHAP. VI.

1 The Iewes are compelled to leaue the Law of God.
4 The Temple is defiled. 10 The women cruelly punished. 25 The grieuous paine of Eleazarus.

1 NOT long after this, sent the King an olde man of Athens, for to compel the Iewes, to transgresse the Lawes of the fathers, and not to be gouerned by the Law of God,

2 And to defile the Temple that was at Ierusalem, and to call it the temple of Iupiter Olympius, and that of Garizin, according: as they did that dwelt at that place, Iupiter, that kepeth hospitalitie.

3 This wicked gouernment was sore and grieuous vnto the people.

4 For the Temple was ful of dissolucion, and glottome of the Gentiles, which dallied with harlots, & had to do with women within the circuit of the holie places, and broght in suche things as were not lawful.

5 The altar also was ful of suche things, as were abominable & forbidden by the Law.

6 Nether was it lawful to kepe y^e Sabbaths, nor, to obserue their anciēt feasts, nor playnely to confesse him self to be a Iewe.

7 In the day of the Kings birth they were grieuouly compelled parforce euerie moneth to banquet, and when the feast of Bacchus was kept, they were constrained to go in the procession of Bacchus with garlandes of yuue.

8 Moreouer through the counsel of Ptolemeus, there went out a commandemēt vnto the next cities of the heathen against the Iewes, that the like custome, and banquetting shulde be kept.

Or, eating of the flesh that was sacrificed.

9 And who so wolde not conforme them selues to the maners of the Gentiles, shulde be put to death: then might a man haue sene the present miserie.

10 For there were two women brought forth, that had circumcised their sonnes, whome when they had led rounde about y^e citie (the babes hanging at their breasts) they cast them downe headlong ouer the walles.

11 Some that were runne together into denses to kepe the Sabbath day secretly, were discouered vnto Philippe, and were burnt together, because that for the reuerence of the honorable day they were afraied to helpe them selues.

12 ¶ Now I beseeche those which reade this booke, that they be not discouraged for these calamities, but that they iudge these afflictions, not to be for destruction, but for a chastening of our nacion.

13 For it is a token of his great goodnes not to suffer sinners long to continue, but straight waies to punish them.

14 For the Lord doeth not long waite for vs, as for other nacions, whome he punisheth whē they are come to y^e fulnes of their sins.

15 But thus he dealeth with vs, that our sinnes shulde not be heaped vp to the ful, so that afterwarde he shulde punish vs.

16 And therefore he neuer withdraweth his mercie from vs: & thogh he punish with aduersitie, yet doeth he neuer forsake his people.

17 But let this be spoken now for a warnig vnto vs: & now wil we come to the declaring of the matter in fewe wordes.

18 ¶ Eleazar then one of the principal scribes, an aged man, & of a wel fauoured countenance, was constrained to open his mouth, and to eat swines flesh.

19 But he desiring rather to dye gloriously thē to liue with hatred, offered him self willingly to the torment, and spit it out.

20 As they ought to go to death which suffer punishment for suche things, as it is not lawful to taste of for the desire to liue.

21 But they that had the charge of this wicked banquet, for that olde friendship of the mā, toke him aside priuely, & prayed him, that he wolde take suche flesh, as was lauful for him to vse, & as he wolde prepare for him self, & dissemble as thogh he had eaten of the things appointed by y^e King, euen the flesh of the sacrifice, 22 That in so doing he might be deliuered from death, and that for the olde friendship that was among them, he wolde receiue this fauour.

23 But he began to consider discretely, & as became his age, and the excellencie of his ancient yeres, and the honour of his gray heeres, whereunto he was come, & his moste honest conuersation from his childehode, but chiefly the holie Law made and giuen by God: therefore he answered consequently, and willed them straight waies to send him to the graue.

24 For it becometh not our age, said he, to dissemble, whereby manie yong persones might thinke, that Eleazar being foure score yere olde and ten were now gone to another religion,

Or, to another manner of life.

25 And so through mine hypocrisie (for a litle time of a transitorie life) they might be deceiued by me, and I shulde procure maledictiō, & reproche to mine olde age.

26 For thogh I were now deliuered frō the torments of mē, yet colde I not escape the hand of the Almighty, nether aliuē nor dead.

27 Wherefore I wil now change this life manfully, and wil shewe my self suche as mine age requireth, 28 And so wil leaue a notable exāple for suche as be yong, to dye willingly & courageously for the honorable & hoie Lawes. And whē he had said these wordes, immediatly he went to torment.

29 Now they that led him, changed y^e loue which they bare him before, into hatred, because of the wordes that he had spoken: for they thogh it had bene a rage.

30 And as he was readie to giue the gost because of the strokes, he sighed and said, The Lord that hathe the holy knowledge, knoweth manifestly, that whereas I might haue bene deliuered frō death, I am scourged and suffer these fore paines of my bodie: but in my minde I suffer them gladly for his religion.

31 Euē now after this maner ended he his life, leauing his death for an exāple of a noble courage, and a memorial of vertue, not onely vnto yong mē, but vnto all his naciō.

CHAP. VII.

The punishment of the seuen brethren & of their mother.

1 It came to passe also that seuen brethren, with their mother, were taken to be compelled by the King against the Law, to taste swines flesh, and were tormented with scourges and whippes.

2 But one of them, which spake first, said thus, What sekest thou? and what woldest y^e knowe Dent. 32. 36.

- knowe of vs ⁊ we are readie to dye, rather the to trasgressse the Lawes of our fathers.
- 3 Then was the King angrie, and commanded to heat pannes and cauldrons, which were incontinently made hote.
- 4 And he comanded the tōgue of him that spake first, to be cut out, and to slay him & to cut of the vmoft partes of his bodie in y sight of his other brethren & his mother.
- 5 Now when he was thus mangled in all his membres, he comanded him to be broght alieue to the fyre & to frye him in the panne: & while the smoke for a long time smoked out of the pānc, the other brethren with their mother, exhorted one another to dye courageously, saying in this maner,
- 6 The Lord God doeth regarde vs, & in dettaketh pleasure in vs, as Moysest declared in the song wherein he testified openly, saying,
That God wil take pleasure in his seruāts.
- 7 ¶ So when the first was dead after this maner, they broght the seconde to make him a mocking stocke: and when they had pulled the skinne with y heere ouer his head, they asked him, if he wolde eat, or he were punished in all the membres of the bodie.
- 8 But he answered in his owne laagage, & said, No. Wherefore he was tormented forthewith like the first.
- 9 And when he was at y last breth, he said, Thou murderer takest this present life from vs, but the King of the worlde wil raise vs vp, which dye for his Lawes, in the resurrection of euerlasting life.
- 10 ¶ After him was the thirde had in derision, and when they demanded his tongue, he put it out incōtinently, & stretched forth the his hands boldly,
- 11 And spake manfully, These haue I had from the heauen, but now for the Law of God, I despise them, and trust that I shal receue them of him againe.
- 12 In so muche that the King & they which were with him, marueiled at the yong mā's courage, as at one that nothing regarded y paines.
- 13 ¶ Now when he was dead also, they vexed and tormented the fourth in like maner.
- 14 And when he was now readie to dye, he said thus, It is better that we shulde chāge this which we might hope for of men, & wait for our hope from God, that we may be raised vp againe by him: as for thee, thou shalt haue no resurrection to life.
- 15 ¶ Afterwarde they broght the fift also & tormented him,
- 16 Who loked vpon the King, & said, Thou hast power among men, and thogh thou be a mortal man, thou doest what thou wilt: but thinke not, that God hathe forsaken our nacion.
- 17 But abide a while, and thou shalt se his great power, how he wil torment thee and thy fede.
- 18 After him also they broght the sixt, who being at the point of death, said, Deceue not thy self foolishly: for we suffer these things, which are worthie to be wōdred at for our owne sakes, because we haue offended our God.
- 19 But thinke not thou, which vndertakest to fight against God, that thou shalt be vnpunished.
- 20 But the mother was marueilous aboue all other, & worthie of honorable memorie: for when she sawe her seuē sonnes slaine within y space of one day, she suffred it with a good wil, because of the hope that she had in the Lord.
- 21 Yea, she exhorted euerie one of them in her owne langage, and being ful of courage and wisdom, stirred vp her womanlie affections with a mālie stomacke, and said vnto them,
- 22 I can not tel how ye came into my wombe: for I nether gaue you breth nor life: it is not I that set in order the members of your bodie,
- 23 But douteles the Creator of the worlde, which formed the birth of man, & founde out the beginning of all things, wil also of his owne mercie giue you breth and life againe, as ye now regarde not your owne selues, for his Lawes sake.
- 24 Now Antiochus thinking him self despised, & considering the iniurious wordes, while the yongest was yet alieue, he did exhorte him not onely with wordes, but swore also vnto him by an othe y he wolde make him riche and welthic, if he wolde forsake y Lawes of his fathers, & that he wolde take him as a friēd, & giue him offices.
- 25 But when the yong mā wolde in no case hearken vnto him, the King called his mother, and exhorted that she wolde counsel the yong man to saue his life.
- 26 And when he had exhorted her with manie wordes, she promised him that she wolde counsel her sonne.
- 27 So she turned her vnto him, laughing the cruel tyrant to scorne, & spake in her owne langage, O my sonne, haue pitie vpon me, that bare thee nine moneths in my wombe, & gaue thee sucke thre yeres, & nourished thee, and toke care for thee vnto this age, and broght thee vp.
- 28 I beseeche thee, my sonne, loke vpon the heauen & the earth, and all that is therein, & consider that God made the of things y were not, & so was mākinde made likewise.
- 29 Feare not this hangman, but shewe thy self worthie suche brethren by suffering death, that I may receue thee in mercie with thy brethren.
- 30 While she was yet speaking these wor-des, the yong man said, Whome wait ye for: I wil not obey the Kings commandement: but I wil obey the commandement of the Lawe that was giuen vnto our fathers by Moyfes.

31 And thou that imaginest all mischief against the Hebrewes, shalt not escape the hand of God.

32 For we suffer these things, because of our sinnes,

33 But though the liuing Lord be angrie with vs a litle while for our chastening and correction, yet wil he be reconciled with his owne seruants.

34 But thou, o man without religion & moste wicked of all men, list not thy self vp in vaine, which art puffed vp with vncertaine hope, and listest thine hands against the seruants of God.

35 For thou hast not yet escaped the iudgement of almightie God, which seeth all things.

36 My brethré that haue suffered a litle paine, are now vnder the diuine couenant of euerlasting life: but thou through the iudgemēt of God, shalt suffer iust punishmentes for thy pride:

37 Therefore I, as my brethren haue done, offer my bodie and life for the Lawes of our fathers, beseeching God, that he wil some be merciful vnto our nacion, and that thou by torment and punishment mayest confesse, that he is the onelie God, 38 And that in me and my brethren y^e wrath of the Almighty, which is righteously fallen vpon all our nation, may cease.

39 Then the King being kindled with anger, raged more cruelly against him then the others, and toke it grieuouly, that he was mocked.

40 So he also dyed holely, and put his whole trust in the Lord.

41 Last of all after the sonnes, was the mother put to death.

42 Let this now be ynough spoken concerning the bankets, and extreme cruelties.

CHAP. VIII.

5 Iudas gathereth together his hoste. 9 Nicanor is sent against Iudas. 16 Iudas exhorteth his souldiers to constancie. 20 Nicanor is ouercome. 27 The Iewes giue thanks, after they haue put their enemies to flight, diuiding parte of the spoiles vnto the fatherles and vnto the widowes. 30 Timotheus and Bacchides are discomfited. 35 Nicanor sleeth vnto Antiochus.

1 THEN Iudas Maccabeus, and they that were with him, went priuely into the townes, & called their kinffolkes & friēds together, & toke vnto thē all suche as continued in the Iewes religio, and assembled six thousand men.

2 So they called vpo the Lord, that he wolde haue an eye vnto his people, which was vexed of euerie mā, & haue pitie vpo the Temple that was defiled by wicked men,

And that he wolde haue compassion vpon the citie y^e was destroyed, & almost broght to the grounde, & that he wolde heare the voyce of the blood that cryed vnto him,

4 And that he wolde remember the wicked slaughter of the innocent children, & the blasphemies comitted against his Name, & that he wolde shewe this hatred against the wicked.

5 Now when Maccabeus had gathered this multitude, he colde not be withstand by the heathen: for the wrath of the Lord was turned into mercie.

6 Therefore he came at vnwares, & burnt vp the townes and cities: yet he toke the moste commodious places, and slewe many of the enemies.

7 But specially he vsed the nightes to make suche assalts, in so muche that the brute of his manlines was spred euerie where.

8 ¶ So when Philippe sawe that this mā increased by litle and litle, and that things prospered with him for the moste parte, he wrote vnto Ptolemeus the gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice, to helpe him in the Kings busines.

9 Then sent he spedely Nicanor the sonne of Patroclus, a special friend of his, & gaue him of all nacions of the heathē no lesse then twentie thousand men, to rote out the whole generacion of the Iewes, & ioyned with him Gorgias a captaine, which in matters of warre had great experience.

10 Nicanor ordeined also a tribute for the King of two thousand talents, which the Romaines shulde haue, to be taken of the Iewes that were taken prisoners.

11 Therefore inmediately he sent to the cities on the seacoast, prouoking them to bye Iewes to be their seruants, promising to sel fourescore & ten for one talent; but he considered not the vengeance of almightie God, that shulde come vpon him.

12 When Iudas then knewe of Nicanors coming, he tolde thē that were with him, of the coming of the armie.

13 Now were there some of them fearful, which trusted not vnto y^e righteousness of God, but fled away, & abode not in y^e place.

14 But the other solde all that they had left, and besoght the Lord together, to deliuer them fro that wicked Nicanor, which had solde them, or euer he came nere them.

15 And though he wolde not do it for their sakes, yet for the couenant made with their fathers, and because they called vpon his holie and glorious Name.

16 And so Maccabeus called his men together, about six thousand, exhorting thē not to be afrated of their enemies, nether to feare the great multitude of the Gentiles, which came against them vnrighteously, but to fight manly,

17 Setting before their eyes the iniurie that they had vnustly done to the holy place, and the crueltie done to the citie by derision, and the destruction of the orders established by their fathers.

18 For they, said he, trust in their weapons & boldenes: but our confidence is in the almightie God, which at a becke can bothe destroy them that come against vs, and all the worlde.

19 Morcouer he admonished them of the helpe that God shewed vnto their fathers, as when there perished an hundreth and foure score, and siue thousand vnder* Sen-nacherib,

20 And of the battel that they had in Babylon against the Galacians, how they came in all to y battel eight thousand, with foure thousand Macedonians: and when the Macedonians were astonished, the eight thousand slewe an hūdreth & twentic thousand through the helpe that was giuen thē from heauen, whereby they had receued many benefites.

21 Thus when he had made thē bolde with these wordes, & readie to dye for y Lawes and the countrey, he deuided his armie into foure partes, 22 And made his owne brethren captaines ouer y armie, to wit, Simō, & Ioseph & Iona than, giuing eche one fiftene hūdreth men.

23 And when Eleazarus had red the holie boke, & giuen them a token of the helpe of God, Iudas which led the forwarde, ioyned with Nicanor,

24 And because the Almighty helped thē, they slewe aboue nine thousand men, and wounded and maimed the moste parte of Nicanors hoste, and so put all to flight, 25 And toke the money frō those that came to bye them, and pursued them farre: but lacking time they returned.

26 For it was the day before the Sabbath, & therefore they wold no longer pursue thē.

27 So they toke their weapōs, & spoiled the enemies, & kept the Sabbath, giuing thākes and praising the Lord wonderfully, which had deliuered them that day, and powred vpon them the beginning of his mercie.

28 And after the Sabbath, * they distributed the spoiles to the sicke, & to the fatherles, & to the widdowes, & deuided the residue among them selues and their children.

29 When this was done, & they all had made a general prayer, they besoght the merciful Lord to be reconciled at the length with his seruants.

30 Afterwarde with one cōsent they sel vpo Timotheus and Bacchides, & slewe aboue twētie thousand, & wanne hie & strong holdes, & deuided great spoiles, & gaue an equal porciō vnto y sicke, & to y fatherles, & to y widdowes, & to aged persones also.

31 Moreouer they gathered their weapons together, and layed them vp diligently in conuenient places, and broght the remnāt of the spoyles to Ierusalem.

32 They slewe also Philarches a moste wicked persone, which was with Timotheus, and had vexed the Iewes manie wayes.

33 And when they kept the feast of victorie in their countrey, they burnt Callisthenes that had set fyre vpon the holie gates, which was fled into a litle house: so he receiued a rewarde mete for his wickednes.

34 And that moste wicked Nicanor, which had broght a thousand marchants to bye the Iewes, 35 He was through the helpe of the Lord broght downe of them whome he thought as nothing, in so muche that he put of his glorious raiment, and fled ouerthwart the countrey like a fugitiue seruant, and came alone to Antiochia, with great dishonour through the destruction of his hoste.

36 Thus he that promised to pay tribute to the Romaines, by meanes of the prisoners of Ierusalem, broght newes, that the Iewes had a "defender, and for this cause none colde hurt y Iewes, because they followed the Lawes appointed by him.

CHAP. IX.

1 Antiochus willing to spoyle Persepolis, is put to flight.
5 As he persecuteth the Iewes, he is striken of the Lord. 13 The famed repentance of Antiochus. 28 He dyeth miserably.

1 AT the sametime, came Antiochus againe with dishonour out of the countrey of Persia.

2 For when he came to Persepolis, & went about to robbe the Temple, and to subdue the citie, the people ranne in a rage to defende them selues with their weapons, and put them to flight, and Antiochus was put to flight by the inhabitants, and returned with shame.

3 Now when he came to Ecbatana, he vnderstode the things that had come vnto Nicanor, and Timotheus.

4 And then being chafed in his fume, he thought to impute to y Iewes their faute, w had put him to flight, and therefore commanded his charer man to driue cōtinually, and to dispatche the iourney: for Gods iudgement compelled him: for he had said thus in his pride, I wil make Ierusalem a cōmune buryng place of the Iewes, whē I come thether.

5 But the Lord almightie & God of Israel smote him with an incurable and inuisible plague: for assone as he had spoken these wordes, a paine of the bowels, that was remediles, came vpon him, & fore tormēts of the inner partes,

6 And that moste iustely: for he had tormēted other mens bowels with diuerse, and strange torments.

- 7 Howbeit he wolde in no wise cease from his arrogancie, but swelled the more with pride, breathing out fyre in his rage against the Iewes, and commanded to haste the iornay: but it came to passe that he fel downe from the charet that rāne swiftly, so that all the membres of his bodie were bruised with the great fall.
- 8 And thus he that a litle afore thought he might commande the floods of the sea (so proude was he beyonde the condicion of man) & to weigh the hie mountaines in y balance, was now cast on the ground, and caried in an horselitter, declaring vnto all the manifest power of God,
- 9 Ab. 12, 23. So that the wormes came out of the bodie of this wicked man in abundance: and whiles he was aliue, his flesh fel of for paine and torment, and all his armie was grieved at his smel.
- 10 Thus no man colde beare because of his stinke, him y a litle afore thought he might reach to the starres of heauen.
- 11 Then he began to leaue of his great pride, & self wil, when he was plagued & came to the knowledge of him self by the scourge of God, & by his paine which increased euerie moment.
- 12 And when he him self might not abide his owne stinke, he said these wordes, It is mete to be subiect vnto God, & that a man which is mortal, shulde not thinke him self equal vnto God through pride.
- 13 This wicked persone prayed also vnto y Lord, who wolde now haue no mercie on him,
- 14 And said thus y he wolde set at libertie y holie citie vnto y which he made haste to destroy it, & to make it a burying place.
- 15 And as touching the Iewes, whome he had iudged not worthe to be buried, but wolde haue cast them out with their children to be deuoured of the foules & wilde beastes, he wolde make the all like the citizens of Athenes.
- 16 And whereas he had spoiled y holie Tēple afore, he wolde garnish it with great giftes, and encrease the holie vessels, and of his owne rentes beare the charges belonging to the sacrifices.
- 17 Yea, & that he wolde also become a Iewe him self, & go through all the worlde that was inhabited, & preache y power of God.
- 18 But for all this his paines wolde not cease: for the iust iudgemēt of God was come vpo him: therefore despairing of his helth, he wrote vnto the Iewes this letter vnder writen, cōteining y forme of a supplicatiō.
- 19 THE KING & prince Antiochus vnto the Iewes his louing citizens wisheth muche ioye and helth and prosperitie.
- 20 If ye and your children fare wel, & if all - things go after your minde, I giue great thākes vnto God hauing hope in y heauē.

- 21 Thogh I lie sicke, yet I am mindeful of your honour, & good wil for y loue I beare you: therefore when I returned frō the countrey of Persia, and fel into a sore disease, I thought it necessarie to care for the commune safetie of all,
- 22 Not distrusting mine helth, but hauing great hope to escape this sickenes.
- 23 Therefore considering that when my father led an hoste against y high cōtreys, he appointed who shulde succede him:
- 24 That if anie controuersie happened cōtrary to his expectation, or if that anie tidings were broght that were grieuous, they in the lād might knowe to whome y affaires were committed, that they shulde not be troubled.
- 25 Againe, when I ponder how that the gouernours, y are borderers, and neighbours vnto my kingdome, waite for all occasiōs, & loke but for opportunitie, I haue ordeined that my sōne Antiochus shal be King whome I oft cōmēded & cōmitted to many of you, whē I went into y hie prouinces, & haue writē vnto hī as followeth hereafter.
- 26 Therefore, I pray you & require you, to remēber the benefites y I haue done vnto you generally, & particularly, and y euerie mā wil be faithful to me and to my sonne.
- 27 For I trust that he wil be gentle, & louing vnto you according to my minde.
- 28 ¶ Thus y murtherer & blasphemēr suffered moste grieuouly, & as he had intreated other mē, so he dyed a miserable death in a strange countrey among the mountaines.
- 29 And Philippe that was broght vp with him, carryed away his bodie, who fearing the sonne of Antiochus, went into Egypt to Ptolemeus Philometor.

- 1 Maccabeus now and his companie, through the helpe of the Lord, war the Temple and the citie againe,
- 2 And destroyed the altars, and chapels that the heathē had buylded in the open places,
- 3 And clesed the Tēple, & made another altar, & burned stones, & toke fyre of the, and offred sacrifices, & incense two yeres, and six monethes after, and set forthe the lampes, and the shewebread.
- 4 When that was done, they fel downe flax vpon the grounde, and besoght the Lord, that they might come no more into suche troubles: but if they sinned anie more against him, that he him self wolde chastē them with mercie, & that they might not be

- be deliuered to the blasphemous, and barbarous nations.
- 5 Now vpon the same day, that the strangers polluted the Temple, on the verie same day it was closed againe euen y^e five & twentieth day of the same moneth, which is Chasseu.
- 6 They kept eight dayes with gladnes as in the feast of the Tabernacles, remébring, that not long afore they held the feast of the Tabernacles when they liued in the mountaines and dennes like beastes.
- 7 And for the same cause they bare grene bowes, and faire branches and palmes, and sang psalmes vnto him that had giuen the good successe in cleansing his place.
- 8 They ordeined also by a commune statute, and decre that euerie yere those dayes shulde be kept of y^e whole naci^on of y^e Iewes.
- 9 And this was the end of Antiochus called Epiphanes.
- 10 ¶ Now wil we declare the actes of Antiochus Eupator, which was the sonne of this wicked man gathering briefly the calamities of the warres, that followed.
- 11 For when he had taken the kingdome, he made one Lyfias, which had bene captaine of the hoste in Phenice, & Coclosyria, ruler ouer the affaires of the realme.
- 12 For Ptolemeus that was called Macron, purposed to do iustice vnto the Iewes for y^e wrong, y^e had bene done vnto the. & went about to behaue him self peaceably wth the.
- 13 For the which cause he was accused of his friends before Eupator, & was called oft times traitour, because he had left Cyprus that Philometor had committed vnto him, and came to Antiochus Epiphanes: therefore seing that he was no more in estimation, he was discouraged, and poysonned him self, and dyed.
- 14 ¶ But when Gorgias was gouernour of the same places, he interteined strangers, & made warre oft times against the Iewes.
- 15 Moreouer the Idumeans that helde the strong holds, which were mere for their purpose, troubled the Iewes, and by receiuing them that were driuen fro^m Ierusalem, toke in hand to continue warre.
- 16 Then thei that were with Maccabeus made prayers, & besought God that he wolde be their helper, and so they fel vpon the strong holdes of the Idumeans,
- 17 And assailed them sore, that they wanne the places, & slewe all that fought against them on the wall, and killed al: y^e they met with, & slewe no lesse the twentieth thousand.
- 18 And because certeine (which were no lesse then nine thousand) were fled into two strong castels, hauing all manner of things conuenient to susteine the siege,
- 19 Maccabeus left Simo, & Ioseph, & Zachheus also, & those that were with the, w^{ch} were ynowe to besiege them, and departed to those places w^{ch} were more necessarie.
- 20 Now thei that were with Simon, being led with couetousnes, were intreated for monei, (thorowe certeine of those that were in y^e castel,) & toke seuentie thousand drachmes, and let some of them escape.
- 21 But when it was tolde Maccabeus what was done, he called the gouernours of the people together, & accused those mé, that they had solde their brethren for money, and let their enemies go.
- 22 So he slewe the when they were couict of traifon, & immediatly wanne y^e two castels:
- 23 And hauing good successe, as in all the warres that he toke in hand, he slew in the two castels mo then twentieth thousand.
- 24 Now Timotheus whome the Iewes had ouercome afore, gathered an armie of strangers of all sortes, and broght a great troupe of horsemen out of Asia to winne Ierrie by strength.
- 25 But when he drewe nere, Maccabeus, and thei y^e were with him, turned to praye vnto God, & sprinkled earth vpon their heads, & girded their reines with sackcloth,
- 26 And fel downe at the fote of the altar, & besought the Lord to be merciful to them, & to be an enemy to their enemies, and to be an aduersarie to their aduersaries, * as Exod. 23. 28. deu. 20. 4.
- 27 So after the prayer, they toke their weapons, & went on further from the citie, & when they came nere to the enemies, they toke hede to them selues.
- 28 And whé y^e morning appeared, they both ioyned together: the one parte had y^e Lord for their refuge, & pledge of prosperitie, & noble victorie, and the other toke courage as a guide of the warre.
- 29 But when y^e battel waxed strong, there appeared vnto the enemies fro^m heauen siue comelie men vpon horses with bridles of golde, and two of them led the Iewes,
- 30 And toke Maccabeus betwixt them, & couered him on euarie side with their weapons, & kept him safe, but shot dartes, & lightnings against the enemies, so y^e they were cofounded with blindenes, and beaten downe and ful of trouble.
- 31 There were slaine of fote ment wéttie thousand & siue húdredth & six húdredth horsmé.
- 32 As for Timotheus him self, he fled vnto Gazara, w^{ch} was called a very strong holde, wherein Chereas was captaine.
- 33 But Maccabeus & his copanie laid siege against y^e fortress w^{ch} courage for foure daies.
- 34 And thei that were within, trusting to the height of the place, blasphemed exceedingly, and spake horrible wordes.
- 35 Neutrtheles vpon the fifth day in y^e morning twentieth y^og men of Maccabeus copanie, whose hearts were inflamed, because of y^e blasphemies, came vnto y^e warre, & w^{ch} boide stomackes smote downe those y they met.

- 36 Others also that climed vp vpon the engines of warre against the that were within, set fyre vpon the towers, & burnt those b'asphemers quicke with the fyres that they had made, & others brake vp the gates, and receiued the rest of the armie, and toke the citie.
- 37 And hauing found Timotheus, that was crept into a caue, they killed him, & Chereas his brother with Apollophanes.
- 38 When this was done, they praised y Lord with psalmes, and thanksgiuing, which had done so great things for Israel, & giuen them the victorie.

CHAP. XI.

9 Lyfias goeth about to ouercome the Iewes. 9 Succour is sent from heauen vnto the Iewes. 16 The letter of Lyfias vnto the Iewes. 20 The letter of King Antiochus vnto Lyfias. 27 A letter of the same vnto the Iewes. 34 A letter of the Romans to the Iewes.

Verie shortly after this, Lyfias the Kings stewarde, and a kinsma of his, which had the gouernance of the affaires, toke sore displeasure for the things that were done.

- 2 And when he had gathered about fourescore thousand, with all the horsmen he came against the Iewes, thinking to make the citie an habitation of the Gentiles.
- 3 And the Temple wolde he haue to get money by, like the other temples of the heathen: for he wolde sel the Priests office euerie yere.
- 4 And thus being puffed vp in his minde, because of the great number of fotemen, & thousands of horsmen, & in his foure score elephants,
- 5 He came into Iudea, and drewe nere to Beth-sura, which was a castel of defence, five furlongs from Ierusalem, and laid sore sieg vnto it.
- 6 But when Maccabeus, and his companie knewe that he besieged the holdes, they, & all the people made prayers with weping, and teares before the Lord, that he wolde send a good Angel to deliuer Israel.
- 7 And Maccabeus him self first of all toke weapons, exhorting the other that they wolde leoparde them selues together with him to helpe their brethren: so they went forthe together w a courageous minde.
- 8 And as thei were there besides Ierusalem, there appeared before them vpon horsebacke a man in white clothing, shaking his harnes of golde.
- 9 Then they praised the merciful God all together, and toke heart, in so muche that they were ready, not onely to fight w me, but with the moste cruel beasts, & to breake downe walles of yron.
- 10 Thus they marched forward in array, hauing an helper from heauen: for the Lord was merciful vnto them.

- 11 And rining vpo their enemies like lions, they slewe eleuen thousand fotemen, and sixteen hundreth horsmen, & put all the other to flight.
- 12 Manie of them also being wounded, escaped naked, and Lyfias him self fled away shamefully, and so escaped,
- 13 Who as he was a man of vnderstanding cōsidering what losse he had had, & knowing, that the Hebrewes colde not be overcome because the almightie God helped them, sent vnto them,
- 14 And promised, that he wolde consent to all things which were reasonable, and persuade the King, to be their friend.
- 15 Maccabeus agreed to Lyfias requestes, hauing respect in all things to y commune welth, and whatsoeuer Maccabeus wrote vnto Lyfias concerning the Iewes, the King granted it.
- 16 For there were letters written vnto the Iewes fro Lyfias cōteining these wordes, LYSIAS vnto the people of the Iewes sendeth greting.
- 17 Iohn & Abessalom, which were sent fro you, deliuered me the things that you demande by writing, and required me to fulfil the things that they had declared.
- 18 Therefore what things soeuer were mete to be reported to the King him self, I haue declared them, and he granted that that was possible.
- 19 Therefore if ye behaue your selues as friends toward his affaires, hereafter also I wil indeuour my self to do you good.
- 20 As concerning these things, I haue giue commandement to these men, and to those whome I sent vnto you, to commune with you of the same particularly.
- 21 Fare ye wel, the hundreth and eight and fortie yere, the foure and twētieth day of the moneth Dioscorinthius.
- 22 ¶ Now the Kings letter contened these wordes, KING ANTIOCHVS vnto his brother Lyfias sendeth greting.
- 23 Since our father is translated vnto the gods, our wil is, that they which are in our realme, liue quietly, that euerie man may applie his owne affaires.
- 24 We vnderstand also that the Iewes wolde not consent to our father, for to be broght vnto the custome of the Gentiles, but wolde kepe their owne maner of liuing: for the which cause they require of vs, that we wolde suffer them to liue after their owne Lawes.
- 25 Wherefore our minde is that this naciō shalbe in rest, and haue determined to restore them their Temple, that thei may be gouerned according to the custome of their fathers.
- 26 Thou shalt do wel therefore to send vnto them.

a Whereof sight make a mile.

them, and grante them peace, that when they are certified of our minde, they maie be of good comfort, and cherefully go about their owne affaires.

27 And this was the Kings letter vnto the nacion, KING ANTIOCHVS vnto the Elders of the Iewes, and to the rest of the Iewes sendeth greting.

28 If ye fare wel, we haue our desire: we are also in good helth.

29 Menelaus declared vnto vs that your desire was to returne home, & to applie your owne busines.

30 Wherefore, those that wil departe, we giue them fre libertie, vnto the thirtie daye of the moneth of Panthicus,

Or, April.

31 That the Iewes may vse their owne manner of liuing and Lawes, like as afort, and none of them by anie manner of waies to haue harme for things done by ignorance.

32 I haue sent also Menelaus to comfort you.

33 Fare ye wel: the húdreth and eight & fortie yere, the fiftenth day of the moneth of Panthicus.

Or, Manlius.

34 ¶ The Romains also sent a letter containing these wordes, QVINTVS MEMMIVS and Titus Manilius embassadours of the Romains, vnto the people of the Iewes send greting.

35 The things that Lyfias the Kings kinsman hathe granted you, we grant the same also.

36 But concernaing that which he shal report vnto the King, send hether some with speede, when ye haue considered the matter diligently, that we may consult thereupō as shalbe best for you: for we must go vnto Antiochia.

37 And therefore make haste and send some men, that we may knowe your minde.

38 Fare wel: this hundreth and eight, and fortie yere, the fiftenth day of the moneth of Panthicus.

CHAP. XII.

1 Timotheus troubleth the Iewes. 3 The wicked dede of the of Ioppe against the Iewes. 6 Iudas aduenged of the. 9 He seteth fyre in the hauē of Iamnia. 20 The pursute of the Iewes against Timotheus. 24 Timotheus is taken and let go unhurt. 32 Iudas pursueth Gorgias.

1 WHen these couenāts were made, Lyfias went vnto the King, and the Iewes tilled their grounde.

2 But the gouernours of the places, as Timotheus & Apollonius the sonne of Gennus, and Ieronimus, & also Demophon, and besides them Nicanor the gouernour of Cyprus, wolde not let them liue in rest and peace.

3 ¶ They of Ioppe also did suche a vile act: they prayed the Iewes that dwelt among them, to go with their wiues and children into the shippes, which they had prepared as thogh they had ought them none euil wil.

4 And so by the commune aduise of the citie, they obeyed them, and suspect nothing: but when they were gone forthe into the depe, they drowned no lesse than two hundreth of them.

5 Now when Iudas knewe of this crueltie shewed against his nacion, he commāded those men that were with him, to make them readie.

6 And hauing called vpon God the righteous Iudge, he went forthe against the murtherers of his brethren, and set fyre in the hauen by night, & burnt the ships, and those that fled thence, he slewe.

7 And when the citie was shut vp, he departed as thogh he wolde come againe, and roote out all them of the citie of Ioppe.

8 ¶ But when he perceued that the Iānites were minded to do in like maner vnto the Iewes, which dwelt among them, 9 He came vpon the Iamnites by night, & set fyre in the hauē with the nauē, so that the light of the fyre was sene at Ierusalē, vpon a two hundreth and fortie furlongs.

10 Now when they were gone from thence nine furlongs, in their iourney towarde Timotheus, about fise thousand mē of fyre and fise hundreth horsemen of the Arabians set vpon him.

11 So the battel was sharpe, but it prospered with Iudas thorowe the helpe of God: the Nomades of Arabia, being ouercome, be foght Iudas to make peace with them, and promised to giue him certeine cattel, and to helpe him in other things.

a so called because they were thep-herds.

12 And Iudas thinking that they shulde in dede be profitable cōcerning manre thigs, granted them peace: whereupō thei shoke hands, and so they departed to their tents.

13 ¶ Iudas also assaltd a citie called Caspis, which was strong by reason of a bridge, and fenced rounde about with walles, and had diuers kindes of people dwelling therein.

14 So theŷ were within it, put suche trust in the strength of the walles, and in store of vitales, that they were the slacker in their doings, reuiling thē that were with Iudas, and reproching thē: yea, they blasphemed & spake suche wordes as were not lawfull.

15 But Maccabeus souldiers, calling vpon the great Prince of ŷ worlde (which without anie instruments, or engins of warre, did cast downe the walles of Iericho, in the time of Iesus) gaue a fierce assalt against the walles,

Or, cast rammes. Ios. 6. 20.

16 And toke the citie by the wil of God, and made an exceding great slaughter, in so muche that a lake of two furlongs broad, which laye thereby, semed to flowe with blood.

- 17 ¶ Then departed they from thence, seven hundred and fiftie furlongs, and came to Characa vnto the Iewes, that are called Tubieni.
- 18 But they founde not Timotheus there: for he was departed from thence, and had done nothing, and had left a garison in a verie strong holde.
- 19 But Dositheus, & Sosipater, which were captaines with Maccabeus, went forthe, & slewe those that Timotheus had left in the forteresse more the ten thousand men.
- 20 And Maccabeus prepared, & ranged his armie by bandes, & went courageously against Timotheus, which had with him an hundred and twentie thousand men of force, and two thousand and five hundred horsemen.
- 21 Whē Timotheus had knowledge of Iudas comming, he sent the women, & children, and the other baggage afore vnto a forteresse called Carnion (for it was hard to besiege, & vnease to come vnto because of the straites on all sides.)
- 22 But when Iudas first bade came in sight, the enemies were smiten with feare, and a trembling was among them thorow the presence of him that seeth all things, in so muche that they fleing one here, another there, were oft times hurt by their owne people, and wounded with the pointes of their owne swordes.
- 23 But Iudas was verie earnest in pursuing, and slewe those wicked men: yea, he slewe thirtie thousand men of them.
- 24 Timotheus also him self fell into the hands of Dositheus, & Sosipater, whome he besoght with muche crafte to let him go with his life, because he had manie of the Iewes parents & the brethren of some of them, which if they put him to death, shulde be despised.
- 25 So when he had assured the with manie wordes, & promised that he wolde restore them without hurt, they let him go for the helth of their brethren.
- 26 ¶ Then went Maccabeus towarde Carnion, and Atargation, and slewe five and twentie thousand persones.
- 27 And after that he had chased away and slayne the, Iudas remoued the hoste towarde Ebron a strong citie, wherein was Lyfias & a great multitude of all naciōs, & the strong yong men kept the walles defendig the mightely: there was also great preparacion of engins of warre, & dartes.
- 28 But when they had called vpon the Lord, which with his power breaketh the strength of the enemies, they wan the citie, & slewe five and twentie thousand of them that were within.
- 29 ¶ Fro thence went they to Scythopolis, which lieth six hundred furlongs fro Ierusalē.
- 30 But when the Iewes which dwelt there, testified, that the Scythopolitans delt lovingly with them, & intreated them kindly in the time of their aduersitie,
- 31 They gaue them thanks, desiring them to be friendlie stil vnto them, and so they came to Ierusalem, as the feast of the weekes approached.
- 32 ¶ And after y feast called Pentecost they went forthe against Gorgias the gouernour of Idumea.
- 33 Who came out with thre thousand men of fote and foure hundred horsemen.
- 34 And when they ioyned together, a fewe of the Iewes were slayne,
- 35 And Dositheus one of the Baccenors, which was on horsebacke and a mightie man, toke Gorgias, and laied holde of his garment, and drewe him by force, because he wolde haue taken the wicked man aliue: but an horseman of Thracia fell vpon him, and smote of his shulder, so that Gorgias fled into Marisa.
- 36 And when they that were with Eserin, had fought long, and were wearie, Iudas called vpon the Lord, that he wolde shewe him self to be their helper, and captaine of the field.
- 37 And then he began in his owne langage, and sung psalmes with a loude voyce, in so muche that straight wayes he made the that were about Gorgias, to take their flight.
- 38 ¶ So Iudas gathered his hoste, and came into the citie of Odolla. And when the seuenth day came, they clenfed them selues (as the custome was) and kept the Sabbath in the same place.
- 39 And vpon the daye following, as necessitie required, Iudas & his companie came to take vp the bodies of them that were slayne, and to burye them with their kinsmen in their fathers graues.
- 40 Now vnder the coates of euerie one, that was slayne, they founde iewels that had bene consecrate to the idoles of the Iammites, which thing is forbidden the Iewes by the Law. The euerie man sawe, that this was the cause wherefore they were slayne.
- 41 And so euerie man gaue thanks vnto the Lord, the righteous Iudge, which had opened the things that were hid.
- 42 And they gaue them selues to prayer, & besoght him, that they shulde not vterly be destroyed for the faute committed. Besides that, noble Iudas exhorted the people to kepe them selues from sinne, for so muche as they sawe before their eyes the things which came to passe by the sinne of these that were slayne,
- 43 And hauing made a gathering through the companie, sent to Ierusalē about two thousand thousand drachmes of siluer, to offer a sin-offering, doing very wel, and honestly that he thought of the resurrection.

44 For if he had not hoped, that they which were slaine, shulde rise againe, it had bene superfluous, and vaine, to pray for the dead.

45 And therefore he perceiued, that there was great fauour laid vp for those y^e dyed godly. (It was an holie, & a good thought) So he made a reconciliation for the dead that they might be deliuered from sinne.

CHAP. XIII.

The coming of Eupator into Iudea. 4 The death of Menelaus. 10 Maccabeus going to fight against Eupator, moueth his souldiers vnto prayer. 15 He killeth fouretene thousand men in the tentes of Antiochus. 21 Rhodocus the betrayer of the Iewes is taken.

IN the hundreth, fortie and nine yere it was tolde Iudas, that Antiochus Eupator was comming with a great power into Iudea,

2 And Lysias the stewarde and ruler of his affaires with him, hauing bothe in their arme an hundreth and tenthousand men of fote of the Grecians, and fise thousand horsemen, and two and twentie elephants, and thre hundreth charets set with hookes.

3 Menelaus also ioyned him self with them and with great disceit encouraged Antiochus, not for the safegard of the countrei, but because he thoght to haue bene made the gouernour.

4 But the King of Kings moued Antiochus minde against this wicked man, and Lysias informed the King that this man was the cause of all mischief, so that the King commanded to bring him to Berea to put him vnto death as the maner was in that place.

5 Now there was in that place a tower of fiftie cubites high, ful of ashes, and it had an instrument that turned rounde, and on euerie side it rouled downe into the ashes.

6 And there whosoeuer was condemned of sacrilege, or of anie other grieuous crime, was cast of all men to the death.

7 And so it came to passe that this wicked man shulde dye suche a death, and it was a moste iuste thing that Menelaus shulde want buryal,

8 For because he had committed manie finnes by the altar, whose fyre and ashes were holie: he him self also dyed in the ashes.

9 ¶ Now the King raged in his minde, and came to shewe him self more cruel vnto the Iewes then his father.

10 Which things when Iudas perceiued, he commanded the people to call vpon the Lord night and day, that if euer he had holpen them, he wolde now helpe them, when they shulde be put from their Law, from their countrey and from the holie Temple:

11 And that he wolde not suffer the people, which a litle afore began to recouer, to be subdued vnto the blasphemous nations.

12 So when they had done this all together, and besoght the Lord for mercie with weping, and fasting, and falling downe thre daies together, Iudas exhorted them to make them selues readie.

13 And he being aparte with the Elders, toke counsel to go forthe, afore the King broght his hoste into Iudea, & shulde take the citie, & commit the matter to the helpe of the Lord.

14 So committing the charge to the Lord of the worlde, he exhorted his souldiers to fight manfully, euen vnto death for the Lawes, the Temple, the citie, their countrey, and the commune wealth, and camped by Modin.

15 And so giuing his souldiers for a watche worde, The victorie of God, he piked out the manliest yong men, and went by night into the Kings campe, and slewe of the hoste fourtene thousand men, & the greatest elephant with all that sate vpon him.

16 Thus when they had broght a great feare, and trouble in the campe, & all things went prosperously with them, they departed.

17 This was done in the breake of the day, because the protection of the Lord did helpe them.

18 ¶ Now when the King had tasted the manlines of the Iewes, he went about to take the holdes by policie, 19 And marched towarde Beth-sura, which was a strong holde of the Iewes: but he was chased away, hurt and lost of his men.

20 For Iudas had sent vnto them that were in it, suche things as were necessarie.

21 But Rhodocus which was in the Iewes hoste, disclosed the secretes to y^e enemies: therefore he was soght out, and when they had gotten him, they put him in prison.

22 After this did the King commune with them that were in Beth-sura, and toke truste with them, departed, and ioyned battel with Iudas, who ouercame him.

23 But when he vnderstode, that Philippe (whome he had left to be ouerseer of his busines at Antiochia) did rebell against him, he was astonished, so that he yelded him self to the Iewes, and made them an othe to do all things that were right, and was appeased towarde them, & offered sacrifice and adorned the Temple, and shewed great gentlenes to the place.

a Fro this ver se to the end of this chapter the Greke text is corrupt, so that no good sense, muche lesse certeine doctrine can be gathered thereby. Also it is euident that this place was not written by the holie Ghost, because it dissenteth fro the rest of the holie Scriptures, and also y^e autor of this booke acknowledgig his owne inhirmitie, desireth pardon, if he haue not attained to y^e he shulde. And it semeth, that this Iason the Cyrenean, out of whome he toke this abridgement, is Ioseph Ben Gorion, who hath the written in Ebrewe fise bookes of these matters, and increating this place, maketh no mention of this prayer for the dead, lib. 3. chap. 19. for it is contrarie to the cugrome of the Iewes, euen to this day, to pray for the dead. And though Iudas had so done, yet this particular example is not sufficient to establish a doctrine no more then Ziporahs was prone that women might minister the sacraments, Exo. 4. 25. or the example of Razis that one might kil him self, whome this autor so muche commendeth, 2. Macc. 14. 41.

Or, gave and took the right hand.

- 24 And embraced Maccabeus, and made him captaine and gouernour from Ptolemais vnto the Gerreneans.
- 25 Neuertheles, whē he came to Ptolemais, the people of the citie were not content wth this agreement: and because they were grieued, they wolde that he shulde breake the couenants.
- 26 Then went Lyfias vp into the iudgemēt feat, and excused the fact as wel as he colde, & perswaded them, and pacified them, and made them wel affectioned, and came againe vnto Antiochia. This is the matter concerning the Kings iournay, and his returne.

CHAP. XIII.

Demetrius moued by Alcimus sendeth Nicanor to kil the Iewes. 18 Nicanor maketh a compasse with the Iewes. 29 Which he yet breaketh through the motion of the King 37 Nicanor commandeth Razas to be taken, who slayeth him self.

- 1 After thre yeres was Iudas enformed that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come vp with a great power and name by the hauē of Tripolis,
- 2 When he had wonne the countrey, and slaine Antiochus and his lieutenant Lyfias.
- 3 Now Alcimus, which had bene the high Priest, and wilfully defiled him self in the time that all things were cōfounded, seing that by no meanes he colde saue him self, nor haue anie more entrance to the holie altar,
- 4 He came to King Demetrius in the hundredeth, fiftie and one yere, presenting vnto him a crowne of golde, and a palme, & of the boughes, which were vsed solemnely in the Temple, and that day he helde his tongue.
- 5 But when he had gotten opportunitie, & occasion for his rage, Demetrius called him to counsel, and asked him what deuises or counsels the Iewes leaned vnto.
- 6 To the which he answered, the Iewes that be called Asideans whose captaine is Iudas Maccabeus, mainteine warres, and make insurrections, and wil not let the realme be in peace.
- 7 Therefore I, being depriued of my fathers honour (I meane the high priesthode) am now come hether,
- 8 Partely because I was wel affectioned vnto the Kings affaires, and secondly because I sought y^e profite of mine owne citizēs: for all our people, thorowe their rashnes, are not a litle troubled.
- 9 Wherefore, o King, seing thou knowest all these things, make prouision for the countrey, and our nacion which is abused, according to thine owne humanitie, that is readie to helpe all men.
- 10 For as long as Iudas liueth, it is not possible that the matter shulde be wel.
- 11 When he had spoken these wordes, other friends also hauing euil wil at Iudas, set Demetrius on fyre.
- 12 Who immediatly called for Nicanor, the ruler of the elephants, and made him captaine ouer Iudea,
- 13 And sent him forthe, commanding him to slay Iudas, and to scatter thē that were with him, & to make Alcimus high Priest of the great Temple.
- 14 Then the heathen which fled out of Iudea from Iudas, came to Nicanor by flockes, thinking the harme and calamities of the Iewes to be their welfare.
- 15 Now whē the Iewes heard of Nicanors comming, and the gathering together of the heathen, they sprinkled them selues with earth, & prayed vnto him which had appointed him self a people foreuer, and did alway defende his owne porcion with euident tokens.
- 16 So at the commandement of the captaine, they remoued straight wayes from thence, and came to the towne of Dessen,
- 17 Where Simō Iudas brother had ioyned battel with Nicanor, and was somewhat astonished thorowe the sudden silence of the enemies.
- 18 Neuertheles Nicanor hearing the manlines of them that were with Iudas, & the bolde stomackes that they had for their countrey, durst not proue the matter with blood shedding.
- 19 Wherefore, he sent Posidonius, ^{Or, Theodoras.} Theodorus, and ^{Or, Matthias} Matthias before, to make peace.
- 20 So when they had taken long aduise mēt thereupō, and the captaine shewed it vnto the multitude, they were agreed in one minde, and consented to the couenants.
- 21 And they appointed a day when they shulde particularly come together: so whē the day was come, they set for euerie man his stoole.
- 22 Neuertheles Iudas commanded certeine men of armes to waite in conuenient places, lest there shulde suddenly arise anie euil thorowe the enemies: and so they communed together of the things whereupon they had agreed.
- 23 Nicanor, while he abode at Ierusalem, did none hurt, but sent away the people that were gathered together.
- 24 He ^{Or, had Iudas before his eyes.} loued Iudas, and fauoured him in his heart.
- 25 He praid him also to take a wife, and to beget children: so he married, & they liued together.
- 26 But Alcimus perceiuing the loue that was betwene them, and vnderstanding the couenantes that were made, came to Demetrius, and tolde him that Nicanor had taken strange matters in hand, and ordeined Iudas a traitour to the realme, to be his successour.

 27 Then the King was displeas'd, and by the reportes of this wicked man, he wrote to Nicanor, saying, that he was very angry for the couenants, commanding him that he shulde send Maccabeus in all haste prisoner vnto Antiochia.
 28 When these things came to Nicanor, he was astonish'd & sore grieued, y^e he shulde breake the things wherein they had agreed, seeing that that man had committed no wickednes.
 29 But because it was not comodious to him to withstand the King, he fought craftely to accomplish it.
 30 Notwithstanding when Maccabeus perceiued that Nicanor beganne to be rough vnto him, and that he intreated him more rudely thē he was wonte, he perceiued that suche rigour came not of good, and therefore he gathered a fewe of his men, and withdrewe him self from Nicanor.
 31 But the other perceiuing that he was preuented by Maccabeus worthie policie, came into the great & holie Temple, and commanded the Priests, which were offering their vsual sacrifices, to deliuer him the man.
 32 And when they sware that they colde not tell where the man was, whome he sought, 33 He stretched out his right hand toward the Temple, and made an othe in this manner, If ye wil not deliuer me Iudas as a prisoner, I wil make this Temple of God a plaine field, and wil breake downe the altar, and wil erect a notable Temple vnto Bacchus.
 34 After these wordes he departed: then the Priests lift vp their hands toward heauē, and besought him that was euer the defender of their nation, saying in this maner, 35 Thou, o Lord of all things, which hast nede of nothing, woldest that the Temple of thine habitacion shulde be among vs.
 36 Therefore now, o moste holie Lord, kepe this house euer vndefiled, which lately was clenfed, and stoppe all the mouths of the vnrighteous.
 37 Now was there accused vnto Nicanor, Razis one of the Elders of Ierusalem, a louer of the citie, and a man of very good reporte, which for his loue was called a father of the Iewes.
 38 For this man afore times when the Iewes were minded to kepe them selues vndefiled and pure, being accused to be of the religion of the Iewes, did offer to spend his bodie and life with all constancie for the religion of the Iewes.
 39 So Nicanor willing to declare the hatred that he bare to the Iewes, sent about fise hundred men of warre to take him.

40 For he thought by taking him to do the Iewes muche hurte.
 41 But when this companie wolde haue taken his castel, and wolde haue broken the gates by violence, and cōmanded to bring fyre to burne the gates, so that he was ready to be taken on euerie side, he fell on his sworde,
 42 Willing rather to dye manfully, thē to giue him self into the nāds of wicked men, and to suffer reproche vnworthie for his noble stocke.
 43 Notwithstanding what time as he misfired of his stroke for haste, and the multitude ruffhed in violently between the dores, he ran boldly to the wall, and cast him self downe manfully amōg the multitude.
 44 Which conueyed them selues lightly away, and gaue place, so that he fell vpon his bellie.
 45 Neuertheles while there was yet breth in him, being kindled in his minde, he rose vp, and thogh his blood gushed out like a fountaine, and he was verie sore wounded, yet he ran thorow the middes of the people, 46 And gate him to y^e toppe of an hie rocke: so when his blood was vtterly gone, he toke out his owne bowels with bothe his hands, and threwe them vpon the people, calling vpon the Lord of life and spirit, that he wolde restore them againe vnto him, and thus he dyed.

a As this private example ought not to be followed of y^e godlie, because it is contrary to y^e worde of God, although the author here to approve it: so that place as touching prayer chap. 12, 44, thogh Iudas had appointed it, yet were it not sufficient to proue a doctrine, because it is onely a particular example.

CHAP. XV.

1 Nicanor goeth about to come vpon Iudas on the Sabbath day. 5 The blasphemie of Nicanor. 14 Maccabeus expounding vnto the Iewes the vision, incourageth them. 21 The prayer of Maccabeus. 30 Maccabeus commandeth Nicanors head and hands to be cut off, and his tongue to be giuen vnto the foules. 39 The author excuseth him self.

1 NOW when Nicanor knewe that Iudas and his companie were in the countrey of Samaria, he thought with all assurance to come vpon them, vpon the Sabbath day.
 2 Neuertheles the Iewes that were compelled to go with him, said, O kill not so cruelly and barbarously, but honour and sanctifie the day, that is appointed by him that seeth all things.
 3 But this moste wicked persone demāded, Is there a Lord in heauen, that commanded the Sabbath day to be kept?
 4 And whē they said, There is a liuīg Lord, which ruleth in the heauen, who commanded the seuenth day to be kept,
 5 Thē he said, And I am mightie vpon earth to commande them for to arme them selues, and to performe the Kings busines. Notwithstanding, he colde not accomplish his wicked enterprife.
 6 For Nicanor lifted vp with great pridē,

- purposed to set vp a memorial of the victorie obtained of all them that were with Iudas.
- 7 But Maccabeus had euer sure confidence and a perfite hope that the Lord wolde helpe him,
- 8 And exhorted his people not to be afraid at the coming of the heathen, but alway to remember the helpe that had bene shewed vnto them from heauen, and to trust now also, that they shulde haue the victorie by the Almightye.
- 9 Thus he incouraged them by the Law & Prophetes, putting them in remembrance of the battels that they had wone afore, & so made them more willing,
- 10 And stirred vp their hearts, and shewed them also the disceitfulnes of the heathē, and how they had broken their othes.
- 11 Thus he armed euerie one of them, not with the assurance of shields and speares, but with wholsome wordes and exhortacions, and shewed them a dreame worthie to be beleued, and reioyced them greatly.
- 12 And this was his vision, He thoght that he sawe Onias (which had bene the high Priest, a vertuous & a good man, reuerent in behauiour, and of sober conuersation, wel spoken, and one that had bene exercised in all pointes of godlines from a child) holding vp his hands towarde heauen, and praying for the whole people of the Iewes.
- 13 ¶ After this there appeared vnto him another man which was aged, honorable, and of a wonderful dignitie, and excellencie aboute him.
- 14 And Onias spake, & said, This is a louer of the brethren, who prayeth muche for the people, and for the holie citie, to wit, Ieremias the Prophet of God.
- 15 He thoght also that Ieremias helde out his right hand, and gaue vnto Iudas a sworde of golde: & as he gaue it, he spake thus,
- 16 Take this holie sworde a gifte frō God, wherewith thou shalt wounde the aduersaries.
- 17 And so being comforted by the wordes of Iudas, which were very swete and able to stirre them vp to valiantnes and to incourage the heartes of the yong men, they determined to pitch no campe, but courageously to set vpon them, and māfully to assaile them, and to trye the matter hand to hand, because the citie and the Sanctuarie, and the Temple were in danger.
- 18 As for their wiues, and children, and brethren and kinfolk, they set lesse by their danger: but their greatest and principal feare was for the holie Temple.
- 19 Againe they that were in the citie, were careful for the armie that was abroad.
- 20 Now whiles they all waited for the tryal of the matter, and the enemies now mee with them, and the hoste was set in aray, and the beastes were separated into conuenient places, and the horsemen were placed in the wings,
- 21 Maccabeus considering the coming of the multitude and the diuers preparations of weapons, and the fiercenes of the beastes, helde vp his hands towarde heauen, calling vpon the Lord that doeth wonders, and that looked vpon thē, knowing that the victorie cometh not by the weapons, but that he giueth the victorie to them that are worthie, as semeth good vnto him.
- 22 Therefore in his prayer he said after this maner, O Lord, * thou that didest send thine Angel in the time of Ezeccias King of Iudea, who in the hoste of Sennacherib slewe an hundreth, fore score & fise thousand,
- 23 Send now also thy good Angel before vs, O Lord of heauens, for a feare and dreade vnto them,
- 24 And let thē be discōfited by the strength of thine arme, which come against thine holie people to blaspheme. Thus with these wordes he made an end.
- 25 Then Nicanor and they that were with him, drewe nere with trumpets and shoutings for ioye.
- 26 But Iudas and his companie praying and calling vpon God, incountered with the enemies,
- 27 So that with their hands they fought, but with their hearts they prayed vnto God, and slewe no lesse then fise & thirtie thousand mē: for thorowe the presence of God they were wonderously comforted.
- 28 Now when they left of, & were turning againe with ioye, they vnderstode that Nicanor him self was slaine for all his armour.
- 29 Then they made a great shoute and a crye, praising the Almightye in their owne langage.
- 30 Therefore Iudas, which was euer y chief defender of his citizens bothe in bodie & minde, and which bare euer good affection towards them of his nacion, commanded to smite of Nicanors head, with his hand and shulder, and to bring it to Ierusalem.
- 31 And when he came there, he called all thē of his nacion, and set the Priests by the altar, and sent for them of the castel,
- 32 And shewed thē wicked Nicanors head, & the hand of that blasphemour which he had holden vp against the holie Temple of the Almightye with proude bragges.
- 33 He caused the tongue also of wicked Nicanor to be cut in litle pieces, & to be cast vnto the foules, and that the rewardes of his madnes shulde be hanged vp before the Temple.

- 34 So euerie man praised towarde the heauen the glorious Lord, saying, Blessed be he, that hath kept his place vndefiled.
- 35 He hanged also Nicanors head vpon the hie castel, for an euident and plaine token vnto all of the helpe of God.
- 36 And so they established all together by a cōmune decre that they wolde in no case suffer this day without keping it holie:
- 37 And that the feast shulde be the thirtenth day of the twelfth moneth, which is called Adar in the Syriās langage, the day before Mardocheus day.
- 38 Thus farre as concerning Nicanors matters, and from that time the Hebrewes had the citie in possession. And here wil I also make an end.
- 39 If I haue done wel, and as the storie required, it is the thing that I desired: but if I haue spoken slenderly & barely, it is that I colde.
- 40 For as it is hurtful to drinke wine alone, and then againe water: and as wine tempered with water is pleasant and deliteth the taste, so the setting out of the matter deliteth the eares of them that read the storie. And here shalbe the end.

THE HOLY GOSPEL

of Iesus Christ, according to Matthewe.

THE ARGUMENT.

a This worde signifieth good tidings, and is taken here for the storie which containeth the ioyful message of the coming of the Sonne of God promised from the beginning. b That is, written and taught by Matthewe.

In this historie written by Matthewe, Marke, Luke, and Iohn, the Spirit of God so governed their hearts, that although they were foure in number, yet in effect and purpose they so consent, as though the whole had bene composed by any one of them. And albeit in stile and manner of writing they be diuers, and sometime one writeth more largely than which the other doeth abridge: neuertheless in matter and argument they all tend to one end: which is, to publish to the worlde the fauour of God towards mankinde through Christ Iesus, whome the Father hath giuen as a pledge of his mercie & loue. And for this cause they intitule their storie, Gospel, which signifieth good tidings, forasmuche as God hath performed in dede that which the sinners hoped for. So that hereby we are admonished to forsake the worlde, and the vanities thereof, and with moste affectioned hearts embrace this incomparable treasure freely offered vnto vs: for there is no ioye nor consolacion, no peace nor quietnes, no felicitie nor saluacion, but in Iesus Christ, who is the very substance of this Gospel, and in whome all the promises are yea, and amen. And therefore vnder this worde is contained the whole Newe testament: but commonly we vse this name for the historie, which the foure Euangelists write, containing Christs coming in the flesh, his death, and resurrection, which is the perfite summe of our saluation. Matthewe, Marke, and Luke are more copious in describing his life and death: but Iohn more labourerth to set forth his doctrine, wherein bothe Christs office, and also the vertue of his death and resurrection more fully appeare: for without this, to knowe that Christ was borne, dead, & risen againe, shoulde nothing profite vs. The which thing notwithstanding that the thre first touche partely, as he also sometime intermedleth the historical narration, yet Iohn chiefly is occupied herein. And therefore as a moste learned interpreter writeth, they describe, as it were, the bodie, and Iohn setteth before our eyes the soule. Wherefore the same aptely termeth the Gospel writ by Iohn, the key which openeth the dore to the vnderstanding of the others: for whosoever doeth knowe the office, vertue and power of Christ, shal reade that which is written of the Sonne of God come to be the redemer of the worlde, with moste profit. Now as concerning the writers of this historie, it is euident that Matthewe was a Publicane or custome gatherer, and was thence chosen of Christ to be an Apostle. Marke is thought to haue bene Peters disciple, and to haue planted the first Church at Alexandria, where he dyed the eight yere of the reigne of Nero. Luke was a phisition of Antiochia and became Pauls disciple, and fellowe in all his traueils: he liued foure score and foure yeres, and was buryed at Constantinople. Iohn was that Apostle whome the Lord loued, the sonne of Zebedeus, and brother of James: he dyed thre score yeres after Christ, and was buryed nere to the Citie of Ephesus.

 16 And Iacob begate Ioseph, the husband of Marie, of whome was borne I E S V S, that is called Christ.

17 So all the generaciōs from Abraham to Dauid, are fourtene generacions. And from Dauid vntil they were caryed away into Babylon, fourtene generacions: and after they were caryed away into Babylon vntil Christ, fourtene generacions.

18 ¶ Now the byrth of I E S V S Christ was thus, When as his mother Marie was betrowthed to Ioseph, before they came together, she was founde with childe of the holie Gost.

19 Then Ioseph her husband being a iust man, and not willing to make her a publike example, was minded to put her away secretly.

20 But while he thought these things, beholde, the Angel of the Lord appeared vnto him in a dreame, saying, Ioseph the sonne of Dauid, feare not to take Marie for thy wife: for that which is conceiued in her, is of the holie Gost.

21 And she shal bring forth a sonne, and thou shalt call his name I E S V S: for he shal saue his people from their sinnes.

22 And all this was done that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken of the Lord by the Prophet, saying, 23 Beholde, a virgine shalbe with childe, and shal beare a sonne, and they shal call his name Emmanuel, which is by interpretation, God with vs.

24 ¶ Then Ioseph, being raised from slepe, did as the Angel of the Lord had iniointed him, and toke his wife.

25 But he knewe her not, til she had brought forth the her first borne sonne, and he called his name I E S V S.

of Herode the King, beholde, there came

Wisemen from the East to Ierusalem, Saying, Where is the King of the Iewes that is borne? for we haue sene his starre in the East, and are come to worship him.

3 When King Herode heard this, he was troubled, and all Ierusalem with him.

4 And gathering together all the chief Priests & Scribes of the people, he asked of them, where Christ shulde be borne.

5 And they said vnto him, At Beth-lehem in Iudea: for so it is written by the Prophet,

6 And thou Beth-lehem in the land of Iuda, art not the least among the Princes of Iuda: for out of thee shal come the gouernour that shal fede my people Israel.

7 Then Herode priuely called the Wisemen, and diligently inquired of them the time of the starre that appeared,

8 And sent them to Beth-lehem, saying, Go, and searche diligently for the babe: and when ye haue founde him, bring me worde againe, that I may come also, and worship him.

9 ¶ So when they had heard the King, they departed: and lo, the starre which they had sene in the East, went before them, til it came, and stode ouer the place where the babe was.

10 And when they sawe the starre, they reioyced with an exceeding great ioye, 11 And went into the house, and founde the babe with Marie his mother, and felldowne, and worshipped him, and opened their treasures, and presented vnto him giftes, euen golde, and incense, and myrrhe.

12 And after they were warned of God in a dreame, that they shulde not go againe to Herode, they returned into their countrey another way.

13 ¶ After their departure, beholde the Angel of the Lord appeareth to Ioseph in a dreame, saying, Arise, & take the babe and his mother, and flee into Egypr, and be there til I bring thee worde: for Herode wil seke the babe, to destroye him.

14 So he arose and toke the babe and his mother by night, and departed into Egypr, 15 And was there vnto the death of Herode, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken of the Lord by the Prophet, saying, Out of Egypr haue I called my Sonne.

16 ¶ The Herode, seing that he was mocked of Wisemen, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, & slewe all the male children that were in Beth-lehem, and in all the coastes thereof, from two yere olde & vnder, according to the time which he had diligently searched out of the Wisemen.

1 And in those dayes, Iohn the Baptiste came and preached in the wilderness of Iudea, 2 And said, Repent: for the kingdom of heauen is at hand.
3 For this is he of whome it is spoken by the Prophet Esaias, saying, * The voyce of him that cryeth in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord: make his paths straight.
4 * And this Iohn had his garment of camels heere, and a girdle of a skin about his loynes: his meat was also locustes & wilde honic.
5 * Then went out to him Ierusalem and all Iudea, and all the region rounde about Iordan.
6 And they were baptized of him in Iordan, confessing their finnes.
7 Now when he sawe many of the Pharises and of the Sadduces come to his baptisme, he said vnto them, O generations of vipers, who hathe forewarned you to flee from the angre to come?

15 Then Iesus answering, said to him, Let be now: for thus it becometh vs to fulfill all righteousness. So he suffered him.
16 And Iesus when he was baptized, came straight out of the water. And lo, the heauens were opened vnto him, & Iohn sawe the Spirit of God descending like a doue, and lighting vpon him.

1 Then was Iesus led aside of the Spirit into the wilderness, to be tempted of the deuil.
2 And when he had fasted fortie dayes, and fortie nights, he was afterwarde hungrie.
3 Then came to him the tempter, and said, If thou be the Sonne of God, commande that these stonies be made bread.
4 But he answering, said, It is writtē, * Man shall not liue by bread onely, but by euerie worde that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.
5 Then the deuil toke him vp into the holie Citie, & set him on a pinnacle of the temple, 10 Then said Iesus vnto him, Auoide Satã: for it is written, *Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him onely shalt thou serue.

11 Then the deuill left him: and beholde, the Angels came, and ministred vnto him.

12 ¶ And when Iesus had heard y^e Iohn was deliuered vp, he returned into Galile, 17 *From that time Iesus began to preache, and to say, Amend your liues: for y^e kingdome of heauen is at hand.

18 ¶ And Iesus walking by the sea of Galile, sawe two brethren, Simõ, which was called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea (for they were fishers.)

19 And he said vnto them, Followe me, and I wil make you fishers of men.

20 And they straight way leauing the nets, followed him.

21 And when he was gone forthe from thence, he sawe other two brethren, James the sonne of Zebedeus, and Iohn his brother in a ship with Zebedeus their father, mēding their nets, and he called them.

22 And they without tarying, leauing the ship and their father, followed him.

23 So Iesus went about all Galile, teaching in their Synagogues, and preaching the Gospel of the kingdome, and healing euerie sickenes and cuerie disease among the people.

24 And his fame spred abroad through all Syria: and they brought vnto him all sicke people, that were taken with diuers diseases and gripings, and them that were possessed with deuils, & those which were lunaticke, and those that had the palsey: and he healed them.

25 And there followed him great multitudes out of Galile, and Decapolis, and Ierusalem, and Iudea, and from beyonde Iordan.

24 No man can serue two masters: for either he shal hate the one, and loue the other, or els he shal leane to the one, and despise the other. Ye can not serue God and riches.

ye shal put on. Is not the life more worth then meat: and the bodie then raiment?

26 Beholde the fowles of the heauen: for they sowe not, neither reape, nor carie into the barnes: yet your heauenlic Father feedeth them. Are ye not muche better then they?

27 Which of you by taking care, is able to adde one cubit vnto his stature?

28 And why care ye for raiment? Learne, how the lilies of the field do growe: they labour not, nether spinne:

29 Yet I say vnto you, that euen Solomon in all his glorie was not arayed like one of these.

30 Wherefore if God so clothe the grasfe of the field which is to day, and to morowe is cast into the ouen, shal he not do muche more vnto you, o ye of litle faith?

31 Therefore take no thoght, saying, What shal we eat, or what shal we drinke? or wherewith shal we be clothed?

32 (For after all these things seke the Gentiles) for your heauenlic Father knoweth, that ye haue nede of all these things.

33 But seke ye first the kingdome of God, and his righteoufnes, & all these things shalbe ministred vnto you.

11 If ye then, which are euil, can giue to your childre good gifts, how muche more shal your Father which is in heauen, giue good things to them that aske him?

12 *Therefore whatsoeuer ye wolde that man shulde do to you, euen so do ye to them: for this is the Law and the Prophetes.

13 ¶ Enter in at the streite gate: for it is the wide gate, and broad waye that leadeth to destruction: and manie there be which go in thereat, 14 Because the gate is streite, and the way narrowe that leadeth vnto life, and fewe there be that finde it.

15 ¶ Beware of false prophetes, which come to you in shypes clothing, but inwardely they are rauening wolues.

16 Ye shal knowe the by their frutes. * Do men gather grapes of thornes? or figges of thytels?

17 So euerie good tre bringeth forthe good frute, and a corrupt tre bringeth forthe euil frute.

18 A good tre can not bring forthe euil frute: nether can a corrupt tre bring forthe good frute.

19 * Euerie tre y bringeth not forthe good frute, is hewen downe, and cast into the fyre.

20 Therefore by their frutes ye shal knowe them.

21 ¶ Not euerie one that saith vnto me, Lord, Lord, shal enter into the kingdome of heauen, *but he that doeth my Fathers wil which is in heauen.

22 *Manie wil say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, haue we not by thy Name prophesied, and by thy Name cast out deuils? and by thy Name done manie great workes?

23 And then wil I professe to them, *I neuer knewe you: *departe from me, ye that worke iniquitie.

24 Whofoeuer then heareth of me these wordes, *and doeth the same, I wil liken him to a wise man, which hath buylded his house on a rocke:

25 And the raine fell, and the floods came, and the windes blew, and beat vpon that house, and it fell not: for it was grounded on a rocke.

26 But whofoeuer heareth these my wordes, and doeth them not, shalbe lickened vnto a foolish man, which hath buylded his house vpon the sand:

27 And the raine fell, and the floods came, and the windes blew, and beat vpon that house, and it fell, and the fall thereof was great.

28 ¶ And it came to passe, when Iesus had ended these wordes, the people were astounded at his doctrine.

29 For he taught them as one hauing autoritie, and not as the Scribes.

9 For I am a man also vnder the autoritie of another, and haue souldiers vnder me: & I say to one, Go: and he goeth, and to another, Come: and he cometh, & to my seruant, Do this: and he doeth it.

10 When Iesus heard that, he marueiled, & said to them that followed him, Verely, I say vnto you, I haue not founde so great faith, euen in Israel.

in soft raiment: Beholde, they that weare soft clothing, are in Kings houses.

9 But what went ye out to see? A Prophet? Yea, I say vnto you, and more then a Prophet.

10 For this is he of whome it is written, Beholde, I send my messenger before thy face, which shal prepare thy way before thee.

11 Verely I say vnto you, among the which are begotten of women, arose there not a greater then Iohn Baptist: notwithstanding, he that is the least in the kingdome of heauen, is greater then he.

12 And from the time of Iohn Baptist hitherto, the kingdome of heauen suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force.

13 For all the Prophetes & the Law prophesied vnto Iohn.

14 And if ye wil receiue it, this is Elias, which was to come.

15 ¶ He that hathe eares to heare, let him heare.

16 * But whereunto shal I liken this generation? It is like vnto litle children which sit in the markets, and call vnto their fellows, 17 And say, We haue piped vnto you, & ye haue not danced, we haue mourned vnto you, and ye haue not lamented.

18 For Iohn came nether eating nor drinking, and they say, He hathe a deuil.

19 The Sonne of man came eating & drinking, and they say, Beholde a glotton & a drinker of wine, a friend vnto Publicānes & sinners: but wisdom is iustified of her children.

20 ¶ Then begā he to vpbraide the cities, wherein moſte of his great workes were done, because they repented not:

21 Wo be to thee, Chorazin: Wo be to thee, Bethsaida: for if the great workes, which were done in you, had bene done in Tyrus & Sidon, they had repēted long agone in sackcloth and ashes.

22 ¶ But I say to you, It shalbe easier for Tyrus and Sidon at the day of iudgemēt, then for you.

23 And thou, Capernaum, which art lifted vp vnto heauen, shalt be brought downe to hel: for if § great workes, which haue bene done in thee, had bene done among them of Sodom, they had remained to this day.

24 But I say vnto you, that it shalbe easier for them of the land of Sodom in the day of iudgement, then for thee.

25 * At that time Iesus answered, and said, I giue thee thākes, o Father, Lord of heaue & earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and men of vnderstanding, and hast opened them vnto babes.

It is so, o Father, because thy good pleasure was such.

27 * All things are giuen vnto me of my Father: and no man knoweth the Sonne, but the Father: nether knoweth any man the Father, but the Sonne, & he to whome the Sonne wil reueile him.

28 Come vnto me, all ye that are wearie & laden, and I wil ease you.

29 Take my yoke on you, and learne of me, that I am meke and lowlie in heart: & ye shal finde rest vnto your soules.

30 * For my yoke is easie, and my burden light.

AT that time Iesus wēt on a Sabbath day through the corne, and his disciples were an hungred, & began to plucke the eares of corne and to eat.

2 And when the Pharises sawe it, they said vnto him, Beholde, thy disciples do that which is not lawful to do vpo the Sabbath.

3 But he said vnto them, * Haue ye not red what Dauid did, when he was an hungred, and they that were with him?

4 How he entred into the House of God, & ate the shewe bread, which was not lawful for him to eat, nether for them which were with him, but onely for the Priests?

5 Or haue ye not red in the Law how that on the Sabbath dayes the Priests in the Temple breake the Sabbath, and are blameles?

6 But I say vnto you, that here is one greater then the Temple.

7 Wherefore if ye knewe what this is, * I wil haue mercie and not sacrifice, ye wolde not haue condemned the innocents.

8 For the sonne of man is Lord, euen of the Sabbath.

9 * And he departed thence, and went into their Synagoge:

10 And beholde, there was a mā which had his hand dried vp. And they asked him, saying, Is it lawful to heale vpo a Sabbath day? that they might accuse him.

11 And he said vnto them, What man shal there be among you, that shal haue a shepe, and if it fall on a Sabbath day into a pit, wil not he take it and lift it out?

12 How muche more then is a man better the a shepe? therefore, it is lawful to do wel on a Sabbath day.

14 Then the Pharises went out, and consulted against him, how they might destroye him.

15 But whē Iesus knewe it, he departed thence, and great multitudes followed him, & he healed them all,

16 And charged them that they shulde not make him knowen,

17 That it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by Esaias the Prophet, saying, 18 Beholde my seruant whome I haue chosen, my beloued in whome my soule delighteth: I wil put my Spirit on him, & he shal shewe iudgement to the Gentiles.

19 He shal not strue, nor crye, nether shal anie man heare his voyce in the stretes.

20 A bruised reede shal he not breake, and smoking flaxe shal he not quenshe, til he bring forth the iudgements vnto victorie.

21 And in his Name shal the Gentiles trust.

22 Then was broght to him one, possessed with a deuil, bothe blinde, and domme, and he healed him, so that he which was blinde and domme, bothe spake and sawe.

23 And all the people were amazed, & said, Is not this the sonne of Dauid?

24 But whē the Pharises heard it, they said, This mā casteth the deuils no otherwise out, but through Beelzebub the prince of deuils.

25 But Iesus knewe their thoghtes, and said to them, Euerie kingdome deuided against it self, shal be brought to naught: & euerie citie or house, deuided against it self, shal not stand.

26 So if Satan cast out Satan, he is deuided against himself: how shal then his kingdome endure?

27 Also if I through Beelzebub cast out deuils, by whome do your children cast them out? Therefore they shal be your iudges.

28 But if I cast out deuils by the Spirit of God, then is the kingdome of God come vnto you.

29 Els how can a man enter into a strong mans house and spoile his goods, except he first binde the strong man, and then spoile his house.

30 He that is not with me, is against me: & he y gathereth not with me, scattereth.

31 Wherefore I say vnto you, euerie siane and blasphemie shal be forgien vnto men: but the blasphemie against the holie Ghost shal not be forgien vnto men.

32 And whosoever shal speake a worde against the Sōne of man, it shal be forgien him: but whosoever shal speake against the holie Ghost, it shal not be forgien him, neither in this world nor in the world to come.

33 Echev make the tre good, and his frute good: or els make the tre euil, & his frute euil: for the tre is knowen by the frute.

34 O generations of vipers, how can you speake good things, when ye are euil? For of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.

35 A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth the good things: & an euil man out of an euil treasure, bringeth forth the euil things.

36 But I say vnto you, that of euerie idle worde that men shal speake, they shal giue accounte thereof at the day of iudgement.

37 For by thy wordes thou shalt be iustified, and by thy wordes thou shalt be condemned.

38 Then answered certeine of the Scribes & of the Pharises, saying, Master, we wolde see a signe of thee.

39 But he answered, and said to them, An euil and adulterous generacion seeketh a signe, but no signe shal be giuen vnto it, saue the signe of the Prophet Ionas.

40 For as Ionas was thre dayes, and thre nights in the whales bellie: so shal the Sōne of man be thre dayes and thre nights in the heart of the earth.

41 The men of Nineue shal rise in iudgement with this generacion, and condemne it: for they repented at the preaching of Ionas: and beholde, a greater then Ionas is here.

42 The Quene of the South shal rise in iudgement with this generacion, and shal condemne it: for she came from the vtmost parties of the earth to heare the wisdom of Solomon: and beholde a greater then Solomon is here.

43 Now whē the vnclene spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh throughout drye places, seeking rest, and findeth none.

44 Then he saith, I wil returne into mine house, fro whence I came: & when he is come, he findeth it empty, swept & garnished.

45 Then he goeth, & taketh vnto him fouer other spirits worse then him self, and they entre in, and dwell there: & the end of that man is worse then the beginning. Euen so shal it be with this wicked generacion.

46 While he yet spake to the multitude, beholde, his mother, & his brethren stode without, desiring to speake with him.

47 The one said vnto him, Beholde, thy mother and thy brethren stand without, desiring to speake with thee.

48 But he answered, and said to him that tolde him, Who is my mother? and who are my brethren?

49 And he stretched forth his hand toward his disciples, & said, Beholde my mother and my brethren.

3 Christ sheweth for what cause a woman may be diuorced 11 Continence is a gift of God 14 He receiueth litle babes 16 To obtaine life euerlasting 24 That rube man can scarcely be saued 28 He promiseth them which haue left all to followe him life euerlasting.

1 And *it came to passe, that whē Iesus had finished those sayings, he departed from Galile, and came into the coastes of Iudea beyonde Iordan.

2 And great multitudes followed him, and he healed them there.

3 ¶ Then came vnto him the Pharises tēpting him, and saying to him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for cueie "faute?"

4 And he answered and said vnto them, Hauē ye not red, * that he which made them at the beginning, made them male and female,

5 And said, *For this cause, shal a man leaue father and mother, and cleaue vnto his wife, and they ^a twaine shalbe one^s flesh?

6 Wherefore they are no more twaine, but one flesh. Let not man therefore put a sun die that, which God hathe coupled together.

7 They said to him, Why did then * Moses commāde to giue a bil of diuorcemēt, and to put her away?

8 He said vnto them, Moses, because of the ^bhardnes of your heart, suffred you to put away your wiues: but ^cfrom the beginning it was not so.

10 Then said his disciples to him, If the matter be so betwene man and wife, it is not good to marie.

11 But he said vnto them, All men can not receiue this thing, saue they to whome it is giuen.

22 And when the yong man heard that saying, he went away sorowful: for he had great possessions.

23 Then Iesus said vnto his disciples, Verely I say vnto you, that a riche man shall hardly enter into the kingdome of heauen.

24 And againe I say vnto you, It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, then for a riche man to enter into the kingdome of God.

25 And when his disciples heard it, they were exceedingly amased, saying, Who then can be saued?

26 And Iesus behelde them, and said vnto the, With men this is vnpossible, but with God all things are possible.

27 ¶ Then answered Peter, & said to him, Beholde, we haue forsaken all, & followed thee: what shal we haue?

28 And Iesus said vnto them, Verely I say to you, that when the Sonne of man shall sit in the throne of his maiestie, ye which followed me in the regeneracion, shall sit also vpon twelue thrones, and iudge the twelue tribes of Israel.

29 And whosoever shall forsake houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my Names sake, he shall receiue an hundredfold more, & shall inherite euerlasting life.

1 For the kingdome of heauen is like vnto a certeine house holder, which went out at the dawning of the day to hier laborers into his vineyarde.

2 And he agreed with y laborers for a penie a day, and sent them into his vineyarde.

3 And he went out about the thirde houre, and saue other standing ydle in the market place,

4 And said vnto them, Go ye also into my vineyarde, & whatsoeuer is right, I wil giue you: and they went their way.

5 Againe he went out about the fixt and ninth houre, and did likewise.

6 And he went about the eleuenth houre, and founde other standing ydle, and said vnto them, Why stand ye here all the day ydle?

and founde other standing ydle, and said vnto them, Why stand ye here all the day ydle?

7 They said vnto him, Because no man hath hired vs. He said to them, Go ye also into my vineyarde, & whatsoeuer is right, that shall ye receiue.

8 ¶ And when euen was come, the master of the vineyard said vnto his steward, Call y laborers, and giue them their hier, beginning at the last, til thou come to the first.

9 And they which were hired about the eleuenth houre, came and receiued euerie man a penie.

10 Now when the first came, they supposed that they shulde receiue more, but they likewise receiued euerie man a penie.

11 And when they had receiued it, they murmured against the master of the house, 12 Saying, These last haue wrought but one houre, and thou hast made them equal vnto vs, which haue borne the burden, & heat of the day.

13 And he answered one of them, saying, Friend, I do thee no wrong: didest thou not agree with me for a penie?

14 Take that which is thine owne, and go thy way: I wil giue vnto this last, as muche as to thee.

15 Is it not lawful for me to do as I wil with mine owne? Is thine eye euil because I am good?

21 And he said vnto her, What woldest thou? She said to him, Grante that these my two sonnes may sit, the one at thy right hand, and the other at thy left hand in thy kingdome.

23 ¶ * The same day the Sadduces came to him (which say that there is no resurrection) and asked him, 24 Saying, Master, * Moses said, If a man dye, hauing no children, let his brother marie his wife, and raise vp sede vnto his brother.

25 Now there were with vs seuen brethren, and the first married a wife, and deceased: and hauing none yssue, left his wife vnto his brother.

26 Likewise also the seconde, & the third, vnto the seuenth.

27 And last of all the woman dyed also.

28 Therefore in the resurrection, whose wife shal she be of the seuen? for all had her.

29 Then Iesus answered, and said vnto the, Ye ^m are deceiued, not knowing the Scriptures, nor the power of God.

30 For in the resurrection they nether marie wiues, nor wiues are bestowed in marriage, but are as the ⁿ Angels of God in heauen.

31 And concerning the resurrection of the dead, haue ye not red what is spoken vnto you of God, saying, 32 * I am the God of Abraham, & the God of Isaac, and the God of Iacob? God is not the God of the dead, but of the liuing.

33 And when the people heard it, they were astonied at his doctrine.

34 ¶ * But when the Pharises had heard, that he had put the Sadduces to silence, they assembled together.

35 And one of them, which was an expounder of the Law, asked him a question, tempting him, and saying, 36 Master, which is the great commandement in the Law?

37 Iesus said to him, * Thou shalt loue the Lord thy God with all thine heart, with all thy soule, and with all thy minde.

38 This is the first and the great commandement.

39 And the seconde is like vnto this, * Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy self.

40 On these two commandements hageth the whole Law, and the Prophetes.

41 ¶ * While the Pharises were gathered together, Iesus asked them, 42 Saying, What thinke ye of Christ? whose sonne is he? They said vnto him, Dauids.

43 He said vnto them, How then doeth Dauid in spirit call him Lord, saying, 44 * The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, ^r til I make thine enemies thy forefoote?

45 If then Dauid call him Lord, how is he his sonne?

46 And none colde answer him a worde, nether durst anie from that daye forth to aske him anie more questions.

1 AND * it came to passe, whē Iesus had finished all these sayings, he said vnto his disciples,
 2 Ye knowe that within two dayes is the Passouer, and the Sonne of man shal be deliuered to be crucified.
 3 * Then assembled together y^e chief Priests and the Scribes, and the Elders of the people into the hall of the high Priest, called Caiaphas,
 4 And consulted how they might take Iesus by subtiltie, and kill him.
 5 But they said, Not on the feast day, lest anie vprere be among the people.
 6 ¶ And when Iesus was in Bethania, in the house of Simon the leper, 7 There came vnto him a womā, which had a boxe of verie costlie ointemēt, & powdered it on his head, as he sate at the table.
 8 And whē his disciples sawe it, thei had indignation, saying, What neded this waste?
 9 For this ointment might haue bene sold for muche, and bene giuen to the poore.
 10 And Iesus knowing it, said vnto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for she hath wrought a good worke vpon me.
 11 * For ye haue the poore alwayes with you, but me shal ye not haue alwayes.
 12 For in that she powdered this ointment on my bodie, she did it to burye me.
 13 Verely I say vnto you, Wheresoeuer this Gospel shal be preached throughout all y^e worlde, there shal also this that she hath done, be spoken of for a memorial of her.

 14 ¶ Then one of the twelue, called Iudas Iscariot, went vnto the chief Priests, 15 And said, What wil ye giue me, and I wil deliuer him vnto you? and they appointed vnto him thirtie ^epieces of siluer.
 16 And from that time, he sought opportunitie to betraye him.
 17 ¶ Now on y^e first day of the feast of vneleuened bread y^e disciples came to Iesus, saying vnto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the Passouer?
 18 And he said, Go into the citie to suche a man, & say to him, The master saith, My time is at hand: I wil kepe the Passouer at thine house with my disciples.
 19 And the disciples did as Iesus had giuen them charge, and made ready the Passouer.
 20 * So when the euen was come, he sate downe with the twelue.
 21 And as they did eat, he said, Verely I say vnto you, that one of you shal betraye me.
 22 And they were exceeding sorowful, and began euerie one of them to say vnto him, Is it I, Master?
 23 And he answered and said, He that dipperth his hand with me in the dish, he shal betraye me.
 24 Surely the Sonne of man goeth his way, as it is written of him: but wo be to that man, by whome the Sonne of man is betrayed: it had bene good for that mā, if he had neuer bene borne.
 25 Then Iudas which betrayed him, answered, and said, Is it I, Master? He said vnto him, Thou hast said it.
 26 ¶ And as they did eat, Iesus toke the bread: and when he had giuen thankes, he brake it, and gaue it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat: this is my bodie.
 27 Also he toke y^e cup, & when he had giuen thankes, he gaue it them, saying, Drink ye all of it.
 28 For this is my * blood of the Newe testament, that is shed for manie, for the remission of sinnes.
 29 I say vnto you, that I wil not drinke hence forth of this frute of the vine vntil that day, when I shal drinke it newe with you in my Fathers kingdome.
 30 And when they had sung a psalme, they went out into the mount of oliues.
 31 ¶ Then said Iesus vnto them, All ye shal be offended by me this night: for it is written, I wil smite the shepherd, and the shepe of the flocke shal be scattered.
 32 But * after I am risen againe, I wil go before you into Galile.
 33 But Peter answered, and said vnto him, Though that all men shulde be offended by thee, yet wil I neuer be offended.

S. Matthewe. Peters denial.

John 13,38 34. *Iesus said vnto him, Verely I say vnto thee, that this night, before y^e cocke crowe, thou shalt denie me thrise.

35 Peter said vnto him, Though I shulde dye with thee, yet wil I not denie thee. Likewise also said all the disciples.

Mar 14, 32. Luk 22, 39. 36 ¶ Then wēt Iesus with thē into a place which is called Gethsemane, and said vnto his disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder.

37 And he toke Peter, and the two sonnes of Zebedeus, and begā to waxe sorowful, and grievously troubled.

38 Then said Iesus vnto them, My soul is verie heauie euen vnto the death: tarie ye here, and watche with me.

39 So he went a litle further, and fel on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup passe from me: neuertheles, not as I wil, but as thou wilt.

40 After he came vnto the disciples, and founde thē a slepe, & said to Peter, What colde ye not watche with me one houre?

41 Watch, and pray, that ye enter not into tentation: the spirit in dede is readie, but the flesh is weake.

42 Againe he wēt away the secōde time & prayed, saying, O my Father, if this cup cā not passe away from me, but that I must drinke it, thy wil be done.

43 And he came, and founde them a slepe againe: for their eyes were heauie.

44 So he left them and went away againe, and prayed the third time, saying the same wordes.

45 Then came he to his disciples, and said vnto them, Slepe henceforthe, and take your rest: beholde, the houre is at hand, and the Sonne of man is giuen into the hands of sinners.

46 Rife, let vs go: beholde, he is at hand that betrayeth me.

47 ¶ And while he yet spake, lo, Judas, one of the twelue, came, and with him a great multitude with swordes and staves, from the high Priests and Elders of the people.

48 Now he that betrayed him, had giuen them a token, saying, Whome soeuer I shal kille, that is he, lay holde on him.

49 And forthewith he came to Iesus, and said, God saue thee, Master, & kissed him.

50 Then Iesus said vnto him, Friend, wherefore art thou come? Thē came they, and laid hands on Iesus, and toke him.

51 And beholde, one of them which were with Iesus, stretched out his hand, & drewe his sworde, and stroke a seruant of the high Priest, and smote of his eare.

52 Then said Iesus vnto him, Put vp thy sworde into his place: * for all that y take the sworde, shal perishe with the sworde.

53 Ether thinkest thou, that I can not now pray to my Father, and he wil giue me more then twelue legions of Angels?

54 How then shulde the * Scriptures be fulfilled, which say, that it must be so?

55 The same houre said Iesus to the multitude, Ye be come out as it were against a thief, with swordes and staves, to take me: I sate daily teaching in the Temple amōg you, and ye toke me not.

56 But all this was done, that the * Scriptures of y^e Prophetes might be fulfilled. * Thē all the disciples forsoke him, and fled.

57 ¶ And they toke Iesus, and led him to Caiaphas the hie Priest, where the Scribes and the Elders were assembled.

58 And Peter followed him a farre of vnto the hie Priests hall, and went in, & sate with the seruants to se the end.

59 Now * the chief Priests & the Elders, and all the whole council sought false witness against Iesus, to put him to death.

60 But they founde none, and thogh many false witness came, yet founde they none: but at the last came two false witnesses, 61 And said, This man said, * I can destroy the Temple of God, and buylde it in thre dayes.

62 Then the chief Priest arose, and said to him, Answerest thou nothing? What is the matter that these men witness against thee?

63 But Iesus helde his peace. Then the chief Priest answered, and said to him, I charge thee by the liuing God, that thou tell vs, if thou be the Christ the Sonne of God.

64 * Iesus said to him, * Thou hast said it: neuertheles I say vnto you, hereafter shal ye se the Sonne of man, sitting at the right hand of the power of God, and come in the cloudes of the heauen.

65 Then the hie Priest rent his clothes, saying, He hath blasphemed: what haue we any more nede of witnesses? beholde, now ye haue heard his blasphemie.

66 What thinke ye? They answered, & said, He is worthie to dye.

67 ¶ Then spat they in his face, and buffeted him: and other smote him with their roddes, 68 Saying, Prophecie to vs, o Christ, Who is he that smote thee?

69 ¶ Peter sate without in y^e hall: & a maide came to him, saying, Thou also wast with Iesus of Galile.

70 But he denied before them all, saying, I wot not what thou sayst.

71 And when he went out into the porche, another maide sawe him, and said vnto them that were there, This man was also with Iesus of Nazaret.

72 And againe he deayed with an othe, saying, I knowe not the man.

1 When* the morning was come, all the chief Priests, & the Elders of the people toke counsel against Iesus, to put him to death,

2 And led him away bounde, and deliuered him vnto Pontius Pilate the gouernour.

3 ¶ Then when Iudas which betrayed him, sawe that he was condemned, he repented him self, and broght againe the thirtie pieces of siluer to the chief Priests, and Elders,

4 Saying, I haue sinned betraying the innocēt blood. But they said, What is that to vs? se thou to it.

5 And whē he had cast downe the siluer pieces in the Temple, he departed, and went, *and hanged him self.

6 And the chief Priests toke the siluer pieces, and said, It is not lawful for vs to put them into the treasure, because it is the price of blood.

7 And they toke counsel, and bought with them a potters field, for the buryal of strangers.

8 Wherefore that field is called, * the field of blood, vntil this day.

9 (Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Ieremias the Prophet, saying, * And they toke thirtie siluer pieces, the price of him that was valued, whome they of the children of Israel valued.

10 And thei gaue them for the potters field, as the Lord appointed me.)

11 ¶ And Iesus stode before the gouernour, and the gouernour asked him, saying, Art thou the King of Iewes? Iesus said vnto him, Thou saist it.

12 And when he was accused of the chief Priests and Elders, he answered nothing.

13 Thē said Pilate vnto him, Hearest thou not how many things they laye against thee?

14 But he answered him not to one worde, in so muche that the gouernour marvelled greatly.

15 Now at the feast, the gouernour was wont to deliuer vnto the people a prisoner, whome they wolde.

16 And they had thē a notable prisoner, called Barabbas.

17 *When they were then gathered together, Pilate said vnto them, Whether wilt thou I let loose vnto you Barabbas, or Iesus which is called Christ?

18 (For he knewe wel, that for enuie they had deliuered him.

19 Also whē he was set downe vpon the iudgemēt seat, his wife sent to him, saying, Haue thou nothing to do with that iuste man: for I haue suffered many things this day in a dreame by reason of him.)

20 *But the chief Priests & the Elders had persuaded the people that thei shulde aske Barabbas, and shulde destroy Iesus.

21 Then the gouernour answered, and said vnto them, Whether of the twaine wilt thou I let loose vnto you? And they said, Barabbas.

22 Pilate said vnto them, What shal I do then with Iesus which is called Christ? Thei all said to him, Let him be crucified.

23 Then said the gouernour, But what euil hath he done? Then thei cryed the more, saying, Let him be crucified.

24 When Pilate sawe that he auailed nothing, but that more tumulte was made, he toke water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this iust man: loke you to it.

25 Then answered all the people, and said, His blood be on vs, and on our children.

26 Thus let he Barabbas loose vnto them, and scourged Iesus, and deliuered him to be crucified.

27 ¶ Thē the souldiours of the gouernour toke Iesus into the commune hall, and gathered about him the whole bande.

28 And thei stripped him, & put vpon him a scarlet robe,

29 And platted a crowne of thornes, and put it vpon his head, and a rede in his right hand, and bowed their knees before him, and mocked him, saying, God saue thee King of the Iewes,

30 And spitted vpon him, and toke a rede, and smote him on the head.

31 Thus when they had mocked him, they toke the robe from him, and put his owne raiment on him, and led him away to crucifie him.

32 *And as they came out, they founde a man of Cyrene, named Simon: him they compelled to beare his crosse.

35 ¶ And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, & did cast lottes, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, * They deuied my garmets among them, and vpon my vesture did cast lottes.

36 And they sate, and watched him there.

37 ¶ Thei set vp also ouer his head his cause written, ° THIS IS IESVS THE KING OF THE IEWES.

38 ¶ And there were two thieues crucified with him, one on the right hand, and another on the left.

39 And they that passed by, reuiled him, wagging their heads, 40 And saying, * Thou that destroyest the Temple, and buydest it in thre dayes, saue thy self: if thou be the Sonne of God, come downe from the crosse.

41 Likewise also the hie Priests mocking him, with the Scribes, and Elders, and Pharises, said, 42 He saued others, but he can not saue him self: if he be the King of Isiael, let him now come downe from the crosse, and we wil beleue him.

44 That same also the thieues which were crucified with him, cast in his teeth.

45 Now from the sixt houre was there darkenes ouer all the land, vnto the ninth houre.

46 And about the ninth houre Iesus cryed with a loude voyce, sayig, * Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani: that is, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

47 And some of them that stode there, whē thei heard it, said, This man calleth Elias.

48 And straight way one of them ran, and toke a sponge, and filled it with vineger, and put it on a rede, and gaue him to drinke.

49 Other said, Let be: let vs se, if Elias wil come and saue him.

50 Then Iesus cryed againe with a loude voyce, and yelded vp the gost.

51 And beholde, * the vaile of the Temple was rent in twayne, from the top to the bottome, and the earth did quake, and the stones were clouen,

52 And the graues did open them selues, & many bodies of the Sanctes which slept, arose, 53 And came out of the graues after his resurrection, and went into the holie Citie, and appeared vnto many.

54 When the Centurion, & they that were with him watching Iesus, sawe the earthquake, and the things that were done, they feared greatly, saying, Truly: this was the Sonne of God.

55 ¶ And many women were there, beholding him a farre of, which had followed Iesus from Galile, ministring vnto him.

56 Among whome was Marie Magdalene, and Marie the mother of Iames & Ioscs, and the mother of Zebedeus sonnes.

57 ¶ And when the euen was come, there came a riche man of Arimathea, named Ioseph, who had also him self bene Iesus disciple.

58 He went to Pilate, and asked the bodie of Iesus. Then Pilate commanded the bodie to be deliuered.

59 So Ioseph toke the bodie, and wrapped it in a cleane linnen cloth, 60 And put it in his newe stombe, which he had hewen out in a rocke, & rolled a great stone to the dore of the sepulchre, and departed.

61 And there was Marie Magdalene, and the other Marie sitting ouer against the sepulchre.

62 ¶ Now the next day that followed the Preparation of the Sabbath, the hie Priests and Pharises assembled to Pilate, 63 And said, Sir, we remember that that deceuer said, while he was yet aliue, Within thre dayes I wil rise.

64 Commande therefore, that the sepulchre be made sure vntil the thirde day, lest his disciples come by night, & steale him away, and say vnto the people, He is risen from the dead: so shal the last error be worse then the first.

65 Then Pilate said vnto them, Ye haue a watche: go, and make it sure as ye knowe.

66 And they went, and made the sepulchre sure with the watche, and sealed the stone.

8 So they departed quickly from the sepulchre, with feare and great ioye, & did runne to bring his disciples worde.
9 And as they went to tell his disciples, beholde, Iesus also met them, saying, God saue you. And they came, and toke him by the fete, and worshipped him.
10 Then said Iesus vnto them, Be not afrayed. Go, and tell my brethren, that they go into Galile, and there shal they se me.
11 ¶ Now when they were gone, beholde, some of the watche came into the cite, & shewed vnto the hie Priests all y^e things that were done.
12 And they gathered them together with the Elders, and toke counsel, & gaue large money vnto the souldiers, 13 Saying, Say, His disciples came by night and stole him away while we slept.

14 And if y^e gouernour heare of this, we wil persuaide him, and saue you harmeles.
15 So they toke the money, & did as they were taught: and this saying is noised among the Iewes vnto this day.
16 ¶ Then the eleuen disciples went into Galile, into a mountaine, where Iesus had appointed them.
17 And when they sawe him, they worshipped him: but some doubted.
18 And Iesus came, and spake vnto them, saying, * All power is giuen vnto me in heauen, and in earth.
19 * Go therefore, and teache all nations, baptizing them in the Name of the Father, and the Sonne, and the holie Gost, 20 Teaching them to obserue all things, whatsoeuer I haue commanded you: & lo, * I am with you alway, vntil the ende of the worlde, Amen.

4 * Iohn did baptize in the wilderness, and d preache the baptisme of amendement of life, for remisison of finnes.
5 And all the cuntry of Iudea, and they of Ierusalem went out vnto him, and were all baptized of him in the ruer Iordan, confessing their finnes.
6 Now Iohn was clothed with camels heere, and with a girdle of a skinne about his loines: and he did eat * locustes & wilde honie,

23 ¶ And there was in their Synagogue a mā which had an vnclane spirit, & he cryed, 24 Saying, Ah, what haue we to do with thee, o Iesus of Nazaret? Art thou come to destroy vs? I knowe thee what thou art, euen that holie one of God.

m Christ wolde not suffer the father of lyes to beare witness to the truth.

25 And Iesus rebuked him, saying, ^m Holde thy peace, and come out of him.

26 And the vnclane spirit rare him, and cryed with a loude voyce, and came out of him.

27 And they were all amased, so that they demanded one of another, saying, What thing is this? what ⁿ new doctrine is this? for he commandeth the foule spirits with autoritie, and they obey him.

28 And immediatly his fame spred abroad throughout all the region bordering on Galile.

29 ¶ *And as sone as they were come out of the Synagogue, they entred into the house of Simon and Andrewe, with James & Iohn.

30 And Simons wiues mother in law laye sicke of a feuer, and anone they tolde him of her.

31 And he came & toke her by the hand, & lift her vp, and the feuer forsoke her by & by, and she ministred vnto them.

32 And when euen was come, and the sunne was downe, they broght to him all that were diseased, and them that were possessed with deuils.

33 And the whole citie was gathered together at the dore.

34 And he healed manie that were sicke of diuers diseases: and he cast out manie deuils, & ^o suffred not the deuils to say that they knewe him.

o Christ wolde not haue suche witnesses to preache him, & his Gospel. So Paule was offended that ^f Pythonesse shulde testifie of him, Act. 16. 18. ¶ Or being yet sight.

37 And when they had founde him, they said vnto him, All men seke for thee.

38 Then he said vnto them, Let vs go into the next townes, that I may preache there also: for I came out for that purpose.

39 And he preached in their Synagogues, throughout all Galile, and cast the deuils out.

40 ¶ *And there came a leper to him, beseeching him, and kneled downe vnto him, & said to him, If thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane.

41 And Iesus had compassion, and put forth his hand, and touched him, and said to him, I wil: be thou cleane.

42 And as sone as he had spoken, immediatly the leprosie departed from him, and he was made cleane.

43 And after he had giuen him a streit ^p commandement, he sent him away forthewith, sonne of Alpheus sit at the receite of cu-

15 ¶ And it came to passe, as Iesus sate at table in his house, many Publicanes & sinners sate at table also wth Iesus, & his disci-

16 And when the Scribes and Pharises sawe

17 Now when Iesus heard it, he said vnphysicion, but the sicke. I came not to call the righteous, but the sinners to repen-

18 *And the disciples of Iohn, & the Phari-ses did fast, and came and said vnto him, Why do the disciples of Iohn and of the Pharises fast, and thy disciples fast not?

19 And Iesus said vnto them, Can the children of the mariage chamber fast, whiles the bridegrome is with them? as long as they haue the bridegrome with them, they can not fast.

20 But the dayes wil come, when the bridegrome shalbe taken from them, and then shal they fast in those dayes.

21 Also no man soweth a piece of new cloth in an olde garment: for els the new piece taketh away the filling vp from the olde, and the breache is worse.

22 Likewise, no man putteth new wine into olde vessels: for els the new wine breaketh the vessels, and the wine runneth out, and the vessels are lost: but new wine must be put into new vessels.

23 ¶ And it came to passe as he w^{et} through the corne on the Sabbath day, that his disciples, as they went on their way, began to plucke the eares of corne.

24 And the Pharises said vnto him, Behol-

And he said to them, Haue ye neuer

26 How he went into the house of God, in the dayes of Abiathar the hie Priest, and did eat the shewe bread, which were not lawfull to eat, but for the * Priests, and gaue also to them which were with him?

27 And he said to them, The Sabbath was had a withered hand.

heale him on the Sabbath day, that they might accuse him.

31 Then he said vnto the man which had the withered hand, Arise: stand forth in the middes.

32 And he said to them, Is it lawfull to do a good dede on the Sabbath day, or to do euill? to saue y^e life, or to kil? But they helde

33 Then he loked rounde about on them bangerly, mourning also for the hardenes of their hearts, and said to the man, Stretch forth the thine had. And he stretched it out:
and his hand was restored, as whole as the other.

34 ¶ And the Pharises departed, & straight waye gathered a councel with the Herodians

35 But Iesus auoyded with his disciples to 22 ¶ And the Scribes which came from Ierusalem, said, He hathe Beelzebub, and through the prince of deuils he casteth out deuils.

23 But he called them vnto him, and said vnto thē in parables, How can Satan driue out Satan?

24 For if a kingdome be deuided against it self, that kingdome can not stand.

25 Or if a house be deuided against it self, that house can not continue.

26 So if Satan make insurrection against him self, & be deuided, he can not endure, but is at an end.

27 No mā can entre into a strong mans house, and take away his goods, except he first binde that strong man, and then spoile his house.

28 ¶ Verely I say vnto you, all sinnes shal be forgien vnto the children of men, and blasphemies, wherewith they blaspheme:

29 But he that blasphemeth against the holy Gost, shal neuer haue forgienes, but is culpable of eternal damnation, 30 Because they said, He had an vnclene spirit.

31 ¶ Then came his brethren and mother, and stode without, and sent vnto him, and called him.

32 And the people sate about him, and they said vnto him, Beholde, thy mother, & thy brethren seke for thee without.

33 But he answered thē, saying, Who is my mother and my brethren?

34 And he loked rounde about on thē, which sate in compasse about him, and said, Beholde my mother and my brethren.

35 For whosoever doeth the wil of God, he is my brother, and my sister, and mother.

2 By the parables of the fede, and the mustarde corne, Christ sheweth the state of the kingdome of God. 11 A special gift of God to knowe the mysteries of his kingdome. 17 He stilleth the tempests of the sea which obeyed him.

1 And he begā againe to teache by the sea side, & there gathered vnto him a great multitude, so that he entred into a ship, and sate in the sea, and all the people was by the sea side on the land.

2 And he taught them many things in parables, and said vnto them in his doctrine.

3 Hearken: Beholde, there went out a sower to sowe.

4 And it came to passe as he sowed, that some fel by the way side, & the foules of the heauen came and deuoured it vp.

5 And some fel on stonie grounde, where it had not muche earth, & by and by sprang vp, because it had not depth of earth.

6 But as sone as the sunne was vp, it caught heate, and because it had not roote, it withered away.

7 And some fel among the thornes, and the thornes grewe vp and choked it, so that it gaue no frute.

8 Some againe fel in good grounde, and did yelde frute that sprong vp, and grew, and it brought forthe, some thirtie folde, some sixtie folde, and some an hundredth folde.

9 Then he said vnto them, He that hathe beares to heare, let him heare.

10 And when he was alone, they that were about him with the twelue, asked him of the parable.

11 And he said vnto them, To you it is giuen to knowe the mysterie of the kingdome of God: but vnto them that are without, all things be done in parables, 12 That they seing, may se, and not discern: and they hearing, may heare, and not vnderstand, lest at any time they shulde turne, and their sinnes shulde be forgien them.

13 Againe he said vnto them, Perceiue ye not this parable? how thē shulde ye vnderstand all other parables?

14 The sower soweth the worde.

15 And these are they that receiue the fede by the wayes side, in whome the worde is sowed: but when they haue heard it, Satan cometh immediatly, and taketh away the worde that was sowed in their hearts.

16 And likewise they that receiue the fede in stonie grounde, are they, which when they haue heard the worde, straight wayes receiue it with gladnes.

21 ¶ Also he said vnto them, * Is e the candle light to be put vnder a bussel, or vnder the table, and not to be put on a candlestick?

22 * f For there is nothing hid, that shal not be opened: nether is there a secret, but that it shal come to light.

23 If any man haue eares to heare, let him
heare.

24 And he said vnto them, Take hede what ye heare. * With what measure ye mette, it shalbe measured vnto you: & vnto you that heare, shal more be giuen.

25 * For vnto him that hathe, shal it be giue, and from him that hathe not, shalbe taken away, h euen that he hathe.

26 ¶ Also he said, So is the kingdome of God, as if a man shulde k cast sede in the grounde,

27 And shulde slepe, and rise vp night and day, and the sede shulde spring and grow vp, he not knowing how.

28 For the earth bringeth forthe frute of her self, first the blade, then the eares, after that ful corne in the eares.

29 And allone as the frute sheweth it self, anone he putteth in the sickel, because the haruest is come.

30 ¶ He said moreouer, Whereunto shal we liken the kingdome of God, or with what comparison shal we compare it?

31 It is like a graine of mustarde sede, which when it is sowen in the earth, is the least of all sedes that be in the earth:

32 But after that it is sowen, it groweth vp, and is greatest of all herbes, and beareth great brāches, so that the fowles of heauen may buylde vnder the shadow of it.

33 And * with many suche parables he preached the worde vnto them, as they were able to heare it.

34 And without parables spake he nothing vnto them: but he expounded all things to his disciples aparte.

17 Then they began to praye him, that he wolde departe from their coastes.

18 And when he was come into the ship, he that had bene possessed with the deuill, prayed him that he might be with him.

19 Howbeit, Iesus wolde not suffre him, but said vnto him, Go thy way home to thy friends, and shewe the what great things the Lord hath done vnto thee, and how he hath had compasion on thee.

20 So he departed, and began to publish in Decapolis, what great things Iesus had done vnto him: and all men did marueil.

21 ¶ And when Iesus was come ouer againe by ship vnto the other side, a great multitude gathered to him, and he was nere vnto the sea.

31 And his disciples said vnto him, Thou seest the multitude throng thee, & sayest thou, Who did touche me?

33 And the woman feared and trembled: for she knewe what was done in her, & she came and fel downe before him, & tolde him the whole truth.

34 And he said to her, Daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole: go in peace, and be whole of thy plague.)

35 While he yet spake, there came from the same ruler of the Synagogues house certeine which said, Thy daughter is dead: why diseaest thou the Master any further?

36 As sone as Iesus heard that worde spoken, he said vnto the ruler of the Synagogue, Be not afraid: onely beleue.

Mat 15, 32.

1 I N* those dayes, when there was a verie great multitude, and had nothing to eat, Iesus called his disciples to him, and said vnto them, a Christ groudeth for his when they seeme to be defiled and forsaken.

2 I haue a compassiõ on the multitude, because they haue now continued with me thre daies, and haue nothing to eat.

3 And if I send them away fasting to their owne houses, they wolde faint by the way:

for some of them came from farre.

4 Then his disciples answered him, * How can a man satisfie these b with bread here in the wildernes?

Or, where is it.

b If bread were so hard to come by, it seemed impossible to obtaine other meat

5 And he asked them, How manie loaves haue ye? And they said, Seuen.

6 Then he commanded the multitude to sit downe on the grounde: and he toke the seuen loaves, & gaue thanks, brake them, & gaue to his disciples to set before them, and they did set them before the people.

7 Thei had also a fewe smale fishes: & when he had giuen thanks, he commanded the also to be set before them.

8 So they did eat, and were sufficed, and they toke vp of the broken meat that was left, seuen baskets ful, 9 (And thei that had eaten, were about foure thousand) so he sent them away.

Mat 16, 1.

d O the incredible loue of Christ! how long shall we abuse his great mercies! Christ goeth about by sharpnes of speache to saue the from wilful destruction 12 Then he sighed deeply in his spirit, & said, Why doeth this c generacion seke a signe? Verely I say vnto you, c a signe shall not be giuen vnto this generacion.

13 ¶ So he left them, & went into the ship againe, and departed to the other side.

14 ¶ * And thei had forgottẽ to take bread, nether had thei in the ship with them, but one loafe.

Mat 16, 5.

Or, if a signe be gin:

15 And he charged them, saying, Take heede, and beware of the s leauen of the Pharises, and of the leauen of Herode.

16 And they thought among them selues, saying, It is, because we haue no bread.

g He willerh them to beware contagious doctrine & such subtle practises as y aduersaries vsed to suppress his Gospel.

17 And when Iesus knewe it, he said vnto them, Why reason you thus because ye haue no bread? perceiue ye not yet, nether vnderstand ye haue ye your hearts yet hardened?

18 Haue ye eyes and se not? and haue ye eares, and heare not? & do ye not remeber?

19 * When I brake the fise loaves among fise thousand, how manie baskets ful of broken meat toke ye vp? They said vnto him, Twelue.

Iohn 6, 13.

20 And when I brake seuen among foure thousand, how manie baskets of the leauiõs of broken meat toke ye vp? And thei said, Seuen.

21 Then he said vnto them, h How is it that ye vnderstand not?

h Christ reproveth them because their mindes are as yet vpon the material leaue nor vnderstanding they had prouen by diuers miracles y he gaue them their daies: hys

22 And he came to Bethsaida, & thei brought a blinde man vnto him, and desired him to touche him.

23 Then he toke the blinde by the hand, & led him out of the towne, and spit in his eyes, and put his hands vpon him, & asked him, if he sawe oght.

24 And he loked vp, and said, I se men: for I se them walking like trees.

25 After that, he put his hands againe vpon his eyes, & made him loke againe. And he was restored to his sight, & sawe euerie man a farre of clearly.

26 And he sent him home to his house, saying, Nether go into the towne, nor tell it to anie in the towne.

Mat 16.13. luk. 9.29.

27 ¶ And Iesus went out, and his disciples into the townes of Cesarea Philippi. And by the waye he asked his disciples, saying vnto them, Whome do men say that I am?

28 And they answered, Some say Iohn Baptist: and some, Elias: and some, one of the Prophetes.

29 And he said vnto them, But whome say ye that I am? The Peter answered & said vnto him, Thou art the Christ.

30 And he sharply charged them that concerning him they shulde tell no man.

31 Then he began to teache them that the Sonne of man must suffer manie things, and shulde be reprovod of the Elders, & of the hie Priests & of the Scribes, and be slayne, & within thre dayes rise againe.

i He that is anointed of God & fulfilled with all grace for mans saluacion. k Differring it to a more comodiuous time, lest suddē haste shulde rather hinder then further myserie of his coming.

32 And he spake that thing plainely. Then Peter toke him aside, and began to rebuke him.

33 Then he turned backe, and loked on his disciples, and rebuked Peter, saying, Get thee behinde me, Satan: for thou vnderstandest not the things that are of God, but the things that are of men.

l This worde signifieth, Adversarie, or Enemy: & he called him so, because he did as muche as to pul him from obeying God. Mat. 10.38. & 16.24 luk. 9.23. & 14.27.

34 ¶ And he called the people vnto him with his disciples, and said vnto them, Whosoever wil followe me, let him forsake him self, and take vp his crosse, and followe me.

Mat. 16.28. luk. 9.27. a The preaching of the Gospel revealed & increased: he spake this to comfort them, & y they shulde not thinke they traualled in vaine.

¶ And he said vnto them, Verely I say vnto you, that there be some of the that stand here, which shal not taste of death, til they haue sene the kingdome of God come with power.

3 ¶ And six dayes after Iesus toke Peter, and James, and Iohn, & broght them vp into an hie mountaine out of the way alone, & he was transfigured before them.

3 And his raiment did shine, and was verie white, as snow, so white as no fuller can make vpon the earth.

b Christ sheweth his maiestie so farre as their infirmities was able to comprehend it.

4 And there appeared vnto the Elias with Moses, and they were talking with Iesus.

5 Then Peter answered, and said to Iesus, Master, it is good for vs to be here: let vs make also thre tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

6 ¶ Yet he knewe not what he said: for they were affrayed.

c Peter meant this vision according to his owne capacity, nor considering the end thereof. Mat. 3.17 & 17.5 luk. 9.22. chap. 1.11.

7 And there was a cloude that shadowed them, & a voyce came out of the cloude, saying, This is my beloued Sonne: d heare him.

8 And suddenly they loked rounde about, and sawe no more anie man save Iesus onely with them.

Mat. 17.9 d Christ onely must be chief teacher & instructor of all them, & profess them selues to be his members, seeing that God the Father giueth him this autoritie & commandeth vs thus obedience.

9 ¶ And as thei came downe from the mountaine, he charged them that thei shulde tell no man what they had sene saue when the Sonne of man were risen from the dead againe.

10 So they kept that matter to them selues, and demanded one of another, what the rising from the dead againe shulde meane?

11 Also they asked him, saying, Why say the Scribes, that Elias must first come?

Malach. 4.3. e Their false opinion was either Elias shulde rise againe from the dead, or that his soule shulde enter into some other bodie. Isa. 53.4.

12 And he answered, and said vnto them, Elias verely shal first come and restore all things: and as it is written of the Sonne of man, he must suffer manie things, and be set at night.

f That is, Iohn Baptist. Mat. 17.14. luk. 9.38.

13 But I say vnto you, that Elias is come, (and they haue done vnto him whatsoever they wolde) as it is written of him.

14 ¶ And when he came to his disciples, he sawe a great multitude about them, & the Scribes disputing with them.

g To the nine, & he left the daye before.

15 And straight waye all the people, when thei behelde him, were amazed, and ranne to him, and saluted him.

16 Then he asked the Scribes, What dispute you among yourselues?

Or, against the.

17 And one of the companie answered, & said, Master, I haue broght my sonne vnto thee, which hath a domme spirit:

h When spirit cometh vpon him, he teareth him with inward sorow & pangs as in a colike a man feeleth such grief, as if his bowels were rent a sunder. i It seemeth y this man desireth not so sharpe an answer: but Christ speaketh in his persons to the Pharises, & were stubborn & desperate.

18 And wherefoever he taketh him, he teareth him, and he someth, and gnaweth his teeth, and pineth away: and I spake to thy disciples that they shulde cast him out, and they cold not.

19 Then he answered him, and said, O faithles generacion, how long now shal I be with you! how long now shal I suffer you! Bring him vnto me.

20 So they broght him vnto him: & as the spirit sawe him, he tare him, and he fel

21 Then he asked his father, How long time is it since he hath bene thus? And he said, Of a childe.

22 And oft times he casteth him into y^e fyre, and into the water to destroye him: but if thou canst do anie thing, helpe vs, and haue compassion vpon vs.

¶ The Lord is ever readie to helpe vs, so y^e we put him not backe through our incredulitie. All things that are agreeable to the wil of God, shalbe grāted to him that beleueth: for faith seeketh nothing, that is contrary to his wil, or that is not reueiled in his worde. That is, the feblenes, and imperfeciō of my faith in Meaning. y^e childe.

23 And Iesus said vnto him, If^k thou canst beleue it, all things are^l possible to him that beleueth.

24 And straight way the father of the childe crying with teares, said, Lord, I beleue: helpe my^m vnbelief.

25 When Iesus sawe that the people came running together, he rebuked the vnclane spirit, saying vnto him, Thou domme & deafe spirit, I charge thee, come out of him, and entre no more into him.

26 Then the spirit cryed, and rent him fore, and came out, andⁿ he was as one dead, in so muche that manie said, He is dead.

27 But Iesus roke his hand and lift him vp and he rose.

28 And whē he was come into the house, his disciples asked him secretly, Why colde not we cast him out?

29 And he said vnto them, This kinde can by no other meanes come forthe, but by^o prayer, and fasting.

o Meaning, y^e prayer which is surely grounded vpon faith and hath fasting toynded vnto it as a profitable aide. Mat. 17. 21. Luk. 9. 29.

30 ¶ And they departed thence, and went through Galilee, & he wolde not that anie shulde haue knowen it.

31 For he taught his disciples, and said vnto them, The Sonne of man shalbe deliuered into the hands of men, and they shal kil him, but after that he is killed, he shal rise againe the third day.

p Because they imagined that Christ shulde reigne temporally, this matter of his death was so strange, that they colde perceiue nothing. Mat. 16. 1. Luk. 9. 45.

32 But^r they vaderstode not that saying, and were afraide to aske him.

33 ¶ After he came to Capernaum: and whē he was in the house, he asked them, What was it y^e ye disputed among you by the way?

34 And they held their peace: for by the way they reasoned among them selues, who shulde be the chiefest.

35 And he sate downe, and called the twelue, and said to them, If anie man desire to be first, the same shalbe last of all, and seruant vnto all.

36 And he toke a litle childe and set him in the middes of them, and toke him in his armes, and said vnto them, 37 Whosoever shal receiue one of suche litle children in my Name, receiueth me: and whosoever receiueth me, receiueth not^q me, but him that sent me.

q To wit, onely as man, but as him in whom he is all perfection & fulnes of all graces & benedictes. Luk. 9. 49. 1. Cor. 13. 3.

38 ¶ Then Iohn answered him, saying, Master, we sawe one casting out devils by thy Name, which followeth not vs, & we forbade him, because he followeth vs not.

41 ¶ And whosoever shal giue you a cup of water to drinke for my Names sake, because ye belong to Christ, verely I say vnto you, he shal not lose his reward.

42 ¶ And whosoever shal offend one of these litle ones, that beleue in me, it were better for him rather, that a millstone were hanged about his necke, and that he were cast into the sea.

43 ¶ Wherefore if thine^f hand cause thee to offend, cut it of: it is better for thee to entre into life, maimed, thē hauing two hāds, to go into hel into the fyre that neuer shal be quenched,

Mat. 5. 29. & 18. 8. f It is a maner of speache, & signifie, that we shulde cut of all things, which hinder vs to serue Christ. I. sa. 66. 24. t These similitudes declare the paines, & eternal tormentes of the damned.

44 ¶ Where their^t worme dyeth not, & the fyre neuer goeth out.

45 Likewise, if thy foote cause thee to offend, cut it of: it is better for thee to go halt into life, then hauing two feete to be cast into hel into the fyre that neuer shalbe quenched,

46 Where their worme dyeth not, and the fyre neuer goeth out.

47 And if thine eye cause thee to offend, plucke it out: it is better for thee to go into the kingdome of God with one eye, thē hauing two eyes, to be cast into hel fyre,

48 Where their worme dyeth not, and the fyre neuer goeth out.

49 For euerie man shalbe^u salted with fyre: and^v euerie sacrifice shalbe salted with salte.

 8 And they twaine shalbe one^a flesh: so that thei are no more twaine, but one flesh.
 9 * Therefore, what God hath coupled together, let not man separate.
 10 And in the house his disciples asked him againe of that matter.
 11 And he said vnto the, * Whosoever shall put away his wife and marie another,^b committeth adulterie against her.
 12 And if a woman put away her husband, & be maied to another, she committeth adulterie.
 13 * Then they broght litle childre to him that he shulde touche them: and his disciples rebuked those that broght them.
 14 But when Iesus sawe it, he was displeasid, and said to them, Suffre the litle childre to come vnto me, & forbid them not: for of suche is the kingdome of God.
 15 Verely I say vnto you, Whosoever shall not receiue the kingdome of God as a litle childe, he shal not entre therein.
 16 And he toke them vp in his armes, & put his hands vpon them, and ^d blessed them.
 17 ¶ And when he was gone out on the way, there came one * running, and kneeled to him, and asked him, Good Master, what shal I do, that I may possesse eternal life?
 18 Iesus said to him, Why caliest thou me good? there is none good but one, euen God.
 19 Thou knowest the comandemets, * Thou shalt not commit adulterie. Thou shalt not kil. Thou shalt not steale. Thou shalt not beare false witness. Thou shalt hurt no man. Honour thy father and mother.
 20 Then he answered, and said to him, Master, all these things I haue obserued from my youth.
 21 And Iesus behelde him, and ^e loued him, and said vnto him, One thing is lacking vnto thee, Go ^e & sell all that thou hast, and giue to the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come, followe me, and take vp the crosse.
 22 But he was sad at that saying, and went away sorowful: for he had great possessions.
 23 And Iesus looked rounde about, and said vnto his disciples, How hardely do they that haue riches, entre into the kingdome of God!
 24 And his disciples were astonied at his wordes. But Iesus answered againe, and said vnto them, Children, how hard is it for them that trust in riches, to entre into the kingdome of God!
 25 It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, then for a ^hriche man to entre into the kingdome of God.
 26 And they were muche more astonied, saying with them selues, Who then can be sau'd?

27 But Iesus looked vpō them, & said, With men ⁱ it is impossible, but not with God: for with God ⁱ all things are possible.
 28 ¶ The Peter began to say vnto him, Lo, we haue forsakē all, & haue followed thee.
 29 Iesus answered, and said, Verely I say vnto you, there is no man that hath forsaken house or brethren or sisters, or father or mother, or wife, or children, or lands for my sake and the Gospels, 30 But he shal receiue an hundredfold now at this present: houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and lands with ^kpersecutions, & in the worlde to come, eternal life.
 31 * But manie that are ^l first, shalbe last, and the last, first.
 32 ¶ And they were in the way going vp to Ierusalem, and Iesus went before them, & they were amased, and as they followed, they were afraide, & Iesus toke the twelue againe, and began to tel them what things shulde come vnto him, 33 saying, Beholde we go vp to Ierusalem, and the Sonne of man shalbe deliuered vnto the high Priests, & to the Scribes, and thei shal condemne him to death, and shal deliuer him to the Gentiles.
 34 And they shal mocke him, and scourge him, and spit vpon him, and kil him: but the thirde day he shal rise againe.
 35 ¶ The Iames and Iohn the sonnes of Zebedeus came vnto him, saying, Master, we wolde that thou shuldest do for vs that that we desire.
 36 And he said vnto them, What wolde ye I shulde do for you?
 37 And they said to him, Grante vnto vs, that we may sit one at thy right had, & the other at thy left hand in thy glorie.
 38 But Iesus said vnto them, Ye knowe not what ye aske. Can ye ^m drinke of the cup that I shal drinke of, and be baptized with the baptisme that I shalbe baptized with?
 39 And thei said vnto him, We can. But Iesus said vnto them, Ye shal drinke of the cup that I shal drinke of, and be baptized with the baptisme wherewith I shalbe baptized:
 40 But to sit at my right hand & at my left, is not ⁿ mine to giue, but it shalbe giuen to them for whome it is prepared.
 41 And when the ten heard that, they began to disdaine at Iames and Iohn.
 42 But Iesus called them vnto him, and said to them, * Ye knowe that they which delite to beare rule among the Gentiles, haue domination ouer them, and they that be great among them, exercise autoritie ouer them.

11 ¶ So Iesus entred into Ierusalem, and into the Temple: and when he had looked about on all things, & now it was euenig, he went forthe vnto Bethania with the twelue.

13 And seeing a figge tre a farre of, that had leaues, he went to see if he might finde any thing thereon: but when he came vnto it, he founde nothing but leaues: for the time of figges was not yet.

14 Then Iesus answered, & said to it, Neuer manie eat frute of thee hereafter while the worlde standeth: and his disciples heard it.

15 ¶ And they came to Ierusalem, and Iesus went into the Temple, and began to cast out them that solde & bought in the Temple, and ouerthrew the tables of the monie changers, & the seates of them that solde doves.

16 Nether wolde he suffer that any man shulde cary a vessel through the Temple.

17 And he taught, saying vnto them, Is it not writtē, Mine Houle shall be called the House of prayer vnto all nacions: but you haue made it a denne of theues.

18 And the Scribes and his Priestes heard it, and sought how to destroye him: for they feared him, because the whole multitude was astonied at his doctrine.

19 But when euen was come, Iesus went out of the cite.

20 ¶ And in the morning as they passed by, they sawe the figge tre dried vp from the rootes.

21 Then Peter remembred, and said vnto him, Maister, beholde, the figge tre which thou cursedst, is withered.

22 And Iesus answered, and said vnto them, Haue faith in God,

23 For verely I say vnto you, that whosoever shall say vnto this mountaine, Take thy self away, and cast thy self into the sea, and shall not wauer in his heart, but shall beleeue that those things which he saith, shall come to passe, whatsoeuer he saith, shall be done to him.

24 ¶ Therefore I say vnto you, whatsoeuer ye desire when ye pray, beleeue that ye shall haue it, and it shall be done vnto you.

25 ¶ But when ye shall stand, and pray, forgive, if ye haue any thing against any man, your Father also which is in heauen, may forgive you your trespasses.

23 ¶ And they sent vnto him certeine of the Pharises, and of the Herodians that they might take him in ^{his} talke.

24 And whē they came, they said vnto him, Master, we knowe that thou art true, & carest for no man: for thou considerest not the ^dpersone of me, but teachest the ^eway of God truly, Is it lawfull to giue tribute to Cesar, or not?

25 Shulde we giue it, or shulde we not giue it? But he knewe their hypocrisie, and said vnto them, ^fWhy tempt ye me? Bring me a penie, that I may se it.

1 AND * anone in the dawning, the hie Priests helde a counsel with the Elders, and the Scribes, & the whole Council, and bounde Iesus, and led him away, and deliuered him to Pilate.

2 Then Pilate asked him, Art thou the King of the Iewes? And he answered, and

3 And the hie Priests accused him of manie things.

4 * Wherefore Pilate asked him againe, saying, Answerest thou nothing? beholde how manie things thei witnes against thee.

5 But Iesus answered no more at all, so that Pilate marueiled.

6 Now at the feast Pilate did deliuer a prisoner vnto them, whome soeuer thei wolde desire.

7 Then there was one named Barabbas, w was boude with his fellowes, that had made insurrection, who in the insurrection had committed murdher.

8 And the people cryed a loude, & began to desire that he wolde do as he had euer done vnto them.

9 Then Pilate answered them, and said, Wil ye that I let lose vnto you the King of the Iewes?

10 For he knewe that the hie Priests had deliuered him of enuie.

11 But the hie Priests had moued the people to desire that he wolde rather deliuer Barabbas vnto them.

12 And Pilate answered, and said againe vnto the, What wil ye then that I do with him, whome ye call the King of the Iewes?

13 And thei cryed againe, Crucifie him.

14 Then Pilate said vnto them, But what euil hath he done? And they cryed the more feruently, Crucifie him.

15 So Pilate willing to contet the people, losed them Barabbas, and deliuered Iesus when he had scourged him, that he might be crucified.

16 Then the souldiers led him away into the hall, which is the commune hall, and called together the whole band,

3 And they said one to another, Who shal roll vs away the stone from the doore of the sepulchre?

4 And when they looked, they sawe that the stone was rolled away (for it was a very great one.)

5 * So they went into the sepulchre, and sawe a a yong man sitting at the right side, clothed in a long white robe: and they were afrayed.

6 But he said vnto them, Be not afrayed: ye seke Iesus of Nazaret, which hath bene crucified: he is risen, he is not here: beholde the place, where they put him.

7 But go your way, and tel his disciples, & Peter, that he wil go before you into Galile: there shal ye se him, * as he said vnto you.

8 And they went out quickly and fled fro the sepulchre: for they trembled and were amased: nether said they any thing to any man: for they were afrayed.

60 But his mother answered, and said, Not so, but he shalbe called Iohn.

61 And they said vnto her, There is none of thy kined, y^e is named with this Name.

62 Then they made signes to his father, how he wolde haue him called.

1 And it came to passe in those dayes, that there came a comandement fro Augustus Cesar, that all the worlde shulde be taxed.

2 (This first taxing was made when Cyprenius was gouernour of Syria.)

3 Therefore went all to be taxed euerie mā to his owne citie.

4 And Ioseph also went vp from Galilee out of a citie called Nazaret, into Iudea, vnto the citie of Dauid, which is called Beth-lehem (because he was of the house and linage of Dauid,)

5 To be taxed with Marie that was giuen

6 ¶ And so it was, that while they were there, the daies were accomplished that she shulde be deliuered.

7 And she broght forth the first begotten sonne, & wrapped him in swading clothes and laid him in a cratche, because there was no rowme for them in the ynne.

8 ¶ And there were in the same countrey shepherds, abiding in the field, and keeping watch by night because of their flocke.

9 And lo, the Angel of the Lord came vpon them, and the glorie of the Lord shone about them, and they were sore afraid.

10 Then the Angel said vnto them, Be not afraid: for behold, I bring you tidings of great ioye, that shal be to all the people:

11 That is, that vnto you is borne this day in the citie of Dauid, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

12 And this shal be a signe to you, Ye shal finde y childe swaded, & laid in a cratche.

13 And straight way there was with the Angel a multitude of heauenlie souldiers, praying God, and saying, 14 Glorie be to God in the high heauens, and peace in earth, & towards men good wil.

15 And it came to passe when the Angels were gone away from them into heauen, that y shepherds said one to another, Let vs go thea vnto Beth-lehem, and see this thing that is come to passe, which the Lord hath shewed vnto vs.

16 So they came with haste, & founde bothe Marie and Ioseph, and the babe laid in the cratche.

17 And when they had sene it, they published abroad the thing, which was tolde them of that childe.

18 And all that heard it, wōdred at y things which were tolde them of the shepherds.

19 But Marie kept all those sayings & pondered them in her heart.

20 And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God, for all that they had heard & sene, as it was spoken vnto them.

21 ¶ And when the eight daies were accomplished, that they shulde circumcise the childe, his name was then called Iesus, which was named of the Angel, before he was conceiued in the wombe.

22 *And when the dayes of her purification after the Law of Moses were accomplished, they broght him to Ierusalem, to present him to the Lord.

Mat 4.18. mar 1.16.

1 THEN *it came to passe, as the people pressed vpon him to heare the worde of God, that he stode by the lake of Gennesaret,

2 And sawe two shippes stand by the lake side, but the fischermen were gone out of them, and were washing their nettes.

a To the intent that he might not be throughed of y^e preache, & also that he might the better be heard.

3 And ^a he entred into one of the shippes, which was Simons, and required him that he wolde thrust of a litle from the land: and he sate downe, and taught the people out of the ship.

4 ¶ Now when he had left speaking, he said vnto Simon, Lanche out into the depe, and let downe your nettes to make a draught.

b The worde signifieth him that is made ruler ouer a me thing c He sheweth his prompt obedience to Christs commandment.

5 Then Simon answered, & said vnto him, ^b Master, we haue trauailed all night, and haue taken nothing: neuertheles at thy worde I wil let downe the net.

6 And when they had so done, they inclosed a great multitude of fishes, so that their net brake.

7 And they beckened to their parteners, which were in y^e other ship, that they shulde come and helpe them, who came then, and filled bothe the shippes, that they did ^d sinke.

d They were so laden that they almoste sunke.

8 Now when Simon Peter sawe it, he fell downe at Iesus knees, saying, Lord, go fro me: for I am a sinful man.

e The feeling of Gods presence maketh astrayed.

9 For he ^e was vtterly astonied, and all that were with him, for the draught of fishes, which they toke.

10 And so was also James and Iohn the sonnes of Zebedeus, which were companions with Simon. Then Iesus said vnto Simon, Feare not: from ^f hence forthe thou shalt catch men.

f He appointeth him to y^e office of an Apostle.

11 And when they had broght the shippes to land, they forsoke all, & followed him.

Mat 3.2. mar 1.40.

12 ¶ * Now it came to passe, as he was in a certeine citie, beholde, ^g there was a man full of leprosie, and when he sawe Iesus, he fel on his face, and besought him, saying, Lord if thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane.

13 So he stretched forthe his hand, & touched him, saying, I wil, be thou cleane. And immediatly the leprosie departed from him.

14 And he commanded him that he shulde tell it no man: but Go, ^g saith he, and shewe thy self to the Priest, and offer for thy clenung, as * Moses hathe commanded, for a witnes vnto them.

Leui 14.4. g Hereby he shewed them that he wolde not transgresse the Law, and y^e they shulde be inexcusable, who seig y^e miracle wrought, wolde not beleue Christ.

15 But so muche more went there a fame abroad of him, and great multitudes came together to heare, and to be healed of him of their infirmitie.

16 But he kept him self aparte in the wilderness, and prayed.

17 ¶ And it came to passe, on a certeine daye, as he was teaching, that the Pharises & doctours of the Law sate by, which were come out of euerie towne of Galile, and Iudea, and Ierusalem, & the power of the Lord was ^h in him to heale them.

Mat 9.2. mar 2.3.

18 * Then beholde, men broght a man lying in a bed, which was taken with a palsie, and they sought meanes to bring him in, and to laie him before him.

19 And when they colde not finde by what way they might bring him in, because of the preache, they went vp on the house, & let him downe through the tiling, bed & all, in the middes before Iesus.

20 And when he sawe their faith, he said vnto him, Man, thy ^h finnes are forgiuen thee.

h Christ toucheth the principal cause of all our euils.

21 Then the Scribes and the Pharises began to thinke, saying, Who is this that speaketh blasphemies? who can forgiue finnes, but God onelie?

22 But when Iesus perceiued their thoughts, he answered, and said vnto them, What thinke ye in your hearts?

23 Whether is easier to say, Thy ⁱ finnes are forgiuen thee, or to say, Rise and walke?

i Forasmuche as his diuinitie was sufficiently shewed by this miracle, he gaue them hereby to vnderstand y^e he had power to forgiue finnes.

24 But that ye may knowe that the Sonne of man hathe autoritie to forgiue finnes in earth, (he said vnto the sicke of the palsie) I say to thee, Arise: take vp thy bed, & go to thine house.

25 And immediatly he rose vp before them, and toke vp ^h his bed whereon he laie, and departed to his owne house, praising God.

26 And they were all amased, and praised God, and were filled with feare, saying, Doubteles we haue sene ^l strange things to daye.

30 But they that were Scribes and Pharises among them, murmured against his disciples, saying, Why eat ye & drinke ye with Publicanes and sinners?

31 Then Iesus answered, and said vnto the, They that are whole, nede not the physician, but they that are sicke.

32 *I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

33 ¶ Then they said vnto him, Why do the disciples of Iohn fast often, and pray, and the disciples of the Pharises also, but thine eat, and drinke?

34 And he said vnto them, Can ye make the children of the wedding chamber to fast, as long as the bridegrome is with them?

35 But the dayes wil come, euen when the bridegrome shalbe taken away frō them: then shal they fast in those dayes.

36 Againe he spake also vnto the a parable, No mā putteth a piece of a newe garmēt into an olde vestuere: for then the newe rēteth it, and the piece taken out of the newe, agreeth not with the olde.

37 Also no man powreth newe wine into olde vessels: for then the newe wine wil breake the vessels, and it wil runne out, & the vessels wil perish.

38 But newe wine must be powred into newe vessels: so bothe are preserued.

39 Also no man that drinketh olde wine, straight way desireth newe: for he saith, The olde is better.

CHAP. VI.

Christ standeth in his disciples defence and his owne, as touching the breach of the Sabbath 12 After watching and prayer he cleaseth his Apostles 18 He healeth and teacheth the people 20 He sheweth who are blessed 27 To loue our enemies. 37 Not to iudge rashly. 41 And to auoide hypocrisie.

1 And it came to passe on the seconde Sabbath, after the first, that he went through the corne fields, and his disciples plucked the eares of corne, and did eate, and rubbe them in their hands.

2 And certeine of the Pharises said vnto them, Why do ye that which is not lawful to do on the Sabbath dayes?

3 Then Iesus answered them, & said, *Hauue ye not red this, that Dauid did when he him self was an hungred, & they which were with him,

4 How he went into the house of God, and toke, and ate the shewe bread, & gaue also to them which were with him, which was not lawful to eate, but for the Priests onely?

5 And he said vnto them, The Sonne of mā is Lord also of the Sabbath day.

6 ¶ It came to passe also on another Sabbath, that he entred into the Synagogue & taught, and there was a man, whose right hand was dried vp.

7 And the Scribes and Pharises watched him, whether he wolde heale on the Sabbath day, that they might finde an accusation against him.

8 But he knewe their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Arise, & stand vp in the middes. And he arose, and stode vp.

9 Then said Iesus vnto the, I wil aske you a question, Whether is it lawful on the Sabbath dayes to do good, or to do euil: to saue life, or to destroye it?

10 And he behelde them all in compasse, & said vnto the mā, Stretch forth the thine hād. And he did so, and his hand was restored againe, as whole as the other.

11 Then they were filled ful of madnes, & communed one with another, what they might do to Iesus.

12 ¶ And it came to passe in those dayes, y he went into a mountaine to pray, & spent the night in prayer to God.

13 ¶ And whē it was day, he called his disciples, and of them he chose twelue, which also he called Apostles.

14 (Simon whome he named also Peter, and Andrew his brother, James and Iohn, Phillippe, and Bartlemewe;

15 Mattheu, and Thomas: James the sonne of Alpheus, and Simon called zelous, 16 Iudas James brother, and Iudas Iscariot, which also was the traytour.)

17 Then he came downe with them, and stode in a plaine place, with the compaignie of his disciples, and a great multitude of people out of all Iudea, and Ierusalem, and from the sea coast of Tyrus & Sidon, which came to heare him, and to be healed of their diseases:

18 And they that were vexed with foule spirits, and they were healed.

19 And the whole multitude sought to touch him: for there went vertue out of him, and healed them all.

20 ¶ And he lifted vp his eyes vpō his disciples, and said, Blessed be ye poore: for yours is the kingdome of God.

21 *Blessed are ye that hunger now: for ye shalbe satisfied: blessed are ye that wepe now: for ye shal laugh.

22 *Blessed are ye when men hate you, and when they separate you, and reuile you, & put out your name as euil, for the Sonne of mans sake.

23 Reioyce ye in that day, and be glad: for beholde, your rewarde is great in heauen: for after this maner their fathers did to the Prophetes.

24 *But wo be to you that are riche: for ye haue receiued your consolation.

25 *Wo be to you that are full: for ye shal hunger. Wo be to you that now laugh: for ye shal waile and wepe.

33 And if ye do good for them which do good for you, what thāke shal ye haue: for euen the sinners do the same.
34 * And if ye lend to them of whome ye hope to receiue, what thāke shal ye haue: for euen the sinners lend to sinners, to receiue the like.

h That is, to establish, and restore them

17 And this rumour of him went forth throughout all Iudea, and throughout all the region rounde about.

18 ¶ And the disciples of Iohn shewed him of all these things.

19 So Iohn called vnto him two certeine men of his disciples, and sent them to Iesus, saying, Art thou he that shulde come, or shal we waite for another?

20 And when the me were come vnto him, they said, Iohn Baptist hath sent vs vnto thee, saying, Art thou he that shulde come, or shal we waite for another?

4 ^{*} Now whē muche people were gathered together, and were come to him out of all cities, he spake by a parable,

5 A sower went out to sowe his seed, and as he sowed, some fel by the way side, and it was troden vnder fete, and the foules of heauen deuoured it vp.

6 And some fel on the stones, and when it was sprong vp, it withered away, because it lacked moiftnes.

7 And some fel among thornes, and ^y thornes sprang vp with it, and choked it.

13 But they that are on the stones, are they which when they haue heard, receiue the worde with ioye: but they haue no rootes, which for a while ^a beleue, but in the time of tentation go away.

14 And that which fel among thornes, are they which haue heard, and ^e after their departure are choked with cares and with riches, and voluptuous liuing, and bring forth no frute.

15 But that which fel in good ground, are they which with an honest & good heart heare the worde, and kepe it, & bring forth the frute with patience.

22 ¶ And it came to passe on a certeine day, that he went into a ship with his disciples, and he said vnto them, Let vs go ouer vnto the other side of the lake. And they lanced forth.

23 And as they sailed, he fel a ⁱ slepe, & there came downe a storme of winde on the lake, and they were filled with water, and were in ieopardie.

41 ¶ And beholde, there came a man named Iairus, and he was the ruler of the ^q Synagogue, who fel downe at Iesus fete, and besoght him that he wolde come into his house.

6 And they went out, and went through e-healing euerie where.

7 ¶ Now Herode the tetrarch heard of all that was done by him: and he doubted, because that it was said of some, that Iohn was risen againe from the dead:

8 And of some, that Elias had appeared: & of some, that one of the olde Prophetes was risen againe.

9 Then Herode said, Iohn haue I beheaded: who then is this of whome I heare suche things? and he desired to see him.

10 ¶ And whē the Apostles returned, they tolde him what great things they had done.
* Then he toke them, & went aside into a solitarie place, uere to the citie called Bethsaida.

11 But when the people knewe it, they followed him: and he receiued them, & spake vnto them of the kingdome of God, & healed them that had nede to be healed.

12 * And whē the day began to weare away, the twelue came, and said vnto him, Send the people away, that they may go into the townes and villages rounde about, & lodge, and get meat: for we are here in a desert place.

13 But he said vnto them, ^d Giue ye them to eat. And they said, We haue no mo but five loaves & two fishes, except we shulde go and bye meat for all this people.

14 For they were about five thousand men.
Then he said to his disciples, Cause them to sit downe by fifties in a companie.

15 And they did so, and caused all to sit downe.

16 Then he toke the five loaves, and the two fishes, and loked vp to heauen, and ^e blessed them, and brake, and gaue to the disciples, to set before the people.

17 So they did all eat, and were satisfied: & there was takē vp of that remained to thé,

18 ¶ And it came to passe as he was alone praying, his disciples were with him, and he asked thé, saying, Whome say the people that I am?

19 They answered, and said, Iohn Baptist: and others say, Elias: & some say, that one of the olde Prophetes is risen againe.

20 And he said vnto them, But whome say ye that I am? Peter answered, & said, The Christ of God.

21 And he warned, and commanded them, that they shulde tell ^f that to no man,

22 Saying, * The Sonne of man must suffre many things, and be reprovod of the Elders, & of the hie Priests and Scribes, and be slaine, and the thirde day rise againe.

23 ¶ And he said to them all, If any man wil come after me, let him denye him self, and take vp his crosse daily, and followe me.

24 For whofoeuer wil saue his life, shal lose it: and whofoeuer shal lose his life for my sake, the same shal saue it.

25 For what auaraget it a man, if he winne the whole worlde, and destroye him self, or lose him self?

26 * For whofoeuer shalbe ashamed of me, and of my wordes, of him shal the Sonne of man be ashamed, when he shal come in his glorie, and in the glorie of the Father, and of the holie Angels.

27 * And I tell you of a suretie, there be some standing here, which shal not taste of death, til they haue seene the ^hkingdome of God.

28 * And it came to passe about an eight dayes after those wordes, that he toke Peter, & Iohn, and Iames, and went vp into a mountaine to pray.

29 And as he prayed, the facion of his countenance was changed, & his garment was white and glistered.

30 And beholde, two men talked with him, which were Moses and Elias,

31 Which appeared in glorie, and tolde of his ⁱ departing, which he shulde accomplish at Ierusalem.

32 But Peter and they that were with him, were heauie with slepe, and when they awooke, they sawe his glorie, and the two men standing with him.

33 And it came to passe, as they departed from him, Peter said vnto Iesus, Master, it is good for vs to be here: let vs therefore make thre tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias, and wilst not what he said.

34 While he thus spake, there came a cloude & ^k ouershadowed them, & they feared when these were entring into the cloude.

35 * And there came a voyce out of the cloude, saying, This is my beloued Sone,

36 And when the voyce was past, Iesus was founde alone: and they kept it close, and tolde no man in ^l those dayes any of those things which they had seene.

37 ¶ And it came to passe on the next day, as they came downe from the mountaine, much people met him.

38 * And beholde, a man of the companie cryed out, saying, Master, I beseeche thee,

42 And whiles he was yet coming, the deuill rent him, and tare him: and Iesus rebuked the vncleane spirit, and healed the childe, and deliuered him to his father.

47 When Iesus sawe the thoughts of their hearts, he toke a litle childe, and set him by him,
